So Cleverly Have

the comfort features of the Ralston Health Shoe been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell—until you try on a pair—that Ralston Shoes are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your feet provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe—one in which the body weight instead of resting on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the entire service of the foot bottom.

We'd like to hear you say "Show Me."

The Social Realm

"Be strong!"
It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes, the day, how long,
Faint not, fight on! Tomorrow comes the song."

Quincy has enjoyed some fine music this week, three concerts having been given of unusual quality; the musicals of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday, arranged by Mrs. Otho A. Hayward; the song recital on Wednesday evening by Mr. Pol Plancon in First Church chapel and on Friday evening the concert of Mr. William Howard, violinist and Mr. S. Newton Cutler, pianist, at the Quincy Mansion school.

Mrs. Charles Alden of Botolph street gave an initial tea for the Atlantic whist club Wednesday evening. The gastronomic taste was fully satisfied before enjoying the usual game of cards.

Miss Helen C. Wilson, the daughter of Rev. D. M. Wilson, formerly pastor of First church, has left Manila, where she has been for the past four years. She recently arrived in Naples, where she is to be joined by her sister, Miss Marjorie Wilson. They will spend six months or more in Florence and other cities in Italy, while Miss Marjorie pursues her studies in art.

Announcements are out of the marriage of Miss Gertrude Warren of Jamaica Plain, formerly of Atlantic, to Mr. Herman Albert Storn, also of Jamaica Plain, on January 6.

The St. Valentine dance to be given at Quincy Music hall on the evening of February fourteenth, under the auspices of the Quincy Day Nursery association promises to be one of the social events of the season, as there is already a long subscription list and society people are taking a great interest in its success.

Mrs. Brooks Adams came out to the meeting at Music hall on Thursday evening, with Mr. Adams, and President Elliot.

President James Smith will be toastmaster at the annual banquet of the Men's club of Christ church on Monday evening, and the responses will be by Rev. W. E. Gardner, Levi Turner, John McGregor, W. L. Thomas and Merton Turner. There will be an orchestra and soloist.

Mrs. John O. Holden, of Adams street, has gone to Orange, New Jersey for a visit of several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Holden.

Miss Evelyn May Taylor of Melrose and Mr. Edwin White Hunt of Weymouth were married at Melrose on Saturday of last week. On their return from a wedding trip they will make their home for the present with the groom's mother, Mrs. John E. Hunt of Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lysander S. Richards of Marshfield are registered at The Greenleaf for a stay of several weeks.

The afternoon teas and receptions at the Unitarian building, Beacon street, Boston, have proved so popular that they are to be continued each Monday afternoon from four until five o'clock until April sixth inclusive. The pourers on February third will be Mrs. Philip P. Chase and Mrs. Daniel R. Freeman.

Mrs. Ama K. Lee of Prospect avenue sailed this morning on the "Romanic" for Naples, from there she goes to Rome to meet friends and will spend the month of March with them in Sicily.

The January meeting of the Susannah Tufts Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution was held on Monday afternoon with Mrs. L. B. Voorhees of Washington street, Weymouth. Arrangements for "The Birthday Party" to be held at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Bowditch (the regent) on Quincy avenue on February 18th were carried forward, to completion. This will be the ninth anniversary of the Chapter and will be properly celebrated. Mrs. Theodore B. Bates of Worcester, vice president general, will be present and will speak on Continental hall, Washington, D. C. Proceeds of the party will go to Continental hall.

On their return trip from Pasadena, California, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Thomas and daughter Gertrude, of Monson, Maine, and Mr. Eugene Sibley of Hartford, Conn., spent Wednesday and Thursday of last week with Mrs. George W. Thayer of Crescent street.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Curtis (Abbie Chamberlin) came over from Dorchester for Mr. Plancon's song recital at First Church chapel on Wednesday evening and during the reception and tea which followed the recital enjoyed meeting old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Remick and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Crane are leaving for Florida on Monday to be away during during February. They go directly to Jacksonville and later will visit the various resorts in the state.

Captain and Mrs. Luke Ashworth of Braintree were tendered a surprise party on Tuesday evening, the twelfth anniversary of their marriage, by the members of Delphi Company, No. 10, U. R. K. P., with their ladies. Captain Ashworth was presented with a solid gold combination K. of P. and Masonic charm. A lunch and social followed.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Stetson have given up their contemplated trip to the Mediterranean because of the illness of Mrs. Stetson's sister, Mrs. Caleb Chase of Brookline, but are leaving early this month for the south for their usual sojourn.

Mrs. Mathilde Thomsen-Ward, a well known soprano singer of Boston, was the guest of Mrs. Henry Wright at the musicale of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday afternoon, following which Mrs. Wright invited friends to her home to meet Mrs. Thomsen-Ward and to hear her sing.

Mr. William Howard violinist and Mr. S. Newton Cutler, pianist, gave a fine concert last evening in Livermore hall, Quincy Mansion school. There was a large audience of students and friends present who thoroughly enjoyed the program.

Mrs. Franklin Jacobs, Miss Kittie Cahill and C. F. Jacobs of Quincy attended guest's night of the Woman's club at Winchendon last evening one of the social events of the season. Miss Cahill wore a dress of light blue silk chiffon, Mrs. Jacobs wore black velvet.

The Union Literary Circle of Weymouth and East Braintree met with Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Edson of Liberty street, Miss Jessie Magregor gave a paper on Chaucer and Fielding, the so-called fathers of English poetry and the English novel.

The Alpha club met for its semi-monthly meeting on Monday evening, January 27th, at the home of Mrs. William Bassett, Dorchester. Vacation experiences among the White Mountains was the subject for the evening. Papers were read by Mr. Merton Turner, Miss Cassendana Thayer and Miss Frances Burke.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Dallas Willis, Jr., held their "at homes" Monday evenings January 20 and 27 at the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Willis, at South Braintree. They were favored each evening with good weather thus enabling a large number of friends to attend. The first "at home" brought people from all sections of Braintree; also Quincy, Weymouth, Boston, Randolph, Holbrook and Brockton over one hundred in number. At the second and last "at home" the attendance was not so large but equally as enjoyable. Mrs. Oakes A. Bridgman and Mrs. Mary L. Jennings served coffee and frappe in the dining room and they were assisted by Mrs. Plummer C. Spring, of Braintree, Miss Emma Belcher of Randolph, Mrs. H. Sands Burgess, Miss Hazel Lothrop, Miss Bessie Tirrell, Miss Mabel Tirrell, Mrs. Edwin F. Porter and Miss Emily Porter of South Braintree. Mr. William C. Cuff presided at the piano.

Balance of City Officials Appointed

Chief Burrell His Own Successor But the City Engineer And Others Are Out

When Mayor Shea announced his appointment of department officials two weeks ago there were several that were not included in the list. Since that time there has been much speculation as to who would be selected for the remainder of the list.

This was especially true as regards the office of Chief of Police. There have been many rumors as to who would receive the appointment, but as usual the Mayor kept his own counsel. The general sentiment was in favor of a reappointment of Chief Burrell, and the Mayor struck a popular chord this morning when he announced Chief Burrell to be his own successors.

Of the other offices that remained to be filled there was the City Engineer, Board of Health, Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library and Park Commissioners.

City Engineer Flood having tendered his resignation the Mayor has appointed Randolph Bainbridge, the new Commissioner, to be acting City Engineer.

On the Board of Health the Mayor has made another popular selection in appointing Dr. F. Raymond Burke. The other two members are William W. Walsh, the head of the street railway employees union, and Cornelius M. Duggan, the Ward Six poet.

There has been a slight change in the make-up of the trustees of the Thomas Crane Library, ex-Councilman George F. Sawyer, Jr., succeeding Harry L. Rice.

On the Board of Park Commissioners there are two new men, Charles Gill of Atlantic and Thomas F. Mannex of Ward Four, succeeding Fred B. Rice and George E. Pfaffmann.

The officials appointed, as announced by Mayor Shea this morning, are as follows:

Chief of Police—Frank E. Burrell.
Board of Health—Dr. F. Raymond Burke, William W. Walsh and Cornelius M. Duggan.

Trustees Thomas Crane Public Library—Rev. Ellery C. Butler, Harrison A. Keith, George W. Morton, Henry McGrath, Charles R. Safford and George F. Sawyer, Jr.

Park Commissioners—Dexter E. Wadsworth, Charles Gill and Thomas F. Mannex.

Acting City Engineer—Randolph Bainbridge.

John Curtis, the new City Treasurer, assumed the office at the close of business this noon, at which time Henry G. Fay turned over to him the portfolio. A like transfer was also made this noon in most of the other offices.

Resignation of City Engineer

Hamilton Flood who has been the City Engineer since the office was created, tendered his resignation to Mayor Shea this morning to take effect Feb. 1. The resignation was accepted.

The residence of Gardner Brooks on Babcock street, Brookline, was robbed on Thursday evening of several thousand dollars worth of silver ware.

SPEAKER COLE IS INDICTED

Admits That He Made Recommendations, but Disclaims Having Violated Statute—Grand Jury Appears to Think Otherwise

Salem, Mass., Feb. 1.—Speaker John N. Cole of the Massachusetts house of representatives, whose home is at Andover and who has represented the Eighth Essex district for seven years, was indicted yesterday afternoon by the Essex county grand jury on a charge of violating the public statutes in requesting a reduced rate of fare on the Boston and Maine railroad for a large number of people. The indictment is in 123 counts and the statute provides a penalty in each case of a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1000.

Speaker Cole heard of the action of the grand jury before he left the state house and issued a statement claiming that, while he had recommended reduced fares for a number of "worthy students," and his recommendations have been favorably acted upon by the railroad company, he had not violated any statute and that the proceedings were instituted and partly paid for by political opponents.

No effort was made to swear out an indictment warrant against Cole. It is understood that H. L. Hurlburt of Lynn will appear as counsel for Cole, and that the accused man will not relinquish his position as speaker of the lower branch of the legislature.

Certain sections in the public statutes forbid public officers, including members of the state legislature, from soliciting for themselves or anyone else free passes or reduced fares on any railroad. During the campaign last fall a number of Cole's political opponents charged him with obtaining reduced rates for students in his own and nearby towns. Cole was re-elected, however, but his opponents continued their opposition and made their charges before District Attorney Peters. After investigating the charges the district attorney submitted them to the grand jury, which has spent nearly three weeks in hearing witnesses. The indictment was voted yesterday and returned by the grand jury to Judge Brown at 4:45 p. m. yesterday.

Court adjourned last evening until Feb. 10, so that the Cole case cannot be taken up before that time. District Attorney Peters said that in justice to Cole and others concerned he believed the matter should be taken up as speedily as possible and that if advisable it would be the first case to be considered at the reassembling of the court on Feb. 10.

Hughes Says There Are Others

New York, Feb. 1.—Governor C. H. Hughes, whose nomination for the presidency by the Republican national convention is being urged by the New York county committee and other Republican county committees in New York state, made open declaration of his views of national issues and principles last night. He told his hearers that he did not come before them in any spirit of rivalry or self-seeking, and that there are "many Republicans who by virtue of their character and distinguished services are worthy of the highest honor the party can bestow."

Student Perished in Fire

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 1.—From the ruins of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house at Cornell university, which burned yesterday, were taken the charred remains of J. S. Kiehle, a junior in mechanical engineering, his body being found near the elevator shaft where the fire originated. The loss is $25,000.

Troops Needed Until April 1

Carson, Nev., Feb. 1.—The resolution asking the president to retain the troops in Goldfield until May 1 came up in the committee of the whole in the assembly and it was recommended that the measure be amended to read April 1. It is said that it will take six weeks to organize the Nevada police force.

Eagle to Return to Survivors

Washington, Feb. 1.—Normal conditions having been resumed in southern Hayti, orders have been sent to the commander of the gunboat Eagle, which has been there looking after American interests, to continue the survey work on which she was engaged prior to the revolutionary outbreak.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Miss Vella Wylie, aged 17, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Wylie, and Robert Patterson, aged 22, both students at Geneva college, were drowned while skating at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Already twenty-three entries have been received for the international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett cup which will be held at Berlin in October, as compared with nine entries for the race at St. Louis last year.

Captain Landessack of New Haven broke the world's record in the rapid fire event at the annual tournament of the indoor 22-calibre rifle league of the United States, in progress at Rochester, by making a score of 569.

ROBBED BY MASKED MEN

Town Clerk and Tax Collector Held Up in His Office

Scituate, R. I., Feb. 1.—While Henry H. Potter, town clerk and tax collector, was sitting in his office last night, he was robbed of $1000 by three masked men who entered the office and at the point of their pistols demanded that he surrender to them all the money in his possession. Potter was alone in his office at the time and complied with the demand. The robbers took away $800 belonging to the town, the proceeds of tax collections, and about $200 belonging to Potter personally.

After securing the money, the men tied Potter's hands behind his back and departed. The predicament of Potter was not discovered until some time later, when his assistant returned to the office from supper. There is no clue to the identity of the masked men. In addition to being clerk of the town Potter is a state senator.

Firemen Save Five Lives

Fitchburg, Mass., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Joseph Belliveau and four children had a narrow escape from death in the upper story of a four-story tenement block here last night. Mrs. Belliveau was caring for the children of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Richard in the absence of their parents when fire was discovered on a landing place of a stairway at the rear of the building, which was the only exit from the tenement. Mrs. Belliveau and the children were nearly overcome by smoke when two firemen reached the apartment by a ladder and rescued them.

Another Charge Against Sayles

Providence, Feb. 1.—William W. Sayles, charged with attempting to extort money from Henry A. Kirby, a manufacturing jeweler of this city, has, since his release under bonds of $1000 for appearance on Feb. 4 in court, been in a hospital for treatment. Yesterday he was again placed under arrest on the charge of unlawfully using the mails and held in bonds of $2500. After bail was furnished he returned to the hospital.

Shipwrecked Crew Saved

Southwest Harbor, Me., Feb. 1.—Alarm for the safety of the crews of the Cranberry Isles lifesaving station and of the schooner wrecked on Little Duck island ledges was relieved when a gasoline sloop returned from the scene of the wreck with the lifesavers. They reported that the schooner was the Perry C., of Parrsboro, N. S., and that her crew had been picked up by a collier bound east.

Quartet of Alleged Thieves

Malden, Mass., Feb. 1.—Four young men, charged by the police with being responsible for three breaks last Sunday and the theft of nearly $1000 worth of property, were arrested last night. All are residents of this city. Watches and jewelry which were taken in each place broken into were recovered in Boston pawnshops.

Arrest of Murder Suspect

Berlin, N. H., Feb. 1.—Salvatore Caracoccia was arrested here on suspicion in connection with the murder of Giuseppe Bellevia, who died of wounds received in Lynn, Mass. He is said to have admitted that he is the man wanted in connection with the investigation of the killing of Bellevia.

Indians Indicted For Perjury

Salem, Mass., Feb. 1.—Five indictments for perjury were returned by the grand jury against Indians who were recently indicted on larceny charges because of the number of seal tails which they had presented at the offices of various town clerks along the north shore in order to secure the bounty.

Death of Young Brooks

Boston, Feb. 1.—John C. Brooks of Wellesley, the schoolboy who hired a room at the Adams house Wednesday in which he shot himself, died last evening. He was supposed to have become deranged through overstudy. Brooks was 18 years of age.

Lived Six Years Over Century

Great Barrington, Mass., Feb. 1.—John Burrow, the oldest man in Massachusetts, is dead at 106, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Williams of Stockbridge. He was a farmer by occupation.

Vicars Wants Public Inquiry

Dublin, Feb. 1.—The Gazette announces the appointment of Captain Neville Wilkinson to succeed Sir Arthur E. Vicars as Ulster king of arms. Vicars has issued an appeal to all Irishmen to support his demand for a public inquiry into the circumstances attending the loss of the regalia jewels.

No Invasion by Russia

St. Petersburg, Feb. 1.—The report brought into Stockholm by a mining engineer that large bodies of Russian troops were engaged in building a railroad in Norwegian territory close to the Russian frontier was called to the attention of the Russian foreign office, where it was officially denied.

Empress in Serious Condition

St. Petersburg, Feb. 1.—After a season of slight gains, the condition of Empress Alexandra has again taken a turn for the worse. The nervous debility is now complicated by an affliction of the eyes, which is of such a painful character that an operation will probably be required.

Sham Ballot to Cover Law

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1.—A sham ballot for United States senator was taken yesterday to preserve the continuity of the balloting as contemplated by law, although the legislature has adjourned till Tuesday. Beckham received one vote and Bradley one.

A CHAT WITH OUIDA.

What the Novelist Told a Physician About Her Novels.

THOUGHT "PUCK" CLEVEREST.

"Under Two Flags" She Deemed Sensational—Said She Never Cared For Applause—Told Doctor Who Visited Her She Declined to Be Poisoned.

The following is an account of an English physician's last talk with Ouida (Mlle. Louise de la Ramee), the British novelist, who died recently at Viareggio, in Italy, says a special cable dispatch to the New York Herald:

A sordid two story house in one of the least interesting streets of perhaps the healthiest but certainly the ugliest town on the shores of the Mediterranean. The door was opened by a slatternly female, and after a brief delay I was ushered into a squalid room on the ground floor and found myself in the presence of Ouida and four unkempt, unwholesome looking dogs.

The great authoress was seated on a low couch between a fairly respectable fire and the door, which, of course, the servant had opened, but had forgotten to close. A shrewd little face peeped up at me from among the blankets in which she was wrapped, while a thin forefinger motioned me imperiously to a chair.

After dodging the unmannerly attentions of the canine attendants I succeeded in closing the door and settled down to business. Ouida absolutely declined either to go to bed or take any prescriptions, assuaging with emphasis that she had no great opinion of the profession and declined to be poisoned.

She was, however, gracious enough to add that it was a pleasure to listen once more to an English voice and begged me to stop and have a chat. Our conversation was as follows, and I am glad I am in a position to publish it without laying myself open to the bugbear of our vocation, the charge of breach of professional etiquette:

Dr. M.—Please do not think it impertinent of me to suggest that the thought of all the pleasure which your books have given to so many thousands of readers must be exceedingly comforting to you in your present ill health.

Ouida—I neither appreciate now nor indeed have ever appreciated the applause of the public. My sole motive for writing always has been the pleasure of seeing myself in print.

Dr. M.—Indeed! Now, I wonder whether you agree with me in placing "Under Two Flags" as the first and "Tricotrin" as the second among your novels?

Ouida—I am not going to say anything against "Tricotrin," but "Under Two Flags" is almost undiluted sensationalism. I think "Puck" is by far the cleverest of my novels.

Dr. M.—I had forgotten "Puck" for the moment. May I ask you why one can detect no traces either of your earlier style or method in "The Messenines?"

Ouida—I do not agree with you. I consider that "The Messenines" bears the strongest family resemblance to "Moths."

Dr. M.—Do you never intend to let us have another book, utilizing the service of an amanuensis?

Ouida—Don't talk of such a thing! Since I lost the sight of my right eye through an accident last year I have given up all thought of literary work, and the idea of employing an amanuensis—(Here the lady became almost inarticulate with wrath.)

Dr. M.—I believe you sold the copyright of your books outright?

Ouida—Yes, like a fool, and I have put thousands into other people's pockets.

Dr. M.—What about your theatrical rights?

Ouida—At one time "Under Two Flags" was being played simultaneously in three London theaters, and I did not get a penny out of it.

The rest of the conversation was, to my mind, rather pathetic. Ouida—I feel poignant regret not so much for the loss of my health as for my dimmed vision, faded complexion and scanty hair, with memories of the days when horses and carriages were at my disposal, when receptions were daily occurrences and when servants were not "dirty beasts" (sic).

I was finally dismissed with a pungent criticism of this her adopted country, which she begged me not to repeat, and received a hearty invitation to call again unprofessionally a week later.

Now she lies dead, with a little white dog curled beneath her on the pillows.

Bridges First, Then Canal Excavation.

A novelty in engineering construction will be a feature of the digging of the Evanston channel of the Chicago drainage canal system, says Popular Mechanics for January. The bridges which will span the canal will be made of concrete and placed in position on heavy concrete foundations ready to use before the ground is excavated. Engineers have informed the drainage board that the erection of the bridges before the trench is dug will prove not only possible, but more economical than otherwise.

Automatic Umbrella Supply.

Automatic umbrella distributors will soon be installed in all the Berlin railway stations, which will deliver umbrellas to travelers at 50 cents a time, says the London Mail. If the umbrella is returned in two days, the borrower gets 40 cents.

KNIFE CORRUPTION

President Roosevelt Says He Will Continue His Policy

CRITICS SEVERELY PLAYED

Trusts and Common Carriers Must Be Subject to Regulation-Vigorous Language in Message Based on Employers' Liability Law

Washington, Feb. 1.—President Roosevelt utilizes the recent decision of the supreme court declaring unconstitutional the employers' liability law, the difficulties of the interstate commerce commission and of the department of justice in enforcing the laws of regulation and the "gravely significant attitude" towards these laws assumed by certain heads of great corporations, as an excuse for sending to the congress a message reaffirming his well known views in relation to the regulation of trusts and common carriers. In addition he makes a slashing reply to the critics of his policies.

The president begins by urging a new employers' liability law, confining its scope to interstate employees in contradistinction to interstate employees of roads doing an interstate business, thus meeting the court's objections. Compensation for federal employees injured in the line of service is recommended, and attention is called to the fact that this is allowed in almost every civilized country in the world. Incidentally he remarks that Secretary Taft is seeking such a law to cover the laborers on the Panama canal.

A modification of the law in regard to the use of injunction is suggested, so that it may not bear so heavily on the peaceful movement of labor to effect its ends. Congress is asked to give the interstate commerce commission power of initiative in the fixing of rates. He thinks the government should have some supervision of the finances and physical operation of railroads.

Overcapitalization inflicts upon the public an unnecessary but everlasting tax; innocent investors are harmed, and only the speculator is benefited. The Sherman anti-trust law should be modified to permit "reasonable combination," and railroads should be permitted to form traffic associations—pooling, in fact. Also, the president would place some limit on "grosser forms of gambling" in securities and commodities.

The president then launches a broadside at the serried front of his critics. He makes public a letter sent to him by Francis J. Heney, United States district attorney at Portland, Or., for the purpose of showing that President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, who has been one of the severest critics of the administration, "has not been above the commission of crime to secure business."

Then the heads of great and successful corporations are taken to task for committing "the hideous wrong of teaching our young men that phenomenal business success must ordinarily be based on dishonesty." In enforcing the law the president attacks only the corrupt, and all such as can be got at are hit whether they are rich or poor. There is no attack on wealth as such, but he points to those in high places whom he has brought to the bar of justice.

"The methods by which the Standard Oil people and those engaged in the other combinations of which I have spoken above have achieved great fortunes," says the president, "can only be justified by the advocacy of a system of morality which would also justify every form of criminality on the part of a labor union, and every form of violence, corruption and fraud, from murder to bribery and the ballot box stuffing in politics. We are trying to secure equality of opportunity for all; and the struggle for honesty is for all; and whether it is made on behalf of one set of men or of another."

In reply to the critics who hold up the "innocent stockholder" as the chief sufferer in the attempt to cut the rottenness out of business the president says "that stockholder is not innocent who voluntarily purchases stocks in a corporation whose methods and management he knows to be corrupt." He says that this kind of a critic will be found opposing all laws looking to honesty in business.

In relation to the criticism of judges for which the president has been condemned, he says that a judge who truckles to the mob or bows to the corporation should be made, when the facts are plain, to feel the weight of public opinion. "No servant of the people has a right to expect to be free from just and honest criticism." Finally, the president says he will put the knife into corruption, even though it gives momentary check to prosperity.

Democrats Led Applause

Washington, Feb. 1.—An unusual and almost unprecedented scene was enacted in the house of representatives as the result of the reading of the special message to congress. The vigorous language of the document was vigorously applauded, first on the Democratic side of the house, then on the Republican, culminating in a general demonstration by the entire body. Long after the reading of the message had been concluded it was almost the sole topic of conversation among members on the floor and in the lobbies.

The reading of the president's message was the chief feature of the senate proceedings. The message received careful attention by many senators on both sides of the chamber. The senate has ordered 10,000 copies of it printed.

"A BRAVE MESSAGE"

Bryan Says President Has Issued a Call to Arms

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 1.—William J. Bryan issued a statement last night bearing on the president's message to congress. Referring to Wall street methods, he said it would be a safe bet that after the president's message yesterday the financiers saw that they could place no dependence on Roosevelt as a friend of the system.

"It is a brave message and needed at this time," said Bryan. "All friends of reform have reason to rejoice that the president has used his high position to call attention to the wrongs that need to be remedied. He has discovered the running sore in our national life. He has pointed out the corrupting influences that flow from predatory wealth and from the monopolistic enterprises which have given unearned riches to the few who, by controlling the great industries of the nation, have levied tribute upon the whole country."

"There ought to be enough Roosevelt Republicans in the two houses to join with the Democrats and ensure some remedial legislation at this session. If there be none the public ought to know it, so that when the next Republican convention endorses the present administration the hypocrisy and endorsement will be understood."

"The president has issued a call to arms. Now let the battle begin and we shall soon be able to pick out the purchased newspapers and the purchased legislators described by the president but not specifically named."

"FAMILIAR RANTING"

Chancellor Day Says "Square Deal" Has Become a Farce

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Chancellor Day of Syracuse university, discussing President Roosevelt's message, said:

"Of the president's message, if I am entirely honest and frank, I am compelled to say that much of it reads like the ravings of a disordered mind, and other portions, in which appeal is made to class prejudice and excitement, are large with the suggestion of the adroit and cunning, the shrewd but reckless demagogue."

"It is wrong, a great wickedness, for the Standard Oil company to defend itself, but there is no impropriety in the president's assailing this corporation by name and defaming it and slandering it with all the 'venomous' influence of his great office while its cause is still undecided by the higher courts. The 'square deal' has so long been a farce that this inconsistency seems to have escaped Mr. Roosevelt's ethical standard of which he makes so much."

"As I am one of those 'hired book writers' referred to, a personal word may be permitted. Not a nickel or dime was ever offered to me by any person, company or corporation, for a sentence or paragraph in print in any shape or form whatever. No such party knew a syllable contained in my book until it was published."

"When a president of the United States will descend to such indecent slander and other assaults by innuendo upon the honor of his fellow-citizens whose reputation for honor and high moral ideals are as firmly established as his own, we are left to one of several possible inferences. We will try to take the one that is the most charitable."

Charges Theft of Letter

Los Angeles, Feb. 1.—Auditor Healy of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company is quoted as saying that the letter from Assistant General Traffic Manager Chambers to former Auditor Davidson, which President Roosevelt incorporated in his message to congress, was stolen from the railroad office. "That letter was stolen from our office," declared Healy. "I have heard of it and I cannot deny that the letter was written, but I have never seen it. I have heard of such a letter and of its loss. I do not know who stole it or how it got into the possession of Francis J. Heney."

Ripley Enters a Denial

Santa Barbara, Cal., Feb. 1.—President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad issued a written statement last night, absolutely denying the charges contained in the letter made public in the special message of President Roosevelt.

The Thunderer's Comment

London, Feb. 1.—The Times says in an editorial on President Roosevelt's message to congress: "Nobody expected President Roosevelt to be much frightened by the charges that the recent financial crisis was an outcome of his energetic action, but few persons thought he would take up the challenge in the audacious spirit of his latest message. He, indeed, is so far from showing any signs of penitence that he flings back taunt for taunt into his opponents' faces."

SHAVE AS TRAIN WAITED.

Hurry Call From Traveler Who Didn't Want His Card Game Stopped.

Theodore A. Hoppenjon, the Union depot barber at Kansas City, keeps a private mug for Senator Clark of Montana and various eastern railway officials. He has been called out of bed at night to shave an eccentric patron, but he said the other night that the demands made upon him by R. T. Crane a few nights ago were new and decidedly interesting.

Crane is in the implement business and lives in Chicago. He travels about the country in a private car. On a recent Saturday night the Crane car was attached to the Santa Fe No. 9, in bound. As the train neared Chillicothe, Ill., the implement magnate discovered that he had forgotten his safety razor when he packed for his trip to Los Angeles. Crane had the conductor telegraph the Santa Fe agent at Kansas City to have a barber at the depot for him, says the Kansas City Journal.

The train was late, and it doesn't stop at Kansas City more than ten minutes when on time. Hoppenjon was notified and was in readiness, with his outfit, the latter all ready made up. As the train entered the Union depot at 9:25 the barber swung on the private car and had his patron lathered before the engine was stopped. Crane, sitting in the drawing room of his car, was enjoying a game of solitaire. The cards were spread about the table, and the implement king did not appear to notice the barber's presence. When the lather brush began to tickle his mouth, Crane without looking up inquired:

"Does the game interfere with you?"

When Hoppenjon replied, "I'm here only to shave," Crane placed the next card carefully and went on with the game. The barber finished in five minutes, was paid by a secretary and bowed out of the car.

BURBANK VERSUS UNCLE SAM.

"Wizard of Plants" Insists Spineless Cactus is Good to Eat.

Publication of a bulletin by the United States department of agriculture on the subject of cacti under the title of "The Tuna as Food For Man," has aroused Luther Burbank to reply to the government "experts" declaration that the spineless cactus cannot be grown on the desert and is not fit food for man, says a San Francisco dispatch. Mr. Burbank says:

"The statement that thornless cacti will not grow in the desert has some foundation in fact, but it is so stated that it is absolutely misleading."

"The cactus originally was spineless. Nature added the spines to the plant for protection when it became a denizen of the desert."

"This variety of cactus contains much more sugar and starch than the wild. It makes a splendid salad, is good for soup and is not bad fried. The fruit of the plant makes a delicious jam or preserve. Eaten raw it is considered as good as if not better than bananas or oranges. Twenty tons of fruit can be produced to the acre."

Friends of Burbank bear him out in his statements.

"POPPER" THAT MADE GOOD.

Wonderful Device Adopted by a Girls' Leap Year Club.

The "question popper," installed at Follansbee, W. Va., recently by the eight members of the Girls' Leap Year club, has already brought about one marriage and one engagement, says a special to the New York World.

Its great triumph was at the home of Miss Bertha McWithers, where John Williams expected to toast his shins serenely all winter. They were married the day after the "popper" got to work. Two weeks later at the home of Miss Jean Hardy the "popper" got its work in on Samuel Richards, who had "steadies" at Mingo Junction and at Wellsburg and Steubenville, O. Both young men are helping the young women to maintain the secret of the invention.

The other six girls are waiting their turn, and they confidently expect to be married within six months. The club refuses many requests from out of town to divulge the "popper" secret.

Entrees For Transcontinental Race.

Denver will contribute a rider in the great transcontinental endurance race for horses, starting from Portland, Ore., and ending in Washington, says the Denver Post. The rider is Charles D. Lancaster, who has made his home in Denver for three years. He bears the reputation of being an excellent cross country rider. He has received the offer of a mount on Sunshine, which will be entered by Colonel N. H. Brown of St. Louis. Mr. Lancaster has ridden Sunshine in a number of cross country tests and thinks he has a good chance of winning the big race. Other horses entered will be Homer Davenport's Arabian, Masoud, and General John B. Castleman's Kentucky saddle, Carolina, which has an enviable record for endurance.

EDITORIAL.

The city charter of Quincy is an advance over the old line charter, inasmuch as there is only one legislative body, and a complete separation of the executive and the legislative branches of the city.

The City Council makes all appropriations; determines the salaries of city officials and the pay of police, firemen, etc.; regulates licenses, decides all rights in our streets,
whether school houses or other public buildings shall be erected and at what cost, and passes upon over 200 orders in a year.

The Mayor executes the orders,
and selects those who will superintend the work, such as the assessing of taxes, collection of taxes,
street repaving and road building,
the enforcement of laws, etc., etc.

A weak point in government by commission would be that five men would legislate for the city, appropriate the money, assess the property, collect the taxes and expend the money. This is more power than is given to county commissioners, for the Legislature determines each year
how much may be appropriated.

There are principles as well as good government to be considered in the government of a town, city,
state or nation. It is possible that England might have continued to govern the colonies more economically and honestly than they are governed today, but the citizens
wanted some rights and powers;
they wanted self government. So with elections, they might be conducted at much less expense to the city and state, but perhaps not as honestly and fairly, with equal rights
to all.

Under the present Quincy charter
five Councilmen are elected at large,
which would correspond with the proposed commission of five. It is a fair question to ask—Would Quincy have been better governed by these Councilmen at large than by the Mayor and Council of 23?
Would the Councilman at large receiving the most votes have made a better Mayor than the gentlemen elected Mayor? It is proposed that the commissioner receiving the most votes shall be Mayor, and the others associates. At the last election Charles M. Bryant received the most votes as will be seen below:

Charles M. Bryant,	2442
Arthur C. Beal,	2242
Jesse P. Curtis,	2114
Leonard J. Ferguson,	1951
Alfred H. Gilson,	1788

We all know that Mr. Bryant would make a good Mayor, as he has done in the past. But in the election of 1906 Councilman Ferguson was the leading candidate, and would have been elected Mayor. The vote was:

J. Leonard Ferguson,	2270
Eugene R. Stone,	2194
Arthur C. Beal,	2190
Walter E. Piper,	2176
Walter S. Pinkham,	2164

In the preceding year it would have been Mayor Bass, and also in 1905 and 1904. And previous to that as follows:

1903.—George E. Adams.
1902.—Charles Alden.
1901.—Charles Alden.
1900.—William E. Badger.
1899.—William E. Badger.
1898.—William E. Badger.
1897.—Elisha Packard.
1896.—Frank E. Badger.
1895.—John P. Bigelow.

In all these fourteen years not one Democrat would have been elected on the commission, and very few as Mayor unless their names began with A or B.

At Trial of
Harry W. Thaw
For Murder

New York, Feb. 1.—The jury in the celebrated case of Harry W. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford White,
after being out nearly thirty-six hours returned its verdict this noon.

The jury found that Thaw was not guilty on the ground of insanity.

The first trial in the case resulted in a disagreement.

MRS. HARRY KENDALL THAW.

As soon as the jury had returned
its verdict, and it had been announced
to the waiting crowd, Mr. Littleton, counsel for Thaw, asked for his immediate release.

Judge Darling refused to grant the request until District Attorney Jerome had an opportunity to ask for a commission to examine Thaw as to his sanity at the present time.

Two Alarms
For Slight Fires

The alarm from Box 25 at 4:57 P.
M. yesterday was for a fire in a house at 40 Brackett street owned by Thomas McDonnell, and occupied in part by Owen Dolan. The fire started in Dolan's side and was caused by a kettle of fat boiling over. It was extinguished before the alarm sounded.

The alarm from Box 17 at 7:01 last night was for a fire in the house of Joseph J. Gardner at 15 Atlantic avenue, Houghs Neck. It was caused by a hand lamp exploding in one of the chambers. Mr. Gardner, who was at home, battled with the fire
while another member of the family ran to the fire alarm box.

The Houghs Neck combination made a quick run, but its services were not needed. A relief hose wagon with a crew of men also left the Central fire station and arrived
in quick time and would have rendered good assistance had services been needed. The loss was less than $100.

There is but little in the way of excitement at the beach at this season of the year and men, women and children ran to the house. It was also quite a novelty to see Jim Mal-lone driving his spirited pair to a fire. It was a bitter cold night and very fortunately the fire was not serious.

civil service is a farce, and that, by

Burkhardt Residence Burned.

Boston papers report a serious fire last evening at the residence of Gottlieb F. Burkhardt at Jamaica Plain. The fire started while the family were at dinner. Owing to the prompt work of the police and the firemen the greater part of the $27,- 000 worth of house furnishings was saved but the house was damaged to the extent of $6000, and oil paintings and Turkish carpets were damaged
to the extent of $5000. The Burk-hardts formerly had a summer residence at Squantum.

was presented a gold watch and fob.
The presentation speech was made by Sylvanus Moyle. Solos were sung by Carleton Beal, Roy Prout, George Reynolds, William Walker and recitations were given by Leslie Smith and Little Joe Beal. After which many games were played. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was spent.

A Councilman
As Chairman

The Democratic City Committee met last evening and organized for the year with the following officers:

President—Charles J. McGilvray.
Vice President—Edward J. Dunn.
Secretary—William H. Flynn.
Treasurer—William J. Walsh.

It was reported that all outstanding bills were paid and the committee
starts the new year with a clean slate.

The Ward One committee has organized with Walter M. Packard as chairman, and Edward J. Dunn as secretary and treasurer.

The Ward Four committee has organized with Henry M. Hughes as chairman and Charles C. McCue as secretary. Chairman Hughes was also elected as treasurer.

The Ward Five committee has organized with David J. Roche as chairman, Bernard F. Manning as secretary, and Michael B. Cook as treasurer.

Mr. McGilvray was president of the committee last year, and is a member of the City Council this year. He also served in the Council of 1906 and 1907. He is a rising young lawyer, a member of the board of trustees of the City Hospital, also of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, and St. Marys Total Abstinence Society.

JAMES MONROE.

The fifth president of the United States was born in Westmoreland county, Va., in 1758. He died in New York on the Fourth of July, 1831. During the earlier years of the Revolution he served with great bravery and ability as an officer in the American army. In 1803 President Jefferson sent him to France as special envoy to complete negotiations for the purchase of the vast territory of Louisiana. Monroe served as president from 1817 to 1825. His name is identified with the famous "Monroe doctrine," which was chiefly the work of John Quincy Adams, his secretary of state.

Is Adding a Page to Quincy History

WHEN we announced about three weeks ago that we would "launch a Tremendous Cut Price Sale," we began making history. History that has no parallel in the annals of New England. We began the Huge Task of Cutting Down the Price of Every Article in our entire big $60,000 stock of Furniture, Carpets, Ranges, Dinnerware, and General House Furnishings--down to cost--and many below cost of manufacture. We placed an Entire Store Full of the Best House Furnishings in the East before the people at Prices that Few who had the money could resist. The result has been a patronage never before accorded a Sale in this county. Crowds of eager purchasers at the start: large numbers ever since--and while the stock has been greatly diminished, we still want greater crowds to help us to further reduce our unusual big stock. Our efforts are made with loss, but the Stock must be further sold down.

BRAINTREE.

Monday evening, Feb. 10th in the Town hall the committee of eighteen on grade crossing will report to the citizens the result of their meetings. It is vitally important that every voter and tax-payer be present to see that the proper steps are taken. Even though it costs the town a few thousand dollars more to have the grade crossings properly abolished there will be satisfaction in knowing that it is done right, to answer all requirements for a century. Public expression strongly and almost unanimously favors the depression of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad at the crossings in question.

The Braintree Fife and Drum Corps gave their eighth annual concert and ball in the Town hall, Wednesday evening, Jan. 29. On account of the inclemency of the weather the attendance was much smaller than usual, but those who were there certainly seemed to greatly enjoy the especially fine music, which was rendered by Cuff's orchestra.

A large audience enjoyed the entertainment at the Jonas Perkins school East Braintree, on Wednesday evening despite the snow storm. The songs by the scholars were sweet and melodious. Those who assisted with recitations and musical numbers were applauded and gave encores in response. Home made candies were quickly disposed of, also corn balls. The Turner exhibition of pictures was of much interest and merit. It is hoped that a sufficient sum will result to obtain pictures for each school room in the Jonas Perkins school.

The pupils of Mrs. Eva LaSelle gave a recital in Delta hall on Wednesday evening before a good audience of their parents and friends who were all delighted by the really excellent music which they heard. Mrs. LaSelle is a teacher of superior ability and taste and it was not difficult to see the results of her faithful work with her pupils. Where all did so well special praise is difficult, especially as some of the pupils are farther advanced than others.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shay were honored by an invitation from His Grace, The Most Reverend W. H. O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, to be present at the ceremony of his investiture with the Sacred Pallium by His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons on Wednesday, January twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and eight, at the Cathedral, Boston.

Tuesday evening the members of the Matrons' Whist club met with Mrs. Harry Simonds of Franklin street. The souvenirs were secured by Mrs. M. A. Minchin, Mrs. N. L. Wood and Mrs. F. A. Bates.

The many friends of Arthur Smiley of Fountain street are glad to know he is rapidly recovering from his operation and hopes to be able to resume his business duties about the first of April.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Merrill, who have been boarding with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Parker of Hancock street, moved into their new home on Academy street Tuesday.

All the schools were closed Thursday afternoon to allow the children to attend an art lecture given in Monatiquot hall.

Mrs. R. F. Burleigh of Washington street is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Wheeler of Hudson.

Many friends regret sincerely the recent death of Mrs. Carlton Nickerson of Cotuit. Mrs. Nickerson was formerly the widow of Capt. W. A. Sturgis and lived in Braintree for five years.

Miss Flora A. Staples of Wakefield, president of the Massachusetts Division Sons of Veterans' Auxiliaries, visited Auxiliary 16, on Monday evening.

The engagement is announced of Mr. W. C. Habberley of Lynn, formerly of Braintree, to Miss Anna B. Magrane of Yynn, daughter of P. B. Magrane, president of the James A. Houston Company.

The High school team won a well deserved victory on Tuesday when it defeated the Scituate team by a score of 20 to 16. The game was fast and clean. Each member of the team played his position well. Howland played a particularly fine game.

The High school team will play Thayer academy at the Academy gymnasium this afternoon.

The sad news of Mrs. Margaret E. Haley's death reached us on Thursday. She was sick but a few days and died of pneumonia or heart failure. She leaves two sons David and Joseph Haley of Prospect street. Her husband died some years ago and she had a pleasant home with her two sons who were not married. The funeral was held this morning from the church of the Sacred Heart, Weymouth.

The Teachers' association of Braintree will meet at the High school on Monday afternoon at four o'clock. President Hamilton of Tufts college will make the address.

The large attendance of the members of the Pine Tree club of Braintree at the regular monthly meeting at Pythian hall Friday evening, and the hearty appreciation of the several numbers of vocal and instrumental music by Miss Annie Ellis, and the dialect readings of Miss Amy Watkins which were fully applauded, and the choice refreshments furnished by the committee, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Mayhew, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Caldwell, Mrs. J. W. White, Mrs. Laura Morrell and Miss Nellie Hale conspired to make this one of the joyful meetings of the season.

Miss Laura Bergeron and Mr. Able Dupree of Fall River were married at the church of the Sacred Heart Tuesday morning, Rev. J. B. Holland officiated at the ceremony. The bride was attired in a costume of white silk and the bridesmaid Miss Esther Bergeron was gowned in white muslin. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. Cyril Bourke, off Broad street, an uncle of the bride. They will reside in Roxbury.

J. F. Holbrook says the shoe business is booming. He is selling more machines and machine supplies than for a long while.

Matt Hennessey gave the sports a surprise at the Park Square rink, Boston, Monday evening when he held the lead in the five mile amateur race up to the last half mile when his skate broke and let him out of the race. There were fifteen contestants and Hennessey had them all beaten had not the accident occurred. Costello of Boston won the race.

The alarm was rung in from box 123 corner of Allen street and Quincy avenue on Thursday morning about seven for a blaze in a house occupied by Italian. The bedding and mattress was burned but the fire was soon extinguished. It was zero weather.

McKinley Day.

McKinley Day was observed by Corps 103 at home of Mrs. Annie R. Waterhouse, 51 Rosemont street, Dorchester. The parlors were prettily decorated with flags and potted plants, the work of Miss Alice M. Waterhouse, assistant patriotic instructor.

The exercises under the direction of Mrs. Eliza Penniman, patriotic instructor, opened with reading of scripture, Lord's Prayer and singing "America." After which there were readings on life of McKinley by members of Corps; singing, "Lead Kindly Light," Miss Alice M. Waterhouse; reading, Mrs. Armstrong; piano and vocal selection, Miss Phinney; reading, Mrs. Annie R. Waterhouse; reading, Mr. Armstrong. The exercises closed with singing "Star Spangled Banner" and flag salute.

A dainty lunch was served. The powers were Miss Waterhouse and Miss Phinney. Past Commander Francis P. Loud was the honored guest of the evening.

Vigilance Committee.

The Vigilance Committee of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Bethany church, held its meeting Thursday afternoon, at the home of Lindall Williams, 16 Newcomb place. There were present: Miss French (superintendent) Rayburn Melendy (chairman) Ralph Melendy, Merton Grant, Edwin Farr and Lindall Williams. At the close of business a collation was served, and what surprised the boys was a cake, prettily decorated and the word "Vigilance" across the top. The boys appeared to have had a good time and will be welcomed again sometime in the future by their little host.

Another Victory For Quincy High

The Quincy High basket ball team added another scalp to their belt yesterday when they took Milton High into camp by a score of 29 to 19. The game was a hot one from start to finish, and was witnessed by over 200.

Duncan kept up his brilliant work for the home team that has characterized all the games in which he has played, and also did some fine shooting, getting six baskets. Marsh also did splendid work in crossing.

On the inside Craig led his team, shooting four baskets. Marden was put in as a substitute for Walker before the game was finished. The summary follows:

QUINCY.	MILTON.
Howe	r.f. Rose
Gourlie	l.f. Flynn
Duncan	c. Craig
Marsh	r.b. Dow
Walker	l.b. Cross
Marden	l.b.

Score--Quincy High, 29; Milton High, 19. Goals from floor--Howe 2, Gourlie 2, Duncan 6, Marden 3, Marsh 1, Dow 2, Craig 4, Flynn 1, Ross 1. Goals from fouls--Gourlie 1, Ross 1. Referee--Tupper. Umpire--Clark. Scorer--Lacey. Timer--Pierce. Time--20 minute halves.

Anniversary of Foresters

Court John Adams, Foresters of America, celebrated its ninth anniversary last evening by an entertainment and dance held in Music hall, which was largely attended.

The program for the entertainment included the presentation of a domestic drama in four acts, entitled "Valley Farm." The characters were impersonated by Fred G. Malcolm, Jr., Ernest Collins, A. J. M. Cowe, J. William L. Troupe, John Capacioli, George T. Craig, Margaret A. Craig, Jennie G. Grassick, Helen C. Troupe, Nina R. Giles, Georgiana Michael and Louisa C. Driscoll. The several characters were well sustained.

At the conclusion of the entertainment dancing was in order until 3 o'clock, music being furnished by Wilson's orchestra. Neil Johnson was chairman of the committee in charge, and A. M. Pirie, secretary.

JURYMEN LOCKED UP

Rumor of Hopeless Division In the Case of Harry Thaw

A MAJORITY FOR CONVICTION

Court Attaches Express Opinion That Third Trial Will Be Necessary—May Be in Other Jurisdiction of the State Than New York County

New York, Feb. 1.—Eight to four for conviction of Harry Thaw on the charge of murdering Stanford White. This was how the jury stood at a few minutes after 11 o'clock, when they were locked up for the night.

Justice Dowling had waited nearly twelve hours to hear the jury's report after delivering his charge. He then ordered the doors of the jury room locked, and adjourned court until 10:30 this morning, when he will again be ready to receive a verdict if the jury has agreed.

The rumor persisted throughout last evening that the jurors were hopelessly divided—eight to four. Mr. Littleton of the defense expressed the belief that the majority favored a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity, and when he left his home was still hopeful that a decision eventually would be reached.

District Attorney Jerome said: "Nobody can tell what a jury will do, so what is the use of speculating?"

Thaw retired disconsolately to his cell in the Tombs. He expressed the fear that a third trial would be necessary. This was the general opinion held by the court attaches. The attorneys in the case all were deeply disappointed by the trend of affairs, as everyone had hoped that some definite conclusion might this time be reached.

Mr. Jerome would not discuss the probability of a third trial, but said if there was one it might be in some other jurisdiction of the state than New York county.

Battleships in Magellan Strait

Punta Arenas, Strait of Magellan, Feb. 1.—The American fleet of sixteen battleships, which entered the Strait of Magellan at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, is anchored in Possession bay, twenty miles from Dungeness point, where the strait proper begins. The fleet will arrive at Punta Arenas at noon today. There is much excitement among the inhabitants of this little city, the most southerly on the globe, and much preparation has been made to entertain the visitors during their five days' stay in port.

Oriental Bank Shuttles Up

New York, Feb. 1.—The Oriental bank, on which a run of depositors started Thursday, did not open for business yesterday. A notice was posted on the door announcing that the bank was closed by order of the state superintendent of banks. There was a debit balance of $329,000 against the Oriental bank in the clearing house yesterday. Inability to meet this demand and satisfy the depositors at its doors precipitated the closing.

Perhaps a Victim of Burglars

Cleveland, Feb. 1.—M. R. Overly, manager of a carpet cleaning company, has been missing since Wednesday night, when the building in which the cleaning works were located was burned. Officers are searching the ruins in the belief that he was burned to death. It is supposed that Overly was surprised by burglars, murdered and robbed, and the building set on fire to hide the crime.

Investigating Detective Agency

Philadelphia, Feb. 1.—Judge Bregy has appointed E. C. Rhodes, an attorney, as friend of the court, to continue an investigation begun by the judge into the business methods of a private detective agency here which makes a specialty of arresting army and navy deserters. Bregy announces that if sufficient grounds can be found the license of the agency will be revoked.

Persians in a Panic

Tabriz, Persia, Feb. 1.—The outlook is bad for Prince Firma, who is endeavoring to protect the Persian frontier from Turkish aggressions. The reinforcements sent him consist of undisciplined recruits, whose services are of no value. The native population in Tabriz is panic-stricken. The bazaars remain closed and traffic is at a standstill.

Denial of Bribe Offering

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Abraham Reuf pleaded not guilty yesterday to the fourteen indictments charging him with offering a bribe in connection with the Park Side trolley franchise. The other defendants in these cases entered pleas similar to that of Reuf. The cases will be set for trial on Feb. 5.

"Nest Egg" of Five Millions

Budapest, Feb. 1.—A credit of $5,000,000 was received yesterday from New York by the Hungarian Discount and Exchange bank for the account of the Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, who were married in New York on Jan. 27.

Tornado Kills Six Persons

Wesson, Miss., Feb. 1.—Six persons were killed by a tornado which laid waste to a strip of farming country three-quarters of a mile wide and several miles long just north of here.

A Mephistopheles of Today.

(Original.)

A bridge whist party was in progress in one of the fashionable houses of a large city. The games were for money, but as one may lose or win a large number of points at bridge a point was fixed at a few cents. There were two sets of tables. At one set the play was for money; at the other there was no stake. Guests were permitted to sit at the stake or no stake tables, as they pleased.

Nearly all the guests had arrived and selected their seats when a young man entered who took a chair opposite a young girl at one of the tables where there was no stake to be played for. On his left sat an elderly woman with a superior look; on his right, a middle aged man with a bald head, who seemed to regard the affair as a bore. The newcomer was delicately formed, strikingly handsome and with a winning voice and smile. The girl was what is called a Titian beauty—that is, with reddish golden hair and dark, liquid eyes. The young man was not known to any one at the table, but introductions in such cases are not required. He addressed the young girl modestly, yet confidently.

As the play went on it was evident that she was falling under the spell of the many pleasant things he said to her, the musical voice in which he said them, the glances that shot from his eyes. Indeed, his whole personality was fascinating and plainly devoted to impressing her. Finally he suggested that a game without a stake was uninteresting and proposed that they have a small one to consist of but a cent a point. The opposing couple did not object, but the Titian girl demurred. She said she was a member of a church that prohibited both card playing and dancing. She had attended the party not knowing there were to be cards and had been persuaded to play only at the urgent request of the hostess, there being one vacant seat. The young man opposite her looked into her eyes with his, whereupon she took up the hand that lay before her, making no further objection.

From that moment the cards seemed bewitched. Whenever it came the turn of the Titian girl to play dummy she invariably played "without a trump," which in bridge whist counts twelve points for each trick above six. She usually won most of the tricks, often taking them all, making what is called a grand slam and counting a bonus. Besides, she and her partner always won the rub game, which gave them an extra hundred points. This was all the more remarkable since she had never played the game before. Occasionally her opponents would take up a good hand and "double," upon which she would "go back," which is the term for doubling the double. This doubling and redoubling would often go on till the original count had been multiplied by six.

The only person at the table having ordinary hands was the young man who had suggested playing for a stake. But, while he took no important part in the game himself, the others seemed to feel that all this high play originated through some mysterious influence emanating from him. One by one the players at the other tables ceased to play, and noticing that there were large hands and a large count at the table where sat the girl with the Titian hair, stood watching the game. One of these onlookers by mental process counted the score and noticed that she and her partner were winners of a considerable sum.

Her partner sat facing a corner with his back to the room full of guests, so that his face could not be seen. The host, noticing persons about his table, advanced, looked at him and, not recognizing him, thought that he was some friend of his wife's to whom he had not been introduced. Then the hostess saw him and fancied he must be some friend of her husband's. Everybody was inquiring who he was, and no one could give information.

At last there arose a whispering and a murmuring. The Titian girl was known to most of the guests as an example of probity, but here she was playing for stakes that had been raised from a cent to a dollar, her eyes blazing and her cheeks red with excitement, her partner a man whom nobody knew and of whom everybody was suspicious. Another estimate was made of the winnings, and they were found to reach far up into the hundreds of dollars.

Presently a clergyman joined the onlookers. He was an Episcopalian, and a gold cross glistened on his breast. He stood directly opposite the young stranger, who, on looking up, espied the cross. In a twinkling every member of the card party seemed released from their enthralment. His opponents threw down their cards and arose, with an angry look. The Titian girl leaned back in her chair and covered her face with her hands. The strange young man paled, half arose and, muttering something about having promised to be at home early, slunk away through the crowded rooms. A moment later carriage wheels were heard rolling rapidly away.

The baldheaded opponent took up the score, figured up his loss, felt nervously in his pockets, whispered something to the host and left the room. His partner, exclaiming, "Well, I declare!" also stalked away. The Titian girl after sitting for a few moments with her face covered withdrew her hands and looked dazedly at those standing about, when her mother approached and, like a storm cloud, swept her away.

As for the stranger, he never appeared to claim his share of the winnings, nor was he heard of ever afterward.

The Superstitions of Rhoda.

By Martha Endicott Eaton.

Copyrighted, 1908, by N. E. Daley.

It was evening. Rhoda had dined. The parlor in her little flat, which was also her study, was well lighted. Logs were burning brightly on the audirons. Everything was cozy and "comfy."

Rhoda had drawn a big chair close to the fire, and you would have thought she had everything heart could desire, but if you had looked hard you would have seen a tear on the long eyelashes.

She was a writer. Her stories had always sold well until lately.

SEAGOING RAILROAD.

Remarkable Line That Runs On Florida Keys.

CUBA NOW HALF A DAY NEARER

In Another Year Railway to Connect Key West With Coast Will Be Finished to Within Ninety Miles of Havana—Now Open to Knights Key.

When a train with a little party of passengers on board recently pulled slowly southward out of the station of Miami, on the extreme southeastern coast of Florida, its unostentatious departure marked a dramatic moment in the history of a man and a railroad and an event the bearing of which upon the future relations of the United States and her neighbors of the West Indies can only be fully told by time, says a St. Augustine (Fla.) special dispatch to the New York Globe.

The train was the first over the famous "seagoing railroad" which Henry M. Flagler has been pushing with all the resources of the Florida East Coast system, which he rules, literally out over the sea toward Key West and Havana. When the trains began running to Knights Key, Cuba was brought half a day nearer the United States, and Havana was for the first time placed in direct connection with New York and Chicago.

The traveler can now board a Pullman train in either of these cities, whirl across a dozen degrees of latitude direct to Knights Key and there step from the train aboard a boat which will land him in the Cuban capital, 115 miles distant, within six hours. In another year, when the remaining forty-seven miles to Key West have been opened, the distance between Uncle Sam and his island ward will be still further reduced. Key West is but ninety miles from Havana, and it is planned to join the two by a ferry service which shall take the trains themselves straight through.

The conditions that confronted the builders were these: From the southern mainland of Florida in a long curving line to the southwestward the coral islets called the Florida keys stretch away to Key West, the last of the chain. Eastward lies the Atlantic, westward the bay of Florida. Beginning at Homestead, twenty-eight miles south of Miami, where the road ended, they must build along the line of the keys and across the scores of channels and passages which separate them one from another a road which should be so solidly based as to withstand the dreaded autumn hurricanes which have their breeding place among the West Indian islands. Some of the channels are a few feet wide, some thousands of feet and some miles. The widest of all, the spanning of which was the last piece of work in the completion of the section now opened, is five and a half miles across from island to island. Everything except the rock for the roadbed and embankments had to be transported from the mainland, for the keys are mostly barren and could furnish no supplies. Even water had to be brought in tanks, and the workmen had to be housed in floating dormitories over much of the distance.

In spite of these difficulties and of the obstacles of mud and water, stiff currents, jungle, rock, heat, mosquitoes and storms, the work, once begun, has been pushed steadily on without a halt until the end is in sight. From Homestead, where the extension begins, it is seventeen miles to the coast at Water's Edge. This part of the construction is on the mainland, but it is through the strange south Florida region of low everglades and mangrove swamps, interspersed with higher patches of rocky pine land.

From Water's Edge the road crosses Jewish creek, uniting Barnes and Blackwater sounds by a drawbridge, and after skirting Lake Surprise, where thousands of tons of filling were swallowed up in a vain attempt to run the road straight across the lake, it lands upon the middle of Key Largo, the largest of the keys. Fifteen miles bring the southern end of Largo, and there the road becomes really amphibious. Of the seventy-seven miles remaining to Knights Key more than half is built over water on cement and coral rock embankments or on concrete viaducts, supported on concrete pillars anchored to the rock bottom and strengthened with piles. At the deeper channels there are drawbridges to admit the passage of vessels, and in the embankments which cross the shallower passages are twenty-five foot water openings at frequent intervals.

From Key Largo the extension crosses Tavernier creek to Plantation key, which it traverses, thence over another narrow arm called Snake creek to Windward Island, then across a wider passage to Upper Metacumbe key. The longest viaduct yet reached carries the road from Upper Metacumbe to Lower Metacumbe, whence a still longer embankment takes it over the wide channel to Long key, the next stepping stone. Then from Long key to Grassy key comes the longest leap of the whole way. Between these two there are five and one-half miles of sea, which are crossed by the famous "ocean viaduct," over which the rails are carried thirty-one feet above the main surface level of the water. From Grassy key a number of small islets and intervening passages are crossed to the larger Key Vacca, from which, by a narrow channel, the diminutive Hog key and another channel, Knights Key, is reached, where the journey by rail is ended for the present.

PLOT AGAINST PORTUGAL

Appears to Have Ramifications All Over the Country

Lisbon, Feb. 1.—The minister of justice has left here for Villa Visosa to secure the signature of King Carlos to a decree authorizing the adoption of the most severe measures of repression. Numerous arrests have been made and depots of revolvers, rifles and bombs have been discovered in different parts of the city.

The government reports of additional discoveries of hiding places of revolvers, daggers and bombs at Santa Barbara and other places is taken as an indication of the existence of a widespread plot and as justifying the amplification of the official decree relating to the powers of magistrates in political crimes. This amplification will be gazetted today.

Pennsylvania a Capital Graft

Harrisburg, Feb. 1.—More than $2,000,000 was paid to Contractor Sanderson for furnishings for the new state capitol before his bills began to be approved by the board of public grounds and buildings as required by law. These bills were put in evidence by the commonwealth despite vigorous objections by the defense. Yesterday the commonwealth brought down from the capitol and stored in the courthouse a wagonload of furniture which it will offer in evidence. This furniture includes a bookcase stand, for which Sanderson collected $1619.20 from the state and paid the sub-contractor $225, and desks and chairs upon which Sanderson's profits were 300 and 400 percent.

The Buckeye State Contest

Cleveland, Feb. 1.—The board of elections of Cuyahoga county has voted to recognize the Foraker-Dick factions' call for a Republican primary election. The board declares its belief that the "Roosevelt" committee does not represent the party and declares that the term for which the Baker-Rodway, or Taft committee, was elected has long since expired. The Taft committee will proceed to hold primaries of its own. This two sets of Republican primaries will be held on Feb. 11.

Cooke's Charges Not Sustained

New York, Feb. 1.—Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate, was vindicated last night by the committee composed of nine clergymen of the Methodist Episcopal church who considered charges made by Rev. Dr. G. A. S. Cooke of Brandon, Vt. It was said that the charges of disloyalty to the church were based on Buckley's refusal to publish in The Christian Advocate certain articles criticizing the church and some of its officers, said to have been prepared by Cooke.

Rescue of Shipwrecked Men

New York, Feb. 1.—Steamer Comanche, from Charleston, brought in Captain Fales and his crew of nine of schooner Helen E. Taft. The Taft was sunk in a collision with a vessel believed to be the Swedish steamer Upland, off Cape Lookout lightship, on Wednesday night. The men had been afloat for hours suffering from cold and the waves that rolled into their yawl when the Comanche picked them up.

Long Traction War Ends

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The sale by the master in chancery of the different properties constituting the old Union Traction company's system to the Chicago Railways company has been confirmed by Judge Grosscup. By this confirmation and the lease executed yesterday the Chicago Railways company gets title to all the property. This closes the traction war that has been going on for ten years.

Great Snowstorm in the West

Chicago, Feb. 1.—A snowstorm is raging over the Lake Michigan and Lake Superior regions and in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. The snowfall is accompanied by a high northwest wind, reaching its greatest severity in northern Iowa and the Dakotas, where low temperatures are recorded.

Election Crooks Punished

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 1.—Judge Staples yesterday sentenced five men to a term of fifteen months in the penitentiary for conspiracy in connection with the last November's election. They are members of the Preston-Hamover township election board, and returned 225 votes for the leading Republican candidates and none for the Democratic.

Duchess Is Tired of Court

Berlin, Feb. 1.—It is reported that Duchess Marie of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, daughter of the reigning Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Adolphe-Frederic, is about to enter a suit for divorce against Count George Jametel, a Frenchman. Their romantic marriage in 1899 caused a stir among the minor royal houses.

Triple Drowning Accident

Nyack, N. Y., Feb. 1.—While walking out on the thin ice which had formed in the Hudson off this place, Evans Steele, aged 12, Hans Kraft, 12, and Harold Dixon, 11, broke through and were drowned.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these troubles. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box B, Notre Dame, Ind.

FIRST CITY TREASURER

Sudden Death of Horace B. Spear For Many Years Bank Cashier

In company with his daughter, Horace B. Spear of Adams street, spent Sunday with his son, Joseph G. Spear, at his home in Braintree. Returning between 5 and 6 by electric cars they started to walk from City Square to their home on Adams street. It was bitter cold and the north wind was blowing hard in their faces. Near the Adams Academy, when within sight of his home, Mr. Spear fell unconscious from an attack of heart disease. He was taken into the home of Charles A. Howland, and a doctor summoned, but he soon passed away.

Mr. Spear was in his 86th year. Although subject to heart disease, he has enjoyed good health and was frequently seen upon the street. He was a gentleman of the old school, dignified, honest and respected. For over 40 years he was connected with the banking interests of Quincy, both in National banks and the Savings bank, and his son Horace F. Spear, was his successor as cashier of the National Mt. Wollaston in 1887.

Mr. Spear was a native of Quincy, the date of his birth being Oct. 7, 1822. He was the son of Elijah Spear, who made considerable money in freighting stone by sloops from Quincy to Boston, which he judiciously invested in real estate. His mother was before her marriage Susanna Baxter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Baxter of Quincy. Horace B. Spear was the youngest of eight children, only one of whom is now living, Miss Judith Spear, born Jan. 24, 1812.

Mr. Spear completed his education at Derby Academy at Hingham, and was then employed for several years as clerk by Josiah Brigham & Co., who had a general country store in the building now occupied by the Daily Ledger. Subsequently forming a partnership with his brother-in-law the late Charles Marsh, under the name of Marsh & Spear, he was engaged in the wholesale leather trade in Boston for ten years.

The following three years he had no permanent business, but in 1868 he was appointed cashier of the National Granite Bank, and treasurer of the Quincy Savings bank. These positions he resigned in 1871, when he became cashier of the National Mt. Wollaston bank.

In 1882 Mr. Spear was elected Town Treasurer of Quincy, and served consecutively for 17 years. The next year Quincy became a city, and Mayor Porter appointed him City Treasurer, but he declined a reappointment at the end of the first year.

Since 1889 Mr. Spear has not been confined to any active business, but was a director of the National Mount Wollaston bank, and trustee of the Quincy Savings bank, where he served for several years on the board of investment and as vice president and president.

He was also local agent of the Norfolk and Dedham Insurance Companies, and a justice of the peace since the days of Gov. Claflin in 1870.

Mr. Spear was married Oct. 25, 1860, to Mary Maria, daughter of Eleazer and Mary (Gould) Frederick of Quincy. Their sons and daughter are living, viz: Horace F. Spear, and Miss Lucy M. Spear of Braintree, and Joseph G. Spear of Braintree. Mrs. Spear died about nine years ago. The family was connected with the Unitarian church and Mr. Spear served as treasurer and also on the parish committee.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Adams street.

Fast Game of Basket Ball

Those who ventured out on Saturday evening to see the games at the Y. M. C. A. were well repaid. Our boys are playing fast basket ball as any one can testify who has observed them of late.

The preliminary game was between the Advanced Junior class and the Employed Boys. The Employed Boys had won earlier in the week, so the Juniors started in to redeem their reputation, which they did nobly. After a clear hard fought game the score stood 22-14 in their favor.

When Quincy first team lined up against Cambridge, two of the regular players, Tupper and Munde were missing; Tyrell and McDonald taking their places.

Cambridge started in at a terrific pace scoring three goals in the first two minutes of play, and ending the first half with the score 14 to 8 in their favor.

During the second half Quincy's cheering section "got busy" and so stimulated the home team, that they were able to put on a winning spurt. Several times the score was a tie, and enthusiasm ran high. Then with a whirlwind finish Quincy scored several baskets during the last three minutes of play, and won out by a score of 26 to 21.

The attendance though not large, more than made up lack of numbers by enthusiasm, much to the delight of the players and management. The summary:

QUINCY.	CAMBRIDGE.
Gourlie 4.	McHugh 4.
Morris 3.	MacDonald 3.
Tyrell 2.	Muir 2.
Parker 1.	Harves 1.
McDonald 1.	Carr 1.

Score—Quincy 26; Cambridge 21.
Goals—McDonald 4, McHugh 4, Morris 3, Gourlie 3, MacDonald 3, Tyrell, Parker, Muir, Harves and Carr each 2. Goals from fouls—Gourlie 2. Referees—Blanchard and Maxwell. Timer—Le Vangie. Scorer—Brooks.

Reward Increased.

Owners of automobiles and men connected with the industry all over New England are indignant at the action of the men in the car which hit the little girl at Milton and then left her crying with pain. Additions are being made to the reward offered for the conviction of the parties, and the amount has been increased to $250.

NEW CITY OFFICIALS

Mayor Shea's Appointees Assume the Duties of Office

Today is Quincy's second inaugural day. The first was when Mayor Shea took office. Today it is when the gentlemen selected to compose the Mayor's official family take office.

The newly appointed officials having qualified were on hand bright and early to enter upon their several duties. Some of the officials assumed office at the close of business Saturday, but the larger portion came in this morning.

During the first part of the morning the outgoing officials turned over to their successors the books and papers pertaining to the office. This over the officers got down to business and things went along as usual. Most of the new officials had boxes of cigars in conspicuous places in their offices, and friends who called to extend congratulations were invited to smoke.

Several of the new boards met for organization this morning.

The first was the Managers of the Woodward Fund and Property. The organization of this board is: Mayor William T. Shea, chairman, Harrison A. Keith, clerk, John Curtis treasurer, and Henry O. Fairbanks, auditor.

The Board of Health organized with William W. Walsh as chairman and Dr. F. Raymond Burke as secretary. The first burial permit issued by the new board was to a representative of Edward L. Bean.

The Assessors met this morning but did not attempt to organize. This will be done at a later meeting.

Commissioner Bainbridge was on hand early this morning to assume his new duties. Commissioner Burke was also present and turned over the city property under his charge to the new Commissioner.

Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams has appointed the following as district engineers: Frank C. Packard, Daniel J. Nyhan and James P. Dillon.

Quincy Docks.

Fallon Brothers have made application to the Harbor and Land Commissioners for approval of plans for a bridge over Town river as authorized by Chapter 255 of the Acts of 1906, and will be given a hearing by said board Feb. 12. The building of such a bridge would make it possible to develop the 150 acres of marsh land at the head of the river for shipping docks. The close proximity of these docks to the heart of the city should make them of value at an early date.

Nine Inch Ice Being Gathered

The ice men are happy, for unless a sudden warm spell develops they will be able to harvest their winter's crop. Today they are cutting on Eaton's pond where they have some good nine-inch ice. At the Meadow Brook Ice Co. they have practically nine inches, and they will begin to house their crop to-morrow.

A Newsy Record Of Little Things

Mrs. C. H. Field of Pleasant street is visiting for a few days with her people in Pawtucket, R. I.

Mrs. C. G. Fletcher of Garfield street will entertain the True Blue whist club, at her home on Thursday afternoon.

A horse of Abbot & Millers express fell on the ice on Hancock street this morning breaking his leg. Dr. Abele was called and shot the animal.

The Thayer Academy basket ball team defeated the Braintree High team at Braintree Saturday by a score of 22 to 7.

Mayor Shea has ordered the flag on City Hall to be placed at half mast on Wednesday, the day of the funeral of Horace B. Spear, the first City Treasurer.

Mrs. Stronach of South Quincy, grand trustee of the I. O. F. of A., attended the reception and dance tendered to Mrs. Evelyn Sawyer, supreme grand commander in Boston on Saturday, by Pride of New England circle.

The annual ball of Quincy lodge of Elks will be held Monday evening, March 24, at Quincy Music hall. It will be given in aid of the charity fund, and the standard of 1907 will be maintained.

Interest is on the increase as the time draws near for the Valentine dance for young people at Music hall on Saturday afternoon and there is a great demand for tickets. There will be dancing from half past two until half past five, music by Poole's orchestra, also valentines on sale. Children can obtain tickets of Miss Prescott at Ledger office.

The many friends in this city of Mrs. Lue Stuart Wadsworth, senior vice department president of the W. R. C., will be pleased to hear that the operation which she underwent at a Boston hospital last Monday proved successful, and if no serious complications set in she will soon be able to resume her duties. The annual convention of the W. R. C. will take place Feb. 11, at which gathering her friends will put her name forward for the high position of department president.

February Weather.

Here is what the Old Farmer's Almanac has to say of February weather.
Feb. 1—Snow.
6—9—Grows milder.
9—12—A cold spell of weather.
14—16—Weather moderates.
17—Colder again.
21—22—Look for a mild spell.
25—26—Snow or rain.
27—31—Then cold northerly winds.

—Save the broken lens; we can match it. We grind them at 1473 Hancock st., Quincy. You may watch the operation. Williams Tel. 279-2

GOOD STOP

Chief Litchfield Was Not Caught Napping at the Eleventh Hour

Chief Engineer Litchfield went out of office this morning in a blaze of glory, leaving behind him a record of a good fire stop. It was 11.35 when Box 56 sounded, and as the Chief did not go out of office until midnight he responded and handled the fire in good shape. At midnight the fire was still burning briskly, but the Chief stuck to his job. It was 1.15 before the recall was sounded.

A few minutes before the alarm sounded a fire was discovered in the barber shop under the Wollaston Hotel on Newport avenue, the most congested part of Wollaston.

The fire was discovered by Officer Riley who ran to the Wollaston fire station and notified them. They were quickly on the scene and had a stream of water on the building before the alarm sounded. Officer Riley also rendered valuable assistance to the firemen until the call men and other apparatus arrived.

When the apparatus arrived the whole interior of the shop was a roaring furnace. Someone then without authority, pulled the hook in the fire alarm box sending in another four rounds. Many took this to be a second alarm, but it was not. A second alarm being ten blows followed by the box number.

From the barber shop the fire worked through the partition into the cobbler shop adjoining, and thence into the basement of the hotel proper. It was bitter cold and the firemen were soon covered with a coating of ice, and the street in front of the building was one glare of ice.

For a few minutes it looked as though the hotel building would have to go. The building is an old one, and had the fire got up into the main floor it would have burned like tinder.

Two streams were poured into the building from the Newport avenue side. Two streams were then taken into the building from the rear. Gallons of water were poured into the burning structure and they had effect. Gradually the fire gave way to its natural enemy until it was under control. Then a man was sent to sound a recall, but the box was frozen up.

Word was telephoned to the central station to send in the recall. In the meantime the fire alarm box door had been opened. In an endeavor to open the inner door, however, the hook was touched, the result was that one round of the box was again sounded.

The indications are that the fire started in the barber shop, and as there was a fire in the stove it probably started from that. The shop was occupied by Oscar J. Minor and was damaged to the extent of $500.

W. J. Wilbur, the shoe cobbler, was damaged $300. There was also some little damage by water to the variety store of Mrs. Elizabeth Adams.

The damage to the hotel and the building will amount to $1200 bringing the total loss up to $2,000.

THAW IS ACQUITTED

Declared Not Guilty of the Murder of Stanford White

'S SENT TO INSANE ASYLUM

Court Holds That He Release Would Endanger Public Safety—Prisoner Demanded Immediate Release, but His Counsel Refused to Act

New York, Feb. 3.—Adj. Judge not guilty of the murder of Stanford White by reason of insanity at the time the fatal shots were fired, Harry K. Thaw was held by the court to be a dangerous lunatic and was taken to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Mat-tewan. It was a quick transition from the dingy cell in the Tombs, which had been the man's home for more than eighteen months, to the big asylum fifty miles above the city.

The verdict came after twenty-five hours of waiting and when everyone
connected with the case had abandoned
all hope of an agreement ever being reached in this or any other trial. Four hours after the foreman's lips had framed the words "not guilty," with the accompanying insanity clause.
Thaw, protesting he was sane, was on his way to Matteawan. A little after nightfall he had been received in the institution under commitment papers which directed his detention "until discharged by due course of law."

No more unwilling patient ever made a journey to a state institution. The first thrill of the words of acquittal brought Thaw to his feet in the courtroom, and with that lack of grace of action which always has characterized his movements he awkwardly, almost haughtily, bowed his acknowledgment
to the juryman as they were discharged by the court. A smile played about his pallid features and there was every reason to believe that he was entirely pleased with the outcome.

It was after he had heard Justice
Dowling committing him to Matteawan on the ground that his release, in the opinion of the court, would endanger
the public safety, and after the elation of the verdict had died away, that he rebelled. He commanded his attorneys immediately to sue out a writ of habeas corpus to have his sanity tested before he was sent away to the institution
where the insane of criminal tendencies
were confined. Mrs. William Thaw, from her hotel, where she had received over the telephone the news of the trial's end, joined in the demand of her son.

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the defense, finally prevailed against the wishes of the mother, indicating to her that he believed it would be better for the present to obey the mandate of the court. Justice Dowling, it was said, had been consulted in the matter after he had signed his order of commitment and informally had advised Thaw's counsel against making an immediate contest. The prisoner's consent was not won until after a lively scene
with his counsel and his wife, the latter pleading with him for more than an hour to be content for a time at least, with what fate had given him.

Under promise that some action speedily would be taken looking to the appointment of a commission to inquire into his present sanity or for his transfer to a private institution, where his wife and other members of his family
might reside with him, Thaw consented to go without further protest.

Thaw was accompanied from the Tombs to the Grand Central railroad station by his wife and Josiah Thaw, his brother. Attorneys Peabody and O'Reilly went with him to Matteawan.
Mr. Littleton is understood to have talked very plainly to Thaw while the subject of suing out a writ of habeas corpus was under discussion. Upon an exception filed by Littleton, Justice Dowling had granted a delay until 3 o'clock in the execution of the commitment papers so that counsel might consult with the defendant. Littleton informed Thaw, it was stated, that "there is such a thing as public sentiment in New York city."

"But I shall not go to Matteawan," Thaw is reported to have repeated many times.

"You will have to go," replied Littleton. Daniel O'Reilly joined in this decision. It was remarked later that Littleton went neither to the station nor to the asylum with his client.

Expressions of the principals in the trial after the verdict follow:
"I am perfectly sane now. I am confident that my stay at Matteawan will be for a short time only."—Harry K.
Thaw, on way to asylum.
"Harry, don't worry; everything will come out all right. It won't be very long."—Evelyn Thaw to her husband, kissing him.
"Thank God, my son is saved. I am perfectly satisfied."—Mrs. William Thaw at her hotel on learning verdict.
"There is such a thing as public sentiment in New York city."—Littleton to Thaw, discouraging immediate proceedings for release.
"Old man, it is a just verdict, and I'm glad you won."—Jerome to Littleton.
"The court is satisfied that the discharge of this defendant would be dangerous to the public safety."—Justice Dowling, ordering Thaw kept in custody.

"Yes, we believed that Mrs. Thaw told her husband what she said she did."—Foreman Gremmels of the jury.

ANTI-TRUST STATUTES

Many Difficulties to Surmount in Prosecuting Violators

Baltimore Feb. 3.—After having declined to express his views on the recent message sent to congress by President Roosevelt, United States Attorney General Bonaparte last night dictated
the following for The Sun:

"There is one matter, however,
about which I can speak with knowledge. If great clusters of corporations such as the Standard Oil company, the tobacco trust, the powder trust and our well known railroad systems are not to be punished by fines imposed on convicted corporations, this means that in 90 cases out of 100 they will not be punished at all.

"It is often possible to obtain legal proof on which to convict the corporation when it would be altogether impossible to obtain evidence to satisfy a jury against any one of its superior officers. This statement may seem a little strange to persons inexperienced
in criminal law, but a lawyer who has to enforce such statutes as the antitrust laws will soon learn its truth."

Almost a Panic in Church

Washington, Feb. 3.—Rev. Dr. Frank Bristol, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, was offering prayer in his pulpit when a plate
ornament weighing ten pounds fell
from the ceiling, a distance of fifty feet, striking him a glancing blow on the head. He fell to the floor unconscious and bleeding from a severe scalp wound. He is now suffering from nervous shock, but his condition is not considered serious. The first impression was that a bomb had been thrown.
The congregation rose, some rushing for the door, when an appeal to be calm averted what might have been a panic.

Where Women Run Saloons

Punta Arenas, Feb. 3.—The officers and men of the American fleet are beginning to enjoy hospitality ashore.
Official visits have been exchanged.
Punta Arenas has a population of 10, 000 and is a clearing house, as it were,
for wrecked crews, ships bringing them
in from both the Atlantic and Pacific,
and frequently leaving them here until a vessel comes along that is going towards their home ports. There are more than 100 saloons, many of them run by women, and the place more nearly resembles Port Said, in everything but climate, than any other place in the world.

Was Once Lipton's Friend

New York, Feb. 3.—David Barrie, Sir Thomas Lipton's representative in this country when Lipton raced Shamrock I and Shamrock II for the American's cup, was killed in the Jersey Central depot in Jersey City by slipping on the ice and falling in front of a locomotive, which crushed him. Barrie was on his way home to Cranford, N. J., at the time of the accident. Following the defeat of Shamrock II Barrie and Lipton disagreed and did not renew their friendship.

Insurance Department Criticized Albany, Feb. 3.—The administration of the state insurance department by its present superintendent, Otto Kelsey,
who was appointed by the late Governor Higgins in May, 1906, is severely criticized in the report of Matthew C.
Fleming, the special commissioner appointed by Governor Hughes to investigate the department. Additional interest attaches to the report because of the senate's refusal last spring to remove Kelsey upon the governor's recommendation.

Newspaper Badly Scorched
Cleveland, Feb. 3.—The four-story building containing the mechanical department of The Plain Dealer Publishing company was practically destroyed by fire. The adjoining structure, in which the business and editorial offices
are located, was not seriously damaged.
The loss is estimated at $200,000. The Plain Dealer will be issued at the Cleveland News office for the present.

Prince Holds Child by Force
Paris, Feb. 3.—Prince Louis of Monaco, son of Prince Albert, the reigning potentate, by his first wife, is accused by Mme. Louvet, his morganatic spouse, of having kidnapped their 6-year-old daughter, Mme. Louvet is suffering from shock as a result of the incident. She declares that the prince retains the child by force, although she cries daily for her mother.

Fought Fire in Zero Weather
Rome, N. Y., Feb. 3.—In the teeth of a wild blizzard firemen of three cities fought for five hours against a fire which caused a loss of $250,000 in Rome's business section. Three buildings occupied by commercial houses were destroyed. The mercury was but a few degrees above zero. The firemen suffered intensely and many sustained severe frostbites.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Joseph Frankel, 6 years old, fell from the back porch of his home at Boston, 35 feet to the ground, and was instantly killed.

Damage to the extent of $10,000 to St. George's Episcopal church and parish house at Sanford, Me., was caused by fire. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Andrew Lucas, aged 63, for many years sexton of the Grace Congregational church, Holyoke, Mass., was found dead in the boiler room of the church. It is supposed that death was due to apoplexy.

There are no greater wretches in the world than many of those who people in general take to be happy.—Seneca.

NOT AGAINST RACING

But Hughes Strongly Objects to Race Track Gambling

A CURSE TO THE COUNTRY

Desire to Get Something For Nothing Leads to Moral Disorder—Favors Breed of Men as Well as Breed of Horses—New Law Recommended

New York, Feb. 3.—Governor Hughes made a trenchant plea for the abolition of race track gambling in a speech in the Majestic theatre at a mass meeting of the "Citizens' Anti-Race Track Gambling Campaign." The governor declared that the question of race track gambling was not a matter for the churches or for any particular sect of social reformers, but whether the constitution of the state of New York shall be enforced according to its letter and its spirit. Much had been heard, he said, about improving the breed of horses, which he was in favor of, but he was also in favor of improving the breed of men.

Joseph H. Choate presided over the meeting, which was largely attended by representative citizens. A resolution strongly supporting the governor and requesting the committees of the senate
and assembly to report three bills
to end race track gambling, which have been already drawn, was adopted.

Hughes sat sympathize very much with schemes of moral regeneration through legislation. We can accomplish a great deal by wise laws, but the impetus to moral movements must, as a rule, be given by the voluntary work of citizens who, with the force of conviction,
press their views upon the people,
awaken the consciences of the people
and secure that public sentiment according to which alone any true moral reform can be accomplished.

"I also have very little sympathy for an ambitious scheme for doing away
with all evil in the community at once.
We must be content with that steady,
though slow progress, which consists in moving forward and gaining step by step what is practical in the way of reform."

"There is a great deal that might be said with regard to the demoralization incident to widespread race track gambling. What we want to encourage in this country is the disposition to work,
to give an equivalent and to expect to get an equal return for every honest effort. The curse is the constant desire to get something for nothing; and with man or boy, if that microbe gets into the system there is going to be a bad case of moral disorder."

"I am not against racing; I am against race track gambling. If the one depends upon the other, I am sorry for that. I regret that; but that is no reason why we should have our constitution unrecognized and this widespread demoralization which could be so easily prevented. We will take care of agriculture. We will take care of county fairs; we will take care of every reasonable interest for the breeding of horses, and the care for all the interests of those who are engaged in legiti-mate sport. We have nothing against that."

"Let us take care of our manhood.
Let us take care of the enforcement of our fundamental law, and let from the state, the sentiment be expressed that the people desire the legislation which has proved ineffective—that puts it mildly—which has proved ineffectual, should be changed and supplanted by legislation which will make this evil no longer possible."

KING MANUEL SECOND

Youth of Nineteen Becomes the Ruler of Portugal

FRANCO REMAINS PREMIER

Details of Assassination of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz Shows It to Have Been Carefully Planned—Victims Rode in Open Carriage Without Military Escort and Queen and Youngest Son Miraculously Escaped Death—Fears That Tragedy Is a Prelude to National Disasters

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—A boy king, who henceforth will be known as Manuel II, is the ruler of the kingdom of Portugal, and the revolution into which the investigators of the bloody events of Saturday had hoped to plunge the country has not yet, at least, engulfed the nation. King Manuel II is in his 19th year.

Franco, the dictator and real commander of the country's destinies, whom the moral and physical might of all parties and powerful interests has not succeeded in destroying, still remains the triumphant leader, not only unconquered and unaffrighted, but retained in power by the new king, determined at all hazards and at all costs to prevent further violence and insurrection and to preserve the monarchy.

The only word of indication that universal order in Portugal had been possibly broken came from Oporto in the form of a rumor that a republic had been proclaimed there, but this was not confirmed. Lisbon, from a scene of revolutionary outbreaks, seems sincerely prostrated with grief. The streets are silent and the people, wearing emblems of mourning, sorrowfully discuss the murder of the king and the crown prince.

The cowardly shooting of the king in the back calls for the words of execration on the regicides, while the government declares that the murders will only strengthen the cause of the monarchy and ensure the fidelity of the people. The army apparently still is loyal, and no organized movement of the Republicans to launch a republic is under way, so far as outward appearances go.

National Disasters Feared
Nevertheless, subdued excitement pervades the city whose population still is fearful that Saturday's crimes will be followed by more bloodshed and are only the prelude to a series of national disasters.

The Republicans disclaim responsibility for the assassinations, which they lay at the doors of the anarchists, but the identification of a dead regicide as a cavalry sergeant is accepted by many officials as proof that the assassinations were the work of revolutionaries, who had successfully spread the propaganda, smuggled in arms and bombs, and who, headed by prominent Republicans, plotted to proclaim a republic a fortnight ago.

It is also recalled that it was officially given out by the police that an elaborate plot had been prepared for an uprising on Jan. 31, the anniversary of the revolt at Oporto, the plot including the assassination of Franco during the night, a general rising at daybreak, the cutting of all wires and the seizure of the reins of government.

While the bodies of the slain monarch and the crown prince rested on their biers in the royal palace surrounded by a guard of honor, Prince Manuel, yet in his teens, was solemnly proclaimed king by the council of state. Later his proclamation, swearing to promote the good of the fatherland and the integrity of the kingdom, was read to the people.

Story of Assassination
The accounts of spectators of the assassination vary, but it is established definitely that they occurred at the Praça do Commercio after the members of the royal family had embarked from the train at Barreiro and thence crossed the Tagus on a ferryboat to the Lisbon landing, where they entered a carriage and were driven off.

A smiling maiden had offered a beautiful bouquet of roses to the queen, and it was these that the queen later, in a flood of motherly instinct, vainly sought to protect her son from death. Manuel himself, his father and brother being mortally wounded, drew a revolver and fired repeatedly at the murderers until his arm was struck by an assassin's bullet.

Returning from a sojourn at the king's estate at Villa Vicosa, accompanied by the queen, the crown prince and the infant Manuel, the sovereign was seemingly in happy mood when he stepped into the carriage in waiting at the railroad station. Thousands of spectators, gaily attired, in combination with the bright decorations set out to welcome the royal family, made an animated scene.

The entire court, ministers and ladies in waiting and many army officers were in the station when the train, drawing the royal family pulled in. The weather was glorious and the sun was almost setting at the moment the royal party came back to Lisbon at the end of a day which was marked by the sternest of repressive measures.

Veritable Hail of Bullets
It was because of the beautiful weather that an open carriage was in waiting for the royal family, and when they took their places they were greeted with some lifting of hats, but mostly in silence. Then, as the carriage sharply turned Rua do Arsenal, there was a cracking of guns and a shower of bullets tore their way into the bodies of the king, Crown Prince Luiz Philippe and the little prince, who proved an easy target.

The assassins, numbering six in all, boldly ran up to the sides of the carriage and poured in a hail of lead before the stupefied escort could intervene. The king and crown prince, half rising, fell back into the cushions, the blood gushing from many wounds. The coachman brought his whip across the flanks of his horses, and with a bound they dashed away, disappearing in the arsenal quadrangle.

The panic-stricken people, who had fled on all sides, could see the queen leaning over the crown prince and her younger son, who was also bleeding from wounds made by the assassins' bullets.

How many shots were fired no one can say, but it was a veritable fusillade coming from the right side of the street. The effort of the crown prince, who was sitting opposite to the king, to rise, was pitiful and without avail, for he just lifted himself sufficiently to pitch forward and fall over the prostrate body of his father.

Queen Tried to Save Sons

Queen Amelie, uttering a scream that could be heard by all who had not become frenzied by the attack, threw herself towards her sons, shielding their bodies with her own. She frantically struck at the murderers with the bouquet of roses which she had been carrying, but, even in the face of this, the men fired again and again.

As he saw his father and brother fall, Prince Manuel whipped out a revolver and discharged it at the men, but was himself struck on the right arm by a bullet from a carbine. A footman in the carriage also was wounded, and it was stated that a bullet grazed the queen's shoulder but did not do her harm.

Only mounted police accompanied the carriage, as the king had refused military escort. The attack came from the rear, for it was found afterwards that the king had been shot in the back of the neck, and it was so entirely unexpected that the murderers had emptied their carbines and revolvers almost before the police knew what was going on and had turned to flee into the crowds, that, now panic-stricken, had pressed back before their weapons. Then the guard charged upon them, pursuing them down the streets and ridding three of them with bullets. Hundreds of people joined in the pursuit and the others of the band of assassins were made prisoners.

The royal carriage had by this time been driven into the quadrangle and the gates of the arsenal were shut. The grief of the queen and Prince Manuel was heart-breaking. Within a few minutes the queen mother, the Dowager Queen Maria Pia, the Duke of Oporto, the king's brother, and the ministers of state assembled, all weeping bitterly.

The Populace Panic-Stricken

The news of the assassination spread like wildfire, and thousands of people, bewildered and terrified, poured into the streets. Soon the troops and police occupied all the prominent places and the people hurried to their homes and barricaded the doors and windows, to await in fear the unknown future. The strictest measures were taken by the officers in charge of the troops to suppress the slightest sign of disorder, but their work was light. There have been no disturbances in Lisbon in the last twenty-four hours, and Sunday passed off only in the deepest gloom, with the populace mourning on every hand.

The bodies of the king and crown prince rest in the royal palace, and beside them the queen sat throughout the night, sometimes with her hand pressing the forehead of King Carlos and sometimes stroking the face of the dead crown prince.

Queen Amelie has received condolences from the rulers of many countries, and from every quarter comes evidence that the crime that has carried bereavement with it is viewed with horror.

The government has given out a statement that Saturday's events will only strengthen monarchistic sentiments, both among the civil and military classes of the nation, and that the discipline and temper of the troops is admirable and unflinching.

King Was an Athlete

Carlos I. was born Sept. 28, 1863, the son of King Luis I. and his queen, Maria Pia. He married Marie Amelie, daughter of Philippe Duc d'Orleans, on May 22, 1886. He succeeded to the throne Oct. 19, 1889. The crown prince, Luiz Philippe, Duke of Braganza, was born March 21, 1887.

King Carlos was a notable figure among the crowned heads of Europe. He was bon vivant and early showed a literary and artistic bent of mind. He was fond of music and was skillful with the brush. Despite the fact that he was very stout, the king was a great athlete, being particularly skillful as a swimmer and known as one of the most remarkable revolver shots in the world. He was fond of hunting and devoted a great deal of his time to that sport at his estate of Villa Vicosa. The king was devoted to Queen Amelie, who was famous as the most beautiful queen in Europe.

Of the crown prince little is known except that he appeared to be very different from his father in disposition. It recently was reported that the crown prince had had a disagreement with the king over the abdication of Carlos in favor of his son and that the crown prince had been banished from Lisbon, but this was denied and shortly after the circulation of this report the two were seen in close companionship.

EDITORIAL.

Congratulations to the new city officials who enter upon their duties today. They owe it to Mayor Shea and the taxpayers to "make good," and there seems a disposition to reserve judgment until they have had a fair trial. With limited resources and other handicaps it is not possible to accomplish everything, or to please everybody, but all appropriations should be expended economically, and faithful service rendered and required of employees. Much depends on the department officials for the success of the administration of Mayor Shea.

One of the most important measures for the city government of 1908 is the completion of the new Coddington schoolhouse. An appropriation of $70,000 was made in 1907 and the city is now paying interest on that amount, but a start cannot be made on the building because no builder will take the contract as low. A few thousand dollars more will be required, and an order for $10,000 referred from the Council of 1907 is now pending.

The necessity of a better schoolhouse has long been apparent, and the reasons need not be repeated now, except that there are new ones. The old building has been moved onto the dump in the rear of the old site, and is not as accessible as it was before. Before the cold weather the ground about the building were so muddy that it was necessary to build a long plank walk to reach it. Abutting the rear of the building is a pond. The old wooden fire escape in the rear was a death trap before removal, but it is now more dangerous.

The sanitary closets are in the basement of the big building which is practically unheated, and the pupils to reach the basement have to go through halls which are so cold that the water at the sink has to be shut off so it will not freeze. Nearly every morning this cold weather, the janitor finds it necessary to thaw out some of the closets. The floors of the rooms are in poor condition, and difficult to keep clean. It is the only school building in Quincy heated by stoves, and some of these cold days it is necessary to gather the children about the stoves to keep warm.

The building has no ventilation except the windows, so that it is necessary to stop work and have gymnastics while the windows are opened to ventilate.

Into the nine rooms—six in the main building and three in the annex—are crowded nearly 600 pupils. In one room there are 60 children and in another over 70, which is so crowded that the teacher can hardly move around her desk. Because of the crowded condition about 50 Coddington pupils are attending the Cranch and other buildings. Early in the spring families move to Houghs Neck and send their children to the Coddington. The needs of a new Coddington were more urgent than the Washington at the time the latter was built. They were more imperative than for the new school at Atlantic, and the parents of Ward One have certainly been meek in presenting their claims. It would be an object lesson for anyone to visit the Coddington. They would quickly be convinced of the need for action. The Daily Ledger understands that no Councilman has entered the building since the school opened in September. The arrangements are an injustice to teachers and pupils, and there are no incentives to do good work. A visitor from out of town remarked recently that the building should belong to the Massachusetts Historical Society. It was built in 1855 and has outgrown its usefulness.

The City Council of 1908 should without delay provide the additional money necessary that the building may be completed this year. It should be ready for occupancy at Christmas time at the latest.

The Observations
In the Daily Walk

"H Candelmas day be dry and fair,
The half o' winter's to come and mair;
H Candelmas day be wet and foul,
The half o' winter's gone at Yule."

Sun rise at 6.57; sun set at 5.00.
City Council tonight.

Harry Gould is quite ill, at his home on Wibird Street.

Francis Baxter and family of Washington street, this city, have moved to North Weymouth.

Mrs. Joseph Newcomb, of South Braitree, is entertaining a few lady friends from this city today.

A. B. Olson has moved his blacksmith shop from Washington street, Quincy Point, to 42 Copeland street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Startevant of Adams street left last week for a few weeks' sojourn in the southern states.

Henry Trask of Washington street had the misfortune a few nights ago to fall, breaking his left arm in two places.

The lowest noon temperature in February for five years was 10 above in 1903. Last February the noon extremes were 30 and 16.

Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, met this afternoon with the regent, Miss Annie L. Prescott of Spear street.

Mrs. Annie G. Grignon will entertain a party of lady friends at her home on Safford street, Wollaston, on Wednesday afternoon.

William Ward of Washington street has returned from a business trip to Michigan and reports business dull and very quiet.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge will work the degree on several candidates at its meeting in I. O. O. F. hall on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Katharine Cotter has returned to her home on Penn Street, after a successful operation at the City Hospital, and is rapidly improving.

A meeting of the Day Nursery association will be held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Alice Keith Prescott, 41 Spear street. A full attendance is hoped for.

Charles Leavitt, who has been confined to the Boston City Hospital the past six weeks, by sickness, returned to his home on Washington street Saturday.

Richard Reynolds, father of Dr. John P. Reynolds of West Quincy, died at Woburn, on Saturday, of pneumonia. He leaves besides his son, a widow and three daughters.

The monthly social and business meeting of the Wollaston Epworth League will be held Thursday evening, Feb. 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Estey.

Sunday was Candelmas day. It was certainly "dry and fair," so half the winter is yet to come. The ground hog, if he took a squint abroad on Sunday, evidently saw his shadow, an omen of bad weather coming, and dodged back to sleep again.

Those wishing to spend a pleasant evening, should not forget the entertainment to be given by the Dorothy Dix children of Boston, under the auspices of the Reapers' Circle, at the parish house of Christ Episcopal church, on Thursday evening, at 8.

A Daily Ledger reader finds that today's weather is nearly a repetition of Feb. 3, 1791, when the mercury stood at 4 above at 7 A. M., 23 above at 1 P. M. and 12 above at 9 P. M. The wind was south-south-west and fair.

An incandescent electric light has been placed on Washington street, near the residence of N. B. Fernald. It has been a long felt want as the street has been very dark and dangerous, especially when the trees were leafed out, and it is more than appreciated by the large number of people who are obliged to be out after dark.

Wollaston whist players showed up well in the tournament at Cambridge Saturday for the Commercial Travelers' trophy. Plus scores were made by A. C. Hill and E. E. Hoxie, J. H. Broughton and W. O. Hewes, F. T. James and H. P. Fitton, G. E. Thompson and F. A. Wilcox.

The M. I. T. team of which Carl W. Gram of Wollaston is the B. A. A. games against Williams. In the 45-yd. dash Gram won his heat, and also in the first round of the semi-finals, but lost in the final heat. (His best time was 4 4-5 seconds.

Chinamen on Trial.

The second trial of the nine Chinamen, charged with shooting up Chinatown during the Old Home Week, was opened up again today at a special session of the superior criminal court in Boston.

Original Minstrelsy.

The Men's Club of Christ Church announce their fourth annual show, "Original Minstrelsy," to be given at Music Hall, Feb. 28. Those who were present at their annual minstrel show last year, will look forward to this event with pleasant expectations, and as the managers promise that this show is to be the finest that the Men's Club has ever held. Music Hall already promises to be packed to the doors. Mr. Henry Nelson of Winthrop is in charge, and the show will abound in novelties and surprises. Further announcements will be made from time to time.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all the stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical profession. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 15c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation. Jan. 21, 1 m.

Newsy Budget
From Shipyard

The sixty foot extension which has been put onto the building in which the submarine boats are constructed, is complete.

Work has been completed on the job of leveling and fixing the cement foundation for the ground ways of the four submarine boats of the Octopus type, also the leveling and fixing of the 40 foot cement foundation for the ground ways of the three 12 submarine boats.

United States Scout Cruiser Chester, building at the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., will have her trials over the Rockland course beginning Wednesday, Feb. 12.

H. H. Schulze of the estimating department has been in New York on a business trip.

A dispatch from Newcastle-on-Tyne states that the ship builders on the northeast coast have given notice that the services of all workmen will be dispensed with after Feb. 15. This is the outcome of a strike started Jan. 22.

The new first-class battleship Mississippi went into commission Saturday at the League Island Navy Yard. Her executive officer is Lieut. Commander, S. E. W. Kittell.

The Herald bureau at Washington reports that a tilt is on between the Isthmian canal commission and some of the Massachusetts men in Congress over the proposed purchase of the Shawmut and the Tremont from the Boston Towboat Company, of which Alfred Winsor is president. Some of the canal authorities declare the boats are top small for the service, and that Senator Lodge is marshalling the influence of the administration against the canal commission in the interests of a Bay State corporation.

To this the reply is made that the commission prefers foreign bottoms as it prefers to purchase foreign material because in the long run it is cheaper to buy in foreign markets, also that the two boats, which have long been in the oriental trade are admirably fitted for the use of the canal authorities and even if a little too small for use on the Atlantic, are plenty large for use on the Pacific.

A hearing on the proposed purchase has been set for next Thursday before the Senate committee on inter-oceanic canals.

The House sub-committee on naval affairs will have a hearing Monday on the bill to purchase three colliers from the New England Coal & Coke Company.

TODAY'S COURT.

Oliver Sullivan was fined $50 for violation of liquor law at Holbrook.
Laurence A. McCarthy and Michael F. Murphy were fined $5 each for trespass, and $5 each for engaging in a game of basket ball on the Lordsday at Milton.

Origin of Precious Ores.

Men sometimes dream of enormous wealth stored deep in the earth, below the reach of miners; but, according to an eminent geologist, there is little or no ground to believe that valuable metallic deposits lie very deep in the earth's crust. Such deposits, according to this authority, are made by underground waters, and owing to the pressure on the rocks at great depths the waters are confined to a shell near the surface. With few exceptions ore deposits become too lean to repay working below 3,000 feet. Nine mines in ten, taking the world as a whole, are poorer in the second thousand feet than in the first thousand and poorer yet in the third thousand than in the second.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Would Be Deadhead.

(Original.)

A railroad conductor's life is hard enough anyway, but when it comes to making a policeman of himself, in putting off unruly passengers or those who won't pay, it's the meanest job in the world. But when a conductor finds that in putting a man off the train he's been making a fool of himself it's meaner than the meanest job in the world. Besides, there are robberies in which any one of the train force is liable to get a bullet through him.

I'd narrowly escaped death when my train was robbed back in the nineties and on my next trip was mightily disgruntled when on asking a seedy looking man for his ticket he offered me a dirty old pasteboard that hadn't been good for a year. I told him it wouldn't do and asked him to pay his fare. At first he said he hadn't any money, but presently felt in his pockets and drew out some loose change, just enough to take him to a way station about half the distance he wanted to go. Of course I was obliged to carry him as far as he could pay, but I expected to have trouble with him sooner or later, and I did. As we neared the station to which he had paid his way I said to him:

"I want to know if you're going to pay for the rest of your ride. If you're not, I want you to get off here. I won't put you off in a wilderness. I prefer to do so at a station."

"The ticket I showed you is good," he said, "and you've no right to refuse it. I'm going to stay aboard this train."

We were slowing up for the station, and as soon as we stopped I tackled him. He didn't resist till I got him on to the car platform, where half a dozen countrymen at the station could see us, but then he put up a strong fight. He held on to the rail with one hand and pummeled me with the other. It occurred to me that he was aiming to excite the sympathy of the men looking on and if I didn't want their interference I'd better do my work pretty quick. I made two or three terrific jerks and got him down on to the lower step of the car, and then he got a new grip, and I had a hard tussle to get him any farther. When I finally dug him on to the station platform my uniform coat was torn to shreds, my cap was knocked down over my eyes and my nose was bleeding.

By this time the onlookers began to take notice of what was going on. They were most of them a bad looking lot. Indeed, it was suspected that the town had harbored the men who had robbed my train. It was plain that they sympathized with the man who wouldn't pay his fare and were about to make a combined rush for me when I pulled the rope and the train started on. I looked back to see my passenger angrily pointing to me as if exciting them to avenge him.

On my return trip, preferring not to have any more scrambles, as we passed the station where I had had the trouble I kept dark, for I fully expected that my deadhead would be there with supporters to give me a thrashing. I was disappointed, however, for there was no one at the station except a student and a passenger or two to board the train. I questioned them about my man, and they said the townspeople had befriended him, that he was still there and showed no signs of leaving.

In a few days I was surprised to get a note from the superintendent expressing regret at the trouble I had had and inclosing a check as compensation. I had made no report of the matter and was at a loss to know who had told him of it.

When several of the men who had robbed my train were arrested some five or six weeks later my episode with the deadhead had pretty much passed out of my mind, though by no means out of my remembrance. It turned out that, as suspected, the robbers had been harbored in the town where I had put him off and that several of them lived there. These were the ones arrested. They woke up one fine morning, having slept the night in fancied security, to be taken in custody by a police force sent out by special train that arrived at dawn. Their arrest led to the arrest of others, and a great deal of the plunder they had taken was recovered.

One day I was in the general offices of the company attending to some business connected with my duties when the door of the general manager's private office opened and a man came out whose face was familiar to me. He was well dressed and presented altogether an appearance of prosperity. Seeing me, he walked up to me with outstretched hand and a peculiar smile on his face.

"I can't place you," I said, looking at him inquiringly.

"Can't you? You ought to remember me. You put me off your train one day for not paying my fare."

Gradually it came to me that he was the seedy deadhead. My impressions of him as he was in his good clothes slowly faded into what he was when I put him off. Then he gave me an explanation.

"I am a detective of the company. I wanted an excuse to go into the town which I suspected had harbored the robbers of your train. The best way I could think of and one well calculated to secure the sympathy and confidence of the townspeople was to get put off the train there for not paying my fare. I stayed with them three weeks and organized a gang to rob another train. That's how I got on to the culprits."

CARRYING THE ARCTIC MAIL.

Hardships of a Postman With a Route 1,190 Miles Long.

James Cornwall, a hardy and experienced fur trader, left Edmonton for Canada, his destination being well into the arctic circle, says the San Francisco Call. Cornwall has secured a contract for carrying the mail to the few scattered inhabitants of those northern wilds. A distance of 1,190 miles will be traversed before he reaches the end of his journey at Fort McPherson, on the Mackenzie river.

With the exception of the first 100 miles, when horses will be used, the entire trip will be made by dog trails, the driver securing relays of fresh dogs at postoffice en route. At times the thermometer will be 40 degrees below zero, and fierce blizzards are frequent in that district during the winter months. Dangers of all kinds will be met every mile of the arduous journey, and, if history repeats itself, he will lose at least one-third of the mail matter before his task is half over.

Cornwall will be unable to pack sufficient food for the long trail and will have to rely on his rifle for his daily meat. The dogs will be fed on tallow and fish.

At night the hardy mail man will erect a canvas shelter, make tea from snow water, and after a frugal meal, from which bread and other luxuries will be excluded, he will creep into his sleeping bag.

Despite the great distance, there are only eleven postoffices between Athabasca Landing and Fort McPherson, and in order to accommodate settlers, who in many cases would have to travel hundreds of miles to secure their mail, the carrier is empowered to deliver precious letters to them. The weight of each letter is restricted to one ounce.

UNITED WORLD PREDICTED.

National Patriotism to Give Way to World Patriotism, Says E. D. Mead.

"National patriotism will one day give way to 'world patriotism' just as state rights have given way to a broader national feeling," was the assertion recently made by Edwin D. Mead of Boston in an address at the City Club of Philadelphia, says a special dispatch to the New York Times.

Mr. Mead spoke on "The Second Hague Conference and Afterward." He said: "We are coming to a time when there will be a 'united world' just as there is a United States. We will be citizens of the world and think of the good of all humanity first, not of our own particular nation. The world will come first and country second."

"The United States is a prototype of the federation of the world. Bishop Harrington of England made the statement not long ago that this nation is the greatest peace society in the world because of its own organization. The same principles need to be put into the organization of the nations."

"One fault that should be remedied at future conferences was the appointment of a chairman by the power which called the assembly. I learned in Washington the other day that arbitration treaties similar to the ones negotiated by Secretary Hay and rejected by the senate are again being drawn up and are practically sure of ratification."

VIVISECTION OF FELONS.

Surgeon Thinks Incurable Might Be Benefit to Science.

Dr. G. H. Quay, dean of the Cleveland (O.) Homeopathic Medical school, recently urged vivisection of criminals and of incurable youths for the benefit of science, says a Cleveland special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Of what use to the world is the habitual lawbreaker?" he asked.

"Is he not a public charge, a burden to society? Isn't it better that he be placed under the care of skilled surgeons and bacteriologists, that medical science may benefit? Much more intelligent and accurate results might be obtained from the use of human beings than from the use of dogs, rabbits and such animals."

Dining Room Novelty.

A spoon rack is something new. Where the wainscot or furniture of the dining room is of Flemish oak one of these in a panel effect to hang on the wall is distinguished by Bavarian hand carving, the wood a deep smoke brown and the design antique and of Venetian suggestion, says Vogue. There are pegs that hold between them six pewter spoons eight inches in length, with round bowls and apostle tops. It of course could be used for a collection of handsome silver spoons of old shapes and foreign origin.

The New Surgery.

In a short time, according to a prominent surgeon, it will be a common thing to transplant with success the vital organs of lower animals to a man's body. Bill Smith was in a railroad wreck—the cars were ground to matches—and when the surgeons got to him Bill Smith was mostly patches. But soon with pair of rabbit's ears Bill Smith was keenly harking. While lungs from out a setter dog had set Bill Smith a-barking.

The doctors solved most capably the missing stomach question. Two tomcats from a milky cow built up Bill Smith's digestion. And when a horse contributed (with no thanks to the giver) Bill Smith would not have taken back his ancient faulty liver.

A pair of cat's eyes tickled Bill and fixed him up completely. And he could see in blackest night and dodged his light bills neatly. And when folks asked him he was pleased with all his borrowed tackle. Bill Smith would just throw back his head and give an old hen

CITY COUNCIL

Throw Down Plans For Coddington School Building Adopted Last Year

There was a lively debate at Monday night's meetings of the City Council between Councilmen Bryant, Gelotte and Whiton over the Coddington school matter. The debate came on the report of the majority of the Finance Committee substituting the plans of Hurd and Gore of the Atlantic school for those of Charles A. Brigham.

Councilman Gelotte offered a minority report favoring the order for $10,000 additional for the Brigham plans, but the majority report prevailed.

APPOINTMENTS.

A communication was received from the Mayor announcing the balance of his appointments of City officials. Placed on file. The list was the same as published in the Daily Ledger of Saturday.

SCHOOL BUDGET.

A communication was received from the School Committee forwarding its estimate of sums needed for the department for 1908 as follows:

Salaries,	19'8	1907
Janitors,	$107,500	$101,105
Books, Supplies, etc.,	9,650	8,872
Fuel,	10,000	10,000
Transportation,	7,000	7,000
Rent,	1,000	1,100
Evening schools,	300	1,000
Total	1,200	1,600
	$137,340	$131,062

Referred to the Finance Committee.

WEIGHERS OF COAL.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing John Harkins, Frank W. Nightingale, John McLaughlin and George W. Rockwell as constables and L. S. Anderson, W. H. Hildreth and E. L. Blaisdell as weighers of coal. Confirmed.

A communication was received from the Harbor and Land Commissioners giving notice of the hearing on the petition of Peter T. Fallon to build a bridge over Town river. Referred to Committee on Legislative Matters.

PETITIONS.

From the Quincy Savings Bank for a refund of half cost of sidewalk on Hancock street. Referred to the Finance Committee.

From the New England Telephone Co., for a location for poles on Whitwell street. Referred to the Committee on Streets.

From the New England Telephone Co., for attachments on Old Colony avenue, Standish avenue, Billings road and Holmes street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for a sewer on Pleasant street. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

A petition was received for a cross walk at the junction of Quincy and Pleasant streets and Jackson and Pleasant streets. Also for an arc light on Pleasant street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses including one from Louis Blizzero to transport liquor. Referred to License Committee.

A petition for a light on Common street was referred to the Executive department.

A petition to accept Franklin street, Ward Five, was referred to the Committee on Streets.

The Electric Light Co., petitioned for a location for poles on Rogers and North Payne streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received asking that in the abolition of the grade crossing at Water street that the present street lines be maintained. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A public hearing was held at 7:45 o'clock on petitions of the New England Telephone Co., for attachments and location of poles.

Maurice Spillane objected to another line of poles being erected on Field street. If the present line of poles of the Electric Light Co., was to be abandoned he would not object.

Mr. Greene of the Telephone company informed him that the Electric Light poles were to be removed. The hearing then closed.

REPORTS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order making certain transfers in the Fire Department appropriation of 1907. Report accepted and order passed.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order appropriating $6,000 for house connections with the sewer. The amendment added the borrowing clause. Rules suspended and order passed.

CODDINGTON SCHOOL.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order for the order appropriating $10,000 additional for the Coddington school. The substitute order provided that the building should be built according to the plans and specifications of Hurd & Gore, by which the Atlantic school building was built, excepting that the staircases should be of iron instead of wood and that the hall should be finished. It is also provided that the sum of $70,000 appropriated last year to build the school by plan of Charles A. Brigham be expended under this order.

Councilman Gelotte offered a minority report which added a borrowing clause to the order for $10,000 and that the order as so amended ought to pass.

Councilman Gelotte spoke at length in favor of the minority report. The plans had been gone into thoroughly last year. The building was made to fit the lot. The bids were too high and this year the Public Buildings Committee, with the School Committee, had gone over the matter carefully. It was found that cuts could be made that would reduce the cost $1,600, but it was not thought to be good policy to do it.

The $10,000 will leave the Mayor of any kind should dominate, then the people need expect nothing else than confusion worse confounded, and out of the disgust of failure would come renewed indifference to municipal government. The people would simply say, "What's the use?" and quit.

Most of the ills from which we have suffered in municipal government in the past have been due to the lack of interest on the part of the majority of the people, and in many cases they have been the very people who have most enthusiastically favored this new scheme. We would like to impress upon them this fact, that a mere change in system will accomplish nothing. The responsibility primarily still remains with the people. It would be thoroughly, un-American if it did not so remain. It is therefore up to them to justify the experiment upon which we have entered.

Responsibility Of The Parent

An open letter of a Wollaston pastor to the Boston Record on "The Parents' Responsibility" is worthy of more than a passing thought. He says:

Your correspondent from Mattapan, writing on the subject "The Duty of Clergymen," says some things that I used to believe when first I entered the ministry.

It always seemed to me that the clergy had much influence with the youth, of a place, sufficient in fact to mould their lives in the right direction. Two and a half years in the ministry have made me change my mind. It has occurred to me that no clergyman under whom I sat moulded my life for me. Good influence was exerted by many men of the cloth, but it was not the influence of the clergy that made me wish to lead a life well pleasing to God, and of service to my fellow men.

The influence that caused this desire was the influence that was exerted in my home by my mother. And that is where the influence that counts is exerted. My experience as a clergyman teaches me that the responsibility for the welfare of the youth in the parish does not rest wholly upon the clergyman.

It rests upon those who have brought the youth into this world. When a man so far forgets himself as to be in the home the beast that he condemns when on the street he cannot expect his children to be anything else when the opportunity offers.

It is mighty easy to cast the burden on the clergyman, the public is always ready to take sides with a man when the men of the church are being arraigned, but if the thing of responsibility for the corruptness of the youth be taken to the last analysis, you will find that the parents, are the guilty ones. When parents show their disregard for church by remaining away from its services, how can they expect the clergyman to have an effective influence over their children? And when the clergyman has from eight to nine hundred souls to take care of, how much time can he spend with each individual soul? Some families have 12 or 13 children, we know. But if the clergy can be responsible for all the youths, as your Mattapan correspondent thinks they are, how is it possible for him to wield as much influence over all the youth in the parish as the parents can over their particular youth at home?

If an appeal is to be made to men of influence to bring to an end the lawlessness in Boston and its environs, the appeal should be made to parents of all degrees and classes. The influence of the home is the primary influence. It is the first child has, and the one that sticks longest. The child is five or six years of age before it is placed in the way of any other influence. Make the parents realize their responsibility and you have done much to lesson crime and to start an era of good citizenship.

A. Edwin Clattenburg, Wollaston, Feb. 1.

HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

Friends of the Commission Plan In Des Moines Are Disheartened

Everything depends on the beginning, says the Republican of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in commenting on the new form of city government. The editorial of Jan. 23 is given in full:

Two cities of Iowa have voted in favor of the commission plan of government. Two others have rejected it. It is intimated by people in Sioux City and Davenport, where the plan was rejected, that the horrible example furnished by Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, the two cities voting to go under the plan, was a determining factor.

But it is scarcely possible that this could be the case, for neither Des Moines nor Cedar Rapids has done anything so far that constitutes an approach to a test. It is said, however, and Des Moines we understand does not deny this, that the friends of the commission plan in the Capital city are thoroughly disheartened by reason of their failure to induce the men they hoped would take office under the new plan to permit their names to be used in connection with places on the commission, and that the expectation is that what is known as "the gang" will organize the new scheme of city government. In Cedar Rapids there is no such feeling of discouragement and no reason for it, albeit outsiders point the finger of scorn at us because of the multiplicity of candidates.

This much must be apparent to everybody, however, viz., that the success or failure of the new plan will depend almost entirely upon the beginning made. The change of system is quite radical. The several departments will have to be organized "from the ground up," as it were. There will be numerous legacies from former administrations in the way of indebtedness and one thing and another—evils inherent in the old system, which will have to be taken into account in the reorganization scheme.

Manifestly the work calls for both ability and courage—ability to see just what ought to be done in order to put the city's affairs upon a business basis, and courage to do what ever needs to be done along this line irrespective of any complaints of a personal nature which may be made—and it goes without saying that there will be many of these. The first commission will have time to do little more than to get things fairly under way under the new form of government.

If the commissioners are men of ability and patriotism, we have no doubt that they will be able to make a showing at the end of two years that will not only cause the people to be glad they made the change, but they will have perfected such an organization that it will be easy to go ahead and do business in the future.

It, however, the new experiment should be entrusted to divided councils, or if perchance selfish interests of the kind should dominate, then the people need expect nothing else than confusion worse confounded, and out of the disgust of failure would come renewed indifference to municipal government. The people would simply say, "What's the use?" and quit.

Most of the ills from which we have suffered in municipal government in the past have been due to the lack of interest on the part of the majority of the people, and in many cases they have been the very people who have most enthusiastically favored this new scheme. The influence of the home is the primary influence. It is the first child has, and the one that sticks longest. The child is five or six years of age before it is placed in the way of any other influence. Make the parents realize their responsibility and you have done much to lesson crime and to start an era of good citizenship.

of any kind should dominate, then the people need expect nothing else than confusion worse confounded, and out of the disgust of failure would come renewed indifference to municipal government. The people would simply say, "What's the use?" and quit.

Most of the ills from which we have suffered in municipal government in the past have been due to the lack of interest on the part of the majority of the people, and in many cases they have been the very people who have most enthusiastically favored this new scheme. We would like to impress upon them this fact, that a mere change in system will accomplish nothing. The responsibility primarily still remains with the people. It would be thoroughly, un-American if it did not so remain. It is therefore up to them to justify the experiment upon which we have entered.

FRANCO DISAPPEARS

Former Premier of Portugal
Realized Life Was Not Safe

KILLING OF ROYAL FAMILY

Would Have Been Accomplished Had Not Those Assigned to Slay Queen and Youngest Son Failed to Carry Out Their Bloody Task

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—Under a new regime,
with a new king and the establishment of a new cabinet, Portugal seems to be for the moment at peace. There is an underlying current of revolution, however, and the strictest measures are being taken to preserve order. An official statement was given out that perfect order exists throughout Portugal.
Franco, the once dictator, was forced to resign because of the bitterness of the people against him, and the new cabinet will strive for the welfare of the fatherland under the presidency of Rear Admiral do Amaral. Another official statement was given out that the president of the cabinet will be supported by all the groups of monarchists
who have agreed to forget previous differences.

The situation for Premier Franco, after the assassination of the king and crown prince, became impossible. During the days which preceded the manifestations on the streets, with the later discoveries of vast stores of arms and bombs, public opinion backed him in his efforts to maintain order, but the murders changed the entire complexion of the situation. He has not been seen on the streets since his meeting with the king immediately after the latter's arrival from Villa Vicosa, but all possible places where he might have been seen were closely watched and guarded.

The new cabinet, which is composed of the strongest members of various factions, but all opposed to Franco, has drawn to it a strong patriotic supporting movement.

Word has been received here that a British fleet, the number of vessels not being stated, passed Oporto yesterday,
bound for Lisbon.

The investigations of the police show that the murders were carefully planned. On Saturday the assassins secretly in the back room of a cafe
and there laid out every step of the plot,
which they were enabled to do, for all the details relating to the homecoming of the king had been made public. To each was assigned a post in the work of shooting down the members of the royal family, but lots were drawn for the selection of each particular victim.
Those who drew Queen Amelie and Prince Manuel failed to carry out their bloody task.

The chamber in the palace where the bodies of King Carlos and the crown prince repose has been draped in mourning and arranged to resemble a chapel.
The biers are surrounded by lighted candles and Queen Amelie, widow of the king, and the dowager queen, Maria Pia, his mother, watch continually by the side of their dead. The body of the king is clad in the uniform of the commander-in-chief of the army, while the prince wears a uniform of a captain of the second lanciers.

The new king is only 18 years of age.
He was born in Lisbon on Nov. 15,
1889. His full name is Manuel Maria
Philippe Carlos Amalia Luiz Miguel
Gonzaga Xavier Francisco d'Assisi Eugenio, Duke of Beja. He was educated in the palace under distinguished private instructors, and at the age of 14 years he entered the navy as a mid-shipman. He is now a lieutenant. He is much liked by the people.
Unlike most of the people of his race,
he has a fair complexion, with blonde hair, and is handsome. He was named after Dom Miguel the Fortunate,
who was King of Portugal from 1802
to 1821, a period which was one of the most prosperous epochs in the history of the country. Manuel II is said to be of a retiring disposition, but possessed of qualities that would make him a determined ruler.

Censorship Appears Ominous

London, Feb. 4.—The morning newspapers are practically without Lisbon dispatches today, except those supplied by a semi-official news agency.
This indicates that a severe censorship
has been imposed.

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Lisbon telegraphically wired at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon: "Impossible to send news." The inference drawn by The Daily Mail and the other newspapers is that there is something serious to conceal, otherwise there would be no need to maintain such a strict censorship.

Dispatches to The Associated Press
from Lisbon announce the completion of the new ministry and the continuance of the preparations for the funeral, and on the authority of the new minister, deny that any revolution
has broken out in Oporto or elsewhere.

Not Victims of Anarchists

Paris, Feb. 4.—The Temps declares that the king and his family were the victims not of an anarchistic outrage,
out of a vast complot organized by all factions in the dynastic and Republican parties, and that the political leaders in Portugal have incurred indeed a heavy responsibility. Spanish troops are forming a military barrier at the frontier and no person is allowed to enter or leave Portugal without being subject to the strictest scrutiny.

Hungarian Deputies' Attitude

Budapest, Feb. 4.—The Hungarian chamber of deputies refused to vote a motion condoning with the royal family
of Portugal in the death of King Carlos.
The majority in the chamber voted,
however, for a substitute as follows:
"The views of the Hungarian parliament on freedom are such that the house could not dedicate a posthumous resolution to a king who had abolished constitutional government and instituted a dictatorship."

Open Demonstrations of Joy

Cape Town, Feb. 4.—A dispatch received from Delagoa Bay, Portuguese East Africa, says that Portuguese Republicans and adventurers are openly demonstrating their joy at the assassination of King Carlos and the crown prince and exulting in the crown
prince and exulting in the crown

Tax on Tobacco Prize Coupons

Washington, Feb. 4.—Representative Tawney (Minn.) reopened his fight on the alleged tobacco trust by reintroducing his bill to impose a federal tax on the issuance of all prize coupons accompanying cigars and packages of tobacco in what ever form; also snuff. This bill passed the house in the Fifty-Sixth congress, but failed in the senate. Ta-wney reintroduced it in the Fifty-Seventh congress and it was shelved in the committee on ways and means after a favorable sub-committee report had been made on it.

Alienists Call on Thaw

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 4.—A brief examination and observation of the mental condition of Harry K. Thaw, now confined in Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane, was held yesterday by Dr. Ferriss, president of the New York state lunacy commission, and Dr. Lamb, superintendent of the institution. The examination was of a preliminary character, Thaw and the physicians talking casually together for about half an hour.

Snowstorm Overwhelmed Soldiers

Al-Sefra, Algeria, Feb. 4.—At least twenty-one men of the Twentieth company of the Foreign Legion perished in a blinding snowstorm which overtook
the soldiers on their way to Fort Hassa.
The entire company became separated,
and later searchers recovered the bodies of twenty-one of them. A section of the company succeeded in reaching Fort Hassa in a pitiable condition, but many are unaccounted for.

Knickerbocker Depositors "Lost"

New York, Feb. 4.—Notwithstanding the efforts of postoffice department authorities and a force of sixty canvassers employed by the reorganization committee, 330 depositors of the suspended Knickerbocker Trust company, with deposits aggregating $700,000, cannot be found. The assent of these missing de-positors are needed to make effective the plan for reorganization of the institution.

Anti-Smoking Ordinance Vetoed

New York, Feb. 4.—The ordinance
recently passed by the board of aldermen forbidding women from smoking
in public places was vetoed by Mayor McClellan, who holds that the aldermen have no power to make such law.
The ordinance was designed to make proprietors of hotels, restaurants and other places liable to fines for permitting their women guests to smoke.

Widows' Pension Bill Passed

Washington, Feb. 4.—The house,
with one dissenting vote, passed a general widows' pension bill granting a flat pension of $12 a month to the widows of all honorably discharged soldiers of the United States who have not heretofore received the benefits of the pension law, and an increase of $4
a month for those who have under the act of June 27, 1890.

Trying His Own Medicine

Toledo, Feb. 4.—Handcuffed and shackled, Police Judge Austin was carried to the patrol wagon and taken to the workhouse, where he will serve a short time with the inmates for the experience to be gained. The judge sentenced himself to the workhouse because he wanted to learn from experience what punishment he was imposing on others.

Chris Von Der Ahe Bankrupt

St. Louis, Feb. 4.—A petition in voluntary bankruptcy has been filed by Chris Von Der Ahe, for many years a principal figure in the baseball world and owner of the St. Louis American team from its organization in 1876 until his retirement in 1898. According to the petition he has but $200 assets to offset $27,805 liabilities.

Rewards For Faithful Service

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The Pullman Palace Car company yesterday distributed $174,850 among 3770 employees of its car service department. The bonus amounts to one month's salary for every conductor and porter who continued on the payroll of the company throughout 1907 and escaped demerits.

Railroad in Receiver's Hands

Macon, Ga., Feb. 4.—On the petition of the Old Colony Trust company of Boston the Macon and Birmingham railroad was placed in the hands of a receiver by Judge Ellis. The application for a receivership was the result of the company's acknowledged inability to meet payments.

Settlers Need Assistance

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Minister of Finance Fielding presented to parliament an estimate for $2,850,000 for the purchase of seed grain for the settlers of Alberta and Saskatchewan whose crops were a failure last season. The money will be a lien on the land at 5 percent until repaid.

MESSAGE DISCUSSED

Cockran Refers to the President
as a Crusader

THE REPUBLICANS' ONLY ONE

His Nomination Would Be Personal
D honor, but Democrats, He Says,
Have as Able a Champion of Law
and Order in Bryan

Washington, Feb. 4.—Three of the leaders in the house of representatives had their innings yesterday. Technically the Indian appropriation bill was under discussion, but legislation was relegated to the background and national politics were discussed.

The political debate was opened by Mr. Townsend of Michigan, who, in a prepared speech, claimed for the Republican party credit for all national legislation in the last fifty years of vital interest to the public.

In this he was vigorously disputed by Mr. Cockran of New York, who afterward launched into a discussion of the president's message of a few days ago
his remarks frequently evoking applause on both sides of the chamber.
He spoke of the president's love of justice and said that it had been charged that the president was indiscreet.

"Can it be taken as a reproach
against any public servant," he asked,
"that his love of justice is so strong that it does not comport with the interests of the people?" He referred to President Roosevelt as a crusader, "the only one the Republicans had," but he said the president was disqualified.
"His nomination by you or us," he continued, "would be personal dishonor."

The president, Cockran said, had renounced the field of politics and had taken a noble position before the civilized world. Never before in the history of the country, he said, had a president who was the object of the bitterest attacks, and was hated as no public officer ever before was hated, been able to practically fix the conditions upon which the parties would contend. Loud applause greeted this remark and the one which followed that there was "a Democratic crusader in Mr. Bryan."

Mr. Cockran then said: "We have a crusader as to whom there is some doubt as to whether he is not too strenuous.
I opposed him in the past. I might still oppose him, but I believe this message has outlined the conditions under which he becomes the fore-ordained champion of law and order." The applause which this utterance evoked among the Democrats was so great that it was some time before Cockran could proceed.

Still referring to Bryan, Cockran
continued that if he (Bryan) declared himself the champion of the principles which were directly and indirectly embodied in the president's message, "if he represents the determination to prosecute malefactors for their crimes
and if a rigorous enforcement of the law should result in congesting the criminal courts, then the plunderers of millions will be given precedence in the pathway to prison over the plunders of pennies."

Mr. Hepburn also defended the president's message and said that condemnation of it came only from the great malefactors of the age "and the gentleman from Ohio," meaning Senator Foraker.

While the debate was on almost every seat on the floor and in the galleries
was occupied.

MESSAGE WILL HELP TAFT

Opinion of Many Republican Senators at National Capitol

Washington, Feb. 4.—That the candidacy of William H. Taft for the Republican nomination for president has been strengthened by the special message of President Roosevelt is the sentiment expressed by a number of senators and representatives who discussed it.

Senator Nelson (Minn.) epitomized
the views of this element when he said:
"It means the nomination of Taft at Chicago and the endorsement of the Roosevelt policy." Other opinions follow:

Senator Curtis (Kan.): "It is more than over certain now that Taft will be the nominee."

Senator Dixon (Mont.): "It means the nomination of Taft at Chicago."

Senator Sutherland (Utah): "Republicans of Utah will do whatever is necessary to carry out the president's policy and this means the nomination of the man adapted for the work. At present it looks like Taft."

Senator Borah (Ida.): "I think Taft will be nominated. The message will help him, but was not necessary to insure his nomination."

Senator Gamble (S. D.): "The effect of the message makes certain the nomination of Taft at Chicago."

Senator Warner (Mo.): "The message precludes the nomination of any man at Chicago who is regarded as a reactionary."

Senator Smith (Mich.): "I think it is a foregone conclusion that the Chicago convention will nominate Taft and endorse the Roosevelt policies."

End of Boiler-makers' Strike

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—The strike of boilermakers against the several railroads in Minnesota is declared off. The men had been on strike since September.

COOPER MET USUAL SUCCESS IN PITTSBURGH

Received Thanks from Hundreds While in the Smoky City.

The following article, taken from the Pittsburgh Press, describes the results of L. T. Cooper's visit to that city, and the effect of his new preparation as told by people who had become convinced of the soundness of Cooper's theories with regard to the human stomach.

Cooper believes that the human stomach in civilized races has become greatly weakened. He claims that most ill health of the present generation is due to this fact. The article is as follows:

"L. T. Cooper is meeting with the same astonishing success in Pittsburgh as in other cities. For the past few days many thousands of Pittsburgh people have called at his headquarters to talk with him.

"Cooper's prophecy, made upon his arrival, to the effect that before he left Pittsburgh thousands would realize that his theory is correct and would come and thank him for what his medicine had done, is rapidly being borne out.

"On Monday an astonishing number of people called to express their gratitude to Mr. Cooper. Judging from what some of these people had to say to a Press reporter, when interviewed, Cooper's claim that the human stomach is degenerate is distinctly verified. "One of the most unusual statements was made by Mr. C. W. Woods, of 103 South Highland Street. He said: 'For four years my wife was in very poor health. She was weak and thin, with a hectic flush and cough. Physicians said she had consumption, and I was inclined to believe them. It certainly looked as though her days were numbered, and there appeared to be very little ground for hope.

"Shortly after Mr. Cooper came to Pittsburgh I began to hear of wonderful results that had been obtained by persons who had tried his medicine, so I got some for my wife. She had taken it only two days when she was relieved of a tapeworm 42 feet long. She began to improve immediately—has gained seven pounds since she began taking the medicine. She feels splendid and looks very much better. If any one doubts this statement I would be pleased to have them call at my house and verify it."

The Cooper remedies are becoming justly famous. We sell them.

—E. J. Murphy.

RESTRAINT OF TRADE

Supreme Court Decides That Unions Cannot Boycott

JUDGMENT OF WIDE IMPORT

Case of Danbury Hatters Brought Up Certain Phase of Sherman Act
For First Time—Complications Entitled to Three Times Damages

Washington, Feb. 4.—For the third time within a few weeks the supreme court of the United States has promulgated an opinion constraining laws adversely to the contentions of organized labor.

The verdict rendered yesterday was in the case of Loewe & Co., hat manufacturers of Danbury, Conn., vs. Martin Lawler and 200 other members of the United Hatters' union of that city. The case involved the applicability of the seventh section of the Sherman anti-trust law to conspiracies by labor unions to boycott articles entering into interstate trade. Under the terms of that provision, the complaining party may collect three times the amount of his loss if the charge is sustained.

The union fought the case on the ground that the law was inapplicable to such organizations, but the court, whose opinion was announced by Chief Justice Fuller, failed to accept this view, and in effect held that the unions could not be permitted to interfere by boycott with the free exchange of commerce between the states. There was no dissenting opinion.

D. E. Loewe, head of D. E. Loewe & Co., had built up in 1903 a business that amounted to $400,000 annually. He hired men for their skill, made no distinctions as to race, creed or association, paid the best wages, willingly observed the union rules as to what constituted a day's labor. His men were devoted, but his factory was not "unionized." He allowed men to draw good wages from him who were not members of the United Hatters of North America.

Two attempts were made to induce Loewe to employ only union men and use the union label on his manufactures. Each time he explained that he had tried the unionized shop and that he had found it a handicap to his business. One reason was that the large soft-hat shops, being independent, were not restricted as he was, and could always undersell him. On both occasions Loewe refused to make his union shop and adopt the union label. The Hatters' union immediately instituted a boycott on Loewe hats. Being a member of the Federation of Labor, the United Hatters requested that that great body boycott D. E. Loewe & Co. On report of the boycott committee it did so.

By notices in union newspapers, by circulars, by advertisements in daily newspapers, by personal intimations, dealers in hats were notified or warned not to buy or sell Loewe hats. Getting a list of the firm's customers, the union boycott agents would call upon them, and ask them to stop trading with Loewe. If they did not stop, then a boycott would be instituted against the refractory dealers. They would see trade dropping away and would yield.

Loewe's trade was "restrained, diminished, and in many places destroyed" by these methods. Meanwhile, union men in his employ were called out on strike; the non-unionists were told that Loewe could not resist, and if they wanted jobs when the strike was over they must join the union and leave Loewe. Many were thus prevailed upon. But enough were obtained to reopen the factory to fill what orders the boycott had left to him.

Had not the Anti-Boycott association taken up his case, he would, no doubt, have been forced to the wall. Backed by the association, which includes all sorts of employers of labor throughout the country, Loewe under Connecticut law brought a suit for $100,000 against the officers and certain members of the unions involved, and attached the bank accounts and real estate of each separate defendant.

Under section 7 of the Sherman anti-trust law, he brought suit for $200,000, charging that the unionists named did "wantonly, maliciously, unlawfully," and in violation of the anti-restraint of trade law, conspire to injure the property and business of the plaintiff, and prevent him from carrying on trade and commerce among several states. Injunction was asked also to restrain the furtherance of the boycott.

This question the court answered yesterday. It was the first time the question had been raised as to whether or not the effect of a boycott on the business of a manufacturer transacts outside his own state comes within the purview of the Sherman act.

R report on Printing Inquiry
Washington, Feb. 4.—That the cost of printing at the government printing office for the various executive departments of the government has increased during the administration of Charles S. Stillings, the present public printer, is shown in the report made to President Roosevelt by George C. Havenner, an expert in estimating the cost of printing. The increased cost varies from 2 or 3 percent to more than 100 percent on various classes of matter, and the increases apply to every department of the government.

HELD AS A VAGRANT

Woman Said to Have Threatened Tragedy at State House

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 4.—Miss Mary McLean, aged 30, who came here from New Brunswick some time ago, was arrested here and is being detained at the police station pending an inquiry as to her mental condition. The police have been informed that she threatened to go to the state house at Boston and shoot someone.

J. H. Whitney, chief of the Massachusetts district police at Boston, was notified of the alleged threat late yesterday and he in turn informed the Boston police so that Miss McLean could be detained should she appear in Boston. It was thought at the time that the woman had left Worcester, but last evening she was located here and placed under arrest on the nominal charge of being a vagrant. Doctors will examine her to determine what will be done with her.

The police say that Miss McLean went to a private sanitarium last Saturday and applied for work. When informed that there was no place vacant she is alleged to have declared that she would go to the state house and shoot somebody.

John Allan vs John Allan

Brattleboro, Vt., Feb. 4.—Charged with receiving and cashing a check for $200, which represented a legacy intended for another man of the same name, John Allan, proprietor of a lunch room in this city, was arrested last night on complaint of John Allan of Ludlow, Vt., who was formerly a resident of Brattleboro. Allan of Brattleboro is said to have admitted that he received and cashed the check.

Ten Defendants in Murder Trial
Boston, Feb. 4.—The second jury for the trial of ten Chinamen accused of the murder of four of their countrymen during the fight between two rival Chinese factions in this city on Aug. 2, 1907, was completed yesterday. The first jury, chosen two months ago, was discharged on account of the illness of one of the jurors. It is alleged that Chinese members of secret societies shot the victims.

Held Off Through Mistake
Melrose, Mass., Feb. 4.—Alderman Sherman, whose residence was recently found to be in the town of Wakefield just over the Melrose line, last night resigned from his position on the board, as the discovery showed that he was not a citizen of Melrose. His resignation will necessitate a special election in ward 1, where for several years Sherman supposed himself a Melrose citizen.

Trainmen Dumped Into River
Greenfield, Mass., Feb. 4.—A locomotive and a heavy snowplow left the rails near Charlemont and plunged down a fifty-foot embankment into the Deerfield river. The crew of the engine and of the plow escaped serious injury, though all were cut and bruised by contact with the ice and thoroughly chilled by their plunge into the cold water. The caboose remained on the rails.

Woman Kills Self and Children
Boston, Feb. 4.—During a period of mental depression Mrs. Frances Willers, 36 years old, of Dorchester, killed herself and two little girls, aged 9 and 11 years, respectively, by means of a homicidal gas last night. The woman's husband found the bodies of his wife and his two daughters upon his return from work at a late hour. A doctor was called, but he found life extinct.

Lawyer Dies in Courthouse
Taunton, Mass., Feb. 4.—Alexander E. Willson, aged 70, a Boston lawyer, died suddenly in the Bristol county courthouse, where he had come to argue a case. He had scarcely taken a seat within the bar enclosure of the superior courtroom when he fell to the floor. He died before physicians reached him.

On Trial For Murder
East Greenwich, R. I., Feb. 4.—A jury has been impaneled for the trial of Allen T. Benjamin, charged with the murder of Albert D. Babcock. Benjamin, who was the proprietor of a roadhouse near Oneco, is accused of having shot and killed Babcock, following a quarrel at the house.

He'd Up in His Home
Medford, Mass., Feb. 4.—Dominico Zillago, an Italian, was assaulted by two fellow-countrymen at his home here and was robbed of $570 which he had in his pockets. He was not seriously hurt. His assailants escaped. Zillago is employed at the Medford Woolen works.

Desperate Fight With Arabs
Paris, Feb. 4.—Eight Frenchmen were killed and fifty wounded in a conflict which the French forces in Morocco had with natives just south of Kasbah Ber Rohid. Word of this engagement was received here last night. A French column was suddenly attacked by a vast horde of Arabs. The fight lasted two hours, the enemy finally retreating with heavy loss.

Judge's Impeachment Asked
Richmond, Feb. 4.—A resolution was introduced by request in the house of delegates that proceedings be instituted to impeach Judge Blackstone of the Eleventh judicial circuit. The petition is signed by 400 qualified voters and charges Blackstone with incompetency and immorality and neglect of official duties.

In the Daily Walk

Vacant houses are being rented and work is picking up.

A house is being built, corner Union and Washington street.

Miss Florence Hill of Walker street is ill with the grip and has been confined to the house for a week.

Asa Sewell has the contract for building an addition to the house, corner of Chubbuck street and Watson road.

John Woods, formerly of Broadway, has returned from New York City and is employed at the Fore River works.

The Point church holds a business meeting Friday evening to act on letters and attend to other necessary business.

A patent was granted this week to Malcolm C. Stewart, a machinist of this city, for an indicator to be used by machinists and fine tool makers.

The Ladies Aid Society of Quincy Point met Monday with its treasurer, Mrs. H. D. Adams. Extensive plans were made for the fair of Feb. 25-28.

Several Atlantic young women are taking advantage of the opportunity to bowl at the Squantum Yacht club's winter quarters on Tuesday afternoons.

Saturday will be the anniversary of "Cold Friday" on Feb. 8, 1891, when the thermometer registered in Quincy 24 below at sunrise, 10 below at noon, 6 below at sunset, and 9 below at 8 P. M.

Edward Evans, Jr., of Nebraska has been secured as a lecturer at the Point church, for Feb. 11. He has been traveling among the cowboys and ranches of Nebraska, and is to speak on "Sky-riding."

The people of the First United Presbyterian church are congratulating their pastor on the birth of a son in his home today. It has not yet been decided whether he will become a minister of the gospel.

In spite of numerous efforts in that direction, no skating pond has yet made its appearance in Atlantic. The quarry and sailors' home, although frozen over at present, are a bit distant for real pleasure when the young people have to take the long walk into consideration.

The invitations are out for the annual Y. M. C. A. dinner. Ex-Gov. Utter of Rhode Island, who is to be the special speaker, is known as one of the most witty and eloquent after dinner speakers in this section of the country. Ladies are invited. The caterer will be Spratt of Brighton.

The second practical talk of the series will be given at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening by Mr. James L. Rand, Boston Manager of the Associated Press. The subject will be "The humor and hardship of news gathering." Mr. Rand is thoroughly equipped to handle this subject in an entertaining and instructive manner.

The real winter weather has retarded the work on the ground around the Quincy school. If the completion of the work equals that around the High school, Atlantic will have a corner on Botohph street and Newbury avenue of which to be proud. The building itself is no end of a joy to local residents as well as to outsiders who are interested in the welfare of the coming generation.

Chief Williams has ordered the test blow on the fire alarm circuits discontinued.

A crowd of eel spearkers are making some good catches in the pond in the rear of the car barn on Hancock street.

Miss Gage was the soloist at the Point church on Sunday, Feb. 2. She sang "Thy Kingdom," and "Come unto Me."

The Fragment society of First church holds an all day meeting in the church parlor tomorrow from ten until three o'clock, with box lunch at noon.

Thomas A. Watson of Braintree will give his lecture on "Enoch Arden" on Thursday evening at the residence of J. A. Sparrow on Highland avenue. The public is invited.

The horse of Theophilus King ran away this morning, but did no damage. The animal was left standing in front of the post office. Finding it too cold he turned about and ran to his stable on Adams street.

The ice men started in earnest this morning to harvest their crop of ice. At the Meadow Brook Ice Co. pond the ice is practically ten inches thick, and is being housed in cakes that are forty-eight inches square. The ice is remarkably clear.

A Brave Captain.

With considerable regret the editor of the Daily Ledger learns of the death of Capt. Rawson J. Post of the steamer Comus of the Southern Pacific line on board the ship at New York on Sunday. With letters of introduction to the gentleman we took the sea trip with him last May from New Orleans to New York and felt that he was a personal friend. He extended many courtesies during the trip and was popular with all the passengers. His death is a loss to the Southern Pacific Company, as he had been long in service and was noted for his bravery. About 25 years ago the British government presented him a medal for rescuing passengers and crew of a British vessel. The interment will be at Essex, Conn., his birthplace, where an only sister resides.

At the Scenic.

The bill at the Scenic this week is one of the best that has been presented thus far, and it was greeted with a crowded house Monday night. Dorothy Windsor proved herself to be a very fascinating and clever comedienne, and immediately captivated the audience with her songs. Bailey & Fickett, comedy acrobats, late with Ringling Bros. circus, certainly had a clever act and made a pronounced hit. The beautiful baritone voice of Harry Stone was greatly enjoyed, as was also that of Jack Green, whose songs were illustrated. Several new up-to-date moving pictures were also shown. There will be a change of pictures and songs Thursday.

Larceny of Umbrella.

Dr. Daniel B. Reardon is the defendant in the mock trial to be held under the auspices of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus. He is charged by Mayor Shea with the larceny of an umbrella from the Mayor's office at City Hall. City Solicitor John W. McAnaney appears for the plaintiff, and Councilman C. J. McGilvray for the defendant. The judge who will decide whether the doctor is guilty by the evidence is Charles C. Healy. Many witnesses have been summoned by both sides.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Ladies' Night
Of Men's Club
Of Christ Church
Enjoyable Occasion

The Men's club of Christ church held their fourth annual banquet and ladies' night on Monday evening in the parish house and it was an enjoyable occasion.

The banquet was served at 6.30, and included escalloped oysters, cold ham, cranberry sauce, chicken salad, potato salad, harlequin ice cream, assorted cake, coffee and rolls.

Henry P. Fernald was the caterer, and he was assisted at the tables by the following members of St. Margaret's Guild: Gertrude Jones, Hannah Litchfield, Marion Mitchell, Audria Dahl, Robina Hall, Nellie Drummond, Kittie Taylor, Helen Rhines, Louise Mandigo, Ruth Jones and Lucy Moyle.

Seated at the head table were President James Smith and his mother, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Gardner, R. F. and Miss Claflin, Representative and Mrs. E. C. Hultman, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Jones, and Past President and Mrs. W. L. Thomas.

During the banquet, and interspersed between the addresses which followed, were pleasing selections by the Men's Club orchestra of which Robert D. Smith is conductor.

President Smith welcomed the ladies and guests, regretted the absence of some of those invited and read fake telegrams from President Elliot, President Roosevelt, Thomas W. Lawson and Mark Twain.

At the request of the rector, the following gentlemen were appointed to represent the club on the general finance committee of the church: Merton A. Turner, John G. McGregor, and A. C. Smith.

Representative Hultman was the first speaker and complimented the club upon its work which he said was practical applied religion. He favored discussion of public affairs.

R. F. Claflin spoke of the social life more important to cultivate than the intellectual side. The club should work in common for the good of all.

Rev. W. E. Gardner complimented the club on completing three years of its existence. The club was very dear to him. He emphasized the importance of men in the church and hoped the laymen's movement would reach Quincy. He read the poem of the Bishop of Exeter, "Give us men."

The responses to the four toasts were all good, abounding in witicism and were as follows:

"The Ladies,"—Merton A. Turner. "Single Men,"—John G. McGregor. "Married Men,"—W. L. Thomas.

"The Club,"—A. C. Smith.

Carleton Beal contributed a vocal selection, and as usual was recalled. A vote of thanks was extended to the St. Margaret's Guild, to Caterer Fernald and to the orchestra. The banquet closed with the singing of "America."

City Council Meeting

the City Messenger procured the plans of both buildings.

In reply to a question by Councilman Hogan, Chairman Hunting said that no definite sum was stated last year, but there was a provisional bid of $68,700.

Councilman Gelotte claimed that with the changes necessary to the Atlantic plans the amount saved would be small. Not over $5,000. If the Atlantic building ever started to leak it would be a great expense to the city to keep the roof tight.

Councilman Broughton asked if the School Committee had approved the plans for that wonderfully poor building at Atlantic, to which Chairman Hunting replied yes.

Councilman Bryant—Marr Bros. know just what the Atlantic building cost. The City Solicitor stated it was a case of common law. A contract between two people.

The contractor Brigham came before the Committee and said it could be built for $70,000. A contract was stated. If it could be built for $70,000 his plan would be accepted.

What happened? He was $10,000 out of the way. There was no contract and he could have no claim. If a jury should say he had, even then we would be saving money.

Councilman Whiton questioned if the order was proper, as the School Committee had not approved the plans.

President Hobbs said if that question came up he would rule it was in order. Councilman Bryant—The Council has a perfect right to go ahead and advance the new order. Then the plans could be sent to the School Committee.

Councilman Whiton—It looks as though someone was being whipped into line.

Councilman Cherrington hoped the Council would not forget they had a good building at Atlantic.

The question of accepting the minority report was then rejected upon roll call, 7 voting in favor and 15 against as follows:

YES—Abele, Falconer, Gelotte, Gilson, Teasdale, Walsh, Whiton—7.

NO—Beal, Bean, Bishop, Broughton, Bryant, Cantill, Carey, Cherrington, Curtis, Ferguson, Freeman, Hogan, McGilvray, Moir, Oakes—15.

NOT VOTING, President Hobbs.

The majority report was then accepted, and the substitute order took its second reading and was laid on the table.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant, the Clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the order to the School Committee together with the Atlantic plans and request its approval of them.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman Curtis offered an order for six gas lights on Glendale road. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Whiton offered an order requesting the Chief Engineer to report to the City Council the cost of installing a fire alarm box in each of the school buildings of the city. Adopted.

Councilman Gelotte offered an order for the Committee on Public Buildings to procure plans for a Coddington school building. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Broughton offered an order requesting the Commissioner of Public Works to inform the City Council at its next meeting as to the cost of building a main sewer on Farrington street; if there is enough balance of the appropriation of $40,000 made for sewers last year to do this work, and if it will be done the present year.

Councilman Ferguson offered an order placing the receipts from property owners on account of work done on the gypsy moth, amounting to $790.33, to the credit of the appropriation for Gypsy and Brown tail moth of 1908. To Finance committee. Adjourned at 9.00 until Feb. 17.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Endurance Run
For Submarines

The Society of Naval Sponsors will be organized in Washington Wednesday, Feb. 19. Mrs. Charles Reade of Philadelphia who christened the Macdonough built by the Fore River Company is taking a prominent part.

Secretary Metcalf of the Navy will sign a contract today with the Lake Torpedo Boat Company for the construction of a submarine torpedo boat 161 feet long, 12 1-2 feet beam and about 500 tons displacement. It is to make a speed of not less than 14 knots for a period of four hours above the surface and 9 1-2 knots for one hour below the water. The vessel is larger than the torpedo boats now in the navy and under construction. The contract price is $450,000.

The New York dispatch of Sunday to the Herald says the three submarines, Viper, Tarantula and Cuttlefish, built at Quincy, were still kept within the harbor by the heavy weather. They will probably set out on their endurance test to Annapolis, accompanied by the gunboat Hist, tomorrow.

The submarines which are the latest additions to the subsurface fleet of the American navy, are under the command of Lieut. Courtnay.

The test will be the longest run of the kind ever attempted by submarines, and if successful, as every officer and man is willing to wager it will be, it will place the American submarine experts in a class by themselves so far as the navigation of the little cigar-shaped craft is concerned. Each boat is provisioned for eight days, and each has on board four submarine torpedoes. Every officer and man is eager for the voyage.

The vessels in this flotilla were built to go 1,000 miles under their own power, and the navy department wants to know if they can make good. It is, therefore, probable that, should the test scheduled to begin today prove successful, the flotilla will be ordered to attempt the 1,000-mile run. Should that be decided upon the run will probably be from Hampton roads to Florida Keys, an officer of the flotilla said yesterday.

The steamship Creole built at Quincy is proving very popular on the Southern Pacific line. She left New Orleans on Saturday with a large passenger list for New York.

Coldest Day
Of the Season

Today will pass as a typical winter day. The cold wave started in with a gale about midnight. It lasted but a few minutes, then it began to grow cold and the mercury began to flirt with the zero mark.

This morning at sunrise it was clear, sharp and cold. The glass in some places went as low as 3 and 4 below zero, while in other places it was at the zero mark.

It did not warm up much during the morning, although the wind diminished. At noon the glass recorded the temperature to be 13 above zero, which is the coldest day of the winter.

DRESSMAKING.

$1.50 per day or 20 cts. per hour.

Silent and Dramatic.

The most dramatic of silent men was Wallenstein, the antagonist of Gustavus Adolphus and the commander of the emperor's armies in the Thirty Years' war. He insisted that the deepest silence should reign about him. His officers took care that no loud conversation should disturb their general. They knew that a chamberlain had been hanged for waking him without orders and that an officer who would wear clanking spurs in the command-er's presence had been secretly put to death. In the rooms of his palace the servants glided as if they were phantoms, and a dozen sentinels moved about his tent charged to secure the silence the general demanded. Chains were stretched across the streets in order to guard him against the disturbance of sounds. Wallenstein's taciturnity, which made him shun speech, and his love of silence, which caused him to be irritated at the slightest noise, were due to his constitutional temperament. He never smiled, he never asked advice from any one, and he could not endure to be gazed at, even when giving an order. The soldiers, when he crossed the camp, pretended not to see him, knowing that a curious look would bring them punishment.

English Sporting Parsons.

To the London Times a correspondent writes: "Once when a duke of Grafton was thrown into a ditch a young curate who had been closely competing with him for pride of place shouted, 'Lie still, your grace,' and cleared him and his hunter and the fence at a bound. So pleased was the duke with the performance that he declared he would give the young divine his first vacant living and not long afterward carried out the promise, vowing that if the curate had stopped to pull him out of the ditch he would never have patronized him. 'Sporting parsons' are still to be found in almost every county today who can hold their own in the first flight when bounds run hard and some of the keenest fox hunters in all times have been supplied from the ranks of the clergy. Even the warning against their 'hawkyunge, huntynge and dunsynge' in the reign of King Henry VI. appears to have had very little effect."

Deeper Channel
In Quincy Bay
Means Much to Yachting Interests

Tuesday forenoon the legislative committee on harbors and public lands of the Legislature gave an advertised hearing at the State House on the bill appropriating $10,000 for enlarging the channel at Wollaston beach in Quincy bay, so that it shall be not less than sixty feet wide at the bottom and six feet deep at low water.

Representative Hultman of Quincy conducted the case, and in his opening told of the gradual filling up of the channel by silt until some 1,000 feet have been filled since the dredging of 1903, so as to be materially affected. Representative Hultman presented Commodore Chase of the Wollaston club, Ralph Hobbs, president of the Quincy City Council, ex-Representative Badger of Quincy, and ex-Commodore Fenno of the Wollaston club.

It was put before the committee that the channel accommodates two yacht clubs having an aggregate membership of 400, nearly. In addition there are three manufacturing concerns which build motor boats and marine engines. The construction of the boulevard improvement has had the effect of stirring up the bottom of the channel and causing the deposit of silt. It is represented that public sentiment in Quincy generally, and at Wollaston particularly, is in favor of the appropriation of $10,000. There was no opposition.

Mr. Hultman says that he has consulted Chief Engineer Hodgdon of the State Harbor and Land Commission, and that he is in favor of the appropriation.

Mr. Badger tells the Ledger representative that he had a talk with the Metropolitan Park Commission and they believe that the locality affected will be come a popular summer resort, where there will be perhaps from 1,000 to 5,000 people present on Sundays. All of which counts in favor of the bill.

The committee then took up the petition of Walter W. Hersey and others for an appropriation of $10,000 to be expended by the Harbor and Land Commission in dredging an anchorage basin not less than six feet in depth at low water at the head of Hingham harbor.

Representative Curtis of Hingham conducted the hearing and among those who favored the petition were William B. Barnard, the harbor master, Alfred Lincoln for the Hingham Yacht club and George Burr for the business interests. It was shown that the dredging of this basin would mean much to the business interests of the town, as it would enable larger barges and vessels to enter the harbor and mean a consequent reduction in freight rates. Mr. Burr said that the present freight rate on coal is $1.25 per ton, and the railroad would be compelled to reduce this if it had to compete with carriage by water. There was no opposition.

Against the C. F. Adams Bill

A Washington dispatch of Tuesday to the Herald says, Representative Lovering today made a special report against what is known as the Charles Francis Adams bill to authorize the President to appoint a commission in certain cases to settle strikes. The committee on interstate commerce recently reported it favorably, but Democrats submitted a minority report.

Mr. Lovering, as a member of the committee, is unable to agree with either. He holds that the bill, which was endorsed by the Civic Federation, would invade the constitutional rights of property and that there is no demand for it from either capital or labor.

Capt. Dow's Story Of Lawson Disaster

Captain George W. Dow of the wrecked seven-masted schooner T. W. Lawson takes exception to the early stories sent here from England concerning the disaster, says the Transcript. He says that when the Lawson was anchored in the lee of the Scilly Islands on Oct. 13 there was no storm raging and the position of the craft seemed perfectly safe. She had sent ahead for a tug to tow her into port. There was not even a storm in sight. A lifeboat from a station nearby had put out to her in order that the crew might get its first view of a seven-master, and had left at eight o'clock that night, everything at that hour apparently being all right.

About two o'clock the following morning Captain Dow said that he felt the schooner drifting and hurried to tell the pilot, but the latter was positive that she was in the same position as before. Not convinced by this, Captain Dow walked to the stern of the schooner and was horrified to find that the vessel was almost on a reef. It was too late to extricate her, and all that could be done was to notify the crew to be prepared for the worst. All donned life preservers and climbed into the rigging.

The first crash, as the Lawson struck, carried away the foremast and several of the crew; the second shock took the centre masts and the third swept away the other two. To these were clinging Captain Dow, Engineer Rowe and the pilot, and as the vessel struck they dived into the sea. The captain swam for about three miles and then climbed on a rock, where he found the engineer ahead of him. A life boat finally took them off; first the engineer, and the captain five hours or so later.

A NEW COMMODORE

Frank E. Dawes
Of the Stranger
At Head of Wollaston Club

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club was held Tuesday evening at the club house, Wollaston beach. Although the weather was bitter cold there was a good attendance of members.

William M. Chase who has been the club's commodore for several years declined a reelection and the honor of leading the club the coming year fell upon Dr. Frank E. Dawes, an enthusiastic yachtsman.

The reports of the several committees showed the club to be in a good financial condition and that the present membership was 163.

Some good races had been held the past season with an unusual large number of entries.

The club championship prize, a large silver cup, in Class A, was awarded to the Eleanor, owned by George F. Sawyer, Jr.

In Class C, the prize, a compass, went to the Peacock owned by Frank Gardner.

Three small silver cups were also awarded in the ocean race as follows: First, Eleanor, George F. Sawyer, Jr.; second, Pocahontas, F. C. Merrill; third, Stranger, F. E. Dawes.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Commodore—Dr. Frank E. Dawes. Vice Commodore—Walter F. Coombs.

Secretary—Charles F. Pinkham. Treasurer—Charles F. Austin.

Member of governing board for three years—H. E. Seymour.

The meeting then adjourned until Feb. 25, when the remainder of the officers will be elected.

Dr. Frank E. Dawes, the new commodore, is one of the most enthusiastic yachtsmen in Massachusetts bay. He has been identified with the Wollaston Yacht club for a number of years and has participated in all of the races of that club, as well as races of other Massachusetts clubs.

He owns the yacht Warwreck and the yacht Stranger. The latter boat is the one he sailed in last year's races. He was successful in capturing several prizes. Dr. Dawes is a dentist by occupation, and has an office at his home in Neponset. During the summer months he spends much of his spare time on the water, finding time however to seek a few days' recreation at Melvin Village, on the shores of Lake Winnepesaukee. In addition to his other accomplishments he has a musical voice, and is often heard in public concerts. The Wollaston Yacht club should continue to thrive under his administration.

Itch cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Never fails. Sold by C. D. Harlow & Co., Druggists.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

With today's meeting the official year of the Mothers' association ends and an election is in order, but the meetings continue monthly until summer, meeting as usual the first Wednesday of each month in Bethany chapel.

Members of the Quincy Alliance are guests of the Wollaston Alliance this afternoon to hear the paper by Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton on "The progress of Mankind Onward and Upward." Mrs. Atherton is president of the New England Associate Alliance and has had long experience in Alliance work which she combines with a gracious personality and interest in her subject.

Mrs. William H. Whitney of Arlington street, Wollaston, entertained the Junior Friday club at her home on Monday afternoon. Miss Grace M. Isaac had the program in charge with Dante as the subject. The club is contemplating observing its anniversary in a few weeks.

At the Alliance meeting in First Church parlor on Monday afternoon the speaker will be Mrs. John H. Edwards and the subject "Letters from Heland."

The third lecture in Prof. Edward Howard Griggs' course at Tremont Temple, Boston, on Saturday morning will be, "Pierre Loti: the Sensitive Dreamer as Child and Man." The course is proving popular and eleven o'clock finds nearly every seat in the house occupied.

The Friday club and Junior Friday club are to hold a joint meeting on Friday afternoon, Feb. 14th, at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Burke, Adams street, Miss Ellen Thompson of Brookline having been secured to give her parlor lecture on, "Festa Days in Northern Italy." Miss Thompson is well known in Quincy having for several seasons given series of lectures on literary subjects and travels. Both clubs are anticipating a profitable and pleasant meeting.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

A meeting of the executive board will be held at ten o'clock Thursday morning at the club house.

On Feb. 11th an open meeting is to be held by the Arts and Crafts committee and any women interested in the work are cordially invited to attend. The usual business meeting will be held at half past two, followed at three o'clock by a musicale arranged by Miss Alice Gertrude Coe of Atlantic. She has secured Mr. Clarence H. Wilson, baritone in the quartet of the Harvard church, Brookline; Miss Florence Olney of Wollaston the pianist, who gave the club so much pleasure last year and the Mendelssohn Trio. Besides the musicale there is to be an exhibition of lace and linen, enamel work, etc., also a demonstration of weaving, brass work, lace making, raffia, wood carving, etc. To see all these things in the progress of making should prove very interesting. Owing to the meeting being free to the public and the length of the program the usual tea will be omitted.

On Feb. 25th by the courtesy of the Arts and Crafts committee changing their date to accommodate the Civic committee, the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, president of Clark university, Worcester, and well known throughout the United States, will be the speaker. February is a busy month with the Civic committee for not only does it have its regular meeting in the club program on Feb. 25th but on Wednesday evening Feb. 26th, holds a gentlemen's night at First Church chapel when Mr. John Nolen of Cambridge will give his illustrated lecture on, "Civic Betterment, and How to Improve our Out Door Surroundings," and the Atlantic members of the committee are to give a dance and card party on Feb. 28th to raise funds to improve the grounds about the Atlantic station.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION. Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, met Monday afternoon at the home of their regent, Miss Annie L. Prescott, Spear street. There was a good attendance of members notwithstanding the cold weather and illness of members. After a short business session Miss Prescott introduced Miss Mary H. Hinckley of Brook, road, Milton, who gave a most delightfully informal paper on, "The Village Arch of 1798," erected in

Wollaston Lodge Doing Good Work

Wollaston lodge, Knights of Honor, one of the time honored organizations of Wollaston, which includes in its membership some of our leading citizens, held its annual installation of officers on Monday evening. The grand dictator, Ward P. Shattuck of Roxbury, intended to be present and preside, but a sudden illness prevented and he designated P. G. D. William J. Battison, a member of the Supreme lodge, and well known in the fraternity to officiate in his stead.

Aside from the ceremony of installation, the meeting was one of much interest. In the discussion of the lodge's affairs, the fact was developed that since 1900, its members have paid into the widow's and orphan's benefit fund of the order, more than $11,000, every penny of which is devoted to the payment of death benefits of members of the order. This lodge has been very fortunate for during these years it has lost only three members by death, Brothers W. E. Ramsey, E. G. Thayer and C. A. Staples, whose beneficiaries have received from this fund $4,000. The lodge has also received in the same time on account of its general fund more than $1,000, from its members, from which its own expenses and its proportion of the expenses of the Grand lodge of Massachusetts and the Supreme lodge have been paid.

A number of new lodges of the order have been instituted of late, one in this state being composed largely of women, who under recent legislation by the Supreme lodge, are admitted to membership on the same terms, in every respect, as men. Both men and women are also received to social membership which does not carry any insurance. Under new arrangements the "level" rate of assessment is very low, and offers a tempting inducement to young men and women to obtain a sure protection for their dependants at small expense, while at the same time they may secure for themselves the benefits which accrue from membership in a powerful fraternal organization, and the social life that pertains to lodge work and association.

The officers of the lodge are: P. D.—W. J. Wellington D.—J. A. Lovett V. D.—A. M. Borjkanm. A. D.—G. Sutermeister. R.—C. Thatcher Baker. F. R.—W. J. Battison. Tr.—E. J. Cummings. C.—A. M. Jameson. G.—G. Weston. Guide—D. McGrath. S.—E. L. Richardson. Trustees—A. A. Lincoln, G. D. Woodbury and A. M. Jameson.

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL"

Bryan Talks of Larceny Through Operation of Law

New York, Feb. 5.—Taking the eighth commandment as his text, William J. Bryan pointed out to the Civic Forum last night the possibilities of larceny in violation of the law and what he said was of still greater importance—larceny through the operation of the law.

Mr. Bryan declared that while the law recognized two general forms of larceny, petit larceny and grand larceny, there had been a disposition recently to sub-divide the greater crime "So now," he added, "we are inclined to think of stealing as petit larceny, grand larceny and glorious larceny."

So general had become the tendency to overlook rascality in amazement at the genius of the man who had stolen a million, that it had been suggested, he said, that the commandment be amended to read: "Thou shalt not steal on a small scale."

Larceny through operation of the law was possible, he said, if the laws were unjust or permitted an unfair advantage to any class of citizens. Watered stocks and fictitious capitalizations were placed by the speaker as among the forms of polite larceny.

Fairbanks Drops Thaw Case
 Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—Indiana Republicans yesterday selected in district convention twenty-six delegates to the national convention at Chicago. In every district resolutions were adopted unanimously endorsing the candidacy of Charles H. Fairbanks for the presidential nomination and instructing the delegates to work and vote for him. Alternate delegates and national electors were chosen also.

Policeman Did Not Know King
 Seattle, Feb. 5.—King Alfonso, while sauntering through the streets of Seattle, was attacked by a policeman, whose object was to keep back the crowd from the king, but who unfortunately mistook the king himself for a suspicious looking person. The governor of Seattle, who was close behind, seized the policeman, and a score of spectators, believing that an attempt was being made to assassinate the king, knocked the policeman down. Alfonso, however, ordered his liberation, and was amused at the whole affair.

Littleton Drops Thaw Case
 New York, Feb. 5.—An extended conference of counsel for Harry Thaw was held here last night to discuss what legal means should be taken to secure Thaw's removal from Matteawan state institution. The result of the conference was not disclosed. Martin W. Littleton, who defended Thaw in the last trial, has practically retired from the case. Littleton believes Thaw should be left in Matteawan, at least for several months to come.

Shaft Broken and Propeller Lost
 New York, Feb. 5.—Her thrust shaft broken and her propeller resting on the bottom of the sea ten miles astern, the British steamer Winfred found welcome anchorage twelve miles off Montauk point (L. I.) light late yesterday. The fifteen passengers were taken ashore in a surfboat by lifesavers, but Captain Kelly and crew elected to stand by their disabled craft until a tug reaches her.

Solid Delegation For Hughes
 New York, Feb. 5.—That the name of Charles E. Hughes will be enthusiastically presented to the national Republican convention as a candidate for the presidency by a solid delegation from the state of New York was the prediction made by Chairman Woodruff of the state Republican committee last night in a speech at the dinner of the Richmond Republican committee.

Lump Suit Is Withdrawn
 St. Louis, Feb. 5.—The habeas corpus proceedings instituted recently against Mrs. Lillian Lump by her husband, William J. Lump, Jr., the brewer, for the possession of the young son of the separated couple, was dismissed in the St. Louis court of appeals. It is reported that an agreement had been reached privately which would enable the father to see his son periodically.

Druce Witness a Perjurer
 London, Feb. 5.—Miss Mary Robinson has made a full confession of her wilful perjury in the Druce case, and has admitted the truth of the statements made by the prosecution during the trial of Herbert Druce on charges of perjury, brought by George H. Druce, who was striving to make good his claim to the title and estates of the Duke of Portland.

Message to Mississippi Solons

MARY McLEAN IS INSANE

Woman Who Threatened Governor's Life Sent to Asylum

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 5.—Mary McLean, the woman who was arrested after she had made threats upon the life of Governor Guild and the legislators, was committed to the insane hospital at Bloomingdale, following an examination by two physicians, who pronounced her insane. It was learned that the woman had been committed on previous occasions to the insane hospitals at Taunton and Danvers and that on each occasion, after having been released on apparently recovering her reason, she was sent to her home in New Brunswick. Each time she returned to Massachusetts.

While Governor Guild was dining and making speeches in two Boston hostilities, Mary McLean, who is a slight, sickly little woman, was held under close guard in the private office of Worcester's chief of police. The nominal charge against the woman was vagrancy. A few hours before her arrest the woman had brandished a revolver and hysterically announced her determination to go to Boston, demand work from the governor and, failing to secure it, to shoot him and every legislator in reach of the weapon.

Burglar Found Dead on Roof
 Boston, Feb. 5.—The dead body of a negro found on the roof of a four-story tenement house at 36 Anderson street has been identified as Spencer Moore, a burglar and holdup man, recently released from the state prison, where he had completed a five years' sentence. Moore went to the roof of a five-story block adjoining the fourth story block on which he was found and fell to the building. His death was probably caused by bleeding and exposure, his body being frozen stiff. Moore's presence on the roof is unaccounted for.

Three Children Badly Hurt
 Braintree, Mass., Feb. 5.—Three children were seriously injured when the public carriage in which they were returning from school was struck by a street car. The carriage was driven by Theodore Pierce, an old man who is hard of hearing. He drove onto the tracks directly in front of the electric, which was going at a good rate of speed. Pierce escaped with minor bruises, but the children were quite badly cut and bruised.

Arrested on Bigamy Charge
 Boston, Feb. 5.—Lawrence A. Milne, aged 39, who has been living in Brookline with Lena Godbu, aged 17, formerly of Worcester, as his wife, was placed under arrest, charged with bigamy. It is claimed that Miss Godbu eloped with Milne on Oct. 28 last; that the couple went to Providence and were married, and that Milne has another wife living in Danville, N. Y., to whom he was married in 1897.

Swift's "Army" Down to Twenty
 Boston, Feb. 5.—Twenty people responded yesterday to the call of Morrison I. Swift, leader of the "army of unemployed," for 30,000 to meet at the public garden to march into the country and find out if there is a place in Massachusetts where the right of free speech is alive. The proposed demonstration was called off on account of the cold weather.

Money to Construct Sewerage
 Milford, Mass., Feb. 5.—After one of the most exciting town meetings in the history of Milford a new plan of assessment was adopted to enable the town to obtain its new $300,000 sewerage system. The new plan calls for an assessment of 32 cents per front foot and two-fifths of a cent on area back of 125 feet.

Instantly Killed by a Fall
 Lynn, Mass., Feb. 5.—In a fall down the cellar stairs of a local hotel last night George E. Smith of Peabody, aged 35, was instantly killed. Smith was unfamiliar with the place and stepping through a door pitched headlong down stairs to the concrete floor, breaking his neck and fracturing his skull.

Receivers For Steamship Companies
 Portland, Me., Feb. 5.—Receivers for the Eastern Steamship company, the Metropolitan Steamship company and the Consolidated Steamship Lines of Maine, also two joint special masters, were appointed by Judge Putnam in the United States circuit court after a hearing which lasted nearly two hours.

Expressmen to Raise Rates
 Boston, Feb. 5.—It was voted to cooperate in a general raise of express rates throughout New England at a special meeting of the New England Expressmen's league held in this city. Representatives of various express companies throughout New England, to the number of 150, were present.

Hibbard's Axe Held Up
 Boston, Feb. 5.—Resolutions passed by the board of aldermen calling upon Mayor Hibbard to stop discharging laborers at least until the warm weather comes were recognized yesterday by the mayor, and he agreed to hold up temporarily the discharge of 100 men who were scheduled to go today.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 5.—In the United States court here Stephen Leyden of Berlin, 17, for breaking into the post-office, was sentenced to one year in jail and to pay a fine of $1.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Good skating.

Snow is predicted for tomorrow.

Mrs. C. Wendall Garey is visiting friends at Portsmouth, N. H.

The City Council Committee on Soldiers' Relief will meet next Monday evening.

The trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library meet tonight for organization.

There is a possibility that the board of Assessors may organize tomorrow morning.

The steps of City Hall which have become soiled by the doves were washed with warm water this morning.

The mercury was down to zero again at 7 o'clock this morning and at 8 o'clock was only 5 above.

There is one good thing about the cold snap, and that is the ice and coal men have stopped their kicking. It is said that the new submarine torpedo boat awarded to the Lake company will be built at Bath, Maine.

An appetizing club sandwich with hot coffee will be served at the Granite City club tonight after the whist tournament.

Charles A. Brigham, the architect who drew the plans for the Coddington school building, was in town this morning.

The "ad" of W. G. Shaw today reminds us that opportunity knocks once at every one's door. Have you taken advantage of the sacrifice sale?

The clerks in the assessors office remembered William B. Glover, the retiring assessor, on Monday with a handsome bunch of pinks.

The trustees of the Quincy and Hingham bridges met in the office of Mayor Shea at City Hall this morning, and organized with Mayor Shea as chairman.

The flag on City Hall is at half mast today out of respect for Horace B. Spear, the first City Treasurer, whose funeral was held this afternoon.

At ice hockey on Tuesday Milton Academy defeated Newton High 5 to 0, and Milton High was defeated by Boston English High 6 to 2.

At the billiard tournament at the Granite City club on Tuesday night, Eugene W. O'Connor (100) beat James H. Lalley (150), 100 to 142.

It is said that when the ice men came to cut ice on Monday the ice was eight inches thick. Tuesday it was nine inches and this morning ten inches. They will probably fill their houses this week.

The next meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion, will be held in Protection hall, Johnson building on Saturday at 2.30. Parents are invited to hear the entertainment given by the members who number about fifty; also to see how they progress.

Ward Three Democrats.
The Ward Three Democratic committee organized Tuesday night with these officers: President, Michael J. Hartley; Vice President, William A. Kelley; Secretary, George D. Cahill; Treasurer, Samuel A. Dougherty. The vacancy in the committee caused by the tie vote at the caucus was filled by the election of Michael Donohue.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment at there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. COMINGS, 7 Olive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $50,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

ERSTWHILE SKEPTIC NOW FIRM BELIEVER.

Young Woman of Quincy, Mass., Gives Reasons For Her New-Found Faith.

Miss Gertrude O'Brien, living on Copeland street, Quincy, Mass., has recently been converted from skepticism to firm belief in the correctness of the theory advanced by L. T. Cooper, as to the cause of most ill-health in the present generation. Miss O'Brien's conversion was brought about through personal experience with one of the Cooper preparations, regarding which she says—

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble in its worst form of gastric fermentation for a long time. I could not eat a meal without experiencing great pain and distress afterward. I tried various remedies without obtaining relief. A short time ago I was advised to try Cooper's New Discovery, and bought a bottle, though skeptical of results. To my surprise, it afforded me relief almost at once. Since taking three bottles of this medicine I am greatly improved in every way. My digestion is good, and my stomach does not trouble me at all. I would not have believed any medicine could be so helpful in so short a time, and I firmly believe Mr. Cooper is correct in his theory regarding the cause of ill-health. I am grateful indeed for the benefit I have received from his preparation."

E. J. Murphy, agent for the Cooper remedies in Quincy, claims the sale of these preparations have been enormous. J. J. Hammers is the Cooper agent in East Milton.

honor of President John Adams. She exhibited a large picture of the arch as it stood for seventeen years at Milton Lower Mills between the Dorchester and Milton line.

The members were much interested in the paper, its subject matter being entirely new to most of them. They were glad that John Adams, whose birthplace the chapter cares for, was so much appreciated in the olden days. A portion of Miss Hinckley's paper will be published in the Daily Ledger tomorrow, so that members may read it at their leisure.

The meeting in March will be the annual and will be held at the birthplace of President John Adams.

Following the meeting the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. Francis Guild Mayo, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott and Miss Prescott served refreshments all gathering in the dining room.

NEIGHBORING.
The Massachusetts State Federation will meet in Winchester at the town hall, on Saturday at 10 o'clock. At the morning session, the speaker will be Prof. Zueblin of Chicago University. In the afternoon Miss Sara Cone Bryant will speak on "What Shall Children Read." Luncheon will be served in the vestry of the Congregational church at 1 o'clock.

The Woburn Women's club observes its twenty-fifth anniversary this week with a reception by the officers followed by a banquet and addresses by past presidents and others.

At the February meeting of the Wheaton Seminary club on Saturday at Hotel Vendome, Boston, there will be music by the Brookline Mandoline club and Miss Emma Ernestine Porter will speak on "Some Phases of Italian Art," illustrated by photographs.

Miss Helena S. Dudley of Dennis house, Boston, spoke on "Social Settlements and Problems of Immigration," before the Brockton Woman's club on Monday. The subject proved very interesting as was also the speaker, a most earnest settlement worker.

Fire at Braintree.

Tuesday evening at ten o'clock the Braintree fire department was called to the greenhouses of George H. Arnold, 240 Middle street, where a brisk blaze was in progress in the boiler room of the largest greenhouse. Although the thermometer was at zero the firemen responded quickly and succeeded in saving the three greenhouses adjoining.

The boiler house, which was about twenty by thirty feet on the ground, was completely destroyed, and its contents were quite valuable to the owner especially a large quantity of valuable seeds, the choice of the past twenty-five years. The all-out sounded soon after midnight.

"Rat Instinct" was the topic for discussion by a group of engineers who had come ashore from one of the colliers that recently saw service on the great lakes as an ore carrier. It all started with the assertion by the first assistant that a rat in Duluth could predict a disaster that was going to stir up seamen as far away as Detroit. The chief laughed till he almost cried.

"I had a berth on the Osceola," went on the assistant, "and we were running between Buffalo and Duluth. We had a mighty hard time of it pouncing across Lake Superior, but finally made the Soo.

"The gang plank had been thrown out to unload some package freight, when a big rat suddenly appeared from behind boxes and started to run off the plank. We tried to head him off, but he ran the gauntlet and disappeared ashore.

"The men who saw it were of the practical sort and kept their mouths shut. Before morning the Osceola went aground on Austin reef and remained there many months before she was finally floated. Now how did that rat know the steamer was going to be wrecked?"

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SCOTCH THISTLE

Formed on Floor
During March
At Robert Burns
Anniversary

Clan McGregor, O. S. S., and Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor celebrated the 149th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, by a concert, supper and dance in Music Hall, Wednesday evening. Chief George M. Mayer made a few opening remarks bidding everyone welcome, and introduced His Honor Mayor Shea who briefly replied.

The concert part of the program was an illustrated travel talk on Scotland, by Madame Beale Morey, assisted by Miss Margaret G. Esson and James S. Whyte, who sang quite a number of Burns songs which were very much appreciated by the large audience present. Appreciation was shown by the encores.

The views shown by Madame Morey were much enjoyed by the audience as it no doubt carried a large number of them back to scenes of their childhood.

At 9:30 the audience which numbered over 400 sat down to a bountiful supper prepared by the Loyal Ladies' committee, and altho' the Scotch "Haggis" was absent, the menu which follows will show that it was more than made up for by the good things that were on the tables.

Prayer was offered by Robert C. Allen, the chaplain. Printed at the head of the menu was the following prayer:

"O Thou, who kindly dost provide
For every creature's want!
We bless Thee, God of Nature wide,
For all Thy goodness lent."
"And, if it please Thee, Heavenly Guide,
May never worse be sent;
But whether granted or denied,
Lord, bless us with content."

The menu follows:

Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce	Stuffed a la Burns	Pickles
Celery	Boiled Ham	Fancy Cookies
Potato Salad	Chicken Salad	Coffee
Assorted Cake	Rolls	Bananas
Oranges	Apples

After the good things on the tables disappeared the hall was cleared and the grand march was formed, being led by Chief Geo. M. Mayer of Clan McGregor and President Minnie McNeil of the Loyal Ladies, followed by Floor Director Alex Hall and Floor Directress Lizzie Russell. The six aids following them, all wearing the McGregor tartan which made a very showy appearance as they came down the hall sixteen in line. Mayor Shea was next in line with Ex-President Mary Daly of the Loyal Ladies as his partner. They were followed by about 150 couples. One part of the grand march which made a very beautiful appearance was the forming of a Scotch thistle which completely covered the floor. Dancing was continued until 3 A. M. Music was by Thompson's orchestra.

The committee was composed of 29 ladies and gentlemen under the chairmanship of Chief Mayer with Angus Kerr as secretary. They certainly merit the thanks of the large audience present.

To Teach English
To Foreign Born

Any foreign-born resident of Quincy now has the opportunity to learn to speak and write English correctly, as the Universalist church has taken up this work and offers free instruction to all. One class has already been formed, and others will be as need arises. The class will meet at 3:30 P. M. every Sunday in the vestry of the Universalist church. A cordial invitation is extended to all adults who wish to learn English to attend. Employers of foreign labor will confer a favor by calling the attention of their employees to this opportunity.

Basket Ball And Athletics

Basket ball has had and still has a large place in gymnasium doings, at the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Two games will be played on Saturday evening this week. However, the centre of interest is beginning to change to other forms of athletics and a number of meets have already been arranged.

Tomorrow night the Employed Boys' class journey to Somerville to compete in a dual meet with the boys there.

On Saturday afternoon the Juniors go to Hyde Park for water sports and basketball.

There are already four athletic meets arranged for the Seniors between Feb. 19 and March 18. Two dual meets with Brockton, one with Hyde Park and a handicap meet in Somerville. Good prizes are given in all these events.

Each Tuesday and Thursday evening at the gym there will be one special event and a silk badge given the winner. W. Griffith won the first on Tuesday in the 15 yard dash. The other events will be those used in the athletic meets and will include: potato race, shot put, high dive, rope climb, quarter mile run, half mile run, one mile run, fence vault, 3 broad jumps, run high jump, relay races, pull ups and dips.

All these athletic events together with the large gymnasium and running track at the Y. M. C. A. offers a splendid opportunity to the young men of Quincy and vicinity to become good athletes.

OVERHEAD BRIDGES

Favored by Board of Trade
At Water and Saville Streets

The abolition of grade crossings was discussed at length on Wednesday evening at the regular February meeting of the Board of Trade. There was a large attendance and President Piper was in the chair.

The committee on banquet reported that the speakers would probably be Lieutenant Governor Draper, Congressman O'Connell, Col. Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro and Loyd Chamberlain of Brockton. Prompt returns on tickets were urged.

When the grade crossing question was taken up, E. W. Branch moved that it was the sense of the Board of Trade that a way for teams be provided at Saville street. Without discussion the vote prevailed, but later in connection with the Water street crossing, Saville street was considered and the overhead bridge favored by all.

Charles H. Johnson hoped the board would become interested in the important matter and get the best. We should be active.

J. M. Nowland moved that it was the sense of the meeting that the tracks be raised at Quincy Adams to allow Water street to go under.

J. W. Pratt protested. He criticized the make-up of the committee at the public hearing, and commented on the flop of the Citizens' Association. He opposed putting the railroad 18 feet into the air. It was the streets which should be overhead and get the sunlight. We should have an overhead bridge on the present lines of Water street.

C. C. Foster hoped vote on motion would be delayed until there was a full discussion. He opposed closing Water street as proposed by railroad.

J. R. Richards thought votes were taken without full consideration, and cited examples. One night a meeting of South Quincy men voted for elevating the tracks but the very next night the same men voted for an overhead bridge. By request he presented the Tupper plans for an overhead bridge, which were the best plans, yet submitted.

T. L. Williams explained a profile of the railroad through Quincy, as exhibited.

A. W. Stetson favored a recess.

G. M. Miller of the Abbott & Miller express favored a bridge over the railroad at Saville street. Now half a ton was considered a load for one horse from the crossing at Saville street either to Upland road or Irving place, and he was positive the grade to a bridge would be easier and that a horse could draw a ton over it. Don't go under the railroad at Water street either.

J. W. Pratt would also put Granite street over the railroad by widening the street on the South side in the rear of the Greenleaf Hotel.

J. M. Nowland queried if the spur tracks south of Water street could not be at a lower level than the main track.

E. W. Branch said there would be difficulties not easily worked out. Ex-Councilman E. R. Stone said he had investigated conditions at Attleboro where the tracks had been raised, and was told by people there that the town was disappointed. That the headway was not enough. He favored a committee.

G. M. Miller said the heavy teaming at South Quincy was to the railroad, not over the railroad. The light teaming could go over a bridge all right.

J. W. Pratt explained how elevating the tracks would increase the cinder nuisance.

Representative Coombs was opposed to closing Saville or Water streets, and favored a bridge over the tracks. G. M. Miller said Franklin street should be raised at the junction with Water street which would help out. E. W. Branch understood that when a new way was built abutters on Water street could not collect damages. In justice to business on Water street, he therefore favored the present lines. The railroad assumed that the grade of the railroad through Quincy was not to be changed, but it can be. In Braintree a depression of the tracks is favored, and that would help plan for depressing them in Quincy. Could lower track at Water street four feet or more. There were exceptions to 18 foot bridges over railroads and if 16 feet would answer the grade of the street would be easier. It was feasible to lower the tracks and put bridge over at Saville street. An eight per cent grade not objectionable on east side. Saville street could be widened and a split grade used, one to depot and one to bridge.

J. M. Nowland withdrew motion to elevate tracks at Water street.

Voted to appoint committee of five to attend hearings.

Voted 19 to 2 in favor of overhead bridge at Water street.

Adjourned at 9.50.

The Eulogy By Former Pastor

The funeral of Horace B. Spear, one of Quincy's most honored citizens was held Wednesday afternoon from his late residence on Adams street. The services were largely attended many of the officials connected with the banking institutions of the city being present. There were also several of the city officials among those gathered to pay their last respects to him who had served the town and city so well.

The services were conducted by Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the First church, and Rev. Daniel Monroe Wilson, a former pastor of the church. The eulogy was given by Rev. Mr. Wilson, who spoke of his long life of usefulness in the town and city. Of his long connection with city affairs and with the banking institutions of the city.

During the services the Apollo quartette sang, "Eternal Goodness," "Sometime we'll know" and "Abide with me."

There was a wealth of beautiful flowers, including set pieces from the National Mt. Wollaston bank the National Granite bank and the Quincy Savings bank.

The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The Makaria Base Ball Team

The captain of the base-ball team of the Makaria Fraternity for next year will be Fred Smith. He was the unanimous choice of the members, while Charles O. Howard the able manager of last year was re-elected to the office of business manager. It was voted that all players must be bona fide members of the fraternity. To become such one must register his intention and come at least four times to the regular meetings of the society.

This fraternity meets every Sunday at 12 o'clock in its own pleasant rooms in Bethany church chapel. Any young man between the ages of 17 and 25 not established elsewhere, is invited to join. Many pleasant social events are connected with the club privileges.

J. A. Goodhue has recently been elected leader of the Sunday class, while Bert Miller is president. Base ball games may be arranged by addressing the manager, Charles O. Howard of Y. M. C. A.

CROWLEY HERE

Is Preambulating
The Border Towns
Of These United States

Stearl Cronley, who is making a trip around the United States, arrived in Quincy about 5 o'clock Wednesday, and spent the night at the Greenleaf. His trip is inspired by a purse of $2,000 which was donated by business men of Toledo, Ohio.

He started his trip without a cent, but by strict economy he has paid his way, and when he left Boston on Wednesday he had $2.25. He gathered in about $2 on his way to Quincy part of this was a donation of $1, and the balance by selling postal cards.

He was to leave Quincy this morning, for the Cape, but was a little indisposed. The weather was also bad, and he will probably remain in Quincy all day. He carries no baggage of any kind save a Winchester rifle and cartridge bag.

Up to the present time he has gained five pounds in weight.

Cronley's entire course has been along the Canadian border. He left Toledo Oct. 25 and went along the border to Eastport, Me., after which he followed the Maine and Massachusetts coast to Revere. He rested there for one hour, and then proceeded to this city.

He is supposed to make at least 20 miles every day, and his trip must be completed in two years and eight months.

Owing to the bad weather and two days of sickness he has been unable to make 20 miles every day, and at present, according to his table, he is about 208 miles behind time; but he hopes to make this up.

Cronley left the Toledo Blade office at 10 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 25, and has been on the road steadily ever since, except while sleeping. When he appeared at Quincy, Wednesday night he was in good shape.

The only trouble which Cronley claims to have experienced is being directed wrong on the wrong roads. He speaks highly of the treatment he has received at the hands of people who have watched him grind out mile after mile each day. Several times they tossed him coins, which have enabled him to defray his expenses.

"Some days," he said, "I have been very fortunate getting along without having to spend a cent." Tuesday was his hardest day as far as expenditures were concerned, as he had to pay out about $1.50 for food.

He intends to resume his walk following the coast southward going to New York to Florida, around the gulf of Mexico, along the Mexican line to California, then up the coast, and follow the Canadian line back to Toledo.

STILLINGS IS LAID OFF

Temporary Suspension of Public Printer by President

MAY BE MADE PERMANENT

Congressional Committee Has Been Investigating Charges of Graft and Organized Labor Has Complained of Alleged Violations of Law

Washington, Feb. 6.—It is the general understanding here in circles usually well informed that the days of Charles A. Stillings as public printer are numbered. Representative Landis of Indiana, who is chairman of the house committee on printing, which is now investigating certain phases of the administration of Stillings, discussed the case of Stillings with the president yesterday for nearly an hour.

President Roosevelt later temporarily suspended Stillings as public printer and appointed William S. Rossiter temporarily to fill the duties of that office. The action as explained officially is to facilitate the investigation now being made of the government printing office by congress. Rossiter now is chief clerk of the census office.

A letter to Stillings from the president notified him of his temporary suspension, and one to Rossiter of his temporary appointment. Rossiter is directed to report to the president "in full as soon as practicable on the condition of affairs in the office as you found them."

The suspension of Stillings follows the report of George C. Havenner to the president in which it was shown that the cost of printing at the government office for the various executive departments of the government has increased greatly during the administration of Stillings. The increased cost varies from 2 or 3 percent to more than 100 percent on various classes of matter and the increases apply in every department of the government.

Mr. Havenner's investigation showed that the cost of composition, for instance, increased nearly 40 percent, notwithstanding the best and most modern facilities are employed in the government printing office. The cost of nearly every other line of work incident to the production of printed documents shows a like increase and in some instances a very much greater increase.

For several days a committee has been investigating charges of irregularities in the printing office with respect to white paper bids, but nothing productive has been unearthed.

The committee has also been investigating charges of graft in the printing office by reason of the alleged connection between the Audit System, which is employed by the government at $80,000 a year to establish a system of accounts in the printing office, and the Suffolk Distributing company, from which supplies are purchased.

Just as the president's action in suspending Stillings was being announced, a committee of labor leaders of this city, accompanied by Representative Cary of Wisconsin, called at the White House and presented to the president resolutions adopted by the Central Labor union here on Jan. 20 last, charging Stillings with violations of the eight-hour law in the government printing office, and adding:

"It is difficult at this time to get witnesses against Mr. Stillings, for the reason that many of them are employed in the government printing office and directly under his charge. We hope, however, to follow up our oral statement by way of affidavits if necessary." The president informed the committee of the action he had already taken in the case.

Resolutions by numerous labor organizations in various cities charging violation in the government printing office of the eight-hour law, discrimination against veteran soldiers and the widows of soldiers and violation of the civil service law have been submitted to congress and the president.

Mr. Stillings is from Boston and was appointed public printer in 1905. He had been general manager of his father's printing firm in New York and at various times manager of the printers' board of trade of this city and of New York. Rossiter also came from Massachusetts and had business connections in New York and Washington before assuming office in the census bureau in 1890.

Murdered His Daughter

El Dorado, Ark., Feb. 6.—Displeased because of his daughter's recent marriage, Andrew Bradshaw fired on his son-in-law, Isaiah Wood, at the Bradshaw home. The girl rushed between the men and was struck and killed by the bullet intended for her husband. Bradshaw is under arrest.

No Break in Kentucky Deadlock

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—The senate and house, in joint session, took a formal ballot for United States senator. The ballot, which was without result, follows: Beckham 59, Bradley 58, Blackburn 1, McCreary 3, Allen 2, Flexner 1.

Shot Father at Mother's Bidding

Boniface, Fla., Feb. 6.—J. A. Strickland, a planter, was shot and probably fatally wounded as he sat near a window in his home. His 12-year-old son was arrested and admits his guilt, but says his mother persuaded him to shoot his father.

TARIFF REVISION PLANK

Republicans Will Incorporate One in Their Convention Platform

Washington, Feb. 6.—Senator Beveridge delivered an appeal to the senate to adopt his bill providing for a non-partisan tariff commission, a plan which he declared conformed to modern business ideas on this subject. Following Beveridge's address several Democratic senators spoke briefly on the general subject of the tariff.

Wetherspoon Not Confirmed

Washington, Feb. 6.—The senate, in executive session, made an effort to confirm the appointment of William W. Wetherspoon to be brigadier general, but without success. Wetherspoon was promoted over the heads of several superior officers to be brigadier general on Oct. 3, 1907, vice William P. Duvel, who was made a major general. There was very little in the debate that was directed at the president personally. The attack was mainly on his policy of forcing younger officers ahead of older men of the service.

Hotel Men's Contentment Upheld

New York, Feb. 6.—That hotel men of New York have the right to refuse food and entertainment to women after 6 o'clock at night, when unaccompanied by a man, was the verdict of a jury in a test suit brought by Mrs. Harriet S. Blatch, a suffragette, against the Hoffman House corporation. Mrs. Blatch brought suit for $500 against the hotel because service was refused to her because the hour was past 6 and she was unaccompanied by a man.

Made Jail Key From Spoon

New Cumberland, W. Va., Feb. 6.—Roy Winters escaped from the Hancock county jail by the aid of a spoon, filed in the shape of a key, furnished him from the outside. He is still at large. Winters was a clerk for the Chester shot mill and was sent to a bank for $2000, which he is accused of embezzling. He was arrested in Boston. Winters was married a week ago in the sheriff's residence to a young woman of Sewell.

City to Furnish Employment

Pittsburg, Feb. 6.—With immediate work for only about 3000 men in sight, city hall was stormed by the "unemployed" and in all 9000 application blanks were issued by the civil service commission. The relief measures provided by the ordinance appropriating $20,000 for public improvement in order to employ the idle men now appear inadequate, but notwithstanding this much good will result.

Shooting Over Family Row

St. Louis, Feb. 6.—John T. Wilson, president of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Maintenance of Way Employees, was shot twice last night by his brother-in-law, Frank G. Engelman, and is in a critical condition. The shooting occurred at the Wilson home. Wilson says his wife started a row and Engelman joined with her. Wilson brought suit for divorce from his wife a few days ago.

Depositors Threaten Vengeance

Philadelphia, Feb. 6.—Following the disappearance of Giovanni Bersani of the Banca Provinciale Romana, the contents of the bank were seized by the sheriff on a note of a patron. The bank has about 1000 depositors, who clamored for their money and hung around the offices, threatening vengeance upon the heads of the Bersani brothers, who ran the institution.

Alleged Conspiracy to Defraud

New York, Feb. 6.—On indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the United States government Ernest W. Gerbricht, chief sugar expert of the American Sugar Refining company, and seven other employees of the sugar trust were arrested and taken before the civil court in Brooklyn. The men all made pleas of not guilty and were remanded under bail.

'Knuckled Down' to Bandit

Tangier, Feb. 6.—Caid Sir Harry MacLean, who has been in the hands of the bandit Raisuli for the past seven months, is now within four hours' ride of Tangier and probably will be released tomorrow. The British government, in return for the release of MacLean, will pay $100,000 to Raisuli and guarantee him protection and immunity.

Anti-Japanese Immigration Bill

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 6.—The new immigration bill, providing that all emigrants who cannot write and read English or a language of Europe will be refused landing, was passed by the British Columbia legislature. The bill is obviously aimed at the Japanese.

Pretender Changes His Plans

Vienna, Feb. 6.—Don Miguel de Braganza, the Portuguese pretender, has not arrived here. It is reported that he changed his plans and has gone to Malta. It is stated that the duke's health makes his stay in a southern climate necessary.

WORKING ON FULL TIME

Eleven Thousand General Electric Employees Made Happy

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 6.—The financial stringency in thousands of local homes has been remedied by the starting up of the General Electric company on full time. This will affect about 11,000 employees, most of whom have been out of work since the middle of last summer.

With the exception of the few who were retained by the company and worked two and three days a week, many have not been able to get hardly a day's work throughout the whole time and in many cases the situation has been desperate. The welcome news that the company was to resume work gladdened thousands of hearts.

The financial conditions were still more benefited by a parallel announcement from the Fore River works that full time will be resumed in a short while, and that plans are being made for the extension of the company's operations at Lynn.

Lodge Members Left in a Hurry

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 6.—Fire that at first threatened to destroy the department store and building of the Gilbride company last night caused a loss of about $50,000. The Spindle City Lodge, I. O. G. T., was holding a meeting on the top floor when the fire broke out. There was a rush for the stairs and a panic was only averted by the quick appearance of the firemen from a nearby station. Two women rooming in the building were nearly overcome by smoke, being dragged from their beds.

Quakes in Connecticut

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 6.—Residents of Lanesville and Still River, points in the Housatonic river valley, were startled by two distinct earth shocks, and several long cracks, about an inch wide, appeared in the earth. The first shock occurred at 3:20 a. m. and was followed by another at 5:05 a. m., each lasting several seconds. A large earth crack appeared yesterday across Roberts avenue in this city.

Mayor Asked to Cancel Contract

Boston, Feb. 6.—In a communication to Mayor Hibbard the finance commission recommends the immediate cancellation of the contract of the city of Boston with the Edison company for lights used in public buildings. The commission contended that the city would save $13,700 a year by lighting the city "under regular contract rates."

Requests to Moody Institutions

East Northfield, Mass., Feb. 6.—Requests of $25,000 each to the Mt. Hermon school for boys and the Northfield seminary from Miss Alice Bryington of Stockbridge, Mass., and $10,000 to the Mt. Hermon school from the Rhode Island estate of Boston were announced at the founders' day exercises.

Was Fghter, Author and Judge

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 7.—Judge Charles Cowley died this morning after an illness of two weeks, aged 76. He had a long record of eminent service in law and in the navy during the Civil war. He had edited and written many and varied historical books.

Polygamy Charge Dismissed

Boston, Feb. 6.—The charge of polygamy against Lawrence Milne, arrested by the Brookline police in company with a Worcester girl, was dismissed in the Brookline police court. Milne was held in $1000 bonds, however, on another charge.

No Hope of Saving Firemen

New York, Feb. 6.—Search has continued ceaselessly, but unavailingly, for the bodies of Firemen Eglinton and McConnell, who were buried beneath tons of debris in the burned building at 43 Worth street, when the floors collapsed as a score of firemen were fighting the flames. If not dead from their injuries, they are certain to have succumbed

So Cleverly Have

the comfort features of the Ralston Health Shoe been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell until you try on a pair that Ralston Shoes are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your feet provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe--one in which the body weight instead of resting on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the entire surface of the foot bottom.

COMMODORE ROBBINS

Annual Meeting
Quincy Yacht Club
Prizes Awarded
Balance in Treasury

The annual meeting of the Quincy Yacht club was held Thursday evening at Electa hall, and was largely attended.

Commodore Crane presided and in opening the meeting said: "The Quincy Yacht Club today is a live, prosperous and democratic club, asking nothing of an applicant for membership, except that he be a good fellow and interested in yachting, and on these broad lines our membership has grown to over three hundred and sixty, and no club in Massachusetts bay can show a better class of men than our Quincy club. Retiring from the office of commodore after six years' service as commodore and vice commodore, I wish to thank the racing men, for their hearty support, the plaza committee, for their kindly advice; and the rest of the club for many courtesies; and my most earnest wish tonight is, that you give to your new commodore the same good hand of fellowship and hearty support you have given me."

PRIZE WINNERS.

Commodore Crane then presented the silver cups and pennants won in 1907 as follows:

Launch parade, August 31,--first prize to the launch Anna, owned by E. Thern; second prize to launch Lady May, owned by W. J. Tilley; third prize to launch Bonita, owned by Roy A. Thornton; fourth prize to launch Marjorie, owned by A. H. Taber.

Cape Cat class--Commodore cup to the Iris owned by Frank F. Crane; second prize to the Arawak owned by H. C. Nickerson; third prize to the Dartwell owned by G. G. Saville.

Open race, July 27,--second prize to the Lottie, owned by W. W. Gui. The first prize was cash and was awarded at the time of the race.

Club run to Marblehead--Commodore's cup to first class won by the Atlanta, owned by A. A. Lincoln; second prize a pennant to the Hotoka, owned by Joel F. Sheppard; second class pennant, to the Arawak owned by H. C. Nickerson.

The cock of the walk pennant in the Cape Cat class was awarded to the Arawak.

The cock of the walk pennant in the launch class was awarded to the Anna.

REPORTS.

Then came the report of the officers which were very satisfactory. The treasurer's report showed all bills paid and a balance on hand of $148.27. It was voted to apply $100 of this to the sinking fund swelling that fund to $369.95.

The executive committee's report showed the membership to be 364. Fifty new members were added last year. Some withdrew but the net gain for the year was 43.

BALLOT FOR OFFICERS.

Messrs. E. W. Newcomb, A. H. Taber and Bert Emery were appointed to receive and count ballots. The voting for officers was then held, the check list being used.

THE CLUBHOUSE.

While the tellers were tabulating the result other matters in the call were taken up. It was voted to appoint a committee of five to consider plans for improving the club house.

The Commodore appointed the following as that committee: F. L. Tupper, William Edwards, George E. Bell, W. S. Chase and Henry S. Crane.

A plan of the proposed improvements was shown. This provided for the widening of the building on the east side by four feet, and an extension toward the water of 18 feet. On both sides of the new part will be lockers with a passage way to the run.

On the first floor of the old part the plans call for a banquet hall, smoking room, ladies parlor, and committee room. The number of lockers under the proposed plan would be increased to 34.

RACING RULES.

Article 14 of the racing rules was amended so as to read: First Starts flying with five minutes intervals after the start of the first class. Time to be taken from the starting signal, not less than two signals shall be given before the start of the first class.

THANKS VOTED.

It was voted to extend the thanks of the club to Charles F. Adams for his efforts to lift the cup.

Thanks was also extended to Joel F. Sheppard, 2d, and F. F. Crane the crew of the Challenger.

A committee of three composed of Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., I. M. Whittemore and Eben W. Sheppard was appointed to consider the feasibility of keeping the club house open until November each year.

A vote of thanks was extended to Commodore Crane for his valuable services as commodore during the past three years.

An informal discussion was held as to the desirability of raising the club dues. Upon an informal vote the members present were equally divided on the question.

RESULT OF BALLOT.

The tellers reported the result of the election to have been as follows:--

Commodore--Herbert W. Robbins.
Vice-Commodore--Morton Smith.

An adjournment was then made.

A Lesson In Non-Partisanship

In an open letter to Mayor Hibbard of Boston, "the looker on in Athens" comments as follows on the work of Mayor Shea of the "City of Presidents":

"If you want a lesson in non-partisanship and ability to live up to pre-election pledges, cock your weather eye at the town of Quincy, the home of prohibition and Republican partisanship, where the people have elected a plain, everyday Milesian Democrat called Shea as Mayor. Mark the name, William T. Shea. Shea! One of the immortal trio, Kelly and Burke and Shea. Shea made promises and Shea made good; and yet he has at his heels as hungry a pack of vulpine politicians as ever followed the bedraggled banners of the doddering old spoilsman recently resurrected to chant the sorrows of the greasy and frost-bitten pretorians now camping on your trail.

"But Shea has gumption and spine, and his appointments have been good enough to earn the acclaim of the decent citizenship of Quincy and the approval of the Boston Transcript, which always has its emotions well in hand. We commend Shea to your notice, so that you may be saved the labor of chasing up the corridors of Time and History for heroic models of political probity. Shea is right here handy, on earth, right on the job, meeting his problems, which are yours, and giving those who elected him a square deal. His official eye is on Quincy, not on Washington or Nahant; his ear hears the voice of Quincy, not of a master.

"Get your eye and ear on Boston, George. You know who and what elected you and what is expected of you. Stiffen up your spine and play fair. We want to help you; but you must help yourself, and not let your party and its men help themselves. We are merely letting you know there is a hole in the ice ahead of you, and ask you to keep away from it. The water is cold and the spectators unsympathetic."

A Nuisance.

The oil waste which is left burning every night by the Translucent Fabric Company, back of their place on Old Colony avenue, has long been a nuisance to families in the neighborhood, as the smell is very offensive, but a few nights ago it nearly proved a real danger. It fact there is no knowing where the fire, which was creeping would have ended if Granville Winslow who lives near by had not seen it and put it out.

Ferryhouse Burned.

The small building on the shore of Town river, Germantown, used as a waiting shanty for the ferrymen, was destroyed by fire at 12.30 this morning. The fire probably started from an over-heated stove. The fire brigade connected with Sailors Snug Harbor responded, but the fire had made such headway that it was impossible to save the building.

KNOCKERS' CLUB

Dine at Expense
Of Probation Officer
With Mayor Shea
As a Guest

The Knockers club, an organization composed of lawyers, court officers and newspaper men, were entertained at dinner on Thursday by the club's president, Probation Officers Francis A. Spear. The guests at the dinner were His Honor, Mayor William T. Shea, Chief of Police Frank E. Burrell and Earl Cronley, the Ohio boy who is preambulating the border towns of the United States.

The dinner was served at Thompson's restaurant and was one of the best the club ever sat down to. The menu included soup, scollops, tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, lettuce, chicken, potatoes, pudding, ice cream, cake, coffee, toasted crackers and cheese.

As the party were about to begin the feast a neat package was laid at the plate of the president which upon being opened proved to be a pretty valentine, attached to which was his badge of office, a hammer. During the course the Mayor told how he disposed of the army of office seekers that had filled his office since he assumed the dictatorship of the affairs of the city.

Lawyer Sullivan told how they did it in Braintree, and his efforts to induce people from that borough to take up their residence in Quincy.

Chief Burrell was glad that the probation officer had lost this time, as it enabled him to be present, as well as to preside over the destinies of the Police department for the coming year.

The president told how he disposed of violators of the law given to his care, and how the newspaper men had put up the jobs that resulted in the formation of the club and the dinners incident thereto. And last but not least the preambulator told of his plans for the future, and the book of travels he intended to write on the completion of his trip.

During all this time the club members kept up their reputation as knockers of the first water. These were all taken in the same spirit as given, and the room resounded with laughter as some particularly hard knocks were given. Although the Mayor was a guest he came in for his share of knocks, which he took kindly, showing that he could look upon the pleasant side of life. It might be said that the dinner was the result of a friendly wager, and that this time it was the Probation Officer that was stung.

The Pambulator Pleased With Quincy

Cronley, the boy who is making the trip through the border towns of the United States, spent all day in Quincy on Thursday. He was impatient to start, but considered that the weather was too bad for him to make much progress.

He was up in good season this morning, and slinging his gun and cartridge bag over his shoulder he bid the landlord of the Greenleaf good bye. He then called at the Daily Ledger office to inform them he was about to start, and was directed over the most direct roads.

The Daily Ledger presented the preambulator 500 address cards which he expects to sell for five cents each, which read: "Compliments of Earl Cronley, who is preambulating the border towns of the United States; also known as Teddy from Texas, The Bachelor Kid; visited Daily Ledger in City of Presidents Quincy, Massachusetts 6th February 1908."

On leaving Quincy he headed toward Weymouth and Hingham, and will work his way on foot through Hull, Cohasset, Scituate, Marshfield, Duxbury, Kingston, Plymouth, Bourne and other towns on the Cape as far as Provincetown. He will then retrace his steps on the outside of the outside shore of the Cape and follow the coast to Florida.

He said that he had enjoyed himself in Quincy on Thursday, and besides having a good dinner with the Knockers' club had picked up some change.

An interesting entertainment in the form of "the Merry Mount Magazine" is to be given in the Wollaston Baptist church, next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Feb. 11th and 12th, for the benefit of the Free Kindergarten. Admission 25 cents. Reserved seats 35 cents. Feb. 7-2t

FLIGHT OF FRANCO

Due to Threats Which Were Made Against His Life

MANY PRISONERS RELEASED

New Premier Announces His Policy
and Sets an Example For Restoration of Normal Conditions—Political Offenders Assured of Justice

Lisbon, Feb. 7.—The secret and sudden flight of former Premier Franco from Lisbon across the frontier into Spain, accompanied by his wife and son, was caused by the threats of death
which had been made against him.
Since the murder of the king Franco has been in receipt of many letters, all threatening vengeance.

Already Franco, as dictator, had been plotted against and had gone about protected by armed guards, who also watched his house, lest those who opposed his iron rule should do him harm,
and of late to these were added the enmity of those who held that Franco was responsible, indirectly at least, for the tragedy of Saturday last.

Two of Franco's ministers also have disappeared. Senor Carvalho, it is said, fearing reprisals after the murders, hid himself in the garrets of the ministry of finance until he saw an opportunity to flee the city, while Dr. Abreu, the former minister of justice, it is believed, took his departure several days ago.

The release of several deputies and other leading Republicans from prison
yesterday did not occasion any trouble
and others will be released today. Thirteen persons arrested at the time of the assassination have been released after a most rigid examination, no proof being found against them.

The new government's program as enunciated by Premier Ferreira in his declaration that he intended to enforce respect for the laws and public order,
for which the present constitution is amplified, but that he would not be afraid to face danger wherever it might take him, is characteristic of a man trained to obey orders and shows that he is the master mind of the cabinet.

Nothing apparently could be simpler
or more direct than his plan for restoring normal conditions. The government, in making an appeal to the country to obey the law, sets an example by removing as far as possible all traces of the exceptional regime of Franco, annulling the powers concentrated in the hands of the cabinet, restoring the liberty of the press and parliamentary immunity, revoking the municipal boards appointed by the former premier and abolishing the exceptional powers conferred upon police tribunals.
It does not grant amnesty, but political prisoners may now go before the courts to be tried in accordance with the law. The elections will be held as soon as possible and the people will make their response.

Countenances Assassinations
Paris, Feb. 7.—Magathies Lima, proprietor of The Vanguardia of Lisbon,
who was banished from Portugal recently, reiterates his belief that no party was responsible for the assassination of King Carlos. He says that he considered the assassination an act of courage, concluding: "We must respect those who sacrifice themselves for their country."

Franco Going to Paris
Madrid, Feb. 7.—Senor Franco arrived here secretly from Portugal. At his hotel he gave orders that he would see absolutely no one except the Portuguese minister to Spain. It is declared that the ex-premier purposes to leave here at once for Paris.

Deposed Clergyman Dies in Asylum
Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 7.—Dr. Carl Hull-horst, a former minister of the Presbyterian faith who was expelled from the church on the ground that he preached heresies, died last evening at the state hospital for the insane, as a result of ex-posure and injuries sustained some hours earlier when he attempted to drown himself in a creek near the asylum. Dr. Hullhorst voluntarily entered the asylum ten days ago.

Harry MacLean Is Free
Tangier, Feb. 7.—Caid Sir Harry MacLean, commander of the sultan's bodyguard and next to the sultan the most influential man in Morocco, has arrived here under an escort from Raisuli, the bandit, who has held him under bondage for the past seven months.
Great Britain will pay $100,000 to Rai-suli and guarantee him protection and immunity from arrest.

Steamship Companies Agree
London, Feb. 7.—The conference of the representatives of the Atlantic steamship lines engaged in the passenger traffic has come to a conclusion. It is believed that the agreement includes an arrangement to stop cutting rates
and one to maintain passenger rates
of all classes, and possibly pool all steamer business, as is now done by the German lines.

Lantry's Resignation Accepted
New York, Feb. 7.—Mayor Mc-Clellan has accepted the resignation of Francis J. Lantry as fire commissioner.
The resignation of Lantry is the outcome of the recent investigation of the accounts of the alleged bad condition of the hose in the fire department.

ON VERGE OF RUPTURE

Russia Is Preparing For a Possible
Clash With Turkey
St. Petersburg, Feb. 7.—The reports of a Turkish mobilization in Armenia
and the threatened movements of troops
on the Russian-Persian frontier are admitted by the general staff. It is not known yet whether this action on the part of Turkey is directed against Russia, and measures so far taken by this country are confined to certain precautionary dispositions of units within the Caucasus.

Foreign diplomats here believe that Russia and Turkey are engaged in a game which neither is desirous of carrying to an extreme, although Turkey might be willing to go far, relying upon the supposed weakness of Russia
because of her quarrel with Austria
over the Macedonian question.

The prestige of M. Iswolsky, the foreign minister, has suffered severely on account of the defensive attitude that Russia has been compelled to assume in this matter.

Believes In Whole Bible
St. Louis, Feb. 7.—Rev. Gustavus
Hoffman, a retired Christian church
pastor, in the suit by which the Bible college of Missouri seeks to enforce payment of a note for $5000 given by Hoffman as a donation, has filed an answer stating that his reason for not turning the money over to the college
is that the college, in its teachings, scorns the story of the Garden of Eden and the swallowing of Jonah by the whale. In view of these facts, he says he does not want to pay the $5000, as he "has no desire to endorse heresies."

Will Give Valuable Information
New York, Feb. 7.—An exposition designed to show the best methods of safeguarding workmen and protection of the general public will be held in this city, beginning early in April. Safety devices, protected machinery in actual operation, models and photographs will be exhibited, and lectures will be given explaining industrial conditions, hazardous occupations and the most approved methods of safety.

Fight Against Adrich Bill
New York, Feb. 7.—The Merchants' Association of New York, representing the wholesale and retail commercial interests of the city, has announced its decision to oppose the Adrich financial bill, which has been presented in congress. The association voted to communicate with other commercial bodies throughout the country with a view to securing their co-operation in the stand
they have taken.

Taken From Jail and Lynched
Gainesville, Fla., Feb. 7.—Jack Long was lynched near Newberry, a small mining town. Long was accused of the murder of Elias Sapp, a farmer, and was taken from jail by a crowd of 200 men and hanged to a tree. Long's brother was killed by one of the Sapp family, who has never been captured.
This is believed to have given rise to the trouble which culminated in Long's
death.

Regarding Thaw's Release
Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Superintendent Lamb of the state hospital for the criminal insane says that if after thirty days or so it is his belief that Harry K. Thaw is sane, it will be within the province of the hospital authorities
to so certify to the court and recommend his release. A commission in lunacy or other proceedings will not be necessary, he declares.

Bryan's Argument
Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 7.—William J. Bryan was introduced at the Majestic theatre here as "the next president of the United States," which evolved applause from the large audience. The keynote of Bryan's speech was that Democratic principles are growing stronger, while those of the Republican party are weakening.

Under the Papal Ban
Munich, Feb. 7.—The pope has excommunicated Professor Joseph Schmit-zer, one of the most prominent professors in the Munich university, because of an article recently published by Schmitzer referring to the pope's encyclical on modernism. The theological students have been forbidden to attend Schmitzer's lectures.

Will Spend Rest of Life in Prison
Boulder, Mont., Feb. 7.—George Gastings, the last of the trio who held up a Northern Pacific train near Butte and murdered Engineer Clow, confessed
the crime yesterday and was given a life sentence. Henry Grube confessed on Wednesday and George Towers was sent to the penitentiary for ninety-nine years last week.

Bomb In Sergeant's Pocket
St. Petersburg, Feb. 7.—In view of a possible strike of railway employees in connection with the situation in Finland, the authorities have taken extra precautions and several arrests were made yesterday. A sergeant at the Finnish railway depot in St. Petersburg was taken into custody with a bomb in his pocket.

Was an Italian Nobleman
Baltimore, Feb. 7.—A message from the Italian minister of foreign affairs
has been received by Consul Shapiro, stating that Ernest Douglas, the mysterious foreigner who was found murdered in his room here, was in reality Count Enrico D. Scotti, a member of an Italian noble family.

The Weather Forecast

DARING HIGHWAYMEN

Use Their Revolvers Freely In Encounters With Police

FIRST HELD UP TWO MEN

Efforts to Capture Them Result In Two Officers, Driver of Police
Wagon and a Boy Being Shot—
Squad of Soldiers Called Out

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 7.—Three high-waymen, each heavily armed, appeared in Woburn and vicinity last night, and after holding up two business men at the points of revolvers shot two police officers, one seriously, the driver of a police wagon and a boy, and fired at a man who attempted to capture one of them.

Officer Timothy E. Welsh was shot in the stomach and in the left side and later in the evening Edward J. Holland was shot in the back and severely wounded. The second officer shot was Edward T. O'Neil, who received a bullet in the leg.

After the clash with Welsh and O'Neil the highwaymen shot Sherwood
Van Tassel, 12 years old, in the leg.
The police of Boston and all cities and towns in this section of the state were notified to apprehend any persons resembling the highwaymen, but no arrests have been made.

Mayor Blodgett assumed charge of the hunt for the fugitives and requested
the officers of company G, Fifth regiment, to detail a squad to assist in the search. Shortly after 11 o'clock a squad of sixteen militiamen left in carriages for the Lexington town line.
The militiamen were armed and were under instructions to shoot the high-waymen should they offer resistance.

The three robbers first made their appearance in Burlington early in the evening. They suddenly appeared beside the road from Billerica and held up William P. Adams and William Essex, who were driving from Billerica to their homes. One of the highwaymen seized the bridle and the other two pointed revolvers at Adams and Essex, at the same time demanding that they throw up their hands. One of the robbers searched both men in the wagon, but failed to find any money. No attempt was made to harm either Essex
or Adams and they were told to drive
on, the three strangers keeping their revolvers leveled until the carriage was out of sight.

Adams and Essex noticed that the men continued on the road towards Woburn, and when the two reached a house which had a telephone they notified the police here. Officers Welsh and O'Neil were sent out to watch for the appearance of the highwaymen.
About 7 o'clock the officers saw three men on Winn street, leading to the centre of the city. The two policemen followed the suspects, who finally drew their revolvers and opened fire. Welsh was shot in the stomach and in the left side, and O'Neil received a bullet in the calf of the leg. Both officers fell.

Two of the assailants ran toward Academy hill. The third man went along the railroad track. At the Main street crossing he was held up by Bert Donoghue, a barber, who had heard the shooting. Donoghue seized the fugitive, but before he could throw him the highwayman fired three shots at Donoghue's head. In the struggle the robber was unable to steady the revolver, but the bullets went through Donoghue's hat. He was not injured.
The robber escaped and a few minutes later joined his companions, who hastened along Arlington road towards Horn pond.

Along Arlington road they slackened
their pace to a walk. Near the residence of Willard Van Tassel they saw Van Tassel's 12-year-old son, Sherwood, walking behind them. Supposing that he was following them, one of the men fired several shots, one hitting the boy in the leg. The boy was on his way home and knew nothing about the previous occurrences. The boy's injuries are not serious.

At 10 o'clock last night the motorman
and conductor of a car which arrived here from Lexington reported that they saw two men on Lexington street, near the Lexington town line, acting suspiciously. The men were walking toward Lexington. Special Officer Keating was sent to investigate. He went in a police wagon with Edward J. Holland, aged 23, as driver. They overtook
a man on the road and the officer questioned the stranger, but he apparently did not understand English. Suddenly the man backed away and, drawing a revolver, fired five shots at the men in the wagon. One of these shots struck Holland in the back. The other bullet hit the back of the wagon. The man who did the shooting escaped in the darkness. The police believe that the man who shot Holland was one of those who fired on O'Neil and Welsh.

Those who had time to observe the highwaymen closely are of the opinion that they are foreigners. Two of the men are smooth shaven and appeared to be about 22 years of age. The third was somewhat older and has a moustache. All three wore overcoats and one had on a soft hat.

Wife Murder and Suicide
Colorado Springs, Col., Feb. 7.—Earl Ryan, aged 22 years, killed his young wife, of whom he was insanely jealous,
at their home in Colorado City by shooting her. He then blew out his brains.

HEARTILY ENDORSE COOPER REMEDIES

Dealer and Patient at Hallowell, Maine, Make Statements Under Oath

In connection with the intense interest manifested by the public at large in the theory of L. T. Cooper as to the human stomach being the source of nearly all ill health, the statements of Mr. W. D. Spaulding, of Hallowell, Me., one of the oldest and best-known druggists in that state, and of Mrs. Frederick Harvey, a well known nurse living in the same place, will be interesting to thousands of persons who are today suffering from ailments directly traceable to the stomach. The fact that these statements are made voluntarily, under oath, removes all element of doubt. The statements follow:

"HALLOWELL, MAINE, July 20, 1907.
"TO THE COOPER MEDICINE CO.,
"Dayton, Ohio.

"Gentlemen—The policy at Spaulding's drug store is to gain the perfect confidence of the public by never recommending any medicine or treatment until its virtues have been fully established. The Cooper Remedies were to us an unknown quality, we were very skeptical of their medicinal value, and it was not until several of our customers had received such beneficial results from their use that we could no longer doubt their value that we consented to take the agency for the Cooper Remedies in this territory, heartily endorsing the same.

"Herewith we give the testimonial of a lady whose case came under our personal observation from her being a regular customer, and she says:—
"Gentlemen of the Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton Ohio: It is with pleasure I recommend your New Discovery medicine, of which I have taken the contents of three bottles, and can today eat anything without inconvenience to myself. For a number of years I had suffered intensely with severe headaches, sour stomach, indigestion, pains in my side, and complications which made it exceedingly hard for me to accomplish even my household work. Physicians had given me dozens of prescriptions, which failed to accomplish a cure or even relief. Your New Discovery medicine advertisement attracted my attention, and I purchased a bottle of the medicine, which I took according to directions and before it was half gone, I felt very much better; when I had taken the contents of two bottles I gained courage to eat many things which for years I had denied myself, and found they caused me no ill effects. Today, after having used three bottles of the New Discovery, I can eat anything and feel that I am a well woman once more, and therefore would advise anyone to take Cooper's New Discovery, for I feel sure it will cure them.—Mrs. Frederick Harvey, Hallowell, Me.

"We endorse the above testimonial, under oath, as being correct.

"W. D. SPAULDING.
"Testimony before me under oath this 22nd day of July, 1907.
"Geo. A. Safford,
"Notary Public."

The Cooper remedies have proven eminently satisfactory wherever introduced. We will be pleased to explain their nature to anyone wishing to know about them. We are agents.—E. J. Murphy.

FEUD LEADER KILLED

Former Judge Hargis Is Shot Down by His Own Son

RESULT OF A THRASHING

Slain Man Had Figured Prominently
In Kentucky Mountain Disturbances
and Had Been Accused of Complicity in Many Killings

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 7.—His last words an unavailing plea for mercy, former Judge James Hargis was shot to death by his son, Beach Hargis. After a brief quarrel the son drew a revolver and fired four shots into his father.

"Mercy, mercy. You've killed me," appealed the elder man as he lay on the floor. Young Hargis' answer was to fire two more bullets into his parent's prostrate body. The tragedy occurred in Hargis Bros' store and was witnessed by two customers and a stenographer. All three fled.

Young Hargis was taken to jail by the town marshal and a deputy, but he struggled like a madman until thrown into his cell. Soon afterwards the report was current that he had taken morphine in his cell, but no confirmation of this nor any word of his condition could be secured from the jail officials, who are guarding him closely.

The news of Hargis' end came as a pronounced shock to the residents of Jackson and Breathitt counties, on whose bloody feud records his name appears on almost every page.

The younger Hargis had been drinking heavily, it is alleged, and some days ago his father administered a thrashing. The chastisement was the cause of the murder yesterday afternoon, the son having continued his dissipation and nursed his resentment until his father again upbraided him for his condition.

Judge Hargis had figured in the courts in the mountains for years on account of the murders of Dr. Cox, Attorney Marcum and "Jim" Cockrill. Hargis was the political leader of the Democrats in the Tenth district and was the "boss" of Breathitt county. For years his sway was not opposed, but some years ago Marcum had the temerity to oppose Hargis in a law case. From that date Marcum was a marked man.

Judge Hargis had been on trial at various times for complicity in the murder of Marcum, Cockrill and Cox, but was acquitted on all the charges. He was recently forced to pay a judgment of $8000 to Mrs. Marcum in connection with the death of her husband, a verdict having been found against him in the circuit court. Mrs. Marcum had sued Hargis and others for $100,000, alleging that they caused the death of her husband. Though Hargis was acquitted of the charge of having murdered Marcum, the jury awarded Mrs. Marcum damages against him.

The Hargis-Cockrill feud, out of which grew the almost innumerable tragedies with which Judge Hargis' name is linked, had its inception in a political contest. The Hargis had long been dominant in Breathitt county, where they conducted a general store, were engaged in the lumber business and were generally active. The brothers, James, Alex and Elbert, had accumulated what, in the mountains, is a great fortune.

The trouble with the Cockrills arose when the Cockrills opposed the Hargis at the polls. Feeling was bitter, when one day Benjamin Hargis, a young brother of Judge Hargis, met one of the Cockrill boys in a "blind tiger" near Jackson. There was a "gun play" and Cockrill killed Benjamin Hargis.

In the fall of 1902 occurred the first murder in the feud. Dr. Cox, the guardian of the Cockrill boys, was the victim, being shot as he entered his gate by assassins concealed across the way. John Smith, John Abner and others of the alleged Hargis band of assassins were accused of the crime, and in a confession made by one of them they asserted that Hargis hired them to kill Cox.

From that time on the story of the Hargis-Cockrill feud was written in blood. The next to fall was "Jim" Cockrill, the town marshal. But shortly after the murder of Cockrill, when interest had been mildly aroused, James B. Marcum, the attorney for the Cockrill boys, created a tremendous sensation by publicly declaring that he was a "marked man" and that he had been doomed by the Hargis clan.

One morning in May, five years ago, Marcum went to the courthouse in Jackson to transact some business. He was standing at the door of the courthouse, talking to Captain Ewen, after noted as a witness, when a shot rang out. Marcum staggered from the steps and fell dying, but the assassin stepped up and, to make sure, shot him again through the back of the head. The assassin was "Curt" Jett, who has since confessed his part in this tragedy, and who was accused of the other murders. He and "Tom" White are now serving life sentences in the penitentiary.

Judge Hargis will be buried in a casket which he himself purchased about a month ago. Some time during the early part of last month Judge Hargis went to the National Casket company and requested that he be shown the most elaborate caskets the company had in stock. Nothing suited him and he finally ordered one along his own ideas, costing $1500.

'MORSE WAS NOT "BROKE"

His Lawyer Thinks He Will Return,
but Others Are Skeptical

New York, Feb. 7.—At the request of United States District Attorney Stimson, Albert B. Boardman, counsel for Charles W. Morse, cabled his client late yesterday at Liverpool asking Morse to return to this city. Boardman believes that the banker will take passage on the first steamer sailing west after the arrival at Queenstown of Liverpool of steamship Campania, upon which, he says, Morse sailed from here last Saturday.

It is rumored that when Morse departed on the Campania he took with him $1,000,000 in cash and negotiable securities, and, in spite of what his attorney says, it is considered doubtful if he returns immediately.

Mr. Boardman had been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury yesterday, supposedly, he said, to tell what he knew about Morse's connection with certain banking institutions. The jury, however, did not reach Boardman's testimony.

Florida Republicans Split
St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 7.—Florida Republicans stand out conspicuously as the first to hold their convention to select delegates to the national convention. The convention here was really two conventions held at the same time in the same hall and business was frequently interrupted by a knock-down and drag-out fight. The officeholders' faction proclaimed themselves the regulars, but they did not succeed in carrying out the prearranged program. The Taft sentiment was too strong for the leaders to hold in check, and resolutions were adopted endorsing Taft for the presidency. On the other side of the hall the contesting convention took conservative action and chose delegates untrammelled by instructions.

A Cox-y Proposition
St. Louis, Feb. 7.—J. S. Coxey of Ohio, who led an "army" of unemployed to Washington in 1895, has arrived here to take part in the convention of itinerant unemployed. The "general" announced that he has been making money during the past few years and will use it to take out a special train over the country to advertise a bill he has prepared, providing that states, counties, townships and cities be permitted to issue bonds without interest, the bonds to be deposited with the government, which will permit the issuance of paper money to cover the face of the bonds.

Evans Delays Departure
Washington, Feb. 7.—Admiral Evans does not expect to leave Punta Arenas with his battleships until this evening. His dispatch on that subject to the navy department says he was ready to go ahead on the evening of the 5th, but that in order to return courtesies extended by the Chileans his departure had been delayed until Friday evening.

Coal Mines on Fire
Grafton, W. Va., Feb. 7.—The McGraw Coal company mines at Simpson caught fire from some unknown cause two days ago and are still burning. Two hundred men are making every effort possible to put out the flames, but they are not under control. The loss up to this time is estimated at over $100,000.

Won't Agree to Four Battleships
Washington, Feb. 7.—Though the house committee on naval affairs has taken no vote on the subject, there is excellent authority for predicting that it will recommend appropriations for building only two instead of the four battleships urged by President Roosevelt and Secretary McCall.

New Privileges in Force
Mexico City, Feb. 7.—The concession granted by Mexico to the United States, granting privileges for the establishment of a coaling station at Magdalena bay, is now in force. Magdalena bay will be raised to a port of entry and a sanitary station will be established there.

Chinese Seize Japanese Steamer
Hong Kong, Feb. 7.—Chinese customs officials seized a Japanese steamer near Macao, which was landing arms on Chinese territory. It is alleged that the arms were intended for revolutionists under Sun Yet Sen, the leader of the revolutionary party in China.

End of London Tribune
London, Feb. 7.—The Tribune announces that it will cease publication today. It is understood that The Tribune never has been a paying property.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Lucy M. Osborn, a real daughter of the American Revolution, died at Danbury, Conn. She was born at Danbury Dec. 3, 1807, the daughter of a soldier of Washington's army. Her mental faculties were keen and alert to the day of her death.

Funeral services for Colonel Thomas G. Lawler, past commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, were held at Rockford, Ill., and were attended by a great throng.

Dolore Garbeau, aged 20, committed suicide at Manchester, N. H., by drinking carbolic acid. Disappointment over a love affair is said to have caused the deed.

Receiver Friedman of the Dodge-Spear company, a dry goods house of Boston, has made his final report, stating that he hopes to pay a dividend of 15 percent, making a total of 40 cents on the dollar to the creditors.

Samuel M. Warren, lawyer, minister, teacher and author, who made his home in Brookline, Mass., died from heart disease while riding on an electric car at Boston. He was born at Dedham, Mass., in 1822.

WORMS IN CHILDREN 6 YEARS SUFFERING RELIEVED IN 8 HOURS

DANVILLE.
DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—One of my boys had been troubled for about six years with cramp in the stomach, and suspecting that it might be brought on by worms, we gave him different medicines, but without effect. Last January he had a more severe attack than usual, and hearing of the almost miraculous effects of your Elixir, we gave him about a teaspoonful, and in about eight hours it brought from him a living creature about eighteen inches in length. He has had no return of them since, and is now very hearty.
G. W. VICKERY.

Thousands of people have worms and don't know it, yet the symptoms are easily recognized. Even though worms be present in the system, this extraordinary remedy will effect wonderful changes in the run-down system. It is a great stomach and liver tonic and regulator. Worms in adults and children can be readily detected from the following symptoms: Indigestion; a variable appetite; offensive breath and foul tongue; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short sleep; slow fever and often, in children, convulsions and bed-wetting; nervousness; hard, swollen bowels. No matter how pronounced or how light the symptoms,

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

will restore the patient to normal health again.
TURNER ME.
DR. J. F. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—Having used your Elixir in my family for many years, after having satisfied myself of its superior merits, I recommended it to my neighbors, who now very generally use it. I consider it the very best medicine now in use, especially for children.
Very truly yours, JOB PRINCE.

NEW GLOUCESTER, MASS.
DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—The Elixir I purchased of you cured my boy, who had been troubled with worms ever since he was a child. He had tried many other medicines, and I had employed physicians until I found it of no use. I despaired of his being restored to health till I heard of your Elixir, which I am happy to say, effected a speedy cure.
Very truly yours, W. G. COOMBS.

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 50c and $1.00 per bottle. A booklet entitled "Children and Their Diseases" will be sent free by simply addressing Dr. J. F. True, 600 N. Main St., Lowell, Mass. We have a special treat for the worm. Send for free book.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Angie Harris has been on the sick list.
 Mrs. Pratt has moved into the "Riverside."
 Another young couple made happy on Thursday evening.

The Priscillas held their monthly meeting Wednesday evening.

The Junior C. E. Society at Quincy Point is planning for a concert Feb. 16.

There is good skating on the pond in the rear of the car barn on Hancock street.

Rev. A. R. Atwood made an address before the Quincy Central Labor Union Thursday evening.

It was twenty years ago Feb. 6 that a location was granted the Quincy and Boston street railway.

The Meadow Brook Ice Co. will have completed the housing of ice at their South Quincy house tomorrow.

The rain Thursday cleaned up about all the snow that fell during the morning, and left the streets slippery.

Rev. A. R. Atwood preaches Sunday evening at the Point church from the topic "A Young Disciple of Jesus."

L. K. Noyes of Boston, secretary of the Home Missionary Association, spoke at the Point church Sunday evening.

The aldermen and councilmen of the Houghes Neck Associates will meet tonight at LaBree's on Shennan street.

Rev. A. C. Alvord of South Weymouth preaches by exchange, at the Point church Sunday morning, Feb. 9.

New pupils are joining the Point Sunday school. John Hendry, is superintendent of the new Intermediate department.

The schooner Fortune that went ashore on Lovells island during the storm of Jan. 22 was hauled off Thursday.

At the billiard tournament at the Granite Club Thursday night, S. F. Nutting (150) beat Henry McGrath (200), by score of 150 to 120.

Mrs. Helen G. Rice general secretary of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be present at the L. T. L. of Quincy at Protection hall in Johnson building on Saturday, at 2.30, all are most cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Rice has a very interesting talk.

The Point C. E. Society was well represented at the union rally on Monday evening. It received third rank for percentage of attendance; its pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood made the opening prayer; its ex-president, Fred Barnard, recited the scripture lesson.

Miss Avis Tobey of Lincoln avenue who has been confined to the house since Christmas, and whose condition has given her parents and friends much anxiety, was operated on for appendicitis two weeks ago. Her many friends will be glad to know she is now convalescing and doing as well as can be expected.

The regular weekly meeting of the Octopus Sewing Society was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Mitchell, 124 Upland road, Thursday evening. The first part of the evening was devoted to business after which many ideas were exchanged with a view of creating many new and startling effects in embroidery. A light collation was served during the evening.

W. R. Lofgren has been having quite a serious time since his accident of Jan. 14, when a big timber fell on his leg. A blood artery was severed and on Jan. 22 it was necessary to have an operation. He is still confined to the house, but may be out next week.

Archibald McLeod and B. R. McQuinn have reopened the Hancock market. Both are well known, having been connected with stores in the city for several years, and should succeed.

It was just fine, say those who heard the lecture by Thomas A. Watson on "Enoch Arden" at Wollaston on Thursday evening. The accompaniment of Mr. Guttersen added the finishing touches and it was a delightful evening's entertainment which was given at the residence of J. A. Sparrow of Highland avenue.

Happy Couple Did Not Escape

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bullock nee Rita Lofthorp who were married in Quincy Thursday night, thought to escape from all Quincy friends by giving out that they would take the 8.08 train for Boston, but instead they left their carriage at Woodward Institute and took the electric car. They had just entered the North Station to take the 10 P. M. train for Portland and were congratulating themselves on their good luck, when just at that moment they saw coming towards them fifteen members of the Iroquois club and the young men were just as much surprised to see the happy couple as they were to be "discovered," for they had made up their minds that they were "stung." They were able to give them a good rousing send off. Mr. Bullock will be remembered as an end man at the recent minstrel show, and Mrs. Bullock was in the specialty cast.

Dorothea Dix Hall Girls Entertain

One of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given in Quincy was that by six children from the Dorothea Dix Hall Association in Boston at the parish house of Christ church Thursday evening, under the auspices of Mrs. Effie Rhines. The girls were: Juliette Day, Doris Horslin, Stella Craig, Alison Black, Blanche Winters and Mazie Loman, ranging in age from fourteen years to only six years.

The girls had different costumes for each number which added to the interest. The program included twelve numbers: choruses, solos, duets, trios, pantomimes, recitations, dances, sketches, etc.

Every number was encoored and sometimes the artists were recalled two and three times. The choruses were: "Yankee Doodle Town," "Honey Boy," "Ghost of a Banjo Coon," and "Come love, I'm waiting." There were no dull moments for the fancy steps, etc., kept the audience on the qui vive all the time. In the last chorus Miss Day picked out a certain young man in the audience and directed her words entirely to him and by gestures made the song the hit of the evening.

All the girls were stars and every number was clever. Little Mazie Loman, but six years old, made a great hit in recitations and songs, and in a sketch entitled "The Property Baby." "Holsteins Band," as given by Misses Horslin, Craig and Black, was exceedingly well acted. Miss Winters was prominent in the opening chorus, the duet and the pantomime.

The girls were accompanied by Thomas F. Reddy, the secretary, and Mrs. Alice L. Glover, as accompanist. There are at the home about eighteen girls who are professionals, but only six go out at a time. The association is charitable and educational. It is non sectarian, and organized for the care, protection and education of stage children, and the children of actors.

Quincy Man Toastmaster.

Henry L. Kincaide, John W. Walsh, W. G. Shaw and Bert Emery represented the Quincy furniture trade at the second annual banquet of the Home Furnishers' association at Young's hotel, Boston, Wednesday evening. The after dinner exercises were conducted by Henry L. Kincaide, who made an excellent toastmaster. At the election of officers Mr. Kincaide was elected one of the vice presidents. Before the party adjourned they presented Mayor Hibbard, through his private secretary, with a model of a proposed City Hall constructed of beautiful flowers.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The Marine Review in a recent issue prints the following regarding the local shipyard. "The shipyard of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy, near Boston, Mass., although opened only a few years ago, has already become one of the most important plants on the Atlantic coast for the construction of large ships. It would be difficult to find one equipped more completely and embodying more of everything that is latest and best in engineering practice."

A nickel steel crank shaft is being forged, black oil tempered, and annealed for outside parties.

The statistics of the navigation through the Suez Canal during 1906, show that 3975 vessels, with a total tonnage of 18,800,169 tons gross and a net tonnage of 13,443,392, passed through. Of this number 97 were warships and military transports. The passengers numbered 135,752 civil and 258,501 military, of which 57,183 and 127,134 respectively, were British, 19,762 and 25,615 were German, and 22,201 and 21,093 were French.

Secretary Metcalf of the Navy said this week appropriation of $73,770,000 for construction and conversion of war vessels. The impression prevails that the Secretary's estimate will be reduced materially, possibly to the limit of $40,000,000 in accord with the policy of economy felt to be necessary and in the face of an impending deficit and the prospect of reduced revenues throughout the coming fiscal year. The Secretary urged upon the committee the necessity of authorizing the construction of:

Four battleships to cost $38,000,000 for all.

Four scout cruisers at $10,000,000. Ten destroyers at $8,500,000.

Four marines at $1,520,000. One ammunition ship, $1,750,000.

One repair ship, $2,000,000.

Two nine-laying ships (cruisers to be converted and equipped), at $5,000,000.

Four fleet colliers at $7,000,000.

At a meeting of the Society of Naval Architects held in Berlin, Herr Schulthes described his plan for the electric propulsion of ships. Besides coal, the only fuels so far used in connection with the propulsion of ships are benzine and petroleum. The former, owing to its high cost as well as to its inflammability, cannot be used for the propulsion of large-sized vessels, either in sea or river traffic, the more so as benzine motors have not so far been constructed for large output. As regards petroleum motors, the only type so far developed to capacities of say 500 horsepower is the Diesel motor, but owing to its great weight and considerable space requirements, is not either available for this purpose. Another even more important factor is that internal combustion engines are not capable of the regulation required for the propulsion of ships.

Electric power transmission from the engine to the propeller shaft has therefore been resorted to, in order to utilize these motors in a really satisfactory manner, and this problem has been solved in different ways, both by means of accumulators and by "mixed" systems, among which the Siemens-Schuckert system may be mentioned. According to this system, the power generated in the engine also that stored in the accumulators is utilized as occasion may require. Another mixed system is the Del Proposto scheme, in which an electric motor is mounted on the propeller shaft and a dynamo on the shaft of the engine, using electric power transmission up to half load, and coupling the two shafts together only in the case of high speeds and for forward running, so that the engine works directly on the propellers for higher loads. An obvious condition in this connection is that the speed of rotation of the propellers for maximum loads should be the same as that of the engine. Now, the higher this speed the less satisfactory will be the efficiency of the propeller, especially in the case of vessels transporting heavy loads at moderate speeds. As this condition is favorable to steam turbines, it would seem to be quite feasible to devise a similar mixed system on vessels equipped with steam turbines.

According to the scheme suggested by Schulthes, internal combustion in connection with electric-power transmission would be used up to about 1000 to 2000 horsepower, while in the case of higher capacities steam turbines operated at high speeds of revolution, with corresponding high efficiency, and electric-power transmission with slowly rotating propellers would be employed. The propellers could be controlled directly from the bridge by this method. The German navy has ordered a special ship to be fitted with the Schulthes turbine propulsion and a Siemens-Schuckert plant. This vessel, which is being built on the Howaldt shipyards at Kiel, will commence her trial runs in the course of a few months.

Washington vs. Cranch School

If one hundred and fifty boys did not have a good time in the Y. M. C. A. gym Thursday after school, then cheering and noise don't indicate anything.

The boys were from the Cranch and the Washington schools. After watching the work of the junior class in marches, made runs, drills, etc., all conducted to music, the rival schools were invited on the gym floor and the fun began.

A potato race was the first event and every boy of the 150 wanted to run at once. Finally six boys from each school were picked to run in three races. The Point school made 12 points, and the Cranch 9.

In basket ball the Point was again victorious, winning by a score of 10 to 0.

Four relay teams from each school were then selected, and raced for the championship. With three races run, the honors were even, each winning one, with one a tie. The fourth was run to decide, and was won by the Cranch boys.

It was a boy's good time and only a sample of the good times furnished daily by the Y. M. C. A. to its members.

Lost the First

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ## A MINISTRY FORMED

Portugal's Premier Says People Are Attached to Monarchy

REVOLUTION NOT POSSIBLE

Schemes Defeated by Assassination of Heads of Nation—Franco's Political Career Ended—Great Conspiracy Not Yet Unraveled

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—Lisbon is beginning to recover from the shock and horror of Saturday's bloody tragedy, but a strong undercurrent of popular and governmental nervousness remains. The political tension is slackening.

During the course of the day Admiral do Amaral succeeded in bringing the opposing factions to his way of thinking and finally announced that his cabinet had been definitely constituted.

In an interview the new premier said that he had accepted power in order to pacify the disturbed public spirit and re-establish normal life, because he believed that the Portuguese people were devotedly attached to the monarchy. If revolution was ever possible, he said, the terrible crime which has overwhelmed the nation would prevent its realization. The premier plans to hold the new elections in April.

Admiral do Amaral, the devoted friend of the queen, who assumes power, is committed to the reversal of the entire policy of the dictatorship, the abolition of repressive measures and the restoration of "the old liberal monarchy."

On Saturday government by decree will be withdrawn, amnesty accorded political offenders not implicated in deeds of violence and the embargo on the press raised.

Franco's downfall is complete. He recognized that it was impossible to saddle the youthful king at the outset of his reign with a stern program involving the immediate banishment and deportation of several hundred political offenders, to which he had committed himself if he retained office. He told a friend that the assassination of the king ended his political career. He offered his services, however, but these were refused, both Queen Amelie and the dowager queen, Maria Pia, agreeing with the unanimous view of the council of state that the author of the dictatorship must be cast aside.

Bernardino Machado, the leader of the peaceful wing of the Republicans, agrees to a truce provided that his friends now under arrest are liberated, freedom of the press restored and new elections ordered.

Machado, in an interview with The Associated Press staff correspondent, speaking in the name of the Republican party, disclaimed all connection with the crime. He expressed strong condemnation of it and attributed it to individuals carried away by political excitement.

Machado believes the crisis is over. He considers that the return to constitutional liberty will have a tranquillizing effect, so that the calm may endure for a long time. "But," he said, "the Republican movement, no longer to be disregarded, will grow, and sooner or later, will manifest itself with irresistible power."

Practically no headway has been made in unravelling the plot, of which the murder of the king and crown

The Social Realm

The common problem, yours, mine, every one's, is not to fancy what were fair in life. Provided it could be--but finding first What may be, then find how to make it fair. Up to our means, a very different thing. --Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening February fifth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Packard, Chestnut street, when Rev. D. M. Wilson of Northfield united in marriage their youngest daughter Bertha Haskell and Mr. Joseph Copeland Morse. Mr. and Mrs. Morse left on a short wedding trip amid a shower of rice and confetti. They will be at home to friends after April first at 24 Merrymount road.

Miss C. M. Jones of Greenfield, Mass., who has been spending a few days with the Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Stoddard of the Galvary Baptist church returned home on Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting of the Kitnulta whist club which was to be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Sturn (Gertrude Warren) of Jamaica Plain Monday evening was postponed until later in the season. The club will meet on Feb. 17 with Mrs. E. Tyler Brigham of Wollaston.

Mrs. Theodore D. Bacon and Mrs. Alfred Manchester are to pour at the Unitarian tea on Monday afternoon from four until five at the Association building, 25 Beacon street, Boston.

The Shakespeare club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Harry Kolseth of Walker street and finished the comedy "The Taming of the Shrew." On Thursday, Feb. 20 the club will study mythology at the Museum of Fine Arts. The next play to be taken up will be "Twelfth Night" which will finish the new plays this season.

Miss Fannie Rothenburg of Boston and Hull, started this week for California. She will stop over at several of the larger cities en-route.

Fragment society of First church has decided to make a change from the monthly suppers given by the church and hold a sociable instead, the first one to be on Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th, from eight until ten o'clock. There will be a social time with entertainment. Chafing dish refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Willard E. Noyes and little daughter Dorothy of Fall River, are the guests of Mrs. Daniel Snow of Cottage street.

The Valentine ball next Friday night at Quincy Music hall is interesting society people of neighboring towns as well as our own people and it promises to be quite the event of the month socially. The committee was fortunate in securing Mullaly's orchestra at short notice. A large sum will doubtless be realized for the benefit of the Day Nursery, as Quincy society people seldom participate in a large dance unless for sweet charity.

Mrs. Elisha D. Atkins of Bromfield street who is visiting friends in Baltimore, Md., is leaving there next week for Tampa, Florida, where she will remain during March.

Miss Agnes Early of Newton Lower Falls was the guest Tuesday of Miss Lisabelle Linnell of Davis street.

The Pioneer Whist club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred P. Loud at Beach street. Prizes were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treadway, Mrs. James and A. E. Linnell.

Miss Etta M. Prescott has been spending a few days this week with friends in Revere.

Master George Hill of Clive street celebrated his seventh birthday Wednesday afternoon by entertaining a few of his little friends. During the serving of refreshments, a birthday cake with seven blazing candles was brought on to the table and Master George had the honor of cutting and serving this particular dainty himself. The afternoon was spent playing games.

Miss Helen Gavin of Irving place is in New York for a few weeks.

Mr. Henry E. Hardwick is altering over his barn at Kennerly, Nantasket, into a handsome house which he will occupy next summer with his family. The house has a very large living room, ample for the large parties which the Hardwicks gather about them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hill of Walker street, Atlantic, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Gertrude, to Mr. Robert Henry Cook of Athol, Mass.

Miss Charlotte Burgess entertained a large party of musical friends last Saturday evening at a musicale at the home of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale.

Mrs. Clarence B. Underwood and Miss Josephine Underwood of Spear street have been spending a week in Allston, guests of Mrs. James Underwood.

Miss Mildred R. Dyer of Braintree entertained a few friends last Monday night in honor of her fifteenth birthday. During the evening she received many gifts, among them a beautiful gold ring.

Mrs. Harry W. Read of Squantum street gave a thimble party for the Ladies' Benevolent society at her home on Friday afternoon. The work will be for the Easter sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth have returned from their ocean trip to Vera Cruz, Mexico. They report a most enjoyable trip.

Dr. William Gallagher has gone to New York in the interests of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield and Miss Sylvia of Brook street are guests for a few weeks of Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant of Presidents hill during the absence of Mr. Sturtevant in the South.

Mrs. F. Ramon Burke entertained a few friends at whist on Wednesday afternoon.

The Misses Susie and Louise Halloran of Atlantic attended the costume carnival given by the New England Conservatory of Music, Tuesday evening, which was held in Symphony hall.

The members of the Matrons' whist club met Wednesday evening with Mrs. A. A. Smith of Braintree. Bounteous refreshments were served, and another pleasant evening added to the winter's pleasure.

Mr. Arthur P. Duck who has been living in Quincy for several years, sailed last Tuesday on the Saxonia, for England, where he will visit his old home, in Liscard, near Liverpool for a few months.

Mrs. David R. DeCoste of Whitwell street and sister Miss Margaret S. Webb, B. A., of Scranton, Pa., returned Thursday from a five weeks' stay in Nova Scotia.

The Union Literary Circle held their last meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Edison of Braintree. The paper on "Newspaper Work" by Mr. Hendersholt of Lisle street was a wide awake and instructive article. Miss Jessie Magregor gave a bright paper upon "Books and Papers of today: their Reading and Value, Individual and Relative."

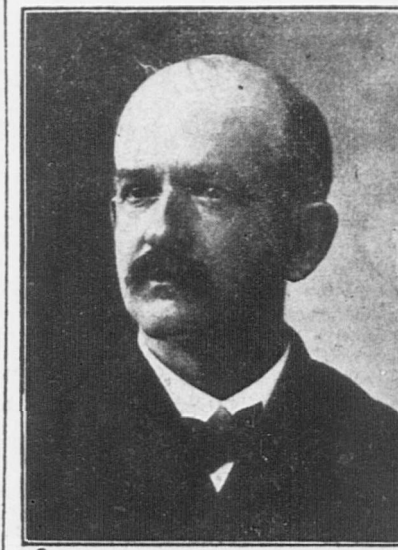

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Kemper street is to give her lecture on "Food Values" before the East Walpole Wednesday club on Feb. 11th and again, the same subject on Feb. 18 before the Whitman club.

The ushers for the Valentine ball at Music hall next Friday evening are: Dexter E. Wadsworth, Joseph W. Bartlett, Elisha B. Bird, George E. Brown, Dr. Burke, Dr. Curtis, Dr. Samuel W. Ellsworth, Charles R. Hendrie, Dr. Hunting, Edward E. Jameson, Delceavere King, Russell C. Low, Dr. Monroe, George E. Pfaffmann, Fred B. Rice, Dr. Sargent, Robert H. Sibley and Charles R. Safford.

THERE ARE TWO WAYS

City Official
Asked by Mayor
To Hand In His Resignation

There have been rumors of late that something might "drop" in the office of the Assessors at City Hall. Even before Mayor Shea was inaugurated it was said there would be an entire new board of Assessors this year, although it is a continuous board, one member being appointed each year for three years.

This morning Mayor Shea called Charles H. Johnson, the chairman of the board, into his office and the brief interview is reported as follows:

Mayor Shea said: Mr. Johnson, I have decided to make a change in your office. There are two ways: One by resignation on your part; the other by removal. I therefore ask you to hand in your resignation by Monday.

Assessor Johnson replied that he would take the subject under advisement.

Mr. Johnson was appointed as a member of the Board of Assessors in January, 1906, by Mayor Hall, and was appointed in 1903 by Mayor Bryant, and again in 1906 by Mayor Thompson, so that he has served eight years on the board, and his term would not expire until February, 1909.

When the board organized in 1905, Mr. Johnson was elected as chairman of the board, and he has continued in that capacity up to the present time. In 1906 he was appointed for three years.

Mr. Johnson has been prominently identified with the Republican City Committee for a number of years, and has been a hard worker for the success of his party. During the last municipal campaign he was a supporter for Mr. Piper, and it is probably due to his activity at that time that he has been requested to step down and out.

On Monday last, the first Monday in February, when the administrative boards of the city are expected under the City Charter to organize, Mr. Johnson saw the Mayor. He informs the Daily Ledger that he called the attention of His Honor to the fact that he has not designated a chairman, but if it was his wish that Mr. Adams be chairman he was ready to vote for him. The Mayor requested that the board should not organize.

After the lapse of a few days it was decided by a majority of the board to organize. Mr. Adams was present, but declined to vote, casting blank ballots. Mr. Johnson was re-elected chairman by the votes of J. W. Pratt and Mr. Johnson himself.

Whether the act of organization had anything to do with the stand of the Mayor, Mr. Johnson does not know, but he understood that the request not to organize applied only to Monday.

A new law of the Legislature of 1907 which went into effect the first day of January, 1908, reads in part: "Each Assessor in every city and town of the Commonwealth, except in the city of Boston, shall be elected or appointed to hold office for the term of three years, and until his successor is duly elected or appointed." There is a proviso that where there is already a continuous board it shall be continued.

REGULATIONS

OF THE

Board of Health CITY OF QUINCY.

At a meeting held Feb. 5, 1908, the Board of Health of the City of Quincy, revised and adopted, and do hereby publish the following regulations:

Regulation 1. No person shall collect, remove, or carry in or through any of the streets, lanes, avenues, places or alleys within the City of Quincy, the contents of any cesspool, vault, privy, or privy well, the drainage of any stable, dwelling house, slaughter house or other building in the city, unless expressly licensed therefor by the Board of Health, upon such terms and conditions and by such methods as the Board may deem that the public health requires, and upon failure to comply therewith, the license shall be forthwith revoked and cancelled. No privy-vault or cesspool shall be cleaned between 6 P. M. and sunrise.

Reg. 2. No person shall deposit the contents of any privy-vault or cesspool, or any other filth, upon any premises within the limits of the city, without first having obtained a permit to do so from the Board of Health. Nor shall any cesspool for the retention of waste water be within ten feet of any house, unless the cesspool be cemented water-tight and satisfactory to the Board of Health. No privy-vault or cesspool that is not water-tight, shall be maintained within two rods of any well, spring, or other source of water supply used for drinking purposes.

Reg. 3. No person shall keep swill or other house offal except in a closely covered receptacle.

Reg. 4. No person, unless expressly licensed therefor by the Board of Health, shall collect, transport or convey swill, fat, grease, bones, or any decaying, putrifying or offensive animal matter or vegetable substance through any of the public streets or ways of the city. All vehicles and vessels for the transportation of the above named substances shall be made and kept in such condition as will prevent the escape of any of their contents, or the odor thereof, and each wagon shall in addition, be covered with a clean and sound, heavy canvas, fastened securely to the wagon so as to entirely conceal the same from view. Every vehicle so used shall have the initials of the owner, and number of the wagon, in letters and figures three inches in size, painted on the outside of each side thereof.

Any violation of this regulation will be punished by a fine not exceeding $100.

Reg. 5. All persons licensed by the Board to remove the contents of privy-vaults and cesspools, and all who collect and transport swill, refuse and offensive animal or vegetable substances, shall keep all carts, equipments and implements used therefor, disinfected and free from all obnoxious or offensive odors when not in immediate use, and shall not allow the same to become obnoxious or offensive to the public or to the owners or occupants of premises adjoining those where the same are kept or stored.

Reg. 6. No person shall place, or cause to be placed, or empty, or cause to be emptied, upon any street, way, lane or sidewalk, any house dirt, offal or rubbish, any sewage, or the draining of any sink or stable, or the contents of any cesspool, vault, privy or privy well. No person shall cast any decayed vegetable or dead animal substance, house dirt, offal, or rubbish, ashes or cans, into any cesspool, privy-vault, or into any well, cistern, reservoir, pond or waters within the city, nor drown, nor cause to be drowned, any animal in any of said waters. And the carcasses of animals dead of disease or killed for any cause, shall be buried at such distance from dwellings, or wells, or other source of water supply, that no danger or nuisance can result; and no person shall establish or maintain any stable, swine pen, privy, or privy-vault, cesspool or sink drain within ten feet of any stream, water-course or pond, or to allow any overflow from such stables, swine pen, privy-vault, cesspool or sink drain to enter any stream, watercourse or pond in this city. Nor shall any person obstruct or cause to be obstructed any water course, with any substance whatsoever.

Reg. 7. The keeping of swine, goats, cows, or poultry in any part of the city where such keeping shall be held by the Board of Health detrimental to the public health or offensive to the neighborhood, is hereby prohibited, and after due notice by said Board to the owner or person in charge, he shall forthwith remove the same or cause the same to be removed, from any place at which the keeping thereof shall be prohibited by the Board.

Reg. 8. No person shall burn, boil, try or decompose any refuse substances, either animal or vegetable, in such a manner that the same shall evolve odors or gases obnoxious or offensive to the public or to the owners or occupants of adjoining premises.

Reg. 9. The Board of Health hereby adjudges that the deposit of sputum in public places is a nuisance, source of filth and cause of sickness, and it is hereby Ordered that spitting upon the floor, platform or steps of any railroad or railway station, car, public building, hall, church, theatre, market, or any sidewalk, be and hereby is prohibited.

Reg. 10. Every occupant or owner of any dwelling house, tenement or other building in this city, shall keep such house or building, and the yard belonging to the same, free from all filth and from all substances having offensive odors.

Whenever a vault, cesspool, barn or cellar or any building on premises of any description, becomes offensive, the same shall be satisfactorily cleaned, ventilated and disinfected, by the occupant or owner within such reasonable time as the Board of Health may in a notice thereof prescribe.

Whenever the Board of Health is satisfied on due examination that a cellar, tenement or building within the city occupied as a dwelling house, has become, by reason of the number of occupants, want of cleanliness, or other cause, unfit for such purpose, the occupants shall remove therefrom within forty-eight hours after written notice has been given them.

Reg. 11. No rags, old paper or other refuse material collected from dumping grounds, streets, or recovered from any source, shall be brought into or allowed to remain within any building used as a dwelling.

Reg. 12. No person shall store or keep, or allow to be stored or kept in any living rooms in house of which he is the owner or occupant, any fruit for merchandise.

Reg. 13. The waste pipe of every sink now in use shall be furnished with a four inch round trap unless there is already some trap connected thereto, approved by the Board of Health.

Whoever violates any provisions of any kind of these regulations shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offence.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Reg. 14. The Board of Health considers the following diseases as dangerous to the public health within the meaning of the statute: Actinomycosis, Asiatic cholera, cerebrospinal meningitis, diphtheria, glanders, leprosy, malignant pustule, measles, scarlet fever, smallpox, tetanus, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, typhus fever, varicella, whooping-cough, yellow fever and ophthalmia neonatorum.

Reg. 15. If a physician knows that a person whom he is called to visit, is infected with small-pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof in writing over his own signature to the selectmen or Board of Health of the town; and if he refuses or neglects to give such notice he shall forfeit not less than fifty or more than two hundred dollars for each offence. Revised Laws, Chapter 75, Section 50.

QUARANTINE.

Reg. 16. Any person sick with any disease dangerous to the public health and all articles infected by the same, shall be immediately separated from all persons liable to contract or communicate such disease, and none but nurses and physicians shall have access to persons sick with said disease. No person sick with any of said diseases shall be removed at any time except by permission and under the direction of the Board of Health.

Reg. 17. Any home in which any of the above diseases shall occur, may be declared in quarantine by the Board of Health, or its authorized agent or agents. When a house has been declared in quarantine, all persons residing therein shall be subject to the Rules of the Board of Health relating to quarantine.

Reg. 18. All persons residing in a house that has been declared in quarantine shall confine themselves to said house or its immediate grounds, and shall not hold communication with well persons. Communication with said house shall be limited to physicians, nurses, and undertakers, and such persons as may be needed to supply its inmates with the necessities of life and in such manner as the Board of Health may direct.

Reg. 19. When in the opinion of the Board of Health, or its agent, the necessity for quarantine has passed, it shall declare the quarantine raised, and disinfect the house. See Chap. 75, Sec. 42 Revised Laws, as amended by Chap. 445, section 36 of the Acts of 1907. "If a disease which is dangerous to the public health breaks out in a town, or if a person is infected or lately has been infected with such disease, the Board of Health shall immediately provide such hospital or place of reception, and such nurses and other assistance and necessities, as is judged best for the accommodation and for the safety of the inhabitants and the same shall be subject to the regulations of the board. The board may cause any sick or infected person to be removed to such hospital or place, if it can be done without danger to his health; otherwise the house or place in which he remains shall be considered as a hospital, and all persons residing in or in any way connected therewith shall be subject to the regulations of the said board and if necessary, persons in the neighborhood may be removed. When the board of health of a city or town shall deem it necessary in the interest of the public health to require a resident wage-earner to remain within such house or place, or otherwise to interfere with the following of his employment, he shall receive from such city or town during the period of his restraint compensation to the extent of three fourths of his regular wages: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, that the amount so received shall not exceed two dollars for each working day.

Reg. 20. Every dwelling where diphtheria, scarlet fever, cerebrospinal meningitis and small-pox is known to exist shall be conspicuously labelled at its entrance with a card properly specifying the disease; such card there to remain until removed by the Board or its agent, or by permission of said Board.

See Revised Laws, Chapter 75, Section 43. "Whoever obstructs the selectmen, Board of Health or its agents in using such means, or willfully removes, obliterates, defaces or handles such red flags or other signals shall forfeit not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars for each offence.

Reg. 21. No child shall be allowed to attend the public schools while any member of the family to which said child belongs is sick with cholera, yellow fever, small-pox, diphtheria, membranous croup, scarlet fever, measles, typhus fever and epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, or during a period of two weeks after the death, recovery or removal of such sick person; and any pupil coming from such family shall be required to present to the teacher of the school the pupil desires to attend a certificate from the attending physician and endorsed by a member of the Board of Health, of the facts necessary to entitle such child to admission in accordance with the above regulation. No child or person living or boarding in a family in which any of the above diseases exist, shall be allowed to remove or cause to be removed from such family until all danger from contagion has passed and the house has been relieved from quarantine.

Reg. 22. No person from any dwelling wherein a disease dangerous to the public health exists; shall take any book or magazine to or from the Public Library without a permit from the Board of Health. The Board will inform the librarian of all cases of said diseases, and until a written permit is given, the librarian shall allow neither books nor magazines to be taken to or returned from the dwellings where such cases exist.

Reg. 23. No house shall be disinfected less than four weeks after the reporting to this Board of a case of scarlet fever.

Reg. 24. All bedding and personal clothing or property exposed to contagion or infection by any of the diseases dangerous to the public health, shall be at once properly cleansed, fumigated or destroyed, as the Board of Health may direct.

Reg. 25. No patient affected with any contagious disease will be considered well and free from quarantine until the attending physician, or a physician employed by the Board of Health, certifies that he has personally inspected the patient and found that he is no longer a source of danger. No such certificate will be received by the Board of Health, in case of scarlet fever, until at least four weeks have elapsed from the reporting of the illness, and desquamation is complete. No certificate of recovery, unless endorsed by the secretary of the Board of Health will admit said patient to attend any school in the city.

Reg. 26. When a person who has been sick with any of the diseases specified in Regulation 14 has recovered or died, the Board of Health, upon notification in writing by the physicians in attendance, that the house is ready for disinfection, shall proceed to disinfect said house in such a manner as it shall deem proper, provided that in case of scarlet fever at least four weeks have elapsed since the reporting of the sickness.

Reg. 27. No pupil affected with mumps, or German measles, shall be permitted to attend school until fully recovered.

Reg. 28. Every person engaged in the production, storage, transportation, sale, delivery, or distribution of milk, shall immediately on the occurrence of any case or cases of disease dangerous to the public health, either in himself, or in his family, or amongst his employees, or within the building or premises, where milk is stored, sold, or distributed, notify the Board of Health, and may be made to suspend the sale and distribution of milk until authorized to resume the same by the Board of Health. No vessels which have been handled by persons suffering from such diseases shall be used to hold or convey milk until they have been thoroughly sterilized.

Reg. 29. Any undertaker or other person having in his care or possession the body of a person who has died of a disease dangerous to the public health, shall give immediate notice to the Board of Health, and shall cause such body, including the face to be wrapped in a sheet saturated with a solution of Corrosive Sublime not less than 1-500 in strength, or a 40-100 solution of Formaldehyde, and shall immediately place it in a sealed coffin, which shall not thereafter be opened. He shall notify the said Board or its agent, of time when body is to be removed, and shall sign a certificate containing a true statement of the fact that he has complied with the foregoing provision of this section, and he, and every person having charge or custody, or authorized to remove the same, shall cause the burial to take place immediately, and in all cases within eight hours after the time of death, unless further time shall be allowed by the Board of Health. A private funeral shall be held, at which none but the immediate adult relatives and clergymen shall be present. The body shall, in no case be removed in any carriage used in conveying passengers.

Reg. 30. The use of "wall draperies and rugs" in any room or place used for the preparation or retention of any human body before a funeral, is hereby forbidden.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES AMONG DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Reg. 31. Whoever has knowledge of, or has good reason to suspect, the existence of a contagious disease among any species of domestic animals, whether such knowledge is obtained by personal examination or otherwise, shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Board of Health.

Reg. 32. No person, except as ordered or directed by the Board of Health, shall drive or cause to pass through said city, from place to place or from place to place therein, animals diseased or infected with pleuro-pneumonia, farcy, or glanders, or rabies or any other contagious or infectious disease.

Reg. 33. Persons having the care and custody of animals diseased or infected with pleuro-pneumonia, farcy, glanders, or rabies, or any other contagious or infectious disease, whether their own property or otherwise, and having received an order for their isolation, shall neither sell, swap, trade, give nor in any way dispose of such animals; nor drive, nor work, nor move, nor allow them to be moved away from the place of isolation, nor allow other animals, not already exposed, to come in contact with them until otherwise ordered by the Board of Health, of the City of Quincy, or the State Cattle Commissioners.

Whoever violates any of the provisions of the foregoing regulations (31, 32 and 33) shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year.

ABANDONED CESSPOOLS AND VAULTS.

Reg. 34. When vaults, privies or cesspools are hereafter abandoned they shall within ten days (unless otherwise permitted) be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected and filled with earth or other suitable material and left in a proper condition satisfactory to the Board of Health.

Whoever shall violate the provisions of this Section shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred (100) dollars for each and every offence.

Reg. 35. All complaints to this Board must be made in writing over complainant's signature.

STABLE RULES.

The attention of all owners of stables in this city is called to Revised Laws Chapter 102 Sections 69-72 inclusive. All licenses issued under above Laws shall be subject to the following rules:

(a) The erection of all stables shall begin within ninety days from date of application, otherwise said license is null and void.

(b) All manure shall be kept in a suitable pit or receptacle made for that purpose, properly covered, and in no case is to exceed two (2) cords in amount.

(c) When such pit or receptacle is situated under the building, it shall be ventilated by a suitable shaft.

(d) The accumulation and storage of manure outside of such pit or receptacle is prohibited.

(e) In every case the ventilation and drainage shall be to the satisfaction of the Board of Health.

(f) No buildings now or hereafter used as a stable shall be enlarged or alterations made without a special permit from the Board of Health.

(g) The license may be revoked by the Board of Health whenever in its judgment, the health and comfort of the people residing in the vicinity of said stable may require it.

REGULATION GOVERNING THE CONNECTIONS OF OLD BUILDINGS WITH THE PUBLIC SEWER.

Section 1. All existing plumbing in use not having been inspected and approved by the Inspector of Plumbing shall be subjected to the air test and proven tight when connected to the public sewer.

Section 2. Every fixture shall be properly trapped. In all work where traps are already installed a round trap of not less than four inches in diameter will be allowed to serve for a bath and a bowl, or a sink and tray if said trap is within a proper distance from the fixture stack or soil pipe. No ventilation will be required for a round trap when it is located within a proper distance from the stack.

A ventilation will be required for an S and I-2 S traps in all cases except those used in connection with water-closets as specified in Section 3.

A four inch round trap or a Sanitas Antysiphonage trap may be substituted for an S or I-2 S trap and without ventilation when the waste connection from the fixture to the trap does not exceed three feet in length.

Section 3. No ventilation will be required from the trap of the highest fixture. When there is a closet and bath tub or closet and bowl situated on the same floor level and adjoining the same stack, the closet will be considered the highest fixture. Where two or more closets join the same stack at the same floor level and connect with the same horizontal branch pipe, a vent will be required for both closets. Two closets or other fixtures connected with double Y will require no back air pipe if they are within the proper distance from the stack and situated as the highest fixtures.

Section 4. Every drain pipe before connecting with the sewer shall be provided with a cast iron running trap of the same size as drain pipe placed in line of drain pipe at a point as near cellar wall as possible, the trap to have a proper hand hole with screwed brass cover. Traps with cast iron covers, or hand holes will not be allowed. There shall be a Y with clean-out calked in the run of same in direct line of sewer, just inside cellar wall and the Y shall be calked into two lengths of extra heavy iron soil pipe extending 8 feet outside of cellar wall.

Section 5. Ventilation pipes shall not be less than three inches in diameter to ventilate a four inch drain.

Section 6. Branches of soil or drain pipe over twelve feet in length shall have a ventilating pipe extending through the roof, or adjoining the stack above the highest fixture unless otherwise vented through a trap attached thereto. Every pipe before passing through the roof shall be increased to at least two inches in diameter.

Section 7. All additions to existing plumbing, in the line of new work, shall be governed by the City Ordinance on Plumbing.

Section 8. It is required that at least one ventilating pipe be carried through the roof for every system of plumbing now in use.

Section 9. When premises are connected with the sewer the use of all vaults and cesspools shall be discontinued.

Section 10. When the particular sewer is placed within any building and the drainage of said building is not connected with the same within a reasonable time the opening in the iron pipe must be properly sealed by placing an iron plug in the hub calked with molten lead.

Section 11. All dwelling houses occupied by more than one family shall have a separate closet for each family.

Section 12. Every enclosure containing one or more water-closets shall be provided with adequate ventilation to the outer air, either by window or by suitable light shaft.

BLACK YEAR AT SEA.

Calamities in 1907 the Most Disastrous to Shipping.

AN APPALLING LOSS OF LIFE.

Stoutest Ocean Vessels Fared Just as Badly as the Wornout and Poorly Manned—Many Ocean Liners Lost. Serious Naval Accidents.

In the recollection of a veteran marine statistician there never has been so disastrous a year to shipping as that just closed. The number of wrecks, fatal in the number of lives lost as well as in the enormous amount of property destroyed, far exceeded even a year when sailing vessels outnumbered steamships five to one, a period in which wild dependent craft were at greater disadvantage and more liable to shipwreck because of the disparity between steam and sail.

The year 1907 will go down in marine history as one in which the strongest type of ocean going vessel fared as badly as did some that were aged, worn out and probably poorly manned. The statistics that follow were compiled for Shipping Illustrated:

The loss on the Japanese coast in March of the Great Northern Steamship company's Dakota, involving more than $3,500,000 worth of property; the stranding of the fine new Prinz Waldemar of the Hamburg-American line at Jamaica, West Indies, in January; the wreck of the Elder-Dempster liner Jobba in the English channel; also in March the enormous cost of floating the Suez; the burning of the Thornhill; the destruction of the Silvership by explosion in the bay of Biscay; the wrecking of the Santa Maria of the Pacific Mail Navigation company; the burning of the Fortunatus with her cargo worth $225,000; the disappearance of the Nicaraguan in the Atlantic; the sinking of another Hamburg-American liner, the Borussia, at Lisbon, and the loss of the Helvetia, Lucifer, Mount Temple, Hazel Branch, William E. Reiss, City of Birmingham and the Tampico, the latter with $160,000 worth of copper among her cargo, are among those that stand out prominently in the list of steam disasters. With the exception of the Santiago, none of these wrecks was attended with great loss of life.

Several of the disasters occurred under conditions which, in the judgment of the proper authorities, warranted dealing with the certificates of the masters of the lost vessels. The commander of the Dakota had his license revoked. The master of the Joy Line Larchmont, which vessel was sunk in Long Island sound, with a loss of 134 lives, was severely censured. Some of the other wrecks which were attended by an appalling loss of life were the Berlin in February at the Hook of Holland, in which disaster only fifteen were saved and 128 drowned; the foundering of the Sultan in the Black sea, with 60; the explosion of the Iena, killing 120; the foundering of the Santiago, with 90; the sinking of the Columbia after collision, with the loss of 110, and the foundering of the Kaplan, a Turkish steamship, with another 110 souls.

The five masted schooner T. Charlton Henry, which was sent to the bottom in a collision with the British steamship Chelston off Fire Island, was worth $150,000. When the John Currier was wrecked in August in Alaska she carried down with her $250,000 worth of salmon cargo. The City of Cleveland, building at Detroit, Mich., was burned in August, with a loss of $700,000. The Fortunatus also was burned, with a loss of $225,000.

Warships played a considerable part in the destruction of valuable marine property. The British cruiser Assistance sank the German steamship Marie by collision in the Tyne. The French cruiser Kleber ran into and sank the steamship Hugoma in the Mississippi, drowning seven of the latter's crew. The Jean Bart was wrecked on the northwest coast of Africa. The Iena blew up, costing 120 lives.

Some of the vessels stranded in course of the year, worth hundreds of thousands, were sold for the proverbial song. The Norwegian steamship Freyde, ashore on the Maine coast, was sold to a Boston junk dealer for $180. Another Norwegian steamship, the Tellos, stranded at Gay's harbor, in the Pacific, brought the extravagant sum of $210 when sold at auction. The American steamship Carthage, which struck Salvage rock, North Carolina, in July, did not have much of the salvaging merits about her resting place, and appealed to a generous purchaser, who gave $420 for the vessel.

The Marie Gilbert, a fine schooner when she ran on the Florida coast in April, was sold to the highest bidder for $485. The bark Charles E. Leffuey, wrecked in the gulf of Mexico, brought $475. The John J. Ward, stranded in the Delaware breakwater in March, sold for $67.50. The John I. Snow, stranded in July, sold for $108.

Bees as Highway Robbers.
Secretary of Agriculture Wilson when he went to the cabinet meeting the other day told the newspaper men of a new discovery his department had made, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Globe. He declared the honeybees out in Hawaii, as his experts had found, were robbing the aphids, a kind of ant, of its honey and making honeydew of it.

"We have known for some time that certain ants milked the aphids and got a sweet substance from it. But now the bees, which used to work for their honey, have taken to highway robbery!"

BRIBING IS ALLEGED

Heads of Lowell Health and Water Departments Indicted

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 8.—The investigation of certain departments of the city of Lowell by the Middlesex county grand jury led to the arrest last evening of William C. Doherty, chairman of the board of health; Isaac E. Weston, chairman of the water board, and Charles P. Lynch, an employee of the water department. All three were taken into custody on indictment warrants, the grand jury having reported true bills yesterday afternoon.

Doherty is charged with bribery and political coercion, and Weston and Lynch with bribery. The indicted men were taken to police headquarters, where they were ordered to furnish bail in $1000 each. Each furnished bonds to the required amount and were released. The cases will be called at the Lowell sitting of the superior court, which will begin on March 2.

The arrests aroused keen interest throughout the city and it is expected they will lead to a sweeping investigation of the various city departments.

Pleaded Guilty of Slaying Child

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—An indictment charging murder was returned by a grand jury against Mrs. Emma A. Huntley of Somerville, accused of killing her two grandchildren, Caroline A. Shomo, 5 years old, and Raymond Shomo, 7 years old, in Somerville. Mrs. Huntley was later arraigned and pleaded guilty. The court refused to accept the plea, however, and ordered that a plea of not guilty be entered. The authorities believe that Mrs. Huntley is insane.

Hastings' Money Held Up

Boston, Feb. 8.—It is announced that the second trial of John W. Hastings, charged with embezzling $3000 from the United States sub-treasury in Boston, will begin on Feb. 13. An attempt was made yesterday to secure the $3000 found in Hastings' safety deposit box at the time of his arrest, but Judge Dodge refused to order it turned over to Hastings. Since the first trial ended in a disagreement Hastings has been out on $5000 bail.

Possible Accident to Lightship

Newport, R. I., Feb. 8.—Some anxiety for the safety of the Nantucket south shoals lightship No. 85 is expressed among naval officials here, who have had no word from the ship by wireless since last Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. Unless wireless communication is restored by today with the station ship, steamer Azalea will be sent out to see what is wrong. The navy department at Washington has been notified of the incident.

Schooner's Crew Exhausted

Dutch Island Harbor, R. I., Feb. 8.—After thrashing around seven days with her running gear so badly leed up and damaged as to make it impossible to beat into a harbor, schooner John J. Hargson, Boston for Savannah, with potatoes, worked into Dutch Island Harbor with an exhausted crew of seven men. Most of the deck fittings had been washed away and the running rigging was a frozen tangle of broken ends.

Morse Steamship Receivers

Boston, Feb. 8.—Ancillary receivers for the Morse steamship lines in Massachusetts were appointed by Judge Dodge in the United States circuit court. The appointments were made on petition of W. A. Muller of Arlington and the Berwind White Coal company of Pennsylvania, the original petitioners for receivers. Dodge named the receivers appointed in Maine as the ancillary receivers for Massachusetts.

Strike of Freight Handlers

Portland, Me., Feb. 8.—One hundred and fifty freight handlers in the employ of the Maine Steamship company struck this morning, refusing to accept a wage reduction of 5 cents an hour. The company posted a notice yesterday that the reduced wage would go into effect at 6 o'clock this morning. When the men were ordered to report to unload the steamer Manhattan, only three appeared.

Portland Is Short of Beef

Portland, Me., Feb. 8.—Wholesale beef dealers of Portland announce that for the first time since the use of western beef became general no car loaded with that commodity has arrived in the city for at least six days. There is very little beef of any kind in the local markets. This unusual condition is the result of heavy snowstorms in the west.

Flagman Struck by Engine

Plainville, Conn., Feb. 8.—Frank W. Day, flagman at a railroad crossing here, while preventing a team from driving over the crossing in front of an approaching train, was himself struck by an engine coming from the opposite direction and fatally injured. Day was 68 years old.

Thaw May Shift Quarters

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Feb. 8.—With the purpose of seeking an asylum more congenial to Harry Thaw than Matthew street hospital, Mrs. Evelyn Thaw and Daniel O'Reilly, one of Thaw's counsel, will inspect the insane asylum in Poughkeepsie next Monday. Mrs. Thaw and O'Reilly visited Thaw yesterday, when the contemplated visit to Poughkeepsie was discussed.

Call Sherman Act Vicious

New York, Feb. 8.—Speaking at the fifth annual dinner of the New Hampshire society last night, ex-Judge Howland, who presided, declared that he could not understand the present attacks on railroads and that "the vicious Sherman act has done more injury to this country than any other act."

A HUNT FOR LEADER

Police Have Two of the Yeggs
Who Terrorized Woburn

THEY ARE ALL FOREIGNERS

Arrested Men Held In $20,000 Each
on Charge of Attempt to Kill Police

Officers—Two of the Wounded Men
Resting "Fairly Well" in Hospital

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 8.—An accurate description of the third member and supposed leader of the alleged gang of "eggmen" who terrorized Woburn
and surrounding towns Thursday night
in their reckless attempt to escape was furnished to Chief of Police McDermott last night. The man's name is said to be Chris Seltin of Cambridge, a Lithuanian. He was seen in Cambridge yesterday, and in the belief that he has fled to Providence or New York the police of those cities have been asked to watch for him.

Seltin is described as 32 years old, 5
feet 6½ inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds. He has a smooth face, with a small scar, and he has worn a light moustache, which he shaved off yesterday morning. His complexion is medium and he wore a mixed gray suit,
with a soft black hat.

Seltin is believed to be the man the militia traced to Lexington yesterday
and whose tracks were lost at the railroad leading towards Cambridge. Sel-tin speaks English slightly, and, according to the information which the police have in hand, he is the ringleader of the trio and is said to be the most desperate. The police are certain of his early capture.

Neither of the other two men, Bristow Karnesky and Peter Rosa, who were captured in Arlington yesterday, would give any information and apparently can speak no English. Search showed each to be armed with two Colt's revolvers of heavy calibre and each had a supply of fifty cartridges in his pockets.

In an effort to establish the identity of Karnesky Lieutenant Mulken of the local police went to Chelsea and brought back John Stenmer, a fellow-countryman of the two suspects, but so far as could be learned the police got but little information from him.

Arlington officers yesterday delivered Karnesky and Rosa to the Woburn police and they were later arraigned in court. Each was formally charged with assault with intent to kill Officers Timothy E. Walsh and Edward O.
O'Neill. Neither prisoner pleaded to the charge, and Judge Johnson directed the clerk to enter a plea of not guilty in each case. Each man was held in bonds of $10,000 on each count, or $20,000 each,
for a continued hearing on Feb. 18.

The prisoners claim that they can neither talk nor understand English, saying that Lettish is the only tongue
with which they are familiar.

Through an interpreter it was learned that Karnesky, who is 26 years old, has been in this country a year and three months and that his home is in Chelsea.
Rosa, who is 22 years old, lives in Cambridge. The police are certain that they have the right men and one witness of the shooting at Woburn has positively identified one of the prisoners.

Patrolman Timothy E. Walsh and Edward Holland, who fell before the bullets of the robbers, are reported as resting "fairly well" at the Massachusetts general hospital in Boston. Patrolman Edward O'Neill and Sherwood Van Tassel, who were also shot during the wild flight of the alleged yeggs,
were but slightly wounded and their condition causes no anxiety.

Defense of Corporations

New York, Feb. 8.—That managers of the giant corporations would welcome supervision by the federal government was the opinion expressed by George W. Perkins of the firm of J. P.
Morgan & Co. in an address before the students at Columbia university. Perkins defended the big corporations as a natural outgrowth of business conditions and declared that it has accomplished great good and is capable, in its further development, of accomplishing much more.

Cortelyou Seeks Information

New York, Feb. 8.—Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou arrived here last night. It is understood that he will confer with United States District Attorney Stimson over certain financial matters which that official has had occasion to bring to the attention of the federal grand jury, which has for several weeks been inquiring into various transactions involved in the control of management of several national banks of this city.

Close Call For Factory Employes

Halifax, Feb. 8.—One man and a boy
were seriously burned and a property loss of $10,000 was caused by a fire in the Robert Taylor Shoe company's factory. Starting in the basement, the flames cut off 140 employes on the upper floors, more than half of whom were girls. All escaped safely by an adjoining building.

$315,000 For War Claims

Washington, Feb. 8.—The session of the house was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of the omnibus war claims bill, which was passed after considerable discussion. It carries a total appropriation of $315,000.

IN WEEK OR TEN DAYS

Morse Will Return from His "Business and Pleasure" Trip

Queenstown, Feb. 4.—A correspondent of The Associated Press last night
boarded steamer Campana and found Charles W. Morse of New York in the smoking room, enjoying a game of cards.

Without hesitation Morse granted an interview to the correspondent. He was shown extracts from London newspapers referring to him as having fled from his creditors, etc. Morse said there was absolutely nothing in the reports, saying they were "New York sensationalists." He added that he had sent cable dispatches to New York concerning his position and that he would rectify matters when he returned there. He was traveling partly on business and partly for pleasure for a week or ten days.

Asked where he purposed going after he landed at Liverpool, Morse begged to be excused from replying. "You can say with certainty," he said, "that my stay will not exceed ten days on this side, and that then I will return to New York."

Morse seemed to regard the period of liquidation in the United States as aftermath of the recent panic. On his return to the United States, he said, he would endeavor to reconstruct his interests. At the conclusion of the interview Morse again resolutely declined to divulge what his movements in Europe
would be, but it is believed he will go to Paris.

Special Privileges In Jail

Toledo, Feb. 8.—In a communication to Judge Kinkade, a prisoner in the county jail complains that the convicted icemen are enjoying special privileges, such as receiving visitors at all times instead of on regular visiting days; that elaborate meals are sent in to them, that the icemen are permitted to go to and from the jailer's office at will and use the telephone, and that rugs and other articles are brought in to make the cells of the icemen comfortable. The prosecutor will investigate.

Bondage D'd Not Affect Health

Tangier, Feb. 8.—Caid MacLean has been officially turned over to the British charge d'affaires here in accordance with the agreement between Raisuli,
the bandit, and the British government
under which Raisuli is to receive $100, 000 as a ransom and a guarantee of protection for himself and family. Mac-Lean is in good health. Foreign Minister Gabbas released the imprisoned Raisulites and Raisuli departed undisturbed and almost unnoticed.

Submarines Turned Back

New York, Feb. 8.—After an ineffectual attempt to gain the open sea,
the Cuttlefish, Tarantula and Viper, submarines, accompanied by the converted gunboat Hist, returned to the navy yard. Lieutenant Courtney, commander of the flotilla, announced that the submarines turned back when off the Sandy Hook lightship owing to damage to the propeller of the Cuttlefish, rather than because of the rough weather and high sea.

Progress In Right Direction

New York, Feb. 8.—R. G. Dun &
Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says
that little change appears in the commercial situation, but progress is in the right direction in so far as any difference can be discerned. Recent gains are maintained in almost every instance, and a few further encouraging symptoms appear, notably the smaller decreases in railway earnings and larger forces at work in leading industries.

Train Struck Locked Switch

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 8.—The engineer was killed and 130 passengers were well shaken up when a train was derailed at the west end of the Bergen tunnel under Jersey City Heights. The train struck a locked switch and bumped along on the ties some distance. The locomotive turned over on its side and Engineer Lyman was crushed to death. None of the passengers was seriously injured.

Japanese Bugs to Kill Moths

Washington, Feb. 8.—Announcement is made by Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture, of an important mission that will soon start for Japan
to obtain parasites which will be imported into Massachusetts to do battle with the gypsy moth of that state.

Count May Wed Widow

Budapest, Feb. 8.—A report that Mrs.
Cornelius Vanderbilt is to marry Count
Hadik has been received here, but there is some skepticism concerning its authenticity. The count is a son of the late Admiral Hadik. He is now in Budapest. He is a Hungarian deputy.

Disaster on a French Warship

Paris, Feb. 8.—Admiral Philibert, commanding the French naval forces
in Moroccan waters, telegraphs that fourteen sailors were wounded, five of them seriously, as the result of an accident to the boiler of the cruiser Jeanne d'Arc off Tangier yesterday.

Transport Officer's Awful Fate

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 8.—Mail advices from Hong Kong say that the provost
sergeant of the British transport Sicilia, which took the Cameron Highlanders to Hong Kong, was murdered by the Lascar sailors, who burned him alive in a furnace of the steamer.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Feb. 9.
Sun rises—6:50; sets—5:07.
Moon sets—12:37 a. m.
High water—5 a. m.; 5:30 p. m.
It will be cloudy and slightly warmer
in New England.

OF VICIOUS NATURE

But Leader of Portuguese Regi-
cides Was Man of Intelligence

FATHER PUT HIM IN ARMY

Was Court-martialed, Imprisoned and Later Expelled—Then Studied Hard
and Rose to Position of Professor in National College

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 8.—The life story of Buissa, the leader of the band that assassinated King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz at Lisbon, has been obtained in this city from a Portuguese
clerk in a commercial house, who was a schoolmate of the regicide. He says the assassin's full name was Manuel Res Silva Buissa, and that he was born in the Vinhaes district, province of Braganza, Portugal. He was a son of the Abbe of Vinhaes and as a boy he went to the lyceum at Braganza. He had nine brothers and sisters, and one of his sisters, named Belmira, lived until a short time ago in this city.

Manuel was not the first criminal in the family. One of his aunts killed a servant in her employ when she found that her husband was making love to the woman. She was arrested and sentenced to a long term of imprisonment.

As a boy Manuel Buissa was quarrelsome, haughty and audacious, but cowardly. He left the lyceum with the reputation of a bad student and as having a vicious character. The life he led in Braganza made it necessary for his father to put him into the army and he was consequently enrolled in the Seventh cavalry regiment of Braganza.

Even in the army he was a hard youth to control, but despite oft-repeated punishments, he managed to gain the grade of sergeant. He continued a dissipated mode of life and was soon transferred from Braganza to the regiment on duty at Alvas, on the frontier. Here he had a serious brawl with six soldiers. For this offense he was court-martialed and condemned to serve a term in prison, after which he was expelled from the army.

Buissa then returned to his native village of Vinhaes. Thanks to the influence of his father, he was given an opportunity to become a schoolteacher
and it then seemed to his friends that he was going to reform and settle down.
He studied hard and after a year went to Braganza, where he graduated from the district school. Buissa was intelligent and, as he devoted himself to his studies, he was soon given a minor professorship and obtained his diploma.
After this he was sent to the national college at Lisbon as a professor, a post which he filled up to the time of his death.

During the last few years he was a Republican in politics and he had friendly relations with members of this party.
He became a free-thinker and it was his custom to defend his political ideas in open discussion in the streets and in the cafes of Lisbon.

Buissa's friend who supplied the foregoing information does not think that he accepted money for the commission of his crime. Manuel Buissa was vicious and wicked in many ways, but he was above taking money for murder. Buissa's family is well off and still lives at Vinhaes.

Wholesale Releases From Prison

Lisbon, Feb. 8.—All persons who were arrested last week, charged with secreting bombs, arms, etc., and three persons who were supposed to be regic-cides, have been released. A detachment of political prisoners from the Caxias fortress, numbering about 100,
was awaited at the station here by Republicans, who made a demonstration and cheered for "the republic."
The unlimited clemency is greatly appreciated by the Republicans, but is sharply criticised by members of other parties.

The police yesterday discovered a secret depot of arms containing 400 carbines.

Franco Fears Physical Danger

Bordeaux, Feb. 8.—Former Premier Franco of Portugal has arrived here,
bringing a large amount of baggage with him. A group of local newspaper men awaited him at the station, but when they stepped up he waved them away with a gesture of weariness and ignored the questions they asked him.
Franco's face is haggard and he appears to be preoccupied. He looks constantly to the right and to the left,
as if he felt he should be prepared to forestall some impending physical danger.

Suicide of D. A. R. Leader

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Miss Harriet
B. Huey, former president of the Philadelphia chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, committed suicide
at her home in this city by inhaling illuminating gas. Efforts were made to keep the matter a secret, a special inquest having been held in the case. Miss Huey was a sister of the late Samuel B. Huey, a wealthy financier.
She was 57 years of age.

Tank Cars Tapped by Thieves

Tiflis, Feb. 8.—The state treasury has suffered the loss of 1,000,000 gallons of petroleum through the systematic robery of tank cars with the connivance of railway employes. The cars were tapped between way stations and barrels filled with the oil were carted away
and sold.

Board of Health
Adopt New Rules

The regulations of the Board of Health, as adopted by the new board, Feb. 5, are published in full in today's Ledger. Under the law the Board of Health are obliged to publish these rules and regulations and they should be read by everybody.

Among the important matters covered by the regulations are in relation to cesspools and vaults, the collection and transportation of grease and swill, the dumping of house dirt and rubbish upon the streets, keeping of swine, spitting in public places and on street and railroad cars, etc., etc.

There are also regulations relating to contagious disease, quarantine, contagious diseases among domestic animals, abandoned cesspools and vaults, stable rules, also the regulations governing the connections of old buildings with the public sewer.

They comprise in all four columns and a familiarization with them may save a lot of trouble and expense.

The Board of Health is vested with almost unlimited powers by the laws of the Commonwealth, and their word therefore is law and should be heeded.

Surprise Party
And Presentation

The many friends of William McInnis assembled Thursday evening, and invaded his residence on Kidder street, in order to congratulate him on passing the fifty-third milestone in life's journey. W. F. McCalder on behalf of those assembled presented Mr. McInnis with a handsome meerschaum pipe in order that he might enjoy one of the comforts of life. Mr. McInnis thanked the givers and bade all welcome to everything in the house. The evening was pleasantly passed with games, vocal and instrumental music, and dancing. A bountiful collation was served.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Graham, Mr. and Mrs. John W. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sass, Mr. and Mrs. Angus McKenzie, Mrs. Belle McKenzie, Miss Etta Campell, Miss Florence Morrison, Miss Lillian Sass, Miss Clara Sass, Miss Mary McLennan, Miss Florrie Nicholson, Miss Mary McLean, Miss Evelyn Martin, Miss Belle McLennan, Miss Lillian Totton, Miss Jennie Nicholson, Miss Sadie Brown, Miss Mabel Nicholson, Miss Mary McDonald, Miss Effie McLeod, Miss Margaret McLeod, Miss Jennie Ellis, Miss Jennie McLeod, Miss Louise Pitts, Miss Margaret Henzmen, Miss Mabel McKenzie, Miss Mary Nicholson, Miss Margaret Nicholson, Messrs. Kenneth McDonald, Alexander Phillips, Hugh J. McLeod, Angus McDougald, Duncan Finlayson, James Galvin, Philip Shriver, Daniel Drumgold, Stephen Tinney, Hector Gillis, W. F. McCalder, Frank McDuff, Isaac McLennan, Joseph Tinney, Alex McNeile, Alex McPhail, John McPherson, Thomas Holland, James S. McDonald, Henry McKay, Alex McBeth, Peter McPhee, D. McKinnon, James Ryan, Murdoch Gillis, Stephen Inman, William Spargo, George McNaughton, Lester Sass and others.

Deer Shot at West Quincy

A deer was shot by unknown parties at West Quincy yesterday afternoon. Two shots were heard off Forrest avenue and parties who went to investigate found the deer. The man who did the shooting, however, had disappeared. There is a heavy fine for shooting deer, and the party who did the shooting wisely kept out of the way. The police were notified and took the body. It is probable that the police will feed on venison in the near future.

Big Bill for Next Week.

The best show yet given is promised at the popular Scenic for next week, as will be seen by the following bill. The Cleveland, high-class singing and comedy, introducing "The Little Girl with the Big Voice," Kenneth & Flynn, comedy sketch, promoters of Irish mirth and melody; Charlie Farrell, the celebrated black face artist, known the country over as "The Whistling Coon," Jack Green will sing the illustrated songs, and there will be an entire change of program of the latest motion pictures. Every feature is high class and a full two hours of refined entertainment may be enjoyed at a popular price.

Philergians of Baintree.

On Tuesday, Feb. 4, the Philergians were addressed by Mr. Thomas A. Watson, on Walt Whitman. One who, like Mr. Watson, has made a study of the poet's life and works, and loves him, could hardly fail to kindle similar feeling in his hearers.

Those who listened to his fine rendering of the strong and rugged verse, gained a new appreciation of the poet, hitherto so little known. After a brief talk on the life of Whitman, describing his simple, kindly nature, Mr. Watson spoke of his poetry and how though he cast aside all conventional rhythm, it had a beauty and rhythm of its own.

Among the selections which Mr. Watson gave—which he said was but the merest beginning of the inexhaustible stories of Whitman's poetry, were: "The Open Road," "Beat Beat Drums," "Blue Ontario," "When Lilacs last in the Dooryard bloomed," written on the death of Lincoln, and the "Mystic Trumpeter."

Mr. Watson is a dramatic speaker and brought out the thought of the poet in a manner so vivid as to hold his audience in close attention to the end.

—Your Optical wants are safe with us as we guarantee complete satisfaction in all cases we fit. C. F. Pettengill optician, 1381 Hancock St., Quincy.

Minstrels of Copeland Club

A large and appreciative audience greeted the Copeland club at its fourth annual minstrel show at Music hall last evening.

When the curtain rolled up for the opening chorus it disclosed a sea of black faces, which served to set off the white face of Joseph A. Monahan, the interlocutor.

Ed Desmond, Frank Ogle and Ernest Godfrey rattled the bones, and Andy Dinegan, Fred McDonald and Dick Henry shook the tambos. Between these was a chorus of thirty-six voices.

The program opened with a chorus, "Swanee River," which was followed by a slave auction with Andy Dinegan as Uncle Tom.

Then came part two in which the end men and others were heard in solos, with chorus by the circle. The opening chorus was a melody of Negro airs and it was a good one.

The jokes flew thick and fast between the solos and many of the recent City officials came in for hard raps. Mayor Shea was not exempt for he also was made the butt of some of the end men's jokes.

Part four included female impersonations by Richard Hussey, selections by the Copeland quartette, and dancing specialties by Wes Hillman and Harry Harlow.

The soloists in part two were Luther W. Nason and Joseph D. Uppling.

Joseph A. McGowan was the musical director, Russell W. Badger the pianist, Alex R. Elcock the stage manager, and Andrew J. Dinegan the end director.

At the conclusion of the show there was dancing until 3 A. M., music being furnished by Cuff's orchestra. Joseph A. Monahan was floor director and Alphonse E. LeClair assistant. They were assisted by a large corps of aids.

Clover Assembly.

The third clover assembly was held last night at Coloual hall and was an enjoyable occasion. The matrons were Mrs. Orrin S. Hammack and Mrs. Charles W. Ganzel. The dance was held by the Three Leaf Clover club composed of Howard C. Andrews, Stanley F. Duncan and Matthew S. Nicoll. During the moonlight waltz which was a novelty, Robert Mitchell sang a pathetic ballad and received great applause. Kutz's orchestra of Jamaica Plain rendered fine music. At 11.45 the party came to a close and the young people are looking forward to another.

The Religious Man.

Who is the religious man, do you ask? The church-goer, the pious professor, the man of many prayers and long, the reciter of a creed, the quoter of scripture phrases, the confessor of a name, the supporter of a church? Perhaps. But there is a better than these, and a more religious. The man who lives honest life, bearing his burdens patiently, facing his problems bravely, performing his duties faithfully; who seeks to make the lives of those about him a little more happy; who puts something of his best self into every act that he performs; who lives well and loves well,—he is the religious man.—All Souls Church, Baintree.

House Warming.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard were pleasantly surprised by about fifty of their friends Wednesday evening at their beautiful new home on Whitwell street. They were presented with a dinner set. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Master Willie Hibbard entertained by fancy dancing, there were solos by Miss M. Griffin and Mr. Joy and recitations by Nicholas Hammerin. Refreshments were served and Mrs. Hibbard proved herself a charming hostess. Friends were present from Boston, Charlestown and Quincy.

Coddington Plans.

Furniture Sale.

The big sacrifice sale of the furniture house of W. G. Shaw is still in progress, and is creating a widespread interest. People who know the full value of money realize that they can get more for the amount expended at this sale than anywhere else. Shrewd buyers will do well to take advantage of this great sale to refurnish their homes. Everything needed to make the home comfortable and cosy can be found here.

No meeting of the School Committee has been held to consider the Hurd & Gore plans for the Coddington school building as yet. Mr. Wadsworth of the committee, who is away, is expected home early next week, and the meeting will probably be held then, as it is desirable to have all members of the board present when the matter comes up.

Social

St. Valentine's day is to be quite generally observed in Quincy this year with house parties and dances. The largest social affair will be the Valentine ball at Music hall under the auspices of the Day Nursery association. A long list of subscribers already assures its success not only socially but financially.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burkhardt of Jamaica Plain were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wilde of Billings street last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Nash and son Frank, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roberts of West Elm avenue have gone to Savannah, Georgia, for the winter.

Pipes and the Lips.

The constant habit of smoking pipes has a perceptible effect upon the face. The pressure of the lips to hold the pipe in position increases the curvature of the lips round the stem, and the muscles become more rigid here than in other parts. Thus the lips at a certain point become stronger, and the pipe is unconsciously held in the same habitual position. After long continuation of the habit small circular wrinkles form parallel with the curvature of the lips around the stem. These are crossed by finer lines caused by the pressure of the lips to retain the stem in position. In the case of old men who have smoked a pipe for years the effect upon the lips is very marked, not only altering the form of the lips, but of the entire side of the face, causing the wrinkles that are the result of age to deepen and instead of following the natural course of facial wrinkles to change their course so as to radiate from the part of the mouth where the pipe is habitually carried. Furthermore, one or both lips often protrude, just like the lips of people who used to suck their thumbs when children.—Medical Record.

Wanted the "Grocery Seats."

Leigh Lynch while he lived was a happy man. In the first place, he was the husband of lovely and gentle Anna Teresa Berger, the belle of the bell ringers in her girlhood; secondly, he had the years long friendship and intimate companionship of Eugene Field; thirdly, he was the father of a family of children in whom was centered his unselfish hope. He used to carry his business cares and pleasures home, where he was always sure of ready and generous sympathy. For several years he was treasurer of the Union Square theater in New York. One evening at dinner, in the presence of his little daughter, Marie, he mentioned to Mrs. Lynch that the gross receipts of the week had risen to an unprecedented height. The next day Marie asked to be taken to the matinee.

"All right, dumpling," assented the fond father. "What seats would you like?"

"Well, papa," she replied, "I'd like to have them grocery seats you talked us about."—Detroit Free Press.

A Fatal Austrian Flag.

Once there was an epidemic of plague at Odessa, in Russia, which lasted more than a year. It had a most remarkable origin, being due to a fatal flag. An Austrian vessel arrived at Odessa, bringing one of the crew who had died during the voyage. The sailor was duly interred in the Catholic cemetery at the port, and at the funeral the Austrian flag was carried by two seamen. On their way back to the vessel the men entered a great number of saloons and laid down the flag while drinking. A very short time afterward the sailors who had carried the flag died, and before long it was found that people were ill in all the houses where the men had called with the fatal flag. Soon the plague spread throughout Odessa, filling all with terror and claiming a frightful toll. There is no doubt that the flag contained the plague bacilli in the folds and so spread the disease.—Baltimore Sun.

Strictly Business.

"Sir," began a stranger as he walked directly up to a business man, "I am strictly on business."

"So am I."

"Good! I believe every man should furnish money for his own tombstone."

"So do I."

"Good again! I want to raise $25 to pay for a stone over my grave. What assistance will you render the enterprise? I want a business answer."

"You shall have it, sir. Unless you immediately take your departure I will aid the enterprise by furnishing the corpse."

The stranger hurried off.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MAN OF EXPERIENCE

Hitchcock Consents to Become Taft's Campaign Manager

WILL START IN NEXT WEEK

Retirement From Postal Service Is Slated For Feb. 15, by Which Time
He Will Have Concluded Important Work In Hand

Washington, Feb. 8.—Announcement is made of the approaching retirement from the postal service of Frank H. Hitchcock, first assistant postmaster general. Hitchcock will assume active management of the campaign of Secretary Taft for the Republican nomination for the presidency. The date of the retirement will be about Feb. 15.

Mr. Hitchcock will be succeeded as first assistant postmaster general by Charles P. Grandfield, who, for a little more than two years, has been chief of the bureau over which Hitchcock presides. Grandfield has been actively identified with the postal service for about twenty years.

Several weeks ago Hitchcock was requested by Taft to undertake the management of his campaign. The secretary desired to enlist Hitchcock's services, not only because he is widely known throughout the country and has had experience of a valuable kind in campaign work, but because he felt the necessity of having a man in charge of the infinite variety of details of the campaign to whom he could refer questions that were arising constantly and to which he was unable to devote the time they seemed to demand.

It is no secret that to dispose of the secret that to dispose of the great amount of work incident to the direction of his department Taft has been obliged for several weeks practically to exclude himself from visitors a part of the time. The work has been exceedingly trying, for he is under a severe mental and physical strain for from sixteen to twenty hours every day.

When Taft made the proffer of the management of his campaign to Hitchcock he desired him to undertake the work immediately, but he told Taft that he could not assume the duties of campaign manager on the spur of the moment. He asked time to consider the subject and to confer with friends. To this the secretary entered no objection, but expressed a desire that a decision be reached as soon as practicable.

In considering the matter with his friends, Hitchcock found himself somewhat embarrassed, because he had instituted, on behalf of the postal service, certain lines of action which he felt he ought to follow to their conclusion. This would render it necessary for him to appear, in his official capacity, before committees of congress. He finally informed Taft that if he could be given time to meet his obligations and duties to the postal service, he would accept his proffer.

Mr. Hitchcock now has practically concluded the work on which he was engaged and, in a few days, he will tender his resignation and leave the post-office department. President Roosevelt joined with Taft in requesting Hitchcock to undertake the campaign work.

Mr. Hitchcock has consistently declined to discuss the reports that he was to become Taft's campaign manager, and, when requested to make a statement regarding the matter, insisted that it was a subject in which he was not in a position at present to discuss. It is not known, therefore, what plans he may have for his new duties.

It is expected that Hitchcock will devote his attention to the campaign of Taft in all parts of the country except, probably, Ohio, which is being looked after by Arthur I. Vorys.

Vorys "Invited" Hitchcock
Columbus, O., Feb. 8.—The following statement was issued here last night by Arthur I. Vorys, manager of the canvass for the nomination of Taft for president: "I have invited Frank Hitchcock to assist in the management of the campaign. He will tender his resignation as first assistant postmaster general, to take effect Feb. 15. He will come here soon to confer with me about the division of the work."

For National Convention to Settle
Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 8.—The aftermath of the dual Republican state convention held in St. Augustine shows confusion of claims and counter-claims. Each set of delegates alleges itself to be regular and calls the other the "bolters." So complicated is the question that it must be carried to the national convention for final adjudication.

Iowa Democrats Endorse Bryan
Des Moines, Feb. 8.—A resolution endorsing William J. Bryan as candidate for the presidency was unanimously adopted by the Democratic state central committee, which selected March 25 as the day of the state convention to select delegates to the national convention.

Suicide of Unknown Woman
New York, Feb. 8.—Without leaving a clue to her identity or the cause that impelled her to take her life, a young woman who recently arrived from Montreal hanged herself in a room which she engaged at a Harlem boarding house. The suicide was well dressed and about 25 years old. She used a piece of clothesline to strangle herself.

ACCUSES PENNYPACKER

Witness Says Ex-Governor Was Implicated in "Whitewashing"
Harrisburg, Feb. 8.—The trial of Contractor Sanderson and three former state officers, charged with conspiracy in furnishing the new capitol, took a sensational turn when S. B. Lewis, assistant to Architect Huston, declared that Huston's letter to ex-Attorney General Carson in response to the inquiry into the scandal explaining his part in the contracts was prepared at the suggestion of ex-Governor Pennypacker, ex-Auditor General Snyder, one of the defendants, and Carson, and that it was "misleading" and intended to be a "whitewash."

Lewis was being subjected to a severe cross-examination by Mr. Gilbert, of counsel for the defense, about the letter, and when asked if certain statements made by Huston were true, the witness demanded the right to explain the circumstances under which it was written.

Rising in his seat and speaking with his hand upraised, he told a story which astonished everyone in the crowded courtroom except the lawyers for the commonwealth.

According to Lewis' story, when it came to Huston's turn to write an answer to Carson, Lewis was telephoned to come to Harrisburg by Governor Pennypacker and Snyder, and the letter was prepared at a conference with those two officers and the attorney general to "dove-tail" in with others prepared by state officers connected with the construction and equipment of the capitol. Gilbert had Lewis identify the Huston letters and then forced the witness to admit that the architect's statements to the effect that he had weighed and measured articles of furniture for the capitol were practically false and made for a purpose.

Humiliating Milukoff by Boycott
St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—The tribulations of Professor Milukoff, arising from his recent lecture in New York on the political situation in Russia, were heightened in the duma yesterday by the formation of a grand parliamentary boycott of him. When Milukoff arose and proceeded toward the tribune the Octoberists and Conservatives quit the chamber, leaving the duma without a quorum. The president of the duma was compelled to announce an intermission, and when, after the recess had ended, Milukoff mounted the tribune, the Octoberists and Conservatives again passed into the lobbies in a body, causing an adjournment of the session.

Evidence of Japanese Goodwill
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—Japanese residents of Los Angeles and Southern California, of whom there are about 5000, have requested the local reception committee for permission to assist in welcoming the officers and men of Admiral Evans' fleet upon their arrival in Los Angeles. The Japanese residents desire to make expression of their good will and to disprove as false any accusation of ill feeling towards Americans. A fund is being subscribed among Japanese business men to assist in the entertainment of the fleet.

Hundreds of Thousands of Idle Cars
Chicago, Feb. 8.—The American Railway association has decided to submit to the various roads of the country a proposal to reduce the per diem charge on freight cars from 50 to 25 cents. A letter vote will be taken on the proposal, which is designed to lessen the heavy expense which the roads say they are now incurring because of the large surplus of sidetracked cars in the country. It is said that there are 250,000 idle cars at present.

Great Percentage of Idleness
Albany, Feb. 8.—In its quarterly bulletin, made public last night, the state department of labor reports that there was a higher percentage of idleness among organized labor in New York state at the end of September last than has been shown in any other year since 1900. The situation in New York city is brought up to Jan. 1, covering the period during the disturbed financial conditions, showing that 34.2 percent of union men were out of work.

Fleet Leaves Punta Arenas
Washington, Feb. 8.—After having accomplished successfully more than half the cruise of 13,772 miles to the Pacific, Rear Admiral Evans left Punta Arenas for Callao last night. The stay of the fleet at Punta Arenas was marked by the greatest courtesy on the part of Chileans. Mail intended for the fleet must now be addressed care of the postmaster at San Francisco, from which point it will be forwarded to Magdalena Bay.

Bank to Resume Business
Butte, Mont., Feb. 8.—The management of the State Savings bank announce that the bank will resume business on Feb. 15. In compliance with the order of District Judge Bourquin, President Largey of the bank and F. A. Heinze have made good the amount of their indebtedness to the institution.

Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

MENU COLLECTING FAD.

Miss Buttolph Owns the Most Valuable of Dinner Cards.

Menu collecting is becoming quite a fad. The young girl or matron who shows the largest collection of menus from the aristocratic hotels, public banquets, private functions, complimentary dinners, etc., is the envy of all her associates. When the owner of the souvenirs has been a participant at the occasions symbolized by the menus and can relate instances concerning them she is all the prouder of her collection, as she has reason to be.

There is a disposition to exchange menus and collect them by any means possible. Some even go to the extremes of purchasing them from invited guests and from hotels, while others buy them from the printers. It is told that on one occasion a little brother was sent to the hallway of a leading hotel where a stylish banquet was in progress for the purpose of picking up a menu that might chance to be dropped.

The greatest collection of the kind in the world is possessed by Miss Frank Buttolph. It is known as the "Buttolph collection," and so large and valuable has it grown that it has found a place in the Astor branch of the New York Public Library. It includes nearly 15,000 different bills of fare, gathered from nearly every country in the world. Many of them are connected with royalty of different nations of Europe. The collection is classified and indexed, showing the result of an enormous amount of labor, aside from the work of making the collection. It is interesting not only from historical and artistic points of view, but also to the student of gastronomy and to those concerned in the prices of foods in different countries and in different sections of the country. It also gives an insight into the manners and customs of the different peoples. Thus it would be difficult to estimate the value this collection will prove to people of a future age.—What to Eat.

A CULINARY WRINKLE.

The Art of Properly Cooking a Virginia Ham.

Select a ham, not too large, that has been cured at least two years. Remove the sacking; scrub the ham with a stiff brush in cold water till perfectly clean. Then put the ham to soak, skin side up, in enough cold water to cover it to the depth of four or five inches, leaving it to soak twelve hours, changing water once.

In the morning remove the ham from the water; wipe it thoroughly clean with a coarse, damp cloth; put it in a big ham boiler, skin side up, over a slow fire, with enough cold water to cover it several inches; add a large Spanish onion, cut in halves, a large Mexican pepper, three bay leaves, a big lemon cut in halves, three tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of cider vinegar.

Cover the kettle and let the ham cook very slowly till the fat bone may be easily removed by just touching it with a fork. Let the ham get nearly cold in the water in which it was boiled; then carefully lift it out, place it in a dripping pan, remove the skin carefully, score the fat over the top in diamond shapes, sprinkle with sugar, place it in a moderate oven and let it brown over the top. Then put it where it will cool.

Do not cut the ham until the second day after it has been cooked.

BEAUTY HINTS.

Long, straggling hairs which give an appearance of roughness to the eyebrows may be temporarily removed with tweezers or permanently by electrolysis.

If the hair is hopelessly oily, good results can be obtained by powdering it occasionally. This must be carefully done, as if the powder is allowed to get on the scalp instead of being brushed thoroughly on the hair it will clog the pores. Not enough powder must be used to show, only sufficient to absorb the oiliness.

A dry skin will chafe this weather unless massaged often with a good skin food or cold cream. The massage stimulates the oil glands to perform their natural work, while the cold cream supplies what natural oil is lacking. The face should always be carefully dried after washing it, as the water is drying to the face.

No dressing stand is complete without half a lemon put there fresh every day. A few drops of the juice much diluted makes an agreeable mouth wash; rubbed over the face, followed by an application of cold cream, it is bleaching. For the nails it is excellent and is used by thrusting the finger tips into the pulp. They should be washed at once and then lightly rubbed with cold cream.

Stringing Beads.

Many valuable beads are lost simply because they have been strung on silk or waxed linen threads. If you wish to have them properly strung, then get one of the thinnest catgut guitar strings and fasten them on it. They are safe, indeed, if the ends are securely fastened with the necessary gold clasps. This is the way jewelers string their valuable beads.

Aging Heroines.

"Sweet seventeen" is not much use as a character in a story which tries to deal in any real way with human nature. You need a "sensible thirty-five" and experience, and that is why the age of the heroine has grown so remarkably. It has not as yet gone over forty, but one never knows when it may do that.—Book Monthly.

The Return.

—By—Martha Cobb Sanford.

Copyrighted, 1908, by M. M. Cunningham.

Life seemed to hold little of romance
for Ruth Jeffrey as, with a long drawn sigh, she closed her desk at the end of the day. What was there in it, after all? she asked herself. She looked ahead and imagined one day following another in unvaried monotony. She fancied she could see her hair turning gray and the color fading from her cheeks, though for that it must have taken a very big stretch of the imagination indeed.

And what return was life making her for all the effort that she was putting into it? A negative reciprocation at best. She was not compelled to marry. She had proved herself capable of independence. It was five years since she had entered upon her business career. Her vim and optimism had made for a success even beyond
her most sanguine anticipations.

Only a month ago she had accepted
at practically her own terms a position that hundreds of women might well envy her and probably did. Surely it was an unseasonable time for her to feel blue and discouraged. There must be some definite cause for her unrest.
Ruth set herself the task of discovering it.

Finally, with a somewhat shame-faced yet wistful little smile, she was forced to admit that the disturbing undercurrent began to ruffle her thoughts about the moment that she had stood by her office window that morning and from the height of many stories watched a young man clad in a fur lined overcoat step out of his respondent motor car and enter the
building.

Who the man was did not matter,
nor that he was wealthy. It was the woman in the car who stirred old yearnings in Ruth's heart. She had with her for comfort and inspiration
through the day the memory of a man's farewell kiss.

This pretty and refreshing bit of sentiment in the midst of a bustling workaday world Ruth had witnessed nearly every morning, to be sure, since she had been in her new position. But never before had it plunged her into such an implacable mood of discontent.
"Well," she commented to herself as she pined on her little tailor made hat, with a gesture of wholesome determination, "this will never do at all.
It's my own fault. I refused him, and that's all there is about it. At the time matrimony seemed such an obvious, commonplace transaction in comparison with the allurements of independence—and now, well, it's no use thinking about it. I may bump into romance any day."

The wind on the night in question was blowing a hurricane. When Ruth tried to open the outside door of the building, she found the resistance too much for her strength and was obliged to fall back a moment.

As she made a second attempt the door yielded with a suddenness that almost upset her equilibrium. She heard some one immediately behind her say, "Allow me," and was aware of a masculine coat sleeve, fur lined,
holding back the door for her to pass.
Ruth thanked the auxiliary arm mechanically, half conscious of a tinge of resentment in her gratitude that she should be in any way beholden to the man upon whom that woman, whom she envied, also depended. But the next moment, with characteristic impulsiveness, Ruth found herself chasing a derby hat down the sidewalk.
Just as she was about to rescue it from an imminent mud puddle at the corner something struck her a fearful blow, and she lost consciousness.

In the days of delirium that followed Ruth sometimes imagined that a heavy door was swinging back upon her; that a man stood by and would not rescue her. And again she would shrink in fear from a plunging automobile that bore down upon her, while the man
and woman within the car laughed, and kissed each other. And always the man wore a fur lined overcoat.

When Ruth had recovered sufficiently to be interested in her surroundings, she noticed first the tall fragrant American Beauties by her bedside.

"Who sent them?" she asked the nurse languidly.

"A gentleman, Miss Ruth."

"What gentleman?"

Faint and weak though Ruth's voice was, the nurse detected in it a note of suspicion.

"He did not leave his card, Miss Ruth," replied the nurse, blushing at her own subterfuge, but Ruth did not observe her confusion.

Why Mr. McDonald did not wish his identity disclosed in connection with the roses the nurse did not know. But he had insisted upon being an anonymous benefactor, and it was not her concern to demand his reason for it.
"What does he look like?" Ruth persisted.

"He's young and very distinguished looking," asserted the nurse, both her manner and words bespeaking unshakable conviction.

"Does he wear a fur lined overcoat?"
"Not always," admitted the nurse in a pathetic attempt to save the situation.

"I thought so," returned Ruth. "I hate him."

"That's only natural, I suppose, dear.
But you must remember that he isn't really to blame if it was his car that ran into you. After the accident he held you in his arms all the way home
so that the motion of the car would not jar you. He did everything he could do for you. I never saw a man more broken up over anything. He's been here at least once a day ever since."

"H'm," commented Ruth. "His motive is obvious. He's afraid I'll sue him for damages. I despise him.
When did he send these roses?"

"Every day—today, I mean. He's had fresh ones sent every morning.
It's very romantic, Miss Ruth, to my way of thinking," ventured the nurse,
casting a sly glance at her patient.

"Romantic?" repeated Ruth. "It's lucky you were not the one run over.
That man would have had you thanking him for the privilege, but he can't bribe me with daily visits and floral contributions. You see there isn't the ghost of a chance for anything romantic in the situation. He's married."

"Oh!" exclaimed the nurse, with unmistakable disappointment. "I didn't know, Miss Ruth. I beg your pardon."

So that was why he presented roses anonymously and why her patient hated him. Possibly before he was married—it was thus the nurse allowed her imagination to put two and two together.

"Don't keep any more of his old roses, please, and don't let him come here any more." Ruth gave her orders wearily and was soon asleep.

Norman McDonald continued to call,
however, and to send roses, quite unconscious that the latter never found their way to Ruth's sickroom.

The reports that the nurse gave him
from day to day of the girl's recovery
were not gratifying.

"She doesn't seem to gain at all," the nurse complained one morning discon-
solately. "She sits up, but she has no animation—no courage hardly. She never mentions her work, and they say
she is heart and soul devoted to it before—before her illness. The wistfulness of her little pale face is enough to break your heart."

The young man looked very thoughtful.
"I suppose she has never asked to see me?" he inquired at length.

"I have never heard her speak your name, Mr. McDonald," replied the nurse evasively.

"No, of course. It isn't likely that she would. It's a blessed thing, though, that she doesn't realize that it was I—
that it was my car that injured her."

The nurse was confused.

"But I fear she does, Mr. McDonald.
In fact, I'm sure she does."

"But I thought you said you never heard her speak of me?"

"Not by name," the nurse repeated.
Norman's perplexity was evident.

"She speaks of you as the 'gentleman of the fur lined overcoat,'" the nurse explained. "And she has requested me not to let you come here, Mr.
McDonald. I hadn't the courage to tell you before."

The young man showed no surprise,
but looked deeply troubled.

"Well," he said finally, "at least I can telephone, and I'm sure you'll tell me if there is ever any way I can be of further service to her. When she has fully recovered, I shall hope."

"Oh, Mr. McDonald," the nurse interrupted. "I suppose I haven't any right to tell you, but sometimes in her delirium, Miss Jeffrey used to mention
some one for whom she seemed to care
a great deal—some one evidently whom she had refused to marry. I realize that I am betraying confidences, but I thought perhaps you might know him
and that it might do her good to see him. She called him 'Laddie.'"

The young man started at the name,
then broke out into a hearty laugh.

The nurse cautioned him to be quiet,
but the caution came too late.

"Who's there?" It was Ruth's voice, calling anxiously from the room above.

The nurse had no evasive answer ready, but had she had one at her tongue's end there would have been no time to utter it, for at the sound of Ruth's voice Norman had bounded up the stairs two, three, at a time and now stood on the upper landing with the girl crushed rapturously to him.

"Oh, Laddie, Laddie!" Ruth cried
joyously. "I knew your laugh."

But at the consciousness of his kiss
she drew back from him with a cry that was half grief, half anger, and threw herself upon the couch, sobbing bitterly.

"Ruth, Ruth, what is it, little one?
Tell me, dearest," pleaded Norman.

"Go back to her," the girl gasped
finally through her sobs.

"Go back to whom?" asked Norman,
utterly mystified.

"Oh, you are cruel. Why did you come? I've watched you kiss her good-by every morning when you left her at the office, and I envied her then, but though I didn't know it was you, I—only remembered what I had lost. Oh, don't stand there and pity me. Go back, go back!"

"Ruth, sweetheart, listen! There is no one to go back to. That is my sister you have seen me with. Surely you knew I would wait for you—and you have come. Don't cry any more, little one."

And Ruth let herself be comforted
and loved and kissed—like any tired child.

"The return is very sweet, Laddie,"
she whispered. "You'll keep on coming every day now, won't you?"

Quarter.

The term "quarter," used in warfare, originated from an agreement
anciently made between the Dutch and Spaniards, that the ransom of a soldier taken in action should be a quarter of his pay. Probably it meant to "grant conditions." In this sense the expression was commonly used at one time. As a modern warlike term, to give quarter means that the prisoners of war should be sent to the rear of the army and there lodged and fed
by the captors until exchanged or released on the termination of hostilities.

CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an average of one or two pills every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man.
During the nine years before I used Cascarets, I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity."

DESPERATE STRUGGLE

Wollaston Man
Roughly Handled
By Two Burglars
Who Enter
His House

Frank R. Neal had a desperate struggle with two yeggmen at his home on Winthrop avenue, Wollaston, at 12:30 this morning. During the scrimmage one of the men fired a revolver point blank at him, the bullet plunging through his hair and finding lodgment in a doorcasing, while a second bullet passed through a window.

According to the story told by the family they had company, Sunday evening, their guests departing about 11 o'clock. Mr. Neal gave up his own bed to a sister, who was ill, and he turned in without disrobing on a couch in the dining room.

About 12:30 he was awakened by a noise, to see a man standing over him. The man grabbed him by the throat and attempted to strangle him.

Mr. Neal struggled to his feet, and then came a battle royal for supremacy. During the struggle Mr. Neal was struck in the face and his clothing was badly torn. Mr. Neal says a second man entered the room and struck him a savage blow in the face.

The second man then ran from the room. After a few minutes struggle the first fellow wrenched himself away, and drawing a revolver fired at him.

The two men then jumped through the kitchen window by which they had gained entrance to the house. Mr. Neal secured his revolver and fired five shots after the two yeggmen, who disappeared down Winthrop avenue. By this time the whole family had been aroused and the police were notified by telephone.

Sergeant Barry notified the police on duty to look out for the men, and also the police of Boston, Milton and surrounding towns. Officer Riley who had been notified visited the house.

This morning the bullet holes in the door casing, and in the window were pointed out to the newspaper men. Mr. Neal's shirt, torn and covered with blood was also exhibited. There were also blood marks on the floor leading from the dining room to the kitchen. Neighbors report that their dogs did considerable barking during the night, and that they heard shots fired.

Mr. Neal could give no description of the men and says that not a word was spoken during the struggle. They, however, appeared to be foreigners.

As far as known, nothing was taken from the house. The parties evidently did not expect to find anyone in the dining room, and the struggle took place before they had an opportunity to secure any valuables.

Presentation to the Bachelor Quintette

A. S. Sandberg, Oscar Sandberg, Theodore Hermanson, John Olson and B. Galbranson, five young men who kept bachelor quarters on Johnson avenue, were tendered a surprise party by a hundred or more of their friends at Electa hall, Saturday evening.

William Hayes was master of ceremonies, and presented the five with a handsome mission rocker. Each responded with appropriate remarks. Then followed an entertainment, which included speechmaking by several, and vocal solos by Prof. William Smith, Miss Della Johnson and Miss Bertha Carlson.

Refreshments were served and there was dancing. The committee in charge were George Walker, Miss Bertha Carlson, Miss Anna Carlson and Miss Hannah Dorum.

Houghs Neck Promoter.

Albert D. S. Bell, one of Cambridge's well-known residents, died Feb. 1 at his home at 164 Brattle street, in his sixty-sixth year. He was well known also in business circles in Boston. In 1890 Mr. Bell went into the real estate business and was a trustee for many large development properties. He had offices in the Equitable Building. He was at one time largely interested in real estate at Hough Neck and was instrumental in building the street railway to that resort.

JOHNSON REMOVED

Mayor Shea
Appoints
John A. Duggan
As Assessor

The axe of Mayor Shea fell this morning, and off came the official head of Charles H. Johnson, the chairman of the Board of Assessors.

The decapitation was not unexpected, for it was given out on Saturday that unless Mr. Johnson resigned he would be removed.

Saturday morning Mr. Johnson was informed by the Mayor that he had determined to make a change in the Assessors. That there were two ways of doing this. By the removal of Mr. Johnson or by his resignation. He then asked Mr. Johnson for his resignation, and was given until Monday to act.

This morning came, but the resignation came not, and the axe fell.

At 11:30 the Mayor filed the following notice with the City Clerk:

"Quincy Mass., Feb. 10, 1908.
"Harrison A. Keith, City Clerk:
"Dear Sir:—I hereby remove Charles H. Johnson from the office of Assessor for the City of Quincy.
"I remove said Charles H. Johnson from said office for the good of the service.
W. T. SHEA, Mayor."

At the same time, notice was filed with City Clerk Keith notifying him that the vacancy thus created had been filled by the appointment of John A. Duggan of Atlantic.

A copy of the notice of removal was placed in the hands of Constable Michael T. Sullivan to serve on Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was found on the street and served with the notice at 12:10.

When Mr. Johnson was seen at his home this noon he said that notice had been served upon him by Michael T. Sullivan, a constable, and that he had immediately placed the matter in the hands of his attorney. Just what action his attorney would take he could not say.

Mr. Johnson said that he had received many expressions of regret from citizens, especially the business men in and about City Square. This was more especially so as he had been in office for eight years under three Mayors, and there had been no criticism of the office.

The expression of the business men was that politics should not enter an office so closely identified with the taxpayers.

The intent of the law was that the Board of Assessors should be a continuous board, but if a man could be removed for political reason it destroyed the effect of the law, and made it a farce.

Mr. Johnson further said that he was at the Assessors' office this morning up to 11:45, attending to the duties of the office, and it seemed rather strange that it was necessary to send a constable out to serve notice upon him.

He had no fear of criticism of his eight years' work in the office of the Assessors he said, and everything in the office would be found in first class condition.

John A. Duggan, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy, is a well known resident of Atlantic. He is a son of the late John A. Duggan, and is largely interested in real estate. He is a lawyer by profession and is also a member of the School Committee from Ward Six. He is 25 years of age.

Below Zero Saturday Night

Saturday night was the coldest of the year. The mercury began to fall soon after noon, and by 7 o'clock Saturday evening it was but 6 above zero in City Square. From then until midnight it dropped at the rate of a degree an hour, so that at midnight it was one degree below zero.

A brisk north west wind accompanied the cold wave, making the weather seem unusually severe. All of the late evening trains were behind time the last train being twenty minutes late in arriving in Quincy.

There was quite a strong wind all day Sunday, and the mercury did not go above the 20 degree mark. Late in the afternoon the wind died out somewhat, but the air did not warm up any. Sunday was a day when it was necessary to shovel coal onto the fires almost continuously to keep warm.

Recently County Commissioner.

The death of Sumner H. Foster of Brookline, on Saturday night, came as a shock to his many acquaintances. He was recently for three years one of the Norfolk county commissioners and chairman of the board. He was also prominent in yachting, sailing an American yacht in the Sonder races, at Kiel last season, and in the Quincy cup races and Sonder races off Marblehead. He was 34 years of age, and son of Hatherly Foster of the Macular-Parker Company of Boston.

Valentine Dance At Music Hall

Music hall was the scene Saturday afternoon of a most attractive dancing party for children. It was given under the auspices of the Day Nursery association, Mrs. Arthur Sibley of Wollaston president.

Promptly at half past two the four young matrons Mrs. Brooks Keyes, Mrs. F. Ramon Burke, Mrs. Gorman Nickerson and Mrs. Tyler Brigham, in light fluffy gowns, entered the hall, and were escorted by four young ushers to their places near the stage to the strains of a march by Poole's orchestra. The ushers were: Clarence Armstrong, Kenneth S. Edwards, William C. Edwards, Gordon Jameson, Arvin Page, Winthrop Safford, Willet Safford, Royal Safford, Kenneth Smith and Starrett White. Nearly two hundred were introduced to the matrons, after which the dance opened with a waltz even by some very little tots and it was a pretty sight.

Seats had been arranged about the hall for the mothers and friends, in front of which was another row for the young dancers. One of the features of the afternoon was a Valentine German, each child being favored with a Valentine. Between the dances several sketches were given by three little girls from the Dorothea Dix home, Boston, and they made quite a hit.

Valentines were on sale and found many eager buyers. The dance was a great success in every way. It was like the closing assembly or ball of a dancing school, and every one participating was a little lady or gentleman whom it was a pleasure to watch.

The children's Valentine dance will hereafter be a yearly feature on the Saturday afternoon before St. Valentine's day.

The committee having the party in charge were: Mrs. Arthur Sibley, Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, Mrs. T. A. Addison, Mrs. Joseph Dasha, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. John L. Gow, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. Thomas Lacey, Mrs. John Nolen, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Miss Alice Keith Prescott, Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan.

Former Pastor.

Rev. William S. Key, a former pastor of Wollaston, whose work for the educational and agricultural advancement and development of the South has aroused interest during the past three or four years, is in Boston for a short time on business connected with his growing work. Last summer he travelled through Great Britain lecturing on the great resources and possibilities of the Southern States. In November he returned, bringing with him a number of well-to-do farmers to join the prosperous English-speaking colony he founded two years ago. Mr. Key has had placed at his disposal for the extension of his colonization movement; one hundred thousand acres of fertile land in the South, from which are shipped from ten to fifteen million quarts of strawberries annually.

NO POPULAR SORROW

But Crowds Saw Royal Funeral
Without Disrespect

GRIEF REIGNED IN PALACE

King Manuel, Queen Amelie and Dowager Queen Did Not Follow Remains of King Carlos and Prince Luz According to Tradition

Lisbon, Feb. 10.—With the church bells tolling continually, the bodies of the murdered King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis, in two golden chariots shrouded in black velvet and drawn by hooded horses, were escorted by a glittering funeral pageant across Lisbon to the Portuguese Pantheon and laid at rest beside their ancestors of the Braganza dynasty.

Seven hours elapsed from the time
the foreign princes and the special ambassadors of all the powers gathered at the palace for the ceremony there until three salvos of twenty-one guns
and three volleys of musketry, reverberating over the terraced and sun-bathed hills, and answered by the British warships in the harbor, announced that the last rites were over.

Not a single untoward incident
marred the last act of Portugal's tragedy. The vague forebodings proved baseless and there is a general feeling of relief that all passed well in view of the political turmoil. The great outpouring of people along the line of the procession was noteworthy. They packed the pavements, crowded the windows and choked the side streets.

While evidences of deep and popular sorrow seemed to be absent, many stood with uncovered heads as the funeral cars passed, and nowhere was actual disrespect witnessed.

Troops guarded the streets and were massed in numerous parks and plazas
along the route, all shops and cafes were closed, and shutters covered the windows of the ministerial buildings in the Praça do Comercio, where the king and prince were assassinated a week ago.

It was a grief-stricken palace; hearts
were turned to pity and strong men shaken at the scene in the private apartments where the special embassies
were received. Neither Queen Amelie nor Dowager Queen Maria Pia were to be seen, but King Manuel carried himself as bravely as he might, though deadly pale and on the verge of a complete breakdown when the ordeal was finished.

The Duke of Connaught, Prince Eitel Frederick and Infante Fernando, in addition to verbal condolences, presented personal letters from their soverigns to the king, who was greatly touched at these messages. Tears that were almost constantly in his eyes several times overflowed.

When the members of the court and the special representatives of foreign countries entered the chapel for the last brief service the king remained behind. Neither he nor the two queens followed the cortege to the cathedral.
The violent death of his father, it is explained, absolved King Manuel from conforming to the tradition of walking behind the dead to the grave. Nevertheless, his absence and the absence of Queen Amelie and the dowager queen has caused universal comment, being generally attributed to other reasons.

The funeral cortege moved more slowly than had been expected and it was the middle of the afternoon before it reached the church. The pageant was a glittering one. The hearse, or coach, containing the body of King Carlos, was drawn by ten horses, and that containing the body of the crown prince by eight. They were led by grooms and other officials carrying flaming torches.
On either side marched a file of soldiers
of the royal guard.

The head of the cortege drew up before the stone steps leading to the Church of San Vicente, where, in an adjoining wing or royal pantheon, are entombed members of the royal family.
A group of clergy, headed by the patriarch of Lisbon, awaited the cortege at the steps. The coffins were carried from the hearse, and enveloped in the national flag, were placed on biers in front of the church. Troops formed about them in open square, and now occurred what seemed to many the most touching incident of the day.

From one side slowly marched a company of men wearing long black robes and carrying lighted torches. They were members of the ancient sacred fraternity of the Holy House of Pity, organized in the thirteenth century, to which Portuguese tradition has accorded the privilege of uttering the first absolution over dead sovereigns, as well as later of claiming the catafalque
and burial pall, which they may sell for the benefit of their charities. Their service is symbolized by disregard for all worldly vanities and by humility.

The chaplain of the order intoned
the accustomed prayers, while the troops stood at attention and in the distance could be heard the minute guns of the land batteries, to which the British and Spanish cruisers replied gun for gun. This brief, but imposing ceremony finished, the prime, with the words "requiescat in pace," sprinkled the coffins with holy water, and they were borne into the church and laid side by side on a catafalque in front of the altar.

The second absolution having been pronounced, a requiem mass was celebrated. The ceremony in the church lasted half an hour and the coffins remained for some time for public view

and were then conveyed to the mortuary chapel adjoining the church, where another mass was said—for the repose of the souls of the dead.

The ceremony of handing over the coffins to the patriarch of Lisbon was carried out immediately after the departure of the members of the cortege.
The grand chamberlain handed him
the keys and declared upon solemn oath that the bodies of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis Philippe really were contained in the coffins, that he had seen
and recognized them and locked them
in and had accompanied the bearers of the keys to the cathedral. High court officials signed as witnesses the two documents regarding the handing over
of the keys.

Sermons Against Gambling
New York, Feb. 10.—In the pulpits of about forty churches of all denominations within the limits of the greater city sermons were preached yesterday
supporting Governor Hughes in his efforts to have the Perry Gray racing law repealed and race track gambling ended. Letters had been sent to ministers
all over the state urging them to observe the day as an "anti-gambling" Sunday, and what was said in the pulpits
of the city was also said in a large number of churches throughout the state.

Czar and Son's Death Planned
Paris, Feb. 10.—The Memorial Dip-matique declares that recent rumors of the assassination of the Emperor of Russia were the outgrowth of the actual finding by the empress upon her son's bed of a letter announcing that the emperor and infant were condemned to death and of the discovery in the imperial palace of seventeen bombs, connected by electric wires, concealed in different parts of the building.

King Shows Signs of Insanity
Brussels, Feb. 10.—There are indications that the government may soon have to deal with a difficult problem in regard to King Leopold. Its nature may be indicated by the remark made by a member of the cabinet in the lobby of the chamber of deputies. He said:
"The king is no longer in a normal condition of mind." Signs of a mental breakdown of Leopold have been noticeable for several months.

Highwayman Suspect Released
Boston, Feb. 10.—The man arrested
at the North station by the Boston police Saturday night and believed to be Chris Seitin, wanted in connection with the shooting of four persons in Woburn
by highwaymen last week, was released yesterday. The man proved his own identity. The police are still seeking the third man of the gang, two of whom are now under arrest and detained in Woburn.

Walker May Fight For Liberty
San Diego, Cal., Feb. 9.—Because extradition papers, it is said, arrived
six days after the expiration of the period during which a prisoner may be held, as stipulated by the treaty between the United States and Mexico, William F. Walker, accused of embezzling $555,000 from a New Britain, Conn., bank
and now in jail at Eusemenda, Lower California, is preparing to fight for liberty.

Old Editor's Labors Ended
Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 10.—John W.
Oliver, editor and principal owner of the Yonkers Statesman, died yesterday at the age of 92 years. He continued in active charge of the newspaper until last Friday, when he was taken ill. Oliver was an early leader in the temperance movement and with his brother, Isaac Oliver, founded the Sons of Temperance.

Thrown Off by Broken Rail
Detroit, Feb. 10.—A limited passenger train was derailed by a broken rail at Delhi, Ont. At the office here of Division Superintendent Sims it is stated that none of the passengers nor train crew sustained any injuries other than bruises. The train was replaced on the rails by a wrecking crew and passed through Detroit six hours late.

Franco in Strict Seclusion
Bordeaux, Feb. 10.—Sunday passed with Senor Franco, the former premier of Portugal, still in Bordeaux and still in seclusion. Since his arrival on Friday he has not emerged from the hotel
where he is stopping, not even, it is stated, leaving his room. The former dictator is amply protected by the police.

May Be Unanimous For Taft
Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—The county
primaries at which delegates to the Republican state convention are to be selected will be held throughout Ohio tomorrow. An overwhelming majority of these delegates will be in favor of Taft for president and the convention
may be unanimously in his favor.

Shipbuilding Syndicate Fails
Sunderland, Eng., Feb. 10.—The big shipbuilding syndicate of James Laing & Sons has suspended. The yards of the syndicate at Sunderland and Deptford employed 5000 men. The concern had built liners for the Peninsular, Oriental and Cunard companies, as well
as several men-of-war.

Wrongfully Used County Funds
Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Arthur
W. T. Back, former county custodian, charged with wrongfully taking $675
of county funds, was found guilty by a jury.

The Weather Forecast
Almanac, Tuesday, Feb. 11.
Sun rises—6:47; sets—5:10.
Moon sets—2:40 a. m.
High water—6:45 a. m.; 7:15 p. m.
It will be fair and warmer in New England, followed by snow.

OUR FLEET SIGHTED

Had All but Completed Passage of Magellan Strait

WEATHER WAS VERY HEAVY

Battleships Had Almost Full Daylight
In Which to Make Most Dangerous Reaches—Chilean Cruiser Served
as Pilot on Way to Pacific

Punta Arenas, Feb. 10.—The Pacific Navigation company steamship Orita, which arrived here yesterday, reports
having passed the American fleet in the strait at 6 o'clock Saturday night, eleven miles east of Cape Pillar. The Chilean cruiser Chacabuco was leading. The weather was very stormy.

The captain of the Orita said that he sighted nineteen vessels in the fleet,
these being the sixteen American battleships, the Chilean cruiser and two others, probably colliers. He did not sight the American torpedo boat flotilla,
which accompanied the battleships
from this port, but which turned north at Smyth channel, thirty miles from the western end of Magellan strait, to proceed through this passage to Telehuano.

Owing to the heavy weather the warships were spread out over a considerable stretch, but all seemed to be making splendid progress in the face of the strong winds.

The sighting of the American fleet
by the Orita indicates that it made a favorable voyage through the strait, for Cape Pillar is the most westerly point of land on the Magellan strait.

Evidently the intention of the American commander to make the passage of the strait from Punta Arenas to the west coast without a stop has been successful. Cape Froward, the southern extremity of South America, lies nearly in the middle of Magellan strait, and the fleet passed this point early in the morning, thus having almost the full daylight in which to make the more dangerous reaches through to the western entrance from the Pacific.

The battleships, once having cleared Cape Pillar and the Evangelists, will steam directly north to Callao, which is the next stopping place. They are expected to arrive at Callao about the 20th. On the way up the coast, however, they will run in close to Valparaiso, and each of the vessels will fire
the national salute of twenty-one guns
and continue the voyage to the Peruvian port.

Request of Missionary S'one
Washington, Feb. 10.—Ellen M.
Stone, the American missionary who was captured by Bulgarian brigands in the autumn of 1901 and subsequently ransomed, called upon Secretary Root and urged him to make a demand upon
the Turkish government for $86,000,
the amount of the ransom paid in her case. She wanted that amount returned to the persons in this country who contributed it by popular subscriptions. Root promised to examine the record in this case.

Opera Show Property Attached
Providence, Feb. 10.—A New York company owned by Thomas Riley of New York, which has been presenting a Japanese comic opera at the Providence Opera house the past week, was disbanded and the sixty singers of the cast returned to New York. The proprietor of the opera house attached the property of the company to cover a loan of $3000, which he claimed to have advanced to Riley last Monday.

Will Quit Hounding Milukoff
St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Professor Milukoff's recent address in New York continues to monopolize attention. A perusal of the original text, however,
has considerably modified the prevalent excitement, and several of the October-ists now declare that the speech is practically without reproach and gives no opportunity for the further hounding of Milukoff.

Weavers Feel the Hard Times
New Bedford, Mass., Feb. 10.—For
the purpose of adopting some measures of relief for weavers who are suffering from the curtailment of work in the local factories, a call has been issued for a meeting of the union Tuesday night. The call says that some heads of families have only from a day to a day and a half's work a week and there is much suffering.

A Menacing Situation
St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Alarmed at the unchecked Turkish penetration of Turkey and the mobilization in Armenia, the Russian government has decided to execute a formidable military demonstration in reply on the Turko-Persian frontier, dispatching there a compact expedition of 60,000 select troops from central Russia with full war equipment.

An Epidemic of Typhoid Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 10.—An epidemic of typhoid fever which developed two weeks ago at Boswell, a mining town near here, is rapidly increasing to alarming proportions. The water supply is blamed for the situation.

Michigan Bank Closes Doors
Dowagiac, Mich., Feb. 10.—The City bank of Dowagiac did not open for business today. The bank is capitalized for $50,000. The bank was established nearly fifty years ago.

A REPLY TO CRITICS

Roosevelt Denies Use of Federal Patronage For Taft

POLITICS NOT CONSIDERED

Analyzes His Appointments and Says Not One Has Been Made That Would Not Have Been Made If No Presidential Contest Were Impending

Washington, Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt made answer to the recent public statements that he has made use of federal patronage to further the presidential interests of Secretary Taft. The president, in a letter to William D. Foulke, begins by characterizing the charges as "false and malicious." He follows this with an analysis of all appointments sent by him to the senate for its action to show that in no case has the proximity of a presidential contest influenced his action.

Some of the passages of the lengthy letter are:

"The statement that I have used the offices in the effort to nominate any presidential candidate is both false and malicious. It is the usual imaginative invention which flows from a desire to say something injurious.

"In nominating judges I have treated politics as a wholly secondary consideration, and have always conducted independent inquiries myself, personally through members of the bench or the bar whom I happen to know, or through Attorney General Bonaparte, Secretary Taft, Secretary Root or Senator Knox.

"In a number of the other offices, chiefly assistant secretaries or heads of bureaus here at Washington, but also governors of territories, or men holding peculiar positions—such, for instance, as that of commissioner of education of Porto Rico—and also in a few other cases, I have either felt that the position was of such a character that the initiative in the choice could only with propriety come from me or from one of the cabinet officers, or else I have happened personally to know of a man of such peculiar qualifications that I desired to appoint him on my own initiative.

"Where the man has done well in office I prefer to reappoint him, and do so when I can get the consent of the senators from his locality; but if they refuse, the reappointment cannot be made.

"In the south Atlantic and gulf states, which have contained neither senators nor congressmen of my own party, I have been obliged to seek my advice from various sources. In these states I have appointed a large number of Democrats, in certain states the Democrats appointed outnumbering the Republicans.

"For advice in appointing the Republicans I have relied wherever possible not upon officeholders at all, but upon men of standing and position who would not take office, and on whose integrity I could depend."

Referring to the charge that in Massachusetts and elsewhere attempts have been made to coerce the postal employees to pledge themselves to vote for Taft delegates, he says:

"There is really nothing to say except that it does not contain the slightest particle of truth, and that the misstatement is so gross that it is difficult to believe it other than a deliberate invention. There is not the slightest foundation for it, and no successful effort can be made to show that there is the slightest foundation for it.

"In each case, whether of appointment or reappointment, I followed the ordinary custom, accepting the suggestion either of the senators or of the congressmen, or both, as in each case the men suggested were eminently fit. Not a particle of difference has been made in this respect between those congressmen who were for one presidential candidate and those congressmen who were for another; and so far as I know, in every case the appointment has fully satisfied the local people.

"So far as I know the only other accusations that have been made as to the use of patronage have been in connection with the pension agent in New Hampshire and a collector of internal revenue in Ohio. In the case of the pension officer, the senators and congressmen could not agree on a nominee, two recommending one man and two another.

"I decided to send in a man recommended to me by outsiders, whom I believed to be better fitted than either. The senate rejected him. His name would have been sent in if there had been no presidential canvass at all at this time. As regards collectors of internal revenue, some are appointed upon the recommendations of senators and some on the recommendations of congressmen.

"Not an appointment has been made that would not have been made if there had been no presidential contest impending, and in no case has there been a deviation from the course that I would have pursued had none of those who actually are candidates, nor has a single officeholder been removed or threatened with removal or coerced in any way to secure his support for any presidential candidate. In fact, the only coercion that I have attempted to exercise was to forbid the officeholders from pushing my own reappointment, this being done in a letter sent to the members of my cabinet on Nov. 19, 1907."

HITCHECOCK IS ASSISTANT

Vorys Will Continue In Full Control of the Taft Campaign

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 10.—An attempt was made to blow up the grocery store and tenement occupied by Antonio Flo in this city. Nine sticks of dynamite were used, three being placed at each door on the front, back and side of the house. All the fuses were lighted, but for some reason only three of the explosives went off. Those were at the back of the house, at a door leading into a small ell of the building.

The force of the explosion threw Flo, his wife and three children out of their beds, smashed the door and all the windows on that side of the house and broke windows in houses fifty and seventy-five feet away. Nobody, however, was hurt. The piazza was wrecked on the Flo house and in front of the back door a large hole was scooped out of the ground by the explosive.

The local police arrested Gregorio Tosco, aged 27 years, at the railroad station as a suspicious character. Flo stated that the only enemy he had was Tosco, and that they had had a dispute recently over a grocery bill. In the course of the trouble, Flo says, Tosco threatened to kill him. When arrested Tosco had a revolver and a stiletto in his possession.

Lost Money In Speculation
New York, Feb. 10.—Declaring that he had lost a fortune in Wall street through duplicity, E. C. Brooks, who came here from the west a wealthy man a few years ago, killed himself in an annex of the Produce Exchange by drinking poison. Entries in a diary indicated that Brooks had sustained heavy losses in the financial district. One entry recorded losses aggregating $20,000 in a single day. A few days ago Brooks had made application at the exchange for employment, even asking to be put to work as a porter or a laborer. He was about 50 years old.

Steamer's Departure Delayed
Portland, Me., Feb. 10.—Because of the strike of the local steamshipmen employed by the Maine Steamship company for an increase in their pay of 5 cents an hour, steamer Manhattan, which should have sailed last night for New York, will not be able to leave before this evening. A considerable number of the men brought here to take the strikers' places are Italians. One of the strikebreakers was accidentally killed while working on the Manhattan yesterday.

Faithful Service Appreciated

Newburg, N. Y., Feb. 10.—The New York Rubber company, with large works at Matteawan, last week presented to its employees double pay. It is the company's annual custom. Each envelope given to the hundreds of employees read: "You will find enclosed an extra week's pay with the company's best wishes."

Engagement Story Denied

Vienna, Feb. 10.—The Zeit publishes an interview with Count Hadik, whose engagement to Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York has been reported, in which the count declares that the report is a fabrication. He adds that he was acquainted with Mrs. Vanderbilt ten years ago, but has not renewed his acquaintance since.

Financial Flurry at Copenhagen

Copenhagen, Feb. 10.—A small financial panic has arisen here on account of a tight money market and extensive speculations on the Bourse. Two of the smaller banks have been affected and one of these has been forced to suspend payments. There has been a run on several of the banks.

Woodford Heads Hughes League

New York, Feb. 10.—It is announced that Stewart L. Woodford has been chosen as president of the Hughes League of the United States. At a notification meeting to be held here on Feb. 17 vice presidents and an advisory committee will be chosen.

Morse Has Nothing to Say

Queenstown, Feb. 10.—When the steamship Etruria, from New York, stopped here, C. W. Morse, who is a passenger, was in his stateroom and refused to be disturbed. He sent word that he had nothing to say regarding his affairs.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Michael J. Norton of Revere, Mass., was struck and killed by an electric car on Atlantic avenue, Boston. He leaves a widow and three children.

Mrs. Joseph Waldron, aged 45 years, died at Everett, Mass., of burns, her clothing having caught fire from flying fat.

Frederick A. F. Adams, one of the best known horsemen in New England, died at Bath, Me., of Bright's disease, aged 72. Adams, it is said, had won and lost fortunes on horses.

Joseph S. Holt of Billerica, Mass., committed suicide by shooting. Dependence, due to sickness, is believed to have been the cause of the deed. He was 67 years old.

Sumner H. Foster, aged 34, a prominent amateur yachtsman and skipper of the yacht Marblehead, which won one of the Sonderklasse races at Kiel last year, died at his home at Brookline, Mass., of typhoid fever.

Representatives of a number of leather firms of New England met at Boston and organized the New England Leather and Shoe Binders' association to forward and promote the interests of their trade.

With the main water pipe broken, fire that broke out in the Ellingwood Shoe and Machine shop at Belfast, Me., threatened to sweep the entire business section, but was checked by prompt work at a small loss.

HIS HOUSE SHATTERED

Attempt to Exterminate Grocer and His Family With Dynamite

Columbus, O., Feb. 10.—That Arthur Vorys will continue in full control of the canvass for the nomination of William H. Taft for president at the coming Republican national convention was made clear by the secretary of war in a statement which he gave to the press while passing through Columbus en route to Kansas City, where he will speak at a banquet tonight. The statement follows:

"Mr. Vorys is in charge of the whole matter and will continue to be so until the end. The general headquarters will be at Columbus, but Vorys himself requested that the assistance of Hitchcock be procured because he felt the need of some one to look after affairs in the east and south, and it was at Vorys' earnest request that the assistance of Hitchcock was solicited and procured.

"Mr. Hitchcock expects to see Vorys as soon as he retires from office and confer with him generally as to the work. While the main headquarters will, of course, remain at Columbus, it may be that Vorys and Hitchcock will agree upon the establishment of headquarters in the east if it is found necessary."

Alleged Participant in Murder

Boston, Feb. 10.—Oscar L. Kelson, who has been held a few days at the Cambridge jail on the nominal charge of stealing trading stamps six years ago, has been surrendered to the Somerville police and held under the charge of being concerned in the murder of Charles E. Bushee, a Somerville druggist, who was brutally beaten in his store on the night of Jan. 12 and died last Thursday. It is claimed that Kelson has confessed that he and two other men went into Bushee's store to hold him up and rob him and, meeting with resistance, clubbed the aged druggist. The police are seeking the two men, whose names they claim to have.

Quinzel With Fatal Result

Portland, Me., Feb. 10.—Jeremiah C. McCarthy, aged 57, who, twenty years ago, was a prosperous contractor in Boston, is under arrest on the charge of killing Arthur Norton, 60 years old. Both men were employed at the farm of H. N. Castner. According to witnesses, the two men quarreled about their duties at the farm. It is alleged that McCarthy knocked Norton down with a blow of his fist. Norton's condition soon became alarming and it was decided to send him to a hospital. He died in the ambulance.

Collapsed Almost at His Door

Mapleville, R. L., Feb. 10.—Eunice La Flash, aged 55, lost his way in the dark while returning home from the village late Saturday night, and wandering by the path leading to his home sank down behind a stone wall, within 200 feet of his doorstep, where he was found by searchers Sunday. He was breathing when found, but died within half an hour. Death was due to exposure.

Object to Being Caricatured

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 10.—A meeting of the state board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Massachusetts was held in this city, at which the board put itself on record as resenting newspaper and postcard caricatures of the Irish people and the order, and voted to exhaust every lawful effort to suppress the sale and circulation of such postcards as caricatured the Irish race.

Toy Combine in Receiver's Hands

Boston, Feb. 10.—The Hardware and Woodware Manufacturing company, formerly the National Novelty company, has gone into the hands of a receiver. It is known as the toy combine. It has factories in Winchendon and Leominster, Mass., Keene, N. H., Brattleboro, Vt., and half a dozen other places in New England and an office in Boston.

Embezzlement Is Charged

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 10.—Arthur W. Gage, American Express agent here, who was arrested on the complaint of a route agent, who alleged that he had found a shortage amounting to about $1000 in Gage's accounts, pleaded not guilty to the charge of embezzlement. He waived examination and was held in $2000 bonds for the grand jury.

Lightship Safe on Her Station

Boston, Feb. 10.—Anxiety as to the safety of the Nantucket shoals lightship No. 85, which has been out of wireless communication with the shore since last Thursday morning, was set at rest last night when steamship San Jose reported that she passed the lightship Saturday on her station and that all was apparently well aboard.

A National Bank Merger

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 10.—A merger of the Prescott National bank with the Union National bank has been carried out. By the arrangement the Prescott bank will be absorbed by the other institution, which will take over the deposits and loans, while the Prescott bank will vote to go into liquidation.

Nantucket's Annual Freeze-up

Nantucket, Mass., Feb. 10.—For the first time this winter the island of Nantucket is isolated. An unbroken field of hard ice extends ten miles to the north of the island, barring off the island effectively from all means of communication with the mainland except by means of the cable.

Unknown Man Perished

Northampton, Mass., Feb. 10.—The body of an unknown man, aged about 30, was found at Mountain Park, a summer resort. Death had been due to exhaustion and exposure. The man wore no overcoat and there were no papers on the body to identify it.

The children who were not allowed to go to the Valentine dance missed a lovely party. It was quite the nicest children's party of the season and will hereafter be an annual affair.

Miss Eleanor Pinel, the pleasant and obliging clerk at L. A. Chapin's, has been greatly missed from her duties, having been confined to her home on Franklin street by sickness the past week. Her many friends hope to see her at her post soon.

A christening took place Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fitton, 71 Cleverly court, when Rev. A. R. Atwood, assisted by Deacon Sherburne, baptized Gertrude Mabel Fitton. A girls' choir from the Junior Christian Endeavor Society sang "I am so glad that Jesus loves me" and "Jewels." The girls were Eva Forrest, Effie Waddell, Salma Thayer and Jennie Gibb.

Milton High defeated Dedham High at hockey on Saturday 5 to 0.

It was slightly warmer today than it has been for the past ten days.

Miss Alice Thomas of Cranch street has accepted a position with W. G. Shaw.

Several Quincy ladies are patronesses of the Bank Officers theatricals in Boston.

W. E. Howe, Jr., goes to Hartford, Conn., this week to spend a few days with relatives.

Mrs. William E. Howe of Bigelow street has been enjoying a few days with friends at Waltham.

The Senate passed on Friday a bill increasing the fee for certificates of marriage from fifty cents to $1.

Mrs. George W. Louthier and daughter of Roxbury were the guests of friends in this city over the week's end.

Mayor Shea has called a special meeting of the City Council for Tuesday evening, Feb. 11, to draw six jurors.

Owing to a slight accident to the heater at First church, services were held Sunday morning in the chapel and were largely attended.

Edward J. Fegan, John J. O'Hara and others attended the annual dinner on Saturday evening of the Georgetown University Club of New England.

St. Francis church of Braintree will hold a coffee party Wednesday evening in Braintree Town hall. A late car will be run to Quincy after the dance.

No meeting of the City Council tonight. There will, however, be a meeting of the citizens at City Hall to discuss the grade crossing problems. Several views showing the railroad elevations in Quincy and proposed plans will be thrown upon a screen by means of a stereopticon.

Basket Ball
At Y. M. C. A.

Three games were played by Y. M. C. A. teams on Saturday, resulting in two wins and one defeat.

In the afternoon the small boys journeyed to Hyde Park and defeated the Juniors by score of 12 to 7. After the game the boys had a fine time in the swimming pool.

The St. Marys Jrs. defeated the Y. M. C. A. Advanced Juniors in the evening in a well contested game, 18 to 15 being the final score.

The senior game was with the South Weymouth team and proved rather one sided, as the Weymouthites were outclassed in speed and weight by the Y. M. C. A. men.

The line-up:

QUINCY. SOUTH WEYMOUTH.
Parker Double
Booney Thomas
Gourlie McGrooy
Webster Alstead
Mundie Hooper

Score Y. M. C. A. 32; South Weymouth 18. Referee—D. Morris. Timer—B. Trask. Scorer—W. Childs.

There will be no home games this week excepting a Junior game on Saturday afternoon with a Malden team. The Employed Boys team play the boys of East Milton at the Cunningham gym on Wednesday evening. On Saturday evening the first team will play in Brockton.

All attention is turned to the Gymnastic Exhibition to be given by the Springfield Gym. team on Thursday, Feb. 13. It is expected to be the finest thing of the kind ever given in Quincy.

Great Victory
At Whist Match

Only four of the eleven pairs playing north and south at the whist match of the American club on Saturday secured plus scores because E. E. Hoxie and F. J. James scooped almost everything and had a score of 11-1-2. G. B. Thompson and P. W. Crosby were at the top playing east and west with a score of 6-1-2.

Newsy Budget
From Shipyard

Four gasoline engines are being built in the machine shop for the Electric Boat Company.

Sidney B. Lermund, of the shipwright department, has gone to New York for two weeks.

The magazine section of the Boston Sunday Herald contained an illustrated article on the U. S. battleship North Dakota, which is building at this shipyard.

The U. S. cruiser Des Moines, built at Quincy, which has been searching for weeks along the coast put into the Virginia Capes on Saturday.

The first government trial trip of the new armored cruiser South Dakota, sister ship of the California, will be run off Feb. 25, in the waters of the Pacific.

Equipping the U. S. S. Castine as a "parent" ship of submarines, will cost in the vicinity of $20,000, and will probably be done at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard.

After an ineffectual attempt to gain the open sea, the Cuttlefish, Tarantula and Viper, submarines, accompanied by the converted gunboat Hist, returned to the Navy Yard at New York. There Lieutenant Charles E. Courtney, commander of the flotilla, announced that the submarines turned back when off the Sandy Hook lightship owing to damage to the propeller of the Cuttlefish rather than because of the rough weather and high sea. Not until the Cuttlefish is placed in dry dock will the extent of the injury be determined. From a superficial examination by Lieutenant Marquat, it is thought that one of the blades of the propeller was straightened up by coming in contact with a piece of ice or a log and that the defect can be easily remedied.

My Employee.

(Original.)

There were years of continued revolution in Cuba before the final relinquishment of the island by Spain by order of the United States. As far back as fifty years ago filibustering expeditions went there from Florida, but revolution had not gathered sufficient strength for an auxiliary to be of benefit. Now and again a leader would arise, but after a brief resistance to Spanish tyranny would succumb. Usually a price was set upon his head.

It was during the latter part of this period of ineffectual revolution that I went to Cuba as a sugar planter. My plantation was in the interior, but my office was in Havana. One day while at the former my coat was caught by a portion of the machinery, and I was jerked toward instant death. One of my employees, Diaz Martin, of mixed Spanish and Aztec blood, pushed forward and extricated me a few seconds before I would have been mangled but for him. I had been carried to a position so dangerous for any one to enter except with extreme caution that my rescuer's act was one of great bravery. It surprised me, for he had all the softness of manner possessed by his Aztec progenitors.

I took Martin with me to Havana and placed him in a position where he might become valuable to himself as well as to me. But he was entirely uneducated,

BRIDGES FAVORED

Sentiment at Public Meeting For Abolishing Grade Crossings

A largely attended citizens' meeting on the grade crossing problems
was held Monday evening in the Council Chamber, City Hall. The meeting was called by Mayor Shea,
and although the matter was discussed until 11 o'clock, the only thing that was practically agreed upon was that Saville street should remain open, by depressing the tracks
at this point and crossing the tracks
by a bridge.

Mayor Shea called the meeting to order and it was organized with County Commissioner John F. Merrill
as chairman and Assessor Warren W.
Adams as clerk.

Councilman Gilson, operating the stereopticon, threw the views upon the screen that were shown at previous meetings. These were explained in detail by Commissioner Bainbridge who answered many questions
propounded by the citizens present.

During the discussion the matter
of how the new boulevard would cross the tracks at Newport avenue,
was discussed. G. B. Bates contended that the only feasible way to cross was by depressing the tracks and having the parkway go over the track, contending it would be impossible to go under.

Commencing near Warren avenue
to depress the tracks would make it possible to depress them 13 feet at Saville street. This would make a practically level line to School street.
T. L. Williams representing the Board of Trade said the plan then being shown was almost identical with the plan of that Board which represented the business interests of Quincy.

The plan in question showed an overhead bridge over Saville street
starting from near the corner of Hancock street; and a new street
alongside Saville street to the depot, and an extension of Upland road to Granite street.

Every business interest of the city should be protected said Mr. Williams. It would be a shame to take away a business that a man had spent the better part of his life in building up.

E. H. Angier favored depressing the tracks at Saville street.

Gilbert Miller the expressman argued for a crossing over Saville street, believing a bridge practical for teaming.

A new plan was then shown. This provided for a new street starting from Saville street just east of the grain store; thence running by a curved line in a north-westerly direction through land of H. M. Faxon and J. F. Faxon and crossing the tracks by a bridge to Upland road.

This street would have a grade of four per-cent. It puts one house out of business on Upland road. It also provided for a subway for foot passengers under the tracks both north and south of the depot.

Mr. Bates said this plan would completely put him out of business,
and would destroy other property.

Commissioner Bainbridge—if you change the grade of the railroad it might cost a million dollars. Put the charge for damages by this plan against the million dollars and there would be considerable difference.

Mr. Bates said the grade could be changed for $20,000 to which the Commissioner replied, "That is all nonsense."

Commissioner Bainbridge then explained Mr. Bates plan. It was to depress the tracks which would bring them nearly on a level with the present grade of Granite street. Irving place would be extended by a new way to near the corner of Granite and Goffe street.

Three ways were provided for reaching Hancock street from this point. One by a bridge over the tracks, on the present lines of Granite street. One by going to the south of Granite, and one by a new way through Sheppard's coal yard and the Faxon property abutting the Hancock cemetery.

In reply to a question, Mr. Bates said that the freight yard would not have to be reconstructed as spur track from main line would go off at same level as now.

Mr. Blackmur questioned the cost.
This was an important element. He did not believe it reasonable to ask the Commission to depress tracks all through Quincy.

Mr. Miller said that at Newton the tracks were depressed for a distance of five miles.

H. T. Whitman offered a motion that public necessity required a bridge be built over the railroad in the vicinity of Saville street.

Mr. Bates offered an amendment that the present way at Saville street be maintained by a bridge over the tracks for teams.

The amendment was accepted.

An attempt was made by the clerk
to read the motion as amended but he was slightly mixed for a time.
The motion was finally put and carried unanimously.

Herman F. McIntire had a scheme which he tried to elucidate. He also got tangled somewhat. He maintained if the tracks were depressed
a street alongside Saville street
would not be necessary.

WATER STREET.

The Water street crossing was then taken up. This was discussed at length but no agreement was reached. The general sentiment however was to lower the street at the crossing a few feet and then cross by an overhead bridge.

T. L. Williams representing the Board of Trade said that his organization had a plan similar to that shown for an overhead bridge. His plan however proposed to raise the grade of Franklin street at its junction with Water street four feet and then cross by a bridge starting at Franklin street and ending near Pleasant street. This would mean less damage to property. He also approved the widening of Water street.

John Q. A. Field said that Mr. Williams may be a good jeweler but was not much on grades, to which Mr.
Williams replied that tonight he was not a jeweler but that the Board of Trade was speaking through him.

Councilman Bryant asked about lowering the grade all through Quincy to which Commissioner Bainbridge replied that the grade from the Quincy Adams to Braintree was now

at the limit and could not be made much heavier. It would not be possible to lower the grade of the railroad enough at Water street to cross
at the present grade of the street.

John L. Miller believed the plan shown to cross by a bridge the best.
It would give a 3 per cent grade.
The loop from Water street to Liberty street would give easy access to the new freight yard. Very little property would be damaged.

Andrew Milne said another span could be made so that there would be good access to the yard of Mc-Grath Bros.

John Q. A. Field opposed. It would be impossible to turn a team
of eighteen or twenty horses around that loop. He wanted a way to the freight yard without any grade.

Mr. Miller replied that teams could go via Quincy street.

Fred L. Jones considered the overhead bridge plan the best yet. Teams would not have to go over the bridge. He did not believe in lowering the grade of the railroad more than three feet. There was no trouble to take care of surface water.

Mr. Field—He is willing for us to drive all over West Quincy to get to the yards, but I have to pay for it,
not he. It was easier for him to go via of Granite and Hancock street to South Quincy. It amused him to hear a man who never drove a horse say that this was the best plan. There was no drain at Dobles corner. The little pipes under the sewer was what was draining the street. He was only looking for the best interest of the horses.

Councilman Falconer believed the best way was to elevate the tracks
at Water street and have the street go under them. He ventured to say in 10 years the business would have outgrown the new freight yard.

Mr. Miller hoped to live to see the day when they did things in Quincy as in other places, where they put four or more horses abreast instead of stringing them out. He hoped the teamsters would catch up some time.
Mr. Falconer was an abutter and not an acceptable witness.

Mr. Field then explained his plan which was to cross beneath the tracks
near the plant of F. H. Crane & Sons.
Mr. Miller said that wiped out a large business section.

Mr. Blackmur then moved, and it was voted, that all plans be referred to the committees who should report
at a meeting to be held Thursday evening.

The meeting then adjourned.

Serious Accident At Polishing Mill

William McInnis, aged fifty one years,
of Kidder street, was seriously if not fatally injured this morning, at the polishing mill of John Masson, at South Quincy. He was at work changing the position of a four ton block of granite when it fell over onto him. Mr.
McInnis was literally pushed through the side of the building and was badly crushed about the head and body. It was some time before a physician arrived. The police ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital.

The Bethany Brotherhood

The February meeting of the Bethany Brotherhood on Monday evening was largely attended by men of the church President Myers presiding. The special guest of the evening was Rev. Edward Hunting Rudd of Dedham. The club also entertained Rev. N. J. Sproul of the Water Street Presbyterian church and President Collins of the Men's club of that church.

An oyster supper was served at 6:30, and included a hot stew, escalloped oysters, pickles and rolls, squash pie and cheese, cocoa and apples.

An invitation was received to attend the federation of Men's Clubs in Boston, March 17, and the pastor,
President Myers and another member will represent the brotherhood.

Rev. Mr. Sproul brought congratulations. In the past the churches had looked to ladies for success, but
of late a men's movement had developed. Noted also a growing spirit of fraternity among churches of different denominations. He told several good anecdotes.

A. L. Hayden was called upon for a solo and as usual he was recalled.
Dr. Hardy, the pastor, thought the reason for the success of the men's movement was because the enemy minister was gone. He paid a tribute to Princeton college, where Rev. Mr. Rudd was graduated, and to the modern colleges in general,
and spoke highly of the work Mr.
Rudd was doing for men and the church.

Rev. Mr. Rudd when introduced had a kind word for the pastor of the church. "He had a big true loving heart and I love to cuddle up to him and get an inspiration, although when on a committee with him it is perspiration." Christian service today, he said, makes one's blood tingle.
It was a great thing to be an American, but better to be an American christian, but best of all to be an American christian man. Some of the fundamentals to make men
are: common sense, a great vision,
a vision of duty, and a vision of life
in the large.

Mr. Rudd introduced several stories and made his appeal to men very interesting. A rising vote of thanks was given to the visiting clergymen and the meeting closed with the singing of "Bless be the tie that binds."

A Coal Swindle That Did Not Work

Mrs. Lewis H. Cain of Newcomb street is congratulating herself that she was too shrewd for a swindler who visited her on Monday. He was a well dressed man with dark curly hair, and represented that he was a railroad man and a friend of her son-in-law, J. I. Condon, who works for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

He said there was at the freight yard a few tons of coal left from a carload which Mr. Condon hoped would be reserved for her. He offered her four tons at $3.50 per ton and some wood for $1.50 per load. While at the house he was familiar with the children and said he lived on Black-ett street, and that his name was Connors.

Finally Mrs. Cain told him he might bring a couple tons of coal,
while she said he would do in the afternoon. He tried to collect for the coal in advance, and also tried to get her to sign an agreement, but Mrs.
Cain firmly decided to do neither.

When he left he agreed to send the coal that day, but Mrs. Cain never expects to see it. She is convinced that all he wanted was the money.
She makes public the attempt at swindling that it may be a warning to others never to pay strangers in advance for anything.

Dennis O'Neil has at last accomplished his object in preparing a handy skating pond for the young people of Atlantic. The large field on Squantum street down by the boulevard has been flooded and it needs but a bit more rain to smooth off the ice a little to make a most enviable spot for lovers of this sport. A public vote of thanks is due Mr. O'Neil for his kindness.

FOR GRAND LARCENY

Charges Said to Have Been Made Against Morse

TWO INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Grand Jury Looked Into Banking
Transaction in Which Two Notes
For $200,000 Figured—Heinz Expects Morse to Settle His Debts

New York, Feb. 11.—When Charles W. Morse steps ashore next Saturday or Sunday from the Cunard liner Etruria he will probably be greeted by a policeman who will notify Morse that he is under arrest. For yesterday the grand jury of New York county returned, it is said, two indictments against the organizer of the ice trust and the co-stewardship trust. On each bill is fixed at $10,000.

The specific charges are said to be grand larceny. District Attorney Jerome would not directly state that the indictments were against Morse. He said they were laid against "a man now
on his way over here from Europe."

After the court proceedings it was stated authoritatively that the man referred to by Jerome was Morse.

The grand jury, it is learned, has ordered other indictments in its investigation into banking affairs. Among the matters which the grand jury looked into was a transaction in which two notes for $200,000 figured.

Mr. Heinz was quoted as saying yesterday afternoon that he believed Morse would pay all his debts. The miling man continued:

"I do not believe for a moment that Morse ran away from his creditors. If he gets the chance, I believe he will pay dollar for dollar on everything he owes.
Of course, if people who have judgments against him all start to collect
at once, and do not give him a chance to realize on his holdings, that will be very different matter."

"I believe, however, that Morse, who is a mighty good fellow, will be able to rehabilitate himself, if they give him
half a chance."

Stringent Laws For Canal Zone
Washington, Feb. 11.—Vagrancy, mendacity, intoxication and disorderly conduct or disturbance of the peace are hereafter to be dealt with severely by the officials of the Panama canal zone.
This is made evident by the issuance of an addition to the penal code of the laws of a section authorized and signed by President Roosevelt. Persons convicted of offenses of this character are to be punished by fine not to exceed $25
or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or both.

Metcalf Gives Information
Washington, Feb. 11.—Responding to a request by the president, Secretary Metcalf sent to the senate a statement showing the number of officers of the navy ashore and afloat. The purpose of the statement is to refute the charge that nearly one-half of the officers have been enmeshed by "social pulls" and are enjoying "soft berths" in Washington and at the various navy yards. There is a less percentage ashore now than there has been for ten years, according to the statement.

Did Not Please Democrats
Washington, Feb. 11.—A brief but forceful speech was made in the house by Mr. Leake of New Jersey, in which he charged W. J. Bryan with taking the "big stick" from the president, leaving the latter only a big slipper. Leake accused the Democrats in the house of having usurped the right of free action of the delegates to the Denver convention by nominating Bryan in advance. His remarks were greeted with hisses by the Democratic side of the house.

Sergeant Implicated in Plot
St. Petersburg, Feb. 11.—The arrest of a sergeant of gendarmes led to the disclosure of a plot of Social Revolutionists living at Viborg to attack the branch of the state bank in this city.
When the gendarme was taken into custody he had a bomb in his pocket.
The police yesterday arrested twelve of the alleged conspirators and seized
a quantity of bombs and other explosives.

To Strengthen Frontier Points
Pekin, Feb. 11.—Border complications and the successes of the rebels on the French border, due, it is believed to foreign assistance, have induced the Chinese government to hasten the organization of her modern drilled troops at all frontier points. A modern drilled skeleton brigade is now on its way to Thibet for the purpose of organizing a Thibetan division.

Atlanta Handicapped by Storm
Atlanta, Feb. 11.—Owing to a severe elect storm wires of all descriptions are out of communication, electric car lines are stalled and streets are blocked with fallen trees. No serious accidents or loss of life have been reported. Business in Atlanta was largely suspended
yesterday.

New Bowling Record
Cincinnati, Feb. 11.—The world's bowling record for two-men teams was broken here by J. Y. Chalmers and H. A.
Klene of Chicago, who scored a total of 1254. The best previous record of the American Bowling congress was 1247.

THE BUSHEE MURDER

Third Man For Whom Police Sought
Is Under Arrest

Boston, Feb. 11.—Boston police arrested last night George F. Gilmore as the third man wanted in the alleged murder of Charles E. Bushee, the Somerville druggist who died last Thursday
from the effects of injuries received
Jan. 12.

Gilmore, who is 22 years old, was,
according to an alleged confession of Oscar E. Kelson, at present held without bail with John J. Killian for the grand jury in connection with the assault, implicated in the affair.

Gilmore, it is said, admitted to the police that he was with the other two men when Bushee was knocked down and robbed in his store, but, according to his alleged statement, he entered the store last and did not take part in the alleged assault.

Palmer Whipped From the Start
London, Feb. 11.—Tommy Burns,
the American heavyweight pugilist,
knocked out Jack Palmer, the English champion, in the middle of the fourth round of what was scheduled to be a twenty-round contest for the heavyweight championship. The referee might have given a decision in the first minute of the contest, for Palmer was hopelessly outclassed. At last he was barely able to drag himself to his knees, where he remained with his elbows on the floor until after the count
of ten had been tolling off.

Once Escaped From Prison
St. Johns, Feb. 11.—Oscar Kelson, held in Somerville, Mass., in connection with the murder of Charles E. Bushee, has a police record here. Five years ago, in company with James Briggs, he was arrested for breaking and entering a number of places and was confined in the county jail. Both escaped and gained their liberty by jumping over the jail yard fence. Kelson managed to cross the border into the United States.

Think Two Battleships Enough
Washington, Feb. 11.—By a vote of thirteen to five, the house committee on naval affairs rejected the president's urgent recommendation that congress
at this session authorize building four battleships, at a total cost of $38,000,- 000, but by a unanimous vote the committee voted that there be in the navy appropriations bill an authorization for the construction of two battleships, to cost $9,500,000 each, and that they be of the Delaware type.

Noted Old Fire Fighter
New York, Feb. 11.—Hugh Bonner,
the old chief of the New York fire department, who, after his retirement
from office because of political changes,
went to Havana and then to Manila
and organized fire departments in those two cities, was appointed fire commissioner yesterday to succeed Francis J.
Lantry, who recently resigned as an outcome of the investigation of the fire department. Bonner is nearly 70 years old.

Lloyd Heads Campaign Committee
Washington, Feb. 11.—In the face of strong opposition by John S. Williams, leader of the minority in the house of representatives, Representative James T. Lloyd of Missouri was elected chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, defeating Representative Ryan of New York by a vote of 23 to 14. Only one ballot was cast and after its announcement the election of Lloyd was made unanimous.

Cruiser's Boiler Tub Is Defective
Vallejo, Cal., Feb. 11.—Boiler tubes
on the cruiser St. Louis blew out yesterday while the St. Louis was off San-salito. Four men were horribly scalded with steam. They were brought to the naval hospital. It is believed that they will recover. A rigid investigation is under way and a report has been sent to Washington. The St.
Louis left the yard last week after extensive repairs while in drydock.

New Franco-American Treaty
Washington, Feb. 11.—Secretary
Root and Ambassador Jusserand signed a treaty yesterday providing for the arbitration of any issue that may arise between France and America. The treaty will have to be submitted to the American senate and to the French executive before it can become effective.
Meanwhile its provisions are withheld
from publication.

Shot Wife and Killed Self
New Orleans, Feb. 11.—Joseph March, a bookmaker operating at the local race track, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife at their boarding house and then killed himself. Jealousy is believed to have been the cause of the act. March and his wife are said to have come from New York.

An Extraordinary Snowfall
Vienna, Feb. 11.—Very severe weather has been experienced throughout Austria during the past week, which has greatly interfered with railway traffic. Lemberg is cut off from all communication with Vienna, and at Cracow all traffic has stopped. In some places
there are eighteen feet of snow.

Explos on K's Nine Miners
Central City, Ky., Feb. 11.—Nine miners were killed and one was probably fatally injured by an explosion of gas in a mine at South Carrollton. The accident was caused by a slow blast setting off the gas, which had evidently accumulated in considerable quantities.

The Weather Forecast
Almanac, Wednesday, Feb. 12.
Sun rises—6:46; sets—5:11.
Moon sets—3:37 a. m.
High water—7:45 a. m.; 8:15 p. m.
It will be partly cloudy and warmer
in New England.

BODIES ENTOMBED

Remains of King and Crown Prince Placed In Pantheon

THE CAVALRY CALLED OUT

Found Necessary to Disperse Crush
'Which Threatened Disaster—Public
Said to Consider Assassinations as Justifiable Political Act

Lisbon, Feb. 11.—The bodies of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luiz Philippe were yesterday laid away beside those of their royal ancestors in the sacred sepulchres of the Pantheon. The official closing of one of the most tragical incidents in Portuguese history was attended by a scene which almost developed into a disaster.

A great crowd, numbering into the thousands, struggled outside the Cathedral of San Vicente, seeking to enter and view the bodies before the doors
were finally closed for the ceremony.
Brushing back the police and the guard of royal archers, they poured into the church, sweeping everything before them.
A panic was threatened and the cavalry was called out to disperse the pushing thousands. Women and children were caught in the crush and many of them were bruised and trampled upon, but no fatalities have been reported.

When the doors eventually were closed to the public, the ceremony of entombment was begun. All the ministers of state were present. The patriarch of Lisbon, assisted by other high church officials, blessed the sacrament,
the cathedral and palace choirs chanted
the "Libera Me," and, to the intoning of
"De Profundis," the coffin of the crown prince was transported between double ranks of archers, preceded by a long procession, including mace bearers, acolytes and grand dignitaries of the palace. In a similar manner the body of the king was borne to the tomb.

After absolution had been given and the chanting of the Benedictus, the grand chamberlain solemnly swore that the bodies were those of "our beloved
lord and king, his most faithful majesty, Dom Carlos I, King of Portugal, and our Prince Dom Luiz Philippe, Duke of Braganza."

Official documents were drawn up and signed and the key to each coffin
was given over to the patriarch of Lisbon. When the coffins were placed in the tombs the cortege separated and the Pantheon was closed. Premier Ferreira then proceeded to the Neoes-tadades palace to acquaint King Manuel that the obsequies had been concluded.

Public Approval of Crime
London, Feb. 11.—A special dispatch to The Standard from Lisbon asserts that the public acquiesce in the assassination of the king and crown prince as a justifiable political act, and that no effort will be made to bring to justice
the accomplices of the murderers, although they are numerous and in many cases known.

On the contrary, says the dispatch,
no surprise is expressed that the Republican newspapers demand the criminal prosecution of the king's quarry,
Figueira, who sabred one assassin.

Subscriptions have been raised for the families of the murderers amounting to several thousand pounds, continues the dispatch, and rich citizens of Lisbon are disputing for the privilege of adopting the children of the principal criminal.

The Standard's correspondent predicts that trouble will arise when the limit of the conciliation policy the present ministry has adopted has been reached, and it becomes necessary to take strong measures.

Franco May Go to Italy

Marseilles, Feb. 11.—When Senor Franco and his family arrived here last night a big crowd had assembled at the railway station. Franco and his party were flanked by police and hurriedly entered the Terminus hotel, going at once to their apartments. Franco reiterated in an interview that he believed he had done his duty as a good Portuguese. He would not disclose his ultimate destination, but it is generally believed here that he is going to Italy.

Alleged Concealment of Assets

Philadelphia, Feb. 11.—John K. Peck of Providence was held in $6000 bail
here, charged with concealing assets from Alfred Johnson, a trustee in bankruptcy, in proceedings against a Providence shoe merchant who failed for $75,000. It is alleged that Peck and others helped to cause the disappearance of 500 cases of shoes and other goods which the trustee should have secured.

Miss Shonts and Duke Get License

New York, Feb. 11.—Due de Chaulnes
of France and Miss Mary T. Shonts, daughter of Theodore Shonts, went to city hall yesterday and obtained a marriage license after filling out and signing the necessary papers. The duke gave his age as 29 and left his occupation blank on the application paper.
Miss Shonts gave her age as 19. The wedding will take place next Saturday.

Unknown Sloop Wrecked

New York, Feb. 11.—A fishing sloop sank on the east side of the main ship
channel about one mile north of Southwest Spit. Her cabin was carried away
by drift-ice and was swept up the bay.
Her identity and the whereabouts of her crew are unknown.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

When children are cross, irritable and peevish it does not signify that they have bad tempers; it shows that there is something wrong with the child which it is not able to explain, and which the mother—if she only knew—could easily and quickly cure. Mothers, study your child's symptoms; if cross, peevish, nervous, grinds the teeth, wets the bed, picks the nose, has variable appetite or bowels, suffers with wind-colic or headache, is irritable and restless, has furred tongue or offensive breath, you may be sure that child is troubled with worms, which cause nearly all the ills of childhood.
Don't delay—disease comes suddenly—a few doses of the wonderful old-time remedy—

DR. TRUE'S
ELIXIR

will give your children that vigorous health
which is so important to their future happiness.
Dr. True's Elixir expels the worms, if there are any—if not it acts as a gentle laxative and tonic. It cleans out all waste matter from the stomach and bowels, tones and strengthens
the entire system of adults as well as children. Dr. True's Elixir is a safe, pure, vegetable tonic and has been the standard household remedy for fifty-five long years.
Sold by all druggists, 3c. per bottle.

WEAK FROM SUFFERING UNABLE TO PERFORM WORK

Discouraged After Spending Money Without Benefit—Found Help at Last.

Mr. Earl McCoy, living at 1506 So. Branson Street, Marion, Ind., has passed through an experience that is being duplicated every day in every town and city of any consequence in the United States. It furnishes abundant proof of the correctness of L. T. Cooper's theory in regard to the degeneracy of the human stomach, and shows conclusively the merit possessed by his New Discovery medicine to restore the weakened system to full strength and vigor.

Mr. McCoy says: "For a long time I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble. I was unable to retain any food, and became so weak and run down that I was compelled to stop work. My system was nearly a wreck, and I had tried so many remedies and spent so much money without deriving any benefit, that I became discouraged and gave up hope of ever being well again.

"I heard a great deal of Mr. Cooper's theory and medicine, and after much hesitation decided to try it. The result was a pleasant surprise. Before I had taken half of the first bottle I was able to retain all food eaten, and my strength began to return. I have taken six or seven bottles, and am feeling fine. I eat and sleep well, do not cough at night, and am able to perform a hard day's work. I can cheerfully recommend Cooper's New Discovery, for it has done wonders for me."

The Cooper remedies are meeting with remarkable success wherever they are introduced. They are without a rival in toning up a weakened and run-down system. We sell them.

UNEXPECTED ISSUES

Their Disposition Must Depend on Courage and Ability

LINCOLN WAS A PARTY MAN

Taft Defends Republican Party and Policies Brought to the Fore by Roosevelt Administration—Speaks of Panic and Special Message

Kansas City, Feb. 11.—William H. Taft was the guest of honor and chief spokesman at a banquet given last night to 1200 persons by the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri. A great demonstration greeted Taft when he entered the banquet hall and again when he rose to speak. Besides the 1200 banqueters, the balconies of the hall were filled by several thousand spectators. Mr. Taft said:

Eulogizing Lincoln, Secretary Taft said that he was a party man, "as all men must be who expect to leave their individual impress upon the political character of the nation." He said a party cannot be useful unless those who are members of it yield their views on some issues and unite with respect to the main policies to be pursued.

"Though a party has its platform," said he, "and on the faith has been elected to power, many issues may unexpectedly arise in the course of an administration not controlled by the party's declared principles. The disposition of such issues must depend on the ability and courage of the party leaders. A party may divide on a new issue until by a process of education the sound view prevails and that party becomes united again in the enforcement of the new principle."

"As a party shows itself homogeneous, able to grasp the truth with respect to new issues, able to discard unimportant differences of opinion, sensitive with respect to the successful maintenance of government and highly charged with the responsibility of its obligation to the people at large, it establishes its claim to the confidence of the public and to its continuance in political power."

Secretary Taft spoke of the three war amendments of the constitution, the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth. The operation of the fifteenth amendment, that which forbids any state to deprive the negro of his vote on account of his color or previous condition of servitude, has not been as successful, he said, as the thirteenth and the fourteenth. "The leaders in the south in many states cast about to make the law square with the existing conditions by property and educational qualification to exclude most of the negro vote."

Secretary Taft said that he was confident that in the end the fifteenth amendment "will prove to be a bulwark equally beneficial with that of the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to an unfortunate, down-trodden, struggling race."

Secretary Taft enumerated the various policies of the party in the past and said that only twice, "in all that remarkable history of forty-eight years, have we lost the confidence of the people of the United States to the point of their turning over the government to a Democratic executive."

"By reason of circumstances I need not detail," he continued, "the influence of the Republican party has been little felt south of Mason and Dixon's line. The time has come, in my judgment, when it is the duty of our party to make an earnest effort to win to our support the many southerners who think with us on every living national issue and have only been kept from our ranks by the ghost of the past."

Secretary Taft referred to abuses that had been practiced by corporations and declared that a conviction seized the people that there were many engaged in the management of corporate wealth who regarded the statutes as dead letters and themselves as a privileged class.

"We were passing into a regime of an irresponsible plutocracy," said he, adding: "During the last four years there has been a great moral awakening to this danger among the people and a popular demand that the lawbreakers—no matter how wealthy or how high or powerful their position—shall be made to suffer. Under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, the Republican party has not faltered in its determination to meet the requirements of the situation and to enact such legislation as may be necessary to bring to a close this period of illegitimate corporate immunity."

"There are those who have been members of the Republican party who differ from Mr. Roosevelt in respect to the proper course to be taken in stamping out the abuses of corporate wealth. The great bulk of the Republican party, however, stands solidly at his back in the work which he and the representative party in congress are doing."

Secretary Taft spoke of the recent panic and of President Roosevelt's special message to congress. "The message contains an answer to the charges made that the administration is responsible for the unusual depression which has followed," said the secretary, "and the sharpness and emphasis with which this unfounded attack is met have heartened the great body of the people as by a bugle call to renewed support of the policies of the administration."

"From beginning to end the message shows his earnest desire to protect the honest business man and the honest laborer and to secure for them the possibility of living under the equal administration of the law."

In concluding, Taft said: "Vigorous action and measures to stamp out existing abuses and effective reforms are necessary to vindicate society as at present constituted. Otherwise we must yield to those who seek to introduce a new order of things on a socialistic basis."

The Republican party follows the administration upon this social and moral reform, approves its attitude in favor of the vested rights, of maintaining the power of courts, of rendering more equal by legislation the basis of dealing between employer and employee, of strengthening the regulatory power over railroads and other interstate corporations, and of prosecuting those law-breakers who continue to defy public opinion.

"Roosevelt leads his party as Lincoln led his—McKinley led his—to meet the new issues presented, to arm our political civilization and fit it with a bold front to resist the attacks of Socialism and to transmit to the coming generations unharmed the great institution of civil liberty inherited from our fathers."

A Drich Taks on His Bill

Washington, Feb. 11.—Senator Aldrich, chairman of the committee on finance, opened the debate in the senate on his bill to provide an emergency currency yesterday. He was listened to with great attention. During the day Senator Foraker announced the president's statement concerning the use of federal patronage for political purposes and had letters read showing the president's attitude in one case. Senator Dewey defended the course of the secretary of the treasury in depositing public funds in New York banks.

Adverse Postal Reports

Washington, Feb. 11.—The house committee on postoffices and postroads has virtually agreed to recommend adversely all bills and department estimates increasing the salaries of post-office employees for the next fiscal year. This decision does not have any reference to classification increases regularly provided for. The committee will report adversely the bill providing for a reduction to 1 cent of the first-class postage rate.

General Howard's Distinction

Washington, Feb. 11.—Announcement in the house by one of the senate clerks that that body had passed the bill promoting to the grade of lieutenant general, retired, Major General O. O. Howard, U. S. A., retired, was received with applause. Howard is the only living federal officer who commanded an army during the Civil war.

A Head-On Smashup

Altoona, Pa., Feb. 11.—In a head-on collision between an accommodation train and a freight train near Cresson two men were fatally injured, six were slightly hurt, three locomotives were demolished and two baggage cars and four loaded steel cars were wrecked. A misunderstanding of signals was responsible for the accident.

Sweeping Law Regulating Hotels

Cuthrie, Okla., Feb. 11.—The house of representatives passed a measure providing that every hotel in the state shall provide nine-foot sheets and shall use "no cup, dish, vessel or receptacle for food that has cracks visible to the naked eye."

Football Relations Seversed

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Following disagreements covering a period of several years, Cornell university and Princeton have severed football relations. It is not known what team will take Princeton's place in Cornell's schedule.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The executive committee of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence society refused to endorse the views of Governor Guild regarding a general state police and excise commission to enforce the liquor laws.

George H. Sass, who, under the nom de plume of Barton Gray, was well known as a writer of verse and for many years has been literary editor of the Charleston Sunday News, died at Charleston.

The Wellington teachers' training school at Cambridge, Mass., was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $40,000. The fire occurred after the 800 pupils had left the building. It is believed that the fire started from an overheated furnace.

Former Congressman George Jenks died at his home at Brookville, Pa., from the infirmities of old age. He served as assistant secretary of the interior in 1885-6 and during the latter year was appointed solicitor general by President Cleveland.

The Boston board of aldermen elected John T. Priest city clerk, following a deadlock which has existed more than a month. Priest is at present assistant city clerk.

Edward E. Currier, Boston representative of the Southern Pacific railroad, died at his home at Malden, Mass., of softening of the brain. He was 61 years old and had been on the staffs of Governors Ames, Brackett and Robinson. He was a veteran of the Civil war. Liabilities aggregating $50,053 and assets of $20,000 were shown in the schedule filed by Charles L. Yorke, proprietor of the Boston tavern, at Boston, who was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy.

The D. S. MacDonald company, which has maintained a bakery and restaurant at Boston, has been petitioned into bankruptcy by creditors. The liabilities are not stated.

CASE OF SPEAKER COLE

It Comes Up in Court, but Judge Withholds His Decision

Salem, Mass., Feb. 11.—After extended arguments by counsel on both sides, Chief Justice Aiken of the superior court took the question of quashing the indictment of 123 counts returned against Speaker John N. Cole of the lower branch of the legislature, in which he is charged with soliciting reduced fares for schoolchildren, under consideration. It was expected that Aiken would render a decision as soon as the arguments were concluded, but without a moment's hesitation he announced that he would take papers in the case.

Attorney Hurlbut moved to quash the indictment, basing his plea on the ground that no offense against the law had been committed and also that the specific clause of the statutes under which the indictment was drawn was unconstitutional.

District Attorney Peters replied briefly to Hurlbut, claiming that there was no flaw in the indictment and that it was in strict keeping with the provisions of the statutes. The chief justice then adjourned the court.

Can Recover Only Ticket Cost

Providence, Feb. 11.—The Rhode Island supreme court decided against Chief Yeoman Fred J. Bueuzie, who sued the proprietors of a Newport dancing pavilion for refusing him admission because he wore the uniform of the United States navy. When the case was tried in the superior court, Bueuzie was awarded 25 cents damages, this being the sum he had paid for his ticket. The decision of the supreme court upholds the ruling of the superior court. President Roosevelt had interested himself in the matter and had sent Bueuzie a check to aid in defraying the expenses of the prosecution of his damage suit.

Complimentary to Mrs. Eddy

Concord, N. H., Feb. 11.—The board of aldermen and common council adopted a joint resolution last night in relation to the removal of Mrs. Mary B. Eddy from this city to Brookline, Mass. The resolution directs the mayor to express the city's "appreciation of her life in its midst, its regret over her departure, and its hope that, although absent, she will always cherish a loving regard for the city and for its people."

Woman Takes Life by Drowning

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 11.—Miss Varina Blandy of Watertown, a stenographer, aged 30, is believed to have committed suicide by throwing herself into the water on the Nahant shore. A woman's fur hat, a veil, a muff and a handbag were found on the shore and the contents of the handbag indicates that the articles were the property of Miss Blandy. The body has not been recovered.

Barricaded Man Defied Arrest

Plainville, Conn., Feb. 11.—Barricaded in his home here, Dominic Pepe, an Italian, defied the officers sent to arrest him in connection with the stabbing of George Graham in a saloon. It is alleged that following a dispute between Graham and Pepe the latter drew a stiletto and stabbed Graham severely in the abdomen. Graham is reported to be in a precarious condition.

Providence People Hear Haywood

Providence, Feb. 11.—Secretary Haywood of the Western Federation of Miners spoke before a large gathering of people here last night. He outlined the conditions in mining towns and made an appeal for union labor. A resolution was adopted to send a telegram to President Roosevelt, asking him to withdraw the troops from Goldfield.

Manhattan Gets Cargo Aboard

Portland, Me., Feb. 11.—With the aid of strikers aboard at the wharf of the Maine Steamship company the loading of the steamer Manhattan was completed last night and she sailed for New York. There is little change in the strike situation.

Mob Overawed Soldiers

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 11.—The Jackson military company, from whose custody a mob took Eli Pigot, the negro lynched at Brookhaven yesterday, returned here late last evening. Almost every member of the company bears some mark of his encounter with the mob. Captain Fairley, who was in command of the local militia, stated that the soldiers exerted every means to save the negro from the mob, but that it was a case of fighting against overwhelming odds. In all the soldiers numbered fifty-eight men.

Defauter Walker Coming Back

Mexico City, Feb. 11.—William F. Walker, the defaulting banker of New Britain, Conn., will go back to the United States to be tried, according to a statement made at the foreign office here. The state department says that Walker, who is now a prisoner at Ensenada, has declared his willingness to return to the United States.

Once Again In Custody

Tidus, Feb. 11.—M. Ramischwill, a former member of the Russian duma, who was among those sentenced to three months' imprisonment for signing the Viborg manifesto, but who was released, having served that length of time in prison prior to the finding of the court, has again been put under arrest here.

Tobacco Company Indicted

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 11.—The first indictment ever brought in Fayette county against a so-called trust was returned when the Fayette county grand jury handed in a "true bill" to the court, indicting the American Tobacco company on a charge of conspiracy to reduce the price of raw tobacco.

In the Daily Walk

Maurice E. Kilpatrick is shingling the roof of Memorial Congregational church.

The weather this morning was twenty degrees warmer at 7 o'clock than it has several mornings.

Mayor Shea has been invited to the K. of C. opera in Boston next Tuesday evening, which is Mayor night.

The St. Mary's guild are arranging for a whist party and dance to be held at St. Mary's hall the latter part of February.

Dr. A. H. Gilson has been engaged to illustrate the grade crossing plans before the Granite Manufacturers association this week.

Ex-Councilman John Q. A. Field has resigned as a member of the Quincy Board of Trade, and says he will resign as a member of the Citizens' Association.

The case of the National Granite bank against Margaret L. McDonnell, executrix, to recover on a promissory note, is on trial at the civil session of the superior court at Dedham.

Comrades John D. Williams, Mark E. Hanson and George L. Phillips are attending the encampment of Massachusetts, G. A. R., at Faneuil hall, Boston, which opened today.

The society festivity of the week is the Valentine ball at Music hall on Friday evening. Well known people are among the list of patronesses and ushers and a brilliant affair is anticipated.

Commissioner Bainbridge made a very favorable impression Monday evening at the citizens' grade crossing meeting. In a short time he has familiarized himself with the situation, and mastered many details.

Children of First Church Sunday school are to hold a valentine party in the chapel on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock. There will be a valentine play acted by members of the school, a Valentine post office, games and refreshments.

Little Carl Richardson of Botolph street was badly hurt while coasting in Wollaston last Saturday. His head was cut and it is feared he will bear the scar for life. His two young friends who fell with him from the double runner sustained no injuries, as they landed in the snow.

Everybody enjoys songs by a large chorus of men, and this accounts for the success of the annual concert by Wollaston Glee club, which always presents a pleasing program. The club will be assisted Feb. 19 by Miss Olive L. Whiteley, the violinist; E. E. Bullock, tenor; H. Nelson Raymond, baritone; and William Weston, accompanist.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

try the following delicious dessert:
 1-2 cup English Walnut meats.
 1-2 doz. figs, cut up fine.
 1 10c. package JELL-O, any flavor.
 Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water. When cool and just commencing to thicken stir in the figs and nuts. Serve with Whipped Cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.

Probate court for Norfolk county at Quincy tomorrow.

A meeting of the School Committee will be held Thursday evening to consider plans for the Coddington school.

Hyman Sokat of Quincy has been petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy by four creditors whose claims amount to $572.

John A. Duggan, the new member of the Assessors was sworn in this morning. The board will reorganize Thursday morning.

A crack in the earth is said to have been seen near the High school lot this week, similar perhaps to the one reported in the shipyard budget.

The case of Walker against the Fore River Ship Building Co. for $15,000 for injuries received by a plank falling on the plaintiff, is now on trial.

The entertainment committee of the Granite City Club announce the menu for the lunch Wednesday evening, chicken patties, pickled beets, coffee, crackers and cheese.

Albert W. Martin has been appointed superintendent of the Boston division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., which includes Quincy. He has been assistant general superintendent since 1903.

George L. Phillips of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., attended the banquet to Judge Charles G. Burton of Missouri, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army, at the Revere House, Boston, on Monday night.

A verdict for the defendant was returned in the superior court at Dedham on Monday in the case of Goldstein vs. Old Colony street railway to recover for loss of a cow killed by defendants cars at Quincy.

Post Office Clerks
Take Exercise

The clerks of the Quincy and Wollaston Post offices fought out a close battle with the small balls at the Granite street alleys Monday night, Wollaston taking two out of three. Quincy won the first by one pin and Wollaston the second by 46 pins. The rubber went to Wollaston by two pins. Colligan was high on singles with 97, and Burns on totals with 269.

The Hayes Will
Is Allowed

Judge Flint, of the Norfolk county probate court, allowed this week the will of Mrs. Annie Hayes of West Quincy, which has been contested by her sons, Charles A., William J. and Robert J. Hayes, on the ground of undue influence. Charles J. McElvray, Esq., appeared for the will, and John W. McAnaney, Esq., for the contestants. Mrs. Anna G. Watson is the executrix.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Long Tenure
For the Mayor

The Brookline Chronicle comments editorially on commission rule as follows:

"President Eliot told the citizens of Quincy that a board of five would give Quincy a safer and more democratic form of government than an autocratic mayor. Ex-Mayor Russell A. Sears of Quincy opposed this view: If you elect a man with four other men whose duties overlap each other, how can you place responsibility? Of these two views, the judgment of the American public is probably to be taken as a sound arbiter.

"In large municipalities, we recognize the necessity of the one man power, just as we recognize it in the case of large business interests; if, as President Eliot says, municipal government is purely a matter of business, then, as in the case of great railroad and manufacturing corporations, a president is essential to provide a strong effective management, and no board of directors can take the place of such an official.

"On the other hand, in smaller places where the volume of municipal business is limited, a board without a one man power is recognized in practice as sufficient, everywhere in the United States. In places the size of Quincy and Brookline it ought to be at least harmless, if it is not exactly ideal.

"President Eliot urged the evil of short tenure by the mayor, and caused laughter by asking his opponent how long he had been Mayor of Quincy, to which Mr. Sears replied one year. A mayor with long tenure, possessing centralized power and responsibility, provides the natural form of government for a large municipality, just as truly as a President of the United States is to be preferred to a Board of Selectmen of the United States."

Not All Told
In Burglary Case

Nothing new has developed in the burglary and assault case at the residence of Frank R. Neal at Wollaston early Monday morning. The affair is as much shrouded in mystery as ever. In some respects the story seems hardly plausible, yet there is plenty of evidence that some one fired.

Not only were these shots heard by neighbors, but their marks are to be plainly seen in the house. There are stories of threatening letters received and of enemies in Boston, but the police have been unable to run down any tangible clue.

There are several things hard to explain. One is why the second burglar should have run in and struck Mr. Neal in the face and then run out again without offering to assist his companion. Then the bullet that was said to have ploughed its way through Mr. Neal's hair left no powder marks.

The general impression among those who have looked into the case, is that all has not been told.

At the Scenic.

The bill presented at the Scenic this week is certainly all and more than promised by Manager Donovan in last Saturday's Ledger. The popular songs are beautifully illustrated, and pleasingly rendered by Jack Green, who is the possessor of a melodic voice of much volume. Pictures and songs will change again on Thursday evening.

The high-class specialties included the Cleverlands—Claude and Marion, who have sung themselves into public favor. Miss Cleveland most certainly is entitled to the sobriquet of "The little girl with the big voice," and her most timely rendition of May Irwin's latest success, "I'm afraid to come home in the dark," was received with much appreciation by the crowded house. Charley Farrell, "The Whistling Coon," gave a most realistic and pleasing impersonation of an old time plantation darkey, which is "true to life." His whistling and dancing never fail to amuse. Kennette & Flynn, those gentlemen of unbounded Celtic wit, succeeded most admirably in creating a continuous uproar of laughter in their Irish comedy sketch. Mr. Kennette's singing of the latest popular song "Harrigan," was applauded again and again, and Mr. Flynn's parodies certainly are sidesplitters, and he was encored repeatedly.

Crack in Earth
At the Shipyard

The latter part of last week a large crack in the ground was noticed by some of the most observing of those who had occasion to pass that part of the shipyard which is at the southerly end of the new brick blacksmith shop. Most of those who saw it immediately associated it with the earthquake shocks which have of late been reported from numerous places in New England. This crack was noticed just after Wednesday night, the same time that the supposed earthquakes were reported from Beverly Farms and other localities in the state, but these theories have been exploded by the professors of geology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Prof. Jaggar of the latter institution said: "An earthquake, to cause cracks in the ground as have been described, through which people would not be likely to sleep quietly and find the only evidence a crack in the ground the following morning.

"These cracks in the ground are to be expected at this time of the year after cold snaps, and are really earthquakes, accompanied by rumblings often and a shaking of the earth. But they are due to frost, and are like what occurs when a pond cracks and thunders when freezing.

"The crack may come when a large area is frozen deeply, causing arching of the ground. The ground expands when freezing. The ground may be frozen a few feet deep on a flat track of several miles. The lateral expansion is then tremendous, and the ground is pushed upwards."

He said, also, that cracks might be caused by a slipping motion of the earth. This would be caused by unequal freezing of different kinds of ground side by side that contained different quantities of water, as a marsh or meadow by the side of a dry field.

Professor W. O. Crosby and Dr. Crosby, both of whom have studied earthquake movements in various parts of the world, were practically of the same opinion as Professor Jaggar.

One hundred and sixty-five years ago today, Feb. 11, 1743, the English fleet was destroyed by the French in bloody battle off Toulon.

The Herald prints a cable from Sunderland, England, reporting that the big ship building syndicate of Sir James Laing & Sons has suspended. The yards of the syndicate at Sunderland and Deptford employed 5,000 men. The concern had built liners for the Peninsular and Oriental and Cunard companies, as well as several men-of-war. The scheme of reconstruction will be submitted to the creditors at an early date.

The Committee on Naval Affairs of the National House voted on Monday to report in favor of the construction of two battleships, 10 torpedo boat destroyers, eight submarine boats and three subsurface boats.

None of the ships authorized are to be constructed in navy yard which is a bad blow to the advocates of navy yard construction, who have been urging that policy in order to supply work to mechanics who have been recently discharged from navy yards, but good news to the Fore River and other private yards.

The contest over the submarine boat authorization was most bitter. This matter was before the committee for several hours. Representatives Roberts of Massachusetts and Loudenslager of New Jersey led the fight for a large appropriation for submarine vessels. Several members of the committee were strongly opposed to any submarine boat construction whatever. If any such work was to be provided for, however, they contended that provision should be made for a competitive test of all types of submarine boats before the navy department let the contracts.

The cruiser Des Moines built at the Fore River is reported to have arrived at Hampton Roads, and the battleships Vermont, New Jersey and Rhode Island to have sailed from Punta Arenas for Calao.

A PUMA CUB.

He Was Plucky, but Paid For His Temerity With His Life.

Hissing like a sullen geyser, the great puma mother crouches with flaming eyes. Ridge of her tawny back brushed up in rage, tail a switch, steel sinews rigid beneath soft skin, she glared at her four cubs in the cage corner. A fluffy ball of spotted fur sprawled on unsteady legs across toward her. Out shot a mighty fore paw; the baby was hurled suddenly back among his covering brothers and sisters.

"Nasty temper," I remarked to the keeper. "Has she been long like that?" "Started this forenoon." He shook his head in anxiety. "I don't like it. I'll have to separate them, I fear."

The unnatural mother commenced pacing her prison, sparring viciously at her offspring in a pitiful heap, but one stood up and defied her. A jungle terror in miniature, his tiny rage was magnificent. Tensely alert before his trembling mates, he shifted warily to meet each blow, dodging, spitting, striking out an awkward paw at the great thrusts.

"They don't turn on their cubs often. Only knew it once before. You notice, when he strikes, her claws are not out when she strikes. That may come; then we will lose some promising babies here."

The young German keeper was greatly distressed. I returned in the morning to see how the affair had progressed. Entering the Frankfurt Tiergarten, I found the lion house. My friend stood in the empty corridor looking into the cage. Sleek forms shifted restlessly on every side; a pale light came from above; the place was close with a heavy odor.

I greeted me mournfully. "The little beggar was too spirited. She got him last night. Just a second in her jaws, and the taxidermist won't attempt to stuff the skin." The remaining cubs peered wonderingly at us from an adjoining cage; the murderous paced in silence, but her eyes were alive with a strange fascinating light. The tragedy had stirred the rows of imprisoned beasts. An uncanny howl in a chilling cry came from the leopards; the lion's deep throat guttural sent unwelcome quivers through one's nerves.

I left the building, relieved to feel the breeze and see the sunlight. Poor little chap of a puma, he surely had tremendous luck!—Travel Magazine.

A PRESENT DAY UTOPIA.

Moore's Island, the Happiest and Fairest Spot on Earth.

Hugo Parton, writing in the Outlook Magazine, says that the happiest and most beautiful spot on earth today is the island of Moore, one of the Society Islands, in the south seas. As a contrast to strenuous American methods this description sounds alluring:

"Whenever you are thirsty a word will send a lithe brown body scrambling up a tall palm tree trunk, and in two minutes a green cocoanut is ready for you to quaff—the nectar of the Polynesian gods. It is worth the trip down here to eat the native 'vittals,' for you get at every meal things you never tasted before, and each seems better than its predecessor; to see your dinner of fresh water shrimps, sharks' fins and roasted sea urchins. The bananas you eat—there are eleven varieties—baked, raw, fried, dried—grow a few rods back in the valley; ditto the breadfruit, the pineapples and about everything else on the board. It's nice to have your morning coffee grown in the back yard. Guavas grow in such profusion they are used as pig food, grated cocoanut is fed to hens, while seasoned plant is considered excellent fodder for cattle.

"For perfection of the human body the Tahitian is unexcelled, if, indeed, he is anywhere equalled. They are a large race, both men and women being noticeably taller and more fully developed than Anglo-Saxons. I doubt if any Society Islander ever went through a whole day in his life without having a wreath of flowers on his head or a blossom behind his ear. The love of flowers is innate with man, woman and child. They can't pass through a patch of woods without emitting with a garland. Every gay mood calls for flowers on their hats, in their hair, behind their ears, and their life is an almost unbroken sequence of gay moods. Scarcely a native on the island of Moore can speak a sentence of English, but every one you meet greets you with a courteous smile and the welcoming word 'I-ora-na' (Forana)."

Poetry Defined.

George P. Morris, the author of "Woodman, Spare That Tree," was a general of the New York militia and a favorite with all who knew him. Mrs. Sherwood in her reminiscences tells how another poet associated the general with a definition of poetry.

Once Fitz-Greene Halleck, the author of "Marco Bozzaris," called upon her in New York in his old age, and she asked him to define for her what was poetry and what was prose.

He replied: "When General Morris commands his brigade and says, 'Soldiers, draw your swords!' he talks prose. When he says 'Soldiers, draw your willing swords!' he talks poetry."

A Bargain.

"What!" exclaimed the husband. "You drew your savings from the bank, went to a broker's office and bought Z. X. and Y. stock at 14, when it has been dropping like a rock?" "But, my dear," argued the wife. "It was such a bargain. Why, during the short time I was in the office I saw the man mark it down to 14 from 45!"—Success Magazine.

Next to excellence is the appreciation of it.—Thackeray.

So Cleverly Have

the comfort features of the Ralston 'Health' Shoe been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell until you try on a pair that Ralston Shoes are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your feet provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe—one in which the body weight instead of resting on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the entire service of the foot bottom.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

The Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs were guests on Saturday at Winchester of the Fort-nightly club of that town. The program was arranged by the Arts and Crafts committee and Prof. Zueblin of Chicago gave the principal address. He said in part: "The status of society and of labor at the present day is such that there is a large surplus of both laborers and capital, which, finding no healthful outlet, are making a place for themselves by calling out the destructive forces in man's character, which under right conditions would be converted into the creative," he said. "To this situation are due many of the disorders of our own society. If the people want beautiful things in their homes, the surplus of capital and labor will find a healthful outlet, he said, and the moral tone of the community thereby be raised, life being made more happy and ennobled. This is accomplished by 'democratic art,' which William Morris has defined as 'art made by the people, and for the people, a joy to the maker and the user.'"

Professor Zueblin then went on to show that the people of the Middle Ages made beautiful things and were unconscious of it, but this is not the case at present, to prove which he called attention to the enthusiasm aroused by a new fountain or statue, or even poster. In the Middle Ages, he said, this would have been, so ordinary a matter as to attract little attention, whereas the setting up of one of our ugly telegraph or telephone poles would have raised a universal protest.

In order to give a child ideals which he is to express in his work in the manual training school, he must have the environment of beauty in the schoolroom and in the home. "But while we put the pictures and the statuary in the rooms we must see that the ugly gas fixture does not mar the effect," he said. "When shall we reach the place in our public life," he asked, "When to us the ugly lamp post will be as offensive as the open sewer?" The over-crowded and over-decorated condition of the homes need to be changed, the ugly desks and chairs taken from the schoolrooms, and art such as can be coordinated with the studies of the several grades put into the school-rooms, and the thought gained therefrom expressed through the work of the manual training course."

"Thus we shall solve the problem of the social and labor world by making better men and women, and creating a standard that will call forth the individual efforts of the producer and the consumer. That this is possible is proved by the success of the Rockwood pottery, the Tiffany glass, Grueby tiles and other notable American achievements.

Lunch was served at noon followed by an interesting afternoon session. A largely attended and interesting meeting of the Alliance was held Monday afternoon in the parlor of First church. Mr. John H. Edwards in her 'Letters from Holland' was most entertaining.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Wollaston lectured on Feb. 11th before the East Walpole Women's club, her subject being, Food Values.

A joint meeting of the Friday club and Junior Friday club is to be held on Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Burke, Adams street. Miss Ellen Thompson of Brookline is to give her lecture on "Festa Days in Northern Italy," a subject of mutual interest to both clubs as they are studying Italy this season.

The Shakespeare club has postponed its plan to study mythology at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, next week, owing to the illness of one of the leaders. The club will meet on that date, February 20, with Mrs. Cecil Marble of Squantum street and begin the study of "Twelfth Night."

The Woman's auxiliary will hold its regular meeting on Friday, Feb. 14, at three o'clock, in the Association hall. Address by David N. Cloghorne, director of social work at Boston Y. M. C. A.

At the meeting of the Mothers' association on Feb. 5th the following officers were elected for 1908-1909: president, Mrs. William H. Doble;

Agreement on Water Street Plan

The special committee of citizen on the abolitions of the grade crossing at Water street met at City Hall on Tuesday afternoon. There was a good attendance of the committee and the subject was thoroughly discussed. Before the meeting adjourned it practically decided in favor of a bridge over the tracks.

The plan showing the loop was debated. Some changes in this plan were, however, suggested. These were presented to the City Engineer, who was present. He will embody them in a new plan, which will be thrown upon the screen at the adjourned meeting on Thursday evening.

The main features of the plan contemplate lowering the tracks a few feet at the present crossing. Starting from near the corner of Franklin street there will be a solid fill to near Presidents avenue from which point the bridge over the tracks will start.

It proposes three spans, one of which will permit teams to pass under to the new freight yard. The street will come down to present grade again near the corner of Pleasant street. The grade on either side of the bridge will not be a heavy one.

Then there is a new street starting in from Water street near the shed of Joseph H. Vogel. This street will make a loop into Liberty street near the depot.

It will be necessary to raise the buildings on both sides of Water street between Franklin street and depot to the new grade.

This is the plan that seems to meet with the most general approval of the business men at South Quincy.

Jurors Drawn For Superior Court

A special meeting of the City Council to draw jurors was held Tuesday evening. The venire was for six jurors for supreme judicial court, sitting at Dedham the third Wednesday in February. Councilmen Broughton, Curtis, Falconer, Freeman, Gilson, McGilvray and Moir were absent, the first time the perfect attendance record has been broken.

Councilmen Falconer and Moir arrived just as the Council adjourned. The Mayor and City Clerk, assisted by Councilman Whitton, drew the following jurors: David J. Flowers, George S. Baker, Herbert Thomas, Thomas F. Ferguson, Frank Leslie and Andrew W. Howley. Adjourned at 7.40.

New Magazine At Wollaston

A new publication which starts in with a strong claim upon the public is "The Merrymount Magazine," issued for the benefit of the Wollaston free kindergarten. The special mid-winter number made its appearance at the Wollaston Baptist church on Tuesday evening.

The illustrations are the most life-like of any publication we know of, as it was really a living picture show. In front of the platform was erected a background in which was a door about 5 by 7 feet. Around this were displayed all the popular magazines of the day.

As the articles in "The Merrymount Magazine" were read the door was opened at intervals and well known Wollaston people illustrated different scenes, much to the pleasure of the large audience.

The contents of the magazine in brief were:

Frontispiece—"Madonna of the Chair"—Raphael, reader, Rev. E. D. Webber.

"The Master of Merrymount," by Rev. Rufus Tobey; read by the author.

"The Cookie Boy" (poem) by Clara E. Parker; reader, Miss Parker.

"Why Not? Mr. Burbank" by Charles W. Bailey; reader, E. W. Capen.

Group of Illustrated Songs by Mrs. H. Y. Follett, including "The sweet red rose" by Moonhall, "There was a little girl" by Chadwick, "The boy with a tooth" by Bartlett and "The necklace of love" by Nevins.

"The man from Mars" (poem) by A. J. Preston; reader, Rev. E. D. Webber.

Mr. Lovegrove's Dilemma" by Willard Keyes; reader, E. W. Capen.

"The Gas Man" (poem) by Clara E. Parker; reader, Miss Parker.

The audience was asked to remember that the Wollaston free kindergarten needs your contribution toward its success. The entertainment will be repeated tonight.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

At the annual meeting of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, held in Boston, on Tuesday, the following directors and officers were re-elected: Directors—Gordon Abbott, Francis T. Bowles, Wallace B. Donham, F. C. Dumaine, William Endicott, Jr., W. C. Fish, William A. Gaston, Arthur Wainwright and Robert Winsor.

Executive Committee—Gordon Abbott, Francis T. Bowles, Wallace B. Donham, F. C. Dumaine and William Endicott, Jr.

The officers are: Francis T. Bowles, president; F. C. Dumaine, vice president; H. G. Smith, manager; J. A. Sedgwick, treasurer; and Samuel T. MacQuarrie, clerk.

Captain Frank Mackle, formerly of the S department is putting in the winter at Jacksonville, Fla., where he is employed in a small shipyard.

A big showing was made on the North Dakota Tuesday, due to the day being an exceedingly fine one.

If there are many more days coming like Tuesday, the Fore River which is all frozen over, will soon begin to break up.

An extraordinary meeting of shareholders of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, adopted a resolution to raise a loan of $6,250,000 to cover the cost of construction of two transatlantic liners which were laid down last year. Herr Wiegand, director of the North German Lloyd line, in reviewing the position of the company said that the loan had been rendered necessary because the last year had not fulfilled expectations in consequence of the rate war between the transatlantic lines and because of the recently ended competition with the Japanese company and the struggle with the English companies for South American traffic. He felt hopeful that the successful termination of the negotiations of the delegates of the transatlantic lines in London would result in a restoration of rates which would enable the North German Lloyd and other companies to recoup their losses.

Herr Wiegand said that the falling off in emigrant traffic was probably only temporary. It depended upon American conditions, he declared, and he could not foresee when a change for the better was likely to occur. He added, however, that a favorable reaction always came after financial depressions and that he felt certain that an improvement in conditions was near.

Shocking Accident

Roger H. Wilde
A Prominent Citizen
Killed While Boarding
Train at Atlantic

Roger H. Wilde, one of Quincy's most prominent citizens, was fatally injured this morning while trying to board a moving train at the Atlantic depot, and died on the same train while en route to Boston.

Mr. Wilde with others were coming down Sagamore street to take the 8 o'clock train for Boston. They were a little late and had reached a point between the Duggan block and the depot when the train started up.

Mr. Wilde and the others started on the run, and when they arrived at the train it had quite a headway. He made an attempt to board the train and succeeded in catching hold of the step rail. He missed his footing, however, and his legs went beneath the train. As the wheels struck him he lost his hold and several wheels passed over him before the train was stopped.

Others on the ground who had failed to get onto the train, and those on the car platform shouted and the train was brought to a stop suddenly. Willing hands drew him from beneath the train and carried him to the depot baggage room.

The wheels had passed over both legs above the knee almost severing them.

Dr. Kolseth and Dr. Bruce were soon on the spot and did what they could for the injured man. He was placed on a stretcher and taken aboard the train.

Word was telegraphed to Boston to have an ambulance meet the train and Dr. Kolseth and Dr. Bruce accompanied him. Mr. Wilde, however, breathed his last before the train reached Boston.

Passengers on the train, which left Quincy at 7.52, Wollaston at 7.56 and Norfolk Downs at 7.58 say they were thrown from their seats, some of them, so suddenly did the train stop. Many Atlantic men who were on the train did not go to Boston when they saw what happened to their friend and neighbor, but many of them went to their homes, for it made some of them sick.

It was the unpleasant duty of Edgar Willey, George W. Hight and Fred Burditt to break the sad news to Mrs. Wilde and her daughter. They did not at first apprise them of the extent of the accident, and it was some hours later before Mrs. Wilde learned of the death of her husband.

Mr. Wilde lived in a pretty estate at the corner of Billings street and Squantum street. Many friends called at the house before noon to extend sympathy and assistance, including Charles C. Price of the Pettengill-Andrews Co., of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Oakman of Neponset, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Burkhardt of Boston, the latter looking out for all details.

Mr. Wilde's position with the Pettengill-Andrews Co., was that of auditor and Mr. Price spoke to the Daily Ledger in high terms of Mr. Wilde, who was both efficient and popular.

The ambulance from the Massachusetts General Hospital was at the Terminal when the train arrived, and a stretcher was ready. The body was not taken to the hospital, but after it was viewed in the baggage room by the medical examiner, it was given to Undertaker Pay of Wollaston.

Very many were the expressions of sorrow about City Square this morning at the shocking accident that so suddenly removed Roger H. Wilde. Everybody seemed to take his loss as a personal one, and it was hard for them to realize that he was no more. No man in Quincy was more universally liked. His friends were numbered by the thousands and he had no enemies. There is nothing too good to say of him.

Mr. Wilde was for several years Atlantic's foremost citizen. He was a member of Quincy's first City Council twenty years ago, serving for three years with Hon. William T. Shea, the present Mayor; ex-Mayors Thompson and Fairbanks, and others. In different years since Mr. Wilde has been urged to accept the Republican nomination for Mayor, and would undoubtedly have been elected.

While in the Council he served all three years on the Finance Committee being chairman in 1891. He also served on other committees.

Mr. Wilde was born in Marshfield Oct. 24, 1853. At the age of 13 he entered Lawrence Academy at Orono, and later attended a commercial college in Boston. In 1870 he entered the counting room of Hart, Taylor & Co., of Boston, and became financial manager. When the firm was dissolved in 1899 he accepted a similar position with Pettengill, Andrews & Co., of Winthrop Square, Boston, dealers in electrical supplies.

He has been prominent in the Republican party of the city and Ward Six a member of Rural lodge of Masons, the Royal Arcanum, the Knights of Honor, Pilgrim Fathers, and social clubs.

Mr. Wilde was married in 1881 to Miss Fanny Prescott, and they have two daughters—Mrs. Corinna Prescott Burkhardt, married on Oct. 15 last, and Miss G. Louise Wilde, who have the sympathy of a very large circle of friends.

The accident recalls another in the same family a few years ago, when their son Adin, a very popular young man and a student of Thayer Academy, struck his head while diving in the water at Nantucket, and died shortly after arriving at the Massachusetts General Hospital. It was a sad blow to his parents and a shock to a large circle of acquaintances.

Young Men's Christian Association

(Legal Title Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. COMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the El Dorado fund. This fund amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD C. CHASE, Adams Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

Hughes Makes New Appeal For Removal of Kelsey

A MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

Governor Says Insurance Commissioner Has Not Measured Up to Standard Which State Must Maintain—Matter Tabled by Solons

Albany, Feb. 12.—Governor Hughes transmitted to the senate an extended message again requesting the removal from office, on grounds of incompetency, of Otto Kelsey, state superintendent of insurance. The senate last May, by a vote of 27 to 24, refused to concur in the governor's recommendation for the removal of Kelsey.

There appears to be marked difference of opinion among the senate leaders as to whether Kelsey should have another hearing or whether the senate should act upon the governor's renewed recommendation without further taking of proof. The message was laid upon the table "for the present," pending its printing as a senate document. It is impossible to say how soon the matter will be taken up. There is considerable talk in some responsible quarters of deferring action, even until after the March primaries and the April state Republican convention which will elect delegates-at-large to the Republican convention.

In transmitting a report by Mr. Fleming, the governor's special commissioner who recently investigated the insurance department, the governor says that the various matters commented upon by Fleming "appear sufficiently in his report, and without repetition here, I commend them to your careful consideration."

"The facts submitted," the governor says, "establish beyond cavil that the present superintendent has not measured up to the standard which the state must maintain and upon which, in deference to the vast interests involved, it is my duty, so far as my power goes, to insist."

"The delay in instituting reforms that are plainly needed," the governor says further, "the failure to take full advantage of the machinery provided by law for the protection of the rights of policyholders, the lack of proper attention to matters, as to which the department is in a position greatly to aid the policyholders in securing the proper fulfillment of their contracts, are without excuse."

The governor says that he appreciates the unusual conditions which confronted Kelsey upon his taking office. He adds, however: "But he had conspicuous advantages. He took office with abuses ascertained; with the derelictions of the department known, and with clearly defined obligations which were not left for him to discover, but which were written large in the minds of all the people of the state. He was also equipped with additional powers."

"Mr. Kelsey took office on May 16, 1906, and has now served more than one-half his term. At the time Mr. Fleming began the taking of testimony he had served for a year and five months. He has had full opportunity to show whether he was equal to his important duties."

"The matter now presented to you is one which transcends any question of personal regard. It involves the credit of the state. In the circumstances to which I have referred the people of the state are without confidence in the administration of this important department; that confidence should be restored. The interests of the state require that a change should be made."

The governor's message created a genuine sensation in the senate. Kelsey has retained counsel.

Testimony Against Standard Oil
Albany, Feb. 12.—A principal witness at the hearing begun here for the taking of testimony in connection with the suit brought by the United States government to dissolve the Standard Oil company of New Jersey was Thomas L. Hissen of Springfield, Mass., who swore that in competing with him the Standard Oil company sold oil at about one-half the ordinary cost and attempted to coerce dealers from purchasing oil and other products sold by his firm.

Crime of Lovesick Farmhand
Phoenixville, Pa., Feb. 12.—Norma Tholan, aged 15 years, daughter of Hiram Tholan, was shot and killed on the highway near her home by John Miller, a young farmhand, who afterwards shot himself in an effort to end his life. Miller had been employed by the girl's father, who discharged him because, it is said, of his attentions to her. Miller's chance of recovery is slight.

Further Indictments Against Financiers, Including Morse

New York, Feb. 12.—It was learned late last night that the federal grand jury which is investigating the affairs of certain national banks last evening voted five indictments. Three of these indictments, it was authoritatively stated, make charges against Charles W. Morse and a former official of the National Bank of North America for over-certification and misapplication of funds. Two of those voted for, it was said, were against Morse, one on each charge, and the other against his associate.

Morse, who is due to arrive here on the steamer Etruria from Liverpool next Saturday, was on Monday indicted by the New York county grand jury, which is also inquiring into recent financial transactions among the banks of this city.

The indictments were drawn up by Oliver E. Pagan, the special assistant attorney of the department of justice. Pagan drew up the indictments against John R. Walsh, the Chicago financier who was recently convicted of irregularities.

Fines and Jail For Printers

New York, Feb. 12.—Ex-Secretary McCormick of the local branch of the Typographical union, No. 6, and George W. Jackson and Vincent J. Costello, union organizers, were fined $250 each and sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment for disobedience of an injunction obtained by the Typothetae of New York in 1906. Thomas Bennett and William Sanderson were fined $100 on the same charge. Sentence was imposed by Justice Bischoff in the supreme court.

Cunbarland's Commander Censured

Washington, Feb. 12.—A letter of censure has been written by the navy department to Lieutenant Landenberger, the commanding officer of the Cumberland, on which occurred the boxing bout resulting in the death of Seaman Apprentice Hartnet. The department does not find fault with the practice of boxing, but it disapproves it for the purpose of settling any disputes, which, it is understood, was the case in the present instance.

Would Settle Boom Trouble

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Minister of Public Works Pugsley has given notice of his intention to introduce into the Canadian parliament a measure to regulate the placing and maintaining of booms in international streams. In the case of rivers on international boundaries lumbermen would be bound to take precautions to ensure that their logs should go only into the section of the river which belongs to the country in which the logs were cut.

Railroad Hit by Hard Times

Topeka, Feb. 12.—General Manager Hurley of the Santa Fe railway says that the present conditions along the Santa Fe, from a business standpoint, are the worst in years. According to Hurley, at the present time the Santa Fe has $10,000,000 tied up in equipment which is idle. This includes 8000 empty box cars and sixty-eight engines.

Wife Murder and Suicide

Cleveland, Feb. 12.—Fred Wigle, an actor, shot and instantly killed his wife and then committed suicide at a boarding house here. The couple, married three years ago in Canada, were separated until a week ago. It is supposed that they quarreled. The immediate cause of the trouble is not known.

ACQUITTED BY JURY

Mrs. McDonald Receives Verdict
Without Apparent Emotion

KILLING OF ARTIST GUERIN

Came After Years of Intimacy—Husband of Accused Woman Stood by Her, Even Making Provisions in His Will For Wife's Defense

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Dora McDonald, who has been on trial here since Jan. 20 on the charge of murdering Webster S. Guerin, an artist, was acquitted by a jury in the criminal court last night. The verdict was reached after six and a half hours of deliberation, the jury having retired at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The defendant, who is the widow of Michael C. McDonald, formerly a political leader in Chicago, received the verdict without apparent emotion. During the trial she had frequently collapsed and on several occasions the case has been interrupted in order that she might receive medical attention. Last night, however, she was the least moved of any of the persons concerned in the defense.

Members of the jury took an oath before reporting their finding not to reveal the history of their deliberations. The first ballot, they said, stood 8 to 4 for acquittal, but subsequent developments were carefully kept secret.

After Mrs. McDonald had been discharged she was taken to a hotel by relatives. It was announced later that she will retire to a sanatorium. Despite her nervous and physical condition during the trial and the months following the tragedy, no hint of a possible attack of insanity was offered by the defense at the trial.

Webster S. Guerin was shot and killed in his studio on Feb. 21, 1907. Mrs. McDonald was alone with him when the tragedy occurred and was immediately arrested and charged with the murder. Her husband and Leopold Freeman, president of the Champion Chemical works, signed bail bonds for $50,000 after her indictment, March 30, 1907.

The shock of the tragedy proved disastrous to McDonald and he died Aug. 9, 1907. His fortune was left to the accused woman and his two sons, one the child of a former marriage. Special provision was made in his will for Mrs. McDonald's defense, and the instrument was attacked in court by his former wife, Mrs. Mary McDonald, from whom he had obtained a divorce. The suit is still pending.

It developed at the trial just concluded that Guerin and Mrs. Dora McDonald had been more or less intimate for almost ten years, their relations having begun when Guerin was less than 17 years old. The state asserted that Guerin had attempted to dissolve these relations and that the woman shot him in a jealous rage.

The defense attacked Guerin's character, asserting that he had systematically blackmailed Mrs. McDonald for years, and offered evidence tending to show that he had attacked her in his studio on the day of the tragedy.

The trial attracted unusually large crowds, and on several occasions the police and bailiffs had to unite forces to hold would-be spectators in check.

With Drexels Forty-Seven Years
Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—William H. Zinser, for forty-seven years in the employ of the banking house of Drexel & Co., and for many years teller in the institution, committed suicide at his home by swallowing carbolic acid. Zinser suffered from melancholia, which was brought on by financial difficulties which he experienced about a year ago and which were followed by the severance of his connection with Drexel & Co. He was 64 years old and began his career as office boy with the Drexels.

Birthday of Noted Novelist
London, Feb. 12.—The whole British press united this morning in glowing tributes of affection and admiration for Novelist George Meredith, whose 80th birthday is being celebrated quietly today at his Box Hill retreat. A small deputation presented him with a beautifully bound address of congratulation, signed by more than a hundred leaders in art, letters and scholarship in the United Kingdom. Meredith is enjoying good health.

To the Quincy Savings Bank, a duly existing corporation having its usual place of business in Quincy, in the County of Norfolk; Timothy F. Callahan of said Quincy; Emeline A. E. Burkhardt and Herman F. Burkhardt of Brookline, James H. Boyle of Milton, in said County of Norfolk; Alice D. Place or Woburn, in the County of Middlesex; the City of Boston, a municipal corporation located in the County of Suffolk; Gottlieb F. Burkhardt, Fred C. Gilpatrick, Trustee, Pauline L. Boyd, Ann R. Richards, John H. Loughnan, Margaret E. McManus, Ellen M. Farley, Mary F. Miley, Anna Callahan, Elizabeth P. Hodson, Catherine Ring, Charles W. Clapp and Charles H. Lutton of said Boston; all in said Commonwealth; Esther of Chelsea, in said County of Suffolk, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Albert S. Apsey, Receiver of the First National Bank of Chelsea, a corporation formerly doing business in Chelsea, in said County of Suffolk, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain tract or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Quincy, called Squantum, and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the East or Quincy Bay shore of said Squantum, which point is South of the gravel bar leading Easterly from Squantum to Half Moon Island, so called, and is also at the Northeast corner of land conveyed to Calvin A. Richards by James H. Boyle, April 1, 1867; thence running Northwesterly by land of Ann R. Richards about 471 feet; thence more Westerly, still by said land of Ann R. Richards about 165 feet to a point on the Easterly line of Bellevue Street, so called (formerly Green Street); thence running Southerly by the Easterly line of said Bellevue Street, so called, and partly by said land of Ann R. Richards and partly by land of Timothy F. Callahan, about 518 feet to a stone post at the Southwest corner of land formerly of Holley K. Pope; thence Westerly again across said Bellevue Street, so called, by an old line of wall, along and by land of John H. Loughnan and Margaret McManus, about 610 feet to the South-easterly corner of land formerly of John R. Pratt's Heirs; thence still Westerly, by a private way called Dundee Road, and by land of Gottlieb F. Burkhardt, Sophie M. Bright Smith, Emeline A. E. Burkhardt, Fred C. Gilpatrick, Trustee, Herman F. Burkhardt, and Pauline L. Boyd, to and across Squantum Street, about 1,000 feet.

Thence Southerly and Southwesterly by an irregular line, and by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about $70 feet to a corner; thence Northerly, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 225 feet to the Northerly bank or shore of a ditch or brook; thence Westerly by said Northerly bank or shore of the ditch or brook, about 220 feet to said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al; thence Northwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 100 feet; thence Southwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 80 feet; thence Northwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 375 feet; thence Northwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 200 feet; thence Northwesterly, Northerly and Northwesterly, by an irregular line, still by said land of said Gottlieb F. Burkhardt et al, about 539 feet to the street called the Boulevard (formerly called East Squantum Street).

Thence Northwesterly by said Boulevard, East Squantum Street, about 1,150 feet to Squantum Street; thence across Squantum Street, and by the continuation of said Boulevard (formerly called Moon Island Road) about 850 feet; thence Northerly, along said mentioned street or road, about 151 feet; thence Northwesterly, along said road, about 63 feet; thence Northwesterly across said road 162 feet to the West beach or shore of Squantum; thence Northwesterly again, continuing along said shore, about 672 feet; thence Southeasterly across said road again 17.5 feet; thence Southwesterly along said road about 19 feet; thence southeasterly by land of Charles H. Lutton and land of James H. Boyle about 800 feet; thence Northwesterly by land of said James H. Boyle about 527 feet; thence Southeasterly by land of the City of Boston, about 200 feet to said East shore of said Squantum; thence Southeasterly and Southwesterly, along the line of said shore, about 1,950 feet to the point of beginning. Together with all the beach and flats, and all rights therein, opposite to and appertaining to said tract of land, or any part thereof, situated either on Quincy Bay or Dorchester Bay.

Petitioner admits that the above described land is subject to existing rights of other persons in and to the street called Squantum Street, the street called Huddins Avenue, and the Boulevard.

There are excepted from said parcel so much thereof as was deeded by John R. Pratt to one Burkhardt by deed recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 494 folio 241; also parcel of land containing 45,650 square feet, with the buildings thereon, bounded Westerly by the said Boulevard about 166.25 feet, Northerly by lots 46 to 51 on the plan hereinafter referred to, Easterly by lot 73 on the same plan, and Southerly by Pratt Road on the same plan, together with all rights of the owners of said last mentioned parcel in the beach and flats opposite thereto; also lots 3 to 23 both inclusive, 26 to 33 both inclusive, 42 to 45 both inclusive, 46 to 53 both inclusive, 57 to 62 both inclusive, 63 to 65 both inclusive, 67 to 68, 72 and 73, 99 and 91, 105 and 107, all as shown on a Plan made by H. T. Whitman, Surveyor, dated 1898, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 21, plan 952.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY

Witness Tells of Alleged Grift in Building Pennsylvania Capitol
Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—The climax in the state capitol conspiracy trial was reached yesterday afternoon, when Stanford E. Lewis, assistant to Architect Joseph M. Huston, declared on the witness stand that Contractor John H. Sanderson, one of the defendants, complained that he did not want to cut down his bills because he "had to put up a big wad for other people."

Lewis also testified that a letter which he produced Monday, with the explanation that it was responsible for his being indicted for conspiracy in the capitol prosecutions, had been written and brought to him by former Auditor General Snyder, a defendant in the present case, for his signature. In it Lewis was made to say he had certified to a bill for $187,755.20 paid to the Pennsylvania Construction company for metallic filing cases which he had found correct.

The testimony of Lewis was direct and unqualified and was not attacked by the defense. The commonwealth was able to put in this evidence by calling Lewis to the stand to offer the letter which he had unsuccessfully endeavored to introduce Monday.

The attorneys for the defense were greatly surprised and after a whispered consultation Mr. Gilbert, for the defense, cross-examined the witness briefly, but without reference to either of Lewis' statements.

D Debate on Aldrich Bill

Washington, Feb. 12.—Debate on the Aldrich currency bill was begun in the senate yesterday. The discussion of the measure was directed chiefly toward the provision for railroad bonds as a basis for emergency circulation, a wide difference of opinion being developed concerning the method that should be adopted in determining the valuation to be given such bonds, as well as opposition to the use of such security under any terms. The bill was finally read through and committee amendments were incorporated in the bill, it being understood that the entire bill is to be subject to amendment hereafter.

Ruthless Slaughter of Robins

New Orleans, Feb. 12.—The announcement that about one million robins have been killed by hunters this winter in Louisiana, which is a winter home for these birds, was made by President Miller of the Louisiana Audubon society. Following this announcement George Howell, a government expert sent here to investigate the habits of robins, said that the government may prove that the eastward movement of the bird weevil had been facilitated by the reckless destruction of the robins. The birds are killed for food.

How Bank Assets Shrank

New York, Feb. 12.—In confirming the report of Alexander McKinney, who was appointed special referee to investigate the accounts of Otto Kelsey and Edward G. Riggs, receivers of the Republic Savings and Loan association, Judge Carr, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, said that the result of the receivership was most lamentable. After being in the hands of the receivers for eight years, the assets of the Republic Savings and Loan association shrank from $1,050,000 to $36,000.

Gilmore Pleads Not Guilty

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 12.—George F. Gilmore, arrested in connection with the murder of Charles E. Bushee, pleaded not guilty to the murder of the aged druggist yesterday. His case was continued until Tuesday, Feb. 18. He was taken to Cambridge jail, where are also Oscar Kelson and John J. Killian, who, according to the confessions of all three, were his partners in the robbery.

Walker Fighting Extradition

New Britain, Conn., Feb. 12.—Treasurer Stanley of the Savings Bank of New Britain states that he has received a report from Ensenada, Lower California, that William F. Walker, the absconding treasurer of the bank, is making an elaborate defense against extradition. According to Stanley, present indications are that Walker will ultimately be brought back.

NEWS IN BRIEF

According to the annual report of the state insurance commissioner, the total fire insurance risks written in Maine during the past year amounted to $185,272,142.02.

The capital stock of the Travelers' Insurance company has been increased from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The United Comb and Novelty company filed a petition in bankruptcy at Providence. The liabilities are placed at $19,348.

The secretary of the navy has accepted the resignation of his son, Midshipman Victor N. Metcalf, because of ill-health.

Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely denies reports that he will resign his position to accept the presidency of the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City.

The report is again current that the Japanese government is trying to float a loan in Paris.

Owing to the outbreak of the plague in West Africa the strictest sanitary inspection of vessels arriving at German ports from that country has been decreed.

A loss of nearly $90,000 was incurred, one fireman was probably fatally injured, and a dangerous panic narrowly averted in a fire in a five-story building at Cincinnati. The building was occupied by several concerns.

DOING A GOOD WORKWill Some Day
Be Proud of Work for the Philippines

"The Philippines and what shall we do with them," was the subject of a very practical and interesting talk at the February meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club on Tuesday evening by Edward A. Filene, the well known Boston merchant.

A hot roast beef dinner was served at 6.30 and President Parlin introduced the speaker.

At the outset it was plain where Mr. Filene stood on the question of the evening, for he said: "We are doing a good work in the Philippines and we will be proud of it some day."

He told of his travels through India, China, Korea, Japan and the Philippines, and the conditions as they existed. It would help us to understand Japan, he said, if we knew that European feudalism existed there 300 years ago.

China, he said, was a mystery. At times there was a ray of hope, and then it was gone.

Manilla he pictured as a modern city with a fine harbor, broad avenues, business houses and modern improvements. Round about the city were typical Philippine settlements where the people lived in shacks not worth over $25.

He spoke of the dress of the people and at more length of the mixture of blood. Before American occupation, he said, it was the policy of the rulers to keep the tribes ignorant. They established purposely on each island a different dialect and discouraged visits between islands.

In eight or nine years there had been a great change and today a stranger can get along better with the English language than the Spanish. Although contradicted, debt slavery exists and extends through different generations.

Today the islands have a municipal self government, a provisional self government, and a national self government a portion of the officials being Americans. I asked the people everywhere, said Mr. Filene, what is wrong? What shall I tell the people at home? They replied they wanted self government. But most of them qualified it, and said not right away; not until qualified. It must not come too prematurely. Self government today would be by ten per cent. of the population who have had the people these long years under their control.

He paid a tribute to Gov. Smith, "a rough diamond," to Gen. Wood, to the American teachers and soldiers, and spoke of their sacrifices and their good work. They were accomplishing much. The Philippines were costing lots of money, but outside the army expenses, which should not be included, the income from the islands was in excess of the expense.

There were three policies open for the islands: (1)—Permanent government; (2)—Immediate self government; and (3)—guardianship. The first was out of the question. He showed where the second was impractical and where guardianship was the only proper course. He took a very optimistic view of the Philippines.

Lost the First
But Won Two

Team 5 of the Y. M. C. A. bowling league was not at all disheartened on Tuesday evening when Team 4 won the first match by 40 pins. Team 4 improved on the second game but Team 5 had three big scores and a total of 445 to 426 for their rivals. Both teams weakened on the rubber, but Team 5 won by 5 pins. On grand totals Team 4 was 14 pins ahead, but luck was against them.

vice president, Mrs. V. E. Miller; and secretary Mrs. John F. Hunt.

The meeting next week Wednesday of the Wollaston Alliance will be a sewing meeting.

"Benvenuto Cellini: the artist in the Florentine Renaissance" is the subject of Prof. Edward Howard Griggs' lecture Saturday morning at Tremont Temple, Boston, the fourth in his series on "Great Autobiographies: types and problems of Manhood and Womanhood."

The Junior Friday club which was scheduled to meet on Monday afternoon Feb. 17th with Miss Grace Isaac, has been changed to meet with Mrs. Arthur W. Hall of Upland road. Miss Etta M. Prescott has the program in charge, the study of Florence being continued with Dante, Petrarch and Humanism and Boccaccio as special subjects.

By special invitation from the Governor, the state society of the Daughters of the Revolution will attend his reception at the State house on Washington's birthday. Members will meet in room 148 at the State house at 10.45. Members of Adams Chapter of Quincy are cordially invited to attend the reception.

The State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution are to observe Washington's birthday at hotel Vendome, Boston at two o'clock Saturday afternoon. Members of Adams Chapter of Quincy, Mrs. Charles H. Belcher chairman have the meeting in charge. Papers will be read by Mrs. Henry A. Belcher and Mrs. William Porter. Miss Gladys White will sing. Mrs. Charles Wilson is chairman of the social committee. A fine meeting is anticipated.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

A perfect winter day called out a large number of club members on Tuesday for the Arts and Crafts afternoon. The business meeting at half past two was called to order promptly by Mrs. George W. Morton, president. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer and the chairman of committees gave reports of their work, which was varied and interesting.

The Art and Literature announced an exhibition of miniatures and silhouettes in charge of Mrs. George G. Saville and Mrs. Robert E. Park, to be held in March.

Arts and Crafts announced classes in millinery, etc., and to apply to Mrs. W. E. Blanchard for fuller detail.

Civic committee said that Hon. Carroll D. Wright would speak to the club on Feb. 25th and hoped members would bring guests that afternoon, especially men, also on Wednesday evening, Feb. 26, at First Church chapel. Mr. John Nolen would lecture on "Civic Betterment and how to improve our Out Door Surroundings," illustrated by stereopticon. A most entertaining lecture and one which all lovers of village improvement should attend. It will be a leap year arrangement any Quincy lady being invited to buy a ticket at twenty-five cents which entitles her to a blue ticket for a man. Members should interest themselves in giving Mr. Nolen a good audience.

Mrs. Abele reported for the Philanthropy committee that regular meetings were being held and a start had been made on organizing an associated charities, also it was hoped to form a class in "First Aid to the Injured" and that it was hoped to have a speaker present the subject to the club at an early date.

The Program committee said several speakers desired to address the club and it was hoped to find some dates for them.

Mrs. Welch spoke briefly of the good work being done by the Visiting Nurse and of the appreciation of her services by the doctors. She made a plea for contributions of money toward the Nurse's salary.

Following the business meeting a fine musical program arranged by Miss Alice Gertrude Coe of the Music committee was enjoyed for an hour, the program being:

Baritone Solo, Mr. Clarence H. Wilson "Blow Blow Thou Winter Wind"	Tours
Piano Solo, Miss Florence Olney "Ronde Capriccioso"	Chopin
Songs, "On Music's Wing" Mendelssohn "Dance Cuckoo" Hiller Mendelssohn Trio— Mrs. Irene Chipman Tirrell Mrs. Emma Shufelt Moore Miss Alice Gertrude Coe "Mother o' Mine"
Nocturne, Mr. Wilson Miss Olney
Songs, "Bonnie Lass" Parks "Yeomans Wedding Song"
Mr. Wilson
Cradle Song, Mendelssohn Trio

Mr. Wilson was accompanied at the piano by his nephew and Mrs. Charles Sampson accompanied for the trio.

Mr. Wilson's singing was thoroughly enjoyed and each number was appreciatively encored. His voice is full and round and rich in tone. He was repeatedly recalled. Mr. Wilson is the baritone singer in the Harvard church quartet at Brookline and is well known in musical circles.

Miss Olney was very happy in her piano selection; her skillful touch and sympathetic interpretation gave much pleasure. She was received with hearty greetings by her friends in the club and also received merited encores. The trio, composed of club members, was warmly welcomed and given very hearty encores at each appearance.

The second part of the program was an exhibition of arts and crafts work and the rooms were crowded for an hour.

Besides an exhibition of burnt wood, paintings, designing, metal, brass, bead, and stencil work, there were rugs, quilts, lace, linens, embroidery and basketry, also two rush botanized chairs, the work of the committee. There was a fine lace exhibit from South America loaned by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, some unique jewelry in pins and pendants made from South American butterflies, of exquisite coloring. Mrs. W. E. Blanchard showed how to make lace; Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield did brass work; Mrs. William Thayer of Weymouth and Miss Georgiana C. Lane showed how rugs were made; Mrs. Edwin E. Davis made hats etc., and Mrs. William H. Whitney did raffia work making beautiful baskets. Seeing the various articles made proved very fascinating. Those assisting in the exhibit were: Mrs. John Christiansen, Mrs. Frank J. Moore, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, Mrs. A. W. Jellinek, and Mrs. George Macfarlane.

The afternoon was a success and reflects great credit on the committee besides giving club members a better idea of the work being done by this committee.

The Education committee meets next Tuesday morning at ten o'clock at the club house and a full attendance is desired.

Hon. Carroll D. Wright addresses the next meeting of the club on Feb. 25th.

The sympathy of the club goes out to Mrs. Roger H. Wilde of Atlantic, who was at the club meeting Tuesday and who this morning is so sorely afflicted by the sudden death of her husband at the Atlantic station.

KING'S DAUGHTERS
The annual meeting opened at 5.30 P. M., with a short business meeting followed by a social half hour before the supper was served to about 100. Members and guests sat down to the supper which was in charge of Mrs. A. G. Coffin. The tables were decorated in red and white, with "hearts" everywhere, even upon people's sleeves. The supper was one of the best ever served in Bethany church and the committee deserve great credit.

At the close of the supper, Miss Hatch, who was the presiding officer, asked for the report of the tellers and the following officers were elected: President, Miss Alice M. Hatch. Vice President, Mrs. W. E. Blanchard. Recording Secretary, Miss Mona E. Birse. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. F. Hunt. Treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Merrill. Leaders of Tens: Bethany Ten, Mary Sampson. Devotional Ten, Mabel Baxter. Distributing Ten, Mrs. W. H. Doble. Entertainment Ten, Addie Park. Flower Ten, Breta Pierce. Membership Ten, Alice Goodrich. Music Ten, Edith C. Page. Opportunity Ten, Mrs. A. L. Hayden. Sewing Ten, Mrs. A. L. Melcher. Visiting Ten, Mrs. W. G. Shaw. Welcoming Ten, Mrs. John Keast. After the applause which greeted the new leaders, Mrs. H. W. Beattie gave the annual treasurer's report, showing a working balance of $227.43, to begin the year's work.

The secretary's report followed and a detailed account of the year's work given by Mrs. F. J. Moore. The leaders then announced that instead of the usual speaker for the evening there would be a musical program in the room above, to which all were invited.

At 8 o'clock Dr. Hardy led a short devotional exercise after which Mrs. John O. Hall, Jr., of Millbury, formerly of Quincy gave the King's Daughters service to four new members. During the presentation of the crosses, Mrs. F. J. Moore sang an original hymn, written by Mrs. Hall. After this service a musical program was given by Mrs. Edith C. Page, soprano; the King's Daughters quartet—Mrs. Page, Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Fitts; Mr. Albert L. Hayden, baritone; Mr. Lanz Fjellbeck, violinist and Mrs. Daisy Bemis Sampson at the piano.

NEIGHBORING.
Mrs. Sarah S. Platt Decker of Colorado, president of the general Federation of Women's clubs, says in a recent message to some of the state federations: "I plead with you to drop the old idea that the club and federation work is an incident, a happening, a passing pleasure or interest to be put on and off like a garment. I ask you to look upon it in a new light, to regard it as a real profession which has come to the women of this generation." She also says that this profession need not interfere with the home, the family, with the church or with society life so-called.

The Fortnightly club of Winchester which entertained the State Federation on Saturday was organized in 1881, joined the General Federation in 1890 and the State Federation in 1896 and is quite an old club. It has 300 members, maintains a vacation school and is a practical help to Winchester. Water-town Women's club observes on Saturday its annual children's afternoon, with an entertainment, dancing and refreshments.

The West Newton Educational club has arranged for a St. Valentine's progressive tea for its meeting on Friday.

Mr. Nathaniel Fowler speaks on "Bill Boards" at the Brightelmstone club on Feb. 17th. The club observes its gentlemen's night on Feb. 19th with entertainment by the Technology Glee club, a reception and dancing.

On Monday afternoon the Monday club of Weymouth presents the play "The Ladies of Cranford" under the direction of Mrs. Edward P. Hunt.

At a recent meeting of the Milton Woman's club, they discussed providing shelters at exposed corners, where school children and residents wait for street cars.

The Official Register and Directory of Women's Clubs in America, arranged and published by Miss Helen M. Winslow, is at hand for the year 1908. The directory contains the names and addresses of every officer in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the names of presidents of State federations, lists of committees in State federations and the name of every club in the United States with the address of its president. This particular number of the directory has in addition to all the foregoing useful information a list of the committees that make up the local biennial board, and the names and addresses of the many women who compose these committees.

By invitation received from the Brockton Teachers' Association, members of the Brockton Woman's club will attend a lecture given by Judge Ben Lindsey of the Juvenile Police court, Denver, Colorado, on "The Fortunes of Mickey," Thursday afternoon.

Lincoln Day
In the Schools

Exercises appropriate to Lincoln day were held this morning in all the schools of the city.

At the high school the pupils assembled in the hall shortly after 11 o'clock.

Principal Cleveland read the Governor's Proclamation, which was followed by the singing of "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Cleveland also read Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and extracts from his second inaugural.

This was followed by singing "The Battle Hymn of Republic."

Superintendent Parlin addressed the pupils on the life and character of Lincoln.

The exercises closed with the singing of "America," after which the school was dismissed.

Lincoln day exercises were held at the Woodward Institute this morning. Mr. Plummer, the principal, read the Governor's proclamation, which was followed by singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

The program for the remainder of the exercises was:

Reading of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation by Annie Ward.
Reading Lincoln's address at Gettysburg by Mabel Dorley.

Singing, "Massa in the Cold, Cold Ground," by Esther Sidelinger and Katherine Brown.

Reading from Lincoln's second inaugural by Abby K. Wild.

The exercises closed with the singing of America by the school. The school dismissed early.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Almost Ninety-five.

It is with great pleasure that we learn concerning Quincy's loved and cherished nonagenarian, Mrs. Edmund Pope. She is with one of her daughters, Mrs. Henry B. Martin of Milton, seemingly more in strength and alertness this winter than for some time past. Still maintaining a keen interest in affairs of her kindred and friends, and current events. The forthcoming March she will reach a wealth of ninety-five years. Her warmth of heart has certainly spared her to know and be known through the changes of a century almost of the world's marvelous inventions and development.

Edward Evans, Jr., gave his interesting lecture on "Sky Piloting in the Nebraska Sand Hills" before an enthusiastic audience at the Washington street Congregational church. The lecture had many amusing incidents and was instructive.

Whereas, Edward F. Ackley of Fitchburg, in the County of Worcester, executor of the will of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition praying that he, as such executor, may be authorized to pay a certain claim described in said petition so much thereof as this Court may authorize.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1908, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Y. M. C. A. BANQUET

Contributors Hear Of The Work The Association Is Doing At Large

The annual contributors' banquet of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. was held at Association building Wednesday evening.

This year's affair was in the nature of an experiment, inasmuch as tickets were sold for the banquet which was served by a Boston caterer.

This tended to reduce the attendance somewhat, but there were about seventy-five ladies and gentlemen present.

The speakers were ex-Gov. G. H. Utter of Rhode Island, and S. B. Carter of the Carter, Peabody Co., Boston. From 6 until 6:30 these gentlemen with President Chase held an informal reception in the parlors.

Music during the reception and also the banquet was furnished by the Y. M. C. A. Mandolin, Banjo and Guitar club. The tables were laid in the assembly hall, which looked very attractive, a large number of potted plants being used in the decorations of the room.

The tables were laid lengthwise of the hall. There was also a short table on the platform at which were seated President Chase, the two speakers, Representative Hultman and Rev. A. E. Clattenberg who opened the banquet with the blessing.

At each plate was a carnation and running the full length of each table was a streamer of crepe paper of the national colors.

The menu included oyster cocktails, hot roast beef, mashed potatoes, cold ham, banana fritters, chicken croquettes and peas, rolls, coffee, cake and ice cream.

The post prandial exercises opened with a solo by A. L. Hayden.

President Chase welcomed the guests. Lincoln's day he said was a good day for such a gathering. Association work was going on every day in the week and every day in the year. The work of the Y. M. C. A. was a unit, and Quincy was not the only place where men were aiming for this unit. If it were possible to call up many places in this country and Europe by telephone or wireless telegraph, and ask what was doing, the answer would be, looking after the young men. The Y. M. C. A. is no freak institution. We locally are only a part of a large army of men. He then introduced Mr. Carter.

Mr. Carter said we are living today in the age of young men. Our business men want the young men. A man of 40 years was not now considered. The Y. M. C. A. was an organization more than fifty years old. From the beginning it has been growing in activity. Its power is deepened and broadened until today there are 2000 organizations with half a million members.

It had enlisted a force of laymen that would make a procession eleven miles long. The positions secured for the young men last year represented a salary of fourteen million dollars. He also spoke of the wonderful plan of work for the emigrants. The association affords a good place for the wealthy to invest.

He then spoke of the opportunities of the organization. There was no question as to the opportunity it offered for social life under moral and spiritual influences. The opportunity for physical training without the sporting element. Its body building fitting men for the duties of life, health, recreation and training without the sting of sin.

Speaking of the educational work he said young men who lack education are at a disadvantage. This want cannot be supplied in any other way.

The speaker's third point was the opportunity for broadening moral and religious education, as it was non-sectarian. The broad building up of men in the higher type of manhood. A Christian manhood sound in body.

As business men we should interest

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that's on every box 25c

ourselves in this institution, so they may multiply and give continuous association work in the future. We need consecrated men and women of our church.

In introducing ex-Gov. Utter, President Chase said he would like to ask him, as a journalist, why it was no mention was made in the newspapers of the great Y. M. C. A. meeting in Washington, yet much space was given to a fight between two senators.

To this Gov. Utter said, a man and his wife may live peacefully together for fifty years. That was not news. Let him strike his wife, and that becomes news.

He was glad to see ladies present. It was a habit of men to exclude them. If there is anything the Y. M. C. A. stands for it is a Christian home, and women are a large portion of it.

He remembered as a boy how the news came of Lincoln's death, and what a shock it was. What made Lincoln great? Not because he was a financier. Not because he was a story teller. More than anything else, because he was a man among men who believed in God. We need in this country more than anything else, men who believe in their fellow-men and God.

Life is a serious thing. It makes all the difference in the world what you do. Taking a man out from himself should be the aim of the Y. M. C. A. All must depend on the government. Who guarantees your home? The right to walk in the streets? The government. Yet this is a thing we think so little about. We build the government for people on a community of interest.

He spoke of the great changes in the methods of business. Formerly it was done by individuals. By natural development we are doing very little by individuals but by companies.

Is it not also so in our social life? In our great activity we do not know our neighbors. The old personal social tendency has gone. What does it mean? We are placing before you a new element. Something that does not elevate.

If ministers want to reach the hearts of people they must go back to the scriptures. The lack of conviction is taking the sap of our country.

Police Out On False Alarm

The patrol wagon, with a load of policemen, was called out on a fool's errand shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday night to quell an Italian riot on Main street. Just who the author of the first information was, has not been learned.

It appears that a few minutes before, someone called John Harkins' house by telephone, and told him a story about an Italian riot and cutting affray on Revere road, and that the principals in the case had gone in his direction.

Would Mr. Harkins, who was known to the police, call them up and have officers sent down, and would he come up that way to help head them off. The man at the telephone also said something about the police officer in that vicinity being done up. Mr. Harkins promptly notified the police and a wagon load of officers was sent.

The same busy individual then got into telephonic communication with the newspaper reporters, and they went out on the hunt.

When the wagon arrived on Main street, Mr. Harkins met it, but no trace of the Italians could be found. The officer on duty on Revere road was found, and it was all news to him.

After fooling around, the police concluded that some smart individual had been having fun at their expense. There is, however, a possible solution of the case.

It seems that there is an Italian woman on Canal street that is somewhat demented, who has made several attempts at suicide, and she may have been the cause of the trouble. According to the police, Officer Doran found the woman on the edge of the canal at 1:30 Wednesday morning. She was about to jump overboard when the officer took her in charge and turned her over to friends.

Good Arguments For Depression

Editors of Daily Ledger:

The abolishment of grade crossings is the most important subject now up for solution, in our city, and to have the work properly done is of the greatest consequence to us as a city, or community. The railroad, as existing, cuts our city in two, going through the centre of business and residential property.

A rather singular fact is the going over Granite street, under School street, and at grade at Water street, in about half a mile. If the railroad is elevated over Water street it will answer very well for a roller coaster affair. The proper method is to depress the tracks six to eight feet, and have all streets go over at their present locations. Even from the railroad standpoint, it looks to be most feasible and less costly.

We may assume that they will build for four tracks. If so what an amount of filling it will require from Granite to School streets, whereas if depressed they can dump the surplus on the sides to fill up and widen.

By depression the railroad will be hidden from view to a considerable extent. By elevation what will the view be? And what an amount of property it will destroy. By depression, scarcely any property will be depreciated, and where spur tracks now exist could be reached by grades suited to all, so that business interests would not be disturbed.

Our city should not accept any settlement of the question but as above outlined. That is to depress the railroad tracks all through our city from Wollaston to the Braintree line, and if the towns south of us desire grades separated this depression may be beneficial to them also.

If our city takes a stand as here suggested and firmly resolves to accept no other method of settlement, it will be a happy solution of a vital question.

John A. McDonnell.

DOING BIG BUSINESS

Cash Receipts Of Shipyard For The Year Were $5,354,697.18

The annual report of the directors of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company to the stockholders issued under date of Feb. 11, for the year 1907, shows that the company is prospering. The average number of employees is over 3000 and the cash receipts of the year were five million dollars.

The report in full follows:
The Directors submit herewith comparative balance sheets of the Company as of December 31, 1906, and December 31, 1907.

Additions to the plant and machinery were made during the year to the amount of $50,000, including an extension of 112 feet to the machine shop to provide much needed additional facilities in that Department. All items of repairs and maintenance have been charged to expense and $120,000 has been charged off for depreciation.

There are no notes payable and the present accounts payable are only current bills in process of accounting. The cash receipts for the year amounted to $5,354,697.18.

The following vessels were under construction on December 31st, 1907: Battleship, "North Dakota," Scout Cruiser "Birmingham," Scout Cruiser "Salem," seven Submarine Boats; one 11,000-ton steel collier, "Melrose," since delivered; one steel freight steamer "Altamaha," ready for delivery; four steel Light Vessels, Nos. 90 to 93, inclusive; one steel Harbor Tug, since delivered.

During the year the Battleship "Vermont," the freight and passenger steamer "Creole," two steel freight steamers "Ocmulgee" and "Ossabaw," two 11,000-ton steel colliers, "Everett" and "Malden," four Submarine boats and one steel Harbor Lighter have been completed and delivered.

The average number of employees for the year was 3,340. The force at present employed is 3,045. There have been only trifling labor troubles during the year, but much difficulty in securing competent mechanics, resulting in a labor movement of over 8,000 during the year.

The company's turbine development has made substantial progress, but has necessitated the expenditure of the reserve for that purpose and brought in addition the loss in surplus of $43,000.

Our first Curtis turbine steamer, the "Creole," now running on the Line with gratifying results, presented on account of the moderate speed of 15 to 16 knots and other circumstances the most difficult conditions to make a good showing for the turbine. The single mechanical difficulty encountered in her turbines has been overcome and was a minor one so far as the merits of the turbine are concerned. We had in this vessel the usual experience on all turbine development in trying several designs of screw propellers before a fairly satisfactory one was obtained. The assets of the company are stated as follows:

PREYED ON FRIENDS

Morse Found No Difficulty In Securing Endorsers

THEY CARRY HEAVY LOAD

Cannot Meet Obligations on Hundreds of Thousands of Morse's Papers—A G. A. Deal Said to Be Scattered About New Eng and

New York, Feb. 13.—The further the probe of federal and state grand jury goes into the tangled affairs of Charles W. Morse, the ex-banker now under indultment, the more remarkable does the career of this man appear.

It is not so much that concrete acts of corporate mismanagement have been uncovered, running into large amounts and extending over a considerable period of time, but the thing that asto-nishes even Wall street is the extent to which Morse has been able to prey on his friends. The spectacle of President Oler of the American Ice company vying with Miles M. O'Brien, who was Morse's president of the Mercantile National bank, in saying bitter things about their former associate is sufficient to tell of his ravages, even if one did not have the spectacle of E. R. Thomas—himself under grand jury investigation—telling District Attorney Jerome what he knew as bearing upon a possible perjury charge against the ex-banker.

There is a story, revealed in the examination of the paper that Morse has scattered broadcast in this city and elsewhere, which throws a strong light on the situation. This is contained in a letter that Oler wrote to Morse back in 1903 when the latter was carrying a matter of $600,000 for the account of the pool in American Ice stock of which Morse was the manager.

"Don't think that I am writing in a complaining spirit," said Oler in that letter. "I only want to point out to you and your associates in the pool that if I am a valuable asset it would be to their interest to preserve that asset and not let it break down by reason of too heavy a load for a human being to carry."

The load that Oler struggled under is the load that crushed Alfred H. Curtis, who was president of the National Bank of North America, and whose name is on hundreds of thousands of Morse's papers, which cannot be met. Other paper bears the names of numbers of Curtis' family. A young girl named Wilson, who was Morse's private secretary, is another endorser; N. H. Campbell, treasurer of the Consolidated
Steamship company, is another.

There are several brokers who thought themselves especially favored by the "ice king's" patronage who are in the same boat, while subordinate officials of the Morse banks all through the institutions that once constituted his chain face judgments amounting to many times their available assets.

The next class of dupes to be considered is made up of the Morse borrowers. In the National Bank of North America alone Morse got upwards of $1,000,000 on dummy loans, some to responsible, some to irresponsible persons. Oler is in this company. They are replying to Receiver Hanna, the federal bank examiner, that they had no personal interest whatever in the amounts they obtained from the bank.
That is just the reply that Cashier
Wire of the National Bank of North America made to the receivers of the Knickerbocker Trust company when they asked him to pay $200,000 he borrowed for Morse over there in the days of Charles T. Barney. And as the Knickerbocker's receivers were not satisfied with Wire's reply, so Hanna is rejecting the replies of the Morse borrowers in the National Bank of North America.

Meantime nobody knows how much of the Morse paper, endorsed and un-endorsed, is scattered about New England. There was a report here that a Boston bank, unnamed, has $1,000,000
of it. The brokerage firm of F. S. Mosley & Co. handled this paper in large quantities and are themselves creditors
in a considerable amount. The Liberty National bank here turned up with 600 shares of National Bank of North America stock, last sold at par, securing a loan of $100,000 by a customer outside of New York. A Worcester trust company has been found in a similar position, and fragmentary reports are coming in from points all down the Maine coast, telling where still other losers are located.

Indeed the creditors are so many and their claims so ill-secured that the banks in New York where Morse went first for accommodation and who therefore received the best that he had to offer for collateral, are fighting shy of bankruptcy proceedings, preferring to take their chances in a voluntary settlement, or in the last event to sell their collateral for whatever it may bring.

Prison For Suffragettes

London, Feb. 13.—In the Westminster
police court the suffragettes, who raided
the house of commons, were arraigned.
All but two of the defendants refused to be bound over to keep the peace and accepted the alternative of three or four weeks' imprisonment. On each woman being asked if she wished to say anything before sentence was passed, the invariable reply was: "Yes, I protest against the Liberal government." Fifty-four suffragettes took part in the storming of the commons.

PROTEST OF CITIZENS

Wellesley Demands Better Service
From Railroad Company

Wellesley, Mass., Feb. 13.—A mass meeting of the citizens of Wellesley, called by the selectmen, was held last night to protest against the service rendered by the Boston and Albany railroad. Many of the prominent citizens of the town spoke in protest of the alleged failure of the road to run its trains to Wellesley stations on schedule
time from Boston and the insufficient seating capacity of many trains.

A statement was read from Superintendent Frapp of the railroad which stated that the road would put on three additional trains each way daily after
Feb. 23, thus meeting the demands
made recently by the selectmen.

A resolution was passed by the meeting to petition the legislature to grant
the railroad commission power to compel the railroad to run trains on schedule time or, in the failure so to do, to impose penalties. In connection with the resolution a committee of twelve was appointed to investigate the conditions fully and to place the petition before the legislature.

The decision of the road to put on additional trains was welcomed, but the resolution was passed, it was stated, that the grant should be fully lived up to at all times.

Rejected Postmaster Draws Salary

Washington, Feb. 13.—Senator
Talaferro discovered that William Northrup is still drawing the salary as postmaster at Pensacola, Fla., notwithstanding his nomination was rejected nearly a year ago. At his suggestion the senate called upon the postmaster general for explanation. The response was brief, Meyer declaring that he has authority to continue Northrup in office until his successor has been appointed. His position undoubtedly will create discussion in executive session.

Stringent Laws For Autoists

Berlin, Feb. 13.—The question of regulation of automobiles occasioned a most animated debate in the reichstag and called forth an assurance from the government that it would bring in a bill laying down the most stringent rules for the protection of the public.
It will make the owners of automobiles
fully responsible before the civil courts
for accidents, while negligent drivers
will be subjected to the severest penalties. Chauffeurs will be compelled to undergo a stringent examination.

"Old Iron" For Santo Domingo

San Juan, P. R., Feb. 13.—A number of boxes which arrived here recently
as part of the cargo on the steamer
Caracas from New York were repacked here and marked "old iron." They were then sent to Mayaguez, but were seized while being loaded on a steamer for Santo Domingo. It was found that the boxes contained 60,000 cartridges and other ammunition. Seven arrests have been made.

How Standard Oil Did Business

Albany, Feb. 13.—In the hearing for taking testimony in the action brought by the United States government to dissolve the Standard Oil company of New Jersey George Z. Deam of Cheshire, Mass., testified to the effect that he obtained a contract with the Standard Oil company and after buying oil was refunded the difference between the open and the contract price.

Says Roosevelt Intensified Panic

Washington, Feb. 13.—Senator Rayner spoke at length in the senate on the currency bill, condemning the present system of banking in the United States and incidentally declaring that the president, by his methods of fighting the encroachments of predatory wealth, had done much to intensify the panic through which the country had recently passed.

New Rifles Ready For Militia

Washington, Feb. 13.—Acting Secretary Oliver announces that the war department at last is in position to completely arm the organized militia of the country, 100,000 strong, with the new high-powered army rifle. The weapon is officially known as the model of 1907, re chambered for the ammunition of 1906.

Bank Given Two Years to Settle

Portland, Or., Feb. 13.—The Oregon
Trust and Savings bank, which failed
several months ago, reopened yesterday under the name of the German-American bank, with which the bankrupt institution has been merged. The courts have allowed the old bank two years in which to meet its obligations.

Cruiser's Commander Negligent

Hamburg, Feb. 13.—A court martial sentenced Captain Von Lovckow to a four month's arrest on the charge of negligence. He was in command of the cruiser Scamhorst, which ran aground near Bulsk on Jan. 15 while engaged in evolutions. The vessel is now undergoing extensive repairs.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Four of the largest cotton spinners
at Lodz, Russian Poland, have formed a combine with a capital of $15,000,000.
The Japanese method of wrestling Judo is to be introduced into all the military and naval gymnastics of Germany at the express command of the emperor.

President Hadley of Yale has presented to Berlin university 100 books which he took to Berlin for use in his classes while lecturing.

H. L. Greene, president of the F. G.
Greene corporation, and said to have been the oldest calico printer in the United States, died suddenly at his home at Riverpoint, R. I. He was 83 years old.

THE OHIO PRIMARIES

Show State to Be In Favor of Taft's Nomination

FORAKER ELEMENT CRUSHED

Supreme Court Decides Cuyahoga County Contest In Favor of the Secretary and He Will Have All the State Convention Delegates

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—The net result of the Republican primaries held throughout Ohio yesterday was, for William H. Taft, four delegates-at-large and twenty-two district delegates to the national convention in Chicago,
and a list of delegates to the state convention, to be held March 3, which will be unanimously in his favor.

No opposition worth mentioning developed during the day. The supreme court destroyed all chances of success
by the Foraker element in Cuyahoga county by declaring that the Taft county committee was the only valid organization of its kind in that county and the selection of delegates there went by default, no ticket being placed in the field against the Taft candidates.

In Knox county the opposition to Taft had brought an "independent"
ticket into the field, the independents, however, being all Foraker men. The Taft candidates won easily, the vote being about four to one in their favor.
Actual voting for delegates to the state convention was carried on in but thirty-five out of the total of eighty-eight counties in the state, Taft delegates in fifty-two counties having no opposition, their names being simply certified as having been elected. No vote being taken in Hardin, it was the general belief that the vote would be cast in thirty-six counties, but the failure of the Foraker men to bring out an opposition ticket in Cuyahoga county
reduced the number by one.

In the Sixth district congressional primaries were not held in one county (Hardin), but the result there cannot possibly override the vote in the remainder of the district and the two delegates to the Chicago convention
are certain for Taft.

The following statement was issued last night by Arthur I. Vorys, the manager of the Taft presidential campaign:
"Ohio is for Taft. The result at the primaries completes the demonstration. Every county (except one with seven delegates) now has selected its delegates to the state convention. Every county has selected Taft delegates.
The state convention will be unanimously for Taft, for every one of the 815 delegates is for, and is instructed by Taft. This unanimity also demonstrates that every one of the forty-six delegates to the national convention will be for Taft."

Taft Makes No Comment

Chicago, Feb. 12.—William H. Taft refused last night to comment on the result of the Republican primary elections in Ohio. The secretary fell back on his usual rule not to discuss for publication any developments in the campaign for the presidential nomination.

Anniversary of Larchmont Disaster

Providence, Feb. 13.—Last night was the first anniversary of the sinking of the Joy line steamer Larchmont, which went down in Block Island sound with about 170 persons, following a collision with the schooner Harry Knoxton. Of the estimated total of 180 passengers and crew of the steamer, but eighteen came ashore alive, and of the rescued one died a few days later
as the result of the terrible suffering endured in an open boat. The schoo-ner's crew was saved.

Alleged Outlaws In Custody

Shamokin, Pa., Feb. 12.—The state police arrested ten Italians of this place and Marion Heights, charged with being members of a band of outlaws in Italy and for the alleged killing of Antony Nestico, a local Italian, for the purpose of robbery. It is also alleged that the men under arrest conspired to kill Constable Mirack of this place and Joseph Nestico of Marion Heights.

Money to Fight Home Rule

Dublin, Feb. 12.—An appeal for a fund to maintain an anti-home rule campaign in Great Britain has been issued.
It is signed by several Irish Unionist peers. The appeal describes the danger to the cause of union as imminent
and asks for a large sum of money, so that the methods by which home rule,
as advocated by Gladstone, was defeated, may be resumed.

Suppressing Bookmakers

Berlin, Feb. 12.—The campaign against gambling has resulted in criminal court proceedings, and after an eight days' hearing twenty-five bookmakers were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from three days to six months, and, in addition, to fines ranging from $10 to $1500.

Robbed of Correspondence

Tetuan, Feb. 12.—British, French, German and Spanish postal couriers,
while on their way to Tangier, thirty-
two miles distant, have been robbed of all the correspondence written in Arabic that they carried.

Franco Arrives In Italy

Genoa, Feb. 12.—Senor Franco arrived here last evening. He appeared very much worn out and retired to his hotel, refusing to see any one.

STARCH FACTORY EXPLOSION

Building Wrecked and Six Men Buried in Ruins and Killed

Providence, Feb. 13.—Six persons are believed to have been killed by the explosion of a mixer in the starch factory of C. S. Tanner. Three other persons were injured by flying bricks
from the walls of the building and were removed to a hospital. Their condition is not regarded as serious.

Another man, A. L. G. Chase, 22, who was in charge of a chandlery store
which occupied a corner of the building,
is missing, and is supposed to be buried in the ruins.

The building was wrecked by the explosion, and fire following the explosion completed the work of destruction.
The exact cause of the explosion remains to be determined. Tanner intimated that it may have been due to a spark from defective electric wiring igniting the starch mixer prematurely.

It is supposed that five men were instantly killed and their bodies subsequently incinerated by the fire. The explosion tore away a great hole in the center of the building and carried away
the larger part of the roof. Fire Marshal Dennis will begin an investigation
today to determine the cause of the explosion. In his opinion the explosion was due either to the bursting of a boiler or to the sudden ignition of starch dust.

New Trial For Dickinson

Boston, Feb. 13.—After fighting the courts for nearly five years, John W.
Dickinson of Newton, who is charged with wrecking the South Danvers National bank, was granted a new trial yesterday, as the result of an opinion handed down in the United States circuit court of appeals. On the ground that Dickinson could not lawfully waive his right to a trial by twelve jurors, and that his conviction by ten jurors was accordingly unconstitutional,
the court of appeals set aside the judgment and verdict of the United States district court and remanded the case
to that court for another trial.

Sentiment In Court's Sentence

Salem, Mass., Feb. 13.—The five Pascataquoddy Indians who secured $11,972 from Massachusetts coast towns and cities in rewards on bogus seal tails were given sentences ranging from two to twelve months in the house of correction by Justice Aiken in the superior court. In imposing sentences, Aiken said that he considered them light, but he took into consideration the fact that the men did not realize fully what they had done and also because of the ill-treatment which their ancestors had received at the hands of the white people.

Paid No Duty on Golden Harp

Portland, Me., Feb. 13.—A golden harp, purchased in London by Rev.
Frank W. Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghost and U. S. society, at a cost of $100, it is said, and brought to this port on the converted yacht Kingdom, was brought to the custom house from Shiloh and will be held until duty is paid on it or a decision is reached that the payment of duty is unnecessary.

Held In Ice Four Days

Woods Hole, Mass., Feb. 13.—Steamer Nantucket arrived yesterday afternoon, after being ice-bound in Nantucket harbor since last Saturday.
About a dozen passengers came over on the boat, and the same number were here waiting for her to return. The ice embargo at Nantucket so far this winter
has been much shorter than usual.

Fraudulent Management Alleged

Hartford, Feb. 13.—A suit for $150,- 000 has been begun against L. B. Norton, president of the National Mercantile company, by C. F. King of Brookline, Mass., acting for stockholders. A receiver for the company has been appointed on allegation that affairs of the company were being fraudulently and negligently managed.

New Bank For Attleboro

North Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 13.—A movement recently started to organize a national bank to take the place of the Jewelers' National bank, which went into the hands of a receiver following the defalcation and suicide of its cashier, Frederick E. Sargeant, is expected to take definite shape at a meeting to be held here tonight.

Double Killing by Train

Lewiston, Me., Feb. 13.—While standing between the cars of a freight train in the Maine Central railroad's lower yard Charles Day and James Glenn of this city were hurled down and run over when the train started suddenly. Both men died after being removed to a hospital.

College President to Resign

Waterville, Me., Feb. 13.—President Charles L. White of Colby college has been notified that he has been chosen as associate corresponding secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission society of New York. He will tender his resignation as head of Colby college
and will accept the new position.

Abnormal Demand For Money

Rockland, Me., Feb. 13.—The Camden Savings bank of Rockport has notified depositors that sixty days' notice
will be required before deposits can be withdrawn. The action is due to an abnormal demand for money. Bank Examiner Skelton has notified the de-positors that the bank is solvent.

Curtailed Paper Output

Livermore Falls, Me., Feb. 13.—Orders have been received from the New York office of the International Paper company to shut down the Umbagog
mills of the corporation here until further notice. Similar orders have been sent to numerous other mills of the company in New England.

HAS A GOOD RECORD

Judge Gray Named as a Presidential Nominee

AN APPEAL TO DEMOCRATS

Resolution Outlining Many Good Works Accomplished by the "Genius of Common Sense"—Boom Is Formally Launched in Pennsylvania

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 13.—A movement of national scope to nominate Judge George Gray for the presidency was launched here last night when the Democratic county committee unanimously adopted an appeal to the Democrats of the county favoring his nomination by the Democratic national convention and called upon candidates for national delegates in this congressional district to pledge their votes to him. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"We favor the nomination for the presidency of the United States of Hon. George Gray of Delaware.

"In him are united the elements of high, unselfish, far-seeing statesmanship. If placed in nomination by the Democratic national convention his election is certain.

"The uprightness of his private life is an inspiration. That he is comparatively poor and that, all his life, he has placed the duty of public service above private enrichment, are guarantees that, if elected, he will be the servant of the whole people.

"He has reconciled capital and labor in the bitterest industrial wars of modern times. Noteworthy among these reconciliations is that accomplished by the anthracite strike commission, of which he was chairman. No peace-maker in the whole range of American history ranks with this man in the service he has rendered to his country.

"He has risen to the heights of true statesmanship in his performance of the duties of attorney general of the state of Delaware, as United States senator from that state, United States head of the Paris peace conference that formulated the treaty ending the Spanish-American war, as a member of the permanent international peace commission appointed in accordance with the treaty of the Hague, as member of the joint high commission that decided the Behring sea controversy, and as sole arbitrator in a dozen or more controversies between capital and labor.

"We recognize in him the genius of common sense and a profound sympathy with humanity. He is a Democrat who is a worthy successor of the great Jefferson and, above all else, he is an American of the best and strongest type.

"To his initiative and force must be attributed the reform of child labor laws in Pennsylvania and, in large measure, the success of the child labor movement throughout the country. His public and private record is unblemished. Qualities of the highest and most inspiring leadership are his.

"We commend him to the American people as the ideal candidate in this national emergency, and call upon those who are candidates for delegates to the national convention from this district to declare themselves in favor of his nomination."

TAFT AND GUILD

Pointed Paragraphs From Their Speeches at Lincoln Banquet
Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 13.—Secretary Taft and Governor Guild of Massachusetts were the principal speakers at the Lincoln club banquet last night. Both created great enthusiasm during their remarks.

Points in the address of Secretary Taft follow:

"Lincoln would have made the same good fight which has endeared Roosevelt to the plain people.

"Under Roosevelt we have done more to bring about universal peace than any other power in this century.

"Lincoln would have approved the Philippine policy."

Governor Guild said among other things:

"The nationalization of law that Abraham Lincoln inaugurated has not yet been carried to a full conclusion.

"Let national law take children from the mills and mines and put them in the schools, in every state in the Union.

"We have little reason to boast of our national morality till a national divorce law is established.

"Consolidation of enterprises is no crime, but as absolutely logical a development as the combination of labor in the unions.

"The state must control the railroads or the railroads will control the state.

"Fair play and the protection of the public demand the establishment of a uniform system of corporation control."

Just as Foraker Expected

Washington, Feb. 13.—Senator Foraker gave out a statement as to the result of the primary elections in Ohio, when the Taft forces made practically a clean sweep in the selection of delegates to the coming Republican state convention. In his statement Foraker says:

"Nobody should be either surprised or misled by the result of the primaries held in Ohio. The call for these primaries was of such a character that my friends throughout the state refused to participate. Consequently there was no opposition to the selection of Taft delegates. Under such circumstances he would, of course, carry everything.

"That the result of the primaries does not indicate anything conclusive should be manifest from the fact that the total vote polled will not represent more than 10 percent of the Republicans of Ohio.

"Recurring to the state convention, it should be borne in mind that it will be composed of the representatives of only one faction of the party. Not because the people have so decided, but because the course of the Taft managers was such as to bar everybody else out from participation."

Hughes May Select Delegates

New York, Feb. 13.—A step toward having the delegates-at-large and their alternates from this state to the national Republican convention named by Governor Hughes was taken last night when Chairman Cragin of the executive committee of the Hughes State League, and Secretary Humphreys of the Hughes National League called on Hughes and told him that it had been the custom for the state's choice for president to choose the four delegates-at-large and their alternates and that the custom should be adhered to this year. Hughes said he would take their suggestion into consideration.

Parting of the Ways Has Come

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Ex-Senator Brackett strongly criticised President Roosevelt's administration in a speech last night before the Republican club of Kennesaw county. He said that a parting of the ways had come for Republicans with the coming election, and continued: "If the legislative branch of the government has broken down or is breaking down, what are we going to do? Shall we sit down and say we are helpless in the presence of a greater political power than that possessed by any ruler on the globe? I cannot think so."

Bryan Not Seeking Office

Buffalo, Feb. 13.—W. J. Bryan, in a speech here last night, said: "I shall be content if, when my days are numbered, it can be truthfully said of me that I was a toiler, laboring as best I could. I have nothing to ask of the American people except to be permitted to spend the rest of my life repaying the debt of gratitude that I owe them. If I ever held office it must not be because I want it, but because the people want me to serve them."

Wants to Remain in Congress

Portland, Me., Feb. 13.—Congressman Amos L. Allen of the First Maine district announced last night that he would accept another nomination for re-election to congress, if it should be given him. Allen has had five nominations by acclamation and five successful elections.

Negros in Foraker's Favor

Boston, Feb. 13.—Resolutions supporting the candidacy of Senator Foraker for the presidential succession and opposing the candidacy of W. H. Taft were adopted last night at a meeting in this city of the negro American literary societies of New England.

Train Killed Man and Woman

Hamilton, Mass., Feb. 13.—Miss Hattie Hill, aged 21, and George Copp, aged 21, while taking a short cut to the Hamilton station last night, became confused by trains approaching in two directions and were both instantly killed by being struck by a train. Miss Hill was employed as a stenographer in Beverly. Copp was employed in the motor department of the Boston and Maine railroad at Boston.

Japanese Are "Experimenting"

Santa Monica, Cal., Feb. 13.—On an unfrequented bluff which marks the northern limit of Santa Monica bay, seven Japanese have been for several days past engaged in experiments that have aroused the suspicions of settlers, for it is presumed that a portion of the American battleship fleet will spend several days in the bay. There is no theory as to the purposes of the party.

In Memory of the Maine

Washington, Feb. 13.—Orders will be issued at the navy department for firing twenty-one minute guns and flying the colors at the Boston navy yard at half past all day of the 15th instant—the tenth anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana. This order is in accordance with the wishes of the city council of Boston.

Accident to "Mother" Eddy's Son

Lead, S. D., Feb. 13.—Owing to the kick of a horse sustained a week ago, George W. Glover, son of Mrs. Mary E. Eddy, Christian Science leader, is suffering from paralysis of the right leg. The malady threatens to become permanent. The horse's kick reopened an old gunshot wound suffered during the Civil war.

Steamer Sunk in Collision

Naples, Feb. 13.—Steamship Florida, which sailed from here last night with 112 passengers for New York, collided after leaving her dock with steamer Perseo. The Perseo sank, but there were no casualties.

Murders and Robbery by Rids

Warsaw, Feb. 13.—A band of terrorists attacked a post van near Janoff and killed the driver and five soldiers, wounded two soldiers and carried off $2500.

The Weather Forecast:

Almanac, Friday, Feb. 14.

Sun rises—6:44; sets—5:14.

Moon sets—5:17 p. m.

High water—9:30 a. m.; 10:15 p. m.

It will be warmer, with snow or rain in New England.

TALK ON THE TARIFF

Opinion That Revision Would Clear Political Atmosphere

RICHARDSON MAKES A PLEA

Predicts Victory For Democrats If They Stand For Free Raw Material

--Criticism of President's Message

--Tilt in House Over Bryan

Washington, Feb. 13.—The attitude of the Republican party on the tariff question and the president's recent special message to congress were the themes of a long speech in the house of representatives by Mr. Richardson of Alabama. He said that the joint debate in congress during the last fortnight had in a remarkable manner cleared up the political atmosphere and forcibly defined the position and views of both of the great political parties on vital political and economic questions.

Tariff reform, said Richardson, is the issue that would clarify the political atmosphere. "Let us stand for free raw material," he explained, "and the victory is ours." He argued that on that point the Republican party was weak and stood discredited with the people by its broken pledges.

The stand past leaders who dictated the policies of the Republican party, he asserted, declared with great earnestness that not a single schedule of the Dingley tariff should be revised or considered until after the presidential election, "and then only by its friends." No sound, sane man, he declared, pretended to believe that and he did not think the leaders who made such declarations could expect the country to take them seriously.

Regarding the president's message, Richardson said it was in response to the criticisms that the newspapers had freely passed upon him and the policies of his administration.

Mr. Williams, the minority leader, he said, had pointed out clearly the portions of the message that Democrats could and did cheerfully endorse, but he alleged "the message undoubtedly seeks to make the control of the trusts the paramount issue in the present campaign."

If, he inquired, the president was truly sincere in the vigor and zeal of the rights expressed in his message, or the protection of the individual rights of the citizen against the rapacity of the trusts, "why did he not recommend to his party that a guarantee be given to every American citizen the right to buy at home the products of American manufacture as cheap as these products are sold in foreign countries?"

If that was done, he said, the trust problem would be solved. The message, however, he said, was a strong plea for the continuance of the Republican party in power, and really made no direct recommendation for the relief of the burdens of the people.

In conclusion, Richardson said he believed that the "predatory wealth," "predatory poverty," "swollen fortunes" and the "criminal rich," together with the "trusts" were evil forces abroad in the land, and that they ought to be controlled and would be "when the true and imperishable Democratic principle of equal rights to all and special favors to none is handed out as a 'square deal' to all alike."

The tariff, trusts and the president's message were also discussed by Mr. Hardwick (Ga.). He first took up the tin plate industry and demonstrated from the reports of the British Board of Trade issued in 1904 that the difference in the price of tin plate in Wales and New York amounted substantially to the cost of the transportation added to the duty each year since 1890.

Mr. Hardwick furnished British statistics showing that wages in the United States had increased at a slower rate from 1881 to 1900 than in any foreign country. The Democrats, he said, had been delighted with the president's crusade against monopolies, but he predicted the president would not accomplish anything until he reached the heart of the evil and got at the source of the monopolies.

In the course of the final debate on the Indian appropriation bill, the proceedings were enlivened by Messrs. Hamill and Leake of New Jersey, both Democrats, discussing the virtues and faults of William J. Bryan. Hamill insisted that in his speech last Monday his colleague did not truly represent the sentiment of Hudson county, which they both represent, the state of New Jersey, or the country. In reply, Leake reasserted his charge that Bryan did not represent the principles for which Democracy stood.

King Manuel's Dearest Wish

Lisbon, Feb. 13.—The council of state has decided to pardon all the sailors imprisoned for the fleet mutiny in April, 1906. King Manuel inserted the following at the beginning of the decree: "It is my dearest wish to begin my reign by availing myself of the prerogative of pardon which the constitution gives me."

Saddling Blame on Huston

Harrisburg, Feb. 13.—That the blame for the alleged abuses in the contracts for the furnishings of the new capitol will be shifted from Contractor Sanderson and the three former state officers now on trial to Architect Huston is apparent from the opening arguments of counsel for the defense to the jury.

MAYOR REQUESTED

To Prepare Plan
For Saville Street
But Water Street
Was Laid on Table

Although plans and schemes for separating the grades at the Saville and Water street crossings were discussed for three hours Thursday night at the citizens meeting no agreement was reached and it seems as though the citizens will not be able to get together. Some favor depressing the tracks and some favor raising them. Good arguments were made in favor of both schemes.

Motions and amendments, almost without number, were made, but practically no headway was obtained. At the opening of the meeting James F. Burke asked that the records of Monday's meeting be read.

Upon motion of Mr. Angier the records were changed to read separation of the grades instead of abolition of grades.

Chairman Merrill asked for the report of the Committee on Saville street.

Mr. Angier said it was understood a meeting was to be held, but none had been. It was up to some one to do it, but all there was to say was that there were slimy excuses for not calling it.

The Saville street matter was taken up and Carle R. Hayward asked that the plans be thrown on the screen.

There were no new slides as the absence of sun on Thursday prevented.

The plans were then thrown on the screen, and were explained by City Engineer Bainbridge.

G. B. Bates said there was no where a better opportunity to depress tracks than through Quincy.

Mr. Bates' plan was then pinned on the screen and the light thrown upon it. This provided for lowering the grade at the crossing 13 feet, and for a bridge over it. There were three ways of getting over Granite street. One was by building a new street from Irving place which was to be extended to the corner of Goffe street. This new street passed through Sheppard's coal yard and through the Faxon property alongside the Hancock cemetery to Hancock street.

Another way was for Granite street to pass over the tracks at the present location and a third was to go to the south of the present Granite street which would mean a discontinuance of part of the street. The grade over Saville street by this plan would be 4 1-2 per cent but could be worked down to 4 per cent.

Ex-councilman Hayward thought considerable property would be damaged.

There was now a hump at the corner of Goffe and Granite streets and the purposes to raise it more. How can the freight yard be reached? The way Granite street is left will throw this plan out of consideration. The street through Sheppard's coal yard will cut off abutting property on the main street.

Gilbert M. Miller believed Granite street could go over the tracks. Let us have the tracks depressed.

J. W. Pratt believed the city should stand part of the expense if necessary to have streets as they should be.

E. H. Angier—Why is not the matter simplified if we say we want a street over the tracks at Saville street? If we submit plans we will get into trouble. State what we want and let the railroad find the way.

Upon request of ex-Councilman Hayward the plan which proposed a street around the grain store, thence to Upland road was shown. Mr. Hayward argued at length in favor of this plan. There would be no damage to abutting property.

The chairman ruled that by a vote of the last meeting this plan had been eliminated.

W. R. Thomas thought we should discuss all plans, and moved to rescind the vote of the last meeting.

E. H. Angier opposed. The vote on Saville street was practically unanimous.

N. G. Nickerson hoped vote would be reconsidered.

The motion was put and lost.

E. H. Angier thought it the duty of the City Engineer to prepare a plan to cross Saville street by an overhead bridge.

N. G. Nickerson—Does not the sentiment for a bridge come from people who live on the hill, and not from the citizens at large?

Mr. Angier—The opposition comes from those who do not use the street. Those who do use it are in favor.

Mr. Bates moved that the sense of this public meeting is that the best interest of the citizens and property owners and abutters is that the four main tracks should be lowered 13 feet at Saville street, and preserving present conditions.

H. L. Kincaide opposed. A comprehensive plan taking in both Saville and Granite street should be considered.

C. C. Hearn offered a substitute motion that the Mayor request the City Engineer to prepare a plan for the best interest of the city, as expressed by vote for an overhead bridge at Saville street; also including Granite street.

An amendment that the grade over the bridge should not exceed 4 per cent was adopted.

E. W. Branch thought two plans should be prepared. One for Saville street, and one for Granite street.

Mr. Bates said he had figures for depressing the tracks from President's bridge and the amount was $18,492.

John Q. A. Field thought this amount should be three times as great. You are putting too much on the Commissioner. His hands should not be tied.

A motion to rescind the vote making the grade 4 per cent was lost.

Edward J. Parker moved the whole matter be laid on the table until Water street had been considered. Motion lost, 27 voting in favor and 30 against.

The motion of Mr. Hearn, that the Mayor be requested to have a plan made, was then adopted.

WATER STREET.

The Water street problem was then taken up.

H. L. Kincaide, for the committee, reported that the committee recommended a plan whereby the present location of Water street should be maintained. For a bridge over the tracks, the grade not to exceed 3 1-2 per cent. That the street be widened to sixty feet. That there should be a 16 foot clearance under the bridge. Also that the loop from Water street to Liberty street should be carried a little southerly so as not to injure property.

Commissioner Bainbridge said a plan had been made but he was unable to get a slide. He however explained the proposed plan by the so-called loop plan. The location of Presidents avenue would be changed somewhat and the grade of Franklin street at its junction with Water street would be raised some.

C. C. Hearn asked if the commissionsions would allow cost of widening street to sixty feet.

Chairman Merrill was unable to tell.

Henry McGrath opposed. This plan was not acceptable to the people. All the people directly interested with one exception had signed a petition objecting. What they want to see is the present crossing retained. We also want more crossings toward Braintree. If the tracks were elevated we could have subways. These hump back bridges were more unsightly than a track running straight. If you raise tracks high enough Water street will be left as it is now. There could be a solid fill for a greater part of the way. It will not be ten years before another new freight yard is needed. You would get more smoke and dust by the tracks depressed than by being elevated.

Andrew Milne—It was not so about abutters signing that petition. No plan was shown. At first we thought it would be better, but now we have looked into it we object.

Mr. McGrath—I give you my word that I saw the names on the petition, and all but one had signed it.

John R. Richards objected on account of sidings and the doing away with School street.

F. L. Jones said he had talked with many men who had signed the petition. They signed for the purpose of keeping Water street. Did not know whether it was to be over or under. They did not understand it. If the tracks are elevated the new freight yard is no good. It would also interfere with the spur tracks.

John Q. A. Field understood the vote was for the commissioner to take the plan and make improvements.

J. W. Pratt moved that the sense of the meeting be that in the separation of the grade the tracks shall not be raised.

F. L. Jones—If we accept the recommendation of the committee that ends the matter.

James F. Burke raised the point of order that the report of the Committee was accepted, but not adopted, and Mr. Pratt's motion was out of order.

Chairman Merrill ruled the Pratt motion in order.

C. C. Hearn asked if the Granite Manufacturers' Association had taken any action on the matter as a body.

John Q. A. Field did not understand they had. He did not want to vote for any plan until he had seen it. He thought Mr. Jones unfair. All he wants is to save his switches. I have a plan. I left one association so as not to be alone, and to have freedom to present my plan to the commission.

E. J. Parker thought it would be a good idea to lay matter on the table, that persons who signed petition might be heard. He moved to lay on the table.

The motion was voted 22 in favor and 14 against.

It was then voted to adjourn subject to the call of the Mayor.

Springfield Training School Exhibit

Those who were not at the Y. M. C. A. gym Tuesday evening surely missed one of the best features of the year. The treat was the work of the Springfield Training School gymnastic team which has spent the last few days around Boston giving exhibitions in Abington and other places.

The team consisted of eight men, viz: H. A. Cook, L. Bandlow, L. H. Field, A. C. Heimsath, A. L. Holm, J. S. Summers, H. A. Van Velsor and Capt. H. G. Greenwood.

The first stunt on the program was the wand drill by the whole team, which certainly showed some careful hard work.

This was followed by stunts on the horse by Cook, Bandlow, Heimsath, Holm, Greenwood showing skill as well as strength.

The club swinging was by J. S. Summers, who handled the clubs in line shape.

The Horuppie by Greenwood and Field was a feature of the evening.

Parallel bars were the next piece of apparatus that the entire team went at, and the life that they put into the stunts was great.

The single stick movement exhibited by Capt. Greenwood added greatly to the exhibition.

The next and last piece of apparatus was the high bar, and the work made a good impression on the spectators for it consisted of skill and a great deal of strength.

A fencing bout by A. L. Holm and L. H. Field was greatly enjoyed. L. H. Field won 4 to 3.

The tumbling by Cook, Field, Heimsath, Holm, Summer, and Greenwood was excellent.

The last stunt was the swinging of the electrical clubs by H. A. Cook. It was the magnificent feature in the program.

The men who made up the team were certainly fine specimens of a physical manhood. They were fine samples of the well built and Christian men the Training school is turning out today.

Let us hope this fine team of young men may visit Quincy again.

The last part of the exhibition consisted of high diving and a potato race by the leaders of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., consisting of Jones, Morris, Aldrich, Hatfield, Levangie and Parker. The height reached in the high dive was eight feet.

Our Congressman.

Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell of Dorchester has accepted the invitation of the Irish Societies of Chicago to deliver on Saturday evening, March 7, the oration on the observance of Emmett Day in Chicago. Congressman O'Connell will return to Boston next week and on Thursday evening, Feb. 20, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual Board of Trade banquet at Quincy, and on Saturday, Feb. 22, he will speak at the dinner of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery in Boston.

Since his recent defence of immigration say the Transcript, the Dorchester congressman has been besieged with invitations to address organizations in the East and in the Middle West. He has been forced to decline the majority of these, however, as several important bills demand his close attention at Washington.

There have been so many banquets of late by the Men's clubs where the ladies were excluded, that the announcement of the Quincy Board of Trade to include ladies, is received with favor, and there will be a large representation of ladies at Music hall next Thursday evening. They will not sit "on the floor" or in the balcony, but at the tables, where they can enjoy the menu, the music and the speaking.

WHIST PARTY.

THE John Hancock Associates propose to run a series of five whist parties at Odd Fellows' Hall, Wollaston, on the following Friday evenings: Feb. 14, 21, 28 and Mch 6 and 13. Suitable prizes will be awarded at each party and a series prize for both lady and gent obtaining the highest score, same to be awarded at the close of the last party. All are welcome. Feb. 13

Serious Question Says the Judge

Judge De Courcy, in the Norfolk Superior Civil Court at Dedham this week heard the argument of counsel in the case of Alexander S. Whiting of Braintree against Boot & Shoe Workers' Union 143 of South Braintree.

The plaintiff's declaration sets forth, says the Transcript, that in December, 1904, he was a proficient edge setter working in Braintree and that he made application for membership to the union and was accepted; that the defendants and unknown persons continued, by wrongful and indirect means, to prevent him from becoming a member.

They imposed, he said, an unreasonable initiation fee of $500, which he was unable to pay, and was, therefore, unable to secure employment. He seeks to recover $5000.

The defendant's counsel declared that there was no legal act for action in the case, as the defendants merely conspired to do a lawful act, and that it did not appear that the fee was improper.

Judge De Courcy said that the question was a most serious one, and one that he hoped would be settled on its broad merits, on whether or not a union had a right to keep a man out by a practically prohibitive initiation fee.

He said that he would have to be governed in his decision by the technical question of sustaining the demurrer as against the plaintiff's declaration as drawn and thought that the contention should be put in a more definite and clearer manner.

Judge Bixby for Mr. Whiting asked that he might have the right to amend his declaration, which Judge DeCourcy allowed him. Mr. Goulston for the union was also allowed the opportunity to amend his demurrer to meet the amendment declaration, and the case was continued.

Taft Is Told That People of Michigan Are With Him

REGULATION OF RAILWAYS

The Secretary Would Have Further Powers Conferred Upon Government—Recent Panic Not Due to Legislation at Washington

Detroit, Feb. 14.—Secretary of War
Taft, who was the guest of the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealer's Association, talked for half an hour at the luncheon which was tendered him by the association upon "The moral awakening recently from business methods
which permit illegality and fraud."
The address was the culmination of a busy six hours in Detroit.

Throughout his stay in the city his every appearance in the street was the signal for cheers and enthusiasm. More than 600 men were gathered about the tables in the banquet room of Harmonium Hall to greet him when he arrived there and several hundred more persons were seated in the gallery.
Governor Warner, while voicing the state's welcome to the secretary, brought a tremendous outburst of enthusiasm when he declared he was convinced that 80 to 90 percent of the people of Michigan were for Taft's nomination for the presidency on the Republican ticket. The governor then suggested Governor Guild of Massachusetts for the nomination for vice president on the ticket with Taft.

Ambassador Jusserand was given a rousing welcome when he was presented for a short address. After declaring that because of his position
he could not meddle in American politics, the ambassador eulogized the American presidents of the past and present and said that it was his wish
and hope that the country, when it elected another president, would add another glorious name to the already glorious list of names. "I do not know who he will be," said the ambassador,
"but it seems that you know." Applause interrupted him for several moments.

Secretary Taft opened his address by remarking that a stranger might suspect the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' association had more to do with politics than with business. "We have heard," he continued, "a great deal recently in connection with the moral awakening from business methods
which permit illegality and frauds."

He spoke of the revelations of the investigation and then of the evils of over-issues of stocks and bonds
which he said was obtaining money under false pretences. Taking up the question of railroad discriminations
and recent legislation to prevent rebat-
ing, he said:

"The truth is, gentlemen, that we have not quite enough regulation of railways. Other powers ought to be conferred upon the interstate commerce commission. It is said that the interstate commerce commission is not a safe way in which to control the railroads of the country. It is the only way in which we can control them. We must see that we secure strong men to sit upon that commission, who can prove by their administration that it is the proper way. It is that or go to government ownership with all the state socialism which it involves, and I have no doubt that government ownership of the railways with the tremendous concentration of power it would involve, would endanger the republic.
We have enough concentrated power in Washington now. To increase it so that the executive should control the enormous body of civil servants which would necessarily follow, would result in making a president more powerful than any king who lives today."

"I believe it is impossible to enforce the present anti-trust law, but we need a new law more specific to bring all within its provisions. I think that today the violation of the law is by no means so fashionable as it was formerly."

"Now we are not going to have a business millennium, gentlemen, but we shall have a quickened public conscience and an eye on whether we have business demoralization or have business conducted within the terms of the law. The people have waked up.
We have just had a panic. Some of the gentlemen who have felt the lash of public opinion have been only too glad to attribute it to the legislation to which I have referred. The charge is unfounded. It is due, if students of finance are to be trusted, to the gradual exhaustion of all the free
capital of the world in enterprises which have not been so profitable as it was expected they would be. Now we must wait, the whole world must wait, until we earn more free capital.
There is no doubt but that European investors in our securities have been frightened by the revelations of dishonesty which have been shown of late in many of our large institutions.
But is the man who pointed out that dishonesty to be charged with the lack of confidence, or is it to be charged to the gentlemen who engaged in the illegality? It is not necessary to argue."

HOT SHOT FROM RAINEY

Talks of Standard Oil Prosecution
and the Negro Vote

Washington, Feb. 14.—That the administration's prosecution of the Standard Oil company is "only a bluff" was asserted in the house of representatives by Mr. Rainey of Illinois, who spoke on his bill placing on the free list petroleum, crude or refined, or its products.
He did not think it was possible, he said, to make a presidential campaign
"on the strength of a $20,000,000 fine
and some messages denouncing the Standard Oil."

He had not heard of the fine being paid, and he said "its collection, like the revision of the tariff, has been postponed until after the election."

The real way and effective method
of limiting the power of Standard Oil, Rainey argued, was to remove the tariff
of 15 cents a gallon on petroleum. "Do that," he said, "and admit Russian oil
free of duty and you will have struck a blow at the Standard Oil organization."

Mr. Rainey held up the Republicans
to ridicule for not having, as he said,
the temerity to announce their candidate for president. He said they had not the courage to declare for Speaker Cannon, "because that means the end of the White House dinners this winter
for all of you. You have not the courage to say you are for Taft, because that might interfere with your committee assignments."

Mr. Rainey asserted that there was but one man in the Republican party spoken for as a candidate or who really represented anything, "and he represents money and the negroes," and that was Senator Foraker. "There would not be much of a Republican party in this country," he charged, "if it was not for the contributions from the trusts
and for the negro vote."

He spoke of the part played by negroes in Republican politics and provoked Democratic applause when he declared, addressing the Republicans:
"You have got to take care of the negro vote, and you cannot do it when you turn down Foraker."

Riots in Streets of Bombay

Bombay, Feb. 14.—Serious rioting occurred here last evening during the course of the celebrations of the Mu-hammadan year, arising from disputes between the Sunnites, or orthodox section, and the Shiites, the second great division of Mohammedans. The mob stoned the police, injuring two of them. European officers fired upon the rioters, killing at least five of them and injuring forty. During the course of the afternoon and evening similar clashes occurred. Eventually the troops were called out and camped
last night in the streets.

Spankings For Schoolchildren

New York, Feb. 14.—Unless the board of education goes contrary to the recommendations of its special committee on the advisability of restoring corporal punishment to the public school system, insubordinate youngsters may be disciplined with good old-fashioned spankings hereafter. The board will hold a special meeting March 4 to consider the report of the special committee.

Japanese Citizens Ex mpt

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The Canadian government has sent instructions to the agent of the justice department in British Columbia to take legal steps to prevent the provincial authorities
enforcing any penalties against Japanese citizens under the Natal act just passed by that province. As soon as the act reaches Ottawa it will be disallowed.

Abused H's Official Position

Herkimer, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Charles
N. Klock, on trial here on the charge that, while a game protector, he entered into a conspiracy to steal timber from state lands and withhold money paid in settlement for trespassing on the state forest reserve,
was convicted and sentenced to a term of imprisonment of not less than three years.

Chasing D Inquent Steamer

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 14.—The United States revenue cutter Winona left this port under full steam in pursuit of the German steamer Delta, which left Pensacola two days ago after having been seized by the United States marshal there on a bill of libel for $8000. Little hope is entertained of overtaking the fugitive steamer.

Trust Agrees to Dissolve

Cincinnati, Feb. 14.—The eleven laundries under indictment for organizing a combination to raise prices
pleaded guilty and each was fined $50 and costs. The trust also agreed to dissolve and the indictments against the laundry proprietors were nolle.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The annual report of the state superintendent of Maine schools shows that the whole number of persons in the state between the ages of 5 and 21 years is 209,950, against 210,288 for the preceding year.

At the annual encampment of the Rhode Island Department, G. A. R., William O. Milne of Newport was elected department commander, F. G. Gilson of Providence senior vice-commander, and Charles H. Ewer of Howard junior vice-commander.

The committee of the inter-parliamentary peace conference has decided that the conference will be held this year in Berlin. The German emperor will receive the delegates.
Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U., died at her home at Kansas City after a long illness, aged 55 years.

BLACK'S HARD RAPS

Man Who Nominated Roosevelt Severely Scorchs Him

"IS IN RIVALRY WITH BRYAN"

Two Great Parties Are Playthings In Hands of Two Men—Country Controlled by Despotic and Unscrupulous Bossism—A Word For Hughes

Boston, Feb. 14.—Former Governor
Black of New York, who four years ago nominated Mr. Roosevelt as president, was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Home Market club,
a leading high tariff Republican organization. Black reviewed the business situation of the country, and, although he did not mention President Roosevelt by name, much of his address was a criticism of the administration, which Black held as partially responsible for the depression.

The former governor, referring to William J. Bryan, thought that he and the president were engaged in "rivalry to see who can say the most and worst." The speaker said that "the two great political parties, once so proud and militant, are playthings in the hands of two men whom the intelligence of the country rejects."

The conservative business and professional men present as guests and members of the club received the famous lawyer's onslaught on the president with applause, and at the end,
when the former Roosevelt enthusiast
closed with a particularly vicious stab,
they rose as a man and burst into prolonged cheers.

Ex-Governor Black carefully avoided mentioning any names, but he spoke in such terms that none present could misunderstand his meaning. From first to last his attack was aimed straight at the White House, except for one sentence when he launched a bitting sarcasm at William Jennings Bryan
as the dangerous misdirection of the Democratic party.

Some of the pungent anti-Roosevelt
raps from Black were:

"We have seemingly entered upon a national debacle, and, whirling the big stick, are running amuck among the institutions of the land."

"There never has been in the history
of this country a bossism so despotic and unscrupulous as that which controls you now."

"It is neither necessary nor wise to embrace under governmental supervision every subject known to the human race. Americans do not need to be managed or advised in their business, their habits and their pleasures."
"This country does not need anyone to run it or to feed it; it sadly needs
someone who will let it alone."

"A leader is not one who excites the crowd and then goes with it."

"A most conspicuous example of intelligent direction is now in the public mind. My own State has the honor to present him (Hughes) for popular examination. Few are so blind they do not see that his example floods the country with new confidence and hope.
The best will follow those who lead the best."

Mr. Black was followed by Congressman Bannan, who discussed the tariff
at great length and advocated a continuance of the present policy of protection of American industries. Ban-nan made his only reference of the evening to either Taft or Foraker in these words: "We can't afford to dispense with the services of such a grand Republican as Joseph Benson Foraker.
Further than this the prophet speaketh not."

Tom Johnson's Methods Attacked

Columbus, O., Feb. 14.—Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland was assailed
on the floor of the house by Representative Roberts, who charged that $84,000 was illegally appropriated from the treasury of the city of Cleveland
to build street railway tracks to relieve the congestion in the public square. For this congestion Roberts declared the street railway companies,
backed by Johnson, were largely responsible. The charges went unchallenged.

Cannot Reach Agreement

St. Paul, Feb. 14.—All negotiations between General Manager Glade of the Northern Pacific Railroad and the company's telegraphers have been broken off. The telegraphers and Glade have been trying to arrive at a satisfactory working agreement in view of the fact that the new law requires a reduction of working hours from 10 and 12 to nine. The principal difference is said to be over working rules.

Comptroller Ridgely to Resign

Washington, Feb. 14.—It is stated
on what is believed to be good authority that W. B. Ridgely, the comptroller of the currency, has decided to accept the presidency of the reorganized National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, which suspended payment during the late financial stringency.

Alleged Violation of Postal Laws

Cincinnati, Feb. 14.—Violation of the postal laws by carrying first-class mail matter was charged against the American Express company in a suit filed in the United States District court here by District Attorney Mc-Pherson.

The Observations
In the Daily Walk

Miss Cahill is in town today.
Town river prides itself on an ice boat.
The officers of Manet encampment will be installed tonight.
Valentine party at the Granite City club tonight.
Michael Scully of Combination No. 2 is confined to his home by illness.
Mayor Shea will be the guest of the West End club at West Quincy tonight.
Mr. James Davis and his sister have gone to housekeeping in the "Crescent."
Mrs. Eugene Stone of River street entertained the Ladies' Aid society this week.
Mrs. Roach of Edison Park has returned from a visit in western Massachusetts.
Mrs. A. A. Harlow of Mill street has recovered from a recent attack of grip.
The flag on City Hall is at half mast today out of respect to Roger H. Wilde, a member of the first City Council.
The Point indicated its patriotism on Lincoln day by the ringing of the church bell at noon and a display of flags.
The Linden Male Quartette composed of Adolph Restelli, Alexis Sorel, Fred Malcolm and George Guston, will sing at the West End club this evening.
Miss Kittie Cahill of Quincy went a sleigh ride with the Murdock High School of Winchendon, Wednesday evening. The party drove to Ringe, New Hampshire, where supper was served. After supper they adjourned to the hall where dancing was enjoyed.
Councilman A. H. Gilson was on Wednesday evening reelected secretary of the Brimmer School association of Boston, and was one of the speakers at the banquet at the Copley Square Hotel.
William McNelis, who was injured early this week by a stone falling upon him at Masson's polishing mill, died at the City Hospital on Wednesday, aged 53 years. He was a member of Clan McGregor, O. S. C., and they will attend the funeral on Sunday.
Parents should take steps to prevent their children walking on the railroad tracks as they now do. On Saturday, especially, children who attend the matinee at the Seaside theatre are in the habit of walking to and from South Quincy on the railroad tracks. It is an extremely dangerous thing to do.

Quincy's All White
Boston Terrier

Commenting on the award to Dr. W. G. Kendall of Quincy at the New York dog show, a New York dispatch to the Herald says: "Squantum Punch," the all-white Boston terrier, owned by the Squantum kennels of Quincy won the highest possible honors in his class over the 227 competing Boston terriers by being awarded first in the champion class over such famous winners as Fosco, Revilo Peach, Tomah and Oakmont Gent.

Punch created no mild sensation in the novice class when he was awarded first by Judge Benson, despite his unusual color. The award not only upset precedence, but spoiled the chances of a whole lot of other dogs whose owners, admitting Squantum Punch's superiority as an individual, thought his color would cost him whatever chance he might have for show honors; but Judge Benson by his decision showed that he, at least, does not regard bristles with white points the only accepted color combination for Boston terriers.

In the winner class Squantum Punch was not successful but he did land the reserve to another Boston dog—Barney Blue, owned by George Thomas. Squantum Punch's win in the champion class, however, makes him the top notch Boston terrier of the show.

The Commissioners
Postpone Hearing

By order of the special commission appointed by the Superior court, to determine the method of abolition of the grade crossings at Saville and Water streets, the hearing assigned for Monday has been postponed until Monday, March 9, at 10 o'clock.
Word to this effect was communicated to Mayor Shea this morning.
The postponing of the hearing will permit of plans being made as suggested at the public meeting Thursday night and will enable the citizens to agree.

This morning Commissioner Bainbridge sent a communication to Mr. Angier, Mr. Field, Mr. Bates and others stating that his office would be open every day and evenings by appointment to receive suggestions.
The letter also stated that the city was committed to no scheme, and that plans would be made carrying out ideas suggested.

A large party is anticipated tonight at the Valentine dance at Quincy Music hall, given by members of the Day Nursery association.

Newsy Budget

Steamer Devereaux which was recently repaired at the shipyard has again resumed her trips carrying coal cargoes for the Metropolitan Coal Company of Boston. While at the yard her engines and boilers were given a general overhauling. Among other things new thrust foundations were fitted and three new slice bar doors were installed in the fire doors of the boilers.

According to an announcement made by the New York Herald, the new steel twin screw steam yacht for Mr. Morton F. Plant, N. Y. C., building abroad, will be launched March 4 and be named the Iolanda. She is the third largest privately owned yacht in the world. The Iolanda is 305 feet over all, 258 feet on the water line, 37 feet 6 inches beam, 23 feet depth of hold and 16 feet 6 inches draft.

Team 1 Won
Two Out of Three

An interesting match was rolled Thursday evening between Teams 1 and Team 2, the leading teams in the Y. M. C. A. league. Capt. Gies had a slight lead in the league but fell down before the bowling of Capt. Andrew's team of Superbas. The teams had to roll with four men each and Team 1 captured two out of three strings and led on total pin fall. High men were Capt. Andrews, Jones and Kemp.

MILTON.

Rev. George H. Credford of the East Milton Congregational church, gave an interesting lecture on "Lincoln" at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening.

The Warrant committee has completed its labors and will report in print next week.
Sam Wood, Jr., of East Milton was appointed grand sentinel at the meeting of the Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., on Wednesday.

The registrars of voters met at Ellsworth hall Wednesday evening.
The police will ask the town to increase their pay from $2.75 to $3 per day.

The next social dance in the ladies' course will be held at Ellsworth hall March 3.

W. A. Hodges and Walter Collins have made some good catches of pickerel at Houghton's pond.

A toboggan slide has been constructed at Cunningham Park.

There is a great deal of sickness about East Milton at the present time.

Party at Atlantic.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hearn of Newberry avenue was the scene of a pleasant surprise party on Thursday evening when about 35 of their friends called. Barney Cullen, as spokesman, presented the couple a handsome travelling bag. The entertainment included piano and vocal solos by Mr. McConarty of Dorchester; vocal duets by Mr. Hearn and Miss Gertrude Hearn, also by Mrs. Gilmartin and Mrs. Donnelly; and piano solos by Mrs. Barney Cullen. Pitts' orchestra of Quincy furnished music for dancing. Ice cream, cake and cocoa were served. Plans for the party were made by Mrs. J. W. Donovan.

Eightieth Birthday.

Mrs. Eunice Webster White celebrated her eightieth birthday Thursday at the home of her daughter at 51 Edison street. She was pleasantly remembered with gifts from her family and friends. Mrs. White is the oldest member of the Washington Street Congregational church, having united with it when it was of the Methodist denomination, and has lived to see all the other older members either pass away or move from the place.
A bunch of beautiful carnations, the gift of the church, testified to the esteem and affection in which she is held.

THE WATERMELON.

Africa Is the Original Home of This Luscious Fruit.

The humorists always associate the African with the watermelon, assuming that the taste of the colored man for his favorite dainty arises from his life in the southern states, where the melon vine grows like a weed.

As a fact, however, the African taste for the watermelon is hereditary. The vine is a native of Africa, where it is found wild in the great central plains of the continent, and has also been cultivated for many ages.

In Egypt the melons grown along the Nile rival those of southeastern Missouri.

The melons mentioned by the Israelites as being among the good things they had in Egypt were undoubtedly watermelons, for in the wall paintings about the time of the exodus the melon vine is represented, and in one case a long procession of slaves is depicted, each bearing on his shoulder a huge dark green watermelon.

Botanists say that varieties of the melon are found in southern Asia, and some even claim that the plant grows wild in central and South Africa, but Africa is no doubt the original home of the melon, and in his preference over every other kind of vegetable or fruit the African merely displays a taste that has become fixed in his race by thousands of years of indulgence. For in central Africa ripe watermelons are to be had every month in the year.—Detroit News-Tribune.

HORNET SENTINELS.

It Would Seem That These Insects Keep Guard Over the Nests.

Is a hornet's nest guarded by sentinels, after the manner of ant hills? It is not so easy to decide, for their private habits do not invite familiar approach. But some experiments seemed to point that way. No noises, however near or strident, had the least effect upon the workers. Blow on divers instruments as loudly and shrilly as I would, they poured in and out of the gate or labored on the walls, intent wholly upon their own affairs. But at the slightest ray upon the window or shutter, out flew a bevy of irate insects and flung themselves against the wire window screen with an angry "bump" that showed how good was their intention at least to defend their home. It was always so. A squad of workers, free and ready for aggressive duty, seemed to be lurking near the gate, prompt to rally forth upon alarm. Even at night a few kept near by, and, although their port had lost its vivid swing and they moved about with sluggish pace, like sleepy watchmen as doubtless they were, they left upon the observer the impression that they were on sentinel service, in which the community was never lacking.—Dr. H. C. McCook in Harper's Magazine.

Repertoire of the Shop.

"I never was so insulted in my life!" said the girl with the brown eyes indignantly.

"Explain further," was the request.
"Why, you know Fido chewed up the muff to that set of gray fur of mine, and so I went into a shop today to see if I could find a muff that would replace it. I told the clerk what I wanted. He couldn't find anything that would suit, so he called another clerk. This one hunted high and low, he dragged out muffs till they heaped the counter, but he couldn't find one that would match. Finally he called the proprietor, a fat, stuffy man, who came waddling down the aisle and said, 'What is the trouble?'"

"I can't make a match," I said almost tearfully.

"What's that funny," he said in a hatefully patronizing manner. "What's the matter with the men?"—New York Press.

Michelangelo.

Michelangelo stood in the front rank both as painter and sculptor. In both arts he was worthy of the highest praise. The fresco of the "Last Judgment" in the Sistine chapel is considered the most wonderful picture in the world, showing the omnipotence of artistic science and the fiery daring of conception that but few other painters can even approximate. In sculpture the "Moses" and the "Slaves," not to mention other pieces, rang among the finest creations of the art and proclaimed Michelangelo to have been as masterful with his chisel as he was with his brush.—New York American.

Six-Cent Fare
Is Advocated

The following abstract of address by President P. F. Sullivan of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railway Companies before the meeting of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association at Young's Hotel, Feb. 12, subject, "Street Railway Conditions with Reference to rates of fare in Massachusetts," will be of interest:

"The report of the Board of Railroad Commissioners to the legislature for the year ending Sept. 30, 1907, shows that 82 companies reported. Of this number, three companies were under construction, 17 were leased; of the leased companies four paid no dividends and two showed a deficit. Of the 62 operating companies 16 paid dividends of 4 percent or over, six paid dividends of less than 4 percent, 20 showed some profit and paid no dividends and 20 showed a deficit. They operated 2855 miles of single track, their gross income from operation was $30,552,400, or $10,701 per track mile; their total investment, including premiums on stock and other obligations was $160,104,000, or a ratio of investment to income of 5.24 to 1. In other words, for each dollar of income the investment was $5.24. They paid in dividends $3,793,618, $1,328 per track mile, or only 4.71 percent on the capital stock and premiums."

President Sullivan said that it was natural, in view of the diverse showings of the companies of the state, while the unit of fare is substantially the same in each case, to ask why this is so. Some say the companies are watered, others state the results are due to higher costs of labor and materials. No sensible person with a knowledge of the subject can make the former statement in view of the careful supervision of the state board of railroad commissioners and the fact that the companies received $6,937,879 in premiums upon their capital stock. If the 20 companies which showed a deficit last year had no capital stock the results would not be altered. As to higher costs, the companies which made the best showing had the highest maintenance expenses. He then went on to state the causes in answer to this inquiry.

"There are three classes of expenses which must be met by street railway companies before they arrive at net divisible income, or profit, viz.—interest, taxes and operating expenses. The speaker divided the companies into three classes: Class 1, the Boston Elevated Company; Class 2, the 15 companies which paid dividends of 4 percent or over; Class 3, the remaining 46 operating companies, including the leased companies. He emphasized the importance of considering closely the ratio of capital to income.

"In the companies in class 3, I have shown you that the interest charge per passenger is 9.63 mills, or nearly 20 percent of the income; in the 20 companies of this class which show a deficit and have an average income of $3.670 per track mile, the interest charge is 27 percent of the income, or 13.5 mills per passenger. "What is the remedy? It is not for the interest of either the public or the investor that this condition should continue. It cannot continue indefinitely. The 20 companies which showed a deficit last year were $119,200 short of earning their interest, or, putting it another way, they lost five mills on every passenger carried.

"This brings us to the question of fares. In the whole history of investment there cannot be found a more unbusinesslike, more unscientific, more illogical practise than at 5-cent unit used for street railway fares. It has neither argument, equity, nor any business reason in its favor, and nothing can be offered in its favor, except that it is a convenient coin which was used for street railway transportation under conditions which no longer exist. While the best street railway practise at present is conducted upon scientific lines, its very life-blood, its income, is based upon false principles.

"When the 6-cent fare was abandoned by local street railways, a 5-cent fare was substituted and it was a reasonable rate then, as the investment in street railways was low.

NOTABLE FUNERAL

Hundreds Attend The Funeral of Roger H. Wilde Flowers Fill Room

The last chapter in the life of Roger H. Wilde was ended with the funeral service Friday afternoon, and although his book of life has closed the memory of that life will long live in the hearts of his neighbors as well as in the hearts of friends almost without number.

Never was there more of an outpouring of sympathy than expressed at the funeral Friday afternoon, when citizens from all parts of the city as well as from neighboring cities and towns gathered at his late home to show by their presence that they had lost a personal friend.

Many were the eyes that were dimmed with tears as they filed slowly by the casket and for the last time looked upon the face of their friend who but a few days ago was so full of life and vigor.

Business in general was suspended in Atlantic, all of the stores closing during the hour of the services.

In that vast throng gathered within the house were very many of the present and past city officials as well as many of those associated with Mr. Wilde while he was in the City Council.

There were those also who had been associated with him in fraternal organizations, in business, and on the ward and city committee with whom he had labored so long.

Many and beautiful were the flowers sent by loving friends. The room in which the casket was placed was full of these tributes as was also the hall leading to it.

Every available space in the home upstairs as well as the street floor was occupied by friends and at 2 o'clock the hour of the services it seemed as if the whole of Atlantic was there.

The services were brief and were

A BELOVED FIRE CHIEF

Never "Sent" but Always "Led"
His Men Where Danger Lay

"NOT BORN TO BE KILLED"

Prophecy Proved Untrue, For "Big-Hearted Charley" Kruger, Who Had Never Known Physical Fear, Meets Death by Accident

New York, Feb. 15.—"Big-Hearted Charley," best beloved of New York's fire fighters, met yesterday the death he had defied for thirty-six years.

From the day in 1872, when a lad of 20 years, he entered the department, Deputy Fire Chief Charles W. Kruger had never known physical fear. To his mates he seemed to bear a charmed life. Something of this feeling may have possessed the deputy, for when the uniform was removed from the flustered body a newspaper clipping fluttered from a pocket that had covered his heart. The clipping told of a seemingly miraculous escape from death in early boyhood and the story bore the headline: "This boy wasn't born to be killed."

It was a common remark that Kruger never "sent," but always "led," and when his cheery call, "come on, boys," rang out for the last time a dozen men were at his heels. The situation was desperate. The buildings at 215 and 217 Canal street were in flames and the whole block was threatened. Chief Croker had refused to order his men into the buildings, but had consented to Kruger's venture.

"Chief, there's no hope of getting into the basement of 217," the grizzled deputy had said. "Our only chance is to go down into the cellar of 215 and cut a hole through the separating walls. Come on, boys."

Into the cellar, filled with water, smoke and overwhelming fumes from melted gas pipes, the men threw themselves. Groping in advance, Kruger stumbled through a trap door and presently was floundering helplessly in six feet of water. Unable to see, the other men heard a splash and then a cry: "Save me, Andy." "Andy" had driven his chief to his first fire and shadowed him into every succeeding danger. Ten minutes later the unconscious form of "Big-Hearted Charley" was stretched on the pavement, and Chief Croker, on his knees beside it, begged the department surgeons: "For God's sake, do something."

Resort was had to every expedient, but before his last fire had burned itself out the soot-grimed fighter was dead. Rising to his feet, Croker slipped his coat from his back and, spreading it over the face of his deputy, clambered into his big red machine and drove away.

Serious Fire in Courthouse

New York, Feb. 15.—Damage amounting to probably $75,000 was done, fourteen oil paintings of judges who have presided in Brooklyn in the last half century were water-soaked, and valuable records narrowly escaped destruction late yesterday by fire in one end of the Kings county courthouse in Brooklyn. The actual damage by fire was confined to the roof, attic and two courtrooms on the second floor, but before the firemen had checked the flames the entire extension was deluged. Defective insulation is blamed for the fire.

Our Troops Needed in Cuba

Havana, Feb. 15.—La Discusion, referring to rumors of the intention of the United States to continue the military occupation of Cuba after the re-establishment of the republic, argues strongly for the retention of American troops. Such a course, the paper declares, is essential to the maintenance of public confidence and the stability of a new government until it shall acquire the strength to maintain itself unaided.

Trade Reports Irregular

New York, Feb. 15.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that industrial plants steadily decrease the percentage of idle machinery, especially in the steel business, which increases the size of payrolls, and by raising the purchasing power of the wage earner improves retail trade. Reports are still irregular, some sections of the country recovering much more rapidly than others.

Did Not Prove to Be "Funny"

Bellevue, S. D., Feb. 15.—"Just for fun" Charles Lavezz, employed on the government irrigation project near here, threw a dynamite cap into a bonfire around which were seated six men. The explosion set off 125 sticks of dynamite which were being thawed nearby, instantly killing one man and injuring all of the others, including Lavezz, who may lose both sight and hearing.

School children Blown Up

Adrian, Mo., Feb. 15.—An explosion of a boiler in the basement of the public school here tore away the floor of the primary department and precipitated sixty pupils into the basement, burning and scalding many of them frightfully. The teacher and half of the pupils sustained severe injuries. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Rumor of Shah's Assassination

Vienna, Feb. 15.—A report is in circulation here that the Shah of Persia has been assassinated. No confirmation of the report is obtainable in any quarter.

A UNIT FOR BRYAN

Wisconsin Democrats Think Him Our Greatest Living Statesman
Milwaukee, Feb. 15.—The Wisconsin delegation to the national Democratic convention at Denver was instructed at the closing session of the state convention to vote as a unit for William J. Bryan as the Democratic nominee for president, first, last and all the time. The platform containing the instructions was unanimously adopted by the convention by a rising vote. The delegates-at-large to attend the national convention are Charles H. Weiss, Herbert H. Manson, John A. Aylward and Melvin A. Hoyt.

In the contest for delegates-at-large, somewhat of a sensation was caused by Daniel Grady, who, after the nominations had been closed, rose to a question of personal privilege. Grady charged Aylward with not always being a Bryan Democrat. Aylward replied that he was now and always had been a good Bryan Democrat, and was with him for the present and all time. The ballot on the question which followed resulted: Aylward, 391; Grady, 153.

The platform reaffirms allegiance to the time-honored principles of Jeffersonian Democracy, declares hostility to the Republican national administration, charges the Republican party with appalling abuses and eulogizes Bryan as the greatest living American statesman.

Roosevelt Sentiment in Nebraska
Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15.—The Republican county convention last night adopted a resolution declaring for Theodore Roosevelt for president and instructing its delegates to the state convention to work to that end. The two men endorsed for delegates-at-large and district delegate to the national convention were instructed to support Roosevelt, and in turn pledged themselves, if chosen, to vote for him first, last and all the time.

Hughes Won't Select Delegates
Albany, Feb. 15.—Although Governor Hughes declines to discuss the probable selection of the four delegates-at-large from this state to the Republican national convention, it is known that he informed State Chairman Woodruff that he had no present intention of indicating his choice for the delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention.

La Follette Men Organize
Janesville, Wis., Feb. 15.—La Follette Republicans from the entire First congressional district held a meeting here to organize the district for La Follette delegates to the national convention. The meeting was secret.

Rumor of Morse's Escape
New York, Feb. 15.—An apparently well-founded report was received here that when the steamship Etruria arrives in New York Sunday it will be found that Charles W. Morse is not on board, having secretly deserted the vessel when she put in at Queenstown from Liverpool to take on more passengers and mail. "I have nothing to say," was the only reply that United States District Attorney Stimson would give when asked about the report. This answer and Stimson's refusal to deny it lent color to the report.

Witness Declined to Answer
Albany, Feb. 15.—The taking of testimony in the action of the United States government to dissolve the Standard Oil company of New Jersey was concluded here yesterday afternoon. Samuel F. Gibbons, formerly connected with an Albany private detective agency, declined to answer questions put to him by the government attorneys unless directed to do so by a judge having jurisdiction. His refusal to answer was satisfactory to the government attorneys and he was excused.

Cadets Told to Keep Mouths Shut
West Point, N. Y., Feb. 15.—With plain words of advice as to their future duties—the advantages and hardships of an army career—Secretary of War Taft presented diplomas to the 108 members of the graduating class of the United States military academy. The secretary impressed upon the young men that the military service must ever be subordinate to the civil government, and that it is the soldier's duty to "keep his mouth shut and obey orders."

Of Benefit to Depositors
New York, Feb. 15.—The United States Mortgage and Trust company, it is stated, will take over the assets of the suspended Oriental bank in the near future, and proceed to liquidate the bank. This plan means that all Oriental depositors who so desire will be paid at once. The deposits of the Oriental amounted to $4,465,537.35 when the bank suspended.

SPELLING NAMES.

There Was No Doubt About "Hannah"
When the English Lady Finished.

A bygone generation witnessed an acrimonious controversy in the Irish family of O'Connor in County Roscommon as to the right of any branch of the ancient race to spell the name thus—with one "n." That right, it was maintained, was held only by the O'Connor Don as head of the house. So prolonged was the contest between the partisans of the O'Connor and O'Connor titles that it was called the "N-less" (standing for "endless") correspondence. Finally the question was referred to Sir J. Bernard Burke, the Ulster king of arms. His decision coincided with a decision in a certain other matter—namely, that much might be said on either side. The two disputing families had a common origin, a king of Connaught, and could with propriety spell the name one way or the other. Fortified by this "award," the two families have continued to spell their name with one "n" up to the present hour.

Equally firm on the question as to how his name should be spelled was the witness in a case tried in the king's bench a few years ago. Asked his name, his prompt reply was "John 'Awkins." "Do you," queried counsel, "spell your name with or without an 'H'?" The emphatic answer was, "J-o-h-n." As a rule, however, as we have said, variety in the spelling of the names of people, as in that of the names of places, owes its origin to people not being so clear as was our friend regarding how a name should be spelled.

Two stories in illustration of this occur to us. In the first Mrs. Quiverful was having christened her latest baby. The old minister was a little deaf. "What name did you say?" he queried. "I said," replied the mother, with some asperity, "Hannah." "Do you," said the other, "mean Anna or Hannah?" "Look 'ere," exclaimed the now thoroughly exasperated lady, "I won't be hexamined in this way. I mean 'Haich-hay-hen-hen-hay-haich'—Hannah!"

The second incident to which we refer is this. Here also there was "a lady in the case." She was on an errand, and she had to deal with the name of another party. In brief, she had bought a pair of sleeve links for her fiance when the shopman asked, "Any initials, miss?" The rest may be stated thus:

She—Oh, yes; I forgot. Engrave a "U" upon them for his first name.

Shopman—Pardon me, is it Uriah or Ulysses? Names with "U" are rare, you know.

She (proudly)—His name is Eugene.—London Globe.

"MOLL PITCHER."

History of the Famous Heroine of the Revolution.

"Moll Pitcher" was the daughter of a Pennsylvania German family living in the vicinity of Carlisle. She was born in 1748, and her name was Mary Ludwig, a pure German name. She was married to one John Casper Hayes, a barber, who when the war broke out with the mother country enlisted in the First Pennsylvania artillery and was afterward transferred to the Seventh Pennsylvania infantry, commanded by Colonel William Irvine of Carlisle, with whose family Mary Ludwig had lived at service. She was permitted to accompany her husband's regiment, serving the battery as cook and laundress, and when at the battle of Monmouth (Freehold), N. J., her husband was wounded at his gun she sprang forward, seized the rammer and took his place to the end of the battle. After the battle she carried water to the wounded, and hence her pet name of "Moll Pitcher."

Hayes died after the war was over, and she married a second husband of the name of McCauley, and at her grave in the old cemetery at Carlisle there is a monument that bears this inscription:

Molly McCauley,
Renowned in History as "Moll Pitcher," the Heroine of Monmouth; Died January, 1832.
Erected by the Citizens of Cumberland County, July 4, 1876.

On Washington's birthday, 1822, when Molly was nearly seventy years old, the legislature of Pennsylvania voted her a gift of $40 and a pension of $40 per year.

An Auditive Illusion.
"What town is that a few miles to the north?" shouted the aeronaut, leaning over the edge of the basket.

"Oshkosh!" yelled the agriculturist over whose farm the balloon was passing.

"What?"

"Oshkosh!"

"What did he say?" asked the aeronaut's companion.

"He didn't say anything. He swore at me."—Chicago Tribune.

Tolerance.

George Elliot was once asked what was the chief lesson she had learned in life's experience, and her prompt answer was, "Tolerance." It might have been expected from a woman who once said that she regarded life as a game of cards in which she watched each move with the deepest interest and turned as far as possible to her own advantage.

Common Factors.

Schoolmaster—Now, can any of you tell me whether there is a connecting link between the animal and vegetable kingdoms? Small Boy—Yes, sir, please; there's hash!—London Opinion.

RILEY'S FIRST HIT.

Wrote a Poem "by Poe" and Panned It on the Public.

James Whitcomb Riley began his career in a newspaper office in Anderson, Ind., by writing humorous rhymes as "advertising locals"—"doggerel," he called them. At the same time he wrote many rhymes with the serious intention of having them, if possible, recognized as poems. But he could not get them published. Even compositions whose worth he had tested—those that "would please people when I'd stand up and read 'em to them"—would be returned promptly by every magazine to which he offered them for publication. The Hoosier dialect was too "low down" for the average magazine editor.

Finally in a freak of boyish indignation, to prove that what editors really wanted was not originality, but imitation, he devised the scheme of writing a poem in imitation of Poe and of palming it off on the public as a real poem of Poe's recently discovered. The scheme was very skillfully planned and very deftly executed and successful beyond anything the clever deceiver of it had ever dreamed. From one end of the country to the other "Leonard" was hailed as a veritable "find," a bit of genius' most genuine ore. Riley had his revenge. He had some trouble, however, in proving that he was not an intentional forger.

He lost his newspaper position, but he immediately got another and better one on the Indianapolis Journal. "Come and get pay for your work," said Judge Martindale, the editor. The turn in the tide had come.

A BORN SOLDIER.

Major General Stuart, the Dashing Cavalry Leader.

Major General J. E. B. Stuart of the Confederate cavalry was a soldier by nature. Dashing and daring, cool in the face of danger, he was one of the brave and picturesque figures of the civil war. H. B. McCallan quotes in "Life and Campaigns of Major General Stuart" from General Fitz-Hugh Lee's impression of the future cavalry leader while he was still at West Point:

"I recall his distinguishing characteristics, which were strict attention to military duty; erect, soldierly bearing; immediate and almost thankful acceptance of a challenge to fight from any cadet who might feel himself in any way aggrieved and a clear, ringing voice."

Stuart was a most cheerful soldier. That "clear" voice of his was often used in singing his favorite war songs:

If you want to have a good time,
Join the cavalry.

His courageous attitude was held until the very end. He was wounded by a pistol on the battlefield. As he was being carried away he noticed the disorganized ranks of his retreating men.

"Go back!" he called out. "Go back! Do your duty as I have done mine! Go back! I'd rather die than be whipped!"

Those were his last words on the field of battle. Later he said, with the same courage:

"I'm going fast now. God's will be done."

Bungle's Bad Break.

Mr. Bungle always takes a deep and sympathetic interest in the welfare of his fellow man. While out for a stroll one day he met a friend, who seemed in a great hurry.

"Hold on, Jones," said Bungle, grabbing his friend's arm. "Why this rush?" "Bungle," said Jones, removing his hat and wiping his brow, "I'm hot-footing it to a specialist. I believe my brain is affected."

Mr. Bungle, to allay the fears of his friend and show the customary commiseration, said jovially:

"Pshaw, Jones, you shouldn't worry about such a little thing as that!"

"What?"

"I mean you shouldn't let such a little thing as your brain—that is, Mr. Jones, you shouldn't get so excited over nothing—of course—ah, good day, Mr. Jones!"—Bohemian.

Teaching the Drummer.

It was the custom in the days of our old navy for the men to bring to the mast all the worn-out articles which were to be inspected, handed in and exchanged for new. The drummer had applied for so many drum heads that the commodore felt sure he was being imposed upon and one day set himself to watch while the band was playing. As one rattling martial air followed another his anger increased perceptibly until he burst forth in uncontrollable rage:

"There, now, confound you! I see why you use so many drum heads. Don't drum in the middle of it all the time. Drum all over that drum, I tell you!"

Plants That Hate One Another.

Fancy two plants being so unfriendly that the mere neighborhood of one is death to the other. Yet this is the case with two well known English plants. These are the thistle and the rape. If a field is infested with thistles which come up year after year and ruin the crops, all you have to do is to sow it with rape. The thistle will be absolutely annihilated.

The Judge's Advantage.

"There is one advantage which a judge always has in his profession."

"What is that?"

"Whether he succeeds in a given case or not, he can always try it."—Kansas City Independent.

Many a man too late remembers that the unspoken word never starts a quarrel.—Washington Star.

HIS MISERY AND TRIUMPHS.

The Things That Other Boys Had and He Wanted and Couldn't Get—A Fat Man's Memory Deeply Stirred by a Pair of Sleeve Protectors.

"The other day at a poultry market I saw a chicken butcher wearing a pair of those basket sleeve protectors, and I stood and laughed like a fool," said the fat man. "First time I'd seen a pair of basket sleeve protectors for years, and so I just had to laugh. Tell you why. When I was a tike I used to look with wonder and awe upon a fellow who wore a pair of basket sleeve protectors. I considered that fellow with a pair of those things was all right, all right, plus some more."

"They had a kind of jaunty air about 'em that I couldn't and can't define, but it was there, and I revered and revered 'em. I made up my mind that if I ever grew up and got the price, me, too, for a pair of those basket sleeve protectors, no matter what sort of work I'd happen to tackle."

"Queer dickens, boys, eh?" "Memorize those patent pencil attachments that marketmen used to have—may have 'em yet—hitched to their aprons? Well, I thought those were pretty nifty things, too, and I used to secretly hanker to own one of 'em. Made up my mind that I would own one of 'em, too, when I got to be a man, but somehow I never seemed to want one when I reached the shaving age."

"Guess some of my ambitions as a boy were pretty crazy anyhow. I was so jealous of the first boy I ever met that could spit through his teeth at a mark and hit it that I hated him. That same boy pretty early in life got a job driving a delivery wagon for a grocery. Well, pretty soon after he got that job he was wearing a pair of those patent elastic sleeve supporters, or holders, or whatever you'd call 'em—things with a clutched at either end that pulled the cuff back from the wrist. This boy's pair of those things were pink elastic, and how he used to flaunt 'em before my eyes!"

"He knew blamed well that those pink elastic sleeve supporters looked finer to me than any Star of India or Victoria Cross could possibly look, and he knew besides that because I had to go to school and wasn't earning anything there wasn't a possible chance on earth for me to get a pair like 'em—and so he just held 'em over me and made my life miserable. Yet when I got to the wage earning age I never seemed to care at all for a pair of pink elastic sleeve supporters."

"Another boy that I hated had a maroon colored cardigan jacket. That was before the day of sweaters. This hated boy wore the cardigan jacket beneath his regular outer coat and so he didn't have to wear any overcoat. That, I considered, was a gorgeous blessing—not to have to wear an overcoat to school. I despised this boy for having it on me that way. Anyhow, his maroon colored cardigan jacket had a couple of pockets in front that he kept full of all kinds of junk—sometimes he even carried mice to school in 'em. And that made my indignation all the greater—the fact that he had those two fine covered up pockets to his cardigan jacket."

"One great triumph did come to my life, though, and that was the fact that I was the first boy of my school to own a pair of copper toed boots. Well, I sprang the first pair, as I say, at my school, and I guess I didn't break the hearts of all the other boys or nothin'. Besides the copper toes, these boots had red tops, with a silver star and crescent stamped on the red tops, and that made the blow all the more frightful to the other lads that had to see me strolling around in 'em. After awhile, though, nearly all of the other youngsters showed up with copper toed boots and thus took the wind out of my sails."

"We never see boys wearing peaked caps any more—notice? I don't mean these dinky little cloth caps with peaks to 'em, but regular soldiers' caps with glazed peaks. First boy that turned up in our neighborhood with one of those things on made a sensation, all right. This same boy had got hold of a carpenter's pencil somewhere, and held stick that carpenter's pencil underneath his forage cap, with the sharpened end projecting in a mighty blase way that certainly caused us to regard him as some punkin. I was always crazy for a carpenter's pencil when I was a boy, but I never got hold of one—never did have much luck when I was a boy anyhow. My folks were too blamed respectable."

"As a matter of fact—you can believe it or not, but I'm telling you the truth—they wouldn't let me at the age of ten apply for the job of brakeman on a passenger train. That, I thought, was the finest job in the world—brakeman on a passenger train—just swinging a red lantern all the time, and wearing a peaked cap mostly on the left ear, and the peak pushed back so as to show an oiled bang plastered down, and sitting on a wood box in the smoker talking to fellers, and carrying a pair of red flags around everywhere, and all that. But the main appeal of the brakeman's job was the pair of red lanterns."

"Oh, well, that pair of basket sleeve protectors that I saw at the poultry market the other day certainly carried me back a long way, and I was still laughing like a fool when I strolled away."—Charleston News and Courier.

WAR ON EXPRESS RATES

Sensations May Be Sprung When a Formal Hearing Begins

Boston, Feb. 15.—War against the American and National Express companies has been begun before the railroad commissioners by James F. Jackson, formerly chairman of the board, but now representing the Boston Merchants' association, the Chamber of Commerce and the New England Shoe and Leather association, which claim that the rates established by the companies are excessive and unfair.

It is Jackson's first appearance in public since he quit the board, and he is said to have a few sensations to spring upon his old colleagues when the hearing begins.

Jackson says that there is no statute which compels express companies to make returns of their earnings and expenses, such as the railroad companies now do. He proposes to file certain questions regarding the character of the companies, the capital invested, the manner in which the business is conducted and the receipts and expenditures.

Former Excise Men Stay Out

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—John W. McEvoy and Joseph Jennings, former members of the police board of the city of Lowell, lost their appeal to the superior court from the order of Mayor Farnham removing them from office. Judge Fox upholding the action of the mayor. The judge said that there was abundant evidence to justify the mayor's finding that there had been much laxity in the enforcement of the license laws for which the petitioners were responsible.

Yale Men "Nominate" Taft

New Haven, Feb. 15.—At a mock Republican national convention at the Yale law school last night, W. H. Taft was nominated for president of the United States and Governor Cummins of Iowa for vice president. Taft was chosen on the second ballot by a total of 688 votes against 225 for Governor Hughes. Taft received 382 votes in the first ballot, but the rule of a two-thirds majority was in force and another ballot was necessary.

Fire Destroys Schoolhouse

Fitchburg, Mass., Feb. 15.—Fire destroyed the Goodrich school this morning, causing a loss of $9500. The fire is believed to have started in the first or second story, but the cause is unknown. The building was a mass of flames when the department arrived and only the walls are left standing. Three hundred and fifty pupils attended the school.

Killed in Brother's Presence

Salem, Mass., Feb. 15.—Julius Power, aged 33, and his brother were walking along the railroad track toward their home last night. The night was foggy and neither man knew of the approach of a train until it was close upon them. Julius Power was struck and killed, but his brother jumped to one side and escaped injury.

Carriage Wrecked by Car

Providence, Feb. 15.—An electric car struck and demolished a carriage here last evening in which were seated the wife and 12-year-old daughter of J. A. Potter. Mrs. Potter sustained severe bodily injuries. Her daughter was badly bruised. Otis J. Scott, the coachman, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Postmaster Under the Knife

Boston, Feb. 15.—Edward C. Mansfield, postmaster of Boston, yesterday successfully passed through an operation for appendicitis at a private hospital. He is reported to be resting comfortably. He will probably be absent from his duties at the federal building for several weeks.

Had Thirty-Two Wives

London, Feb. 15.—George A. Witzhoff, the New York bigamist sentenced in Bristol to seven years imprisonment, under the name of Arthur Hyne, for bigamy and fraud, yesterday made a full confession, embracing all the astounding facts of his career, acknowledging that he had thirty-two wives and thirty aliases. It was in New York that he chiefly practiced his wholesale bigamy, robbing each of his dupes after marrying her as quickly as he could get his fingers on her money.

Recovering From Financial Flurry

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—The records of Collector Hill of the port of Philadelphia for the month of January show an increase of $1,000,000 over those of the same month last year, indicating a revival of business. After the financial flurry business fell from an average of $100,000 a day to as low as $20,000, while the average has now reached $80,000.

Suffragettes Go to Jail

London, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Parkhurst, leader of the woman suffragists, and the other delegates of the organization who were arrested when they attempted to make a demonstration in the house of commons, all went to jail yesterday for a term of six weeks rather than give surrenders for their good behavior.

Seamer Ignored Burning Schooner

San Juan, P. R., Feb. 15.—Passengers arriving here from New York on steamer Coamo report that at 4 a. m. Feb. 11 the Coamo passed a four-masted schooner on fire. The steamer, according to the passengers, did not stop to ascertain if assistance was required.

Cyclist Hurt by Prince's Auto

Berlin, Feb. 15.—Prince Elit Friederich, while motoring down and seriously injured a cyclist, who suffered broken limbs and concussion of the brain. The prince took the injured man in the motor car to a hospital.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Miss Caroline Drewitt had come back to her settlement work in the fall with a determination to inspire the surrounding neighborhood with ideas that should lift them above the level of the commonplace.

"Last year I tried it with pictures and flower study," she told the Rev. Donald McGregor, "and I can't say it was a success. But this year I am going to try music."

The Rev. Donald peered at her with kindly eyes through his nose glasses. He was a tall, spare, sandy haired man, a power in the pulpit, a friend of the people and a firm believer in Miss Caroline Drewitt.

"I am sure it would be a great incentive," he said. "It makes an appeal to the Italians and the Germans, though differently. But how will you arrange it?"

"Gloria has promised to sing every Wednesday night," Miss Caroline told him, "and Harold Cartwright on Fridays. Gloria will give the Germans Wagner and Harold will give the Italians Verdi, and now and then we will mix the two and have a grand concert."

McGregor nodded. "It is a great idea," he said, "and you can supplement it with children's classes."

"Yes," Miss Caroline planned. "I shall conduct those myself. I can't sing, but I know the theory. I sometimes wish I had more showy talents to impress my people with, but I must make the best of my practical accomplishments."

"I am sure we could not wish you other than you are," was the Rev. Donald's tribute, and Miss Drewitt blushed prettily and went away with a buoyancy of carriage that made her seem almost youthful.

"He's such a help," she told Gloria that night, "in my work."

Gloria, brushing her masses of red gold hair, yawned a little. "I don't see why you bother yourself with a lot of people who don't care to be uplifted, Aunt Caro," she said. "With your money you might be seeing Europe and making a break into society."

"Society palled many years ago, my dear," said Miss Caroline, "and some of my people love me, which is a great deal."

"Everybody loves you," Gloria said impulsively as she leaned over her aunt and kissed her, "and I am even beginning to believe that the Rev. Donald is smitten."

"Gloria!" Miss Caroline's eyes blazed. "Don't say such a thing again. To speak of him that way, as if he were an ordinary man."

"Well, extraordinary men fall in love sometimes," said Gloria wisely. "They are all alike when it comes to love."

"Dr. McGregor, if he ever marries," said humble Miss Caroline, "will choose a woman of talents and beauty—such a woman as you will be some day, Gloria."

Gloria threw up her hands. "Me!" she gasped. "Why, I am going to sing—and the man I love must sing, and we are going to sail away on a sea of romance. I don't like dark alleys and tenements."

Then as she saw the look on her aunt's face she went on, "But he is good enough for anybody, Aunt Caro, and I like him immensely."

"And he likes you," said Miss Caroline. It was this conversation, combined with Miss Caroline's insistent spirit of self sacrifice, that set the little lady a-scheming. Of all women in the world, she loved Gloria best. Unacknowledged, but coloring her whole life, was her love for the Rev. Donald McGregor. And what more fitting than that she should bring these two together in a happy union? Gloria would give the minister the brightness that belonged in his life, and he in turn would wear Gloria from the selfishness of her point of view and would uplift her with himself.

And so it happened that every Wednesday night the Rev. Donald McGregor found himself asked to meet with Miss Caroline's social club, and later he walked home with Miss Caroline and Gloria.

It was during these evenings that Miss Caroline suffered the pangs of martyrdom as her niece with wonderful beauty and art held the little crowd of downtrodden humanity spellbound. The Rev. Mr. McGregor seemed spell-bound with the rest, and now that which she craved she felt that the sacrifice was too great. If the minister loved Gloria, he would soon cease to be her friend. And how could she live without the support of that friend ship?

The little woman grew pale and quiet, and turning more and more to the humble people about her, was drawn into their lives, so that she became mother confessor to more than one who in sickness or in health leaned on her wisdom, her common sense, her sympathy.

"You are a wonder," the Rev. Donald told her one morning as she asked his advice with regard to a pair of Italian lovers.

"Tessa's parents want her to marry a richer man," she said, "but I am going to see that she marries Rafael. They love each other, and that is enough."

"Yes," the minister agreed absently, "that is enough."

His preoccupation seemed to separate him finally from Miss Caroline. "I—I am going now," she said hastily. "I shall expect you Friday night. Harold Cartwright will be there—and—Gloria and all of our Germans and Italians. I want you to make a little address."

"What are you going to do?" he asked her suddenly.

"I?" Miss Caroline stared. "Oh, I shall sit in the audience and applaud." "You won't do anything of the kind," he said, with decision. "You are going to precede my speech with a little talk about the children and the children's music. No one can do it as you can."

"Oh!" Miss Caroline's face was lighted. "Do you think I could? I love the children and the music, and I should like the parents to know why I am doing it."

"Then tell them," said the Rev. Donald McGregor, with finality.

And so it happened that when Gloria Campbell, a vision of beauty in her white satin gown, swept into the dingy hall she was met by her Aunt Caro in filmy gray and violets.

"How stunning you look!" Gloria said, holding the little woman off at arm's length. "Where did you get your violets?"

"Mr. McGregor sent them," Miss Caroline stated nervously. "I am afraid they were meant for you, my dear. He knows how you love violets."

Gloria laughed.

"If he meant them for me, why didn't he send them to me?" she demanded.

"I thought he might feel timid," Miss Caroline stammered.

"Timid?" Gloria stared. "Why, he hasn't a timid bone in his body, Aunt Caro."

"I know," Miss Caroline agreed, "but I am sure it is a mistake." "Harold sent me these American Beauties," Gloria explained. "They don't go with my hair a bit, but I am awfully fond of them, and he knows it."

Gloria sang that night like a siren, and in the duets she and Harold Cartwright seemed to rise above reality and to live in a world of love and song.

"Gloria is a lovely woman," Miss Caroline whispered to the minister in a last act of self effacement. "She may seem frivolous, but she would make a perfect wife for a serious man."

"No doubt, no doubt," McGregor agreed. "But Harold doesn't seem serious."

"Harold?"

"They are in love with each other," the minister said quietly. "Any one can see it."

Miss Caroline stole a quick glance at him and was met by a serenity that sent all of her theories flying. Surely he was hurt—surely he had cared for Gloria.

But even as she questioned the duet ended, and it was time for her little speech.

Standing very quietly in front of that motley audience, she told them why she was trying to bring music into their lives. There was always happiness in a song, and even if one were in deep trouble there were hymns for comforting. Life might be made easier if one would crawl along the way, easier for oneself and for the brother who had not learned to sing. She was teaching lullabies to the little girls and songs of patriotism to the little boys, so that love of home and of country might be implanted in their hearts.

And when she had finished her little talk and come down the aisle, a quiet figure in her gray gown, love for her shone in patient eyes and despairing her shone in vacant eyes and hands were outstretched to touch her.

The minister, hearing a broken Italian murmur in front of him, translated to Miss Caroline as she took her seat beside him. "They say you have a voice of gold."

"They mean Gloria!"

"No, it is you. You do not need the voice of song for you to speak with the voice of love, and they love you."

With excitement, she said, with quivering lips, "I need their love!"

"Something in her voice made him ask quickly, 'Why?'"

"I am all alone!"

"But I love you," he said. "I thought you knew. But I am a plain man. I scarcely dared to speak of it."

Her face was illumined.

"Think of the work we can do together," was all the outlet she allowed herself.

But the lover in him shone for a moment in his strong face. "Think of the nest we shall build together," he murmured, and then he went to make his speech, while quiet Miss Caroline in the midst of that listening audience gloried in his eloquence and hugged her happiness to her heart.

Superstitions of Thieves. The pickpocket is superstitious. He will rarely rob a person who squints, this being accounted a certain sign of disaster, and if it happens that the purse he steals contains foreign money it is believed to augur that he will travel a good deal in the immediate future, but whether in the company of a couple of police officers or not there is nothing to show.

Weddings and funerals are significant events for the professional thief. To pick a pocket at a funeral would be to court immediate disaster, but many of them think if a purse stolen at a wedding contains gold it portends the ensuing six months.

Some pickpockets have a favorite pair of boots that they wear as long as they can keep them on their feet, and if they are not arrested while they are wearing them they cut the boots up into little square pieces and give them away as "lucky tokens" to their friends.—London Chronicle.

PUBLISHERS ENTERTAINED.

Colonel Sidney O. Bigney, of Attleboro, on Monday, entertained the members of the Massachusetts Press association and their ladies at Attleboro, and proved a most delightful host, the day being one of the pleasantest ever spent by the association members. The monthly meeting also fell the same day and taking everything into consideration, it proved a busy day, not only for the colonel, but for the members of the press association as well. About 100 were present. The party gathered at the South station, where they boarded a special car attached to the 10.40 A. M. Attleboro express. The special car was provided by the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., and the members of the association greatly appreciated the courtesy. After an hour's ride, the train arrived at Attleboro, where the genial colonel was waiting and as the members and their ladies alighted from the train he met each one, cordially shaking hands with them.

The party journeyed to the large jewelry plant of S. O. Bigney & Co., where for some time Colonel Bigney and his assistants devoted their time in explaining the various branches of jewelry manufacture to those present. After everyone had satisfied himself in seeing the work of manufacture, Colonel Bigney led all into the store room, where he presented each person with a gift of his own manufacture, the selection being made from nearly 100 different articles, including watch chains, fobs, neck chains, chatelaines, bracelets, etc. This delightful little surprise was pleasantly received by all and greatly appreciated, after which Colonel Bigney invited the entire assemblage to lunch at his beautiful home but a short distance away. The entire house was thrown open to the guests from top to bottom, and during the stay there the monthly meeting of the association was held in the spacious billiard room on the top floor. Two new members were received, Frank H. Palmer, of "Education," and W. N. Bartholomew, of the Wareham Courier. After the meeting an excellent lunch was served, during which time Colonel Bigney was among his guests, seeking to add to their pleasure and entertainment.

Lunch being over, the association resumed its meeting, and an unanimous request was sent to Colonel Bigney to appear and address them. As he entered the room, one of the members jokingly said: "The colonel is a candidate for delegate-at-large to the national Republican convention this year and he says that he is looking for a fight and willing to have a contest with anybody who is trotted out." This created some merriment and the colonel, addressing the assembly, immediately said that such was not wholly the case, that while he desired to be one of the four delegates at large, he was not making for a fight, because he believed it would be better to have the delegates go without any contest, but he was a candidate and if any one was trotted out against him he would make a fight that would do everyone's heart good.

He is the only Massachusetts councillor who ever declined a second year; his plea being the demand of his business.

And as a figure in the jewelry industry of the country, he ranks easily as a leader.

He has been a member of the Republican state central committee, and has been to Washington several times in connection with tariff and other industrial and political problems, but he has never allowed political duties to interfere with his business interests.

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. held its regular meeting on Friday afternoon at three o'clock in Association hall. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. N. J. Sproul, and the thoughts presented were most helpful and inspiring. The speaker of the afternoon was David N. Claghorn of Boston Y. M. C. A., who gave some very interesting and thoughtful suggestions relating to social work in the Association.

Valentine Dance
For Day Nursery

Thick fog and bad going did not detract from the pleasures of the Valentine dance held at Music hall last evening, and there was a large gathering of dancing people.

Owing to the orchestra being delayed, it was quarter past eight before the matrons were escorted to their places at the left of the stage, but from then on the ushers were kept busy introducing the guests, and soon the dancers were tripping the measure to the inspiring music of Mullally's orchestra.

The effect was every pretty, as the gowns worn by the ladies were of every color and shade and many were noticeably attractive. That the dancers appreciated the music was shown by the hearty encores after each dance, which never failed to meet with a response.

Fruit punch was served at a table decorated with red hearts and the ushers' badgers were also red hearts, which livened up their sombre evening attire.

The matrons were Mrs. Charles R. Safford of Atlantic, Mrs. Edward E. Jameson of Wollaston and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Quincy. Mrs. Safford and Mrs. Jameson wore black and Mrs. Faxon a beautiful white lace over white.

The dance was given for the benefit of the Day Nursery by members of the Day Nursery Association, the committee being, Mrs. Arthur Silbey, president, Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, Mrs. T. A. Addison, Mrs. Joseph Dasha, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. John L. Gow, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. Thomas Lacey, Mrs. John Nolen, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Miss Alice Keith Prescott, Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. J. M. Sheahan.

The patronesses were: Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Walter E. Burke, Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, Miss Georgiana C. Lane, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mrs. Roderick McLennon, Mrs. R. J. Teasdale, Mrs. James F. Burke, Mrs. Henry G. Fay and Mrs. Harry W. Read.

The ushers were: Dexter E. Wadsworth, Joseph W. Bartlett, Elisha B. Bird, Dr. Burke, Dr. Curtis, Dr. Samuel W. Ellsworth, Charles R. Hendrie, Dr. Hunting, Edward E. Jameson, Delcavare King, Russell C. Low, Dr. Monroe, George E. Pfaffmann, Fred B. Rice, Dr. Sargent, Robert H. Sibley and Charles R. Safford.

Pretty Dance
At Faxon Hall

One of the prettiest dancing parties of the season was that of Miss Celina Beliveau given at Faxon hall Friday evening. It was largely attended, young people predominating, and was from eight until midnight.

The front of the platform was very prettily decorated with potted plants and ferns, forming a floral bower, behind which was the orchestra.

The matrons were Mrs. Edward D. Marnock, Mrs. Lewis A. Pendis and Mrs. Dennis F. Crowley. They received in a pretty cosy corner in one end of the hall.

Standing near the receiving party were two little misses, Eva Dolbec and Katherine Hartrey.

The ushers were: Miss Mildred Cavanaugh, Miss Mabel Favreau, Miss Lavinia Dean, Miss Katherine Hartrey, Miss Grace Elcock, Miss Theresa Moriarty, Miss Helena Monahan, Miss Josephine Provost and Miss Lillian Savoie.

Cash by Electricity.

R. E. Foy & Co., the well known grocers of South Quincy, have just placed in their store an up-to-date cash register. It is called the Multiple Drawer National Cash Register. It is operated by electricity, and of the very latest type. Individual and total sales are totalled automatically, and the chances of error are reduced to a minimum.

Drama Presented
By West End Club

The West End club held its first anniversary drama and dance Friday evening at St. Mary's hall. It was largely attended and an enjoyable evening.

The three-act romance of New England, entitled "Silas the Chore Boy," was presented. The several characters, were impersonated by Timothy J. Corcoran, William R. Joyce, Chas. F. Perkins, Walter E. Barry, Edgar J. Hagerty, Richard J. Joyce, Nora Carroll, Priscilla Bertrand and Catherine Spain. Each had his or her part well in hand, and the drama was rendered in a manner that brought much favorable comment.

During the play there were solos by Miss Rena Fahey, Frank Mullen and Adolph Restelli. There were also selections by the London quartet composed of Adolph Restelli, Alexis Sorel, Fred Malcolm and George Guston.

The entertainment was given under the direction of John A. McGowan. The ushers were George McLaughlin, John Perkins, Jeremiah Connelly and Timothy Corcoran. The committee in charge of the entertainment were James Donovan, Timothy J. Corcoran and Richard J. Joyce.

At the conclusion of the entertainment there was dancing.

Encampment
Installation

The officers of Manet encampment I. O. O. F. were installed Friday evening by District Deputy Grand Patriarch William D. Swain and suite of Brockton.

After the installation ceremonies the Golden Rule degree was exemplified. Then an adjournment was made to the banquet hall, where refreshments were served.

The officers installed are:
C. P.—Charles S. Jones.
H. P.—Herbert D. Gearwar.
S. W.—Charles G. Kezer.
Scribe—George C. Ela.
Treasurer—Aubrey R. Keith.
J. W.—George H. Fisher.
O. S.—Edward L. Goodridge.
I. S.—Charles Barron.
G.—John V. Robertson.
1st W.—William A. Richards.
2d W.—John E. Manhire.
3d W.—Everett E. Wheeler.
4th W.—Verna J. Beede.
1st G. of T.—Frank E. Curtin.
2d G. of T.—Walter P. Hill.

Moving Pictures
Granite City Club

Moving pictures were the feature of the entertainment given Friday evening by the Granite City Club. There was a very large attendance of members and their friends and the evening was greatly enjoyed.

On account of the room necessary, the entertainment was given in Colonial hall. Five reels of pictures were shown, and between these a number of local slides. Some of these were pictures of club members, and others were verses in which the names of club members rhymed.

Prof. Clarence Fouché presided, at the piano, and there was continuous music during the evening. Prof. Fouché is a master of the piano, and he made the instrument hum. Dr. Bowditch, the old time vocalist was also present and rendered one of his favorite selections. For some reason during the first song, the piano was in one key and the voice of the singer in another. The Doc. was most emphatic in his declaration that the piano was off.

At the conclusion of the entertainment an adjournment was made to the club rooms, where ice cream and cake were served.

It was announced that there would be another entertainment in the club rooms next Friday evening by Prof. Batt. His program will include musical novelties, versatile readings, songs and artistic paper specialties.

Just Jotted Down
By Ledger Men

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening.

Commissioner Bainbridge has placed large tubs about City Square for people to throw their waste paper into instead of the street.

People are getting interested in that stolen umbrella. It must have been a valuable one, as considerable is being expended in advertising.

Rev. J. E. Lillback was recently a pastor at Maynard, where he did good work. He has a wife and five children.

Tickets are now on sale for the "Original Minstrelsy" to be given by the Men's club of Christ church on Friday evening, Feb. 28. It will be something entertaining.

Whist party and dance under the auspices of the C. E. S. next Monday evening, Feb. 17, at Electa hall, Johnson building. Dancing all the time in separate hall. Whist players can have dance after play.

Lincoln services will be held at Bethany Congregational church Sunday evening, when Rev. W. W. Dornan of Plymouth will give an address on Lincoln. A special musical program of patriotic music has been arranged by Mme. Morey.

The people of Wollaston will be pleased to hear about the travels in England of their former pastor, Rev. Preston Gurney, and will have an opportunity on Tuesday evening, March 10, at the Baptist church.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their next meeting on Tuesday at 3 P. M. in the Adams building, room 30, with Mrs. Laura F. Tirrell. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested, as business of importance is to be presented.

"Old Quincy."

Two papers of interest will be presented by members of the Quincy Historical Society at a meeting next Thursday evening in the Unitarian chapel; one by Mrs. William H. Doble, on "Old Quincy Traditions," which has been the subject of long and careful research, the other by Ezekiel Sargent of the City Engineer's office, on "Old Quincy Highways." Mrs. Laurence H. Sturtevant will be the soloist.

Verdicts at Dedham.

Judgments in the above sum was entered in the jury session at Dedham this week. The suit was for personal injuries sustained by Arthur Walker of Quincy by being struck by planks falling through the hatchway of the ship Birmingham. McAnarney Bros., for the plaintiff; John Lowell for the defendant.

A verdict was rendered today in favor of the National Granite Bank vs. the McDonnell estate in a suit on a $1700 note was entered in the Superior court at Dedham. J. W. McAnarney and William P. Thompson for plaintiff; Bartlett and Anderson and Edward J. Parker for the defendant.

CARVER—VANNAIL.

Miss Bessie Emma Vannah, daughter of A. L. Vannah of 31 Elm avenue, Brockton, and William Roy Carver of Attleboro, were united in marriage Monday evening at the Central Methodist Episcopal parsonage, Brockton, by Dr. A. B. Kendig. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock and the young people were attended by Miss Annie Vannah, sister of the bride, and Irving Bumpus of Campbell. The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of dark blue, with hat to match, and her bridesmaid wore a gown of gray voile. Mrs. Carver is a member of the Central church, and of several of the young people's societies connected with the parish. Mr. Carver is the son of Mr. W. O. Carver of Maple avenue and formerly resided in Brockton, but is now in business in Attleboro. During his residence in Brockton he was well known in athletic circles. The couple boarded the 8.40 train for Boston amid a shower of rice and confetti. They will enjoy a short stay in New York, and on their return will reside at 59 Peck street, Attleboro.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—your mother, your sister, your daughter, your friend, or your neighbor. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand woman's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or White discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the cure a trial. It will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, and I will send you the treatment for your cure, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER"—with explanatory illustrations showing how women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says, "You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedsily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Discharges, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, Pains in the Head, Back and Bowels, Bearing Down Feelings, Nervousness, Creeping Up the Spine, Melancholy, Desire to Cry, Hot Flashes, Weariness, Kidney and Bladder Troubles where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell you of the sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours also the book. Write today, as you may not see this offer again. Address: MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box H. Notre Dame, Ind., U. S. A.

GRANITE MEN

Committed To A Bridge Over
The Railroad
At Water street

The abolition of grade crossings, particularly that at Water street, was the subject under discussion by the Granite Manufacturers' Association at a meeting held Friday evening.

Councilman Gilson was present with his stereopticon, and all of the views shown at the public meetings were thrown upon the screen. The new plan of Water street was also shown.

All of these plans were discussed at length. Before the meeting adjourned, it voted in favor of an overhead bridge at Water street, adopting the new plan which was explained at length at the public meeting Thursday evening, and known as the Tupper plan.

This plan proposes to cross tracks at about a three per cent grade. The street commences to rise at the junction of Franklin street and will be a solid fill to near the present crossing. Then there will be several spans which will give entrances to the new freight yard. The street comes down to present grade again beyond Pleasant street. There will be a slight fill at the Water street end of Pleasant street, easing the grade of that street somewhat. The loop starting from near the street railway turnout makes a wider sweep and passes through unoccupied property to Liberty street. President avenue will be relocated at its northerly end, connecting with Water street nearer Franklin street. The grade of Franklin street where it crosses Water street will be raised.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt, it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the donations.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Olive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

BRAINTREE.

News was received Monday of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Wheeler of Hudson. Their many friends here offer congratulations.

Harry Simonds, Louis Howland, Eddie Bailey and a number of out of town friends are spending the day fishing through the ice at their camp in South Middleboro.

Thirty-two members of the Krow Eldeen club were entertained by Miss Sadie Brown of Tremont street on Tuesday evening.

A Leonel Brett of Brown University, Providence, R. I., is spending a few days at his home on Summer street.

Wednesday twenty-one of the ladies of the M. E. church spent the day with Mrs. Charles Perkins of Safford street. They were busily engaged in making articles for their coming sale. An hour spent in music and conversation helped to make the day pass all too quickly. These social days are becoming very popular.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perkins of Safford street entertained the past week Miss A. Grace Rademaker of Minneapolis, Miss Edna Van Clous of Butte, Montana and Miss Jennings of Boston.

Mrs. George D Willis of Washington street is confined to her home by illness. It is feared that she may have pneumonia.

Hen thieves visited the hen houses at Marston's farm on Pond street twice on Thursday evening, seven and eleven o'clock. Each time about twenty-five choice large chickens disappeared. Each hen-house is connected by an electrical alarm mechanism.

Friday evening, the members of the Matrons whist club met with Mrs. F. W. Brett of Summer street. It being the night of St. Valentine's day, the hostess, with that tact in mind, presented her guests with hearts as souvenirs. The home and refreshment table were gayly decorated with cupid and hearts and all the refreshments were shaped in the same design. It was a very pretty party and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

The twentieth anniversary of the Clark Union of Christian Endeavorers was observed at Union church on Monday evening. One hundred and fifty enjoyed the supper and the church was well filled at the evening session. Rev. R. P. Anderson of Boston gave a fine address and was a magnetic speaker arousing enthusiasm. The music was inspiring. Miss Wilder gave a soprano solo Mr. Murphy sang a tenor solo. Dr. F. E. Clark's letter was read.

Miss Hilda and Flora Dearing visited their mother a few days this week, returning to Wheaton seminary on Thursday.

George O'Brien of Railroad avenue had the misfortune to have one of his legs crushed, Tuesday. He got caught between an engine and a car while coupling them together in the South Braintree yards.

Patrolman Fred Chase enjoyed his one-day-in-fifteen holiday with his sister Mrs. C. F. Whidden, Washington street, on Thursday.

Mr. Vesper L. George will address the Philergians on "Household Art," Tuesday, February 18. Mr. George is connected with the Boston Normal Art School and is one of the best authorities on art in that city.

Miss Edith Folsom of Ash street, observed her seventh birthday on Wednesday by entertaining her little friends from four until six o'clock. The time was spent with games and music. A dainty lunch was served to the little folks.

Mrs. James E. MacMahon died at her home on Hobart street on Sunday morning after a lingering illness. She was Hannah Quinn and married in early life James E. MacMahon who survives her with five children, the youngest about four years of age. The funeral services were held on Tuesday morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart, Weymouth. The husband and five children have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

Mr. Peter Mullen of Allen street was injured on Sunday at the ice-pond, Sunset lake, when Messrs. J. F. Sheppard & Sons were cutting and storing ice. The young man was in imminent danger from the machinery but it was stepped in time to save him from a fatal accident. The large sharp shaving clipper cut his leg and his ankle was badly sprained.

At the meeting of the Braintree Grange Monday night, ten candidates received the third and fourth degrees. The ladies' degree staff exemplifying the third degree. Much credit is due the members of the team for the able manner in which they did the work. It was their first attempt but they would easily pass for veterans at the business. A large number of visitors were present from other granges. A bountiful feast was served by Chairman Matthews.

New Pastor At West Quincy

The Finnish citizens of Quincy have extended a hearty welcome to Rev. J. E. Lillback, the new pastor of the Finnish Congregational church who was installed on Thursday. A council was held in the afternoon at which Dr. F. E. Emrich of Boston was moderator, and Rev. H. G. Megathlin of Norfolk Downs the scribe. The examination of the candidate proved satisfactory and at 7.30 there was a public service partly in English and partly in Finnish, the program being:

Selection By congregation
A hymn By the scribe

Rev. K. F. Henrikson, the pastor since 1896 resigns to devote all his time to the school at Revere. The church was organized as a Congregational church in 1901.

Braintree Wants Tracks Depressed

The committee of eighteen citizens of Braintree—the selectmen and five gentlemen from each precinct—have had several meetings to consider the best method of abolishing four dangerous railroad crossings in Braintree. They have made a thorough study with plans prepared by Mr. H. L. White, civil engineer, and being prepared to enlighten the citizens called a public meeting which was held in the Town hall last Monday evening.

Hon. B. Herbert Woodsum, chairman of the board of selectmen, called the meeting to order and called upon Mr. White to explain the drawing, blue print, etc., to the audience. Mr. White did so in a very clear and concise manner.

Remarks and suggestions were offered by several citizens. Mr. H. F. Kneeland of the firm, Williams, Kneeland Co., shoe manufacturers, was especially convincing when he advised the committee and citizens to go slowly and carefully, and above all to do things the best way rather than the cheapest.

The engineer's and committee's plan is to depress the roadbed of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. from a point near Capen's bridge southerly about 1000 feet south of the River street crossing. Only a slight depression is advised, four feet at Elm street and three and one half at River street.

They are in favor of bridges over the tracks at School, Elm and River streets. The approaches can be made quite easy at each bridge. At River street there should be a large amount of filling done from between the crossing and Vane street on the east.

A long bridge is recommended at the Union street crossing without depressing the tracks. They plan for an extension of French avenue and a new street from the proposed bridge to Washington street intersecting at a point near the home of Charles A. Hobart.

The meeting was attended by over one hundred citizens, in spite of the many social functions that evening, and much interest was manifested. Meeting adjourned about 9.30 o'clock, many citizens remaining to study the plans.

Saturday, Feb. 29, at 10.30 A. M. in the Town hall the commissioners will hold a public hearing and it is the duty of all citizens to be present and be united upon the committee's plans.

The Wider Worship.

"Every generous action, effort to do right, thoughtful, every sincere effort to do right, is really a part of the worship of God," said James Freeman Clarke. Is not this a better conception of worship than that it is merely a ceremonial bowing down before God. Truly, worship is more a matter of work than of words, more a matter of service than of services, more a lifting up of our fellow men than bowing down before God. It is this better kind of worship that the Unitarian church is trying to practise and proclaim. It seeks to worship God by working for man, to serve God by serving mankind. All Souls Church, Braintree.

BIG FLEET REVIEWED

Chileans Gather at Valparaiso
to Witness the Spectacle

HEARTY WELCOME EXTENDED

American Visit of an Hour Greatly Appreciated—Passage of Battleships From Punta Arenas Made Without Great Difficulty

Valparaiso, Chile, Feb. 15.—The great American fleet of sixteen battleships, under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, passed Valparaiso yesterday afternoon and continued on its voyage northward for Callao, Peru, the next stopping place.

All Valparaiso and thousands of persons from every city in Chile witnessed the passing of the fleet. President Montt and the other high officials of the republic came out from shore to greet the battleships, and almost the entire Chilean navy exchanged salutes with them as they swung around Curumilla point and into Valparaiso bay in single file, headed by the Chilean cruiser Chacabuco and five Chilean torpedo boat destroyers.

Turning sharp around Curumilla point, the Chacabuco and the Chilean destroyers led the Connecticut and her fifteen sister ships into the view of thousands who had awaited their appearance since dawn. The day was perfect and the spectacle of the fleet stretched in a great semi-circle, as seen from the high hills around the bay, was magnificent.

President Montt and other Chilean officials embarked on the training ship General Baquedano and took a position well out in the harbor. Around the Baquedano the fleet swung at a speed of four knots, firing the presidential salute as they passed in review. It was one hour from the time the head of the fleet entered the bay until the last vessel had passed the president's ship and turned toward the open sea. Then the Baquedano lifted anchor and escorted the fleet well out of the bay and on its way to the north. It was a review such as had never before been seen in Valparaiso bay.

The shipping in the harbor and the principal buildings in the city were dressed for the occasion, as the day was observed as a holiday in honor of the fleet. From the picturesque sloping hills dotted with houses, a profusion of bunting and the waving of flags was discernable from the bay.

The enthusiasm of the Chileans was almost boundless, and they cheered lustily as each battleship of the fleet swept around the reviewing ship, their sides lined with jacks in immaculate white, and the bands playing patriotic airs. The noise of the cheering was lost, however, in that of the saluting guns from the fort and the fleet. Altogether 1200 shots were fired.

After the fleet had passed to the northward a banquet was served on board the General Baquedano by President Montt in honor of the diplomatic corps and his other guests. Toasts were drunk to President Roosevelt and Admiral Evans and his officers, crews and ships, and the universal wish was expressed that the Americans may have fair weather and a safe passage to their destination.

In the city of Valparaiso last night celebrations of every kind were in progress and everywhere was heard words of praise for Admiral Evans for having honored Valparaiso with a visit.

The passage of the fleet from Punta Arenas, on the Strait of Magellan, whence it sailed at 11 o'clock on the night of Feb. 7, was made to this point without great difficulty or incident. The Chacabuco led the fleet from the time it left Punta Arenas until it had passed through the strait and was well out into the Pacific.

Arriving at the entrance of Smyth channel at 5 o'clock in the afternoon on Feb. 8, the torpedo destroyer flotilla, under the command of Lieutenant Cone and piloted by Lieutenant Rozas of the Chilean navy, parted company with Evans' fleet and proceeded through the channel in order to take the inside course along the coast of Chile. At 5 o'clock the same evening the battleship fleet passed the four barren and forbidding rocks, the Evangelists, and was safely through the strait. Throughout the day of Feb. 8 the wind blew a gale from the west, and during the night following the passage of the strait the fleet ran into a heavy fog, which continued until the 10th.

At 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Feb. 11, while off Ancud, the Chacabuco separated from the fleet and proceeded to Talcahuano, arriving there on the 12th. From this point messages were transmitted to Valparaiso informing President Montt of the probable hour of arrival at Valparaiso, and expressing Admiral Evans' desire to have Montt review the fleet. The Chacabuco then sailed in company with the Chilean torpedo boat flotilla, which included the Thomson, the Munoz, Gamero and the O'Brien and the transport Casma, and again fell in with the fleet forty miles off Carranza at noon.

The fleet proceeded in division formation until yesterday morning, when it changed into single-file formation, proceeding 2000 yards off the starboard of the Chilean division. Evans dispatched a wireless message to Montt before his arrival at Valparaiso, expressing the pleasure he had in visiting Valparaiso and the great honor the fleet felt to be reviewed by the President of Chile.

At 12:45 o'clock the fleet took up a position behind the Chilean division. Arriving off Curumilla point at 1 o'clock, the ships dressed for review, the Chilean flag being given the place of honor. The head of the American fleet came abreast of Playancha, at the southern entrance of the harbor, at 2:15 o'clock and the first salute was fired. Fort Valdivia, on the south side of the bay, and Fort Vergara, on the north side, replied.

Hundreds of steamboats, tugs, yachts and other craft, all dressed in honor of the fleet, carried thousands of passengers off from shore. A striking piece of landscape decoration was the forming in gigantic letters the word "welcome" by several thousand sailors dressed in white and lying on the hillside. The beach was bright with the color of the moving thousands, the wharves were crowded, and even the buoys in the bay had their venture-some occupants. Never before had such crowds gathered in Valparaiso and seldom had there been witnessed such enthusiasm.

Flotilla at Puerto Montt

Puerto Montt, Chile, Feb. 15.—The United States torpedo destroyer flotilla arrived at this place after a safe and pleasant passage through the channels from the Strait of Magellan along the coast of Chile. It was piloted safely through by Lieutenant Rozas of the Chilean navy. The arrival of the Americans was greeted with enthusiasm by the people of this town.

Puerto Montt is a prosperous Chilean town on Tenga Island, a few miles off the coast and about 600 miles south of Valparaiso.

String Attached to Olive Branch. Vienna, Feb. 15.—A semi-official note issued yesterday declares that Austria has no objection to the building of a railway from the Adriatic to the Danube, on the ground that the extension of railway communication to Turkey would help in the economic expansion of Austria-Hungary and assist in tranquilizing Macedonia. This friendship toward Russia is regarded, however, as only a diplomatic expression for the purpose of allaying the irritation in Russia.

Ten Seamen Lost Their Lives

Portland, Or., Feb. 15.—The American ship Emily Reed, 113 days out from New Castle, N. S. W., for Portland, with coal, went ashore on the Oregon coast and broke in two. Ten seamen were lost, while six were saved, including the captain and his wife. The Emily Reed was built at Waldoboro, Me., in 1880. Her net tonnage was 1466, the gross tonnage being 1564. She was 215 feet in length, 40 in breadth and 24 deep.

STORY OF A GOOD KING.

How the Sowing of Kind Deeds Returned Bountiful Harvest.

Sadly the king looked out of the casement. Beyond him stretched his kingdom—a kingdom that had formerly seemed fair to him, but which now, echoing as it was with the cries of all his people, appeared in his eyes to be worth nothing. He would gladly have given the vast lands to one who would relieve the sufferings of his subjects.

For a severe plague had fallen upon the kingdom, and to make matters worse there had come a dreadful famine. Disease lurked everywhere, nor was there anything to eat.

Again the king groaned: "Not one kind deed have I done for my people. Oh, if I could only help them!"

As he spoke there appeared before him a beautiful fairy.

Touching the king on the arm, she bade him follow her.

She led him from the castle out into the fields. And lo, where the ground had lain waste without a growing thing there now rose vast fields of the grain, the golden stalks swaying in the wind.

"You have done many kind deeds, O king, and the care you have taken of every living thing has not been observed by us, for every grain which you so generously threw from your window to the hungry birds a grain has been sown for you by the fairies. It is now ripe for harvest. Go feed your people!"

The king marveled and was glad for the sake of his subjects. And the famine disappeared, and the disease vanished, and all lived happily thereafter under their good king—Philadelphia North American.

DROPS OF RAIN.

Why Moisture in Air Takes Globular Shape When It Falls.

Why does rain fall in drops and not in a sheet of water? How many boys and girls can answer that question? Perhaps those who cannot would like to have the explanation, which can best be given by telling first what rain is, says the Chicago News. The air contains at all times more or less watery vapor, which is evaporated from the ocean, lakes and rivers by the heat of the sun. When the temperature of the air falls below a certain point—that is to say, when the air loses a certain amount of its heat—this vapor condenses into water again.

The particles of water are quite small, and as they form in the air they begin to fall of their own weight, and in falling they meet and unite with other particles, thus forming drops. If the cloud from which they come be near the earth, the drops are larger than when it is higher, for there is less air resistance to be met in falling. The higher the cloud, then, on general principles, the more the drops are broken up.

But even if water ever formed in sheets or in a body up in the air, which it does not, it could not possibly reach the earth in that form, for the resistance offered by the air makes it break up into drops. That is the principle of the shot tower, by the way. Melted lead is dropped from an elevated point, and it breaks into shot before it reaches the ground.

An Interesting Bridge.

Visitors to Kandy, in the island of Ceylon, are shown in the neighborhood a beautiful bridge made entirely of satinwood and spanning the river Mahavillagange in one fine sweeping arch. It was constructed by Major Skinner, a clever military engineer, many years ago. One of the most remarkable points about it is the fact that no bolt, screw or nail is used in any part, and notwithstanding the changes in temperature, all parts remain perfectly in order and position.

REDUCTION IN WAGES

Will Affect All the Cotton Mills
In New England

TRADE IN POOR CONDITION

Means Cutdown of 10 to 12 1-2 Percent For About 175,000 OperativesLess Wages at Fall River Con-Woolen Mills May Follow Suit

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 15.—The semi-official announcement made in Boston that a general reduction of wages in the cotton mills of New England will probably be made in the near future was received with no surprise in this city. Here the sliding-scale wage system has been in effect for more than a year and has been an important factor in harmonizing the relations between manufacturers and operatives.

The agreement between the Manufacturers' association and the Textile Council is based upon the average margin between the cost of raw cotton in the New York market and the selling price of standard 28-inch 64x64 print cloth, the agreement being renewed at the end of six months. The last agreement became effective on Nov. 25, 1907. Since that time the margin has steadily fallen off, indicating that the 25,000 operatives in the association mills here will receive less wages in the spring.

Under the present arrangement the average margin between the prices of cotton and standard print cloth governs the wage rate in the six months following the period in which the averages are computed.

The Fall River system affects directly only the mills in this city, East Taunton and one or two other places. None of the manufacturers in this city will discuss the situation at this time, except to say that the print cloth market is in a semi-demoralized condition. The curtailment which has taken place thus far has had no perceptible effect on buyers.

The general reduction in wages will probably range from 10 to 12 1/2 percent and will affect about 175,000 operatives in New England.

Many of the woolen mills of New England, it is said, will make a similar reduction. The woolen trade employs upwards of 75,000 persons when all the machinery is in motion. At the present time practically every woolen mill is running on short time or shut down entirely.

Italian Singer to Be Deported

New York, Feb. 15.—Miss J. Trabelini, a singer from Milan, will be deported today. This action was decided upon by the immigration authorities last night, though the detailed findings were not made public. The only information available was that the presence of the singer in this country was considered undesirable. Miss Trabelini exhibited $400 in cash, jewelry estimated to be worth $2000 and a bank book showing deposits to her credit in an Italian bank aggregating $5000.

Death in Wake of Tornado

Tyler, Tex., Feb. 15.—Tyler was swept by a disastrous tornado yesterday. The storm swept over the main residence quarter of the city, leaving a trail of devastation and killing four persons. Wires are down in all directions from Tyler, but reports from farmers are that farmhouses all around Tyler were blown down. It is impossible to ascertain the loss of life in the rural regions, but it is known that the tornado swept everything clean for a distance of five miles.

Abused by Reactionaries

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15.—Baron Meyendorff, the Octobrist, has resigned as second vice president of the duma, owing to scurrilous attacks upon him by the extreme reactionaries, who were displeased at his advocacy of the expulsion from the duma of Gustave Schmidt, who is an ex-army officer, and several years ago was arrested, charged with selling military secrets to Germany.

Clay Favors Paper Money

Washington, Feb. 15.—The senate gave its attention to a speech on the Aldrich currency bill by Senator Clay of Georgia. Clay's declarations in favor of the issuance of paper money by the government provoked a controversy between him and Republican senators. Paris, Feb. 15.—Charles Hastings, an American mineowner, was robbed here last night of a pocketbook containing $6000 by an expert English pickpocket.

A FRENCH HERCULES.

Marvelous Strength of the Father of Alexandre Dumas.

My father was twenty-four at the time of enlisting and as handsome a young fellow as could be found anywhere.

His free colonial life had developed his strength and prowess to an extraordinary degree. He was a veritable American horse lad, a cowboy. His skill with gun and pistol was the envy of St. Georges and Junot, and his muscular strength became a proverb in the army. More than once he amused himself in the riding school by passing under a beam, grasping it with his arms and lifting his horse between his legs. I have seen him do it, and I recollect my childish amusement when I saw him carry two men standing upon his bent knee and hop across the room with these two men on him. I saw him once in a rage take a branch of considerable toughness in both his hands and break it between them, by turning one hand to the right and the other to the left.

A few years later the gallant hussar was a brigadier general and performing feats of valor which earned him the title of "the Horatius Coclès of the Tyrol." Best of all we like the son's description of Horatius' storming of Mont Cenis:

The climbers reached the plateau. Although it was a dark night, the long line of soldiers, clothed in blue uniforms, could have been perceived outlined against the snow from the fort. But my father had foreseen this contingency; each man had a cotton cap and a shirt rolled up in his knapsack. This was the ordinary dress my father adopted at night when he hunted chamois.

They reached the foot of the palisades without having roused a single challenge. The men began climbing the palisades as soon as they reached them; but, thanks to my father's herculean strength, he thought of a better and quieter way—namely, to take each man by the seat of his trousers and the collar of his coat and throw him over the palisades. The snow would break the fall and also deaden the noise. Surprised out of their sleep and seeing the French soldiers in their midst without knowing how they had come there, the Piedmontese hardly offered any resistance. — From "My Memoirs," by Alexandre Dumas, Translated by E. M. Waller.

OLD TIME SURGERY.

The Barbarous Methods of the Sixteenth Century.

Ambrose Pare, a barber surgeon of the sixteenth century, tells in his notes how in 1537 he went to the long ways to get practice in surgery. He invented some new processes, particularly in the treatment of amputated limbs.

Up to Pare's time the most barbarous means had been used to stop the bleeding. In his own words: "So soon as the limb was removed the surgeons would use many cauteries to stop the flow of blood, a thing very horrible and cruel in the mere telling. And truly of six thus cruelly treated scarce two ever escaped, and even these were long ill, and the wounds thus burned were slow to heal, because the burning caused such vehement pains that they fell into fever, convulsions and other mortal accidents. In most of them, moreover, when the scar fell off there came fresh bleeding, which must again be staunch with the cauteries. So that for many healing was impossible, and they had an ulcer to the end of their lives, which prevented them from having an artificial limb."

The idea of abolishing such cruelty by using the ligature occurred to Pare in one of his war journeys, and his success went beyond his own expectations. His other discovery was made within a few hours of his joining the army. It was believed by the surgeons of the day that there was poison in a gunshot wound, and one of the accepted authorities insisted that they must be cauterized "with oil of elders scalding hot, mixed with a little treacle." The pain was intolerable. It happened that at his first treatment of gunshot wounds Pare's oil ran short, and he used instead "a digestive made of the yolks of eggs, oil of roses and turpentine." To his surprise he found next morning that the patients he had thus treated were in better condition than the others. "Then I resolved never more to burn thus cruelly poor men with gunshot wounds."

Newton's Fearful Crime.

At the end of a meal at Haydon's house Keats proposed a toast in these terms: "Dishonor to the memory of Newton."

The guests stared at him in questioning surprise, and Wordsworth asked for an explanation.

"It is," answered Keats, "because he destroyed the poetry of the rainbow by reducing it to a prism." And the artists all drank, with one consent, confusion to the savant.

A Great Change.

Old Nurse (to young lady who is going to New Zealand)—So you're going away to one of the countries, Miss Mary, where they have day when we have night and night when we have day?

Miss Mary—Yes, nurse.
Old Nurse—Eh, it will take ye some time to get accustomed to the change! —London Punch's Almanac.

Quite Familiar.

"Jimmie," said the merchant solemnly at the eleventh hour, "we have forgotten to get a fresh supply of stamps." And the office boy in his excitement responded with "Goodness, sir, so we have! If we ain't a couple of blunder headed idiots!" —London Tit-Bits.

YOU COULD See This CITY GROW

If Your Dollar
Circulated in Quincy.Why Do Country Boys Flock to Big Cities?

Most small towns are short of young men. As a rule there are plenty of agreeable girls who would not object to matrimony; there are plenty of old people and enough babies to go around. But the boy—oh, where is he?

The boy, the young man, has gone to the city, where he imagines there are opportunities. To him the old home town is dull and stupid. He sees no future for himself there. Both for social and financial considerations he rushes off to the great city. Very frequently he finds that he is lonelier there than at home—nearly always so; and even more frequently he finds that riches do not grow on ten story walls.

BUT STILL HE GOES TO THE CITY.

In going there the boy simply follows his daddy's dollars. For years his daddy and his mother and his big sister and his Aunt Mary Ann have been mailing their money to the big city for Mail Order bargains.

Result: Home merchants don't thrive, grass grows in the streets, no jobs are to be had, no opening for a new business, and the young man goes to the city because it is a place where people have traded at home and built up their own community and provided opportunities for outsiders as well as for themselves.

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP YOUR BOY AT HOME BUILD UP YOUR TOWN SO THAT HE CAN BUILD UP HIS CAREER AMONG HIS HOME FOLKS.

ANIMAL TAILS.

The Functions of Those of Cats, Lions
and Jaguars.

A cat never actually wags its tail. Why should it when it can purr? But nevertheless it seems to serve the same purpose in permitting a temporary expenditure of excess nervous energy when the animal is under great strain. For instance, when carefully stalking a bird or a lion, as in the case of a kitten or a lion, the tip of the tail is never still for a moment—ever curling and uncurling. We may compare this to the nervous tapping of the foot or fingers in a man. When an angry lion is roaring his loudest, his tail will frequently lash from side to side, giving rise among the ancients to the belief that he scourged his body with a hook or thorn which grew from the end of the tail.

When a jaguar walks along a slender bough or a house cat perambulates the top of a board fence, we perceive another important function of the tail, that of an aid in balancing. As a tight rope performer sways his pole, so the feline shifts its tail to preserve the center of gravity.

The tail of a sheep seems to be of little use to its owner, although in the breed which is found in Asia Minor and on the tablelands of Tartary, this organ functions as a storehouse of fat and sometimes reaches a weight of fifty pounds. When viewed from behind, the animal seems all tail, and when this appendage reaches its full size it is either fastened between two sticks which drag on the ground or it is suspended on two small wheels.—C. William Beebe in Outing Magazine.

BUSHRANGERS.

The Most Noted of the Later Day Outlaws in Australia.

Bushrangers were originally runaway convicts who took to the "bush," as Australians call the backwoods, and became holdup men. About the year 1830 the bushrangers became so numerous that they fought regular engagements with posses and soldiers sent out to capture them, and this form of crime continued sporadically until within recent years. The most famous of later rangers were the Kelly brothers. After many daring crimes and hairbreadth escapes the Kellys actually held up the entire village of Jerilderie, N. S. W., which had a population of 200. Ned Kelly looted the bank of $10,000, while his three pals held the men of the village cowed up in their homes. Although there was a special bushranging act in force at the time authorizing the detention of persons supposed to be in communication with the outlaws, the Kellys were not heard of again for nearly a year, when they "stuck up" the small town of Glenrowan, in Victoria. Here they were brought to bay, and three of the desperadoes were shot dead in a house they had barricaded, while the leader, Ned Kelly, was brought to the ground with a bullet through the legs. He was hanged in 1880. All four of the men were in the habit of wearing an armor made of plowshares and weighing almost a hundred pounds.—New York American.

An Outrageous Slandering.

The public may not know the good story, which has been a joy for many a long day among musicians, which tells how a celebrated conductor, admired and beloved by every one who knows him, accused his wife in broken English of conduct the reverse of admirable, to put it mildly. He was refusing an invitation to an afternoon party for her on the plea of her delicate health, but he evidently got a little mixed during his explanations, for he made the following astounding statement, which was news indeed to the world in general: "My wife lies in the afternoon. If she does not lie, then she swindles!"

N. B.—"Schwindeln" is the equivalent in German for "feeling giddy."—Cornhill Magazine.

Thoughtful.

There is an elderly business man of Cleveland of whom friends tell a story amusingly illustrating his excessively methodical manner of conducting both his business and his domestic affairs. The Clevelander married a young woman living in a town not far away. On the evening of the ceremony the prospective bridegroom, being detained by an unexpected and important matter of business, missed the train he had intended to take in order that he might reach the abode of his bride at 7 o'clock, the hour set for the wedding. True to his instincts, the careful Clevelander immediately repaired to the telegraph office, from which to dispatch a message to the lady. It read: "Don't marry till I come. Howard."—Harper's Weekly.

Acting Like a Man.

The curtain had just gone down on the second act, leaving the heroine in the villain's clutches. Up in the balcony a sentimental woman burst into tears. "Don't cry, dear," said her husband. "Remember, it's only a play. Act like a man!" "Very well, John," said the lady, smiling through her tears. "You'll excuse me for a moment, won't you? I must run out and send a telegram."—Bohemian.

The Trouble With Carr.

"I rather like your friend," Mrs. Page said graciously after Carr had gone home. "He is good looking and agreeable, but you can't call him a brilliant conversationalist. The Lawton girls talked all round him." "Unfortunately," replied Mr. Page, "Carr cannot talk on a subject unless he knows something about it."

A JUBILEE JOKE.

Lady Churchill's Bustle That Played
"God Save the Queen."

Everything that year (Queen Victoria's jubilee year) was dubbed "jubilee," from knights and babies to hats and coats. "God Save the Queen" was heard ad nauseam on every conceivable occasion until the time became an obsession. This led to a practical joke at the castle which caused much amusement. One morning, speaking of the jubilee bustle, I pretended that I had received as an advertisement a "jubilee bustle," which would play "God Save the Queen" when the wearer sat down. This, of course, created much curiosity and laughter. Having promised to put it on, I took my hosts into my confidence. An aid-de-camp was pressed into the service and armed with a small musical box was made to hide under a particular armchair. While the company was at luncheon I retired to don the so called "jubilee wonder," and when they were all assembled I marched in solemnly and slowly sat down on the armchair where the poor aid-de-camp was hiding his cramped limbs. To the delight and astonishment of every one the national anthem was heard gently tinkling forth. Every time I rose it stopped; every time I sat down it began again. I still laugh when I think of it and of the astonished faces about me.—Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill in Century.

A GREAT STATESMAN.

Humorous Incident of Gladstone's Rivalry With Disraeli.

An anecdote of Gladstone at the time of his greatest rivalry with Disraeli is often retold. At a dinner party the subject of Judaism cropped up.

"Admitted," said Gladstone, "that the Hebrews have given the world a philosopher in Spinoza, musicians in Mendelssohn and Meyerbeer, a poet in Heine, the fact remains that they have not produced a single statesman." There was silence for a moment. Every one knew of course that this was a direct allusion to Disraeli. Then one of the company stepped into the breach.

"Mr. Gladstone," he said, "as a matter of fact the Hebrews have produced a statesman and one of the greatest the world has seen."

The fighting instinct of Mr. Gladstone surged up at once. "May I ask, sir," he said pointedly, "who was this Hebrew statesman?"

Every one, anticipating a more than lively scene, waited in tense expectation for the answer. It came in the quietest tones, "Moses, sir." Every one smiled, and Mr. Gladstone joined in the laugh.—Vienna Welt.

A Jewel Beyond Price.

Many years ago a Norwegian was taken to a big London hospital suffering from an illness which prevented him from earning his living. Sir Frederick Treves operated upon him and completely cured him of his trouble. Some weeks afterward the man called upon Sir Frederick at his private house, and, much to his surprise, presented him with a coin. At first Sir Frederick refused to take it, but the man would not be put off.

"It is now three years since I left my native land," he said, "and before I came away my wife gave me this coin and told me never to part with it unless I was starving. It is not worth anything, but the value to me I cannot express. When I was in the hospital I made up my mind that you should have it. Since you cured me I have been starving, but I would not part with the coin because I wanted you to have it as a small return for saving my life."

"What magnificent piece of jewelry," said Sir Frederick when he told the story, "could equal the value of that coin?"—London M. A. P.

The Attraction of Chess Problems.

The mere player who has never experienced the magnetic attraction of problems cannot fully realize the feeling of joy and satisfaction from solving some masterpiece, the work of a famous composer. There can be no doubt that solving problems, especially from diagrams, is an intellectual amusement and that the study of problems tends to accuracy of analysis, quickens the perception and strengthens the chess faculties generally and may occasionally impart some of those sparkling ideas which are so sadly needed in ordinary play.—Strand Magazine.

Riot of Joy Proffered.

A tramp applied for help at a house in the country. The kind hearted mistress made it a rule never to turn any away empty handed.

"Here's a dime for you, my man," she said. "I'm not giving it to you for charity's sake, but merely because it pleases me."

"Thankee," said the man, "but couldn't you make it a quarter and enjoy yourself thoroughly, mum?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Easy Trick.

"My wife can tell what time it is in the middle of the night when it is pitch dark." "How does she do it?" "She makes me get up and look at the clock."—London Fun.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Miss Helen Simmons of Revere road and are hoping for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Charles E. Goodspeed of Prospect avenue is confined to her home with a severe and very painful attack of rheumatism.

At the Young People's Religious union meeting in First church parlor on Sunday evening, Feb. 21st. Note change of date. A large attendance is desired.

Mrs. Mary C. Hart who has been at the Quincy City Hospital undergoing an operation for appendicitis, is convalescing at the home of her brother Robert J. Teasdale of the Parkway.

The Junior Alliance of First church will meet in the church parlor on Friday evening, Feb. 21st. Note change of date. A large attendance is desired.

The Charitable Ten, King's Daughters, will meet next Tuesday afternoon from two until five o'clock, with Miss Maria Whitney of Orchard place. It is the regular monthly meeting with sewing.

Deleware King, as a representative of the Massachusetts No-License league, has recently visited Natick, Westfield, Easthampton, Southbridge, Salisbury and Gardner to confer with the No-License committees there, and bring to them the experience and advice of the State central body.

The Wollaston Glee club concert, to be given Wednesday evening Feb. 19, will be a notable occasion for music loving people; the club offers as a special attraction among its soloists for the evening the young lady violinist: Miss Olive L. Whiteley, who created furore at the recital recently given by Miss Geraldine Farrar at Symphony hall.

In place of the monthly suppers of First church the ladies have decided to hold a series of socials, the first one to be on Wednesday evening, Feb. 19th from eight until ten. It will be held in the chapel and there will be an informal entertainment. Refreshments will be served from chafing dishes, presided over by competent chefs. There will also be an apron and candy table.

On Saturday, Feb. 22, at the old South church, Copley Square, there is to be a young people's missionary rally, an all day's session, and it is an inter-denominational affair. Devotional service led by the Rev. Robb White of Cambridge. Some of the pastors will be Rev. H. H. Lowry, D. D., President of Pekin, (China) University, Rev. Joseph Clark, Missionary in Africa, Rev. Peter Roberts, International Y. M. C. A. of work for Emigrants.

Change of Hours At the Shipyard

Acting manager Brown has issued manager's notice number 182, which is as follows: "Commencing Monday, February 24, 1908, the hours of labor in the ship and engine works will be as follows until further notice: Monday to Friday, inclusive—7 A. M. to 12 noon; 12.30 P. M. to 5.30 P. M. Saturday—7.00 A. M. to 12.00 noon. The hours for clerks and others in the main office will be as follows: Monday to Friday, inclusive—8.15 A. M. to 12.00 noon; 12.30 P. M. to 5.15 P. M. Saturday—8.15 A. M. to 12.45 P. M. The hours of labor in the drafting room and forge will remain as at present."

The four bucket wheel forgings, which were being forged and rough machined for the General Electric Company, have been completed and delivered, also the nickel steel crank shaft for the same company.

Norman Morse of the J. department is suffering from a painful tumor on his neck.

Ten years ago today the Battleship Maine was blown up at Havana, Cuba.

A letter of censure has been written by the Navy Department to Lieutenant Landenberger, the commanding officer of the Cumberland, on which at Newport occurred the boxing bout resulting in the death of Seaman Apprentice Hartnet. The department does not find fault with the practice of boxing; its desire is rather to encourage it as a means of exercise among the men, but it discounts it for the purpose of settling disputes, which it is understood was the case in the present instance.

INTO A CATCH BASIN.

One of Penniman's horses went down through the cover of the catch basin in front of the Savings Bank building Friday afternoon, and was cut and bruised. The horse attached to a carriage had driven up to the building to leave passengers. The horse stepped on the grate over the basin which slipped off, letting him down through. He was gotten out by means of straps.

TODAY'S COURT.

Jeremiah Murphy was arraigned for larceny at Weymouth. Case placed on file on payment of cost amounting to $4.85.

—Before the city election of 1906 there was a majority throughout the State for license of 14,004; now there is a majority for No-license of 13,375; and the officers of the Massachusetts No-License league are working very earnestly to add still further momentum as a result of the town vote to what is already, if we except 1893, the biggest sweep No-License-ward that our State has ever known.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. ## BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Thousands of people from Boston's suburbs swell the great throngs attracted to the Tremont by that most vital and absorbing of American plays, "The Man of the Hour." This is the only New England engagement this season, and to accommodate out of town patrons the last curtain falls at 10.40 nightly. A great play "The Man of the Hour"—a play that teaches honesty in municipal government; holds tense interest by strong dramatic situations; sparkles with epigram and glows with buoyant humor. It is a play for men and women, of any party or creed, and it's splendid object lesson for young folks. It doesn't preach. It keeps people laughing and entertained and sends them away thinking. Such a play does not come more than once in a generation. Seats selling now for Washington's Birthday.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

There will be another addition to the list of great bills that have been presented at Keith's Theatre this season the coming week, for the prospective program will include Vesta Victoria, Horace Goldin, Princess Trixie, the Exposition Four, the Zazel-Vernon Troupe, Charles and Fanny Van, Coombs and Stone, Murphy and Frances, and Elsie Boehm.

It is about a year ago that Vesta Victoria played her first engagement in Boston at Keith's, and the hit she made then with "Waiting at the Church" and "Poor John" is still fresh in the memories of those who saw her then.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Another evidence of Manager Morrison's enterprise in conducting the Boston Theatre is shown in his announcement of the first performance in Boston of the comedy, "The Boys of Company B" as the Boston Theatre attraction next week. This play is by the author of "Brown of Harvard," Miss Rida Johnson Young, and has a military flavor which easily explains its long popularity with New York audiences last year. The story of the play deals with the love experiences of Tony Allen, a New York militia man, quite respectable but with a limited bank account, and Eileen MacLane, a wealthy society girl, and the action is mainly devoted to the overcoming of the obstacles to "love's young dream" shared by these two principal factors in the development of the plot. Tony has a strong rival in Arthur Stabler, son of a wealthy sire, and Tony's final success in his struggle for Eileen is brought about by a handsome gift from his uncle.

PARK THEATRE.

Elsie Janis, grown tall, exquisite and with new charms and talents, came to the Park Theatre last Monday night in "The Hoyden," a musical comedy translated from Cosmo Hamilton's French and feathered with catchy music by Bowers and Golden Miss Janis, without question, is one of the most gifted girls on the American stage and "The Hoyden" gives her time and place to exert her most potent attractions. Joe. Cawthorne as well as several other agreeable comedians. Cawthorne plays a baron, which is a grade higher than Joe usually rates in the comedy peerage. He comes with all his trills on tap and a topical song which he makes amusing, though it is not a sudden thrill of blazing wit and melody. In the quartet of the last act he was very funny. The company is excellent. Samuel Reed, Sidney Jarvis, Lionel Walsh and Arthur Stanford. Stanford especially, and Mr. Walsh, whose Hon. Bertie is exceptionally humorous and artistic. Claire Martz, Isabel d'Armond and Nellie Beaumont, are handsome and clever, and LaNoveta, several handsome girls who work with animation and sing well, and a lot of good-looking young fellows. The scenes are three stunning studies in decoration. Everything on the stage seems spick and span now and the entertainment is an orderly refined and enjoyable affair beautifully costumed and intelligently staged. Miss Janis is the star and typically American and sweet as a rose.

THE ORPHEUM.

Will Dillon, the song writer and comedian who made such a tremendous hit at the Orpheum last week with his timely songs and parodies—more up to date than anything hitherto attempted in vaudeville—and with an added feature in unique and striking illustrations, has been engaged for a second week, something formerly unheard of at this house. He will be surrounded by a bill of exceptional merit, one of the prettiest features being Agnes Scott and company in Miss Scott's dainty sketch "The Wall Between." There is nothing exactly like this now in vaudeville for Miss Scott is a petite sympathetic comedian who has the splendid support of Horace Wright with his Irish melodies.

QUINCY PROMINENT

In Organization
Of National Society Of Naval Sponsors

Mrs. John L. Gow and daughter Miss Elinor Gow leave tonight for Washington for a ten days' visit. They go to attend the forming of the Society of Navy Sponsors which is to organize in that city on Wednesday. Miss Elinor will be the youngest member. There will be 165 members and at death of a member the membership goes to the oldest daughter or oldest granddaughter, only one member of a family being eligible.

The much talked of Society of Naval Sponsors will be the most exclusive in America only those who have been the sponsors of naval vessels being eligible. The scheme of organizing such a society originated with Miss Laura Pinnock of Salem the sponsor of the scout cruiser Salem, launched at Quincy last year. A correspondence was started between Miss Pinnock and Miss Mary Campbell of Birmingham, Ala., sponsor for the scout cruiser Birmingham also built at Quincy and the society met with instant favor.

The plan was brought to the attention of Admiral George Dewey, who gave his endorsement. Sponsors of navy vessels all over the country were soon communicated with and the response was spontaneous.

Its success was immediately apparent. Arrangements for the formation of the society have been nearing completion until now all is ready for the organization of the society which will be perfected at the meeting in Washington on Wednesday.

Seven different states have been represented in the list of sponsors of the government vessels launched at the Fore River shipyard in this city, and all the ladies are eligible:

U. S. S. Torpedo Boat Destroyer Lawrence—Miss Ruth Lawrence, 285 Lexington avenue, New York, N. Y.
U. S. S. Torpedo Boat Destroyer Macdonough—Mrs. Lucy Macdonough Reade, 2428 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
U. S. S. Protected Cruiser Des Moines—Miss Elsie Macomber, Des Moines, Ia.
U. S. S. Battleship New Jersey, Mrs. William B. Kinney, Elberon, N. J.

U. S. S. Battleship Rhode Island—Mrs. F. C. Dumaine, Concord, Mass.
U. S. S. Battleship Vermont—Miss Jennie Bell, East Hardwick, Vermont.

U. S. S. Submarine Boat Cuttlefish—Miss Eleanor Gow, Quincy, Mass.
U. S. S. Submarine Boat Octopus—Miss Frances Webster, 115 Devonshire street, Boston, Mass.
U. S. S. Submarine Boat Tarantula—Mrs. G. S. Bradford, Quincy, Mass.
U. S. S. Submarine Boat Viper—Mrs. L. Y. Spear, Canton avenue, Milton.
U. S. S. Scout Cruiser Birmingham—Miss Mary Campbell, Birmingham, Ala.

U. S. S. Scout Cruiser Salem—Miss Lorna Pinnock, Salem, Mass.

A Little Hole Causes Alarm

Some of the people residing near the stand pipe on Penn street became alarmed Sunday at a leak in the pipe. The pipe holds 432,000 gallons, and the thoughts of that volume of water rushing down upon them added to their fears.

The police were notified and they in turn notified the Water department. It was found that ice had formed about the ladder on the inside of the tank, and that one of the bolts that had held it in place had been pulled out.

This made a hole an inch in diameter in the side of the standpipe through which the water spurted. The hole was quite a ways up and no damage was done.

William McInnis Beloved by Many

The funeral of William McInnis, which was held Sunday afternoon, served to illustrate the fact that the goodwill and esteem of the community is not graded according to one's social standing or worldly possessions. Seldom has a funeral in South Quincy been attended by so many people as assembled to pay their last respects to the deceased.

A brief religious service was held at the McInnis home on Kidder street and then the remains were taken to the Water Street Presbyterian church where services were held at 2.30. Every seat in the church was taken, the side aisles, hallways, stairway and landing were crowded, and there were large numbers on the sidewalks who were unable to enter the building.

Members of Clan McGregor, Bay View Orange Lodge and John Adams Lodge of Eagles, in which societies Mr. McInnis held membership, were present. The ritualistic service of the Clan was conducted before the body was taken from the church.

There was a scripture reading and a prayer by Rev. A. M. Thompson, and a brief address by the pastor, Rev. N. J. Sproul, in which he referred to the lovable qualities of the deceased, and the comfort it must afford the family to realize how highly he was esteemed.

Shortly after the death of his wife, which occurred last year, Mr. McInnis turned his thoughts to the imperishable truths of religion, and became a member of the Water Street Presbyterian church. Mr. McInnis was the son of a Scotch Highlander, and was a native of Prince Edward Island. He was engaged for many years in the granite business in partnership with A. D. McKay and others. He had a genial and generous disposition and was very popular. He was especially noted for his rugged honesty and physical strength, although he never boasted of either. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston.

Firemen's Ball Netted $463.60.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association was held at the Central fire station on Saturday evening, Feb. 15, at which meeting the following officers for 1908 were duly elected:

President—Daniel J. Nyhan.
Vice President—William F. Powers.
Clerk—Walter P. Hill.
Treasurer—Thomas F. Hogan.

Trustees at-large—Daniel J. Nyhan, James Dillon, Frank C. Packard, Charles P. Costa and Samuel P. Hanson.

Trustees from Companies—Herbert Griffin of Engine 1, Murdock Martin of H. and L. 1, James C. Gallagher of Hose 1, Joseph J. Avery of Hose 4, Edward F. Drohan of Hose 3, Gilbert H. Rhodes of Hose 2, J. R. Ross of Combination 3, Henry Hughes of H. and L. 3, Daniel McNeice of Combination 2, A. L. Stephenson of H. and L. 2.

The Ball committee reported the net proceeds of the ball, Nov. 22, 1907, to be $463.60 which amount was added to the funds of the association.

The committee appointed in July, 1905, to receive and disburse money contributed by popular subscription for the relief of sufferers by the accident at Wollaston on July 4, 1905, reported their duties complete and submitted report showing total amount received $1,482.14, and disbursements of $1,482.14, which account was audited by a committee and found to be correct according to vouchers.

The association is in a most flourishing condition, and during the year past have assisted many members who were unfortunately injured in the performance of their duty.

Boys Arrested Money Recovered

A 13 year old Quincy boy was arrested at Braintree on Saturday night for the Quincy police by whom he was wanted for larceny from the stores of Berry Bros., and John Page. According to the police, the boy with his 8-year old brother went into Page's store Saturday, and while one attracted the proprietors attention the other abstracted thirty cents from the money drawer.

They then went to the store of Berry Bros., where the money drawer was tapped of $18 while the attention of the cashier was attracted to the other side.

The boy then went to the district court, where he was under probation, and reported to Probation Officer Spear that he had been a good boy. After being told to continue to be good, and come again next Saturday, the boys disappeared. A few minutes later the police were at the court looking for the boys. Chief Burrell and Lieut. McKay suspecting that they would visit a Boston skating rink visited Boston to locate them. They saw the boys but before the officers could reach them the boys got away. Suspecting that they would go to Braintree word was sent to the police there, and they were arrested by Officer Loring and sent to Quincy. The police recovered $15.45 of the money.

Holiday Reception By the Governor

There will be new features this year at the annual public reception of the Governor of Massachusetts on Washington's Birthday. Over 30 societies have already asked permission to attend the reception of Gov. Guild, to be held in the Hall of Flags at the State House on Saturday. In addition to these, the officers of the militia will be on hand.

The affair promises to be one of the largest receptions ever held by a Governor of the state, for in addition to the organizations which have already signified their intention of being present a general invitation has been sent out from the Governor's office stating that no further notice is necessary, but that everyone is welcome.

GOVERNOR GUILD

Gov. and Mrs. Guild will receive, and they will be attended by the Governor's staff in full uniform. These will be backed by color-bearers carrying representations of the flags of Massachusetts from the earliest time until the present day.

The central rotunda will be decorated with American flags, pine garlands and the Massachusetts colors, while the 8th Regiment band and a full drum corps will be stationed in the outer hall. The musical programme will include much modern music, but in addition the military music of the revolution will occupy a prominent place. The airs played at the sieges of Boston and Yorktown, at the battle of Bennington and on other historic occasions will be among the selections.

As in other years the line will be kept open to all, and it is desired that even the children should attend the reception.

Quincy Water Supply.

The elevation of the Forbes hill reservoir is 192 and the capacity 5,116,000 gallons. The stand pipe nearby has an elevation of 252 feet and a capacity of 340,000 gallons. The Penns hill stand pipe has an elevation of 249 feet and a capacity of 432,000 gallons.

Four Christenings.

There were four home christenings at Quincy Point on Sunday afternoon by Rev. A. R. Atwood assisted by Deacon Charles Sherbourne. They were Alice Wilhelms Solomon of Sargents lane, Dorothy Elizabeth Scarth of Newcomb square, William Barrie Anderson of 22 Newcomb place, and James McGregor of Massachusetts avenue. At the first two the singing was by Eva Forrest, Jennie Gibb, Effie Waddell and Selma Thayer. At the last two the singing was by James Davis, Colin Kennedy and John Goodfellow.

—The Republican state convention for the election of delegates to the national convention will probably not be held until about the middle of April. The exact date for the holding of the convention will be fixed at the meeting of the state committee the last of February.

—Plans are completed for the dinner at Hotel Somerset, Saturday evening, to Brig-Gen. Johannes H. Whitney, commander of the 2d brigade, one the eve of his retirement after nearly 50 years of active service in the Massachusetts volunteer militia.

—Your Optical wants are safe with us as we guarantee complete satisfaction in all cases we fit. C. F. Pettengill optician, 1381 Hancock St., Quincy.

Possible Deadlock Over Coddington

It is probable that the Mayor and City Treasurer's estimates of sums needed for current expenses for the present year will be forwarded to the City Council at its meeting tonight. It is also probable that there will be something doing in the Coddington school matter.

It is currently reported that the School Committee has voted not to approve the plans of Hurd & Gore for the Coddington school building and that a communication to that effect will be forwarded to the City Council tonight. Just what action the Council will take in this event is not known.

But one committee has met since the last meeting of the Council, but a meeting of the Finance and Street Committees will be held tonight, before the Council meeting. It is probable therefore that reports may be expected on some of the orders before them.

Victory for Gram.

Carl Gram of Wollaston, who represented the Institute of Technology on Saturday at the track sports of the Lawrence Light Guards won second prize in the 35-yard dash open which required 20 elimination heats, semi-finals and finals. In the preliminary heats he made the best time of the day, 4 1-5 seconds. Gram also took part in the big event of the evening, when in an exhibition against time the Technology relay team made up of Gram, Fernstrom, Gunson and Blackburn, set up a new record for the track at four laps each, by making the distance in 2 minutes and 58 seconds.

Has Done the Cape.

Starl Cronley, the perambulator of the border towns of the United States, who left Quincy Feb. 7, reached Onset bay on Sunday. Since leaving the "City of Presidents" he has walked along the Cape Cod bay towns to Provincetown, and back by the ocean shore town. He will now go down Buzzards bay and up Narragansett bay, and along the Connecticut shore to New York.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. basket ball team was defeated on Saturday by the Brockton Independents 54 to 14.

Abolition of Grade Crossings

Seldom has there been a time when there was so little criminal business before the District court as there has been this month up to date. There have been a number of days when there was not a single criminal case before the court.

The committee at the Board of Trade must know tomorrow night how many propose to attend the banquet of Thursday evening, that they may give a guarantee to the caterer. It promises to be an enjoyable evening, with a good
menu, prominent gentlemen as speakers,
and vocal and instrumental music.

Rev. W. W. Dornan of Plymouth, a former Quincy pastor, was welcomed by a large congregation at Bethany church on Sunday at both services. His text in the morning was Proverbs 4:23—
"Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life." In the evening his subject was "Abraham Lincoln," and the choir rendered patriotic music, and it was an interesting service.

AGREEMENT BROKEN

Russia Offended by Austria's Position Toward the Balkans

"A FIGHT FOR RAILWAYS"

Situation Which May Lead to Inde-nite Postponement of Reforms in Macedonia—Confidence in European Peace Likely to Be Weakened

St. Petersburg, Feb. 17.—Baron Von Aehrenthal's reiteration of the determination of Austria to build a railroad through Novipazar as a connecting link
for the Austrian line through Bosnia with the Turkish line to Saloniki, and the announcement by the German foreign office of its financial support to this plan, have left no illusions here
regarding the fate of the agreement
looking to joint action in the Balkans, negotiated by Emperor Nicholas and Emperor Francis Joseph at Muerzterger
in the autumn of 1903, which was the ground work of the subsequent program
of reforms in Macedonia.

The attitude of the Russian foreign office is that the agreement, which is regarded as already violated in spirit by the Austrian foreign minister's efforts to extend and consolidate the Austrian sphere of influence by a private bargain with the sultan for the construction of the railroad, should be abrogated.

Russia is now left a free hand to work out her own policy in the Near East. Negotiations are still being conducted to the end of inducing Austria to withdraw her railroad scheme, but no hope of their success is held out on either the Austrian or the Russian side.
The principal efforts at present are being devoted to arranging a new grouping of the powers, it being thought here that Russia and Great Britain might enter into an agreement for joint action
in Macedonia and that these two powers would be supported by France, and perhaps by Italy.

The defection of such an important power as Austria, which, on account of her geographical position, shared with Russia the leading role in the efforts to settle the Macedonian problems, renders the outlook dark.

Since the seriousness of the Russian opposition to Austria's plans has become evident hints have been thrown out from Vienna that Russia and Italy,
as the powers most directly interested,
would be allowed in the way of compensation to construct railroad lines, Italy one through Albania and Russia a line from the Danube to the Adriatic sea. Both powers, however, decline to accept this proposal.

The Russian ambassador to Turkey,
M. Zinovief, at a lengthy audience with the sultan on Friday, submitted Russia's objections to the construction of the proposed railroad, which, it is confidently expected here, will result in the postponement of the Austrian project.

The impression that Austria is acting with the full cognizance and support of Germany, which has been confirmed by formal statements given out by German government officials, has resulted in an outburst of anger against that country, affecting all circles of the Russian press and public. This antagonism is felt with especial force in the army,
where it is believed Teutonic influences are back of Turkish activity on the Per-so-Russian frontier, which again has assumed a menacing phase.

Confidence in Peace Weakened
London, Feb. 17.—The leaders of the movement for reforms in Macedonia are urging upon Foreign Secretary Grey that the break-up of the concert of powers gives the government opportunity for action which should bring about beneficial results. They contend that Great Britain is now free to act vigorously, and that being outside the group of concession seekers, her demands will be the more likely to receive attention.
The cabinet has not yet decided whether Great Britain will act independently, but the foreign office is formulating a new scheme.

Among the press and public the break-up of the concert is overshadowed by the "fight for railways" which Austria has started with the sympathy, if not the support, of Germany. All authorities adhere to the first impression that Austria's action is inopportune
and an apparent breach of the understanding with Russia, whereby these two powers agreed not to seek concessions without consulting each other.
Russia's counter-proposal that she be given the right to build a railroad from the Danube to the Adriatic is considered a natural result, following Austria's action.

The position created, however, is greatly regretted, because it is believed that it indefinitely postpones reforms in Macedonia. It is not likely that Turkey would grant to a divided ambassadorial conference what she had refused to grant to the allied powers,
and, besides, the situation tends to weaken confidence in the maintenance of peace in Europe.

Endangers Christians
Paris, Feb. 17.—The intersection of rivalry between the nations on the Balkans question at a moment when it would seem essential that the powers should present a united front to compel the porte to apply the Macedonian reforms is regarded here as extremely unfortunate. While it is too early to assume that this means a complete rupture of the European concert, it has created divisions and suspicions among the powers, of which the porte is sure to take advantage to the detriment of the Christians in Macedonia.

Austria "Growing Sensitive"

Vienna, Feb. 17.—Despite official assurances that harmony has been re-established between Austria and Russia,
the situation arising from the question of railway concessions in the Balkans has not lost its tension. The government is growing sensitive under the aggressive attacks of the French and Russian press and adverse criticism in Great Britain and will not admit that the Russo-Austrian entente has become ineffective.

Pleases the Sultan
Rome, Feb. 17.—"The sultan is rubbing his hands," said an ambassador of one of the leading powers in explaining that the only country to profit by the break-up of the European understanding in the Balkans would be Turkey. So far Turkey has consented only to a commission to study the proposed Austrian railways and has not as yet given the concession, and it is well known
how many years are necessary to obtain concessions from the porte.

Wife Failed to Bring Wealth
Chicago, Feb. 17.—Marion Goodenough, who, as Marion Grey, conducted a matrimonial bureau in Elgin, Ill., was found guilty of having used
the mails in perpetrating a fraud on William Grable of Dearborn, Mo., by failing to procure for him a wife as "wealthy and good-looking" as promised in the advertisements sent out by her. Grable was married to the woman furnished by the bureau, but she did not fulfill specifications as to beauty and wealth. The jury deliberated nearly twenty-four hours.

Live Wire Killed Mother and Son
Pittsburg, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Steven Matava and her son, Steven, were killed, and Mrs. Spencer Neely was seriously injured at Denora, a suburb, by coming in contact with a live wire. The boy grasped the wire, which was hanging but a few inches above ground, and met death. In attempting to rescue her son Mrs. Matava touched the boy's hand and she was killed. Mrs. Neely secured a board and thrust the wire aside, but was thrown violently to the ground and seriously hurt.

Bruno's Memory Honored

Rome, Feb. 17.—Yesterday being the anniversary of Giorgio Bruno, a monk who was burned at the stake by the church as a heretic because he introduced scientific philosophy into Italy,
the anti-Clericals made demonstration in his honor in the leading cities throughout the country. The government took extraordinary precautions to prevent disorders. Socialist and Republican orators delivered inflammatory speeches in the square where Bruno's statue stands.

Had a Five-Hour Talk

New York, Feb. 17.—A suffragette demonstration, which partook of the nature of a disorganized procession
through the city's streets and a mass meeting at which the suffragettes and Socialists talked for five hours on their doctrines and beliefs, took place yesterday. The suffragettes had been informed by the police that a parade
would not be permitted.

Going to Work For Taft

Washington, Feb. 17.—Frank H.
Hitchcock, first assistant postmaster general, has concluded his service with the government. He will shortly take up the work of managing the Taft presidential campaign in the south and east. Hitchcock will be succeeded as first assistant postmaster general by Charles M. Grandfield, now chief clerk in that office.

Separate Cars For Blacks

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 17.—The
"Jim Crow" law went into effect yesterday on street cars and railways alike. There is no law to prevent whites and blacks riding together on rear platforms of cars, and conductors will not attempt to separate them there. All railroads have arranged their depots
and cars to comply with the law.

To Take Over Old Disputes

Washington, Feb. 17.—Ambassador Bryce has left here for Ottawa for the purpose of conferring with the Dominion officials relative to the boundary and fisheries disputes between that country and the United States. Bryce took with him the draft of several proposed treaties looking to a settlement of these questions.

Flotilla Made Good Time

Washington, Feb. 17.—The navy department has been officially advised of the arrival of the American torpedo boat flotilla at Talcahuano, Chile. The flotilla reached Talcahuano four days ahead of the schedule and will stay there five or six days before sailing for Callao, Peru.

Man's For Stealing Book

Fitchburg, Mass., Feb. 17.—Ernest
B. Esgren completed six months' sentence in Fitchburg jail for larceny of books from Worcester lawyers and was arrested at once by a Boston inspector on the charge of stealing books
from three persons in Boston.

Thaw's Mother at Matinean
Matinean, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Mrs.
William K. Thaw was a visitor at Mateawan state hospital yesterday and attended the chapel services with her son, Harry K. Thaw. Mrs. Thaw was accompanied here by a nurse and a detective.

Engineer and Fireman Killed
Ottawa, Feb. 17.—A passenger train left the track near Eastman Springs station. The engine fell over on its side. William Martin, fireman, was scalded to death, and Alfred Parks, engineer, died from his injuries.

'AN INHUMAN EVENT'

War With Japan Something
Not to Be Thought Of

SO SAYS BARON TAKAHIRA

New Ambassador Regards Our Pacific Cruise as Purely Naval Maneuver—Friendship Between Japan and America as Sincere as Ever

New York, Feb. 17.—Declaring that war between the United States and Japan would be "the most inhuman event in the world's history" and was "too hellish" to be thought of, Baron
Takahira, the new Japanese ambassador to Washington, said upon landing
in New York from the steamer Etruria
that the Japanese people know absolutely nothing of a break in the cordial relations which have been historic between the nations.

Talk of war, Takahira declared with much emphasis, was utterly unintelligible to him unless, as some one had suggested, it was to serve the commercial ends of some newspapers. The new ambassador said there might be some matters pending in Washington which would require his attention, but they were not serious.

As to the cruise of the American fleet to the Pacific ocean, he regarded it purely as a naval maneuver on a grand scale—designed to show to the world at large that America has a wonderful naval power which can be dispatched anywhere at a moment's notice, "in support of a legitimate cause which always is at the bottom of American diplomacy."

Baron Takahira left for Washington
today to present his credentials to President Roosevelt. He is a warm personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt's. The baron is returning to the American capital after an absence of two years spent in Rome, as ambassador to Italy. He left Washington as minister and was subsequently elevated to the rank of ambassador. He was one of Japan's envoys at the Portsmouth peace conference.

"I am very pleased to come back to this country in my present capacity,"
said Takahira to a representative of The Associated Press. "I started my diplomatic career as an attaché at our legation in Washington some thirty years ago and I always have regarded that city as my cradle. Now I am going back there as the personal representative of the Japanese emperor accredited to the President of the United States, and I think I can consider it as a triumphal entry into that city."

"I naturally recall to mind at this moment the pleasant experiences I had through the most trying time of my last stay at Washington. It was a terrible time in my diplomatic career, working day and night for nearly two years, and the friendship I received from America did much to diminish the anxiety that otherwise would have been immense.
No one knows better than I how sincere and true were the expressions of your sentiments. No one appreciates more than I do the high value of such sympathy."

"All that I thought of you then I freely expressed at the time, and my very words must be remembered by those who cared to take an interest in
me. So there is no need to repeat them.
I simply tell you now that I am the same man I was and that I am of the same mind as when I left your country in December, 1905."

"I know there were some questions
arising after I left—about the segregation of Japanese children in some of the schools of the Pacific coast and of Japanese immigration. I cannot, of course, tell you at this moment how I will have to deal with what remains to require my attention at Washington. Yet I tell you that, in spite of all the excitement and speculation reported from time to time in the newspapers, there has never been any change in the attitude of the Japanese government toward this country. The friendship existing between the two governments
has been historical and they are both as sincere as ever in the cordiality of their relations. This is at least what I am given to understand and I am going back to Washington confident in the belief that I will find there the same good friends I left two years ago last December."

Will Be Exodus of Teachers
New York, Feb. 17.—Five hundred or more American school teachers will visit England, Scotland, Ireland and the continent of Europe next autumn
for inspection of schools and methods of teaching in vogue there. This announcement is made by the National Civic Federation, which has just completed arrangements for the expedition.

here at the age of 71 years. He was born in Worcester and graduated in the Harvard class of 1856 with high honors.

Flowers on Regicides' Graves
Lisbon, Feb. 17.—Republicans who were not permitted to show their respect for the assassins of King Carlos and the crown prince at the funeral of those men Saturday night went in large numbers to the cemetery yesterday and laid flowers on their graves.

the comfort features of the Ralston Health Shoes
been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell—until you try on a pair—that Ralston Shoes
are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your feet provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe—one in which the body weight instead of resting
on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the entire service of the foot bottom.

ARRESTED ON VESSEL

Indictments Charge Ice King
With Grand Larceny

HE ASSERTS HIS INNOCENCE

Taken to House of Judge, Where He Gives $20,000 Bond—Wrongful Discounting of Note Given by Ex-
Chief Justice O'Brien is Charged

New York, Feb. 17.—Charles W. Morse, financier and promoter of many large combinations, including the so-called "ice trust" and a merger of nearly all of the coastwise steamship lines, returned yesterday from his brief trip to Europe, was arrested in his state-room when the steamer Etruria reached quarantine, in the lower bay, held in custody until the ship was docked, and was then whirled away in an automobile to the home of Justice Dowling of the supreme court, where he gave bond in the sum of $20,000 to answer to two indictments charging him with grand larceny and involving the sum of $100,000.

Morse was released and went immediately to his Fifth avenue home, where he issued a statement last night, asserting his innocence and asking the public to suspend judgment until he has had the opportunity of facing his accusers in court.

Morse will appear before Justice Dowling in open court and plead not guilty to the indictments. He denied that his trip to Europe was a "flight." He said that he went abroad to sell stock in a large interest and to get a fortnight's rest. Both purposes were spoiled by the publication of reports that he was a fugitive from justice, he declared.

Morse had received word by wireless telegraphy that two indictments had been found against him, but he did not know he was to undergo arrest. The appearance of three detectives from District Attorney Jerome's office at his state-room door took him completely by surprise. The officers, armed with a warrant, had gone down the bay on a revenue cutter. They were accompanied by Albert B. Boardman and Philip J. Britt, attorneys, and by Benjamin W. Morse, a son of the financier. Mrs. Morse met her husband at the pier and it was in her automobile that the journey with one of the detectives was made to Dowling's house.

Justice Dowling held an informal court session in his library, Assistant District Attorney Kresel representing the prosecution. The bonds, which were signed by a surety company, had been prepared Saturday. Morse was requested to sign two obligations of $100,000 each, and along with the representatives of the bonding company, was put under oath to appear at any time his presence may be required.

Britt explained that he had requested Jerome to allow the attorneys to produce Morse in court, as was done in the cases of other well-known men under indictment, but he had been told that the public interest demanded that the ex-banker be placed under arrest as soon as the ship reached New York waters.

The charge against Morse grows out of a note given to him by ex-Chief Justice Morgan J. O'Brien of the court of appeals. O'Brien is said to have deposited three notes for $100,000 each with Morse in payment for a block of 1000 shares of stock in the National Bank of North America. The notes were to be held three years and not discounted, according to O'Brien, and at the end of the three-year period he was to have the privilege of consuming the bargain for the purchase of stock or withdrawing from it.

It is charged that Morse discounted one of these notes at the Mercantile National bank, in which he formerly was a director, and that he represented to the bank that he was authorized to receive his check for the amount of the loan. It is further alleged that the check given to Morse was made payable to O'Brien and was cashed by Morse at the National Bank of North America—Morse signing O'Brien's name, "per C. W. Morse." It is the theory of the indictment that the check, never having passed into the hands of O'Brien or his authorized agents, its use by Morse constituted grand larceny from the Mercantile National bank, because title had never passed from that institution.

O'Brien, it is said, refused to appear as complainant against Morse, and in the grand jury room is reported to have had a sharp tilt with Jerome, whom he told that an indictment found upon the transaction related would not hold.

"I used to have to take my law from you, judge," Jerome is said to have replied, "but now I will have to give it to you."

Both of the indictments against Morse are said to involve the one transaction. They have not been made public.

Submarines Off For Maneuvers

New York, Feb. 17.—Trailing in the wake of the United States gunboat Hist, three submarines, the Viper, Tarantula and Cuttlefish, put out to sea on a voyage hoped to be the longest ever taken by vessels of this type.

Once before this flotilla essayed the stormy Atlantic, but it was turned back by ice floes. The immediate destination of the flotilla is the Delaware capes, whence it will proceed later to Hampton Roads for maneuvers.

FLOOD IS SUBSIDING

Much Suffering and Heavy Monetary Loss at Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17.—After reaching 30.7 feet at noon yesterday and remaining at that stage for three hours, the high water in the rivers is now slowly receding. The danger mark in this city is twenty-two feet. The damage and suffering caused by the annual flood is widespread. A remarkable feature, however, is the absence of fatalities. Livestock has perished in considerable numbers.

Miles of territory in Greater Pittsburgh and vicinity is submerged. The actual monetary damage cannot be ascertained at this time, but from all accounts it will run up to several million dollars.

The suffering caused by the high water is intense. Thousands of persons are living in the upper floors of their homes, using skiffs as a means of transportation. The lower portions of their homes are filled with water.

To add to the suffering of the victims the weather grew cold yesterday and snow fell. The gas connections of the houses have been disarranged and in their present damp condition life is made miserable for the unfortunate occupants.

Charitable institutions, making use of many skills and rafts, are serving 10 coffee and food to the families, most of whom are at best poor.

Battleships Have Some Defects

Washington, Feb. 17.—By direction of the president, Secretary McCall has made public the report of Admiral Converse on the fighting ships of the American navy, called forth by many criticisms recently published in magazines and otherwise. While declaring that the material of the navy is not so bad as the critics have made out, he admits that there are defects in the battleships of the Kearsarge, Kentucky and Indiana classes, especially in reference to the exposed gun ports and the height of the bow freeboard.

Bank President Flourished Gun

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—R. E. Stange, president of the Citizens' State bank, in police recently suspended, was sentenced in police court to six months' imprisonment for exhibiting a revolver in a "rude and threatening manner" to a depositor in the bank who sought to recover his money. An additional sentence of three months' imprisonment was imposed on the banker for carrying a concealed weapon.

New Cruiser Establishes Record

Newport News, Va., Feb. 17.—The armored cruiser North Carolina has returned to the shipyard, having, during her third speed test run, maintained an average speed of 22.48 knots, or 48 of a knot in excess of contract speed requirements. This was the best speed ever made by a vessel of the armored cruiser class. The twenty-four hours' endurance run was given about two months ago.

Fifty Houses Inundated

Stuebenville, O., Feb. 17.—Two hundred persons were compelled to flee through water at Mingo Junction when a cinder-bank thirty feet high, built by the Carnegie Steel company for protection of lowlands from flood, gave way under the pressure of back water. Fifty houses in the bottoms were inundated. The Ohio river is at flood stage, forty-two feet, and rising.

Books Under Papal Ban

Paris, Feb. 17.—The archbishop of Paris has issued a decree condemning the last two works of Abbe Loisy, "Synoptic Gospels," and his reply to the papal encyclical against modernism in the faith. The decree forbids the clergy and laity, under penalty of special papal excommunication, from reading, keeping, printing or defending such books.

Jewel Stolen From Countess

Berlin, Feb. 17.—A pearl necklace and pin of extraordinary beauty, valued at $80,000, have been stolen from the dressing room of Countess Von Wirsensleben. The only unusual circumstance noticed was that a window in the maid's room was open. The maid was detained by the police, but she protested her innocence.

Senator Clay Laid Up

Washington, Feb. 17.—Senator Clay of Georgia is ill with an attack of acute indigestion at his apartment in this city. The senator's physician says that he is seriously ill, although not in immediate danger. Clay was taken ill in the senate chamber on Friday after a speech on the Aldrich currency bill.

Lumberman Used His Gun

Hattiesburg, Miss., Feb. 17.—As a result of a quarrel over the payment of $2500 J. F. Mider, a sawmill operator and a leading lumberman of the south, shot and killed W. L. Booth at Epps station. Booth was a real estate dealer of Dallas.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The 100th anniversary of the delivery of the speeches of Johann G. Fichte, the German philosopher and patriot, on the occasion of the occupation of Berlin by Napoleon and his French army, was celebrated by the United German Societies of Boston.

Cyril Pichette, aged 52, died at Manchester, N. H., from burns received by the explosion of a lamp. It is supposed that he was trying to light his pipe from the lamp when it exploded.

While heating milk for his infant daughter, Daniel Sullivan of Lawrence, Mass., aged 40, set his night clothing on fire and received burns from which he died.

Three barges, carrying about 2700 tons of hard coal, were sunk in the sound off Saybrook, Conn. The crews were taken off by a tug.

POLICE TO INVESTIGATE

Two Marines Mysteriously Went Overboard From a Tug

Newport, R. I., Feb. 17.—The mysterious drowning of Benjamin G. Steenerson, a son of Congressman Steenerson of Minnesota, and John M. McIntosh, both privates in the United States marine corps, is being investigated by the police. The two men were on board the tug Annie R. Wood, bound from Newport for Fort Greble, when they went overboard and were drowned.

According to some of the members of the crew the two men, who are said to have been drinking, jumped over suddenly into the water and were drowned before they could be rescued. The police, however, say that they believe the circumstances warrant an investigation, and Emil Olsen, who was also on the tug, was held as a witness. There is said to have been a dispute between the two marines and Olsen on the tug. One of Olsen's eyes is blackened as if by a blow. According to the police, Olsen and the two marines, together with Charles Kinger, had been drinking together, although the two marines were strangers to the other men.

Friends of the two men at the marine barracks are not inclined to credit the theory that the men jumped overboard voluntarily and committed suicide.

Missing Man Heard From

Hardwick, Vt., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Benjamin E. Opie of this town, whose husband disappeared mysteriously on Jan. 27 from Montpelier seminary, where he was studying for the ministry, has just had word that he is in a hospital in Liverpool. Mrs. Opie has received a letter from her husband, who writes that he has no recollection of leaving the seminary and that the first realization of what he was doing came to him when he was on the steamer on the way to Liverpool. It is thought probable that overwork at the seminary caused a temporary derangement of his mind.

A Mysterious Tragedy

Newburyport, Mass., Feb. 17.—The body of a well dressed man, with the feet tied, the wrists badly bruised and an ugly wound on the forehead, was found on the banks of the Merrimack river. A piece of rope was hanging from the knot at the ankles, as if the body had been weighted down, and the end of the rope was frayed as if it had been worn out, releasing the body. There was nothing by which the body could be identified. The medical examiner will hold an autopsy.

Has Right to Strap Pupil

East Brookfield, Mass., Feb. 17.—Miss Goodwin, who teaches in a public school in West Brookfield, was acquitted in the district court here after a charge of assault and battery. The complaint was brought because of her punishment of a young pupil. Miss Goodwin admitted that she wielded a strap four times across the boy's back. The judge found that the punishment was not excessive.

Would Accept Vice Presidency

Boston, Feb. 17.—The Post says: Governor Guild, fresh from his trip in the west, where he was boomed for vice president while with the Taft party, told The Post last night candidly that he would not refuse the nomination, but he made it perfectly clear that he was not a candidate, and that it would have to depend entirely upon whom the Republicans nominated for president.

Fel Into a Tank

Portland, Me., Feb. 17.—Thomas S. Laughlin, aged 65, of the firm of T. S. Laughlin & Co., one of the largest manufacturers of ship chandlery goods in the United States, met an accidental death. Laughlin had occasion to go into the factory after dark and in some way fell into a large tank filled with water and used in cooling the manufactured product after it comes from the moulds.

Harvest For Fishermen

Boston, Feb. 17.—A dispatch received in this city from St. Johns, N. F., by the Boston Chamber of Commerce states that about 5000 bales of cotton are floating about Trepassay bay from the wrecked steamer Tolesty. With a salvage of $5 a bale the fishermen are reaping a harvest, but perform their work under hazardous conditions.

Used Overalls to Hang Himself

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 17.—Miss Mary A. Murphy, 50 years old, committed suicide by hanging. Her body was found suspended from a beam in her cellar by a pair of overalls which had been thrown over the beam, the straps being fastened about her neck. She had been dependent on account of ill-health.

Murderer's Sentence Postponed

East Greenwich, R. I., Feb. 17.—Alban P. Benjamin, who was found guilty of murdering Albert Babcock at the "Black House," near Rice City, has filed a motion for a new trial with the clerk of the superior court and until it has been heard sentence will not be pronounced upon the prisoner.

Found Dead In Bathbub

Hartford, Feb. 17.—Former Lieutenant Governor Ernest Chad was found dead in the bathtub at his home in this city. Death was due to fatty degeneration of the heart. He was born at Stafford in 1842 and served with Governor Morris in 1893-95.

Discourag d Man Hangs Himself

Andover, Mass., Feb. 17.—The body of William H. Barton, aged 54, was found hanging from a tree in the orchard of J. E. Hutchinson. Despondency at not finding work and being also ill is believed to have been the cause of his suicide.

Mayor's Estimates

Compared with the Appropriations of 1907
Total Current Expenses
$15,691.97 Larger

The City Council received on Monday evening the estimates of the Mayor and City Treasurer, which the Daily Ledger compares below with the appropriations made for 1907. The total for current expenses both by the Mayor and School Committee are larger than last year and probably in excess of the $12 per $1,000 limit.

The amount required for maturing debt and interest is considerable larger than in 1907. More is also required by the Water and Sewer departments which are figured outside the limit. The grand total appropriated in 1907 was $574,202.32, and the estimates this year are $634,531.97.

HEALTH In Childhood

means health in later years. As the child builds the adult shall be. Weakly, neglected children do not grow to vigorous man and womanhood. Childhood complaints yield easily to proper treatment—but they do not correct themselves. The weak stomach, pallid complexion, listless bearing, irritable temper, disturbed sleep, speak plainly of the ailments common to children, most of which have their origin in disordered stomach and bowels.

The greatest safeguard to children's health is

Dr. True's Elixir

For indigestion, irritability, constipation, poor appetite, peevishness, fevers, stomach and liver troubles and worms it is unequalled. Parents of two generations have relied upon it. It restores sound, vigorous health when nothing else will. First it removes the cause, then aids nature to repair the damage; builds anew the waste, enriches the blood and sends a glow of health and vigor to every organ and tissue of the body. ## MORSE IS UNRUFFLED

His Troubles Appear to Be Rapidly Multiplying

THIRD INDICTMENT IS FOUND

Perjury Is Alleged, and Counsel Is Notified of Two Other Actions Against Former Banker—Pleads
Not Guilty of Grand Larceny

New York, Feb. 18.—The legal entanglements of Charles W. Morse, former banker and promoter, are multiplying. A third indictment, alleging perjury by Morse during an examination before the grand jury, was found by the special grand jury yesterday, a short time after Morse had appeared in court to answer the two indictments found against him last week, charging grand larceny.

Another development in the case was the serving of Philip J. Britt, counsel for Morse, during an examination before the grand jury, with summons in two actions brought against the former banker. The complaints in the suits have not yet been filed, but it was stated they were in connection with stock transactions that occurred some time ago.

The appearance of the former banker in the criminal courts building was comparatively uneventful. If the financier was worried there was no indication of it in his manner. When arraigned before Justice Dowling he pleaded not guilty of grand larceny, and his counsel then asked for two weeks' time in which to examine the indictments and the minutes of the grand jury that returned them. The representative of the district attorney thought that one week was enough and Dowling, agreeing with this, set next Monday as the date for further hearing.

After his return to his office Britt made a statement concerning the transaction upon which the larceny indictments rest. He denied that there was any agreement between Morse and Morgan J. O'Brien that the notes which O'Brien had given in payment for stock of the Bank of North America, which Morse sold him, should not be discounted, and said that the whole transaction was entirely open and above board.

Lawyer Britt said he did not yet know whether he would interpose a demurrer to the indictments. His legal action would depend upon a study of the grand jury minutes, for which he intended to apply.

Mr. Morse, after leaving the courtroom, went to his office and was soon in consultation with former business allies regarding his entangled affairs. It was while so engaged that news was brought him that another indictment, alleging perjury, had been found. For the moment Morse had no comment to make. It was arranged that he should appear in court today to answer the new charge. This course was decided on in view of the fact that Morse was already under $20,000 bonds and that he signified his willingness to appear whenever wanted.

The perjury indictment, it was learned, was based upon a loan secured in September last by E. R. Thomas from the Bank of North America, of which Morse was vice president at the time. E. R. Thomas, in testifying before the special grand jury, told of the loan, which was one of $50,000. Alfred H. Curtis, then president of the bank, also testified to the fact that the loan had been made.

Mr. Morse, who had been before the grand jury, was then recalled and asked if such a loan had been made. It was stated that he denied that the money had been loaned to Thomas either on his recommendation or without it. Thomas was again summoned, and this time, it is said, he produced a letter which Morse had written, recommending the loan. Later Morse again appeared before the grand jury at his own request, and, it is stated, testified that he desired to correct his testimony. This he is said to have done in a manner so that it squared with what had been learned from other witnesses.

It was pointed out, however, that the law is such that corrected testimony before a grand jury might be taken as a basis for a perjury charge.

Roosevelt Bust From Uruguay
Washington, Feb. 18.—A bust of President Roosevelt, made by an association of artists of Uruguay, is soon to be presented to the president. The bust is mounted on the back of an eagle with spread wings, the eagle resting on a miniature globe on which are traced the outlines of North and South America. The bust is made of plaster and is somewhat less than life size.

End of Pittsburg Flood
Pittsburg, Feb. 18.—The rivers in Pittsburg and its suburbs have returned to the limits of their banks and except for the cleaning up the flood is over. Railroad and traction lines have returned to practically normal schedules and general business in the flood district has been resumed. Many families are in distress on account of the flood.

Sheriff's Posse After Negro
Savannah, Ga., Feb. 18.—A dispatch from Statesboro says that one negro was shot and probably fatally injured and another is being pursued by a sheriff's posse and will probably be lynched if caught, as the result of an attempted assault upon Mrs. Matthew Howard.

INNER WORKINGS REVEALED

"Jury" of Ten Men Decided Upon Shootout at Boston, in Which Four Chinamen Were Killed by Hatchet
Men From Other Cities

Boston, Feb. 18.—The first testimony bearing on the inner workings of the mysterious Chinese society of Hep Sing Tong, a number of alleged members of which are now on trial in the superior criminal court, charged with shooting up of Boston's Chinatown last August, when four Chinamen were killed, was given in court by Shoy Pong, a government witness.

The witness stated that he had been a member of the Hep Sing Tong for four years and that Wary Charles, one of the defendants, said to be the richest Chinaman in Boston, was president.

Continuing, he said in evidence: "Our headquarters last August were at 75 Harrison avenue and we had about eighty members. Wong Duck, one of the defendants, was treasurer. We also had what we called a jury, consisting of ten men, who were officers, and they held secret meetings."

"At one of these meetings last July, which was called by Charles, the subject of a raid on Chinatown was brought up. Charles said that we would have to do some killing and make the Chinese business men so afraid that all of them would join our society. He also said that we were getting to be dead ones and must kill someone."

"Some members of the jury said they would do as Charles liked and then Charles said the best plan was to send to New York, Philadelphia and Chicago for hatchet men who were unknown, so they might escape. He said that if anyone caught he would hire attorneys for the defense. I would not agree and did not attend any more meetings."

In completing his testimony Shoy Pong declared that Charles said the Boston Tong must have some killings as they had done in New York; that he offered to give $200 and pay the expenses of each person, and insisted that each member of the Tong pay in $50 and that a reward of $300 be offered to any one who would do the killing and get away without being caught. The four Chinamen who were killed on Aug. 2, 1907, and the several others wounded were all members of the On Leong Tong, or rival society to the Hep Sing Tong.

Alleged Contempt of Court
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 18.—Judge Wellborn has ordered the issuance of warrants for the arrest of President Brown and Secretary Haven of the Chamber of Commerce at El Centro to answer to the charge of contempt of court. A telegram of protest against the injunction issued by Wellborn against the California Development company, which was signed by the two men, is held by Wellborn to be in contempt of the federal court.

"Blot on American History"
Havana, Feb. 18.—The Diario Espanola, in a leading editorial referring to the special celebration by Americans of the tenth anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine, says: "They commemorate the blackest blot on American history, the world, including honest Americans, believing that the ship was blown up by direct orders from the war department for the purpose of justification in the plan to depose Spain of Cuba."

Double Shooting in Hotel
Kansas City, Feb. 18.—James P. Hayes and John O'Donnell called at the Cosby hotel to see two men. When told by the clerk that the men had left the hotel, Hayes and O'Donnell assaulted him. J. D. Cosby, proprietor of the hotel, came to the assistance of his clerk and when Hayes attempted to repeat the assault, drew a pistol and shot both Hayes and O'Donnell. Both men are seriously injured.

Senator Latimer at Death's Door
Washington, Feb. 18.—Following an operation for a twist of the bowels, Senator Latimer of South Carolina, for five terms a member of the house of representatives and since 1903 a member of the senate, is in a critical condition at a hospital here. Though hope is felt for his recovery, the outcome is by no means certain.

Fairbanks Trouble Blows Over
Washington, Feb. 18.—Conditions at Fairbanks, Alaska, where the Western Federation of Miners is alleged to have been deporting non-union men, are reported to the war department as "quiet." No troops have been sent to Fairbanks. The report is taken to indicate that the crisis in the labor trouble has passed.

Anxiety For Missing Bark
Savannah, Ga., Feb. 18.—Bark Baltimore sailed from Cape Henry for Savannah on Jan. 22. She has not since been reported and it is feared she has been lost at sea. Besides the captain there were eight men on board. Eight days should have sufficed for the voyage.

ONLY NECESSARY TO TREAT THE STOMACH

The new theory advanced by L. T. Cooper relative to the human stomach has attracted such widespread attention that the public in cities visited by the young man has been joined by many physicians in a discussion of his beliefs and medicines. Mr. Cooper says that human health is dependent almost entirely upon the stomach. He says that no disease can be conquered without first alleviating all stomach disorders. He further says that most men and women of this generation are half-sick, owing to degenerate stomachs. And lastly, he claims that his New Discovery medicine will rejuvenate the human stomach in 90 days.

Cooper has been traveling from one city to another, conducting in each what he calls a campaign of education. For the past year he has met the public in the larger cities of the country, and his success has been phenomenal. Thousands of people have flocked to his headquarters wherever he has gone, and the sale of his medicine has been beyond anything of the kind ever before witnessed.

Possibly the most interesting feature of the attention this young man has attracted is what his army of followers, whom he has converted to his beliefs through his medicines, have to say on the subject. The following statements are from two well known residents of Chicago and Boston, respectively, and the enthusiasm of these is characteristic of Cooper's admirers generally. Mrs. H. B. Mack, of 3201 State street, Chicago, says: "I have been suffering for 12 years from a combination of stomach troubles, catarrh and constipation. I had a gnawing pain in the pit of my stomach, a sort of a dull pain that I could not quite understand. Then there was a dull headache, and my mind seemed to be wandering continually. I could not eat, and what little solid food I did eat I could not retain on my stomach. I tried every remedy I could think of, and also tried out a number of patent medicines, but without any apparent result. It was through one of my friends that I heard of Cooper's preparation, and I immediately decided to try some of it. It is two weeks since I took my first dose of it, and I feel like a new woman. The headache seems to have disappeared, and the pain in my stomach along with it. The medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I want to thank Mr. Cooper for what he has done for me."

Mr. Edwin F. Morse, of 20 Oakley street, Dorchester, a suburb of Boston, says: "For three years I had not a well day. My stomach was in frightful shape; the mere thought of food would nauseate me, and I really had a horror of anything to eat. All solid food would cause me extreme indigestion, bloating and gas on my stomach, and nothing tasted right. Some time ago I got some of this Cooper's medicines, about which there is so much talk. I actually feel as well and strong as a boy ever since the first bottle. Every sign of stomach trouble has disappeared, and I have a hearty appetite and eat three square meals; every thing seems to taste good. Anyone who knows what chronic indigestion is can appreciate what this means to me. I consider this the most remarkable medicine I ever heard of."

We sell Mr. Cooper's medicines, and find them to be all he claims. —E. J. Murphy.

So Cleverly Have

the comfort features of the Ralston Health Shoe been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell—until you try on a pair—that Ralston Shoes are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your feet provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe—one in which the body weight instead of resting on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the entire service of the foot bottom.

We'd like to hear you say "Show Me."

CODDINGTON NIGHT

At Meeting of City Council Mayor Submits Annual Estimates

A regular meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening and although of less than an hour's duration considerable important business was transacted.

CODDINGTON PLANS.

A communication was received from the School Committee stating that it was the unanimous vote of the committee not to approve the Hurd & Gore plans for the Coddington school. Because they were not suitable to the lot or adapted for the needs of the school. Placed on file.

SEWER ESTIMATE.

A communication was received from the Commissioner of Public Works stating that the cost of construction of a sewer on Farrington street would be $14,400. That there was sufficient balance to do the work, and that it was the intention to build it the coming season. Placed on file.

ANNUAL ESTIMATES.

A communication was received from the Mayor enclosing the Mayor's and Treasurer's estimates for the ensuing year. Referred to Finance Committee. The estimates appear in full in another column.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

A communication was received from the Mayor with inclosure from the Chief Engineer giving cost of installing fire alarm boxes in the several school buildings. The Chief estimates the cost to be by overhead construction $700, and by underground construction $1,314. To Committee on Fire Department.

NEW CONSTABLES.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Alphonse Williams, Howard D. Hunt, Edward Myatt and Daniel McNeil as constables. Confirmed.

A DEFICIT.

A communication was received from the City Auditor stating that bills in excess of the appropriation for the Poor Department amounting to $1,326 had been filed with him for approval. Referred to the Finance Committee.

COL. QUINCY SERVICE.

A communication was received from the Quincy Historical Society inviting the Council to attend the meeting in commemoration of the life and services of Col. John Quincy for whom the city was named, at the First church, Sunday, Feb. 23, at 3 o'clock. Placed on file.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received including those of W. B. Gerry, Louis Romeri and Andrew S. Isaacson for permits to transport liquor. Referred to License Committee.

The Electric Light Co., petitioned for a location for poles on East Howard and Roberts streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The Citizens Gas Light Co., petitioned for permission to lay mains in various streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from Thomas H. Fahey for a refund of $73.92 for taxes illegally assessed on Bates avenue from 1892 to 1905. Referred to Finance Committee.

A petition was received for an arc light on Field street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order for a public hearing March 16, on the petition of Charles Miller, et al, for license to keep and sell gasoline. Adopted.

The Committee on State Aid reported on a number of petitions for Soldiers Relief. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the New England Telephone Co., a location for poles on Field street and for attachments to poles on several streets. Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 2, on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 2, on petitions of the Telephone Co., for attachments and locations. Adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment transferring receipts from gypsy moth of 1907 to the appropriation for gypsy moth of 1908.

making the amount $638.03 instead of $790.30. Rules suspended and order passed.

Upon motion of Councilman Ferguson a recess was taken for five minutes to allow the Committee on Streets to meet.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 16, on petition of the Citizens' Gas Light Co., to lay mains. Adopted.

CLUB NUISANCE.

Councilman Gelotte offered an order appropriating $1000 to be expended by the Chief of Police in abating the club nuisance at Houghs Neck. Referred to Finance Committee.

SIDEWALK WANTED.

Councilman Walsh offered an order appropriating $500 for a gravel sidewalk on the west side of Washington street, between South street and the Point bridge. Referred to Committee on Streets.

MORE LIGHT.

Councilman Cantfill offered an order for two incandescent lights on North Payne street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Cantfill offered an order changing the incandescent light on the corner of Franklin street and Franklin place to an arc light. Referred to Executive.

THE CODDINGTON.

Councilman Bryant offered an order requesting the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works to confer with the School Committee in regard to changes necessary in the plans of Hurd & Gore or Charles A. Brigham for the Coddington school, so as to bring the cost within the appropriation of $70,000. Adopted.

Councilman Gilson offered an order that the Mayor be requested to instruct the Commissioner of Public Works to advertise for bids for the building of the Coddington school by plans of Charles A. Brigham as approved by the School Committee.

In support of his order he stated that he had seen a representative of one of the bidders, who said at the time the bids were asked, the steel and lumber markets were very unsettled, and no one knew where they would land. Today the conditions of the market on steel and lumber was known. That at least 8 or 10 percent could be taken from the original bids if new bids were invited.

Councilman Bryant raised the point of order that the order interfered with an executive act. The Mayor can go ahead and ask for further bids if he desires, but Council cannot instruct.

Councilman Gilson—I do not instruct; I request.

President Hobbs after consulting the City Solicitor ruled the order to be in order.

Councilman Teasdale would like a report on the previous motion before this order was passed.

Councilman Whitson saw no harm in adopting the order. It simply requests the Mayor to advertise.

Councilman Bryant asked the City Solicitor for his reason for ruling as he did.

City Solicitor McAnarney replied that he did not pretend to rule on parliamentary law. The question was if the City Council had a right to request. They certainly have a right.

It is simply a matter of courtesy and has no binding force. If you ask him to advertise for bids you should provide the means for him to do it with. The order was then adopted.

GROVE STREET.

Councilman McGilvray offered an order appropriating $2,000 to resurface Grove street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

OUT OF ORDER.

At this point President Hobbs read a ruling from the City Solicitor in regard to the order offered by Councilman Gillette at the last meeting for the Committee on Public Buildings to procure plans.

The ruling was that the City Council may direct the Executive Department to procure plans, but they can not order the committee to do so.

President Hobbs then said that he would withdraw the order in question and declare it not in order. Adjourned at 8:33 until March 2.

Corn Syrup Is The Correct Name.

An important question in the administration of the pure food law was settled Feb. 14 in a decision made public by Secretaries Wilson, Cortelyou and Straus. It bears upon the labelling of syrup. The decision follows: "We have given careful consideration to the labelling of the thick viscous syrup obtained by the incomplete hydrolysis of the starch of corn and composed essentially of dextrose, maltose and extrine. In our opinion it is lawful to label this syrup as 'corn syrup,' and if to the corn syrup there is added a small percentage of refiner's syrup the mixture in our judgment, is not misbranded if labelled 'corn syrup with cane flavor.'"

PASTOR
AND WIFEHave Two Celebrations
Of Their Golden Wedding

On Monday Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Heath of Wollaston reached the 50th anniversary of their marriage and the event was celebrated both in Boston and at Wollaston.

During the afternoon from 4 to 6 there was a reception at the studio of their daughter at 402 Boylston street, when several clergymen and their families and former parishioners called to extend congratulations and best wishes to the much respected couple. Dr. Heath has held many pastorates in Boston and vicinity and his good works are known all over.

A happy event of the day was the presentation of $50 in gold to the venerable couple. The rooms were artistically decorated for the occasion, flowers adding their charm.

At Wollaston in the evening there was another reception, when worshippers at the Methodist church, neighbors and the people of Wollaston generally called and extended best wishes. The Wollaston people also presented $50 in gold.

Mrs. Heath wore a rich black satin and carried pink roses. Miss Heath wore a violet silk and carried a bunch of violets.

About a year ago Rev. Mr. Heath celebrated the 50th anniversary of his ministry, and in April next will complete five years as pastor of the Wollaston church.

Whist Scores
At Wollaston

The regular tournament of the Wollaston Whist club was held Saturday evening and the scores run very close. J. A. Hamilton and A. B. Hillman won out by a small margin.

On Wednesday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Mystic Valley Whist association will be held at the Wollaston club.

Milton Officer
Was Plucky

Officer Fallon of Milton ran up against two suspicious characters on Blue Hill avenue Monday night. When he went to question them, one drew a revolver, and placing it to the officers face threatened to blow his head off. Officer Fallon knocked down the man's arm and slipped the handcuffs upon him. The second man ran off. Placing his prisoner in charge of neighbors, the officer started after the fleeing man, but was unable to catch him. The arrested man gave his name as Leo Richards, aged 16 years of 20 Taber avenue, Brockton.

Superintendent of Streets Appointed

Commissioner Bainbridge this morning announced the appointment of Michael Shea of West Quincy as general foreman or Superintendent of Streets.

Commissioner Bainbridge, in speaking of the appointment, stated that as soon as he assumed office he began a hunt for a thoroughly competent man for this position. After an exhaustive search he concluded that Mr. Shea was the best man in the city for the position. Mr. Shea has been in the employ of the State Highway Commission for several years, and has been actively engaged in road building. He considers him a man thoroughly competent for the position.

Calvin Dyer who has been a street foreman for several years will be retained but Mr. Shea will be in general charge.

Mr. Shea will assume the new duties today.

To win from Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., and swim in their excellent pool, is the especial ambition of Quincy Y. M. C. A. men this week. On Wednesday evening there is a dual athletic meet with the seniors.

The events are: 15 yard dash; Running high jump; Potato race; 12 lb. shot put; and relay race. Gold and silver medals are offered and we expect most of them will come back to Quincy.

The next night Thursday the Quincy Employed Boys basketball team journey to Hyde Park to try conclusions with their boys.

On Feb. 27th the first dual meet with Brockton will be run off in Quincy. The events are: 15 yd. dash; high dive; potato race; 12 lb. shot; and rope climb.

A new feature has recently been added to the regular class work of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., and already good results can be noted. Class attendance is better, conduct on the gym floor is better, and more new members are joining. Music is the feature. A good piano player has been secured and all the boys and evening classes are conducted by music. Marching, running, gymnastic, dancing, drills and apparatus work, are more beneficial and exhilarating when carried on to the rhythm of music.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

GENERAL FOREMAN

Commissioner
Says That Is
The Position of Michael Shea

Exceptions are taken to the statement that Michael Shea had been appointed as superintendent of streets. There is no such office as superintendent of streets under the City Charter and therefore no authority for creating such an officer.

Commissioner Bainbridge says that Mr. Shea was not appointed as a superintendent of streets, but Mr. Shea was appointed as general foreman under the Commissioner of Public Works.

This is an office that comes under the civil service and therefore must be a civil service appointment.

There is no eligible list for this position but the Civil Service Commission have granted permission to the provisional appointment of Mr. Shea until such time as an eligible list is established.

Quincy's Birthday Also on Feb. 22

The people of Quincy do not know as much as they should about Col. John Quincy, for whom the town of Quincy was named in 1792, but they will have an opportunity on the 116th anniversary of Quincy to learn something of this gentleman who as early as 1728 was chairman of a committee appointed "to confer and agree upon some method for dividing the town of Braintree."

The Quincy Historical Society announce a public meeting for Sunday, Feb. 23, in the First church, in commemoration of the life and services of Col. Quincy, when there will be addresses by Charles Francis Adams, the grandson of President John Quincy Adams, and by Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson of Northfield, a former pastor of the First church, and a historian of Quincy.

It was on February 22, 1792, that the act passed the Legislature of Massachusetts incorporating the town of Quincy, and it was John Hancock, another illustrious son of Quincy who as Governor signed the act. So that Feb. 22 is the birthday of Quincy as well as George Washington.

"John Quincy" was for 40 years representative of this town in the General Court and for many years in succession Speaker of the House of Representatives. Pattee's History of Quincy says "The Quineys, from the earliest time, have lent their influence to support, and their virtues to adorn, the institutions of religion here, as well as the institutions of government and learning on a wider theatre."

Among the sacred vessels belonging to the First church is a tankard marked "The gift of Hon'ble John Quincy, Esq., to the First church of Christ in Braintree, 1767."

The Daily Ledger tomorrow will tell more of Col. Quincy.

To Expend $7,500 On Clubhouse

A largely attended meeting of the Wollaston Golf club was held in Boston on Monday to hear the report of the committee appointed at the annual meeting to suggest alterations and improvements for the clubhouse.

The committee presented plans which provide a new locker room, 52 by 49 feet. The lockers will be 72 inches high and 15 by 18 inches in depth and width.

The alterations call for another story, with the installation of steam heat, hot and cold water, dressing rooms with set bowls and shower baths, a ladies' parlor and locker room on the first floor, and under the new locker room, with an entrance from the lounge room and piazza, there will be a new dressing room 22 by 18 feet, with a piazza extending on three sides.

In addition to the steam heating plant in the basement, the servants' room will be located in that part of the building. The building alterations will cost about $7500, and this amount has been subscribed by the members. Work will be begun at once, and it is hoped to have everything completed by the first of May.

The changes in the golf course will be completed next fall, and the club will have links of 6,100 yards.

We have the stock, tools, machinery, and "know how" to do your Optical work promptly and satisfactorily. We repair the frames, grind lenses, match the broken ones or test the eye. C. F. Pettengill, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.

CHARTER CHANCES

A Committee Is Appointed By Citizens' Association
To Consider Them

The City Charter was the subject under discussion at the meeting of the Citizens' Association on Tuesday evening.

The new by-laws were adopted. Reports from several committees were received.

The President then introduced Arthur B. Homer, a former resident of Galveston, Texas.

Mr. Homer gave a talk on government by Commission, as it is done in Galveston. In opening he said before a city can reform its government some great crisis must arise like the tidal wave that visited Galveston in 1900. The government by commission had been in force six years, and had been a great success. It was opposed by gamblers, rum-sellers and politicians, but they could not overthrow it.

He read a long letter and abstracts from published articles which explained the system in detail. Under this form of government, the city became a large corporation, each citizen holding one share. It had got rid of the grafters, paid the city debt, paved and lighted its streets, built a sea wall, and raised its grade along the water front, and was a clean and honest government. The commission is elected at large and ward heelers are unknown.

There was no shirking of responsibility among the commission.

In reply to questions he said the mayor received a salary of $2000, and each member of the commission $1200. They give two or three hours a week to a meeting. Voters must register in January, and the election is held in the middle of the summer. The candidates are nominated without any caucus.

The school board is entirely separate from the commission. The colored population is about twenty per cent, but they are of the better class.

A discussion of the Quincy charter followed.

President Piper of the Board of Trade was called upon. He believed charter should remain as it is unless there was some good reason for a change. He had not heard these reasons yet.

Ex-Mayor Porter said the Quincy charter had three bodies—Executive, Legislative and School Committee. In his judgment the City Council had encroached on the School Committee. The elections now have come to turn on the point—who are to be the appointees, and not who is to be Mayor. If that could be eliminated it would be a good thing.

He saw by the papers that a superintendent of streets had been appointed. He knew of no such office under the charter. If there has been one appointed he comes under the civil service. Believed it best if Council could be elected at large. There is now too much of the "you tickle me and I'll tickle you," carried out by the Council.

It was thought when the charter was framed that after the Council had passed the budget it would adjourn. But it has become a continuous session. The difficulty is, that those citizens we would like to have, find it difficult to attend the duties of the council. He did not think the granting of location for poles such a serious matter as to call the Council together. On the whole the Quincy charter had been a great success.

The one thing needed for the success of the city is civic pride. A desire to assist in public work. To make a city full of aspiration. Civic pride that makes us glad for anything that tends for our welfare.

John L. Miller believed the Council too large. If we reduced the number to one from each ward and six at large it would be ample. Committees are the dumping ground for matters the Council does not want to take the responsibility of. He would also reduce the School Committee to 5 or 3 members. We should pay our debts as we go. It is not business to pay so much for interest. There would not be so much log rolling in a small Council. They can not raise $10,000 for a school building but can raise any amount for new streets.

Charles H. Johnson said a change was demanded in some things. The Commissioner of Public Works had too much already, and it was rumored that another office was to be added. He thought the Councilmen at large had worked for the ward instead of representing the whole city. Not enough attention is paid to legislative hearings. Large State taxes are saddled upon us for that reason.

H. G. Fay favored the Des Moines plan. It would be a vast improvement on what we have. We are now governed by a number of small commissions such as Mayor, Committees on Sewers and Streets. As it is now a voter only votes for eight out of the 23 councilmen. It was therefore not a truly representative body.

Herbert T. Whitman thought the charter on the whole a good one. It would be better if the number of Councilmen were reduced. This imaginary ward line is all wrong. As a rule we get better men for Councilmen at Large than from the ward.

John Q. A. Field said there was too much politics in the State House. The reduction of hours of labor has doubled the cost of everything. Look at the expenses of the illegal appropriations by the City Council. The State House is the sovereign authority. He believed in three Commissioners of Public Works instead of one. It is costing the city $1 for fifty cents worth of work. He believed charter should be changed to stop the illegal expenditure of money. The Council has no authority to borrow money to build gravel sidewalks. The Council was too large and there was too much outside influence.

Upon motion of Emery L. Crane a committee of nine was appointed to consider changes in the City Charter, viz: Brooks Adams, E. H. Angier, H. G. Fay, J. W. McAnarney, John L. Miller, Walter S. Pinkham, Charles H. Porter Fred B. Rice and R. A. Sears.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The submarines Tarantula, Cattlefish and Viper, built at the Fore River, passed the Virginia Capes on Tuesday and proceeded to Lynn Haven Bay, where they maneuvered for several hours. From there they go to Annapolis, Md.

Saturday, February 22, being a holiday at the shipyard, the company will pay off at the close of business Friday afternoon at 4.30. If one could but look in on Treasurer Sedgwick's department this week some idea might be had of what an undertaking it is for a large business concern to advance its regular paying off time by one day.

Four pieces of shaft stock is being annealed and oil tempered for the General Electric Company.

One hundred and one years ago today, Feb. 19 the British squadron under Sir John Duckworth passed Dardanelles.

Admiral W. L. Capps, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, United States Navy, who succeeded to the foregoing position upon the resignation of Admiral Francis T. Bowles to accept the presidency of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, will be called before the Senate naval affairs committee next Tuesday to explain certain details of warship construction.

According to the latest records, the navy has profited by the recent scarcity of employment in the way of enlistments, and the complement is now only about 500 men short.

Acting Secretary Oliver announces that the war department at last is in position to completely arm the organized militia of the country, 100,000 strong, with the new high-powered army rifle. The weapon is officially known as the model of 1907, rechambered for the ammunition of 1906.

A cable from St. Petersburg says the Americans, will be serious competitors in the bids for the construction of three large submarines, of 450 tons or more, included in the 1908 programme. An American firm also is a principal bidder in the competition for a big order composed of cartridge belt equipment, which closed Feb. 17.

A new world's record at target practice by the cruiser Maryland at Magdalena Bay is reported by Steward Edward R. White, who has just returned from there on a collier. The day's average of the Maryland was 8 and 43-100 hits per minute while steaming in battle formation at 10 knots. The shots were fired at a target 12 by 12 feet at 1700 yards.

Grand Banquet Board of Trade

The committee of arrangements for the Board of Trade Banquet reports that they are assured of a large gathering Thursday evening also that the demand for tickets for the ladies is quite popular. His Honor, Mayor Shea is expected to be in attendance as one of the guests of honor. All details are being carefully looked after, including checking of clothing.

One of the principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Board of Trade will be Hon. Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts. Mr. Draper has long been in public life and is well qualified to discuss public questions of the day. He is a forcible as well as an interesting speaker, and the opportunity to hear him should not be overlooked.

Other speakers at the banquet will be Hon. James F. O'Connell, Congressman from this district; ex-Councillor Col. Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro and Lloyd E. Chamberlain of Brockton, president of the State Board of Trade.

IN THE GRANITE STATE

Taft Touches Upon Matters of Interest to the Nation

OUR INSULAR POSSESSIONS

Porto Ricans Now Prosperous and Happy—May Ultimately Make Filipinos Self-Respecting and Useful—
In Favor of Having a Large Navy

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 19.—Secretary of War Taft had few spare moments from the time of his arrival in New Hampshire yesterday forenoon until a late hour last night. He delivered two addresses, one at Concord and the other at Manchester, and attended several receptions and a dinner
given in his honor.

A public meeting was held in this city
under the auspices of the Republican city committee. Here Taft delivered his second extended address of the day, following very closely the line of thought expressed in the address he delivered at Concord earlier in the day.

Mr. Taft outlined the history of the Republican party as far back as 1856
and 1860, eulogizing Abraham Lincoln, whom he described as the greatest politician who ever lived. He alluded to the Republican party as the party of freedom. Taft described the salient features of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and said that the negro must first educate himself, then till the soil and then by hard labor and in other ways acquire economic independence.

Mr. Taft took up the insular possessions of the United States and went into much detail with regard to the possibilities of the future for these possessions.
About Porto Rico he said that this country had opened the island's markets.
"It is a pleasure for Americans," he said, "to see how prosperous and happy
the Porto Ricans are."

Alluding to Cuba, Taft said: "We did not intend to take Cuba when we went to war. The war was a short one.
We were not prepared, but we found that Spain was less prepared and so the battle was easily won."

Concerning the Philippines Taft said that there is every hope that "if we educate the Filipinos, if we get them
used to the responsibility of self-government, we may ultimately make them
a self-respecting, useful nation." He sincerely hoped that in one generation
or two the United States would be enabled to say to the Filipinos: "You are now able to conduct your own government, and if we sail out of Manila bay
we feel confident that you will maintain a government that will confer credit upon you and upon us." When that is done, he said, the people of the United States may congratulate themselves that they have done a good thing
for their poor, unfortunate neighbors.

Mr. Taft declared that "under Theodore Roosevelt more work has actually been done for the promotion of international peace than was ever done under any president or king before him."
"We have not reached the millennium," he said. "We can't remain in a pusillanimous condition by which, if a nation wishes to insult us, to take part of our territory, to dispute some of the relations that we deem vital to our natural interests, we should not have at hand the means of defending our interests. I am not in favor of making a warlike nation, but I am in favor of having a large navy, to be commensurate with our population, with the interests that we have, that need protection against the intervention of some meddling foreign government."

The speaker then commented on the necessity of continuing the construction of the navy. The Portsmouth navy yard is an important station in that work, he said.

Cannon Boom Gets a Boost

Washington, Feb. 19.—Speaker Cannon's presidential boom received marked impetus in the house of representatives when Mr. Boutell, his colleague from Illinois, brought the subject to the fore as the climax of a half hour's speech. His remarks were based on the fact that yesterday was the thirty-fourth anniversary of Cannon's
first speech in the house.

Mr. Boutell spoke with enthusiasm, and when he closed with the remark that within the next few months "the plain people of the country would join the voters of Mr. Cannon's district in confering upon him the nation's final honor," the speaker was accorded a great demonstration.

Keen disappointment was felt on all sides when the speaker made no reply.
He stepped from the rostrum and,
amid cheering, retired to his room
while the house considered pension bills.

Illinois Republicans' Choice

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 19.—Resolutions adopted by the state central committee say: "We invite the attention to the fact that without the cordial,
earnest and constant support of Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives it would have been impossible for the recommendations of President Roosevelt to have been enacted into law, and that the potency of the Republican party cannot be better carried out and continued than by placing the administration of the same in the hands of the man whose authority and influence in promulgating the same
has been second only to that of President Roosevelt himself." Formal endorsement of Speaker Cannon for president of the United States followed.

Political Trend of the Times

Kansas City, Feb. 19.—Leslie M.
Shaw was the guest of honor and the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Kansas City Bar association last night. In discussing the subject, "The Next Step," he said that he confessed some apprehension as he viewed the trend of the times away
from the principles of Republican government and toward a pure democracy.
"The initiative and referendum is becoming more and more popular," he said, "and it demands that every question shall be referred to a direct vote
of the people."

Bryan on Campaign Issues

Columbus, O., Feb. 19.—William J.
Bryan's visit to Columbus was signalized by the Democratic state central committee unanimously endorsing his candidacy for the presidency. In an interview Bryan said:
"The great questions to share attention in the campaign, I believe, are the trusts, the tariff, and these railroad questions. But one issue runs through all, however, and that is 'shall the government be administered in behalf of all the people or for the benefit of a few
of the people?'"

Endorsement of Foraker

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 19.—The first test of strength between the two factions of the Republican party in Mississippi took place when the executive committee of the Eighth congressional district met and, by a vote of 11 to 8, adopted a resolution endorsing Foraker
for president.

Taft Endorsement in Tennessee

Nashville, Feb. 19.—The Republican state committee met and called a state convention to meet here March 25.
President Roosevelt's administration was approved in the resolutions adopted and Secretary Taft was endorsed for the next presidential nomination.

Taft Resolutions in Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 19.—The state Republican executive committee met here and resolutions endorsing the administration of President Roosevelt and the candidacy of Secretary Taft for president were adopted by a vote of 30 to 2.

Osborne Will Hunt Up Proofs

New York, Feb. 19.—It will probably be at least two weeks before the investigation of the American Ice company, which Attorney General Jackson will make, by direction of Governor
Hughes, is taken up by the grand jury.
James W. Osborne, who has been appointed a special deputy attorney general to conduct the investigation, is to pay visits to Maine and New Jersey
for proofs he desires of the formation of the different ice companies of which the American Ice company is composed.

Stoessel Shoulders Entire Burden

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The trial of Lieutenant General Stoessel reached
the last act yesterday, the prosecution
waiving the privilege of putting in rebuttal to the defense. Stoessel uttered only a few sentences in firm voice
and shouldered the entire responsibility for the surrender of Port Arthur.
"If the court decides that the surrender was a crime," he concluded, "I ask for the death sentence." The court is expected to give its decision today.

Would Give Japanese a Show

Seattle, Feb. 19.—The Seattle Chamber of Commerce addressed a memorial to President Roosevelt and Secretary Root to the effect that its members believe that a majority of the people of the Pacific coast are not in favor of any immigration law that will treat differently the people of Japan from the way in which the inhabitants of any European country are treated.

Government by Commission Is Legal

Des Moines, Feb. 19.—The Iowa supreme court rendered an opinion regarding the constitutionality of the Des Moines plan of municipal government
by commission, upholding the law in every particular. The court contends that it is within the province of the legislature to provide a commission plan for city governments in Iowa. There was no dissenting opinion.

Murderer Traced by a Key

Uniontown, Pa., Feb. 19.—Using as a clue a small key found last fall among the bones of a human skeleton turned up in a field by hunting dogs, detectives have traced the alleged murderer
of Ivan Kakhov at Masontown a year ago to Bulgaria and he will be brought back here for trial. He is Ivan J. Min-cor, who left here shortly after the murder was committed.

Alleged $30,000 Forgery

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—Lewis S.
Cox, an insurance broker of this city,
was arrested here on a warrant charging him with forging a check for $30,- 000 on the Quakertown National bank of Quakertown. Cox was taken after a struggle with officers in an office building in the city, during which he attempted to shoot himself.

Latimer in Critical Condition

Washington, Feb. 19.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the condition of Senator Latimer of South Carolina, who is ill of peritonitis, became so alarming that members of his family were summoned to the hospital. He rallied, however, and is resting more comfortably,
though his condition remains critical.

CONVICTION STANDS

Gillette Must Pay Penalty For Murder of Grace Brown

OWN EVIDENCE REVIEWED

Court of Appeals Finds It to Be of "Impressive Unnaturalness"—The Wretched Girl Beaten and Thrown Unconscious Into Big Moose Lake

Albany, Feb. 19.—Chester Gillette of Cortland must die in the electric chair
for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace, or "Billy" Brown, of South Otsego, in a lonely part of Big Moose lake in the Adirondacks at dusk July 11, 1906.
The court of appeals handed down a decision sustaining the judgment of conviction of murder in the first degree.

The court will soon fix a new date for the execution of the death sentence,
from which Gillette can be saved now only by the supreme court of the United States or the clemency of Governor Hughes.

The unanimous opinion of the court,
written by Judge Hiscock, riddles Gillette's story of the tragedy, to the effect that Grace Brown voluntarily jumped from the boat and was drowned. Hiscock ascribes "impressive unnatural-ness" to the principal features of Gillette's tale. He alludes to several points which still further impeach its truthfulness, and declares that "in addition to these deficiencies and improb-abilities in his evidence, there are repeated contradictions by a large number of witnesses who apparently had no interest in telling anything but the truth."

By Gillette's own evidence, as viewed by Hiscock, "we see Gillette emerging from this catastrophe, where he made no outcry for help, and with apparent composure turning to other pursuits, while he left the body of the woman he says he loved better than anyone else and intended to marry, lying unrecovered and unsought at the bottom of the lake."

Grace Brown, the victim, Hiscock describes as having been "brought up in a country home of an apparently simple and wholesome atmosphere," and aside from her relations with Gillette
he believes her to have been a good girl of pure character and of unusual intelligence and attractiveness. Gillette, he says further, "was possessed of education, of previous good character and he had had considerable experience in
the world."

Judge Hiscock recites the main details of the acquaintance between Gillette and the girl; their working together in the factory of the defendant's uncle at Cortland; the seduction of the girl and her increasingly embarrassing condition.

The journey of the two, which for her ended in the bottom of Big Moose lake, Hiscock says, "must have been born of the theory, genuine of course on the part of the woman, that it would lead to marriage. It could have presented no other reasonable or lawful purpose. The time had passed when desire would prompt such a trip as the cover or opportunity for mere illicit enjoyment. A condition existed which only could be relieved in a legitimate way by marriage, and the defendant
has testified that at that time he loved
the deceased and intended to marry her."

"Yet," the opinion declares, "every significant step taken by him seems to have led away from this consummation." Pointing to the elaborate pains which Gillette took to conceal his identity, even while planning to expose hers, and his admitted engagement,
made during that very time, to meet
other young ladies later in the week
at another place, the judge attributes much force to the contention of the prosecution that "already he must have planned to rid himself of his embarassments."

Judge Hiscock, in short, accepts as valid the theory of the prosecution that Gillette beat the wretched girl upon the head and face with his tennis racquet, tumbled her unconscious body into the lake and fled through the woods to keep his appointment with the other girls.

Prince Is After Court

Paris, Feb. 19.—A magistrate has taken the depositions of Prince Helie
de Sagan in connection with his charges of forgery against an unknown author of letters which Count Boni de Castellane produced in court during the course of the recent assault case. De Sagan maintained accusations both against the forger and against Boni as the user of forged documents and promised interesting revelations in the near future.

Declared Insane by Jury

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 19.—The jury in the case of Frank Cauthorn, on trial at Christiansburg for the murder of his former sweetheart, Mrs. Ada Jones, returned a verdict of "not guilty of murder, but insane." Judge Moffett ordered Cauthorn committed to a state insane asylum. Cauthorn said he slew Mrs. Jones because he loved her and she married another.

Decoration For Cardinal

Baltimore, Feb. 19.—King Leopold of Belgium has conferred upon Cardinal Gibbons the grand cross of the Royal Order of the Crown as a mark of his personal esteem and in recognition of his services to the cause of Christianity and humanity throughout the world.

$39.00 Reward for Umbrella

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Washington's Birthday will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued on Saturday. Many of the regular Saturday features will be found in the Friday Ledger. Sunday services should be forwarded one day earlier.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

A little snow for a change.
H. Sarkin is having a clearance sale of cloaks, suits and skirts.
Over 1000 tons of coal for C. Patch & Son arrived this week.

No Daily Ledger will be printed on Saturday Washington's Birthday.
J. W. Pratt advertises three desirable estates for sale in this issue.

Mrs. B. H. Prescott of Lynn has been the guest this week of Quincy relatives.
The labor hearings at the State House this week have been postponed until the week of March 2.

The social of First church is to be held this evening in the chapel from eight until ten o'clock.
Business agents are making an effort to organize the day laborers of the city into a union.

Mayor Shea will probably call another citizens meeting to discuss the grade crossing matter the latter part of next week.
It is now seventeen days since Peter J. Williams became chief engineer of the Fire department, yet there has not been an alarm of fire.

George Davey helps to make the men's club, "Original Minstrelsy" at Music hall on Feb. 28 a success. His song is one of the many good features of this much talked of show.
The number of tickets for the Board of Trade banquet is now limited as it was necessary to give a guarantee to the caterer. Only a few more will be sold.

Mrs. Henry Schulze of Bigelow street returned this week from a six weeks' visit with her parents in Cincinnati and other relatives in Ohio. She was accompanied by her daughter Evelyn and her aunt Miss Jackson.
The Cochato club of Braintree has its annual Washington's birthday children's party on Saturday afternoon. There will be fancy dances under the direction of Miss Hayward followed by dancing and refreshments.

The Daily Ledger's frequent prints with regard to the merit of Quincy's stores, trade and industries, have encouraged the people to look about them before going elsewhere, and the stores are today using intelligent efforts to sustain the city's pride and privilege.
In the Superior court at Plymouth on Tuesday Dr. Charles W. Garey of this city was fined $20 for exceeding the auto speed limit at Hingham last summer. The doctor has appealed now to the Supreme court. It is said to be the first case under that law taken to the Supreme court.

The Methodist club of Wollaston has extended a cordial invitation to members of the men's club connected with other churches at Wollaston, to attend their meeting March 19 when ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers will be the guest of honor. A male quartette will furnish music.
All boys and girls of Quincy are invited to attend the George Washington tea party given under the auspices of the Loyal Temperance legion in Protection hall on Saturday afternoon at half past two. There will be a good time with games and refreshments in charge of an efficient committee. It is hoped parents will attend also and enjoy the entertainment.

Team 5 Had Total of 1306

Team 5 won two games out of three from Team 2 in the Y. M. C. A. bowling league on Tuesday evening, and led on totals by 92 pins. Prescott was weak on the first game, but on the rubber contest he almost broke the record with a total of 114. Nichols had the best average for the evening, being above 98. Kemp did the best work for Team 2 and won the first game.

The summary:

	TEAM 5	TEAM 2
Mahoney	74	87
Prescott	78	88
Morris	93	80
Michell	74	84
Nichols	105	101

Excellent Holiday Bill.

Last night the Scenic Temple was taxed to its utmost capacity, the occasion being the opening of the Holiday Week Bill, which is one of the best yet produced. Long before the hour of eight the seats were well filled, and after the performance commenced there was "standing room only" and not a great deal of that to spare.

The show is a fine one, the pictures and songs new and exceedingly interesting, and William Chase, the illustrated singer, never was in better form. This popular singer received an ovation when his photo was thrown on the picture screen. His mellow baritone voice, and the catchy songs which he sings never fail to enthrall the audience.

Happy Billy Nichols, a versatile comedian, with funny jokes, and a mimic of no mean ability, aroused the humor of the audience more than once, and his excellent imitations of musical instruments by simply using a common broom and his vocal powers took the house by storm.

The Two Dalys, a very clever and humorous duet, were excellent in their laugh-producing playlet entitled "Marconi Outdone," and merited the appreciation of the audience.

Reed Bros., the expert novelty gymnasts and high-class ring performers gave a most excellent exhibition of their art, which is most entertaining and interesting. Their act is in a class by itself, and is unequalled by any.

Mother Wanted.

A morning paper contains a sensational story to the effect that the police were looking for Mrs. Amanda Abrahamson for deserting her 13 months' old son Albert. As a matter of fact the Quincy police are not looking for the woman.

From what can be learned the woman left her child to board at Jamaica Plain, but failed to pay the child's board, and it was taken in charge by the State Board of Charity.

Officer Loring of that society is the man looking for her to make her support the child. The woman was deserted by her husband shortly after her marriage.

TODAY'S COURT.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

Rev. Pitt Dillingham speaks to the Quincy Alliance in the parlor of First church on Monday afternoon on "The problems of Southern Education." Mr. Dillingham is an interesting speaker and should have a large audience. Every member is privileged to bring a guest.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of the Quincy Women's club lectured on Tuesday before the Whitman Woman's club on "Food Values."

Mrs. John F. Welch will be the hostess for the Friday club on Feb. 28th, with Mrs. Henry M. Faxon in charge of the program, the subject being San Marco and Savoranora, in continuation of the study of Florence.

"George John Romanes: the Religious Problem," will be the subject of the fifth lecture in the course on Great Autobiographies by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs at Tremont Temple, Saturday morning. The lectures deal with the types and problems of manhood and womanhood and are attracting large audiences of thinking people.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Alliance will be on March 4th and will be for business.

In a few weeks the Junior Friday club observes its tenth anniversary, accepting the hospitality of Mrs. J. Henry Emery of Adams street to meet at her home. Each member is allowed two guests. Parts in the afternoon's program have been assigned by the committee in charge and club members are busily at work on various stunts and surprises and a very happy anniversary is anticipated.

The Junior Alliance of First church will meet on Friday evening this week instead of Saturday owing to the holiday. The meeting will be at half past seven in the church parlor and a large attendance is desired.

The Junior Friday club had a pleasant meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Hall, Upland road.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

By the courtesy of the Arts and Crafts committee in changing dates the Civic committee has been able to secure the Hon. Carroll D. Wright for the meeting on Tuesday afternoon the 26th. Mr. Wright's subject will be "The Public Conscience."

Mayor Shea, Commissioner of Public Works Bainbridge, Dr. Hunting of the School board, Mr. George H. Brown, president of the Citizens' Association, Mr. T. L. Williams, president of the Board of Trade, several ministers and newspaper representatives have been invited to the meeting to meet Mr. Wright and it is also hoped that members will bring them as their guests, giving Mr. Wright a good representative audience.

Mr. Wright is too well known to need any special words of commendation. For several years he was chief of the bureau of labor of Massachusetts and developed a system of labor statistics which became the model for all similar work. While in charge of the census of the state he was appointed U. S. commissioner of labor. In 1895 he was Professor of Political Science in the Catholic University of America at Washington and is now president of Clark University at Worcester. He is one of the best known lecturers in the country on statistical and social subjects, receiving a hundred dollars or more a lecture. Mr. Wright has written many books as well as pamphlets.

The Civic committee feel much pleased that Mr. Wright consented to come to the Quincy club and hope he will be warmly greeted by members.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 26, at eight o'clock at First Church chapel, Mr. John Nolen of Cambridge is to give an illustrated lecture on "How to Improve our Outdoor Surroundings." Mr. Gilson will assist at the stereopticon. Art out of doors is at the present time a subject of general interest. To widen interest and apply art to public and private property and to enlarge and deepen enjoyment of art and nature is Mr. Nolen's object.

An editorial in the Daily Observer of Charlotte, N. C., says: "The interest which the people of Charlotte are taking in the landscape architectural talk of Mr. John Nolen is a good indication for the future beauty of the city. Mr. Nolen is a man of excellent ideas and is in demand by all our people who have the desire to make their home surroundings more attractive. The Park and Tree Commission never did a better thing than when it brought Mr. Nolen to Charlotte."

In reporting the lecture the same paper says: "A number of the leading citizens of this city were present in the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. last evening to hear the lecture of Mr. John Nolen on the subject of Outdoor Art. The masterly address by this well-known expert, supplemented by a number of vivid illustrations from time to time, was keenly enjoyed by all those present. Mr. Nolen spoke of civic improvement, both public and private, and drew many practical and helpful lessons for the benefit of Charlotte people. Landscape architecture domestic and foreign, was touched upon and application made to the present time and place. Mr. Nolen is a pleasing speaker one well acquainted with his subject, of fine address, and easy to listen to. He made a decided impression on those who heard him last night, and it is believed that this lecture will result in much good."

It would seem as though Quincy people were to have a rare treat in having Mr. Nolen, especially those who appreciate beautiful outdoor surroundings.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the Civic committee and is complimentary to the men of Quincy but all ladies, whether club members or not, will have the privilege of paying a quarter for their ticket as it is leap year and the funds are needed to defray the cost of the lecture. Any lady desiring to attend can procure of the Civic committee a white ticket for herself and also a blue one for a gentleman. The tickets are not transferable that is to say, the white tickets must be presented by women and the blue by men at the lecture.

If the club members have not already secured tickets they can do so at the next club meeting as members of the Civic committee will be prepared to meet the demand, provided the house is not sold out before. There is a good demand at present for tickets and considerable interest is being shown in the lecture.

Next week is surely Civic Betterment week, for besides the Hon. Carroll D. Wright lecture on Tuesday and the Nolen lecture Wednesday evening, there is to be a dance and card party at Atlantic Music hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the Atlantic members of the committee, the funds to be used in Atlantic for civic improvement.

The club calendar for the rest of the season is full of interest and members can look forward to some entertaining as well as interesting afternoons.

NEIGHBORING.

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead has returned from her lecture tour in New York state and Monday was a guest of the Dorchester Social club of Women. She addressed the club on "The Model Woman's Responsibilities." Mrs. Ames speaks to the Quincy club in April on "Patriotism: the New Internationalism."

Miss Rebecca Lane Hooper of Brookline is to read some of her own stories at the meeting of the Cantabrigia club on Friday, among them, "The Glorification of Mehitabel" and "The Lady of the Eccentric Spelling." Miss Hooper is a Radcliffe graduate '01 and has written some clever librettos for Radcliffe operas.

There is a good story told by Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker of the General Federation of Women's clubs when making a round of visits among state federations. It seems Mrs. Decker attended a convention of the Idaho federation, and there met a woman who was attending her first convention of clubs. She lived in a little town in Idaho, and had spent her life in faithfully keeping house and bringing up nine children. At the close of the convention she said to Mrs. Decker: "If I never have another thing but this convention happen to me, I shall have enough to last me all my life." Touched by the vision of such an empty existence as must lie behind the woman's utterance, Mrs. Decker said to her: "Why don't you go with me to the convention I shall visit next? It isn't far from here." The woman thought at first that her husband would object to another convention, but apparently he didn't, for she showed up promptly and delightedly at the convention in the neighboring state. Mrs. Decker introduced her as her friend, and the clubwomen of the convention city took it upon themselves to give that woman the best time she ever had in her life. She was entertained at the handsomest house in the city, she was invited to dinners and luncheons and breakfasts, and was taken to ride in carriages and automobiles. She had flowers and attentions showered upon her, and she was made the guest of honor of the convention. "That episode," says Mrs. Decker, "reconciled me to the 30 beds I have slept in since I began my visits to state federations. That episode is enough in itself to refute the statements of ex-President Cleveland against the value of women's clubs."

$100 REWARD.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. ## THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the donations.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889
The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, 1100 Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiry.

Just Jotted Down
By Ledger Men

Pupils of the Woodbury Institute
will hold a reception tomorrow evening.

The Finance Committee of the City Council will begin its consideration of the annual appropriation order this evening.

Corps 103 will observe Washington's Birthday at the home of Mrs. Jennie Holton, Edwards street, Saturday evening. All patriotic societies are invited.

The heavy rain of last evening did not take off much of the snow, but made it a disagreeable night to be out. This morning the sidewalks were very icy and lubly.

Mayor Shea will be the guest Friday night at the reunion of the Washington
M. French Home Association at the home of its president, Fred F. French in Boston.

The managers of the Men's club
"Original Minstrelsy" are out with the statement that two imported stars will appear at their fourth annual show, at Music Hall, Feb. 28. Their exhibition of up to date "end-men work" will be especially interesting.

The School Committee met with Commissioner Bainbridge and Architect
Brigham on Wednesday night to consider what changes are necessary in the plans to bring the cost of the new Coddington schoolhouse within the appropriation of $70,000.

There is considerable interest being taken in the mock trial under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.
Friends of the "Doctor" cannot believe for a minute that he would be guilty of stealing an umbrella especially when
that umbrella belonged to the Mayor.

In spite of the severe storm Wednesday night, there was a good attendance
at the Granite City club whist tournament. Five tables were in play and after twenty-five hands the best scores were made by George T. Magee and Henry F. Tilden. An appetizing lunch was served.

Personal

Mr. Lysander S. Richards, who is stopping at the Greenleaf hotel a few weeks this winter, has been quite sick
with the "shingles," but we are pleased to announce that he is gradually improving. He has been unable to visit many old friends in this city but hopes those who can will call on him.

ON A MURDER CHARGE

Woodbury Is Formally Arrested and Placed in Jail

FIRST WIFE HIS CHAMPION

Declares He Did Not Slay His Wife,
but Brothers of Dead Woman Think Otherwise—Long Job For Medical Experts In Examining Remains

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 20.—Herbert
Woodbury, livery stable keeper, real estate owner, church member and one of the most prominent and highly respected residents of this town, was last night formally arrested on the charge of murder and now occupies a cell in the town jail at Dover. His wife's lifeless form was found hanging by a cord to the knob of a door in an attic room at their former home, the Exchange hotel.

One of the greatest champions in Woodbury's behalf who stoutly maintains his innocence is his first wife, Mrs.
Mattie Woodbury, from whom he was divorced eight years ago to marry the woman of whose death he is now charged.

"I do not believe Mr. Woodbury is guilty of the crime. I would not believe it unless he said so himself," she exclaimed vehemently.

But there are others with as positive convictions that Woodbury did commit
the crime, particularly the two brothers of the dead woman, Charles and Edward Henderson.

"Before my sister's body was found
Mr. Woodbury said to me, 'I believe your sister has done away with herself,'
which aroused my suspicions," said
Edward Henderson, who was present
when the woman's body was discovered.

Another peculiar coincidence at the finding of the body in the vacant hotel was the presence of Coroner Holt. This fact is being freely commented upon. It is alleged that Attorney Brown, counsel for Mr. Woodbury, who was also present, invited the coroner to "come along, as he might be needed."

But notwithstanding these statements Woodbury stoutly maintains his innocence. When interviewed in the jail he first was disinclined to talk on the matter, but later said:

"I am absolutely innocent of my wife's death. I know nothing about it.
She had left home several times before
and when she disappeared the last time I thought it nothing unusual. The finding of her body is a shock to me."

The autopsy on the body of Mrs.
Woodbury has begun. On account of the fact that the body was badly decomposed it is thought probable that its examination by the medical experts will consume much time. In addition to determining whether or not the death of the woman was produced by strangulation from the cord by which her body
was suspended from the neck, the authorities desire to ascertain whether there may be any blows inflicted that might have caused death, and, if possible, whether or not the woman was drugged before she was killed.

All Women Not For Suffrage

Albany, Feb. 20.—Women for and against the question crowded the legislative corridors to attend the hearing by joint committees of the assembly and senate on the proposed constitutional amendment which would strike the limiting word "male" from the constitutional provision regarding the right to vote. A strong delegation of women from all parts of the state was present in opposition to the woman suffrage proposition.

Gillette Appears Unconcerned

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 20.—"I am of the opinion that there will be no use in appealing to Governor Hughes for a pardon," said Chester Gillette to his sister, Lucille, in the condemned cell of Auburn prison. "I believe," he continued,
"that the best policy would be to try to secure a stay of proceedings until a new governor comes into office." Gillette, according to his sister's statement, appeared as unconcerned as if in his own home.

Marines' Bodies Still Missing

Newport, R. I., Feb. 20.—The naval board which has been investigating the death of Privates Benjamin F. Steen-son and John M. McIntosh of the United States marine corps, who were drowned in Narragansett bay last Sunday, completed its labors late yesterday. The finding of the board will be completed
today and forwarded to the navy department at Washington. Neither of the bodies has been recovered.

The Thunderer For Sale

London, Feb. 20.—The Times is still in the market, according to a statement made by the solicitors now engaged in the litigation over the newspaper's disposal. Its proprietors, it is said, favor its sale by some form of public competition, and any proposal or scheme in this direction will be submitted to the judge having charge of the case.

Traveling Man a Suicide

Albany, Feb. 20.—The body of Adelbert F. Barber, aged 42, employed as traveling man for an electric company,
was found in a room of a hotel here
with a bullet wound in his right temple. Barber's mother and 9-year-old son live at Williston, Vt. The police say he was divorced from his wife and attributed his act to despondency.

KIDNAPPED LITTLE GIRL

William Jones and Wife Sentenced to Long Terms in Prison

Chicago, Feb. 20.—William Jones
and his wife, Alzina Jones, were found guilty of having kidnapped Lillian Wulff, 12 years old, from her home in Chicago. Jones was sentenced to thirty years and his wife to twenty-five years in the penitentiary.

The Wulff girl was enticed from her home by Alzina Jones in December, 1907, and forced into a covered wagon
in which Jones was waiting. A week later Jones and the girl were found near Momeuse, Ill. When arrested Jones endeavored to shift the blame on his wife, asserting that it was to console her for the loss of a child by death,
and at her instance that he took the child. The woman testified at the trial that she was forced by Jones under threat of death to steal the girl that he might train her to beg for him.

Morse Scouries For Aid

New York, Feb. 20.—Amid an incessant downpour of rain, the automobile of Charles W. Morse scurried about the financial district, stopping now and then as the dethroned ice king pushed in some new quarter the fight which his counsel had promised that he would make to restore his shattered fortune.
Where the advantage lay at the end of the day was not made clear. At all events the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against Morse, the early institution of which by certain creditors
had been rumored, failed to materialize.

To Clear Up Minor Claims

Washington, Feb. 20.—A treaty providing for a joint commission to adjudicate what are termed minor claims between the American and British governments, as well as between citizens
of each government, has been passed upon by the state department and delivered to the ambassador Bryce for the consideration of his government. It is the intention to provide for the disposal of all existing claims, and not such as may arise in the future.

Kelsey Likely to Be Cleared

Albany, Feb. 20.—A vote next week in the senate on Governor Hughes' recommendation of the removal of Superintendent Kelsey of the state insurance department is now probable, senators representing both sides in the controversy having agreed that nothing was to be gained by delay and that the sooner the matter was disposed of the better. It is the general belief here that the friends of Kelsey are safely in the majority.

Forgery Charge Against Hegeman

New York, Feb. 20.—John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, will surrender himself in the Tombs police court, be formally placed under arrest, furnish bonds, and then institute habeas corpus proceedings. The charge against him will be forgery in the third degree.
The matter will be appealed, to decide whether Hegeman has really committed a crime.

No Cut in Thomas' Income

New York, Feb. 20.—It is said on the authority of a member of the sub-committee of the E. R. Thomas creditors' committee which has been examining into the financial affairs of the former banker that, contrary to reports, no decision has been reached to cut Thomas'
income to $10,000, devoting the remainder to the payment of his debts.

Against the Natal Act

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The report of the minister of justice on the Natal act has been submitted to the cabinet. It is understood that the report recommends disallowance. The department of justice has instructed their agent at Vancouver to take out a writ of habeas corpus so as to release the Japanese imprisoned under the act.

Leaped In Front of Train

New York, Feb. 20.—The Seventy-second street station of the subway was the scene of another suicide last night, when an unidentified man pushed through a crowd on the platform and leaped in front of an express.
The body was so horribly mangled that little was left so much as suggest the man's probable age.

Peruvian Courtesy to Uncle Sam

Lima, Feb. 20.—The American battlefleet fleet is expected to arrive at Callao today. The government has issued a decree making Saturday a holiday in honor of Washington's birthday and the American visit, and has ordered the Peruvian war vessels to fire
a salute to the American flag at noon.

Money to Get Bryan Delegates

Harrisburg, Feb. 20.—A campaign fund of $3000 for the election of a Bryan delegation from Pennsylvania to the Democratic national convention was raised at a meeting here of the executive committee of the Bryan Democratic League of Pennsylvania.

Lived Over 110 Years

Harrisburg, Feb. 20.—The official certificate of the death of Patrick Kervin of St. Clair township, aged 110 years, 9 months and 17 days, was received at the state health department.
Kervin was a native of Ireland and died
of the infirmities of old age.

Blizzard in Snow Belt

Saratoga, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The worst blizzard of the winter is raging across the "snow belt" and the storm shows no indication of lessening. All railroad trains are having trouble in operating.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Friday, Feb. 21.
Sun rises—6:34; sets—5:23.
Moon rises—9:43 p. m.
High water—1:45 a. m.; 2:15 p. m.
There will be snow in New England,
followed by generally fair weather.

SEES DANGER AHEAD

President Endeavors to Forestall
a Railroad Conflict

A LETTER ON THE SUBJECT

Interstate Commerce Commission Must Investigate Causes Leading to Reduction of Wages, Which Might Lead to Serious Industrial War

Washington, Feb. 20.—Serious industrial disputes in prospect were in the mind of President Roosevelt when he wrote a letter to the interstate commerce commission, in which he says information has reached him that on account of the enactment of drastic laws by the congress and by various state legislatures it is regarded as necessary by railroad companies to reduce the pay of employees.

He points out that under the law either party may demand the services of the chairman of the interstate commerce commission and of the commissioner of labor, as a board of conciliation. He suggests, therefore, that the interstate commerce commission make such an investigation as will enable it to furnish data concerning wage conditions on various railroads as may relate, directly or indirectly, to the possibly impending controversy.

The president's letter follows:
"I am informed that a number of railroad companies have served notice of a proposed reduction of wages on their employees. One of them, the Louisville and Nashville, in announcing the reduction, states that 'the drastic laws
imposed by congress and the state legislatures' are largely or chiefly responsible for the conditions requiring the reduction."

"Under such circumstances, it is possible that the public may soon be confronted by serious industrial disputes, and the law provides that in such case either party may demand the services of your chairman and of the commissioner of labor, as a board of mediation and conciliation."

"These reductions in wages may be warranted, or they may not. As to this,
the public, which is a vitally interested party, can form no judgment without a more complete knowledge of the essential facts and real merits of the case than it now has or than it can possibly obtain from the special pleadings certain to be put forth by each side in case their dispute should bring about serious interruption to traffic."

"If the reduction in wages is due to natural causes, the loss of business being such that the burden should be, and is, equitably distributed between capitalist and wage worker, the public should know it. If it is caused by legislation, the public and congress should know it, and if it is caused by misconduct in the past financial or other operations of any railroad, then everybody should know it, especially if the excuse of unfriendly legislation is advanced as a method of covering up past business misconduct by the railroad managers, or as a justification for failure to treat fairly the wage earning employees of the company."

"Moreover, an industrial conflict between a railroad corporation and its employees offers peculiar opportunities to any small number of evil disposed persons to destroy life and property,
and foment public disorder. Of course, if life, property and public order are endangered, prompt and drastic measures for their protection become the first plain duty. All other issues then become subordinate to the preservation of the public peace, and the real merits of the original controversy are necessarily lost from view. This vital consideration should ever be kept in mind by all law-abiding and far-sighted members of labor organizations."

"It is sincerely to be hoped therefore,
that any wage controversy that may arise between the railroads and their employees may find a peaceful solution
through the methods of conciliation
and arbitration already provided by congress, which have proven so effective during the past year. To this end the commission should be in a position to have available for any board of conciliation or arbitration relevant data pertaining to such carriers as may become involved in industrial disputes.
Should conciliation fail to effect a settlement and arbitration be rejected, accurate information should be available
in order to develop a properly-informed public opinion."

"I therefore ask you to make such investigation, both of your records and by other means at your command, as will enable you to furnish data concerning such conditions obtaining on the Louisville and Nashville and any other roads as may relate, directly or indirectly, to the real merits of the possibly impending controversy."

Thieves Made Off With Diamonds
New Orleans, Feb. 20.—A $15,000
diamond robbery in broad daylight, in the heart of New Orleans, with hundreds of persons passing at the time
was perpetrated at the large jewelry establishment of M. Waldborn. Two men drove up in front of the store in a buggy. One of them alighted and smashed one of the large plate glass windows, seized two trays filled with diamonds and, jumping back into the buggy, was driven off. A large crowd started in pursuit, but the thieves escaped.

PROTESTS EXPECTED

Japan Is Making Too Much Headway In Manchuria

A LOSS TO OTHER NATIONS

American Trade In the Orient, However, Suffered Mainly Through Checking Combination Which Made Low Ocean Freight Possible

Washington, Feb. 20.—Information from unofficial and individual sources evidencing the aggressiveness of Japan in Manchuria has been accumulating in the state department for some time. That this condition is irritating in increasing degrees to China is also a matter of knowledge here. It is stated with authority, however, that in no manner has the Chinese government brought the matter to the attention of the American government and no representation on the subject is looked for.

A remarkable explanation of the attitude of our government in this important matter is developed as the result of inquiry directed towards officials who cannot be quoted, but are in positions to direct our policies. In effect, it is as follows:

It is frankly admitted that America is losing her commercial foothold in the Orient. This loss, however, is not charged to Japan. Rather it is asserted to be the effect of the growing tendency toward internal governmental regulation in the United States. As an illustration of this, attention is called to these facts:

Five years ago flour in barrels was being shipped to the Orient from the northwest, steel rails from Pittsburg and cotton in bales from Texas. These shipments were made possible because of an exceedingly low ocean freight rate arrived at by a railroad combination. This rate has been condemned by our courts as a conspiracy against trade and the development of this trade has been abandoned.

Domestic war, as it is characterized, against the Standard Oil company, which is credited with the largest Oriental trade of any American enterprise, is declared to have been disastrously effective in the Orient, while the tobacco and cotton goods trades are said to have been dealt heavy blows through the operation of railroad regulation here.

From this point, it seems easy for government officials here conversant with foreign matters to view Japanese commercial aggression in Manchuria with a greater degree of complaisance than would be the case in the face of an urgent domestic demand for governmental assistance. Japan, it is asserted, can without great difficulty justify everything she has done in Manchuria as sanctioned by the "open door" policy, initiated by the late Secretary Hay and adhered to by the greater nations, including Japan.

While Japan may justify these things in the strictest sense under the "open door" policy, it has been charged that there exists evidences of her use of many methods and practices which might not bear the light of impartial investigation. Besides her claim to an equal footing with other nations in Manchuria on the "open door" basis, she has, it is asserted, obtained many valuable concessions through which her control of the railroad and telegraphic facilities is practically complete. This control is known to be used primarily in the interest of Japanese traders and to the detriment of all foreign competitors.

These disadvantages are, of course, being felt by American traders, as well as by those of other foreign nations. As the trade of Germany, England and other nations is more valuable than the American trade, and as these nations are what is termed highly commercially organized, it would not be a surprise to American diplomacy to hear of protests from these quarters against Japan's aggression.

There is nothing, it is pointed out, in Hay's promulgation of the "open door" policy which partakes of the nature of an agreement with any nation looking to its maintenance. For this reason, it is predicted that should a combination of protests be made and any movement initiated by foreign nations, the support which it would receive from this country would be no more than moral.

Tillman's Name Used In Swindle

Washington, Feb. 20.—Rising in the senate to a question of privilege, Mr. Tillman made complaint of the use of his name in connection with efforts to sell railroad grant lands in the northwest which might be affected by the inquiry he has set on foot concerning such lands. He said his attention had been called to a very adroit method of swindling in which his name was used as a decoy. He declared that he had not invested one cent nor located a single quarter section for himself or anyone.

Judge's Impeachment Asked

Washington, Feb. 20.—A petition for the impeachment of Judge Wiley of the United States court of China, signed by citizens of the United States living at Shanghai, was introduced in the house by Mr. Waldo of New York. The petition "prays for the impeachment of Lebbus R. Wiley for high crimes and misdemeanors in the conduct of his office as judge upon charges of mal and corrupt conduct."

JAPAN WAR BUGABOO

Assurance That It Is Beyond the Range of Possibility

New York, Feb. 20.—Whiteley Reid, ambassador of the United States to Great Britain, in a speech at the dinner of the Pilgrims of the United States here last night, declared that talk of the obligations of Great Britain to sustain Japan in war against the United States was nonsense. Reid said that there was "not the ghost of a possibility of war with Japan," and that there "was every reason to think the Japanese sincerely our friends."

Just returned from Washington and about to sail for England, the ambassador's words, carefully chosen and delivered with impressive deliberation, took on a significance that strongly moved the 400 diners whose guest he was. Having ridiculed the suggestion that war between the United States and Japan was within the range of possibility, Reid departed from his prepared speech to add:

"So far as the information and belief of the officers of the diplomatic service extends, there is absolutely nothing in it."

A burst of applause followed the declaration, and as the ambassador enlarged upon the mutual interests of Great Britain and the United States, and pointed out that there was nothing in the British-Japanese treaty inconsistent with a still closer understanding between this and the mother country, shouts of approval were followed by a hand-clapping, the spontaneity of which could not be doubted.

Long Journey to Consult Doctors

New York, Feb. 20.—After a flying trip across the American continent, making no stops except to change cars, Nawab Sultan Ul Mulik Bahadur of Hyderabad, India, accompanied by a retinue of servants and two physicians, arrived in New York and was hurried at once to the steamship Baltic, which sailed today for England. His hurried mission to England is to consult with specialists regarding an illness which resulted from a fall from a horse in India two years ago. The prince remained constantly in seclusion during his trip from California and seemed puzzled by the methods of newspaper men who sought to interview him, but with whom he would not talk.

Fleet Must Have New Commander

Washington, Feb. 20.—Beyond the statement that Rear Admiral Evans probably will be precluded from commanding the Atlantic battleship fleet on its return voyage from the Pacific by reason of his retirement on account of age, Aug. 18 next, navy department officials decline to make any predictions as to who will be in command then. With the exception of Rear Admiral Sperry, who is not in robust health, none of the fleet admirals with Evans has much more than a year of active service in prospect, a fact which probably will operate to prevent their assignment to the supreme command.

Great Slash of Appropriations

Washington, Feb. 20.—There is the best of authority for the statement that it is the intention of the house committee on appropriations to lop off from about $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 from this year's total estimate of $38,443,000 for fortifications. Practically nothing will be recommended for Atlantic coast fortifications and very little for fortifications on the Pacific coast. Nearly all of it will be proposed for fortifications and other defensive works in the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands.

Negroes Advocate Temperance

Tuskegee, Ala., Feb. 20.—The annual Tuskegee negro conference adopted resolutions advocating the temperance movement in the south and heard addresses from many prominent educators of the country. Secretary Dillard of the million dollar Jeanes fund for rural education of the negro said that he believed the reactionary movement in the south has spent itself and that the relations of the two races are now improving.

Failures of National Banks

Washington, Feb. 20.—In response to a senate resolution, Secretary Cortright sent to the senate a report showing that 308 national banks were placed in charge of receivers between Jan. 1, 1908, and Jan. 31, 1908. The aggregate capital of these banks was $48,738,520.

Snow Blocks Many Trains

Detroit, Feb. 20.—At least thirteen passenger trains pok'd their pilots into impassable snowdrifts throughout Michigan late yesterday, and reports indicate that some of these trains still are snowbound. Traffic was comparatively abandoned yesterday on some lines.

Sea Board Air Line Foreclosure

Richmond, Feb. 20.—The Continental Trust company of Maryland has filed a bill of foreclosure in the United States circuit court of appeals here against the Seaboard Air Line railroad and its allied interests. The proceedings are declared to be formal.

Failed For Over $100,000

Philadelphia, Feb. 20.—A. N. Chandler & Co., bankers and bond brokers of this city, with offices in New York, have made an assignment. No statement of assets and liabilities is made, but it is said the amount involved will be more than $1100,000.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The governors of the states which have organized naval militias will shortly receive invitations from the navy department to participate in joint maneuvers at Gardiner's bay.

Senor Merry del Val, a brother of Cardinal Merry del Val, pontifical secretary of state, has been appointed Spanish minister at Tangier.

BRITONS TAKE EXCEPTIONS

Their Feelings Hurt by Pointed Remarks by a Boston Rabbi

Boston, Feb. 20.—"I believe the British attitude of so-called superiority is at the base of all this evil talk of war with Japan. It is un-American, indecent, and undemocratic," declared Rabbi Fleischer of Boston last night before the members of the British Charitable society at the Twentieth Century club, where he had been invited to speak upon a general topic.

The remark was brought out by the attitude of a previous speaker, Thomas J. Bowker, president of the Victorian club and vice president of the British Charitable society, who referred at length to the "superiority of the British."

He had barely finished his remarks referring to the empire's relations with China and Japan, which he said was disturbing the minds of England's leading statesmen and that the British people would not submit to the wholesale introduction of cheap labor, when Fleischer was called upon and opened his remarks with the comment quoted. He was several times interrupted by the Britons, who took exceptions to his remarks.

Taft Leaves New England

Boston, Feb. 20.—Secretary of War Taft concluded a two days' visit to New Hampshire and Massachusetts last evening and boarded the Federal express here last night for Washington. The secretary delivered two addresses yesterday, one in Nashua, which was devoted entirely to a description of the work being carried on by the government in the Philippine islands and to the progress being made in digging the Panama canal. Last evening he spoke about twenty-five minutes at Lowell. In the course of his talk he said that in his opinion there was no possibility of war with Japan. His recent visit to the Orient, he said, convinced him that the war talk was ridiculous.

Assault May Prove Fatal

Fair Haven, Vt., Feb. 20.—Carlo Antinelli, an Italian laborer, was arrested on the charge of assaulting Robert J. Williams, one of the officials of the J. H. Williams Slate company of this town. Williams, who is 75 years of age, was so badly injured with a shovel that his recovery is doubtful. Antinelli had been employed by the company. Last week he was discharged. On Monday night the engine house at the company's quarry was burned by some person and it appears that Williams suspected Antinelli.

Many Hurt In Mill Explosion

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 20.—Three workmen are on the dangerous list, nine more suffering from injuries, 2500 temporarily out of employment, and a damage of $50,000 was the result of the explosion of an economizer in the boiler house of the Hamilton Manufacturing company. While the finishing touches were being put on the new $150,000 boiler house and the final test was being made of the elaborate system, the explosion came without warning.

Baseball In New England

Boston, Feb. 20.—A new baseball league, known as the Atlantic association, was formed in this city, seven New England cities being represented. The executive committee will select the eighth city later. The cities thus far represented are Portland, Lewiston, Taunton, Manchester, Salem, Newport and Pawtucket. Hugh McQueen of Boston was elected president.

Saved Children, but Lost Own Life

Boston, Feb. 20.—With flames roaring on all sides and with the question of life and death for herself and little ones, Mrs. Mary McDonald threw her two infant daughters to the street and then jumped from her tenement on the third floor. Mrs. McDonald died last evening. One of the children escaped unscathed and the other is resting comfortably in the city hospital.

Trust Company May Close Up

Providence, Feb. 20.—Representative Rattey of Central Falls has introduced an act in the legislature which, if adopted, will compel the Pawtucket Trust company to close its doors. Rattey seeks to have the statute incorporating the company repealed. The committee on corporations will give a hearing on the order.

Detective Charged With Theft

Providence, Feb. 20.—Vincent H. Beatty, who has been in the charge of the detective force of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in this city for the last three years, was arrested last night, charged with embezzlement and larceny of goods from the railroad company.

Held For Murder In Italy

Portland, Me., Feb. 20.—Leonardo Cavallaro, an Italian, 55 years old, was arrested here on papers charging him with murder in Italy. It is alleged that he killed Michael DiCappua, a fellow-workman, during a quarrel and, evading the Italian authorities, came to this country.

No Laps Are Gained

Boston, Feb. 20.—The third installment of the six-day bicycle race was covered last night and at the completion of the two and one-half hours there was no change in the relative standing of the ten teams. The score for the three days is 154 miles.

Austrians Feel Earthquake

Vienna, Feb. 20.—An earthquake shock occurred here at 10:06 last night. No damage is reported, but so strong was the shock that the recording pencils at the seismographic station were displaced. The Laibach station recorded earth shocks lasting four minutes.

Richards, John H. Loughan, Margaret E. McManus, Ellen M. Fardy, Mary F. Milley, Anna Callahan, Elizabeth P. Hodson, a corporation formerly doing business in Chelsea, in said County of Suffolk, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain tract or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of said Quincy, called Squantum, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the East or Quincy Bay shore of said Squantum, which point is South of the gravel bar leading Easterly from Squantum to Half Moon Island, so called, and is also at the Northeast corner of land conveyed to Calvin A. Richards by James Huckins, April 1, 1867; thence running Northwest by land of Ann R. Richards about 471 feet; thence more Westerly, still by said land of Ann R. Richards about 165 feet to a point on the Easterly line of Bellevue Street, so called (formerly Green Street); thence running Southerly by the Easterly line of said Bellevue Street, so called, and partly by said land of Ann R. Richards and partly by land of Timothy F. Callahan, about 518 feet to a stone post at the Southwest corner of land formerly of Holley K. Pope; thence Westerly again across said Bellevue Street, so called, by an old line of wall, along and by land of John H. Loughan and Margaret McManus, about 610 feet to the South-easterly corner of land formerly of John R. Pratt's Heirs; thence still Westerly, by a private way called Dundee Road, and by land of Gottlieb P. Burkhardt, Sophie M. Bright Smith, Emeline A. E. Burkhardt, Fred C. Gilpatrick, Trustee, Herman F. Burkhardt, and Pauline L. Boyd, to and across Squantum Street, about 1,000 feet; thence Southerly and Southwesterly by an irregular line, and by said land of Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 870 feet to a corner; thence Northerly, still by said land of Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 325 feet to the Northerly bank or shore of a ditch or brook; thence Westerly by said Northerly bank or shore of the ditch or brook; about 230 feet to said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al.; thence Northwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 100 feet; thence Southwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 80 feet; thence Northwesterly, still by said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 375 feet; thence Northerly, still by said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 200 feet; thence Northwesterly, Northerly and Northeasterly, by an irregular line, still by said land of said Gottlieb P. Burkhardt et al., about 650 feet to the street called the Boulevard (formerly called East Squantum Street), thence Northerly, still by said Boulevard or East Squantum Street, about 1,150 feet to Squantum Street; thence across Squantum Street, and by the continuation of said Boulevard (formerly called Moon Island Road) about 850 feet; thence Northerly, along said last mentioned street or road, about 151 feet; thence Northerly, along said road, about 63 feet; thence Northwesterly across said road 162 feet to the West beach or shore of Squantum; thence Northwesterly again, continuing along said shore, about 672 feet; thence Southeasterly across said road again 17.5 feet; thence Southwesterly along said road about 19 feet; thence Southeasterly by land of Charles H. Lutton and land of James H. Boyle about 800 feet; thence Northerly by land of said James H. Boyle about 527 feet; thence Southeasterly by land of the City of Boston about 200 feet to said East shore of said Squantum; thence Southeasterly and Southwesterly, along the line of said shore, about 1,950 feet to the point of beginning. Together with all the beach and flats, and all rights therein, opposite to and appertaining to said tract of land, or any part thereof, situated either on Quincy Bay or Dorchester Bay.

Petitioner admits that the above described land is subject to existing rights of other persons in and to the street called Squantum Street, the street called Huckins Avenue, and the Boulevard.

There are excepted from said parcel so much thereof as was deeded by John R. Pratt to one Burkhardt by deed recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 494 folio 241; also parcel of land containing 45,650 square feet, with the buildings thereon, located at Westerly by said Boulevard and about 165.35 feet, Northerly by lots 45 to 51 on the plan hereinafter referred to, Easterly by lot 73 on the same plan, and Southerly by Pratt Road on the same plan, together with all rights of the owners of said last mentioned parcels in the beach and flats opposite thereto; also lots 2 to 23 both inclusive, 26 to 33 both inclusive, 42 to 45 both inclusive, 46 to 53 both inclusive, 57 to 62 both inclusive, 63 to 65 both inclusive, 67 and 68, 72 and 73, 90 and 91, 106 and 107, all as shown on a Plan made by H. T. Whitman, Surveyor, dated 1898, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 21, plan 952.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the ninth day of March, A. D., 1908, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, LEONARD A. JONES, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of February, in the year nineteen hundred and eight.

Attest With Seal of said Court.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Washington's Birthday will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued on Saturday. Many of the regular Saturday features will be found in the Friday Ledger. Sunday services should be forwarded one day earlier.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Board of Trade banquet tonight.

Alex Patterson, formerly of Washington street has moved his family to Arnold street.

Miss Lila Drew of Charlestown is the guest of her sister, Mrs. MacGrath of Green street.

Mr. Brownrigg and family formerly of East Howard street have moved to Madison avenue.

The D. O. club met Monday night on Beach street at the home of its president.

Friends are sorry to hear that Miss Agnes Lawton of Flint street is confined to her home with the grip.

Crossings and sidewalks were kept in splendid condition in Atlantic during Wednesday's storm.

There has been a new fence built at the corner of Washington and South streets to protect the shrubbery on the church grounds.

Mr. Tucker will lead the prayer meeting to be held Sunday evening at the Park and Downs Congregational church. His subject will be "Our home mission work."

Dr. Hardy, Col. Anderson, Rev. A. Atwood and Mr. E. E. Craig from Quincy attended the Norfolk Association of Congregational Ministers at Brockton Tuesday.

The reward has been increased for that stolen umbrella, and it is said that an arrest will soon be made. It is a serious offence and demands a prompt trial, and severe punishment.

R. C. Drinker gave a most interesting fireside talk on "Steel" at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night. He clearly showed the progress made from early primitive methods to the present perfected processes.

The speakers at the Board of Trade banquet tonight are successful business men who are interested not only in their private enterprises but in public affairs. May their talk be an inspiration to Quincy, and stimulate all the people.

Col. Sidney O. Bigney, one of the speakers at the Board of Trade banquet tonight, will probably be one of the "big four" delegates at large from Massachusetts to the Republican National convention. A few years ago Quincy helped to elect him to the Governor's Council, and would now be pleased to send him to the Chicago convention.

Owing to work being done inside Memorial church, the Ladies' Benevolent society of Atlantic met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Baker of Walker street, the vice-president, for their business meeting. Sewing is being done by the society for the Easter sale to be given in April. Plans are also in progress for a turkey supper to be given by the men under the supervision of Edgar E. Willey of Walker street. This annual event is always well attended and affords much amusement.

CLEE CLUB CONCERT

Pleasing Program Presented by Club and
Other Talent

Usually damp and stormy weather affects the throats and vocal chords of singers, but the Wollaston Glee Club are an exception, and the members had no excuses to offer, so their annual concert at the Wollaston Congregational church on Wednesday evening was a musical treat. There was a large attendance considering the very stormy evening and slushy streets.

The program of eleven numbers was carried out to the letter, and the encores were so hearty that responses were numerous. The chorus of the Glee Club was composed of 25 gentlemen and under the magnetism of J. A. Crowley, the director, have become deeply interested in their work, and have mastered difficult songs of the best composers.

The club was assisted by Miss Olive L. Whiteley, the violinist, who fulfilled all expectations, being a finished artist. E. E. Bullock, the tenor soloist, is a favorite at Wollaston and always good. The baritone solos of Nelson Raymond were well rendered and very pleasing. A. L. Hayden sang the solo in "The Lost Chord," and contributed much to the success of the evening. In this selection the club was assisted by Miss Whiteley and Mr. Weston.

Another feature was the duets by Messrs. Bullock and Hayden. Mr. Weston accompanied the soloists as well as the club, and contributed much to the success of each number. The Glee Club will sing at Holbrook next Tuesday evening.

Boy Found Guilty.

The 13-year-old boy who was arrested for the alleged larceny of money from Berry Bros. store was arraigned in the juvenile court this morning. He was ordered committed to the Lyman school. An appeal was taken, and in default of $300 bonds he was given in charge of the State Board of Charity.

Commodore Dawes of the Wollaston Yacht club appeared before the Committee on Legal Affairs of the Legislature at the hearing on the bill to permit yachtsmen to work upon their yachts on Sundays. He claimed that the present restriction was absurd.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

try the following delightful dessert:
1-2 cup English Walnut meats.
1-2 doz. figs, cut up fine.
1 10c. package JELL-O, any flavor.
Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water. When cool and just commencing to thicken stir in the figs and nuts. Serve with Whipped Cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.

Reading a Pig's Tail.

"Don't buy that pig," said the older butcher hastily.
"Why not?" asked the younger man.
"Look at his tail," was the reply.
"See how loose it hangs, like the tail of a rat. That is a sign that the animal is in bad health."
"You can read a pig's condition by its tail. The tighter it is curled the fatter is the pig. And when the tail hangs straight, as this one does, the pig ought to take to his bed and send for the veterinary." — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

An Unmentioned Ancestor.

Mr. B. is very proud of his ancient lineage and never lets slip an opportunity to boast of it. At a dinner where he had been unusually rampant on this subject a fellow guest quieted him by remarking:
"If you climb much farther up your family tree you will come face to face with the monkey." — Philadelphia Inquirer.

Got the Cart Before the Horse.
Rich Uncle John—Ah, is this one of your children? Agitated Mother—Yes, Uncle John, that's our little Johnnie. Kiss your uncle, dear, and then go and wash your face.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Little Hint.

Mrs. Knicker—Henry, do you think a camel can pass through the eye of a needle? Knicker—Dunno. Do you think the eye of a needle can pass through a button?

Men tire themselves in the pursuit of rest.—Sterne.

Importance of The Caucus

Hon. Carroll D. Wright, LL. D., president of Clark college, Worcester, voiced his ideas regarding "Religion in Politics" in a talk Feb. 16th in the course on "Character and Citizenship," being given Sunday evenings by different prominent men at the Boston Young Men's Christian union.

Col. Wright, after setting up a high standard for political action, declared that all ideas find progressing power only in party. Also that it is more important even than a man attend the primary than the election, for it is here the fountain is poisoned. The speaker said:

"It is the duty of all men, after careful consideration, to act generally with some political party, and to exert all the influence possible upon its leaders to induce the nomination of capable and honest men for office. Party leaders, however, do not always declare their opinions and intentions, and then the citizen must choose the least of two evils, not forgetting that a party may have the worst principles with the best men locally, and the other the best principles with some of the worst men, and as a rule when the issue is a vital principle, measures must take precedence to men."

"If parties do carry nations on in the great march of civilization, as I believe they do, and if, as history shows, no free government can exist without them, then it should be part of our religion to act with them, to take a stand according to our honest convictions, and, rest assured, we shall form part of that ever-existing third party little heard of, without organization, which seeks no office, holds no meetings, owns no banner, but which holds the balance of power and silently decides the elections."

"No man has any moral right to complain that his party or his state is going wrong who keeps away from the caucus, and the man who says he has no interest in politics, or not enough to bring him out at the evening primary, should be made to hang his head in shame at the state of affairs he cries out so loudly against. Every man should remember that when a party becomes the tool of ignorant or corrupt men it is in danger and deserves not only temporary but lasting defeat."

"A man had better remain away from the polls, if he cannot attend both, than the primary."

"No nation can exist in peace that does not observe the great truths of humanity as taught by the Christian religion; the lesson of obedience has always been swiftly and surely taught, and the result has been an awful castigation or utter destruction of the people violating the principle. Nations must act up to a standard protecting human rights with religious duty or the governments they establish will totter and crumble. Individuals must observe the same great truth in all their political duties; parties must guard well the principle or no lasting power can be held by the people."

Social of the First Parish

About seventy-five braved the element Wednesday evening and attended the social of the First parish. An informal entertainment was given from eight until nine consisting of singing by Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. Harry Slade and Mrs. Laurence H. Sturtevant, readings by Mrs. Henry Dowst and an original poem by Mr. Emory L. Crane. The poem was of course the hit of the evening and it contained a great many hits and good natured jokes which caused much amusement.

While the charming cooks were preparing their concoctions in the chafing dishes the company gathered about the piano for a sing or patronized the candy and apron bophs. The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale and those presiding at the chafing dishes were Mrs. Laurence H. Sturtevant, Mrs. Brooks Keyes, Mrs. Charles A. Price, Mrs. Edwin E. Davis, Mrs. Henry I. Hall and Mrs. Russell A. Sears. Mrs. A. E. Sprout poured the coffee.

It was a very successful evening and if it had been pleasant would have gone far ahead of the anticipations of the committee.

Dual Meet With Hyde Park

At Hyde Park Wednesday night the Quincy Y. M. C. A. senior athletes came within three points of carrying off a victory. Up to the last event, the relay race, Quincy was two ahead, the score standing 19-17. The occasion was a dual athletic meet between Hyde Parks and Quincys. The events were: Shot put, 15 yd. dash, running high jump, potato race and relay race.

Quincy was represented by Harry Histon, J. Ellicoek, Charlie Hull, Sam Melville, Mundie, Floyd and Ulrich. Histon won first place in shot put, 37 ft., 4 in.

J. Ellicoek first place in 15 yd. dash.
Charlie Hull first place in high jump, 5 ft., 2 in. Histon third place 5 ft.

Sam Melville second place in potato race.

Gold medals were given for first place and silver medals for second place.

Tonight the "Employed boys" go to Hyde Park where they will meet in a dual athletic meet the Employed Boys there.

Norfolk County Probate Court

Among the accounts allowed by Judge Flint of the Norfolk county probate court on Wednesday was one on the estate of the late Henry H. Faxon for $26,857.34, and one on estate of Ann P. L. Backman late of Quincy for $11,185.12.

Wills allowed of William H. Ivers of Dedham, Charles A. Beal of Westwood, George Francis Topliff of Wellesley, Salmon Turner of Foxboro, Orintha C. Mason of Bellingham, Cornelia F. Bates of Wellesley, John Sullivan of Franklin, Uri C. Porter of Stoughton, George H. Wade of Hyde Park, Mary J. Blight of Wellesley.

Derry of Sharon, Edmund Polleys of Walpole, George Madden of Medway, George E. Brown of Dedham, Howard C. Hoyt of Hyde Park, Margaret A. Foley of Quincy, Henry Fallon of Walpole, Louis G. Briggs of Stoughton, Sarah S. Van Ness of Medway, Samuel F. Robinson of Dedham and Arthur C. Kollock of Hyde Park.

Granite Shipments.

Returns from the shipping terminals for the month of January show the total amount of granite shipped that month to have been 5,795,350 pounds. This was slightly less than the total for the month of December. It is not surprising that the shipments fell off in January. In fact it was expected that they would. The tonnage shipped from the two terminals in January was: Quincy Adams 2,990,720 pounds; West Quincy 2,804,630 pounds.

RUSSO-TURKISH WAR

Possibilities Taken Seriously In
the Czar's Domains

SITUATION APPEARS GRAVE

Majority Leader In Duma Says This Country Is Unprepared For War—

May Be Game of Buff, Neither Country Having Snags of War

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18.—The alarmist reports of the possibilities of hostilities between Russia and Turkey, which have permeated all strata of Russian society, have now assumed the proportions of a veritable war scare, to which the sensational press is devoting its biggest headlines.

The situation is taken seriously, not only in military circles, but also by conservative politicians. M. Guchkoff, the leader of the majority in the duma, announces his intention of raising at the next meeting of the commission of national defense the question of the nation's readiness for war, which, he believes, is of most vital importance in view of the news from the Caucasus and all parts of Europe. He also proposes to inquire into the inability of the railroads, particularly in the Caucasus and Transcaucasia, to transport troops quickly to the southern and southwestern frontiers.

The duma, according to Guchkoff, will be guilty of criminal negligence if it permits the country again to be drawn into war, for which it is wholly unprepared. The surest means to avoid a rupture, he said, is serious preparation for any eventuality.

M. Khvostichinsky, vice president of the commission, also thinks that the situation is grave, and takes issue sharply with a number of generals who appeared before the commission and stated that in their opinion the possibility of hostilities this year was excluded.

The general staff continues to give the situation the most serious consideration, although as yet no reports have been received here regarding movements of troops in the interior. Persons arriving from Siberia, however, state that for several months there has been an unbroken movement of Siberian troops to the southwest in the direction of the Trans-Caspian district and Turkestan, from which points they could be most easily concentrated on the Turkish frontier.

Tiflis advices to The Associated Press indicate that preparations are steadily making for any eventuality. A competent diplomatic opinion, however, takes a more optimistic view.

The ambassadors of five of the leading powers, when interviewed, gave it as their opinion that the Turkish mobilization in Asia Minor and the warlike preparations in Russia are parts in the "gigantic game of bluff" which neither side would be able to carry to a finish on account of the lack of snags of war. But they cherish no illusions over the speedy termination of the Austro-Russian difficulties in the Balkans and look forward to a long period of friction before the powers again unite to exert the necessary pressure on the sultan.

Diplomats friendly to Austria endeavor to acquit Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austrian foreign minister, of the responsibility of disrupting the European concert. They say that the prospect of carrying through the proposed judicial reforms in Macedonia already and vanished into thin air before the Austrian railway scheme was proposed. The possibility that Turkey, with Russia's encouragement, might find means of evading her quasi-promise to permit the construction of the line is admitted, but the general opinion is that in this case Von Aehrenthal would have no alternative but to resign.

Dispatches from London indicate that the rumor, believed to have been started in Vienna, that Russia contemplates the construction of the railroad from the Danube to the Adriatic sea in compensation of the Saloniki line has been taken seriously abroad. The Russian foreign office reiterates its denial, however, that such a project is entertained, the necessary money being lacking.

Papal Interests In Iswo'sky

Rome, Feb. 18.—The Vatican is taking a special interest in the affairs of M. Iswo'sky, the Russian foreign minister, who was at one time the Russian minister accredited to the holy see. The Vatican is confidently informed that the uproar in the Russian press against the Austrian railway scheme in the Balkans has been caused by Russian politicians who hoped thereby to injure Iswo'sky because they considered him too liberal.

Must Take Horseback Rides

Washington, Feb. 18.—An order excluding army officers on duty in Washington for two hours to indulge in horseback riding two afternoons a week has been promulgated by Acting Secretary Oliver. It is explained that the purpose of the regulation is to permit army officers to maintain themselves in good physical condition for field duty.

Bryan Reps Instructions

Indianapolis, Feb. 18.—William J. Bryan was the guest of honor at a banquet given last night by the Indiana Democratic club. Bryan was the only speaker of the evening. He repeated his instructions as to what Democrats should do to win the presidency.

"To Eat Crow."

Although the use of the expression "to eat crow" in a metaphorical sense, meaning to eat one's words, may well have dated from the time of Noah, when the bird was first looked upon as unclean and not fit to serve as food for man, it seems to have arisen from the old tale of the officer and the private.

A soldier, having shot a tame crow belonging to one of his officers, was discovered by the owner with the bird in his hand. Seizing the private's gun, the officer commanded him to eat the bird as a punishment. With the firearm pointed at his head, the soldier fell to, but no sooner had the officer laid aside the gun than the culprit grasped it and compelled his superior to join in the distasteful banquet.

The private was court martialed the next day, and when he was asked by the examiners what had occurred he replied, "Nothing, except that Captain Blank and I dined together."—Washington Star.

College Chums.

A rich and well known citizen of an eastern city boasts of an extraordinary collection of books wherein the authors have inscribed their autographs.

It is rumored that the envy and frequently the skepticism of his friends have been aroused by the flattering inscriptions in question, and some cynics have even gone so far as to hint of a similarity in handwriting throughout the collection.

The citizen recently purchased a rare edition of Montaigne's essays. One evening at dinner the costly volume was passed from hand to hand, and for a time the owner lost sight of it. When, however, it did finally come back to him he was astonished to find on the fly leaf this inscription:
"To John Blank, From His Old Friend and Classmate, Mike Montaigne."—Harper's Weekly.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. # Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Superintendent Weatherbee, chief engineer Haverfield and a party of others from the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., who are up here with the U. S. scout cruiser Chester, were guests at the shipyard yesterday and were shown over the works by Chief Steward Cogan.

The Chester has come out of dry dock at the Boston navy yard and will at once proceed to Maine waters, where after a few shake downs and preliminary runs will be in readiness for her trial trips which begin February 27th, over the Rockland course.

The six o'clock edition of yesterday's Boston Herald contained a good illustration of the progress made thus far in the construction of U. S. Battleship North Dakota.

A German court martial sentenced Captain Von Lovekow to a fortnight's arrest on the charge of negligence. He was in command of the cruiser Scharnhorst, which ran aground near Buel on Jan. 15 while engaged in evolutions. The vessel is now undergoing extensive repairs.

A dispatch of Wednesday from Annapolis to the Herald says: The converted yacht Hist and the submarine Viper were ashore at different points on Chesapeake bay today. Advances to this effect were received at the naval academy this afternoon. The Hist which is conveying the submarine flotilla from New York to Annapolis, grounded near Cove point, Maryland, during a snow storm this morning. The submarines proceeded on their way to Annapolis, and this afternoon the Viper stranded at Thomas' point at the mouth of South river, 10 miles below Annapolis. Neither craft is said to be in any danger. The tug Standish was sent to the assistance of the Hist and a naval launch was dispatched to the Viper.

The Social Realm

There's a star in the west that shall never go down
Till the records of valor decay;
We must worship its light, though it is not our own,
For liberty burst in its ray.
Shall the name of a Washington ever be heard
By a freeman, and thrill not his breast?
Is there one out of bondage that hails not the word
As the Bethlehem star of the west?
—Eliza Cook.

Dr. and Mrs. John F. Welch are leaving in a few days for Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Florida, for a few weeks'
stay so that the doctor may entirely recuperate from his recent illness before again taking up the duties of his profession. His patients throughout the city are much pleased at the progress he has made toward good health and are looking forward to the time when he will be among them.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Howes of Chestnut street have returned from Chatham where they attended the wedding on Wednesday of Mr. Howes' brother, Isaac F. Howes of Providence.

Theta Sigma club will have a theatre party this evening at the Boston theatre.

A very pretty leap year party was held Thursday evening at Electa hall. The party was given by three young ladies, Miss Sadie Johnson, Miss Emily Josephine and Miss Minnie Barnicoat. It was attended by upward of fifty couples who danced to the music of Thompson's orchestra from 8 until 2. At midnight during a short intermission the young ladies served ice cream and cake. The party was patronized by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Hayes, and Mayor Shea was a guest for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins of Boston, formerly of Norfolk Downs, visited friends the first of the week.

Mrs. Eleazer B. Homer and Miss Ellen D. Sharpe will be the pourers at the Unitarian tea on Monday afternoon,
Feb. 24th, from four until five at the Unitarian building on Beacon street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis of Franklin street announce the engagement of their daughter, Belle Willett, to Mr.
Carl Ramsey Derby.

The Pioneer whist club met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Charles Treadway at her home on Billings road.
Prizes were awarded Mrs. Fred Loud,
Fred Loud, Mrs. A. E. Linnell and Frank Flanders.

Mrs. W. Jefferson of East Elm avenue has returned after a three weeks' visit with her mother in Sweden, Maine.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Wright Pratt of Hopedale, formerly of Wollaston, are to take a party abroad this summer. They will be away two months, July and August.

Mrs. William Johnson of Faxon road gave a valentine dinner and whist for the Atlantic Whist Club on Tuesday evening. All members were requested to dress in costume and the conceptions ranged from the Martha Washington style to the Hallroom Boys of Boston American fame. An appropriate supper preceded the game of cards, and the evening proved to be the most enjoyable and novel of the season.

W. M. Hauptman of Boston is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Hall of Bromfield street.

The New England Woman's Press
association plans a delightful afternoon
at The Vendome, Boston, for Saturday, Feb. 29, and invites its friends to enjoy the treat. Miss Edith Margaret Small of Montreal is to be in the states for a very brief time filling important engagements and will furnish entertainment for the afternoon. She will give her own arrangement of Gilbert Parker's story "She of the Triple Chevron" and a group of habitant selections. She has unusually fine recommendations, including glowing tributes from Ralph Connor and Dr. Drummond. Trained at the McGill University and reared among the people, whose story she tells, she is a rare interpreter. There will be a musical program. Friends may subscribe to Miss Annie L. Prescott or Mrs. F. H. Bishop of Wollas-ton.

Little Miss Eleanor Gow who is in Washington with her mother Mrs.
John L. Gow, is having a fine time and is being made much of, as she is the youngest member of the club, of Naval Sponsors formed on Wednesday. She is also honored by being on the committee to design the insignia for the club.

Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Atwood attended the Oberlin College alumni banquet at the Lenox, Boston, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Frothingham of Wollaston Park welcomed a son to their home Wednesday morning. The little chap will be christened Richmond Frothingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison and daughter Grace, of Detroit, are the guests of Mrs. Johnson of Lunt street.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crane, who left Connecticut late in January for Florida, spent several weeks at St. Petersburg on Tampa Bay and are now registered at The Clarendon, Seabreeze on the coast opposite the Canary islands. They report cool weather with strong breezes from the ocean.

Miss Dewey of Norway street, Norfolk Downs, is visiting friends in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Crane and Mr.
and Alfred H. Remick, were last heard from at Tampa, Florida, and report beautiful weather and a fine time.
They have started north and return
to Quincy in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha of Washington street are contemplating a trip abroad this summer, and hope to sail early in the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Stetson are registered at Hampton Terrace, Augusta, Georgia, one of their favorite resorts when traveling in the south.
There are eight in the party. Mr.
Stetson is enjoying golf and Mrs.
Stetson the social life of the place.
At a recent ball Mrs. Stetson was said to have worn the handsomest gown,
a white net, hand embroidered, and there were many beautiful gowns worn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Simmons of South Central avenue are enjoying a midwinter trip, going first to North Adams for a few days' visit with their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Holmes.

The Servia club observes the holiday at the home of its president, Mrs.
Annie K. Ellis at The Gladstone, Roxbury. There will be a reception at three o'clock followed by a talk by Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, on her recent trip abroad. Music and a dinner will close the festivities. The club is composed of women who accompanied the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company abroad, going and returning on the steamer "Servia."

It has been necessary to print a second order of 300 tickets for the annual ball of the Elks to be held March 2, so great has been the demand. It promises to be the ball of the season.

Annual Banquet Board of Trade

Lieut. Gov. Draper Deals With Changed Conditions Congressman O'Connell And Col. Bigney Speak

The great natural advantages of Quincy were emphasized at the annual banquet and ladies night of the Quincy Board of Trade at Music hall
on Thursday evening, when about 300 ladies and gentlemen felt proud of their city.

It was an informal occasion, but
was graced by the presence of Lieut.
Governor Draper, Congressman O'-

The dinner was served at 7 o'clock
by Westover & Foss, who gave good satisfaction; the menu being as follows:

Escalloped Oysters	Lobster Salad
Chicken Salad	Turkey
	Cranberry Sauce
	Ram
	Banana Fritters
Harlequin Ice Cream	Frozen Pudding
Sherbet	Assorted Cake
Rolls	Coffee

The orchestra played during the banquet, and the post prandial exercises opened with vocal solos by Mrs. Blanche Richardson, whose number was so pleasing that she was recalled. Miss Winifred Lynch of Springfield also contributed a violin solo which was enthusiastically received, and an encore demanded.

After another solo by Mrs. Richardson, President Piper welcomed those assembled, and thought no mistake
had been made in having it a ladies night. He told of the objects of the Board of Trade and the natural advantages of Quincy. We are proud of the history of Quincy, he said, but we must advance. He urged the support of all enterprising men.

While the guests were gathering
from 6:30 to 7, Teasdale's orchestra
furnished a pleasing concert program.
It was the pleasure of several to meet personally the invited guests of the evening, but there was no reception line. The hall was very attractive in its decoration of flags,
lighted Japanese lanterns and plants.
The head table was directly in front of the platform, and there was five long tables running the long way of the hall, the outer tables being the longest. On the head table was a vase of Lawson pinks and callas plants from Arnold & Johnson, the

CLASH IN THE STREET

Foreigners and Police In Conflict In Philadelphia

A PARADE WITH RED FLAGS

Drivers Who Attempted to Pass Through Line Are Severely Handled—Riot Call Brings Out Big Police Force and Pitched Battle Results

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—The march of nearly one thousand foreigners upon the city hall, where they said they intended to make demands upon Mayor Reuben for work, precipitated a riot in Broad street, in the heart of the city, late yesterday, in which twenty persons were injured before the police by picturesque methods dispersed the marchers and arrested fourteen of them.

The men, most of whom were Italians and Poles, came from the foreign settlement in the lower section of the city. They intended to call on the mayor as a preliminary to a meeting they intended to hold in a hall last night. The leaders and a score of others in the line carried red flags having a black border. When they reached Broad street several wagons attempted to pass through the line and the drivers were dragged from their seats by the marchers and badly beaten.

Policemen ran to the rescue of the drivers and a riot call was sent in. The motor bicycle police went flying through the city and routed out the entire mounted police squad, the big reserve street squad and all patrolmen, who were hurried to the scene in wagons and automobiles, even private carriages that were standing in front of stores being pressed into service. The reserve police force from six central districts were also hurried out.

A number of persons who were watching the paraders participated in the first disturbance, and when the big reserve force of police hurried down upon the marchers a general riot was in progress.

Some of the marchers drew revolvers and began firing at the police, and the mounted officers, riding into the center of the fight, used their batons right and left upon the heads of the leaders. In the melee three policemen were shot and several wounded. Charles Munn, who was watching the fight, was struck in the leg by a stray bullet.

Reserve Officer Pyott was beaten unmercifully and is in a hospital, as is Policeman Smith, who first went to the rescue of the drivers who were attacked. Harry Druding, one of these, was beaten and nearly stripped of his clothing, and fourteen participants in the demonstration were so severely clubbed by the police that they also had to be sent to a hospital.

These fourteen were either foremost in the ranks of the marchers or were flag-bearers, who were singled out by the police and arrested when it was ascertained that the men had obtained no permit from the city officials to parade. The clash with the police occurred directly in front of one of the big hotels on Broad street, and for a few moments it looked as though the marchers would sweep into the place.

Joseph Troi is declared by the police to have been the leader of the parade and Dominic Donnetti and Michael Costello were his assistants. Donnetti, according to witnesses, is the man who shot one of the policemen, and with the other two he was locked up charges of inciting to riot and assault and battery with intent to kill. The other eleven prisoners are charged with inciting to riot. Nearly all those arrested carried weapons of some sort. They deny being anarchists.

Harriman Interests Win
Chicago, Feb. 21.—Judge Ball of the superior court has dissolved the injunction obtained last October by Stuyvesant Fish, by virtue of which the Harriman interests were restrained from voting 281,231 shares of the capital stock of the Illinois Central railroad at the annual meeting of the company. Under the ruling of the court the previously enjoined stock can be voted at the annual meeting of the Illinois Central, which is to be held on March 2.

Suicide Without Known Cause
New York, Feb. 21.—Without leaving anything to indicate why the act was committed, Colonel Eugene Guindon, a Civil war veteran, president of Fuller's Express company, fired a bullet into his brain while seated at his desk and died shortly afterwards. Friends declare that he had long been a sufferer from asthma and was unable to sleep.

Pettibone Must Lose a Kidney
Boise, Ida., Feb. 21.—George Pettibone, recently acquitted of the charge of complicity in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg, will submit to a serious operation at San Diego, Cal., according to information received here. It has been decided that to save his life it will be necessary to remove one of his kidneys.

Spain Occupies Moroccan Town
Tangier, Feb. 21.—Mohammed el Torres, the sultan's former representative for foreign affairs at Tangier, has protested in the name of Abd-el-Aziz against the Spanish occupation of Marchica, which Spain claims is only temporary.

THREE SERIOUSLY HURT

Many Other Passengers Shaken Up In Trolley Car Accident

Northboro, Mass., Feb. 21.—Thirteen persons were hurt, three of them seriously, by the derailment of a fast-running trolley car last night. The rear wheels of the car left the rails at a curve west of Northboro and the car was thrown squarely across the track, the rear vestibule bringing up with great violence against a tree. The seriously injured are Mrs. Michael Hurley, William Minard and Charles Lepore. It is said that the car was running at an unusual rate of speed in order to make up time.

Another accident of a similar nature occurred at 10:30 at a point about a half mile west of the scene of the first accident. A car containing three passengers was derailed at a curve, the rear wheels leaving the track just as in the case of the first accident. No one was hurt, although a telephone pole was struck by the car.

Reformatory Has $10,000 Fire

Concord, Mass., Feb. 21.—A fire which started with a mysterious explosion and necessitated the removal of many prisoners from their quarters in the Massachusetts reformatory last night caused a damage of $10,000 to the laundry building, attached to the east wing of the reformatory. The prisoners became frightened and a panic was only averted by marching the men from the east wing to secure quarters in the basement. Besides the damage to the building the reformatory baths, eighty in number, used by the prisoners, were destroyed, and 1000 sets of underclothes worn by the prisoners were damaged by smoke.

Bean Famine Threatened Boston

Boston, Feb. 21.—That Boston is living up to her widespread and proverbial reputation for being the "bean-eating" city of the universe would seem to be established by the fact that the demand for that product has exhausted the resources of the country and a ship is now daily expected in port, bringing thousands of bags of beans from Marseilles, France, to supply a famine which has been threatened.

Embezzler Looking For Pardon

Providence, Feb. 21.—An effort to obtain a pardon for Levi C. Lincoln, now serving a term of two years in state prison for embezzling $92,000 in funds of the Woonsocket Electric Machine and Power company while treasurer of that corporation, has become known. The impression is given that neither the officials of the company nor the chief of police will join in the move for a pardon.

Invalid Perished In Fire

North Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 21.—James Kent, aged 73, an invalid, was burned to death in his house in the village of Oldtown. Kent had been left alone in the house while his sister and his mother, who lived with him, went to call on their next-door neighbors. Whether the fire was accidental or was set by the invalid in a moment of despondency to end his life is unknown.

Alleged Assault by Dentist

Boston, Feb. 21.—Dr. George A. Brouillet, aged 49, a dentist, was arrested last night, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill. James L. Luce, alleged to be the victim of the dentist, is suffering from a fractured skull. Luce is a brother of Mrs. Brouillet and claims to have been attacked with a hatchet by Brouillet when he went to see his sister.

New City Clerk For Boston

Boston, Feb. 21.—Assistant City Clerk John F. Priest was elected city clerk by the common council last night, following a deadlock which has existed since early in January. Priest received forty votes and William S. McNary thirty-seven. The board of aldermen declared in favor of Priest on Feb. 10.

Bike Team Loses a Lap

Boston, Feb. 21.—Nine of the ten teams in the six-day bicycle race here finished last night's riding on even terms, leaving the Taylor-Butler team one lap behind. That team lost the lap during a spirited sprint. During the night fifty-one miles were covered, bringing the total mileage to 206.

John Mitchell's Possible Commission
Washington, Feb. 21.—That John Mitchell, the retiring president of the United Mine Workers of America, may be asked by President Roosevelt to go to Panama and to report on labor conditions there is one of the results which may accrue from a conference on Panama affairs at the White House. The necessity of having accurate information on labor conditions on the isthmus has been emphasized recently by numerous minor complaints which are coming to Washington.

Chinamen Looking For Evidence
New York, Feb. 21.—Two Chinamen arrived here, seeking evidence to be used at Boston, where ten Chinamen are on trial for the murder of four others, who were shot down in the Chinese quarter of that city during a battle between the Hip Sing Tong and On Leong Tong factions. They especially seek evidence against Leong Gong, one of the men being tried at Boston.

Collier's Chief Officer Slain
San Juan, P. R., Feb. 21.—George Dixon, a carpenter on the American collier Abaronda, killed Walter Weichert, chief officer of the collier, on board the vessel. Dixon struck at Weichert with an axe and decapitated him. Weichert recently had Dixon placed in irons on account of disobedience of orders. A board of inquiry has been appointed to investigate the occurrence.

FISH POND FOR KANSAS CITY

Suggestion of a Man Who Likes an Afternoon of Angling.

"Kansas City is badly in need of something," said a resident of the east side the other day to a reporter of the Kansas City Star. "I suppose if I'd tell anybody what it is the city needs I'd be laughed at, but I'm going to speak out anyway."

"There is no place where a Kansas Cityan can go to fish for an afternoon and get back in time for work the next day. I mean fish for real fish—bass and crappie and other game fish. Of course in the Blue river at Swope park there are a few catfish and some carp, and I'm not throwing any slurs at them. But there are no game fish nearer the city than those in a private pond near Independence. It takes nearly four hours to make the trip there, and it leaves little time in an afternoon for angling."

"Now, I have a suggestion. I have noticed that the park board is grading parts of the park at the grove on Fifteenth street at Benton boulevard. There is a ravine running nearly four blocks through the grove that at most points is at least ten feet deep from the south bank and varying from two to ten feet on the north. Trees and brush save the ravine from being an unsightly scar. But why not fill the basin of this ravine with water and stock it with good game fish? It is an excellent place for them. After a year the park board could allow fishing, charging a small sum for the pleasure. Many other cities have public parks containing water stocked with valuable game fish. The fish will spawn rapidly, and the tree trunks and shrubbery would furnish an excellent protection for the young fish. I want to see a place where women and children and any others who enjoy a national sport without riding on a train can go for half a day. Game fish need deep water and shade. The ravine in the grove could furnish these."

"TOO BIG FOR PRESIDENT."

J. P. Morgan Wouldn't Take That Job, Says Dog Show Doorkeeper.

The proudest man in New York the other day was the doorkeeper of the private entrance to the dog show in Madison Square Garden, for he was formally introduced to the little niece of J. Pierpont Morgan by Mr. Morgan himself.

It was about 5:30 o'clock when Mr. Morgan, accompanied by the little girl, appeared. The doorkeeper, conscious of his personal acquaintance with the financier and also recognizing a kindred spirit in dogdom, gave his visitors a hearty welcome. Mr. Morgan acknowledged the welcome, and when the doorkeeper deplored that the financier was not exhibiting his collies this year he was told that Mr. Morgan was also very sorry.

"But I want you to meet my little niece," continued the financier, patting the child on the shoulder, "for she, too, is a great dog lover, if not a fancier." "Pretty democratic," commented a bystander as the financier passed on. "Who? Him?" said the doorkeeper. "He's a real man; that's what he is." "How'd you like to vote for him for president?" asked the other. "Huh! He's too big. He wouldn't take that job," said the doorkeeper.

JUNIOR AERO CLUB.

Woman Heads Movement to Teach Young People Balloon Flying.

A new aero club is about to be organized in New York city. It will be national in character, and the aim of its promoters is to establish branches in the principal cities throughout the United States.

The club will be composed entirely of members of the younger generation, the grownups merely acting in an advisory capacity. The name of the new club is the Junior Aero Club of the United States. The originator of this club is Miss E. L. Todd, who has devoted years of study to the problems of aerial navigation and who has designed several working models of airships. A meeting of the members of the Junior club will soon be held. Membership in the club will be divided into three classes—honorary, active members who construct their own apparatus and active members who own apparatus not constructed by themselves. The officers and working committee will be chosen from the active members who make their own balloons, and eligibility for active membership will be limited to those under twenty-one years of age.

Branches of ten or more members may be established anywhere in the United States.

Galax Leaves.

G. A. Holder of Round Peak was in Mount Airy recently and told something of the large business he has built up in the sale of galax leaves. He will pay the women and children of his neighborhood as much as $3,000 this winter for gathering these leaves along the little ravines in the mountains. The leaves are packed in bunches of twenty-five each and sold to florists in cities. They sell in Mount Airy for 25 cents for 3,000 leaves. Women and children often make from $1 to $1.50 a day gathering them.

HOPE FOR WICKED BOYS

Judge Lindsey Tells How They Are Reformed by Kindness.

GO TO REFORM SCHOOL ALONE

Denver Jurist Talks of Mickey, Worst Boy, Who Is Now a Good Citizen. Desperate Burglar Went to Reformatory Alone When He Found Law His Friend.

The congregation of the Central Presbyterian church in New York heard the other night the story of "Mickey, the Worst Kid In Denver," and for an hour learned things about boys with burglar tendencies and leanings to crime in general. Judge Ben B. Lindsey, head of the children's court of Denver, was the speaker. The Central Presbyterian church started the "Big Brother" movement in New York, the members of the men's class of the church each guaranteeing to take a boy convicted of crime and be a personal friend of the youngster and do his best to help him straighten up. Ten churches now have "Big Brother" organizations that are working with the bad boys of New York.

Judge Lindsey, who brought about the reforms in the laws of Colorado concerning the treatment of criminally inclined children, began by admitting that his friend Mickey had been of great practical value in getting the reforms accomplished. When it was learned that opposition had developed to the new bills before the legislature the clergymen and philanthropists filed to the capitol, but they brought no witnesses to the evils they complained of.

"I sent for Mickey, who had been pictured in the Denver papers as the worst boy in town," said the judge, "and asked him if he couldn't get together some witnesses for me. He brought me about thirty little chaps who knew what jail meant, what cruelty meant, what lack of chance to do right meant and who could and did tell the truth.

"The first witness was a boy nine years old. Every one of us felt ashamed that we did not really know of the conditions that child told us of and didn't know that in two years 2,000 little men had served jail terms.

"We have been struggling to put a little love into the law. Some one has said that there is no love without justice, but it is equally true that there is no justice without love.

"In dealing with the boys along the line of friendship we have had setbacks. A friend of mine got close to the leader of a gang of boys, and the gang came to see him on his job as an office boy with his new friend. The boys were made welcome, and in a few minutes the building was surrounded by fire engines and ambulances. Some one had managed to send in the calls.

"I had a case where the question arose what to do with the prisoner during recess of court, the jail being at a distance. I suggested that we take him with us, my idea being that the subject of treatment was a human being. I had to pay a little extra for the sugar bowl he carried out with him.

"It was discouraging for awhile, but it is hopeful that at last we are treating with humans as well as with things. When a boy entered a box car to steal and was captured, the first and only thing put under consideration in the courts in the past was the box car, not the boy.

"I saw in my friend Mickey nothing but hate for the police. He despised them all, and he had reason to. When he was not being locked up for something he had done he was being locked up on general principles and because he was the worst boy in town.

"One day while I was on the bench Mickey, who had been eating from a bag of doughnuts, saw a police captain passing below the window where he sat. He filled the bag with water and squashed the captain. He was brought before me and denied it. Later I saw him behind the bars, and he whimpered: 'I hit him, judge, but I didn't mean to lie to you. I just can't tell de truth' when a cop's around.' The boy was under hunk. Even then he was trying to enlist in the navy, but he was underfed and could not pass the examination.

"The police had done nothing to make my friend the best boy in town, and yet I began to find out that there was very little difference between Mickey and the other kids in town, the only difference being that of environment. He is today a respected young man in Denver, but his picture and the story of his badness will be found in the files of the Denver papers.

"I knew him when he was beaten terribly by the jail keepers because he would not tell who had broken a pane of glass in one of the jail windows. He could take the beatings, and the loyalty that is a kid's when he stands by his friend is the kind that makes him willing to die for the flag when he grows up.

"We are now treating boys like human beings. We used to send them to jail in charge of a sheriff. Today they leave my court by themselves for the reform school. They understand that we are trying to help them, that we want to straighten them out, that they will get a chance to learn something and be something, that they are not being punished, but helped, and that we are not the policemen they hated, but friends, now friends glad to get the chance to help them, and they know it.

"They go to their terms and come out the better for what they have gone through. They know that they can cut and run if they want to, but any human being hates to lie to a friend, and when they promise to go for their own sakes they go in the majority of cases.

"The police of Denver said this plan was absurd. They laughed at it. I have had 500 boys promise me, one nineteen years old, being a desperate character. The police chief begged me not to fool with him and told me that he would kill me, as he had tried to do some of the police.

"It took me five hours in my chambers to convince that young man that he did have a friend and that I was his friend and not his enemy. He took his railroad fare and traveled to the reformatory, learned a trade and is doing well today. I got a letter from him recently, sent on from Denver to my New York address.

"The quality and power of friendship will make a good citizen where hate and oppression make a burglar. The police were offering bets of 50 to 1 that this burglar friend of mine—Big Peter was his name—would never reach the reformatory. They called on the phone to settle the bets, and the policeman turned from the phone and said: 'Big Peter's arrived, is washed and dressed and is in line.' Then they cashed the bets, losers.

"In Denver our boys love the state because it is a firm but kind father. We fall once in awhile, but the jail falls offener. When we fall it is because the poor fellow is weak, too weak. You pray here every day to God to lead you not into temptation, but to deliver you from evil. You pray thus because you are weak, like the rest of humanity, and the ones we much succeed with are those who are much weaker than the rest of us."

TO NEW YORK BY GOAT TEAM

Los Angeles Cripple Plans Trip Which Will Take a Year's Time.

A journey from coast to coast by goat team is planned by Captain Vivian Edwards. From Los Angeles to New York city four goats will draw the diminutive buggy in which he will ride.

The start will be made as soon as the weather clears, and Edwards hopes to keep continually on the road until his strange trip has been completed, with the exception of Sundays, when the animals will be given an opportunity to rest.

"I expect to make the journey within one year's time," said the captain the other day to a reporter of the Los Angeles Times. "My goat team can cover fourteen miles a day over good roads, and with favorable weather that speed can be kept up day after day without overtaxing the animals. The heavier articles of my outfit will be carried by the burros which will accompany me."

Edwards, who is a cripple and unable to walk, has already covered thousands of miles with his goat team, which consists of four large Angoras. Last year he went to Hastings, Neb., in 200 days.

Edwards' companion will be John Johnson, who was a sailor of the U. S. S. Raleigh at the battle of Manila Bay. He will handle the burros and have general care of the camp equipment. The trip eastward will be over the southern route.

AID FOR HOBOES.

Their Apostle Tells How They Differ From Tramps and Bums.

John Ellis, apostle of "the unemployed," had a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House the other morning, in which he differentiated for Mr. Roosevelt the three classes of undesirable citizens known as tramps, bums and hoboos.

He brought to the president the set of resolutions adopted at the St. Louis convention of these three classes and reported Mr. Roosevelt as having been much interested in them. They have to do with schemes for improving the condition of the unemployed, and Ellis says the president promised his hearty support for that work.

"The unemployed" does not mean tramps and bums," said Ellis. "You may call them hoboos if you will, but do not confound hoboos with tramps and bums. Hoboos work and wander, tramps dream and wander, and bums drink and wander. Work interferes with the life of the tramp and bum, but never with that of the hobo."

Wu Ting Fang's Retort.

Wu Ting Fang's return to Washington as Chinese minister is beginning to produce a new crop of stories illustrating his readiness of retort. The other day the lady who sat next him at dinner asked him why the Chinese attached so much importance to the dragon. "You know there is no such creature, don't you?" she asked. "You have never seen one, have you?" "My dear madam," replied the oriental diplomatist, "why do you attach so much importance to the Goddess of Liberty on your coins? You know there is no such lady, don't you? You have never seen her, have you?"

Special Telephones For His Servants.

That his servants may converse without annoying members of the family with their "steadies" of either sex Charles F. Brush, millionaire and electrical inventor, has installed a second private branch telephone exchange in his Euclid avenue home in Cleveland, O. The exchange, with its special operator, connects with each of the servants' rooms. It has a connection also with the family exchange that orders may be delivered.

HINDOO REVOLT MOVE

Students In America Banded Together to End English Rule.

MANY NOW IN OUR COLLEGES

Periodical to Keep Alive Spirit of Patriotism Started by a Hundred Young Natives of India—Every Student Must Return and Advance Freedom of His Country.

Hindoo revolutionists are at work in New York. A hundred young Hindoos have organized a movement there against British rule in India. A periodical called Free Hindustan made its first appearance in New York city the other day. It is devoted to the interests of the new revolutionary movement.

More than 200 Hindoo students are now residing temporarily in the United States to obtain the benefits of its universities and colleges, says the New York World. They mostly are representatives of the higher caste of India and call themselves the "future citizens" of the Indian empire.

Since the partition of Bengal in 1905, which caused much discontent among the Indians with the British government, the Hindoo movement toward independence has taken strength. The Hindustani association, which has headquarters in Calcutta, Bombay and Madras, has raised money enough to educate several hundred Indian young men in foreign universities, especially in Japan and the United States.

There are 5 universities, 141 colleges and 5,461 high schools in India. A competitive examination is open for all the students in these institutions for the foreign scholarships. Out of several thousand applicants only 200 are sent every year to foreign countries. Every student sent abroad must pledge himself to return to his country and devote himself to the advancement and freedom of India.

The Hindustani association recently published a pamphlet giving detailed information about American colleges and universities. Every student is supplied with one of these pamphlets before departing to the United States. And here, after consulting at the association's branch headquarters in New York city, the pupils are directed to various institutions.

One of the rules is that the students mingle with the American pupils, obtain American ideas and study the social and economic conditions here. But they must always keep in mind they are preparing themselves to elevate and help their countrymen to gain their freedom. To crush the British yoke is the dream of every Hindoo student in the United States.

Lalit M. Khar of 155 East Twenty second street, an engineering student, who took a prominent part in the Madras demonstrations at the time of the Bengal partition, said:

"The people of India have no votes and are not even represented in the executive councils of India. They have no voice in taxation nor expenditures. About £25,000,000 annually is drained from the country for England. Taxes are higher than in any other civilized country.

"The natives of India are determined to stand on their own feet, but it is a hard problem for an enslaved nation to raise its head while the sword of a powerful alien government is held close to its neck. Our press is muzzled. The secrets bill passed by Lord Curzon has gagged our publications."

Nafar Das Ray, another student, said: "The whole weight of the British government is grinding the nation and enslaving the spirit of progress. Even here we are haunted and followed by British detectives. We are here to get an education. Why don't they let us alone?"

"Yes, I am a revolutionist. I feel like your forefathers and have within me the spirit of '76. They say that Egypt has improved immensely since England took possession of it and civilization has far advanced there, as well as in India, compared with former Mohammedan rule. Why don't you consider the misery of natives in India? We are treated worse than dogs."

Under the title of "Free Hindustan" is a quotation from Herbert Spencer, "Every man is free to do that which he wills, provided he infringes not the equal freedom of any other man." The aim of the new publication is "to throw off the foreign yoke, to unfold, wave and hoist our own national flag and thus assert our Indian manhood. Let selfishness go, let us toil ever and forever for our country's release in defiance of despot, devil and death. For us there is no dread. Pleasure or pain, profit or loss, victory or defeat, will be all the same to us. So minded, we are 'girded' for life's battle."

New Arrangement For Stars In Flag.

A man with a patriotic, mathematical mind out in Ohio has planned an entirely new method of adjusting the stars in the blue field of Old Glory. He is Dr. A. M. Martin of Bloomfield and has something unique as a suggestion for settling a much disputed question. Every time a new state is added to the Union the stars have to be adjusted differently, and confusion and disagreement have resulted frequently. Dr. Martin's geometrical design consists of five arcs, the centers of which are the apices of a regular pentagon. The stars are placed at regular intervals on the arcs and fall naturally into a perfect geometrical position. A bill embodying the doctor's plan and providing for its official adoption has been introduced by Representative Ansberry of Ohio.

Sunlight dance in Quincy Music hall
tomorrow, (Washington's Birthday),
from three until eleven o'clock P. M.

Archdeacon Hudson Stuck of Fairbanks, Alaska, is to give an address illustrated by lantern slides in St. Chrys-ostom's church in March.

Adams Chapter D. R. meets at 10.45
in room 148 at the State house on Washington's birthday to attend Governor Guild's reception.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will hold their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith of Prospect avenue, Wollaston.

William E. Brown, the well known undertaker, is seriously ill at his home on Mechanics street, and but slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

An entertainment will be held in the
M. E. Church, Wollaston, Wednesday evening February 26. A musical programme has been arranged, with Miss Clara Thornhill, reader, assisting.

Members of the Quincy Alliance are asked to bring a guest to the meeting
on Monday afternoon and give the Rev.
Mr. Dillingham a large audience. He is an interesting speaker with an interesting subject.

The annual meeting and election of officers of Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, will be held with Mrs. H.
A. Stevens, Wayland Street, Feb. 24, at 7.45. Mrs. Sawtelle, secretary for Norfolk Co. and president Pond Home
Corporations, will be present.

Old settlers and people used to driving about the city would have liked a large map to illustrate the interesting paper on "Old Quincy Highways," given Wednesday evening at First Church chapel by Mr. Ezekiel Sargent. The paper was full of interesting data and facts, and told of many very old streets
and ways which are still in use.

The Junior League of the Atlantic
M. E. church gave an interesting entertainment and social Thursday evening under the supervision of Mrs.
Abbott, who was assisted by Miss Mattie Dunn. The vestry was attractively decorated with the national colors and a bountiful collation was served.

Miss Ida Brown of Farrington street
came home from Georgia last month,
where she has been teaching since the autumn, to be operated on for appendicitis. Her many friends will be glad to know she is convalescing most favorably at the Emerson Hospital, and that now she may enjoy the best of health, which has been denied her for a long time.

The Quincy and Wollaston Young People's Religious unions have been invited to attend the mid-year meeting
of the Boston Federation at Bulfinch
Place church on Sunday afternoon.
There will be a business meeting and discussion at five o'clock followed by supper and an evening service at half past seven. The church is a short distance from the Park street subway station.

The invitation sent out by the committee in charge of the birthday party to be given by St. Chrysostom's branch of the Girl's Friendly society are very unique. The party will be held in the parish rooms Monday evening at 8 o'clock, and all are anticipating a good time. Miss Ruth L. Wells of Boston, who addressed the branch at their regular meeting the 14th, impressed them most favorably and they hope to have the pleasure of hearing her again
next year.

Silver Aluminum Jelly Moulds Free.

Individually Molded desserts are now considered the proper thing. The moulds are hard to get outside the large cities, but users of JELL-O, The Dainty Dessert, can get them absolutely free. Circular in each package explaining and illustrating the different patterns. JELL-O is sold by all good grocers at 10c. per package. Do not accept a substitute or you will be disappointed.

Board of Trade could do much for the city. Quincy was a pretty good place after all to live in and do business in, and it had a pretty good form of government. There were no good arguments for a radical change in the City Charter, and it would be a mistake. He emphasized the importance of the people at large in taking more interest in the abolition of grade crossing, that the wishes of the city might be crystallized.

Lieut. Gov. Draper was introduced as an official who had been tried and not found wanting. He paid his compliments to the ladies. Col. Bigney and Congressman O'Connell, and then spoke at length of the business changes of 25 years. They were of momentous importance, he said.
Formerly business and transportation were in small units. Much of the shoe business was done in small shops and in the homes. So with other lines.

The population has increased enor-

PRESIDENT PIPER.

mously, and now there is prompt communication with all parts of the country. As a result different lines of business had concentrated. Trunk lines of railroad had taken the place of short lines. Where formerly it was all right to make the best trade possible with railroads, now that one railroad system serves an entire section of the country it should use all alike. It should be the servant of the people, not the master.

Like changes have taken place in the social world. Where formerly people divided as to church, today
there are Boards of Trade and similar organizations, women's clubs, etc., which bring together all the people
of a city or state.

The change has come to stay and we want to recognize it, and to deal with it properly. We must so deal with railroads that they will not be a menace. The difficulty is not unsurmountable, but can be met by the people and settled. Let us not jump out of the frying pan into the stove.
Mr. Draper opposed government ownership, but favored government control. Corporations must not be bigger than the government. So with labor; it must be subject to the government. The people will meet the difficulties as they arise and settle them right.

Congressman O'Connell referred to Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams and also to John Hancock of Quincy, and said, unless I am true to their principles I cannot properly represent this district. He believed in organizations like this,
and was enthusiastic over the shore
front and natural advantages of Quincy.
He then discussed shipping at length.

When the sub-committee, appointed by the Naval Department of the House of Representatives at Washington, voted on last Tuesday to purchase
by the government the three colliers
of the New England Gas and Coal Company, which were built last summer by the Fore River Works, there was given birth to what promises to be a new era for the shipping interests of this country. This event is of national significance and of more than local interest. It means the dawn of a new era, because for the first time there will be used for the carrying of coal to our fleet, colliers with an American registry, built by American capital and in the shipyards of this country.

To the people of Quincy, this is of much significance, because to the yards of the Fore River Ship Company is brought the distinction of having built boats which are satisfactory and which more than met the test required by the government in this case.

The national import of the present
serious situation due to the decline of American shipping is found in the fact that the Navy Department found it necessary to employ vessels of foreign registry to supply the coal
for Admiral Evan's fleet which is now circling the globe. This anomalous situation which finds the American fleet dependent upon vessels of foreign registry to supply it with coal,

is not an accident, but is the result of the almost entire wiping from the seas of vessels of American registry.
When the fleet started last December,
the Navy Department advertised for bids to transport 325,000 tons of coal which was necessary to coal the fleet, and they were obliged to contract with foreign companies for the carrying of all of this coal, except 8,000 tons which one American vessel was able to take. The amount paid to foreign ship owners for this contract was over $1,750,000 and this does not include the amount paid for the coal which has already been transported for a number of years and shipped for the use of the United States to the Philippines and to Honolulu.

The serious, if not alarming, nature of the present condition of affairs is immediately recognized when attention is called to the fact that if war were declared every ship of foreign registry would be obliged to start at once for its home port and could not be used by our government for coaling the fleet. Our ships would then be found without coal, unless it could be seized occasionally, and of course such a situation seems ridiculous in light of the enormous sums of money that are spent in the construction and equipment of great battle fleets.

Col. Sidney O. Bigney of Attleboro, recently of the Governor's Council, threw bouquets at Lieut. Gov. Draper, and complimented the Congressman on his splendid address. The speaker said he believed in organizations like the Board of Trade. They mean much to a town or city. He took an optimistic view of affairs in general, citizenship was improving,
he said, more time being given to public affairs. An exchange of ideas was beneficial, and when cities want legislation they should go to their Congressmen and Representatives
through such organizations as this.

He took exceptions to some of the arguments of the Congressman relative to shipping, saying the antiquated methods would not work. Sailing vessels were almost out of commission. It was not possible for American capital now to compete with foreign steamship lines as the foreign governments subsidize their lines.
Money would not be put into steamship lines unless they will pay. He argued in favor of a subsidy. The government should protect shipping
as it protects our home industries.

Congressman O'Connell desired to reply. He would tax foreign vessels when they entered our ports. He referred to the monopoly of the Cunard line from the ports of Austria Hungary to this country, and from this country.

Col. Bigney thought foreign countries would retaliate by slamming American ships when they entered their ports.

In closing President Piper quoted
a newspaper clipping on the good work done by Boards of Trade.

the comfort features of the Ralston Health Shoe
been hidden beneath a stylish and snappy exterior that there is no way for you to tell—until you try on a pair—that Ralston Shoes
are foot moulded.

Ralston foot print lasts shaped like the bottom of your foot provide for sole fit as well as upper fit. This means a perfect fitting shoe—one in which the body weight instead of resting
on heel and ball as in most shoes is distributed over the
entire service of the foot bottom.

WORMS

Unsuspected worms are the cause of numerous little things that go wrong with children. When a child is sick you rarely think that its sickness is caused by worms, yet worms, either directly or indirectly, are the cause of three quarters of all the ills of childhood. Children, and often-times adults feel out of sorts, are irritable, feel listless and unrefreshed in the morning; suffer with indigestion, have a variable appetite, foul tongue, offensive breath; hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy, and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions—in the majority of cases the cause of all the trouble is worms though you may not suspect their presence.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

A pure vegetable compound, has been the standard household remedy since 1857; it never fails to expel not only worms but all waste matter, leaving the blood rich and pure, the stomach sweet, the bowels regular and the whole system strong and healthy. The mother who gives her children Dr. True's Elixir regularly is wise, because it not only increases the appetite, acts as a preventative of coughs, cold, fever and worms but gives rugged, robust health.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00. Write for free booklet, "Children and their Diseases."

HISTORICAL PAPERS

Established Facts Prior to 1640 Of Great Interest To Quincy People

A very large and appreciative audience of ladies and gentlemen were present Thursday evening at the chapel of the First church to listen to the reading of two historical papers of local interest. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Quincy Historical society and was presided over by Brooks Adams, Esq., the president.

Mr. Adams, in opening, said that the meeting had been arranged by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, D. D., and would include an address by Mrs. William H. Doble, on "Old Quincy Traditions," and a paper by Ezekiel Sargent, on "Old Quincy Highways," and that Mrs. Lawrence Sturtevant would sing.

He then introduced Mrs. Sturtevant, who sang two selections very acceptably. Mrs. Doble, upon being introduced, said that the title of her paper was perhaps a little misleading, for instead of traditions it was of well established facts from the early history of Quincy prior to 1640.

Mrs. Doble commenced with the coming of John Smith to these shores, who had left the first authoritative account of Quincy. He found New England inhabited by a tribe of savages who were friendly to the whites. This tribe was nearly wiped out in 1616 by a terrible pestilence.

She then spoke of the coming of Miles Standish and his landing at Squantum. She also referred to the Indian Squanto, and of his inestimable value during the twenty months of his life with the colonists.

From Miles Standish the paper turned to Thomas Morton of whom the speaker directed much attention, telling again of the famous Maypole dance at Merry-mount. With Morton's second coming in 1625 came Capt. Wollaston, for whom Mt. Wollaston derives its name.

Very little is known of Capt. Wollaston, but it was presumed that he died at sea.

After devoting considerable time to Thomas Morton, the speaker turned to St. Christopher, the Knight of the Holy Sepulchre, and of his final disappearance of which there was no record. His life was one of romance.

Mrs. Doble read Longfellow's poem to Sir Christopher, and also Charles Francis Adams' testimonial of him.

Then the speaker told of Anne Hutchinson, a woman who had a gentle and kindly nature and was a close student of the Bible. She was the first club woman in Quincy. Mrs. Doble told of her teachings, her banishment to Manahatt Island where she was murdered.

William Coddington was one of her early followers, and the speaker hoped that when the new Coddington school was built his name would be perpetuated.

During her lecture Mrs. Doble mentioned all the names connected with Quincy's early history, and closed by saying, "thereby our feet rest on historic ground."

Mrs. Lawrence sang two new songs, and Mr. Sargent was then introduced. Mr. Sargent's paper dwelt as its title says with "Old Quincy Highways."

It was an interesting paper from a historical point of view, and contained much that was new to many in Quincy.

He spoke of topographical features, and the natural advantages offered to its early settlers, the town being rich with brooks and rivers and fertile valleys and and plains, salt and fresh meadows, etc. He told of the early land grants to settlers, and of the water mill of Richard Wright at the foot of Fort street.

During these early days there were many ways and paths throughout the settlement, some leading to the meeting house and school, and others to settlements further south and east. These usually followed the lines of easy resistance, and as travel was on foot or horseback, grades were of no material consequence.

The route from Boston was by the way of Milton Lower Mills; thence over Milton hills, Adams street, and part of what is now known as Hancock street to the "meeting house;" thence to "the mill" by what is now known as School street. There was probably a way along what is now Elm street and Elm place crossing the mill river; also ways across Penn's hill.

With the establishment of the incorporation of the town of Braintree in 1640, began the laying out of county highway from Dorchester to Weymouth. The general width of this highway was 66 feet. It was impossible to trace all the ways laid out by the town. Many of these ways have now become private property, many are still continued.

The Shakespeare club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Cecil Marble of Squantum street. Twelfth Night, the last play of the season, was begun and will be continued on March 5, at the home of Mrs. Harry Read of Squantum street.

Mrs. R. F. Burleigh of Braintree is making an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Wheeler of Hudson.

The birthday party of the Susanah Tufts Chapter occurred at the fine colonial residence of the regent Mrs. A. G. Bowditch of Quincy avenue, East Braintree, on Tuesday afternoon. The reception was from 3 to 6 o'clock and the spacious rooms were thronged with guests.

Miss Agnes H. Pember of Westerly, R. I., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Ramsdell of Billings street.

The Local club was served a valentine dinner at the home of Mrs. Varney, of Braintree on Feb. 14. The dining room was appropriately decorated with crepe paper while cupid in the midst overlooked the festivities. The place cards were heart shaped valentines, each having a bit of poetry composed by the hostess. A very fine dinner was served after which a good social time was enjoyed.

Miss Ethel G. Hill of Walker street has gone to Athol, Mass., for the remainder of the week as the guest of Mrs. Anna F. Cook.

The Mass. Society of Mayflower Descendants held a meeting at the Hotel Vendome on Thursday afternoon February 13th. At the informal reception which followed the business session, Mrs. C. G. Sheppard of Quincy avenue was one on the ladies who presided at the tea table. The society will place at Eastham a boulder suitably inscribed, to mark the spot where the colonists first encountered the Indians.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gassett of Mount Vernon, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hall of Newbury avenue over the holiday.

Among the many pleasant observances of Valentine's day is recorded the surprise party which was tendered Mr. Thomas Cain of Braintree by seventeen friends. The occasion was Mr. Cain's sixty-first birthday and it is doubtful if that gentleman ever forgets the pleasant memories connected with the date. Guests were present from Brockton, Campello and South Braintree. With singing and refreshments the hours quickly flew. Many substantial gifts including a mission arm chair, carving set, harmonicas and ties were given, which will serve to keep in mind the thoughtfulness of the donors. His many friends wish Mr. Cain many happy returns of the day.

Friend of Miss S. A. Pfaffmann of Clay street are grieved to learn of her long continued illness. Since early in December she has been at the City Hospital.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Division 24, A. O. H., celebrated its first anniversary by a banquet and dance at Farnum's hall on Thursday evening. The banquet was served by Caterer LaCroix, and was participated in by a large number. At the conclusion of the banquet there were brief addresses by Mrs. James O'Dowd and Rev. William Duffy, and vocal solos by Harry Hawkins of Cambridge, and James Hussey of West Quincy, reading by Miss Baron. Dancing followed.

Mrs. Harry Brooks of Chestnut street will leave next week for Baltimore and Washington, being away during March.

Miss Hayward's series of dances for her advanced class came to a close on Tuesday afternoon at Colonial hall with one of the prettiest parties ever held there, the social success of which was due to the kindness of Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann. The matrons were Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Mabel Morrison Ellsworth and Mrs. Richard Drinker and the ushers were Jack Pfaffmann, Winslow Sears, William Edwards and Donald Crane. Each pupil was presented with a dignity and grace that reflected great credit, after which the dancing began. Numerous German figures were introduced, the favors being bunches of violets and pinks. The class presented Miss Hayward and Miss Pray, the pianist, with a large bunch of violets. Ices and cakes were served to the class and the tiny visitors present, after which dancing was resumed till quarter past six. Miss Hayward may well feel gratified at the degree of excellence which the children have attained in dancing, and the parents are grateful to her for what she has done for them.

Fourth Anniversary

One of the most enjoyable occasions since the institution of the American Benefit Society lodge in Wollaston was held in Brasee hall Tuesday evening, when the lodge celebrated its fourth anniversary by giving a supper to members and their families. The tables were laid the length of the hall and loaded with all the good things that tend to make the inner man happy. Escalloped oysters, salads, cold meats, rolls, coffee, cake and jellies with whipped cream were served. The decorations were potted plants. Much praise was given the committee in charge for the successful manner in which the affair was carried out, considering the difficulties under which they labored. The entertainment consisted of readings, violin and piano solos, and vocal solos by Wollaston's favored singer, Mr. E. E. Bullock. Afterward dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock.

Work for Abutters.

People of Ward One want a little more attention paid to the streets, sidewalks, gutters and crossings in the centre of the city, during and after snow storms. It seems to many to be the most neglected ward in the whole city. There should be a law that abutters on Hancock street, from School and Elm to Adams street, should clear their sidewalks before nine A. M. after a snow storm, also Granite street to the bridge, Temple street to Washington, Station and Saville streets to the depot. Of what use are good concrete or brick sidewalks if they are buried under snow and ice during the winter months? The snow plow clears a few feet in centre and the snow each side of cleared space melts and keeps the walks constantly wet, which would not be the case if sidewalk was properly cleaned to its full width.

HEAVY VERDICT.

The largest verdict in an action of tort ever awarded in Norfolk county was given to John Jellow of Quincy by the jury in the superior court at Dedham on Thursday. The case was a suit against the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., for $40,000 for the loss of an eye.

Jellow was what is known as a "chipper," and his duties were to chip the steel plates used in the big battleships. Oct. 31, 1905, he lost one eye and had the other affected by a corner of the drill breaking off and striking his eye.

The plaintiff's claim was he lost his eye owing to the failure of the defendant company to furnish a competent workman to temper the drill.

The defendant's claim was that Jellow assumed the risk in taking up this sort of work, and there was no means of determining whether it was a piece of the plate or drill that entered his eye.

The hearing lasted three days and the jury were out four hours, returning a verdict of $12,500.

J. W. and J. J. McAnarney represented Jellow, and John Lowell the Fore River Company.

PERHAPS STRANGLED

But Rope Did Not Cause the Death of Mrs. Woodbury

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

Death by Violence Inflicted by Person Unknown—Detective Gives Important Testimony at Inquest—Woman's Husband Remains in Jail

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 21.—A finding that Mrs. Phoebe Maude Woodbury, the wife of Herbert Woodbury, came to her death "on Nov. 4, 1907, by violence inflicted by some person or persons to the jury unknown" was returned last night by the coroner's jury, which has been investigating the tragedy discovered on last Tuesday, when the body of Mrs. Woodbury, badly decomposed, was found hanging by a rope attached to a doorknob in a room of the Exchange hotel.

The inquest occupied two days, during which the evidence of those who found the body was taken and physicians who conducted the autopsy gave their testimony. The autopsy was conducted by three physicians, Drs. Back, Hall and Holt. Each of the physicians gave it as his opinion that death could not have been caused by hanging. It is intimated, though not directly declared, that the woman may have died from strangulation, but that some other agency than the rope which was found about her neck caused the strangulation.

In support of this statement, the physicians pointed out that the windpipe was not closed, as it would undoubtedly have been had strangulation been accomplished by the rope. There were only slight marks of the rope on the outside of the neck. If the woman had been strangled by the hands of some person and after death the rope had been tied about the neck, as it was when the body was found, the windpipe might be in the condition disclosed by the autopsy.

Other interesting testimony was given by Detective Leader, who was employed by Mrs. Woodbury's father to investigate her disappearance. Leader told of the finding of the body in the hotel after a search had been made of various rooms. He said that the door of the room in which the body was resisted their efforts to enter and that, when entrance was finally obtained, it was found that one of the doors was held by braces of wood from the inside, while against the other door, which was locked, the body of Mrs. Woodbury was hanging with the neck suspended by a knotted rope from the doorknob. Leader then told of an interview which he had with Herbert Woodbury, the husband of the dead woman, immediately after the finding of the body.

According to Leader, Woodbury said in this interview that on Nov. 2 he went to Bangor with the intention of employing a detective to watch his wife, as he suspected that she was friendly with another man. Failing to find a detective, Woodbury said that he determined to return home that night without letting Mrs. Woodbury know of his coming. He therefore hired a team and driver in Bangor and was driven that night over thirty-five miles of road to Foxcroft, arriving about midnight.

According to the witness, Woodbury said that he found nobody in the house with Mrs. Woodbury when he reached there. He told the witness that he had some words with his wife that night and on Nov. 4 they had another argument. After this last quarrel Mrs. Woodbury put on her hat and coat and when asked by Woodbury where she was going replied: "That's my business." Woodbury told the detective that the last he saw of his wife was when she passed through Monument square, in front of the hotel, apparently on her way to the Maine Central station. This was only a few minutes after the quarrel.

Herbert Woodbury, who was arrested on a charge of murdering his wife, will be given a hearing next Tuesday. In the meanwhile he will remain in the jail at Dover.

The stomach of the woman was removed during the autopsy and was sent to Bowdoin college for chemical analysis, to determine whether death was due to poison or whether any drugs were used.

Might Give Important Evidence
Bangor, Me., Feb. 21.—Officers are searching for the man who drove Herbert Woodbury from Bangor to Foxcroft on the night of Nov. 2, 1907, it being thought that Woodbury confided to this man much concerning his domestic troubles that would be of importance to the state. Woodbury hired a rig at Wright's stable here for the purpose of making a sudden return to Foxcroft, in the expectation of confirming suspicion concerning his wife, and got a man named Barbour to act as driver. Barbour returned two days later and on Nov. 6 left his place at Wright's and went to Boston. His present whereabouts are unknown.

Thaw Not Seeking Divorce
Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Attorneys O'Reilly and Peabody were in consultation for two hours yesterday with Harry K. Thaw at the asylum. Later they declared that Thaw had no intention of bringing suit for divorce and that all rumors of an approaching attempt to annul his marriage were groundless.

WELCOMED TO PERU

Our Battleship Fleet Arrives Safe and Sound at Callao

Callao, Feb. 21.—The American battleships, looking clean and trim and powerful in the tropical sun, came to anchor in this port yesterday. The booming of salutes announced the arrival of the fleet, but there was no need to send out signals, for every resident of Callao and great crowds from Lima, which stands back on the hills, had awaited with expectancy the first glimpse of the advancing column.

Callao was in holiday array, wishing to show that Peruvian hospitality was second to none in South America, and many thousands viewed from the wharves, the headlands and the ships in the harbor the imposing scene. Enthusiastic crowds went down the bay on excursion steamers and cheered the American men-of-war.

The Peruvian cruiser Colonel Bolognesi, bearing the first official welcome to the fleet, joined the American vessels 250 miles to the southward, and acted as an escort up the coast. She led the way into the harbor, with the flagship of the fleet close beside her, and soon the sound of guns gave notice that the American sailors were the republic's guests.

Rear Admiral Evans, who has been suffering almost from the beginning of the voyage from rheumatism, is slightly better, but will not risk the danger of coming ashore. Rear Admiral Thomas will represent him at the official ceremonies attendant upon the visit. The battleships will remain here probably for ten days and will be joined by the torpedo boat flotilla near the close of their stay at Callao. Arrangements have been made for festivities of all kinds, including a bull fight.

Picketing Declared Unlawful
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—In an opinion handed down by the supreme court the action of the superior court of Cook county granting an injunction to the A. R. Barnes Printing company of Chicago against the Chicago Typographical union, No. 16, restraining the union from picketing the plant of the Barnes company, was upheld. The court held that no sanction could be given to combinations which have for their immediate purpose the injury of another. The law, the court said, allows laborers to combine for the purpose of obtaining lawful benefits, but that picketing was unlawful.

Could Not Battle With Seas
Norfolk, Feb. 21.—The five torpedo boats, which passed out Tuesday night bound for points on the Gulf of Mexico, have returned to Hampton Roads. The prevailing adverse winds and high seas prevented the boats from making any headway and the commanding officer decided to return. The craft are at anchor in the roads. It is said two or three have sustained minor damage and will make repairs before going to sea.

Warship Sponsors Organize
Washington, Feb. 21.—The Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy formally was organized here by the adoption of a constitution and bylaws and the election of officers. The society, as its name indicates, is composed of women who have acted as sponsors for American warships. The principal object of the society is to engage in benevolent work and to take an interest in the development of the navy.

Prepared to Meet Violence
Sunderland, Eng., Feb. 21.—In view of the recent demonstrations by the unemployed here, whose ranks are being augmented daily by the engineers allied to the shipbuilding trade, 300 men from the royal artillery garrison have been drafted in to assist the police should occasion arise. The engineers went on strike on Tuesday after voting by an overwhelming majority not to accept a reduction in wages.

President Promises Signature
Washington, Feb. 21.—The president received a visit from Commander-in-Chief Burton of the G. A. R. and three members of the pension commission of that organization, who talked with him about the bill pending in congress increasing the pension of widows from $8 to $12 a month. The president said that he approved the measure and would sign it if passed by congress.

Death of Senator Latimer
Washington, Feb. 21.—Because of the death in this city of Senator Asbury C. Latimer of South Carolina, both branches of congress adjourned. In each chamber resolutions of regret were adopted and a committee was appointed to accompany the body home.

Will Greet Fleet at 'Frisco
Washington, Feb. 21.—Secretary Metcalf has decided to visit San Francisco at the time the battleship fleet arrives. It is the president's opinion that the head of the navy should greet the fleet after its long and successful voyage.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Joseph G. Cannon was endorsed for the presidency by the Republicans of Guilford county, N. C., of which he is a native.

Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles has left Boston for Washington and it is understood that he will make his future home in the latter city.

An effort is being made by the navy department to ascertain the sources of the information alleged to have been furnished magazine and other writers who have criticized the constructive features of the American battleships.

What Do YOU DO for Quincy?

A Little Wad of Common Sense.

A New Aid Fable.

This is not a George Ade fable, though it may sling some slang. It is a Home Aid fable.

Once there was a Geezer, who sat around and cut Kindling too small for Cook Stove purposes. He Whittled against Time and Flabbergasted against his Town. The town was No Good, he said—strictly on the Blink. Yes, it was N. G. Why, hadn't he lived Here since '84 and found that the Place was Punky? Sure, Mike!

Look at that town over in the next County. Grown like Jonah's Gourd. Must be a Jonah here. We've grown some, but I don't see that we're knocking any particularly Big Per-simmons. That's the way this Gazaboo knocked his town.

One day a Sarcastic Stranger floated into the Town that was Knocked from the burg that had Blossomed like Jonah's Gourd. He Heard some of the Flabbergasting and Dropped to the situation.

"Look here, you," he remarked to the citizen who was Handling Out the Knocks. "What do you do for this town? Are you doing your part to put this Burg on the Upgrade? What's that hefty Bunch of literature sticking out of your Clothes?"

"That's a Mail Order Catalogue from Chicago—a town that is a town," replied the Geezer.

"So I thought," said the Impertinent Arriv-al. "Now let me hand you out a nice little Wad of common sense. For the past ten years you have been sending your money to the Chicago Mail Order houses instead of spending it among your home merchants. What would have happened to Chicago fifty years ago if all the First Settlers had shipped their Loose Coin to New York on catalogue inducements? Why, you'd have to use a sand dredger now to find the Original Site of Chicago. Now, in the Burg from which I have just Blown in we got over all this Bum Business years ago. We passed Resolutions that we would trade at home and help our own town to Spread out so that you could Sight it on the map without using Opera Glasses. But you and a Bunch of other folks in this town have wasted your Substance in Riotous Expenditures in Chicago by mail and let the sheriff hang out the 'Nothing Doing' sign in front of some of your own town's mercantile Emporiums. Look at our Town and then look at yours. What makes the Difference?"

Whereupon the Whittling Gazaboo threw a few well chosen Thoughts into his mental makeup and went down to the village store to Annex a linen collar in place of the Paper Circles which he had bought from Chicago at Two Bits a Box.

He Won the Dog.

A minister, walking along the street one day, saw a crowd of boys sitting in a ring, with a small dog in the center. When he came up to them he asked:

"What are you doing to the dog?"

One little boy said, "Whoever tells the biggest lie wins it."

"I am surprised at you little boys, for when I was like you I never told a lie."

There was a silence for awhile, until one of the boys shouted, "Hand him up the dog!"

TEARS.

Not in the time of pleasure
Hope doth set her bow,
But in the sky of sorrow,
O'er the vale of woe.

Through gloom and shadow look we
On beyond the years.
The soul would have no rainbow
Had the eyes no tears. —Century.

Unseemly Bravado.

The mountainous waves threatened to engulf the struggling ship at any moment. The captain ordered a box of skyrockets and flares brought to the rail and with his own hands ignited them in the hope that they would make known his distress to some passing ship.

Amid the rockets' glare an austere individual made his way to the rail and reproved the captain as follows:

"Captain, I must protest against this unseemly bravado. We are now facing death. This is no time for a celebration."—Everybody's.

Correct.

"Now, can any of you tell me what is water?" asked the teacher at the end of an object lesson.

"Please, teacher, water's what turns black when you put your hands in it!"

Infantile Knowledge.

Little Rosalie, aged six, was watching her mother label some glasses of preserves.

"Mother," said she suddenly, "what kind of preserves does God make?"

"Why, God doesn't make preserves, Rosalie."

"Yes, he does, mother. I say it every Sunday in Sunday school. The teacher says, 'Why should you love and serve God? and we say, 'Because he makes preserves and redeems us.'—Lippincott's.

Some Thoughts on Love.

It is difficult to know at what moment love begins. It is less difficult to know it has begun. A thousand heralds proclaim it to the listening air: a thousand messengers betray it to the eye. Tone, act, attitude and look, the signals upon the countenance, the electric telegraph of touch—all these betray the yielding citadel before the word itself is uttered which, like the key surrendered, opens every avenue and gate of entrance and renders retreat impossible.—Longfellow.

To write a good love letter you ought to begin without knowing what you mean to say and to finish without knowing what you have written.—Rousseau.

The first symptom of true love in a young man is timidity; in a girl it is boldness. The two sexes have a tendency to approach, and each assumes the qualities of the other.—Hugo.

His Preference.

A little boy was sitting on one of the benches in Central park, New York, watching people ride the donkeys. An exceedingly fat woman hired a donkey and was about to mount when she saw the small boy and said to him, "Little boy, don't you want me to hire a donkey for you too?"

"No, thank you. I'd rather sit here and laugh."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Baptismal Episode.

An eminent judge when asked about the facility with which he turned from one case to another replied that he had learned that from what he saw at a baptism of colored people when he was a boy. The weather was very cold, so that to immerse the candidates they were obliged to cut away the ice. It befell that when one of the female converts was dipped back into the water the cold made her squirm about, and in a moment she had slipped from the preacher's hands and was down the stream under the ice. The preacher, however, was not disconcerted. Looking up with perfect calmness at the crowd on the bank, he said: "Brethren, this sister hath departed. Hand me down another."

Dumas and the Thermometer.
One day when Dumas pere was manager of the Theatre Historique he happened to meet an old friend whom he had not seen for thirty years.

"Where are you going to dine to-night?" he asked the friend.

"Tonight I shall dine nowhere," was the answer.

"Oh, no," said Dumas; "you are mistaken. You will dine with me." And he led the friend into his house and gave him the upper place at his table.

Evidently the poor man had not had such a dinner for a long time. So the generous hearted Dumas at the end of the meal casually remarked:

"It is a matter of course that I expect you tomorrow at the same time."

The friend came the next day and the day after this, and so on for ten years up to his death. One day he told Dumas that as he was eating bread that he did not earn this arrangement could not continue.

"If I am not able honestly to earn my meals, I shall not come again. Tell me in what way I can be of service to you."

Dumas thought a moment, then said: "You can do me a great favor. You may go to the new bridge every day and take the temperature by Chevalier's thermometer. The temperature, you must know, is of great moment in the matter of the sale of tickets. Could you do this?"

The poor fellow answered affirmatively and from that time on reported to Dumas every day:

"At noon the thermometer showed so and so many degrees in the shade."

And Dumas, who of course did not care in the least about the temperature, replied with the same regularity: "I am very much obliged. If you only knew what a service you are doing me!"—Harper's.

Cause For Envy.
"Many a married woman envies you your place here as a cook for us, Bridget."

"Yes'm—'cause I can leave and they can't!"—Lippincott's.

Expensive.
His restless nature had made him a torment to his teacher at times, and one afternoon she kept him after the others were dismissed and had a serious talk with him. "I certainly will have to ask your father to come and see me."

"Don't you do it."

"Why not?" inquired the teacher.

"'Cause he's a doctor and charges $2 a visit."

In the Wrong Flock.
Mrs. Philpots came panting downstairs on her way to the temperance society meeting. "Addie, run up to my room and get my blue ribbon rosette, the temperance badge," she directed her maid. "You will know it, Addie—blue ribbon and gold lettering."

"Yes'm, I know it right well." Addie had no trouble in finding it and fastening it properly on the dress of her mistress.

At the meeting Mrs. Philpots was too busy greeting her friends to note that they smiled when they shook hands with her.

When she reached home supper was served, so she went directly to the dining room, where the other members of the family were seated.

"Gracious me, mother!" exclaimed her son. "That blue ribbon—you have not been wearing that at the temperance meeting?"

"Why, what is it, Harry?" asked the good woman, clutching at the ribbon in surprise.

"Why, mother dear, didn't you know that was the ribbon I won at the show?"

The gold lettering on the ribbon read: "Interstate poultry show. First prize. Bantam."—Ladies' Home Journal.

When Lincoln Swore.

It is said that the only time Lincoln was ever heard really to swear was on the occasion of his receiving a telegram from Burnside, who had been ordered to go to the relief of Rosecrans at Chattanooga, who was in great danger of an attack from Bragg. Burnside telegraphed from Jonesboro, farther away from Rosecrans than he was when he received the order to hurry toward him. When Burnside's telegram was placed in Lincoln's hands he said, "Damn Jonesboro!" He then telegraphed Burnside as follows:

Sept. 21, 1863.
If you are to do any good to Rosecrans, it will not do to waste time at Jonesboro. A. LINCOLN.

May Have Succeeded at Home.

A physician went rabbit shooting and returned, tired out and empty handed, telling his wife he hadn't killed a thing. Thereupon she remarked: "I told you so. If you had stayed at home and attended to your legitimate business, you might have been more successful."

Prudence.

A tall man, impatiently pacing the platform of a wayside station, accosted a boy of about twelve.

"S-s-say," he said, "d-d-do y-you know h-h-how late this train is?"

The boy grinned, but made no reply. The man stuttered out something about kids in general and passed into the station.

A stranger asked the boy why he hadn't answered the big man.

"D-d-d-y-e want see me g-g-get me fa-fa-face punched? D-d-dat big g-guy'd t-tink I was mo-mo-mocking him."—Everybody's.

No Exceptions to This Rule.

"Willie," said a fond mother, "you should go to bed early. 'Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise,' you know. You should go to bed with the sun. The chickens go to bed with the sun."

"Yes, I know they do, mamma, but the old hen—she always goes with 'em!"

She Wanted to Know.

It was at a New York Symphony orchestra concert conducted by Walter Damrosch. The audience was anticipating an exquisite rendition of choice selections from some famous composers, conspicuous among whom was Richard Wagner, the opening number in this instance being one of his compositions.

As was usual, the leading performers of the orchestra as they appeared upon the platform were met with enthusiastic applause, the climax being reached with the appearance of Mr. Damrosch himself.

When the excitement had somewhat subsided and the concert was about to begin a well dressed woman, seated quite near the front, turned to the woman beside her and said in an audible voice, "Pardon me, but would you kindly tell me which one is Wagner?"

FATE OF STOESEL

Court Martial Condemns the Russian General to Death

FOCK TO BE REPRIMANDED

Smirnoff and Reiss Acquitted For Lack of Proof—Recommendation That Stoessel's Sentence Be Commuted—Facts Regarding the Siege

St. Petersburg, Feb. 21.—Lieutenant General Stoessel was condemned to death last evening by military court for the surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese. General Fock was ordered reprimanded for a disciplinary offence not connected with the surrender, and General Smirnoff and Major General Reiss were acquitted of the charges against them for lack of proof. The court recommended that the death sentence upon Stoessel be commuted to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress and that he be excluded from the service.

A shattered idol is Anatole Mikhailovitch Stoessel, former lieutenant general in the Russian army, and whilom "hero" of Port Arthur. That Stoessel is now as much overblown as he was formerly overpraised, however, cannot be questioned. The reaction in public opinion was inevitable. For Stoessel was not a great general, and did not possess the capacity to avoid the many mistakes he made in the conduct of the siege of Port Arthur.

The defenses behind which he acted were of tremendous strength, and the garrison was well supplied with ammunition and provisions, neither of which were exhausted at the time of the surrender. Unquestionably the city could have been held longer.

On the other hand, its fall eventually was certain. Isolated with absolutely no chance of relief, the Russian defenders were hemmed in on three sides by the sea, on the fourth by the Japanese. Under the command of General Noz, the siege was laid along engineering lines. Approach after approach was established by the Japanese, and the capture of the city was simply a question of time, it being a well fixed maxim of warfare that defenses, no matter of what strength, must succumb, without outside communication, to an engineering siege.

These conditions, then, Stoessel had to face. His surrender was inevitable, and every hour added to the prolongation of the defense made more possible the annihilation of the garrison, as the Japanese soldiery became more and more exasperated. Perhaps the fate of the Chinese, who defended the port a decade before came to his mind. At any event, Stoessel did not defend Port Arthur to the last ditch, but surrendered, thus freeing the veterans of Noz for the operations against Kuropatkin, including the battle of Mukden.

Thus, while there is nothing of the heroic in Stoessel's defense, he must not be censured too severely for preserving a sacrifice of life such as might have resulted.

Soon after returning to Russia, in the summer of 1905, a military commission which investigated the siege recommended that Stoessel be dismissed from the army and shot. The general, however, demanded a trial by court martial, and after dragging along for a weary time, the case was at length brought up for final trial on Dec. 10 last. The progress of the trial has been marked by many sensational features, having involved a spirited controversy between General Kuropatkin and former Premier Witte, which involved the responsibility for the Russian policy in the Far East previous to the Japanese war.

The testimony given has been very contradictory, but as reported in the press dispatches has been on the whole unfavorable to Stoessel. Testimony showing the straits of the civil population of Port Arthur during the siege was given, charging Stoessel with reaping a rich harvest by selling eggs and milk and other luxuries to the sick at the time of the siege. According to the evidence mere existence was a luxury for civilians. A cow cost $800, a pig $500, eggs $1 each, and other things correspondingly. He testified that Mrs. Stoessel had a large herd of cattle and a number of chickens and charged exorbitant prices.

The judge advocate charged with the prosecution did not mince his words in summing up his case. He admitted that Stoessel's previous record entitled him to consideration of the court in passing sentence. He disputed the contention that Port Arthur was about to be taken, when it was surrendered; dismissed the suggestion that, had it fallen by assault, there would have been a massacre; accused officers of surrendering outlying positions with the express purpose of making the situation appear more serious than it was, and condemned Stoessel for not realizing that strategically there was much more at stake than the holding of the fortress in his duty to stand to his guns.

Probably no officer in high command, of either ancient or modern times, was ever confronted with a more appalling indictment than that on which the procedure of this court martial was based. The specifications charged the officers with cowardice and lying, as well as poor judgment and general incompetence for their duty.

FIVE SERIOUS FIRES

Exceptional Number in a Single Day's
New England News

Boston, Feb. 21.—New England business suffered loss in five fires yesterday at a total damage of over a quarter million of dollars. The most serious blaze was one which practically prostrated business at North Woodstock, N. H., by destroying three blocks, a hotel and livery stable at a loss of about $100,000.

A large department store owned by James McGarth in Woburn, near Boston, was burned. The loss is over $75,000.

A grist mill and six tenements in Hardwick, Vt., were destroyed, at a loss of $35,000.

At Rockland, Mass., the Webster and Bigelow blocks suffered $25,000 damage by fire and at Danvers the Martin Kelley shoe factory burned, causing a loss of $15,000 and throwing 200 hands out of employment.

A lack of adequate fire protection was noted in the dispatches from North Woodstock, Hardwick and Woburn.

No Idle Moments For Taft

Washington, Feb. 21.—Secretary Taft, who had spent twelve days in Pullman cars and hotels, besides making an argument on Philippine matters before the house committee on insular affairs immediately on arriving from New England, attended a conference on Panama matters, went over the Cuban situation with Governor Magoon, cleared up a grist of departmental matters, received a delegation of Republicans from Virginia, gave some time to a speech he is to deliver in Buffalo Saturday night, and then went for a horseback ride.

Railroad Shops Resume Work

Albany, Feb. 21.—The men of the day and night forces at the Boston and Albany railroad shops in Bensenville have been ordered to return to work. The pressure of business has become so great, it is reported, that an additional number of men will be put to work. It is also rumored that the forces of the New York Central shops at West Albany will be greatly enlarged after March 1.

Queen's Motherly Thoughtfulness

Rome, Feb. 21.—An automobile in which Dowager Queen Margherita was driving ran over a 5-year-old girl, who was slightly injured. The queen drove with the child to a hospital. She then sent for the mother and presented the child with a big doll, which was put in the little bed next to her. The queen would not leave the child until she was assured that she would be well again within a few days.

Taft Endorsed in Maryland

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 21.—The Republican members of the legislature unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing the policies of President Roosevelt and favoring the candidacy of W. H. Taft for the presidency. The resolutions first presented pledged the delegates and senators to use all honorable means to secure Taft's nomination, but this wording was changed before the adoption.

Clearing Heavy Indebtedness

New York, Feb. 21.—The National Bank of North America paid $1,200,000 of its indebtedness to the Clearing House association yesterday. Other clearings have been made to depositors, making a reduction of nearly $2,000,000 in the bank's indebtedness. The institution is in the hands of Receiver Hanna, and has been going through the process of liquidation.

Run Closes Illinois Bank

Madison, Ill., Feb. 21.—The Tri-City State bank has closed its doors and the home of a trusted employee of the institution is under police guard. A run started on the bank following a report that an employee was under surveillance and that his accounts were being investigated. The bank's deposits aggregate about $95,000. Most of the depositors are foreigners.

Explosion Destroys Boarding House

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 21.—A frame structure at Fairview, occupied as an Italian boarding house, was blown to pieces last night by an explosive which had been placed against the outside of the building. The only man in the house at the time was killed. The landlady and her three children escaped with slight injuries.

Objection to Eight-Hour Day

Washington, Feb. 21.—The house committee on labor is hearing a report on the bill to enforce the observance of an eight-hour day in all work directly or indirectly affecting government projects. The best available information at this time is that a majority of the committee will report adversely on the bill.

Steamer Breaks in Two

New York, Feb. 21.—Steamer Roda, which went ashore on Jones beach several days ago, has broken in two. Wreckers have been at work on the steamer for several days, but their efforts have been hampered by high seas and bad weather.

Bad Time to Emigrate

Rome, Feb. 21.—The Italian government publishes further telegrams from the Italian consuls at New York and San Francisco discouraging emigration to America for the present.

The Weather Forecast

A Simple Man

By MADELINE LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

Young Mr. Trask, the lawyer, intended to be a candidate for the legislature in the Fourth district. He had the reputation of being sharp, keen and shrewd. Many said he was "up to snuff." Others said that he would see that the interests of the district were not overlooked. Some thought he ought to have the nomination because he was just beginning his career, and this would give him a boost. The young man had been in Waterville only a year, and as he was only twenty-seven, good looking and bound to succeed he had made a place for himself in society. He could flatter himself that he had made progress in every family but one, the Thompson family.

They called John Thompson "Honest John." That had been his appellation for years. He was part farmer and part citizen and not well off in this world's goods, and yet he had a reputation that plenty of men might envy. His daughter Minnie, an only child, was neither a belle nor a leader of society, but she was fair looking and possessed of strong character and not at all the young lady to be captivated by the personal advantages of the young Mr. Trask.

They had met socially, and she had not at all been taken with him. On the other hand, he had been greatly impressed. Intuition told him that he was not in favor, but the opposition only stimulated him. He had easily made friends with the father, but he found that to win the girl's interest would be a far different thing.

For weeks it had been a foregone conclusion that Mr. Trask would be nominated and elected, but when the convention was finally called it developed that the ring politicians had not counted on the farming community. The men of the plow had become tired of the politicians and their tricks—of the promises so freely made and so often broken—and when the moment came they broke away and made a surprising nomination.

"Honest John" was the nominee. He had never held a political office in his life. He was home and at work instead of being at the convention, but his friends pledged him to stand, and he accepted it. Only one influence decided him in this matter, and that was the advice of his daughter.

"Father," she said to him when the news came, "you are not a politician, and you are not a schemer. You can't make a speech, and you won't be heard of in that body. You are simply a plain, honest man, and you will go there to represent others of the same ilk. It is a time when plain, honest men are wanted at the front. Go there and do your duty as best you can."

"I wish Lawyer Trask had got it," he sighed. "He can make speeches and mix in with the best of 'em and come home to be talked of in the papers. I shall be only a toadstool on a stump. By the way, hasn't he coming here pretty often?"

"Yes; he calls occasionally."

"I thought it was a little oftener than occasionally."

"If it is, he is wasting his time. Father, I don't like Mr. Trask. He is too ambitious to get ahead. He is so ambitious that he loses sight of the scruples that should guide all honest men. He wanted to go to the legislature simply as a means to advance his own interests."

"But I took him to be a young man of good principles."

"Politics has no principles, and he seeks to be a politician. There is but one watchword with them, and that is to win. You will be elected as an honest man and not as a politician."

"Oh, I shan't do any stealing," smiled the father, "but I'm thinking that I'll feel like a cat in a strange garret up there. I'd a heap rather they had sent some one else, but I'll try it for a term if you say so. Perhaps there'll be three or four other odd codgers like me to get in with."

There was no question about the chagrin and disappointment of the young lawyer over his defeat, but he dissembled fairly well before the girl when he made his next call. He acknowledged that it was something of a setback, but rejoiced that it was her father who had secured the nomination.

Before departing he grew sentimental and might have made a declaration of his love if he had not been checked. He must have plainly understood that he had as yet created no interest, but in his perversity he determined to continue.

The farmer had hardly been settled in his seat at the state capitol when Trask appeared. He was more than usually deferential and friendly. He could and he did give the honest man many helpful pointers, and it was a fortnight before the errand that brought him there was stated. He was a lobbyist for a certain corporation which wanted an old railroad charter renewed.

"Honest John" had read and heard something about that charter. He had never fairly got to the right or wrong of it, but when the lawyer came to talk with him about it and endeavor to enlist his aid John Thompson gave no pledge. Trask was promised that the question should be looked into, and if it could be conscientiously done he should receive the farmer's aid.

It looked easy for a man who was "up to snuff" to handle this old farmer. He handled others, and then sent them to Thompson to argue and discuss and win him over. Money and promises were freely used, and there came a time when the lobbyist could at least figure on an even vote in the house.

"Honest John" still stuck out. He hadn't the acumen to discover where the colored gentleman was hidden, but he had a feeling that he was there in the wood pile somewhere, and he would not commit himself.

It was then that the lawyer dropped argument for the more powerful weapon. He knew the financial condition of the farmer. He doubted if the man had ever had a thousand dollars in his hand. Though rated as "honest," there was a doubt as to whether he could stand temptation—legislative temptation.

One night he paid Thompson a visit in his room and went over the whole matter with him, putting everything in a most favorable light, and when he went away he left a thousand dollars in crisp greenbacks on the bureau. That was double the price he had paid others, but he had reasons for increasing the bribe. The money was found after he left, and next day the old farmer came to him to restore it.

"It must have been left by some other caller," was the reply, "probably by some one who was in there arguing in favor of my bill. He may speak to you about it in the course of the day."

"But he was mighty careless to leave a thousand dollars lying around that way."

"Oh, he isn't worrying about it. Perhaps he wanted to make you a little present and took that way of doing it. It's often done here in the legislature, you know."

"It may be, but I've done nothing to earn it, and I don't know more than ten members by name. I wish that the fellow who left it would come back."

He was told to hang on to the money until the owner called for it, but he was much perplexed and put out. By a curious coincidence three weeks later he found two other farmer members who had come into possession of $500 each in just as mysterious a manner. There seemed to be a philanthropist going about among the conscientious members and distributing rewards of merit.

When the house adjourned for a week and "Honest John" went home to his daughter he had that thousand dollars with him, and its history was still a mystery. In a few hours, however, he was enlightened, and he went back to the legislative body to enlighten others.

The day finally came when Lawyer Trask's bill was up. He had counted noses and was sure of its passage. He sat there in the utmost confidence, to be amazed and dumfounded when it was defeated by a majority of three. Honest John and his two farmer friends had recorded their votes among the "nays," although they had been bought and paid for. An hour later the former had a caller at his room. The caller was pale faced and desperate.

"Mr. Thompson," he said, "I left a thousand dollars on that bureau one night a few weeks ago."

"Geewhittaker! But you denied it was yours!"

"It was a little present."

"But why should you make me a present of a thousand dollars?"

"Because—because I wanted your help on that bill and because I was going to ask your daughter to be my wife."

"And maybe you left $500 apiece for Crane and Williams?"

"Yes."

"And you were going to ask their daughters to be your wife?"

"No-o-o."

"See here, Mr. Trask," said the old man after looking at him for half a minute, "if I were you I wouldn't ask Minnie to be your wife. I told her all about the money when I went home. She said as it wasn't yours and as no one had lost it and as Crane and Williams was in the same fix that the money belonged to charity."

"We sent it down to her, and she divided it between a couple of orphan asylums, and she's got the receipts to show that it reached 'em. No, I wouldn't ask her. I might object to you as a son-in-law, and she might take it that you were trying to buy your way into the family."

"Lemme just add that you are a mighty careless man with your money, and if you don't mend your ways you'll bring up in the county house before you are forty years old."

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Washington's Birthday will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued on Saturday. Many of the regular Saturday features will be found in the Friday Ledger. Sunday services should be forwarded one day earlier.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

A regular meeting of the Hospital Aid association will be held Thursday afternoon, Feb. 27th, at three o'clock in the chapel of First church.

The Civic Betterment society of Atlantic wish to make it public that their dance, to be given on the 28th of February, has two objects: one to raise money for the improvement of the town, and the other to bring people together socially. The society would be glad to receive any suggestions regarding this improvement.

On Saturday, Feb. 22, the annual Washington's birthday party and dance is held from ten until twelve and two until five at Mechanics building, Boston, under the auspices of the Barnard Memorial. Music will be by Watts Military band of twenty pieces. Children of the Quincy and Wollaston Unitarian parishes are interested in the Barnard Memorial.

Officers and teachers of First church Sunday school are to give their annual reception to parents and friends in the chapel next Friday evening, Feb. 28th, from half past seven until nine o'clock. There is to be special music and addresses by Rev. George W. Pratt of Boston, an enthusiastic Sunday school worker, and Rev. A. R. Atwood. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. Friends of the parish are invited to attend the meeting.

Hundred of children enjoyed the social of the Junior Endeavor Society of Bethany church on Thursday, which included games, refreshments, historic charades, etc.

At the billiard tournament at the Granite City club Thursday night E. E. Morgan (135) beat F. E. Jones (150) by the score of 135 to 135.

A. W. Loud successfully moved a thirty-ton piece of machinery this week from a freight car at South Quincy to the power station at Quincy Point.

The Squantum Yacht club bowling team defeated the Dorchester Yacht club team at the Squantum alleys in the inter-yacht club series Thursday evening by a score of 1292 to 1190. Squantum's string totals were 464, 418 and 462, while the Dorchester totals were 433, 414 and 415.

The old Quincy school house was broken into this week and the fire extinguisher, valued at $16 and an old couch used in the teacher's room were stolen. Immediate action was taken, and the old building had its windows promptly boarded up to prevent further pilfering. The townspeople have their suspicions of the culprits even if the police haven't.

The Young People's Missionary Union of Greater Boston has arranged with the Christian Endeavor Society of Memorial church and the Epworth League of the Atlantic M. E. church for a Missionary Study rally to be held in Memorial church Sunday evening at six o'clock. Miss Helen B. Calder, associate secretary of the Woman's Board of Missions will be the speaker.

Sister Wanted Of John O'Rourke

Rev John J. Coan, pastor of St John's church, received the following telegram this morning.

"Lincoln, N. H., Feb. 21.
James O'Rourke killed yesterday by accident. Has sister in Quincy. Unless otherwise instructed will bury here.
D. J. Cotter,
St. Joseph's church."

Rev. Fr. Coan has no particulars as to the accident other than contained in the telegram, which he hopes by publishing in the Daily Ledger may reach the eyes of the man's sister.

—We examine in our dark-room with modern instruments. If we find disease we send you a reliable oculist. Williams 1473 Hancock street.

The High Defeated.

The Quincy High basketball team met defeat Thursday at the hands of the Brockton High school team. The game was played at Brockton and resulted in a score of 41 to 26 in favor of Brockton.

Holiday Football By Shipyard Team

The indications are that one of the most closely contested games of Association football ever witnessed in this country will be seen Saturday afternoon at the Fore River grounds, Washington street, Quincy Point, between the Howard & Bollough team of Rhode Island and the Fore Rivers. It will be the first game on the home grounds this year and is one of a series in the New England league. Association football is being taken up by all the leading colleges and schools in the country and in some instances has replaced the more dangerous game of Rugby. The Quincy team is looked upon as the champions of this game in the United States, and it goes without saying that there will be something doing when the game is called at 3 P. M.

The hours of labor in the ship and engine works change Monday. The hours of labor in the drafting rooms and forge will remain as at present.

Saturday will be a holiday at the shipyard. Only such repair work as may be necessary will go on. Work will be resumed as usual on Monday, Feb. 24.

Barge number six, Rockland, Maine, is discharging a cargo of soft coal at the company's coal wharf.

The river is open for a considerable distance up beyond the works. Alonzo Hayden of the S department, who has of late been indisposed, is again back in the switch tower of the ship tool shop.

The submarine Viper is still high and dry on Thomas Point, Virginia, and the cruiser Des Moines has been sent to the relief of the Viper and converted yacht Hist which is ashore near Cove point, Chesapeake bay.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, S. S.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of P. J. ## YOUNG MAN HAS NEW THEORY

Human Life Seems Centered In Stomach. All Else Is Secondary.

The immense success which has followed L. T. Cooper during the past year with his new preparation has exceeded anything of the kind ever before witnessed in most of the leading cities where the young man has introduced the medicine. Cooper has a novel theory. He believes that the human stomach is directly responsible for most disease. To quote his own words from an interview upon his arrival in an eastern city: "The average man or woman cannot be sick if the stomach is working properly. To be sure, there are diseases of a virulent nature, such as cancer, tuberculosis, diabetes, etc., which are organic, and are not traceable to the stomach, but even fevers can, in nine cases out of ten, be traced to something taken into the stomach. All of this half-sick, nervous exhaustion that is now so common, is caused by the stomachic conditions, and it is because my remedy will and does regulate the stomach that I am meeting with such success."

"To sum the matter up—a sound digestive apparatus that is doing its full duty, getting every particle of vitality out of all food by transferring it to the bowels in a perfectly digested state—this above all else brings health."

Mr. A. C. Brock, chief of the Brock Restaurant, Market District, Boston, Mass., who is a staunch believer in Mr. Cooper's theory and medicine, has this to say: "I had chronic indigestion for over three years. I suffered terribly, and lost about thirty pounds. I was a physical wreck when I started this Cooper medicine, a month or so ago. Today I am as well as I ever was in my life. I am no longer nervous, my food does not distress me in the least, and I have a splendid appetite. I am gaining flesh very rapidly—in fact, at the rate of a pound a day. I would not believe any medicine on earth could have done for me what this has done. It is a remarkable preparation and Mr. Cooper deserves all his success."

We recommend the Cooper preparations as being remarkable medicines.

—E. J. Murphy.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the best all around bills of a season that will be long remembered for its excellent list of attractions will be offered at Keith's next week, with one of the most popular light opera stars America has ever known, Grace Van Studdiford, as the leading feature. Miss Van Studdiford is particularly well remembered by Bostonians on account of her great success in "The Red Feather," an opera the vogue of which was largely due to her brilliant performance in the principal role. She is in superb voice this season and is as winsome and magnetic as ever.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Those who recall the great success which attended the original presentation in this city of "The Village Postmaster" will learn with much satisfaction that Manager Morison is to give it a production by the Boston Theatre stock company next Monday. This amusing rural play was written by Alice E. Ives and Jerome H. Eddy and the scene of its action is in a country village of New Hampshire, the time being about thirty years ago. While it deals in a mild way with the eccentricities of local politics its love story of the young inventor who is separated temporarily from the object of his affection by the rascally plot of a rival is the chief theme of the play. The plot is cleverly contrived and is worked out to a happy ending in a way that shows a wide knowledge of stage opportunities.

THE ORPHEUM.

Crowded houses are again assured at the Orpheum theatre the week of Feb. 24th, for the bill contains more big features than has ever been put together at this theatre. "The Futurity Winner" now under the direction of Joseph Hart, with Kingsley Benedict in the leading role, reaches the highest point in sensational melodrama. Three hours are crowded into thirty minutes. For a musical feature there is no more popular aggregation in vaudeville than Genaro's Gondolier Band with its eccentric leader, Manuel Romaine, the Boston singer, will have an excellent company in his musical act—a burlesque of Music Publishers' Row in New York. It is a most realistic and amusing picture of what is known all over America as "Tin-pan Alley."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

Wood, dated January 25, 1905, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk, Book 999, Page 583, will be sold at public auction, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on the premises hereinafter described, on TUESDAY the 17th day of March, 1908 at forty-five minutes after one o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described substantially as follows:—

The following parcel of land situated in that part of Quincy in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, known as "Norfolk Downs" being lot numbered 17 on plan of Charles D. Elliot dated April 1892, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book of Plans No. 14, Plan No. 640, and bounded as follows, viz: Northeastly by Hancock Street, 50 feet; Southeastly by lot No. 16, on said plan, 128.48 feet; Southwestly by lots No. 28 and 29, on said plan, 50.02 feet; Northwestly by lot No. 18, on said plan, 129.99 feet. Containing according to said plan 6461.8 square feet of land.

Said premises will be sold subject to the restrictions set forth in the title deeds and to any and all unpaid taxes and assessments.

For further particulars inquire of the mortgagee Room 43, 15 School Street, Boston.
One hundred (100) dollars will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance in ten days from day of sale at twelve o'clock noon at said office of the mortgagee.
FRED W. WOOD, Mortgagee.

Quincy's Eponym

Col. John Quincy
Is Exalted
The More His Name
Is Scrutinized

THE OLD FIRST CHURCH AT QUINCY
In which Col. John Quincy was prominent.
Erected in 1732. Razed in 1827.

The celebration of the birthday of Quincy should be an annual event hereafter, so successful was the meeting of the Quincy Historical Society on Sunday in commemoration of the life and services of Col. John Quincy for whom the Town of Quincy was named. It was on Feb. 22, 1792, when the Legislature passed the act incorporating the town, and Feb. 24, when Gov. John Hancock, a native of Quincy, affixed his signature.

The meeting of Sunday was held in the old historical Stone Temple erected in 1828, and the printed program was similar in style to the one used at the dedication of the edifice 80 years ago. The order of service was:

Organ Voluntary.
Reading of Scriptures, Rev. Ellery C. Butler.
Prayer, Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy.
Hymn by Ralph Waldo Emerson.
Introductory Remarks, Brooks Adams, Esq.
Historical Address, Rev. Daniel M. Wilson.
Hymn by William Parsons Lunt.
Historical Address, Charles F. Adams, Esq.
Hymn, Old Hundred.

From all that dwell below the skies,
Let the Creator's praise arise;
Let the Redeemer's name be sung
Through every land, by every tongue.

Eternal are thy mercies, Lord;
Eternal truth attends thy word;
Thy praise shall sound from shore to shore,
Till suns shall rise and set no more.

Benediction, Rev. Ellery Channing Butler.

The meeting was very largely attended, not only by prominent citizens and officials of the city today but by representatives of "Old Braintree," which comprised Braintree, Quincy, Randolph and Holbrook. Weymouth, Milton, Boston and other cities and towns were represented.

Brooks Adams, the president of the Historical Society, presided. It had been charged, he said, that Republics were iconoclastic; that they forget the past. He felt that time was passing away; that this generation is learning to honor the past. None were more remarkable in the Colonial period than John Quincy whom we honor today.

It was a wrong to him and a wrong to the people of Quincy to neglect his memory all these years. For the first time today we are to have the story of his life told.

Rev. D. M. Wilson, the former pastor of the church was then introduced and spoke for over an hour. Much of interest he felt obliged to omit because of the length of his paper, and the Ledger prints only brief extracts of what he really did say.

MR. WILSON'S TRIBUTE.

Referring in his introductory to the birthday of Washington and the incorporation of the town of Quincy on Feb. 22, Mr. Wilson said: "What I would especially like to draw out of this auspicious natal coincidence in our civic anniversary is its suggestiveness, the fortunate linking of the birth of a heroic figure with the birth of a New England town. The three prevailing forces in the development of this nation are thus in a way conspicuously united—the fit leader, the self-reliant people, the town government. Each of the three has played an essential part in the advancement of liberty and the gradual development of the principles of our government; and he would be a daring man who tried to divide honors among them. It was the happy union of these forces that made America."

Speaking of the development of distinguished Americans in New England under the town meetings he said: "This, your city of Quincy, from the first settlement till now, has in that respect been signally favored; inasmuch as, from the beginning, not one generation has failed to furnish some eminent person, man or woman, who did notable deeds, or spoke timely words, measurably effective in shaping the destinies of the American people."

"The memory of the most distinguished of these (Adams) Quincy has not been forgetful to celebrate; but so numerous are her sons and daughters of more or less renown that enough of them have been forgotten, even here at home, to make famous, if judiciously distributed, several other communities."

"Col. John Quincy of Mt. Wollaston is one instance. In his day he was one of the most trusted and INFLUENTIAL PUBLIC CHARACTERS of the Province; but for a 100 years or more he has now been buried in oblivion. The present generation in Quincy hardly know that such a man ever existed, yet he was second to none in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in his generation. He is none the less the civic father of your town. To use a learned word, he is your Eponym—your name ancestor.

"It is a fair inference from the proceeding which marked the naming of the town that a generation after his death, John Quincy, in the esteem of his townsmen, rivalled John Hancock, son of Braintree through he was, as chief executive of the Commonwealth, at the crowning period of his fame and popularity. When, at last after much contention with the South Precinct, the new town was about at last to be incorporated, Hon. Richard Cranch said—'Call it Quincy, in honor of John Quincy. The name was adopted, but in the same year a town meeting was called to see if the town would petition the Legislature to change the name to 'Hancock.'

"The records show that the discussion which ensued was long and exacting,—at times, as one may guess, electric even. Great must have been the stimulus to town meeting eloquence with two such names to choose between. Speak them, they sound equally well; either would remain suggestive. But at the end the motion to petition the Legislature for an alteration was defeated, and the original appellation was confirmed. Nail them to the mast head, Quincy, town and city, it has since remained.

"Nearly four generations of those here born and here dying have since passed on; and, were this community once more now called upon, as in May, 1792, to confirm the name, it may confidently be asserted its action would be unanimous. The name itself is distinctive, and pleasant to the ear; and the more the is scrutinized, the more he is exalted. Quincy seems the one name congenial to the spirit and history of this locality. Deep-rooted in chivalrous Norman life, transplanted here with the first settlers, associated with so much that is fine and high in many who here bore it, and in utterance full and dignified, it tastes of the soil, it seems almost the natural product of environment, and not a title fixed by formal vote. Honored at home, abroad revered, it is a distinction to be called 'of Quincy.' Indeed, some occult, but prophetic, fate seems to have intervened to stamp that name upon the locality, for, in a map published in England in 1775, seventeen years before the town was incorporated, the one word Quincy' and that word alone, covers the territory included within your municipal bounds.

"It is perhaps a trifle disconcerting that John Quincy should not have been a native of the place which is honored by his name. It had long been conceived, and even stated, that he was born in the North Precinct of Braintree, the site of the original grant to his ancestors. But it so chanced that he really was born in Boston; for in the records of that city we read under the date 1689, the following:—'John, of Daniel and Anna Quinsie, born July 21.' This event apparently had followed soon upon the removal of the parents to the principal town of Massachusetts Bay, where the father entered upon the business of gold and silver smith, the nearest approach to a banker known in those days. We may, however, rest assured that the Boston-born John Quincy belonged indubitably to the stock identified from the beginning of our community. His father, Daniel Quincy, first drew breath in the old Quincy homestead still standing. He died when John was hardly more than a year old.

"John Quincy in 1709, when his grandmother Shepard died, inherited Mount Wollaston. As early as his 26th year he was called colonel.

In 1716 he was elected Moderator and in 1717 as Representative to the General Court. "Again elected in both as permanent Representative and as Moderator. For 21 successive years; that is from 1719 to 1740, he was returned to the House of Representatives with unflinching regularity; and during even a longer period he was chosen Moderator of town meetings with almost equal regularity. Still higher honors were accorded to him. His personality, his character and judgment, and his sturdy provincial patriotism so impressed his fellow representatives that they elected him Speaker of the House from 1727 to 1741, a period of 14 years. A tribute from town and Province that stamps him as no common man.

"From the very year that John Quincy entered upon his duties as speaker, the conflict between the crown and the colonies deepened. The King and his council then began the ominous work of strengthening their colonial policy, and on the other hand, as Hutchinson observes, the House discovered a disposition to amplify their jurisdiction. Governors appointed for their supposed strength of will met wills no less inflexible than their own. Such was the effective energy of John Quincy that it not only compassed the admirable performance of the Speakers duties, but sufficed for the arduous works of most of the important committees created in his day."

Mr. Wilson told of Col. Quincy's appointment as guardian of the Ponkapog Indians at their request, which continued over a score of years. His model reports will be found in the Massachusetts State Archives.

Considerable time was devoted by Mr. Wilson to Land Bank and Manufacturing Company, a scheme, which for a while was popular about this time. It was not favored by Col. Quincy, and resulted in his defeat for the Legislature. The Governor was also opposed to it, and when there came mutterings of armed resistance, he turned to Col. Quincy, and requested him to suppress it, which mission he seems to have carried out successfully.

His affiliation with a Royal Governor, as eager to oppose the self governing instincts of the people as he was ready to crush a flat-money craze, was a mere unavoidable incident. From this welter of confusion Col. Quincy emerged, inviting confidence by his same and sagacious judgment.

Col. Quincy was chosen Moderator 42 times at least. To enumerate the committee on which he served would be tedious. An examination of the church records reveals the fact that he was a deeply interested in spiritual as in secular affairs.

A brief sketch of his life, printed in the columns of the Massachusetts Gazette of July 23, 1767, closes with these words: "In private life he was exemplary; he adorned the christian profession by a holy life, a strict observance of the Lord's Day, and a constant attendance upon the public ordinances of religion,—in a word, he was a gentleman true to his trust, diligent and active in public busi-

of Mrs. Woodbury

SERVICES OVER THE REMAINS

Floral Offering Sent by Woman's Husband, Accused of Her Murder, Removed From Casket—Mystery of Woman's Death Remains Unsolved

Milo, Me., Feb. 24.—The funeral of Mrs. Phoebe M. Woodbury, who was found dead in the Exchange hotel in Foxcroft, and whose husband, Herbert Woodbury, is charged with her murder, was held here, the services being conducted by Rev. A. G. Earl, pastor of the Universalist church in Dover. The body, which had been repleined at Dover by Herbert Woodbury, was brought here under the guard of Deputy Sheriff Morse and Peter Kimball, who constantly kept watch over it. The body was taken to Dover immediately after the funeral by Morse. It is understood that physicians, in the interest of Woodbury, will perform an autopsy upon the body.

A magnificent pillow of roses was sent to the church by Herbert Woodbury. They were placed upon the casket by a friend of the prisoner, with a small card attached. When the Henderson family were told of it they gave orders to the undertaker to have them removed.

"I have not come to answer the questions of the curious or talk of the past, present or future, but to bring a message of comfort to the bereaved parents," said the woman minister in her opening remarks. She took as her text, "The Lord Is My Shepherd." If any of the morbid curious present expected anything sensational they were disappointed. The minister spoke of earthly woes and trials and the great reward after death.

Her words were a solace to aged Mrs. Henderson, the mother of the murdered woman, who, bowed with grief, occupied a seat in a front pew. She was supported by her son, Edward Henderson.

When the pallbearers carried the white casket down the aisle and deposited it in front of the pulpit, the five sisters of the woman, who sat in the front pews, sobbed piteously.

While investigation as to the death of Mrs. Woodbury, whose body was found hanging to a doorknob in the Exchange hotel has been going on steadily since last Tuesday, the mystery is still no nearer solution. Many bits of evidence which the authorities had collected in the belief that they pointed strongly to Woodbury's guilt have since resulted in his favor.

The wild stories that were circulated after the finding of the body have been run to earth and found to be without foundation. Clues have been followed out only to result in nothing. One after another the tell-tale points which were supposed to enmesh Woodbury have been investigated to react in his behalf.

One in particular was the story of Woodbury's arrival at the Exchange hotel after his ride from Bangor before his wife disappeared. It was alleged that he entered the hotel in a rage with a pistol in his hand, and that the driver, O. H. Barbour, whom the officials are now seeking, entered by another door also armed. A violent quarrel was then alleged to have occurred.

Instead of that scene occurring young Goodrow, the stable boy, who was present when Woodbury arrived, states that they drove into the stable and while Barbour helped him rub down the horse Woodbury stood around and watched them for some time before he finally entered the hotel. He states that he does not believe Woodbury was intoxicated and that he appeared perfectly calm and far from being in a raging mood.

Although the authorities have been searching for O. H. Barbour, the driver, he has not been located as yet. Sheriff Knowles is throwing extra precautions about his prisoner and refuses to allow anyone but immediate relatives of Woodbury to see him.

Banquet to Warships' Officers

Lima, Feb. 24.—A magnificent banquet was given Saturday evening by President Pardo in honor of Washington's birthday to the officers of the American fleet. Some 250 of these were present and the occasion was made one for the display of much enthusiasm and warm expressions of mutual good will. Pardo highly eulogized the white fleet of warships and the ability of its navigating officers.

Unrelenting Chase Rewarded

New York, Feb. 24.—After a chase of 10,000 miles, lasting nearly a year, Detective Baldwin of Roanoke, Va., brought back from the Argentine Republic Moses Faris, a young Syrian, wanted in Roanoke for the killing of a countryman, Frank Assaid, last March. The prisoner and his captor arrived on the steamship St. Louis. Faris asserts that he killed Assaid in self-defense.

Independence League Plans

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Steps for the formation of a new national political party were taken at a conference of the Independence League here. A national convention to nominate candidates for the presidency and the vice presidency will be called after the Republican and Democratic parties have held their gatherings in Chicago and Denver, respectively.

SIX OF PARTY KILLED

Three Others May Die as Result of Being Struck by Train

Spring Valley, N. Y., Feb. 24.—A foam-flecked pair of horses which dashed through the streets here, dragging between them a splintered wagon pole, gave the village the first news of a grade crossing accident, in which nine members of prominent families were either killed outright or frightfully injured.

The runaways brought up at the livery stable of George Young, from whom they were hired by a party of men and girls bound for a basketball game at Nyack. On its return the wagonload of merry-makers was run down at a West Nyack crossing by a passenger express train. Four of the party were instantly killed, two died while being removed to a hospital at Hoboken, N. J., and the other three are in a serious condition.

The responsibility for the accident is in dispute. The survivors cannot be questioned as yet, and the only other witness was the crossing gate tender. He insists that the team was driven through the lowered gates. The gate on the side of approach is broken down, but the opposite gate is intact. The animals were uninjured.

The gateman says the team plunged through the gate and the next moment the wagon was poised on the cowcatcher of the locomotive. As the vehicle went to pieces, some of the occupants were flung to one side, but others fell directly under the engine's wheels. The bodies of the dead were crushed to pieces and were scarcely recognizable.

Work of Drunken Negroes

Fayetteville, N. C., Feb. 24.—Chief of Police Benton of this city was shot dead in front of his home here by a drink-crazed negro, Sam Murchison. Murchison shot two negroes a few minutes before he shot the chief. Murchison was arrested an hour after the shooting and placed in jail. A crowd tried to take Murchison from the officers and lynch him, but the prisoner was landed in a cell after a hard struggle. Another shooting occurred when a drunken negro attacked several white boys. While resisting arrest a policeman shot him, probably fatally. Military companies are on duty by order of the governor.

Threat to Destroy Magazines

New York, Feb. 24.—In a letter signed "Black Hand," addressed to Commander Braunsreuter, in charge of the United States naval magazines at Iona Island, the threat is made that the enormous stores of explosives on the island will be blown up unless the married men discharged from employment on the island on Jan. 1 are put back to work at once. Among the men discharged, most of whom were laborers, were many Italians and Sicilians. Since the receipt of the letter every approach to the island has been guarded day and night by marines.

Brewer's Note of Warning

New York, Feb. 24.—A note of warning that the rapid growth of our national greatness is leading to an unwise discounting of the future and developing a habit of extravagance was sounded in a speech by Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court before a large audience here. Brewer declared that the country was piling up a large national debt and that the debts of municipalities showed figures which were simply startling. These debts caused an unjust burden, Brewer said, on those who are to come after us.

Brother Suspected of Murder

New York, Feb. 24.—Geraldino Cella, a wealthy Italian wine importer and a leading member of the Italian Chamber of Commerce, died within a few moments after he was found in the office of his warehouse with his skull fractured and suffering from the effects of poison. The police are working on the theory that he was murdered. Cella was discovered by Domenico Cella, his brother, who has been detained as a suspicious person.

Treasurer Snow's Heavy Shortage

New York, Feb. 24.—The police of Brooklyn have sent out circular letters descriptive of Henry S. Snow, former treasurer of the New York and New Jersey Telephone company, who is wanted for alleged larceny of the company's funds. It was officially announced that Snow's shortage amounts to $168,376, with an offset of $20,000, the amount for which he was bonded.

WINTER BUTTERFLIES.

A Hardy Brood For Which Frost and Snow Possess No Terrors.

Coming in one day from a walk in a heavy snowstorm, I dropped upon the evening table some triangular brownish bits that looked at first sight like flakes of dried bark.

"What are those—chips?"

"No. Butterflies."

Such a reply with a foot of snow on the ground and great probability of a foot more before morning was accepted as a pleasantry and not to be taken seriously. The idea of catching butterflies in a snowstorm seemed too "fishy" for serious consideration.

On the approach of winter most of the butterflies, those delicate little creatures of fair weather, naturally die. But among their number there is a whole hardy brood for which the rigors of winter possess no terrors. These are the angle wings, or vane-sides. They are frequently called "thaw butterflies" from the fact that during the warm spells of winter they awake from their torpor and may frequently be seen sunning themselves near their place of hibernation or if the weather is mild and pleasant flitting lightly about in the open places.

These insects pass the winter both as chrysalis and as mature butterflies. Normally they remain in the chrysalis form only about two weeks, but it is probable that the severe cold overtakes some before they are fully developed, which may account for some of them hibernating as chrysalis.—St. Nicholas.

COURTING DEATH.

The Work of the Mounted Police of Canada in the Northwest.

The Northwest policeman's first duty is to die if that should be necessary. He is not allowed to shoot a desperado, go up, sit on his carcass, roll a cigarette and then read the warrant. He must not shoot. At all events he must not shoot first, which is often fatal, for if there is a time when delay is dangerous it is when you are covering an outlaw, writes Cy Warman in the Sunday Magazine.

Numbers of the force have been known to ride or walk into the very mouth of a cocked 45 Colt and never flinch. In about ninety-eight cases out of every hundred the man behind the gun weakened. In the other two cases he extended his lease of life, but made his going doubtfully sure. When a mounted policeman falls, the open space he leaves is immediately closed, for back of him stands the Dominion government and back of that the British empire. So the desperado who thinks he can kill and get away has a hard time. If the police chase him out of the Dominion back to the islands, he is likely to fetch up at Scotland Yard. If his native village lies south of the forty-ninth, the Pinkertons take up his trail, and when all these forces are after a man his days are gliding swiftly by.

"Next!"

"I was counsel for a railway company in the west," says a prominent New York lawyer, "in whose employ a section hand had been killed by an express train. His widow, of course, sued for damages. The principal witness swore positively that the locomotive whistle had not sounded until after the entire train had passed over his departed friend."

"You admit that the whistle blew? I sternly demanded of the witness."

"Oh, yes; it blew."

"Now," I added impressively, "if that whistle sounded in time to give Morgan warning the fact would be in favor of the company, wouldn't it?"

"I suppose so," said the witness.

"Very well. Now, for what earthly purpose would the engineer blow his whistle after the man had been struck?"

"I presume," replied the witness, with great deliberation, "that the whistle was for the next man on the track."—Harper's Weekly.

Summary Conversion.

Hawaiians all became Christians through the simple process of an edict—kapoo—of one of the sturdy old Kamehamehas. The worthy king, observing that it was easier to kill an enemy with a rifle than with a club and that the rifle was the invention of the Christians, took a short cut through the theological mazes of the missionaries who were trying to convert his subjects and announced that all Hawaiians were from that moment Christians. As he added that he would knock on the head any who objected the thing was done as fast as his couriers could deliver his message to his loving subjects.—New York World.

What He Had Done.

Tactful and delicate even for a Frenchman was the reply made by a Parisian who had not found "a life on the ocean wave" all which one could wish. He was sinking, pale and haggard, into his steamer chair when his neighbor cheerily asked:

"Have you breakfasted, monsieur?"

"No, m'sieur," answered the Frenchman, with a wan smile: "I have not breakfasted. On the contrary"—Everybody's Magazine.

The Name Oscar.

It is interesting to remember that the name Oscar was bestowed by Napoleon on Bernadotte's son—the first King Oscar—to whom he stood godfather, not for any Swedish associations, but because it was the name of a heroic character in Macpherson's "Ossian," a work which Napoleon continually studied.—London Spectator.

SECRET POLICE BUSY

Strong Effort to Get Rid of Russian Terrorism

KEEPING AN EYE ON FINLAND

Duma Expresses Indignation at Acts of Terrorists, but May Not Endorse Government's Plan to Spend a Billion Dollars for the Navy

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—The skillful performance of the police in rounding
up the great band of plotters has won praise throughout the city, bearing witness to thoroughness of the methods evolved for fighting terrorism. The secret police are spending unlimited sums in bringing the terrorists to justice and have drafted agents of international experience, who are thoroughly familiar with the byways of western anarchism and who will be able to introduce an improved technique into the system here to aid them in their work.

The police department has also entered into relations with detective agencies abroad and has organized an extensive service in all the centers where Russian emigrants congregate, particularly in New York, Paris and Switzerland. It is making a special effort to penetrate the innermost councils of the Social Democratic and Social Revolutionist organizations.

As to the latest plot, the members of the secret service were absolutely trusting by comrades of the revolutionists who attended the meetings held in Finland, where the final plot for the assassination of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch and J. G. Chetchele-vitch, minister of justice, was elaborated. Two hundred plain clothes men were called in by the head of the police department and given precise instructions as to what action should be taken and apparently they arrested without error the persons involved. Thus far the police have failed to extract a confession from any of those arrested as to their identity, but several are undoubtedly members of aristocratic houses.

Where trouble is now looked for with the greatest anxiety by the government is Finland. It is well known that huge quantities of arms and ammunition have been successfully smuggled into that country for a long time past and that an opportunity alone is wanted for a patriotic people with a rankling sense
of injustice to use them.

The duma adopted a resolution recording its deep indignation at the acts of the terrorists. It will be interesting to watch how it will receive the ministry of marine proposal, which has now been placed before the defense
committee.

After strong insistence on the part of the duma three alternative plans have been drawn up, but the third really represents the policy of the government. In a word, it proposes to spend the sum of $1,000,000,000, spread over a decade, for the reconstruction of the navy.

Hitherto all parties, even the most conservative, have shown strong aversion to the expenditure of any considerable sum of money for warships, partly on the ground that the state of the imperial finances does not justify the expenditure, and partly on the ground that there is no guarantee that the forthcoming money will be honestly and intelligently devoted to the purpose for which it had been appropriated. The press has also spoken with remarkable frankness on another and more fundamental objection. Russia has no urgent need for a navy.

All her relations are friendly with all the powers, especially with the great naval powers. There can be no doubt that with one-third of her population
on the brink of starvation, the other two-thirds crushed under excessive taxation, with an exchequer already unable to pay the interest on the public debt without borrowing, the expenditure by Russia of $1,000,000,000 for a navy that is not needed would be indefensible.

Fairbanks' Nomination Favored
Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 24.—The executive committee of the reorganized Republican party, composed of both white and negro members of that party,
will hold a state convention on May 26
to send delegates to the Chicago convention. The committee went on record as favoring Vice President Fairbanks as presidential nominee.

Deliberate Suicide by Burning
Cleveland, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Augusta
Streit, 73 years old, considered herself
a burden upon her grandson, with whom she lived. He lost his position and has a large family to support. Mrs.
Streit arose early and, going to the street, poured kerosene upon her clothing, applied a match and was burned to death.

Had Medal For Bravery
Washington, Feb. 24.—Brigadier General Rufus Saxton, U. S. A., retired, dropped dead here of heart disease. He entered the army from Massachusetts in 1855, received a congressional medal
for bravery in the defense of Harper's Ferry and was retired April 23, 1884.
He was born eighty-four years ago.

New Record For Ski Jumping
Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 24.—By a leap of 122 feet, John Evenson of Duluth established a new American record for ski jumping at the annual meet of the Ishpeming Ski club. The former mark was 117 feet.

The Holiday.

Washington's birthday was an ideal day as far as weather was concerned. It was not too cold or too warm but just right to make one feel like spending as much time as possible out of doors. The warm sun melted the snow and ice some on the sidewalks in the middle of the day, but it was not bad walking any time.

Business as a rule was suspended although the stores remained open until noon that people might get their supplies for Sunday. All who had flags had them displayed many families entertained guests during the day. Others spent the day with friends out of town.

Granite City Club.

In spite of the many attractions the night before the holiday there was a good attendance of members at the entertainment given at the rooms of the Granite City club. Prof. George Batty was the entertainer, and he furnished a unique entertainment. His program opened by a selection by the one man band, playing four instruments at one and the same time, reminding one of the good old days of G. Swain Buckley. Following this he gave a number of paper novelties, showing what pretty figures may be made with a piece of paper and pair of scissors, if you only know how to use them. He also gave a number of selections on different musical instruments, impersonations, songs and stories.

Elks' Smoker.

The annual smoker of Quincy lodge of Elks was held Friday evening at Greenleaf hall and was a very enjoyable affair. The entertainers were well known artists from one of the vaudeville circuits and furnished tons of amusement. There were solos, impersonations etc. all combining to make a very pleasant evening. At the conclusion of the entertainment an adjournment was made to the club rooms on Foster street where refreshments were served.

Sudden Death.

Joseph Lizotte, a well known resident of Quincy Point, died at the City Hospital on Sunday morning. Mr. Lizotte was taken ill Thursday and was removed to the hospital where an operation was performed Friday night for an intestinal trouble. He began to fail Saturday night and passed away. He was born in Canada, but resided in Quincy for many years. He was an expert machinist and was at one time employed at the Tubular Rivet Works. He invented several pieces of shoe machinery, and a gasoline engine which gave him a widespread reputation. For a number of years he has been engaged in the manufacture of these engines near Johnson's wharf.

He was a member of Quincy lodge of Elks. He leaves a widow and one daughter. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

Well Known Dentist.

Dr. Edward L. Jordan, a well known Boston dentist, died at his home 205 Belmont street, Wollaston, on Sunday, aged 50 years. He was a member of Wollaston Masonic lodge, St. Stephens chapter, and South Shore Commandery. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Burn Your Ashes with COAL-IN.

It will save half the cost of your fuel. It gives a good hot lasting fire. Does no harm to stoves or furnaces. It saves the bother of sifting ashes. One-half ton of coal used with Coal-In will heat your house for one month. Coal-In costs less and does better work than any other ash fuel on the market.

GOES TO COURT

Assessor Johnson Claims His Removal By Mayor Was Illegal

Charles H. Johnson, who was removed from the office of Assessor Feb. 10, by Mayor Shea has taken the matter into court to ascertain what right the Mayor had to do so. The matter comes into court on a writ of mandamus brought by Asst. U. S. District Attorney Asa P. French, counsel for Mr. Johnson, and is returnable March 3 at Boston.

The Johnson episode dates back to the first Monday in February when the new board of Assessors met for organization. At the request of Mayor Shea the board did not organize that day, but did on the following Thursday when Mr. Johnson was elected as chairman of the board. Mr. Adams the new member of the board declining to vote.

The following Saturday Mr. Johnson was called into the Mayor's office and was informed by the Mayor that he had decided to make a change in the office. That there were two ways to do this. Either by Mr. Johnson resigning or by his removal. He then asked for Mr. Johnson's resignation, and the latter was given until the following Monday in which to resign.

Monday came but the resignation was not forthcoming and the Mayor then filed a notice with the City Clerk of Mr. Johnson's removal for the good of the service. A similar notice was served on Mr. Johnson by Constable Michael T. Sullivan. Mr. Johnson placed the matter in the hands of his counsel, who brought the writ of mandamus which was served on the Mayor late Friday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Beede.

At the same time notice of the removal of Mr. Johnson was given out came the appointment of John A. Duggan to fill the vacancy. The Assessors later organized with Mr. Adams as chairman.

The writ is returnable to the supreme court at Boston March 3, at which time the presiding justice will determine if the removal was legal.

Should the removal be declared to have been illegal the court will probably order Mr. Johnson's reinstatement.

Mr. Johnson's claim that the removal is illegal is based on the City Charter which in an amendment authorized by an act of the legislature under Chapter 216 of the Acts of 1900 approved April 11, 1900, says: "In the month of January in the year nineteen hundred and one the Mayor of Quincy shall appoint a board of Assessors, consisting of three persons, who shall hold office until the expiration of one, two and three years, respectively, from the first Monday in February, 1901, and annually in January thereafter the Mayor shall appoint one assessor who shall hold office for the term of three years from the first Monday in February following."

Chapter 579 of the Acts of 1907 of the legislature makes it compulsory on all cities and towns of the Commonwealth to have continuous boards of Assessors.

Mr. Johnson's term of office did not expire until January, 1909, and his claim is that if the Mayor can remove a member of the board of Assessors at will, the intent and purpose of the charter as well as the Act passed in 1907 is violated. He also claims that if the Mayor has such a power of removal it will make the board of assessor's a political board which was just what the amendment to the Charter and the law of 1907 was intended to prevent.

The Challenge.

There never was a more glorious age in which to live than the present. There never was a time that so challenged the soul of man by the chance of splendid achievement. There never were days that called more for high spirit and strong courage and noble deed. There are splendid causes that challenge us as they invite our aid. To the coward the age is mean and inglorious. To the brave man and true, who will risk for the right and dare by his deed, it offers the chance divine. What means it to you? Are you going to skulk in the rear, or are you going to accept the challenge of the age and go forward?—All Souls Church, Braitree.

Nearly all the ice has drifted out of Fore and Town rivers and a few boats, to be used in tending ell-pots, have been launched.

Brilliant At Home Of the Sheppards

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rogers Sheppard (nee Van Buren,) who were married at Elizabeth New Jersey, on the last day of the old year, and are making their home this winter with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard at 58 Greenleaf street, were "at home" to their friends on Friday evening, the twenty-first, from half past eight until eleven o'clock.

They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Van Buren and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sheppard. The ushers were: Joel F. Sheppard of Quincy, Cornell '07; W. Vaughn Magee of New York, Cornell '07; Frank L. Baxter of Quincy, Yale '07; L. Raymond Wise of Attleboro, Brown '07; Joseph Morrison of Braitree, Harvard '00; Willard P. Sheppard of Braitree, Harvard '00; and F. Everett Winslow of Brockton.

An orchestra under the leadership of Mrs. Philip Brandon of Malden, who participated in the recent musicale of the Quincy Woman's club, played throughout the reception. In the dining room supper was served by a Boston caterer. The beautiful appointed table was presided over by daintily gowned young ladies. They were Miss Alice Dennis of Malden, Miss Helen Bates of Braitree and Miss Stella Barker of Quincy.

There was a profusion of cut flowers and asparagus vine. It was a very happy occasion, over two hundred extending good wishes to the young people.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

A new store at the Point on Washington street.

A meeting of citizens to discuss the grade crossing problem will probably be held next Friday evening.

Fred Malcolm has an end song in the Men's Club "Original Minstrelsy" at Music hall, Feb. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fernald of Edwards street spent the week end with friends at Beverly.

Mrs. Ella Hayden will entertain lady friends at her home on River street on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Keene of East Bridgewater has returned home after a three weeks' visit with her niece, Mrs. Laura Ryder of Oak avenue.

The next event of note on the social calendar is the second annual ball of Elks which will be held at Music hall, Monday evening, March 2.

At the billiard tournament at the rooms of the Granite City club Saturday evening Frank W. White (135) beat E. E. Morgan (135) by score of 135 to 80.

Charles F. Harper, the former master of the Quincy High school, will be unable to attend the banquet of the alumni on Wednesday evening, much to the regret of his pupils.

The next meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening, March 2. It is possible that the Finance Committee may be able to report the annual budget order at that meeting.

Silver Lake Sowa, the black and white cocker spaniel bitch, owned by Elmhurst Kennels of Wollaston was awarded second prize in the class for limit Bitches parti colored, at the Boston show last week.

A largely attended reception of the senior class of the Woodward Institute was held in Woodward hall on Friday evening. The reception was from 8 to 9 and was followed by dancing.

Carlton Beal has an important specialty in the Men's club minstrel show at Quincy Music hall, Friday evening, Feb. 28. His act will be one of the many novel features of this much talked about show.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody of River street, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee of 29 Thompson street, and Rev. A. K. Atwood of Farnum street represented the Point church at the funeral services on Sunday of the late Rev. Jonathan Tilson at Weymouth Landing.

Mr. Goodhue, the boys' Secretary of Y. M. C. A. returned from the State Boys Conference held at Lynn from Friday to Sunday night. The boys who attended from the Quincy Association were: Albion Bonney, Lee Brooks, Stanley Sherman, Albert Coffin, Clarence Grant and Lester McHaffey.

The first grand dance of the Walnut associates, which is composed of young people who reside on Walnut street, Netopset, was held Friday evening at Music hall, Atlantic, and was very largely attended. The proceeds of the affair are to be used in fitting the summer cottage of the club at Houghs Neck.

The mock trial under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus Tuesday evening will probably decide who is guilty of the larceny of the Mayor's umbrella. No one believes that the Doctor would be guilty of doing such a thing, and his claim is that if the umbrella was taken it was taken by some disgruntled office seeker.

Nearly three hundred "Daughters" attended the meeting of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, at hotel Vendome, Boston, on the afternoon of the 22d, and it was one of the best meetings ever held. Two interesting papers were read, there was music and a social time with refreshments.

Kenneth Horton of Boston passed away on Thursday at hotel Nottingham, Boston, after a short illness of pneumonia. He had but recently returned from abroad where with his wife he had passed two years in travel and was contemplating sailing again in a few weeks. Mr. Horton passed his boyhood in Quincy, living on South street.

The Point church is rich in musical friends, both in and out of its parish. Sunday morning its choir sang "He Watcheth over Israel" (Elijah), and Miss Gage sang the solo "Rest in the Lord" (Elijah). "Lower Lights" was sung by the following quartet: Mrs. J. D. Buckingham, Miss Nina B. Gage, Mr. T. B. Pollard and Mr. C. K. Taylor.

About thirty-five friends of Algot Erickson got together Friday night at his home on Granite street and gave him a surprise. A good time was enjoyed and many of the old games were played. During the evening Mr. Erickson was presented a pair of gold cuff buttons. Refreshments were served and then the games were continued until an early hour. Friends were present from Quincy, Wollaston, West Quincy, East Braitree and Canton.

The Quincy Post Office To Be Consolidated With Boston

Quincy will become a part of the Boston post office district on July 1, the Post Office department at Washington having issued the following order Feb. 21:

Consolidating the post office at Quincy with Boston and establishing Quincy station on July 1, with facilities for the transaction of money order and registry business, the sale of postal supplies and the receipt and dispatch of mails; also redesignating all stations of the Quincy post office as stations of Boston. The numbered stations will be redesignated as follows: No. 1, No. 149; No. 2, No. 150; No. 3, No. 151; No. 4, No. 152; No. 5, No. 153; No. 6, No. 154; No. 7, No. 155; No. 8, No. 156.

On the same date the Newton Centre post office will be consolidated with Boston.

Quincy is one of the last of the suburban cities within the ten-mile limit to be annexed, as it was well satisfied with the present service, and doubts if a change will be beneficial.

New Master of Adams School

Harry F. Brooks, the newly elected principal of the Adams and Cranch schools of this city will move to Quincy next Saturday. A Boston paper prints the following sketch:

Mr. Brooks is 26 years old and was born in Riga, Russia. He came to this country 16 years ago, learning the language and ways of America since landing on these shores.

His public school education in this country began at the Eliot school, Boston, which he attended for three years. On graduating he went to the English high, where he won the Franklin medal. He was a lieutenant in the school regiment.

After graduating from the high school it was his ambition to enter the naval academy at Annapolis as a cadet and to join the navy. He lived in Congressman Fitzgerald's district. On making application he found that all the appointments to the academy at Mr. Fitzgerald's disposal had been made.

Learning that the President had the power of making a certain number of appointments at large, President McKinley was appealed to. In due time the answer came from the White House that all these places, also, were filled, but that if young Brooks would wait a year he would be nominated to the first vacancy in the order of application.

After President McKinley was assassinated at Buffalo Mr. Brooks gave up all hopes of entering the navy and determined to take up school teaching. He fitted at the Lowell normal school and, at the expiration of two years got his diploma winning his way to the top of his class. He at once obtained a position as teacher in the high school at Peterboro, N. H.

From Peterboro he went to Natick, Mass., being made principal of the high school there, and from Natick he went to Fitchburg, where he has been for the past two years. His specialty is grammar school work.

In his letter of resignation to the Fitchburg school board he wrote: "Gentlemen—It is with sincere regret I hereby tender my resignation as principal of Ashburnham street school I have been recently elected as supervising principal in another city.

"Though with it is attached a much larger salary than I receive here, yet I assure you that I desire to make the change only because the new position affords a much broader field of labor—supervision over schools containing 20 teachers and 900 scholars.

"I deeply appreciate the confidence and support you gave me during the past two years, which were to me a period of very happy and pleasant sojourn."

Mr. Brooks in an examination to qualify for a position as superintendent of schools, ranked third.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Celebrate Holiday

About thirty representing the G. A. R., the W. R. C., the Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary were guests of Mrs. Jennie Holten on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman, patriotic instructor, said the object of the gathering was to observe Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, as on Lincoln day the department convention was in session and the day was not observed.

The exercises opened with reading of scriptures by Mrs. Jennie Holten, Lord's Prayer in unison and singing America. After which there was reading by Mrs. Edith B. Wolfe, recitation by Mrs. George Phillips, singing by Miss Mattie Holten, recitation by Mrs. White Corps 20, South Boston, singing by Gus White, reading of burial of Washington from a paper dated 1799 by Mrs. Laura Holt, reading on life of Lincoln by Mrs. Holmes, singing by Miss Mattie Holten. Pleading remarks were made by Comrades Webb, Phillips, Chubbuck and Loud, also Mr. Herbert Holmes of the Sons of Veterans. The program closed with singing "Star Spangled Banner" and flag salute Mrs. Gus White was pianist for the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Herbert Holmes, Mrs. Gus White, Miss Fannie Butte and Miss Mattie Holten. The parlors were decorated appropriate for the occasion by Mrs. White and Miss Holten.

Haywood Is Warmly Greeted

William D. Haywood was greeted by a packed house of Socialists and Union Labor men and women at Finnish hall on Friday evening, Feb. 21. A big strong man he is, and he proved himself to be a sturdy advocate of the principles of organized labor. Outside of few incidents he mentioned in connection with his arrest and allusions to the part the government of two states and the United States played in the affair, Mr. Haywood spoke entirely along political lines as a Socialist.

At the close of the address which was loudly applauded, resolutions condemning the action of President Roosevelt in allowing troops to be sent to Goldfield, Nevada, and Fairbanks, Alaska, where the miners are on strike, were adopted, and copies will be sent to the President, and the secretary of the Federation at Denver.

Miss Luella Twining of the Federation was the first speaker, her address although brief was responded to with a liberal collection to assist the striking miners.

The meeting was called to order by Charles W. Hanscom who introduced the speakers. The Finnish Band furnished music which was enjoyed by all those present. Refreshments were served in the dining-room by the Finn comrades.

Lincoln the Pioneer Suffragist.

The celebration of Abraham Lincoln's birthday recalls the interesting fact that Lincoln was the pioneer woman suffragist among the public men of America. Twelve years before the first equal rights convention was held, in a letter to the electors of Sangamon County, Ill., dated June 13, 1836, and printed in the Sangamon County Journal, published at New Salem, Ill., Lincoln wrote:

"I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens; consequently, I go for admitting all whites to the right of suffrage who pay taxes or bear arms, by no means excluding females."

ness, punctual in promises and appointments, just towards all men, and devout toward God."

QUINCY AND ADAMS.

Dying on the 13th of July, in the 76th year of his age, John Quincy left four children: his only son, Norton, who passed his days in the home of his father; Elizabeth, who married the Rev. William Smith of Weymouth; Anna, who married John Thaxter of Hingham; and Lucy, who married Cotton Tufts of Braintree. To Elizabeth and her husband, the minister of Weymouth, was born Abigail, who married John Adams. This is the bond of kinship which unites the Adamsons and the Quincys, honored by the transmission of a name; for, as old John Quincy lay dying at Mount Wollaston, this grand-daughter of his gave birth to a son; and when, the next day, as was then the practice, the child was baptized, its grand-mother, who was present at its birth, requested that it might be called after her father. Long afterwards the child thus named wrote of this incident:—"It was filial tenderness that gave the name. It was the name of one passing from earth to immortality. These have been among the strongest links of my attachment to the name of Quincy, and have been to me through life a perpetual admonition to do nothing unworthy of it."

"However the links were forged we all feel that attachment to the name of Quincy. May it grow till it shall be to each of us a perpetual admonition to do nothing unworthy of Quincy. May the lives of all who have lived within its limits, and the labors of all who have devoted themselves to its peace and prosperity, inspire us with kindred virtues. And may he whose name it bears marshal us also the way to victories of freedom, friendship, faith. It was, it is said, a custom of the Locran Greeks to leave a vacant place in their charging ranks for the spirit of Ajax, their elect hero. As the people of this community move onward in generations through the years to come, may they invoke as the genius of the vanguard line no less worthy a presence than that of John Quincy."

Close attention was paid to Mr. Wilson's address. He has certainly contributed a valuable paper to Historical Quincy which should be published in book form.

C. F. ADAMS' MESSAGE.

The address of Charles Francis Adams was brief. At the centennial of the Town of Quincy, 16 years ago, he said, he had borne the burden, delivering the principal address. Today he was pleased to listen to the exhaustive and learned address of Mr. Wilson, which left little to be said.

Col. John Quincy was typical of the time. The historical periods were divided as follows: Colonial, from 1630 to 1680; Provincial, from 1680 to 1767; and the Revolutionary period which culminated in America Independence. The life of Col. Quincy covered the entire Provincial period.

Mr. Adams asked: What individual can you name who left a mark on Massachusetts history in that period? Some might say Gov. Hutchinson, but it was John Quincy. He was of the class of George Washington who followed.

Mr. Adams then explained the error on the tablet to Col. John Quincy, recently erected in the church, which he said should be corrected. Quincy was born in Boston, not Quincy.

The meeting closed with "Old Hundred" and the benediction.

BRAINTREE.

The annual March warrant contains forty-five articles and the voters are notified to meet in the Town hall, Monday evening, March 9th, at 7.30 o'clock to consider them. Article five, appropriations for schools, is the first one of importance. The school committee are asking for an increase over last year of about $8,000, as may be seen in the town report. Statistics show a large increase in the enrollment of pupils and it is up to the voters to make proper provision for educating them.

The plans of Mr. H. L. White, town surveyor, for the abolition of grade crossings show a depress of seven and one-half feet at Elm street and four and one-half at River street instead of the figures given by us last week. We are glad to report a deeper cut than first planned. Don't forget the public hearing Feb. 29, at 10.30 A. M.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Guild of the South Parish church will be held in the chapel on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Afternoon tea will be served at four o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

Mr. C. G. Whitcomb of Holbrook, formerly of South Braintree and Mr. Louis E. Flye of Holbrook, at a recent meeting of the Sunset Lake Hotel Company, resigned their positions as treasurer and vice president. In two or three weeks there will be interesting news of further developments.

Miss Ann Augusta Stevens of Watertown has been visiting friends and relatives in town this week.

Mrs. George D. Willis of Washington street is reported to be recovering from her recent severe illness.

Mrs. Joseph E. Hayden of Thayer place has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Worcester. Mrs. Maxham who has been visiting with friends and relatives in Maine, has returned to her home with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. M. Bestick on Crescent avenue.

C. S. Hanniford is planning to raise the post-office building another story to provide room for tenements. There will be two suites, eight rooms and a bath each. A force of workmen commenced the work Wednesday.

Mrs. Lyman Randall, who has been receiving treatment at Dr. Emerson's private hospital at Forest Hills, has returned to her home on Tremont street. It is hoped by her many friends that she will rapidly improve in health.

The St. Mary's Society (Episcopal) will meet on Wednesday afternoon Feb. 26 at the home of Mrs. Carolyn A. Bill, 91 Hollis avenue. A full attendance is requested. Tea will be served at four o'clock.

Friends of Edward Ashworth of North Bowditch street are very glad to learn that he is recovering rapidly from an operation for appendicitis, being able at this writing to take solid food. He has also had tonsillitis since the operation.

Mrs. Samuel Thompson who has been visiting her son Walter Thompson of Commercial street, has gone to Manchester, N. H., and will visit her daughter there.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Woodworth of Mount Vernon avenue has been ill the past week.

There will be a chicken pie supper in Delta hall next Wednesday evening at seven o'clock. The entertainment will consist of vocal and instrumental music and readings.

Contractor McIntire has erected out two houses which he will erect on Shaw street this spring. Mr. Herman McIntire has improved his holdings on Shaw street by building convenient cottages and pretty houses and has opened up avenues and side streets adjacent to the main thoroughfare.

Miss Coralyn Wilson Lang, oldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lang of Middle street, Braintree, passed away Wednesday morning at the home of her brother, Robert Lang, Front street, Weymouth. She was born in Braintree, January 1, 1880, attended the Braintree public schools and was popular among her acquaintances. Her rich contralto voice was very much enjoyed in the First Universalist church of Braintree, the First Congregational church, All Souls church and other places.

We have the stock, tools, machinery, and "know how" to do your Optical work promptly and satisfactorily. We repair the frames, grind lenses, match the broken ones or test the eye. C. F. Pettengill, 1391 Hancock street, Quincy.

WEYMOUTH.

Mrs. A. J. Richards of Commercial street has been spending a few days in New York.

Miss Annie E. Richards is away at Virginia for a change and pleasure trip. Mr. Aubrey E. Hunt the artist sailed on the S. S. Ivernia on Tuesday for England.

Mr. R. Loyd Hunt, of Front street has been confined to the house with asthma.

Francis Cowing of Commercial street is recovering his eyesight. His friends will be glad to know that the removing of the cataract from the eye was successfully accomplished.

The Abigail Smith Chapter Daughters of the Revolution are to observe their tenth anniversary on Monday, March tenth, from two until five o'clock, at the home of Miss Georgiana A. Robbins, North Weymouth.

Miss Hazel H. Baker of the Ledges, Commercial street, sang at a musicale given by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bond of 128 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Sunday evening. She rendered an operatic selection from Faust and also a solo by Snell. Mrs. Helen Allen Hunt and Mrs. M. M. Brackett were among the guests.

Annual Ball

St. Marys Society

The thirty-third annual ball of St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society was held, the night before the holiday at St. Mary's hall, and was attended by a party that tested the capacity of the hall. Krutz's orchestra furnished the music, and from 8 until 9 o'clock gave a promenade concert its program being one of unusual excellence.

At 9 o'clock the grand march, which was to open the ball, was started being led by the society's president, Lewis A. Pendis, and Mrs. Pendis. Then came the Mayor William T. Shea and Miss Shea, and upwards of one hundred couples. Mayor Shea has been a member of the society for many years and although pressed with invitations to attend other affairs he felt that he must be present.

At the conclusion of the march, general dancing was in order and was continued until a late hour. During an intermission at midnight supper was served in the lower hall.

Lewis A. Pendis was floor marshal, and George W. Berry assistant. The floor director was Daniel E. Duggan, and the assistant William R. Burke. The aids were William E. Duggan, Walter K. Pendis, James B. White, Michael J. Crowley, John J. Joyce, Frank J. Egan, Joseph A. Morrisette, William C. Berlinger and Charles J. Canavan.

Concert and Dance Granite Lodge

Music Hall was well filled Friday evening at the twenty-second annual concert and dance of Granite lodge, Order Sons of St. George. The annual events of this lodge are looked forward to with thoughts of a pleasant evening, and that of this year was no exception.

The entertainment provided was a pleasing one, and opened with a selection by the orchestra. This was followed by a recitation by Miss Laura C. Childs, who so captivated her audience that they were hardly satisfied with one response to the encore. Then Mr. Gale set the audience laughing with his impersonations, and Prof. Whittecare mystified them with the work with scissors and a roof of paper. Part one closed with the laughing coon with his banjo which was impersonated by John Bohan. Part two was furnished by the same artists.

The dancing was in order after the entertainment and opened with a march led by William Wanless, president of Granite lodge, and Miss Lottie Rendle. They were followed by nearly one hundred couples. Dancing was continued until three o'clock, a lunch being served during a brief intermission at midnight.

John Collins was the floor director and Arthur H. Dunstan assistant. They were assisted by Thomas Smith, John Tate, Ernest Collins and John Tinney. The reception committee were John Cain, Charles Jones and John Pearce.

BULLET IN HIS HEART

Denver Priest Is Shot Down at the Altar Rail

HIS SLAYER AN ANARCHIST

Declares He Has a Hatred For All Priests Because They Are Against
the Workingman—Regrets That He Could Not Have Killed More

Denver, Feb. 24.—Father Leo Heinrichs was shot and killed yesterday by Alie Giuseppe, an avowed anarchist and priest-hater, while the priest was administering the sacrament at mass in St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic church here.

While on his knees at the altar rail, between two women, Giuseppe pressed the muzzle of a revolver against the body of the priest, after receiving from him the consecrated water and shot him through the heart. Exclaiming: "My God! My God!" Father Leo fell prone in front of the altar and died.

With an inarticulate scream, the assassin sprang into the aisle and, waving the smoking pistol about his head, dashed to the church door. For a moment those in the church were dazed. Then a woman shrieked and the congregation became panic-stricken. Several women fainted and many others became hysterical.

Several men, including Patrolman Cronin, started in pursuit of the murderer. Cronin overtook the fleeing Italian on the church steps. Giuseppe attempted to shoot the policeman, but was foiled and overpowered after a desperate struggle in which several men assisted the officer.

The murderer was hurriedly removed to the city jail. Threats of summary vengeance were made by men who quickly gathered in front of the church, so Captain of Police Delaney called out the reserve force of patrolmen, who were kept on guard all day and last night.

Before the commotion caused by the tragedy subsided, the Franciscan Brothers connected with the church silently brought candles for the dead and placed them beside the corpse of their superior where it lay. By direction of Bishop Metz, the church was closed for the day.

Deputy Coroner Hayes took charge of Heinrichs' body, which was removed to the city morgue. A single bullet hole in the white communion robes of the priest showed that the lead went straight to the heart. The bullet remaining in Giuseppe's revolver had sharpened points.

Giuseppe was placed in solitary confinement. He admitted to a policeman that the priest whom he killed was a stranger to him, and in explanation of his crime said:

"I just went over there because I have a grudge against all priests in general. They are all against the working man. I went to the communion rail because I could get a better shot. I did not give a damn whether he was a German priest or any other kind of a priest. They are all in the same class."

"I left three months ago and went first to Central America and then came to Denver. I am an anarchist and I am proud of it. I shot him, and my only regret is that I couldn't shoot the whole bunch of priests in the church. I am a shoemaker, but have not worked since coming to Denver."

Father Leo was born in Koeln, Ger., Aug. 15, 1869. He entered the Franciscan order on Dec. 4, 1886, and was ordained July 26, 1891. He came to Denver last September from Paterson, N. J. He had previously served three years in Croghan, N. Y., where he distinguished himself by rebuilding a church, a monastery and other buildings. He was sent to Germany in June to visit relatives whom he had not seen for sixteen years.

Policeman Ends Bad Man's Career
Newark, N. J., Feb. 24.—While making a desperate effort to escape capture, Frank Ides, known to the police as "Jersey's Jesse James," was shot down and killed in the streets here by Policeman Weber. The fugitive, who had previously broken out of the New Jersey reformatory no less than three times, was trying to escape and refused to surrender at the officer's summons.

Kelsey Will Not Be Ousted
Albany, Feb. 24.—Every indication favors the belief that the senate will for the second time refuse to remove Otto Kelsey from the office of state superintendent of insurance, notwithstanding Governor Hughes' recommendation. The probability seems to be that the vote will be thirty-four against removal and seventeen for removal.

Lives Lost In Panic
Teheran, Feb. 24.—Ten persons were killed and a score or more wounded, including several ecclesiastics, as a result of a street panic during the passage of a religious procession celebrating the Mohammedan Muharram, a religious festival held during the first month of the Mohammedan year.

Knocked Out In First Round
San Francisco, Feb. 24.—Stanley Ketchell, a middleweight of Grand Rapids, Mich., made short work of Mike (Twin) Sullivan of Boston in their scheduled twenty-five-round fight. The knockout came after one minute and one-eighth seconds fighting in the first round.

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN.

Superstitious Fear of This Number
Dates Back to Norse Mythology.

It is usually stated that the superstitious objection to sitting thirteen at a table in Christian countries was based on the fact of the last supper, when Christ and his twelve disciples sat down to eat together immediately before the Saviour was seized by his enemies.

But in the Norse mythology, which is supposed to antedate the introduction of Christianity among the northern men, we find the superstition referred to in the fact that at a banquet of the gods Loki, the spirit of mischief, intruded himself, making thirteen at the table, where there was a fight, and Balbour, a young hero especially loved by all the gods, was killed, for the fact is the objection to this number seems to have existed even before Christianity. Among the Turks the number is so disliked and feared that it is never even named; with the Aztecs, the aborigines of Mexico, it was believed to have magic power, and a like fancy has been found in other Indian tribes.

Among the ignorant blacks in the south the fear of this number in any connection is actually absurd, but whether they have borrowed this idea from their imperfect knowledge of Christianity or whether it is a survival of the voodoo worship of their ancestors it is impossible to say, for the superstition has a strong hold everywhere, even among those who should know better than to be swayed by it. In Italy it is never used in making up the numbers of the favorite lotteries, and in Paris it is omitted in numbering the houses on the streets.—Housekeeper.

SELECTING A BOOK.

Not as Easy as It Sometimes Seems to Be.

It seems that every one should know how to select a book for a present, but if you stop to think about it it is not an easy matter at all. In the first place, one has to be a very good judge of fine literature to make a proper selection, and it must be something which, if not of individual taste, will be exactly proper for the recipient. There was a young boy who had a wonderful fondness for books. He was not a boy in a position to buy good books or get the best reading matter. One day a lady saw him reading a cheap detective story, and she inquired if he liked to read. He admitted his fondness for books. She straightway offered him the use of her library, with the privilege of coming and going at his will to take or return a book. It is truly remarkable what that little act has done for the boy, for it has taught him to love the best literature. He is a good judge of the best works, and the instruction received has been an education. One feels sorry for the person who is the recipient of "Lucile" when the owner has no fondness for poetry. One person might prefer books written by old masters; others would like something of present fiction, and there is no better way to find out what is wanted than to bring up the subject. Do not purchase ponderous works for men or women who do not have ponderous thinking equipments, and do not send a shallow book to a strong minded reader or the recipient will think it is your choice of what is par excellence in literature.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

When altering a blouse, it is a mistake to move the shoulder seam to the front. A better plan is to let it drop backward instead of forward.

A thin silk or one that frays easily can be cut out better if laid between sheets of thin paper and the pattern cut through paper and material together.

A collar lining of taffeta should be cut so that the front part is on the straight of the material, and the curved part of the collar will then come on the bias.

To strengthen shirt buttonholes stitch them round with cotton after they are finished. They will then last much longer and not tear away from the material.

It is a good plan to bend steels or whalebones at the waist line when making a bodice before putting them into the casings, as the bodice will then fit closer to the figure.

After stitching down a seam press with a hot iron, and if no seam board is at hand it is useful to know that a rolling pin wrapped in a clean cloth will answer the purpose equally well.

In sewing a piece of material on the bias to a straight piece the former is apt to become stretched. To avoid this the bias should be placed underneath, and it will then be sewed in evenly.

In making a blouse too deep a round must not be cut for the neck at the outset. It is better to try it on first and then outline a semicircle in front with a row of pins, cutting it evenly on a flat surface.

Turnover Collars.

A girl famed for originality and fine sewing has been making gifts to her friends of fine lawn turnover collars hemmed on the lower edge and then embroidered on the hem with hearts and clubs alternating. These are about an inch apart. The material she uses is very sheer, and she lays it over the card, then draws the device with her pencil, allowing for the hem, which is as wide as the embroidery is long, in order that the embroidery may be worked on double goods. She uses mercerized cotton for this work, red for the diamonds and black for the clubs and finishes the neck with a black tie. The effect is particularly smart.

Did You EVER THINK of That?

IT WILL HELP QUINCY!
IT WILL HELP YOU!

Don't You Like This Town?

You live here. Your business interests are here. Your home is here.

You are reading a Mail Order Catalogue. That indicates that you are not spending your money in this town. You are spending it with strangers in a big city. That city has no use for this town except to get your money.

This town has use for your money. If spent here, your money will help to build up the town. It will help to build up your own business.

In the long run more of your money will come back to you if you spend it at home than if you send it to Chicago or some other large city. You spend a dollar with Smith, up the street. Smith spends it with Brown, around the corner. Brown is just as likely to spend it with you as with anybody else. Did you ever think of that?

All of us have to spend money. There is an art in spending it where it will do the most good. If spent so that it will circulate around this town and community, it will help this town and community. You belong to this town and community. Therefore it will help you. Isn't that good logic?

Suppose you think it over next time you pick up the Mail Order Catalogue.

Boston Police Make Arrests Which May Prove to Be Important

Boston, Feb. 24.—As the result of threatening letters sent to Benjamin Piscopo, proprietor of Piscopo's hotel, demanding $1900 as a penalty of death, the police visited a fruit store in the Dorchester district and placed under arrest Cossetto Razzo, aged 27, and Antonio Mirabito, aged 24, on the charge of attempted extortion. The police searched the store and claim to have found stationery identical with that used in the letters to Piscopo.

The accused, whose operations are supposed to extend to New York and other large cities, are Sicilians, and their capture, the police believe, will bring to light an astounding condition of affairs. They were tracked to their headquarters at 209A Bowdoin street, Dorchester, which is in the heart of a pretentious neighborhood.

Mirabito claims to live at 70 Summer street, Watertown, while Rizzo says that he lives in the rear of 209A Bowdoin street, Dorchester. The front part of this building is used as a fruit store, and it was there that the two men were found last night by the arresting inspectors.

Believing that they could throw off suspicion by establishing their den in a fashionable district, the arrested men were crestfallen when they learned that they were in the hands of the police.

Two Shooting Tragedies

New Haven, Feb. 24.—Charles Martone was probably fatally shot at Watertown by a man who lay in wait for him at his home. Antonio Farino is under arrest in connection with the shooting.

Arbad Fennell of Portland, Conn., is in a critical condition with a bullet wound in his chest. A boarder is said to have interfered in a quarrel between Fennell and his wife, and to have shot Fennell. No arrest has been made.

Was a Menace to Navigation

Boston, Feb. 24.—Captain Porter of steamer Limon, from Port Limon, C.R., reports that on the passage he fell in with the abandoned and water-logged four-masted schooner Edward J. Berwind, lumber laden, and as she was a menace to navigation he set fire to the wreck. The Berwind, which sailed from New Orleans Jan. 12 for Philadelphia, was abandoned by her crew, who were taken off by a steamer and carried to Liverpool.

A Boy's Presence of Mind

Providence, Feb. 24.—Alfred Osmond, 14 years old, was playing on the ice on Muspaug pond and fell into a large square hole, which the ice harvesters had cut from George Hold, 10 years old, ran to an icehouse and procured a long ladder, which barely reached across the broken ice and rested on the other side. Hold quickly crawled over the rungs to where his chum was struggling in the water and pulled him out.

Danger of Spread of Smallpox

Bangor, Me., Feb. 24.—The board of health of the state has been notified of an epidemic of smallpox in Albert county, N. B., which, it is asserted, threatens Boston and industrial centers. It is estimated that one hundred persons a day are passing through Bangor and Portland from the district that is infected and that only about half of this number has been vaccinated.

Lawson Wins by Jump Sprint

Boston, Feb. 24.—Iver Lawson, by his famous jump sprint, won the six-day bicycle race here, having completed 415 miles and 9 laps in some 21 hours, the race being run two and a half hours each night during the contest until Saturday, when the event began at 2 o'clock and finished at 10:30. John Bedell was second, being but two lengths behind Lawson.

Poles Ask For Sympathy

Boston, Feb. 24.—Denunciation of Prussian oppression in Poland was expressed by 400 Poles gathered here and a petition was signed to be sent to congress and the president asking for the American government sympathetic expression of indignation and remonstrance against the new Prussian land tax, which threatens to drive the Poles from their homes.

Osteopathy Will Cure Tuberculosis

Providence, Feb. 24.—The New England Osteopathic association held its fourth annual meeting in this city. C. E. Achorn of Boston declared in an address to the convention that osteopathy would solve the problem of tuberculosis. The treatment would restore blood to its normal condition and thus cure tuberculosis, he declared.

Serious Charge Against Doctor

Rochester, N. H., Feb. 24.—Dr. Leon G. Merrill of this place was arrested last night, charged with having caused the death, by an illegal operation, of Mrs. Arty Miller of Portsmouth. Mrs. Miller died at Portsmouth Saturday and the arrest was made at the investigation of County Solicitor Hall of Dover.

Owners of Stolen Leather Wanted

Boston, Feb. 24.—The Boston police and railroad detectives have been unable to discover who owned the $15,000 worth of leather which William Wilson, under arrest in St. Louis, claimed to have stolen from the freight yards of Boston. It is stated that $15,000 worth of leather would have filled a car.

Wholesale Seizure of Cider

Norwood, Mass., Feb. 24.—Hundreds of barrels of cider, constituting the entire stock in Levi Greenwood's cider mill, have been seized by the police on account of alleged infringements of the law relating to the sale of the article. The cider is valued at $3500.

Cupid's Coal Truck.

By James Francis Dwyer.

Copyrighted, 1908, by E. C. Parcells.

The car came to an abrupt stop, and the conductor stretched his neck in a reckless manner as he looked for the cause.

"Coal truck on the blink with a broken axle," he cried disgustedly. "and now I got to chase through the snow to phone the 'mergency van.' He walked through the car to acquaint the motorman of his heroic intention and, after buttoning his jacket, set off up the snow covered road in search of a telephone.

The motorman took the opportunity to stretch his legs by walking around the disabled vehicle. When he stepped from the car the two passengers sighed wearily and the man moved closer to his companion.

"Well, I'm glad that conductor has gone," he remarked. "He stared at us till my conscience suggested I had given him a bad coin."

The fur wrapped girl beside him laughed merrily.

"This a habit of conductors," she murmured. "I have noticed them before."

"I will pardon him," said the man. "He is but mortal, and I am pleased to find that his mercenary occupation has not destroyed his love of the beautiful."

The girl smiled indulgently, but remained silent. Meanwhile the motorman had entered into a discussion with the truck driver as to the best method of removing the damaged vehicle.

"Letty!" The man's voice interrupted a day dream and the girl started.

"Do you know I am desperately in love?"

The big blue eyes surveyed him critically.

"No; I do not," she said emphatically. "When a man is in love he can never disguise the fact."

"You are thinking of calf love," he remarked, "the kind that bubbles over and spoils its owner's appetite, but solid, healthy man's love."

"It is all the same," she interrupted; "concealment is impossible. Now, Mr. Dorrington is in love, and a child can detect the symptoms."

"Dorrington?" The man's voice expressed his surprise. "Do you mean old Dorrington?"

The slightest puckering round the corners of the little mouth showed where a smile tried hard to establish a footing.

"When Mr. Dorrington called yesterday," continued the girl, "I watched him closely while he was speaking to mother."

"Pardon me?" The man's tone was masterful, and the girl stopped. "Is Dorrington—old Dorrington—in love with your mother?"

The smile made another valiant effort to disturb the serenity of the girl's face, but retired discomfited.

"I do not think so," she said quietly. "If he is, the feeling is not reciprocated, as mother always leaves me to entertain him when he calls."

The man winced.

"I am anxious about him"—he tried to hide the effect produced by her thrust—"Dorothy is not young, you know, and love, like measles, plays the mischief with elderly people."

The hovering smile flashed triumphantly across the girl's blushing face.

"Seriously, Letty," her companion continued, "Dorrington is old! I remember him twenty-five years ago, when he chased me away from a pond near your mother's house. God bless my heart, girl—his tone changed to one expressing blank astonishment—"I am getting old too!"

"The girl turned, and the blue eyes looked carefully over the man's brown face, noting the length and depth of every wrinkle that marked it.

"You are getting old, Jack."

"I know it," he cried, "and here am I in a sidetracked car doing nothing, while time pursues me remorselessly."

Evidently thinking anything preferable to inaction, he started out to capture one of the little gloved hands of his companion, and after she had vainly tried to defeat his intentions he clasped it between his own two and seemed immensely pleased at the feat.

"Dear me," she sighed, "I wish that conductor would come back."

"He cannot shift us!" The man was defiant, and the girl blushed as she noticed his restlessness.

"No, but he can stare at you," she cried irritably, "and your actions since he departed prove that the stare was effective."

"But, Letty," he said, "what a terrible thing it is to look back on thirty-five wasted years, thirty-five autumns, thirty-five springs and the same number of winters and summers, all barren and useless." He shuddered and moved closer.

"Oh, Jack," she murmured, "do look and see if he is coming."

He stood up, still holding the little hand, and carefully scanned the white road. "He is not coming!" he cried gleefully. "He will have to walk a mile—a mile there and a mile back."

"You have no pity!" exclaimed the girl. She made an attempt to release the imprisoned hand as she spoke, but the man's grip tightened. "How would you like it, if you had to walk two miles in the snow because a silly old coal truck collapsed on the track?"

"It is not a silly old coal truck," said the man, dropping back into his seat. "It is a wonderful, glorious, rainbow tinted instrument of—of—"

"Don't say Providence," she interrupted.

"No; of Dan Cupid! Didn't I tell you, Letty, that I adore—"

"The coal truck," she interrupted again. "You certainly used enough adjectives to give one that impression."

"And I do!" he cried defiantly. "I adore the horses, the axle and every other part that helped toward the breaking down because—do you know why, Letty?"

"Because it made the poor conductor tramp two miles in the snow," she answered.

The man was annoyed.

"Confound the conductor!" he cried. "I wish he'd come back," she said. "If he does not return soon I will call upon the motorman. I suppose he is responsible for the safety of the passengers while his mate is away."

The mention of the motorman made her companion turn around to see where that person was stationed, and he was somewhat surprised to find that he had impressed two horses belonging to another truckman and, with the combined teams, was making a vigorous effort to pull the obstruction from the track. This strenuous proceeding alarmed the man, and he turned quickly to the girl.

"Letty, I want you to listen!" he cried. "This might be the only chance I will get to explain."

The noise outside increased.

"Go ahead!" screamed the driver, as the four horses strained and struggled. "Keep it up! Keep it up!"

"Letty!" The man seized both hands now and tried to turn her face toward him. "I want to tell you—"

"Use the whip!" yelled the driver. His shrill shriek ripped through the car and drowned the man's voice.

The girl turned toward the window, and the fur boa on her shoulders shook suspiciously. The man had a dim idea that she was laughing.

"Letty!" The man was desperate. "I—I love you."

A loud yell of triumph came from the driver, and a merry peal of laughter from the girl helped the echoes as they buzzed around the car. The noise was tremendous. The driver's yells were deafening, and the shouts of the motorman and the truckman told the man that the work of removing the obstruction was nearly finished. He took one hasty glance at the moving truck and, springing back, quickly seized the laughing girl in his arms.

"There!" he cried triumphantly as he kissed the blushing face. "And there! And there again!" And over the girl's muffled laughter and protests came a victorious cheer from the motorman and the two truck drivers, informing the two passengers that the truck was clear at last.

Three minutes afterward the conductor kicked the snow from his boots and gave the "Go ahead!" signal to the elated motorman, and the car moved off. As they passed the disabled truck the man pointed to the name painted in red letters on its side, and the girl read, "John Love, Truckman."

"One of Dan Cupid's aliases," whispered her companion. "And the blush on her face made the beauty loving conductor stare at her for the rest of the journey to the infinite delight of the man.

The Fife.

It is said by some that we owe the fife—"ear piercing," as Shakespeare calls it—to the Swiss, and Sir James Turner, who busied himself in writing on military matters, names it the "Alpine whistle." In France it was employed at least as early as 1534, in which year it was ordered by Francis I. that each band of 1,000 men was to have four drums and two fifes.

A few years later in England we find "drommes and fifies" included in the muster of London citizens. Shakespeare refers to the musician, not the instrument, when he speaks in "The Merchant of Venice" of "the vile squealing of the wry-necked fife." An old writer observes, indeed, that a "fife is a wry-necked musician, for he looks away from his instrument." About the reign of James II. the fife lost its popularity for a time, Sir James Turner observing, "With us any captain may keep a fife in his company and maintain him, too, for no pay is allowed him, perhaps just as much as he deserves."—Chambers' Journal.

Wanted Browning.

He was evidently a German, and his speech didn't belie the fact. He caught the attention of the librarian.

"Blease, I vant a book," he said. "What book?" she asked.

"Boetry," he replied.

"Who is the author?"

He looked troubled.

"Blease, I haf forgot it," he said, "but his name begins mit 'P.'"

"Poe?" asked the obliging girl.

"Not Poe," he answered.

"Not Bope."

His face brightened up.

"He is der feller dot wroite 'In a Palceny,' he said.

"Why, that was Browning."

"Sure, Prowning," he repeated. "I couldn't remember, but I knew dot it commenced mit a 'P.'—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Cave Full of Bones.

In the Isle of Egg, one of the Hebrides, is a cave into which one can hardly creep on hands and knees. Inside it widens enormously and runs down to the terrific depth of 250 feet. To this day the bottom is strewn thick with human bones, the relics of the whole clan of Macdonalds, over 200 in number, who were miserably suffocated by the Macleods from the island of Skye.

This tragedy is supposed to have occurred in the thirteenth century.

MUCH LOOT UNEARTHED

Robber Baker Operated Over a Wide Range of Territory

Boston, Feb. 24.—Government inspectors located at the Hotel Essex a quantity of loot in the room formerly occupied by James A. Baker, the self-confessed murderer and postoffice robber who has operated all over the country, and who was arrested in New York after a 7000-mile chase last week.

A suit case nearly filled with postal money order blanks from various sections, a number of tickets on western railroads, time tables, several hundred dollars' worth of mileage books and a considerable quantity of wearing apparel were found in Baker's room. Some of the articles were found stuffed into the mattresses, and, in fact, the entire room revealed loot hidden in all manner of places.

The discovery, the inspectors believe, will furnish the evidence for connecting Baker with a long series of postoffice frauds, burglaries and robberies, stretching from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

King Not Keeping His Word

Brussels, Feb. 24.—The situation about the annexation to Belgium of the Congo Independent State is again assuming a disquieting aspect. It is said that King Leopold now demands that the special fund which was to replace the crown domain be placed under his control and not under that of parliament, as originally agreed. He asks also that $50,000,000 be placed at his disposal to carry out various projects. It is understood that the government is firmly resisting these demands.

Snap-Shots Displeased Count

Plymouth, Eng., Feb. 24.—Count and Countess Szechenyi, accompanied by William K. Vanderbilt, landed from the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria and at once proceeded to London, where they will remain for several days. The bridal couple travelled under the name of Brown, but their identity was early known to their fellow-travelers. Frequently other passengers took snapshots of them, much to the annoyance of the count, which he did not attempt to conceal.

Cannon Fit For Presidency

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 24.—Congressman Longworth of Cincinnati was the principal speaker at the annual Washington's birthday banquet of the Creve Coeur club. He paid a high compliment to Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and, while admitting his pledge to Ohio's favorite son, personally spoke in commendatory terms of the Illinois congressman's fitness for the presidency.

Backing President's Program

New York, Feb. 24.—A resolution which was adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of the Navy League of the United States deprecates "any action by congress materially changing the program presented by the navy department and approved by the president, particularly with respect to disturbing the relative proportions of types and vessels recommended."

Australia Wants Visit From Fleet

Melbourne, Feb. 24.—Australia wants the American fleet of battleships now on its way to San Francisco to come to this country. The government has sent a letter to President Roosevelt inviting the fleet to visit the chief Australian ports, in the hope that "such a visit would mark a new era in the history of this part of the world." As yet no reply has been received.

Big Liner Would Not Take Water

Belfast, Feb. 24.—The attempt made to launch the Rotterdam, the 24,170-ton steamer of the Holland-American line, proved a failure. The liner refused to take the water, the ways not having been properly greased. The launching has now been postponed for a fortnight. 300 men in the meantime being employed to watch the vessel for fear of accident.

Boom in Railroad Shops

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 24.—At the Baltimore and Ohio shops and roundhouses in this city nearly all the furloughed men, besides a number of car repairers, have been called back to work. Some of the men have been required to work overtime in getting out freight locomotives, work on which was suspended about the first of the year.

Train Struck Wrecking Car

Washington, Feb. 24.—A passenger train struck a wrecking car a short distance beyond Bowie, Md. Six people were injured, none very seriously. The passenger train was able to proceed to Baltimore after a short delay. A freight wreck occurred near Bowie. Laborers were sent to the scene and the passenger train dashed into the wreck.

Punishment Proves Too Severe

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—Nicholas Tschalkovsky, representative of the Russian revolutionists, who was arrested and sent to a fortress last December, has broken down under solitary confinement. It is stated that he is racked by fever and nervous conditions which give warning of no distant mental derangement.

Total Wreck of Steamer

Turks Island, Feb. 24.—Steamer Beta, Halifax for Bermuda, Turks Island and Kingston, was totally wrecked off here. The crew and passengers were rescued and part of the cargo will probably be saved. The steamer was of 677 tons.

Labor of Women
And Children

Rev. Alfred R. Atwood of the Quincy Point church dealt with one phase of the labor question on Sunday, when he took for his subject "The social salvation of society and the worth of a man." He said in part:

"Grievous evils have arisen as a product of women's toil. In countries where women and children work with the least question and the most approval, wages are reduced to such a point that it requires the combined labor of all the working members of the family to support that family. The general effect of woman in labor outside of the family has been to lower the wages among men.

"It is not alone that the interests of the individual woman is at stake but it is the future of the nation that is wrapped up in her future. Overworked and underfed men constitute a menace but overworked and underfed women are a moral peril and a physical disaster.

"For the social salvation of society the church and Christian people need to advocate the companionship of women in the home rather than the competition of women in business. God made her for a 'helpmeet' to prepare and share man's meat in his home. God made her not for man's factory to become a machine but for a blessed companion.

"Women are not to be blamed for engaging in competitive labor. In most instances they are driven to it by the necessity of self-support. That is, women are obliged to become man's competitive laborers because of the apparent bashfulness or backwardness of single men. For example, in the city of Rochester, N. Y., the census of 1900 showed 25,219 men between the ages of 25 and 44, and of this number 7,355 were unmarried. There were 28,218 women of the same ages, of which 8,109 were unmarried. If these men would live the way God intended they should the labor market at large would be sapped of the over-supply of competitive labor, which would mean a general raise of masculine wages sufficient to support a home. The social salvation of society depends upon carrying into action the Creator's intention for man.

"The social salvation of society depends also upon the protection of children. In the United States today there are employed 2,000,000 children under 16 years of age. If these were eliminated from the labor supply there would not be a man fitted for work who would not find his opportunity.

"Wicked as is the effect of child labor upon the boy, it is still more alarming in the case of the girl. The possible wife and mother has the reserved vitality of her womanhood stolen from her before that womanhood has dawned. It is the pledge of degeneration for the race in the next generation.

"Notwithstanding our laws in the coal mines and cotton mills of the north and south, the life blood of the races is being offered upon the altars of greed. Nor is it alone due to employers. It is quite as much due to parents who falsify both the ages of the child and the time it has spent in school.

"Child labor is the enemy of personal and public health. It prevents that degree of education that will make the child available; it robs the child of the opportunity for normal human development.

"Realizing the greed of modern commercialism, there is a need of the church and a need of every Christian to raise the standard of human values and to plead for the social salvation of every man, woman and child of society. Knowing the facts, if we stand idle and see young lives blighted, we shall be held answerable in the sight of God."

Larceny Charged.

Martin Bigelow aged 27 years and Charles J. Stewart aged 23 years, well known in South Quincy, were arrested Saturday night by Inspector McKay and Officer Broberg, for breaking and entering and larceny from the store of Miss Christina Booth on Liberty street. The store was entered Wednesday night and a quantity of cigars and tobacco taken. Some of these goods were recovered at the homes of the two men.

They are also charged with the larceny of a coat, sweater, stick pin, two pairs of gloves and cuff buttons from Electa hall on the night of Feb. 20. Some of these goods belonged to Frank Johnson of Baintree and the others to Olaf Keranen of Somerville. The police claim that Bigelow was wearing Johnson's coat when arrested, and that the sweater and cuff buttons were found in Stewart's house.

—Save the broken lens; we can match it. We grind them at 1473 Hancock st., Quincy. You may watch the operation. Williams Tel. 279-3.

Shipyard Team
Lose Holiday Game

A fast game of foot ball was played on the holiday at the Fore River grounds between the Fore Rivers and the Howard and Bullough team of Pawtucket, R. I., in the New England league. The warm sun made the field muddy with the result that the players were covered with mud from head to foot before the game was finished. The game was a close one and was won by the visitors by a score of 2 to 0. The score:

Holiday Basket Ball.

There were two games of basket ball at the High school gymnasium on the afternoon of the holiday. The first was between the Quincy High and Abington first team, and resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 27 to 14. The second game was between the Quincy High second and Boston College second teams. The visitors won by a score of 17 to 10.

Holiday Fire.

The alarm from Box 75 at 2.46 Saturday morning was for a lively fire in the house of Sim Silverman 105 Summer street. The fire started in the bath room and was probably caused by someone throwing a lighted cigarette among a lot of clothing. The interior of the bath room was badly scorched. The damage is estimated at $75.

How They Met.

(Original.)

Edward Pemberton was scanning a newspaper at his club when his eye lit upon the following death notice:

Fairweather.—Augustus C. Fairweather. Funeral from his late residence, 74 Du Pont avenue, at 11 a. m. Thursday, April 16.

"Singular," mused Pemberton, "that there is no age put in. I suppose I must go. His mother would never forgive me if I stayed away."

He looked at his watch and, seeing that he had just time to reach the house before the ceremony, left the club and proceeded thither, arriving at the obsequies were beginning. Directly opposite him sat a very pretty young woman, on whom his eyes were riveted all through the services. When they were over and the family and intimate friends were entering the carriages to follow the dead to the cemetery Pemberton saw the lady who had caught his fancy handed into the last carriage in the train. He stepped to the carriage, was ushered in by the attendant, the door was closed and the carriage driven away. There was no one inside except the lady and Mr. Pemberton.

It is not to be supposed that a lady and gentleman will drive several miles alone together without a word. In this instance it was incumbent on the lady to speak first, and she did so.

"I noticed," she said, "that the age of the deceased was omitted from the death notice. Do you know how old he was?"

"I noticed that myself," replied Pemberton, a bit flustered. "Gus was always sensitive about his age, and I dare say he left it out on purpose."

The lady looked at him wonderingly.

"I mean," added Pemberton hastily—"I suppose that the family, knowing of his preference in the matter, omitted it."

"One of the Fairweathers wrote a delightful novel, I believe, 'Her Conquest.'"

"Martin Fairweather. He had great talents. It's a pity he was cut off while entering on a brilliant career."

"Was 'Her Conquest' a posthumous work?"

"No," replied Pemberton; "he was forming plans how to follow up the situation. 'I think he wrote it before he died.'"

Again the lady looked up suddenly, and Pemberton explained that he meant the book was published while the author was yet living.

"Are you an intimate friend of the family?" she asked.

"No, Gus' mother and mine are very dear friends. I have known Gus fairly well, but not intimately. And you, I suppose you are close to him?"

"A very distant relative, though I confess I scarcely know them."

On the way home Pemberton ventured to ask permission to call upon the lady, which was granted. She introduced him to her family as an intimate friend of the Fairweathers whom she had met at Augustus Fairweather's funeral. It happened that several friends who saw her with her new devotee asked her where she had met him. Stories grow by telling, and at last she explained that he was a friend of her cousin, poor Gus Fairweather, who had recently died.

But a few months had passed before there was an engagement between Pemberton and Miss Anita Brown, the lady he had met at the Fairweather funeral. The courtship being short and Mr. Pemberton being known to very few of Miss Brown's friends, the engagement occasioned great surprise among them. The first question always was "Where did she meet him?" and the reply always was: "He was a bosom friend of Gus Fairweather, and the Fairweathers, you know, are close kin to the Browns. They first saw each other while poor Gus was being lowered in the grave. Wasn't it a melancholy meeting to result in such a happy event?"

One day some months later Pemberton and his wife were walking together when suddenly the former stopped and stood stock still. He was white as a sheet and trembled all over, looking straight before him.

"Edward!" gasped his bride. "What is it?"

Pemberton put his hand to his brow. "Am I all right? Do I dream?"

"Oh, Edward!"

Meanwhile a young man approached and called: "Hello, Pemberton! How are you? This is the lady, I suppose. I've heard all about it. Met at my uncle's funeral. Am glad the old dunder brought some happiness before he died. He never did while he lived."

"Where were you when your uncle—died?" stammered Pemberton.

"In Europe. Didn't know anything about it till I got home. And how do you suppose I first heard it? Why, at being told of the romantic attachment that had been started between Ned Pemberton and Miss Anita Brown while weeping over the old fellow's grave!"

"There was no age mentioned in the notice."

"Age? Nobody knew. He was old as the hills!"

By this time Pemberton had regained his equanimity, and Mrs. Pemberton, who had never seen Fairweather, knew that a mistake had been made.

"Come and see us," she said.

"Do," added her husband.

"We shall always feel an interest in your uncle's demise," said Pemberton. "since his interment was the means of bringing us together."

The trio became very intimate, but Fairweather never knew that the Pembertons had supposed they had attended his own funeral.

The Mock Trial.

The mock trial entitled "The Great Umbrella Case," to be held by the local council No. 96, K. of C., in Music hall is exciting wide comment. The principals in the cast are in themselves, because of their popularity, sufficient to excite the keenest interest. The cast has been working under the experienced eye of Mr. Daniel E. Bower, for the last few weeks, and, owing to his wide knowledge of amateur theatricals, the whole company has reached a point well nigh perfect.

The cast is composed of the following: Mr. C. C. Hearn will be the judge; John W. MacAnarney, Esq., the prosecuting attorney; Charles J. MacGillivray, Esq., the prisoner's counsel; Joseph A. Callahan, the clerk; Dennis J. Crowley, the sheriff; Mayor William T. Shea, the plaintiff; and Dr. Daniel B. Reardon will be the prisoner. The jury is composed of professional and business men well known about the city, while the witnesses include many young men who have been seen in amateur performances which have been successfully produced in the past by local clubs.

Quincy Firm Has Contract

A. M. Dean & Co., of Quincy have just received the contract for a $1,500 monument to mark the resting place of George Dixon, the great colored boxer, subscribed by the sporting men of the country. Joe Humphries of New York was chairman of the committee.

The base, which will be six feet square, will be made of dark granite. The statue of the great little boxer will be made of standard bronze, 6 feet 6 inches in height. It will show Dixon full length, attired in boxing clothes, with the right hand resting on the hip and the left hanging by the side.

On the bronze plate, which will be placed on the base, will be the following inscription: "Erected in memory of George Dixon by the sporting public of America."

The names of the committee will also be on the plate.

Mr. Humphries also purchased a plot 7 by 13 feet on the corner of Maple and Lake avenues, in Mt. Hope cemetery, and Dixon's body will be removed to this plot, at the head of which will stand the monument.

There will be ceremonies at the unveiling, and Mr. Humphries will have charge of them. It is expected that there will be a large gathering of friends and sporting men present.

No Agreement Is Expected

Although the committees representing the Granite Manufacturers Association and the Granite Cutter's Union have not reached an agreement, there will probably be no strike in Quincy on Monday. The matter will probably go to the National Board of Arbitration for settlement.

Under the agreement there can be no strike, lockout or suspension of business if this board is appealed to, and their finding on the questions under dispute must be accepted by both sides.

The bones of contention between the two associations is the open shop, apprentices, and increase of wages. But of all these the question of whether there shall be open shops in Quincy or whether the manufacturers shall employ none but union men is the most vital.

Alpha Club Banquet.

The Alpha club of West Quincy held its third annual banquet on Monday evening at the Greenleaf. There was a good attendance of members and several guests. After dinner, an adjournment was made to the parlors where there was an hour of sociability. The menu included mock turtle soup, boiled salmon, duchess potatoes, lettuce, roast turkey, spaghetti, vegetables, ice cream, cake, crackers, cheese and black coffee.

The Morning Fire.

The alarm from Box 37 at 7.28 this morning was for a fire in Pinel block at 70 Franklin street, in the apartment occupied by Mrs. Aurille Hubert. The fire was caused by an oil stove which was thrown out of the window. The damage was slight.

POSTAL DELIVERY

Expected to Be Improved
By Consolidation
With Boston

While Quincy people regret that Quincy cannot retain its own individuality, as far as its post office is concerned, the consolidation with out Quincy and Braintree. There may be also earlier and later collections.

As far as the clerical force is concerned there will probably be no reduction. If anything the clerical force at the Quincy office will be increased.

All of the employees in the Boston office are working on an eight-hour basis, but in Quincy it is the carriers only who are on this basis, the clerks working much longer.

At the Milton offices which come under Boston, the clerks are on the eight-hour basis which would seem to indicate that the same rule will go into force in Quincy.

At the present time Quincy's clerical force is none too large, and if the eight-hour basis is established several additional clerks will be necessary.

Outside of the offices at Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic, Braintree and POSTMASTER HAMMOND.

Boston, will undoubtedly mean progress as in other suburban cities taken in.

The great benefit to Quincy will come in the carrier service which will undoubtedly be increased. Where some parts of the city only have two deliveries at present it is expected there will be three deliveries through-

South Braintree there are eight sub-stations in the present Quincy district.

The offices mentioned above will remain as independent stations, but the sub-stations will be given new numbers. Under the new schedule the several sub-stations will be numbered as follows:

No. 149—West Quincy.
No. 150—Quincy Point.
No. 151—Houghs Neck.
No. 152—Norfolk Downs.
No. 153—South Quincy.
No. 154—Quincy Neck.
No. 155—East Braintree.
No. 156—Brewers corner.

These stations are now numbered from 7 to 8 inclusive.

Postmaster Hammond will personally be the loser for his salary will be slashed. It is now over $3,000, and he expects it will be reduced nearly one half as superintendent. But he will be in the Boston district and in line for promotion to the Boston office.

Under the consolidation, instead of getting supplies and making reports to Washington they will be made to Boston.

PARKWAY HEARING

Mayor Shea
And Others
Advocate an Appropriation

Representative Hultman of Quincy opened the case Monday forenoon before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs in support of the petition of the Quincy city government, by Mayor Shea, for an act to authorize the Metropolitan Park Commission to complete Furnace brook parkway to Quincy, and for a roadway in the Quincy Shore reservation and to improve the shores of Quincy bay. The bill with the last petition carries an appropriation of $30,000 and the former carries authority to expend $225,000.

Mr. Hultman said that the proposed parkway has a dead end and is of very little use, because people cannot get on it.

Representative Keene of Somerville one of the committee, said that the figures showed that Quincy had an exceptionally large amount of land taken for parks, and he thought the city had been unusually favored.

Mr. Hultman replied that it was true that a large amount of land had been taken for Metropolitan parks and removed from taxation, but the land is not available for public uses by the people of Quincy.

Ex-Representative Fallon of Quincy asked Mr. Hultman what right he had to make any such statement about the feeling of the people of Quincy. Mr. Hultman said he got it by mixing with the people, just as he presumed Mr. Fallon got his ideas.

Mayor Shea of Quincy then told of the desire of the people of Quincy to avoid the dead end of the present parkway. There is a break of 600 feet at the Boston end. The city wants the district to complete the driveway of six miles and a half. The reason $30,000 is wanted is because there is a bridge to be built and that makes it expensive for 600 feet. There is a strong public sentiment for this improvement. It is desired that the driveway be completed, making a good drive along the shore and into the Blue hills. There has been some $600,000 spent on this system and what already built ought to be made available by finishing this part of the chain.

Ex-Representative Fallon of Quincy said he was a member of the House when the appropriation of $3,000,000 for five years was made for the district. It is time now to finish the system. Today there are three missing links in the system. No better drive exists anywhere than on Quincy shore, but it cannot be reached except through cow pastures. It is

WOODBURY HEARING

Defense Not Expected to Introduce Any Evidence

TO SEEK RELEASE ON BAIL

Claim That Life Would Be Jeopardized if He Remains in Jail—Medical Expert Declares That the Woman Might Have Strangled

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 25.—Herbert Woodbury, the husband of Phoebe M. Woodbury, whose dead body was found in a room of the Foxcroft Exchange hotel last Tuesday, will be given a hearing in Dover today on the charge of murder. The indications are that Woodbury's attorneys will make every effort to induce the prosecution to disclose all the evidence that has been secured in the case. It is not expected that the defense will introduce evidence at this time, but that should the case of the prosecution prove strong enough to warrant holding Woodbury, his counsel will ask that he be admitted to bail.

To assist C. W. Brown of Foxcroft, who has been the attorney of Woodbury for many years, Forrest Goodwin of Skowhegan has been called to the defense of Woodbury. Goodwin arrived in Foxcroft last night and spent the evening in consultation with Brown.

In the event that a plea is made for the admission of Woodbury to bail it is understood that counsel for the defense will cite as a precedent the case of Mrs. Alice Cooper, who was arrested at South Windham in October, 1905, for the murder of Charles Northley, Jr. Mrs. Cooper was admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000 and was never committed to jail after the preliminary hearing. Counsel for the defense may assert that the state has no stronger case against Woodbury than it had against Mrs. Cooper. It is further declared that should Woodbury be kept in jail his health would suffer greatly and that he might not live for a trial. The heart trouble and rheumatism with which he is afflicted are said to have grown worse since his confinement in jail.

Assistant Attorney General Chubb is expected to assist County Attorney Burgess in the prosecution. The county attorney will also have the assistance of Martin L. Durbin, who was formerly county attorney of Piscataquis county. Durbin has been employed by relatives of Mrs. Woodbury to take part in the case.

Medical Examiner Magrath of Boston, who came here to make an examination of the body of Mrs. Woodbury at the request of the defense, completed his work last night. He had intended to return to Boston last evening, but later decided to remain over. Neither Magrath nor the attorneys for the defense would make public the result of his investigation, but it was said that he did not agree with the physicians who conducted the autopsy in regard to the condition of the dead woman's throat.

Drs. Buck and Hall, who took part in the autopsy, are said to have testified at the coroner's inquest that the fact that the windpipe was not constricted indicated that death was not caused by the loop of rope which was around the woman's neck.

The prosecution claims that the woman's death could not have been caused by strangulation due to the rope around her neck, because her windpipe was found open when the physicians for the state made an autopsy on the body. Dr. Magrath said regarding this claim:

"It is an error to assume that a person's windpipe is always constricted or closed after death by strangulation. The windpipe has been found open in the case of many persons who have been hanged."

Says Roosevelt Wants Nomination

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 25.—Delegate Dick, in the legislature last night, dissented vigorously from the action of the caucus of the Republican members of the legislature in endorsing the president and his policies and favoring the candidacy of Taft for the presidency. He declared that the president's whole advocacy of Taft "is a humbugging attempt to blind the public" to the intention of the president to bolt the Republican national convention in favor of himself for a third term. He defied his fellow Republicans to answer him, but received no response.

Railroad Men on Trial

Charleston, Ill., Feb. 25.—Judge Groschup of the United States circuit court at Chicago, four directors, the superintendent and two motormen of the Central Illinois Traction company were arraigned here for criminal negligence and manslaughter. The eight men were indicted as a result of a collision when a passenger car crashed into a freight car. Fifteen persons were killed and fifty-three injured. All the accused pleaded not guilty.

A Live Snake Necklace

New York, Feb. 25.—Live boas as an adornment to a pretty neck was the society fad introduced by Mrs. James Enstis, who "wore" a live 14-foot snake about her shoulders at Mrs. Waldorf Astor's entertainments for the benefit of the poor mountaineers of Virginia given in the ballroom of the Plaza. The serpentine necklace swayed sinuously while its wearer posed as "An Oriental Queen" in tableaux vivants.

AMERICAN CONGRESS.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10.

THE hour having arrived which the President appointed, Mr. SPEAKER, attended by the members present, proceeded to the President's house to present him their address in answer to his speech at the opening of the present session; and having returned the President's reply thereto was read as follows:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: THIS very respectful address from the representatives of the people of the United States, at their first assembly, after a fresh election, under the strong impression of the public opinion and national sense, at this interesting and singular crisis of our public affairs, has excited my sensibility and receives my sincere and grateful acknowledgments.

As long as we can maintain with harmony and affection, the honor of our country, confidently with its peace, externally and internally, while that is attainable, or in war, when that becomes necessary—as asserts its real independence and sovereignty, and support the constitutional energies and dignity of its government—we may be perfectly sure under the smiles of Divine Providence, that we shall effectually promote and extend our national interests and happiness.

The applause of the Senate and House of Representatives, so justly bestowed upon the volunteers and militia, for their zealous and active co-operation with the judicial power, which has reformed order and submission to the laws, as it comes with peculiar weight from the Legislature, cannot fail to have an extensive and permanent effect, for the support of government upon all those ingenious minds, who receive delight from the approving and animating voice of their country.

JOHN ADAMS.

And then the House adjourned until tomorrow morning, 11 o'clock.

Mr. Josiah Parker and Mr. Robert Page, from Virginia, appeared on Monday, were qualified and took their seats.

Mr. Speaker, on Monday, laid before the House, a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, enclosing a statement of his accounts for the year '99. Ordered to lie on the table.

Messrs. Harper, Griswold, Otis, Gallahan, Powell, John Brown, Stone, Nott and Platt, were appointed a standing committee of Ways and Means.

Messrs. Harper, C. Goodrich, Bayard, Marshall and Sewall, were appointed a committee, in pursuance of a resolution passed on Monday, relative to the revision and amendment of the judiciary system.

SENATE.

This day at 12 o'clock, the Senate in a body waited on the President of the United States, with the following address, in answer to his speech to both Houses:

TO THE

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. ACCEPT, Sir, the respectful acknowledgments of the Senate of the United States, for your Speech delivered to both Houses of Congress at the opening of the present session.

While we devoutly join you in offering our thanks to Almighty God for the return of health to our cities, and for the general prosperity of our country; we cannot refrain from lamenting that the arts and calumnies of factious and designing men, have excited open rebellion a second time in Pennsylvania, and thereby compelled the employment of a military force to aid the civil authority in the execution of the laws. We rejoice that your vigilance, energy and well timed exertions, have crushed so daring an opposition, and prevented the spreading of such treasonable combinations. The promptitude and zeal displayed by the troops called to suppress this insurrection deserves our highest commendation and praise, and affords a pleasing proof of the spirit and alacrity with which our fellow citizens are ready to maintain the authority of our excellent government.

* Knowing as we do, that the United States are sincerely anxious for a fair and liberal execution of the treaty of amity, commerce and navigation entered into with Great Britain; we learn with regret, that the progress of adjustment has been interrupted by a difference of opinion among the commissioners. We hope, however, that the justice, the moderation, and the obvious interest of both parties will lead to satisfactory explanations, and that the business will then go forward to an amicable close of all the differences and demands between the two countries. We are fully persuaded that the Legislature of the United States will cheerfully enable you to realize your assurances of performing on our part, all engagements with punctuality and the most scrupulous good faith.

When we reflect upon the late uncertainty of the result of the late mission to France; and upon the uncommon nature, extent, and aspect of the war now raging in Europe; which effects materially our relations with the powers at war, and which has changed the condition of those colonies our neighborhood; we are of opinion with you, that it would be neither wise or safe to relax our measures of defence, or to lessen any of our preparations to repel aggression.

Our enquiries and attention should be carefully directed to the various other important subjects which you have recommended to our consideration; and from our experience of your past administration we anticipate with the highest confidence your strenuous co-operation in all measures which have a tendency to promote and extend our national interest and happiness.

To which the President made the following

REPLY

Gentlemen of the Senate. I thank you for this address. I wish you all possible success and satisfaction in your deliberations on the means, which have a tendency to promote and extend our national interest and happiness, and I assure you that in all our measures directed to those great objects you may at all times rely with the highest confidence on my cordial co-operation.

The praise of the Senate so judiciously conferred on the promptitude and zeal of the troops, called to suppress the insurrection, as it falls from so high authority, must make a deep impression, both as a terror to the disobedient and an encouragement to such as do well.

NEW-YORK, December 23.

By the arrival of the Factor from Falmouth we are put in possession of London papers to the 30th of October, inclusive, from which we make the following selections.

LONDON, Oct. 18.

WE learn from private letters, that the accounts brought by the Inspector of the floor of war, and which we stated some days ago, were so far founded, that a partial engagement had taken place. Gen. Daendels, on the 10th, attacked in person the right wing of the British forces under an advanced post near Winkle, under the command of Prince William of Gloucester, with at least 6000 men and 6 pieces of cannon and endeavored with every exertion to force his post. To resist this formidable attack, his highness had only 1100 men, chiefly consisting of the 35th regiment and 2 pieces of cannon with which he forced the Dutch general to retreat, with the loss of one French general and 200 men killed. At the moment of this victory we have to lament that his highness seeing a body of 4000 Dutch troops rapidly advancing upon his left to support Daendels, he was under the necessity of falling back to Colhorn, where the troops remained all night on their arms, and the whole of the day following in fight of the enemy, without his attempting any farther attack. His highness upon this occasion lost only one man killed and nine wounded. During the action he had his horse shot under him, but himself received no injury, although exposed to the greatest personal danger under a heavy fire, being frequently in the front of the line, animating by his example the exertions of his troops, upon which on this and every other occasion where the British arms are brought into action it is impossible to bestow too much praise.

The Hamburg mail due on Sunday last arrived this morning. It brings accounts of the events which took place in Switzerland in the latter end of Sept. except only those which relate to Marshal Suwarow of which we have no positive information. The Arch Duke, it appears, was rapidly advancing to repair the evils which had been occasioned by his absence. His force we know, by private letters, to consist of 26000 men, with which he was at Schaffhausen on the 2d. The army of Conde, consisting of 6000 men was the same day at Stotch.

The forces joined to the Bavarians and to the corps of Gen. Korsakow, are it must be allowed, more than sufficient to secure that part of Germany from all danger. We rejoice at seeing the conjectures which we have from the first instance averred, respecting the probable consequences of the victory of Maffina, thus confirmed.

The Hamburg mail which became due on Wednesday, had not arrived when this paper went to press.

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE, Downing-street, Oct. 19, 1799. Dispatches, of which the following are a copy and extracts, have been received from Lieutenant Colonel Ramsay and Lieutenant Colonel H. Clinton, by the Right Hon. Lord Greenville, his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Foreign Department.

Extract of a Dispatch from Lieutenant Colonel Ramsay to Lord Greenville, dated Head-Quarters Schaffhausen, September 30.

My Lord,

It is with extreme concern I inform your Lordship, that an attack has been made on the Allied army, the result of which has been favorable to the enemy. The combined operations of the Allies, of which your Lordship is already informed, were intended to have taken place on the 26th and 27th; and six battalions of the army commanded by General Korsakoff, were marched to Uznach on the 27th, for the purpose of increasing the force destined to act in that quarter. The enemy, who was no doubt, apprised of this circumstance, attacked the Russian army on the 25th, at a very early hour in the morning; a brisk attack of musketry was heard on our left in the neighborhood of Wallishosen, accompanied by a cannonade on our right, which appeared to proceed from the neighborhood of Baden. The attack on our left was merely intended for the purpose of drawing the attention from the true point; and the enemy passed the Limmat in great force in the neighborhood of Weinangen, between Zurich and Baden. By this manoeuvre they broke the line in that quarter, and from the army the eight battalions of Gens, Markoff and Durasoff, who were stationed between Weinangen and the Rhine; had, after leaving a corps for the purpose of observing and attacking them they ascended the Limmat towards Zurich. A regiment of dragoons, being in consequence of the detachments that had been sent away, and the troops that had been drawn to the left, the only force remaining in that part where the passage was effected, the enemy advanced and arrived in the neighborhood of Zurich before they experienced any resistance of consequence; the plain in front of Zurich between the Limmat and the heights, which running parallel to the Limmat, form a continuation of the Aldra to the N. West, being occupied at the same time by a line of their infantry and cavalry, who with a very numerous train of artillery attacked with great vigor the troops in front of Zurich, and prevented their detaching to the right the point on which the great efforts of the enemy were directed.

* At a late hour in the forenoon some reinforcements arrived on this side of the Limmat, but the enemy were already masters of some of the principal heights which command the town; and notwithstanding the bravery displayed by the Russians in their repeated attacks, the superiority in point of force and position on the side of the French rendered it impossible for them to regain that which had been lost. At sunset the French had made themselves masters of part of Zurich Berg and nearly surrounded the town. The attack on the position of General Horze had terminated rather in favor of the Austrians; but Gen. Horze was unfortunately killed at the commencement of the action and Gen. Petrasch who succeeded to the command of the army, having resolved in consequence of the loss he had sustained, to avoid the attack which he expected the next morning, retreated in the night from Uznach. The situation of the Russian army was thus rendered still more critical, and it became absolutely necessary to abandon Zurich, and the position in that neighborhood without delay. On the 26th in the morning the retreat took place, and the whole arrived in the course of that night in the neighborhood of Eglisau and Schaffhausen without experiencing any loss of consequence during their march. We have to regret the loss of between two and three thousand killed, wounded and missing; and ten pieces of cannon have, with a part of the baggage, fallen into the hands of the enemy. A nearly equal number of French cannon were taken by the Russians, but the want of horses, which prevented them from taking away their own, was the cause of their being also obliged to leave these. The army under the command of General Korsakoff is at present posted with its right to Eggen, and its left to the Lake of Constance. By a letter just arrived from Field Marshal Suwarow, it appears that he has taken the Mount Saint Gothard, and is at present advancing towards Aultorf and Schwyz.

I have the honor to be, &c.
(Signed) JOHN RAMSAY.

Extract of a Dispatch from Lieutenant Colonel Ramsay to Lord Greenville, dated Head-Quarters, Schaffhausen, September 30.

Your Lordship has already, no doubt, received accounts, through France, of the calamities which have befallen us in this country, in which our losses have most probably been exaggerated to a great degree. Aware of this I would if possible have sent your Lordship an earlier account; but it was impossible for me to give a correct statement of the real state of things, which was much worse to appearance when the army first arrived here than at present.

Gen. Petrasch has retreated from the different position between Uznach and Rheinech, where it is supposed he has already passed the Rhine, and this part of Switzerland may be considered as evacuated for the present; it is the more unfortunate as the successes of Field Marshal Suwarow would have rendered the success of the projected operation, if we had fortunately been able to retain our position. At present the Field Marshal's situation will be rendered very critical, if timely notice has not been received by him of the retreat of the armies. I am sorry to inform your Lordship, that from the reports I have received, there is reason to apprehend that the Swiss regiments of Bachman and Revore have suffered considerably. I have as yet had no exact accounts, and I will defer therefore making any report to your Lordship till another opportunity occurs, as I am in hopes their loss has been occasioned by dispersion, in which case it will probably every diminish.

Extract of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Henry Clinton, to Lord Greenville, dated Bellinzona, 8 pt. 16, 1799.

Having been directed by Lord Mulgrave to attend Field Marshal Suwarow on his march to Switzerland, and transmit to your Lordship accounts of the proceedings of this army, I have the honor to inform

ELKINS LAW STANDS

Important Decision by United States Supreme Court

A BLOW TO CORPORATIONS

Knocks Out One of Standard Oil Company's Contentions as to Why It Should Not Be Required to Pay Its $29,000,000 Fine

Washington, Feb. 25.—The question whether the railroad rate law, known as the Hepburn act, repeals section one of the Elkins act, prohibiting rebates by railroads was involved in the case of the Great Northern Railway company vs. the United States, which was decided by the supreme court of the United States against the railroad company and against the contention of such repeal.

The case was instituted in the United States district court for the District of Minnesota, which court fined the railroad $1000 each for fifteen violations of the first section of the Elkins law.

This decision settles one of the most important points raised under the Hepburn law. The Standard Oil company, which was fined $29,000,000, and other corporations claimed that the Hepburn act repealed the Elkins law. The supreme court says it does not.

The case referred to above first was passed upon by the district court for Minnesota and later by the United States court of appeals at Denver, both deciding in favor of the government. In its opinion the supreme court affirms the judgment of the district court for Minnesota and the circuit court of appeals against the Great Northern railroad in rebate cases.

The circuit court held that the Hepburn act is an amendatory act and not a repealing act, that in so far as it repeats or reproduces portions of the Elkins act, it continues them in force, and that in so far as it omits or changes provisions of the Elkins act it repeals them.

Even admitting the granting of rebates, the Great Northern contended at the trial, the Elkins act of 1903, making it an offense and fixing punishment for granting rebates, was repealed by the Hepburn act of 1906 in such a way that thereafter there could be no prosecution of offenses committed prior to the passage of the Hepburn law. The district court ruled against this contention of the railway company.

The circuit court of appeals held that the special saving clause in the Hepburn act does not mention the particular subject of the general saving clause in section 3 of the revised statutes of the United States, and as the special saving clause can have reasonable purpose and operation without infringing on the provisions of the general saving clause, it does not repeal the latter.

The case was originally a criminal prosecution against the Great Northern Railway company, and the offenses charged in the indictment consisted of granting rebates on each of fifteen distinct railroad shipments of coal and oil shipped by a Minneapolis dealer to Seattle in April, May, June and July, 1906.

The schedule of the railway at that time fixed the rate on these commodities at 50 cents for 100 pounds, and the rebates granted consisted of allowances ranging from 15 to 20 cents for 100 pounds.

There are more than a dozen other cases of great importance which are affected by the result of the decision handed down yesterday, notably four Kansas City cases, in which the Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Morris packing companies were each fined $15,000 for accepting rebates and the Standard Oil company's case involving the $29,000,000 fine.

Turned Down by Uncle Joe

Washington, Feb. 25.—The unusual spectacle of the committee on rules being overruled by its chairman, the speaker, on the floor of the house of representatives, was witnessed in that body, much to the discomfort of Mr. Dabzell, a member of the committee. Dabzell brought in a resolution providing for an investigation of peonage in the southern states, but the speaker held it was not privileged. Despite Dabzell's argument, the speaker refused to alter his decision and the resolution was recommitted.

Seventh Death Is Recorded

New York, Feb. 25.—Henry Deiterlein, 24 years old, died at Weehawken, N. J., of injuries received in the collision between a wagon and an express train at West Nyack. He was the seventh victim of the disaster. Another victim of the accident, Warren Palmer, is expected to die.

Receiver For Amusement Company

Pittsburg, Feb. 25.—Robert Hawk has been appointed receiver for the Coney Island Amusement company. The company owns a large summer resort along the Ohio river. It is capitalized at $1,200,000, but only $90,000 worth of stock has been issued and $60,000 worth paid for.

Famished Wolf on the Rampage

Chaffee, Mo., Feb. 25.—A famished wolf came out of a swamp near here and ran through the streets, biting three persons before it was killed. Allen Stokes was so severely bitten that he immediately started for St. Louis for treatment, fearing hydrophobia. Citizens shot the wolf.

LONDON, October 24. The Vienna Court Gazette of the 28th ult. relates, that Generals Melas and Kray on the 13th defeated the French at Savignana and Jano, with the loss of 1000 killed, and 900 taken prisoners; the Austrians losing 92 killed, 682 wounded and missing. On the same day the French lost 400 men under Gen. Thompson, in an unsuccessful attack upon a division of Austrian cavalry at Scalenga.

It is stated under the head Venice, Sept. 20, that the Neapolitan troops had taken Riccia by storm, and marched to join Gen. Crolich, who was advancing with a strong army from Tuscany against Rome. On the 15th Sept. Gen. Kleann was fifteen miles from Genoa. Ancona still held out. The French, it is said, are carrying their artillery from Genoa to Nice.

Received by the British Packet Princess Charlotte, from Falmouth.

Better than his Royal Highness the Archduke Charles.

Head Quarters, Denaberg, Oct. 7. The unfortunate occurrences in Switzerland being already sufficiently known, I shall confine myself at present merely to giving the outlines of them, and state the events which have taken place since.

On the 25th ult. the Russian corps under the command of Lieutenant General Korsakoff, on the Limmat, and the column of Field Marshal Lieut. Horze, on the Linth, near Uznach, were defeated by the enemy. The former corps retreated by way of Eggen, to the right bank of the Rhine, and the column of Field Marshal Lieut. Horze, on the 25th at St. Gall, into the district of Vorarlberg.

Field Marshal Prince Suwarow, was at Usteren, and General Außenberg, at Steig, on the 25th.

On the 26th Field Marshal Lieut. Linken defeated the enemy, and took prisoners two battalions, of 1300 men, with the whole of the Staff and other officers, and two bands of colours. On the 28th he advanced to Glarus; but not being able to open a communication, either to the right or to the left, he saw himself under the necessity to withdraw to the Grison country on the 29th.

Field Marshal Suwarow, and the brigade of General Außenberg having advanced as far as St. Gall, arrived at Glarus on the 1st of October, at not being able to effect a junction with any other corps, Field Marshal Suwarow was obliged to march to the Grison country.

Field Marshal Suwarow has, however, according to a circular letter which has been received this morning, defeated the enemy near Glarus and taken 1000 prisoners. At the same time, the column of the Imperial Russian general Rosenberg, made 1000 of the enemy prisoners near Mitten, and took several pieces of cannon; the enemy's loss in killed and wounded on this occasion, was likewise very considerable. (Signed) "CHARLES ARCHDUKE."

LONDON, October 24.

Evacuation of Holland.

No further advices from the Duke of York have been received since our last report. Col. Browning reached the Hellders on Saturday last, with the final instructions of government, it is probable a great part of our troops have ere this embarked on their return to England. Some of the Dutch loyalists are already arriving. Six hundred of them were brought over in the Alkmaar man of war, which arrived at Deal on Tuesday, where three other ships, full of people of the same description, were hourly expected, having sailed from their base in the North Sea.

The convention, by which the whole Russian army is to evacuate Holland, was signed on the 18th inst. and is to continue in force for six weeks from that date—a circumstance which has given rise to a supposition that the treaty embraces more objects than have yet been publicly expressed. If it bears relation merely to the evacuation of the country by our troops, and a general exchange of prisoners, the business might be done in as many days as are allowed weeks to accomplish it. The probability therefore is, that there are involved in the ratification some subjects, the nature of which may require a considerable time to adjust; but upon this topic we shall for the present decline any speculation, under the hope that a day or two will put us in possession of the fact.

All that is at present known to certain is, that we have agreed to evacuate Holland, without injuring either the arsenal or new Dien works; that all the enemy's guns are to be refitted; that the Hellders is to be left in the same condition in which we found it; and that the prisoners are reciprocally given up. It is understood that we are also to deliver up 3000 or 10,000 of the French prisoners now in England; but respecting this point we have as yet received no satisfactory information. Upon the whole, if we have the consideration of the humiliated situation in which the event of the expedition has unfortunately placed us, we shall find it little cause to regret the nature of the terms to which we have thus been induced to agree. The according to them was on our part dictated by the pure principle of humanity, and the laudable determination of saving our brave countrymen, by negotiation from the destruction which otherwise seemed to await them must be considered as paramount to every other feeling, whether of mistaken honor or national pride.

CONGRESS. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. THURSDAY, December 10.

Mr. Goode from Virginia was qualified and took his seat in the House.

Mr. Marshall with deep sorrow on his countenance, and in a low, pathetic tone of voice, rose and addressed the House as follows:

The melancholy event which was yesterday announced without doubt, has been rendered but too certain. Our Washington is no more! The hero, the sage, and the patriot of America—the man on whom in times of danger, every eye was turned, and all hopes were placed, lives now only in his own great actions, and in the hearts of an affectionate and afflicted people.

If, fir, it had not been usual, openly to testify respect for the memory of those whom heaven had selected as its instruments for dispensing good to man; yet, such has been the uncommon worth, and such the extraordinary incidents which have marked the life of him whose loss we all deplore, that the whole American nation impelled by the same feelings, would call with one voice for a public manifestation of that sorrow which is so deep and so universal.

More than any other individual and as much as to one individual was possible, has he contributed to found this our wide spreading empire, and to give to the Western world its independence and its freedom. Having affected the great object for which he was placed at the head of our armies, we have seen him convert the sword into the ploughshare and voluntarily sink the soldier in the citizen.

When the debility of our federal system had become manifest and the bonds which connected the parts of this vast continent were dissolving, we have seen him the chief of those Patriots who formed for us a Constitution, which by preserving the union, will, I trust, subvert and perpetuate those blessings our revolution had promised to bestow.

In obedience to the general voice of his country, calling on him to preface over a great people, we have seen him once more quit the retirement he loved, and in a season more stormy and tempestuous than war itself with calm and wise determination pursue the true interests of the nation and contribute more than any other could contribute to the establishment of that system of policy which will, I trust, yet preserve our peace, our honor, and our independence. Having been twice unanimously chosen the Chief Magistrate of a free people, we see him at a time when his rejection have been doubted, and the world a rare instance of moderation, by withdrawing from his high station to the peaceful walks of private life.

However, public confidence may change, and the public affections fluctuate with respect to others, yet with respect to him they have, in war and in peace, in public and in private life, been as steady as his own firm mind, and as constant as his own exalted virtues.

Let us then, Mr. Speaker, pay the last tribute of respect and affection to our departed friend. Let the grand council of the nation display those sentiments which the nation feels.

For this purpose, I hold in my hand some resolutions which I will take the liberty to offer to the house.

Resolved, That this House will wait on the President of the United States, in condolence of this mournful event.

Resolved, That the Speaker's chair be shrouded with black, and that the Members and Officers of the House wear black during the session.

Resolved, That a committee, in conjunction with one from the Senate, be appointed to confer on the most suitable manner of paying honor to the memory of the man, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his country.

Resolved, That this House when it adjourns, do adjourn to Monday.

These resolutions were unanimously agreed to. Sixteen members were appointed on the third resolution.

Generals Marshall and Smith were appointed to wait on the President to know at what time it would be convenient to receive the house.

Generals Marshall and Smith having waited on the President with the first resolution, reported, that the President would be ready to receive them at 1 o'clock Monday. The house accordingly waited on him.

The Speaker addressed the President the following words:

SIR, The House of Representatives, penetrated with a sense of the irreparable loss sustained by the nation, by the death of that great and good man, the illustrious and beloved Washington, wait on you, fir, to express their condolence on this melancholy and distressing event.

To which the President made the following Answer:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives I receive with great respect and affection the condolence of the House of Representatives on the melancholy and afflicting event in the death of the most illustrious and beloved personage which this country ever produced. I sympathize with you with the nation, and with good men throughout the world, in this irreparable loss sustained by us all.

JOHN ADAMS A message was received from the Senate informing the House that they had agreed to the appointment of a joint committee, to consider a suitable manner of paying honor to the memory of the man, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his country, and that they had appointed seven members to join a committee for that purpose. Adj'd till Monday.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE Senate of the United States respectfully take leave, fir, to express to you their deep regret for the loss their country has sustained in the death of General George Washington.—This event, so distressing to all our fellow citizens, must be peculiarly heavy to you, who have long been associated with him in deeds of patriotism. Permit us, fir, to mingle our tears with yours: on this occasion it is manly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis, is no common calamity to the world: our country mourns her Father. The Almighty Disposer of human events has taken from us our greatest Benefactor and ornament. It becomes us to submit with reverence to him, who "maketh darkness his Pavilion."

With patriotic pride, we review the life of our Washington, and compare him with those of other countries who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern names are diminished before him. Greatness and guilt have too often been allied, but his fame is whiter than it is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtue. It reposed the temperance of his ambition, and darkened the splendor of victory. The scales closed, and we are no longer anxious, lest misfortune should sully his glory; he has taken to the end of his journey, and carried with him an increasing weight of honor, he has deposited it safely, where misfortune cannot tarnish it—where malice cannot blast it. Favour of Heaven, he departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity; magnanimous in death, the darkness of the grave could not obscure his brightness.

Such was the man whom we deplore.—Thanks to God, his glory is consummated. Washington yet lives on earth in his spotless example—his spirit is in Heaven.

Let his countrymen consecrate the memory of the heroic General, the patriotic Statesman, and the virtuous Sage; let them teach their children never to forget that the fruits of his labours, and his example are their inheritance.

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

I receive with the most respectful and affectionate sentiments, in this impressive address, the obliging expressions of your regret, for the loss our Country has sustained in the death of her most esteemed and admired Citizen.

In the multitude of my thoughts and recollections, on this melancholy event, you will permit me only to say, that I have seen him in the days of Adversity, in some of the scenes of his deepest and most trying perplexities; I have also attended him in his highest elevation and most prosperous felicity, with uniform admiration of his wisdom moderation and constancy.

Among all our original associates, in the memorable League of the Continent in 1774, which first expressed the sovereign will of a Free Nation in America, he was the only one remaining in the General Government. Although, with a constitution more inflexible than adamant, at an age when he thought it necessary to prepare for retirement, I feel myself alone, bereaved of my last brother; yet I derive strong consolation from the Unanimous disposition, which appears in all ages and classes, to mingle their sorrows with mine, on this common calamity to the world.

The life of our WASHINGTON cannot suffer by a comparison with those of other countries, who have been most celebrated and exalted by Fame. The attributes and decorations of Royalty, could only have

EDITORIAL.

An interesting feature of the eight-of the entire four-page edition of the Utter County Gazette issued at Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1890. It contains a report of the funeral of George Washington. At that time

John Adams of Quincy was President of the United States and some of his communications to Congress are published in full in this number. The Gazette is in mourning for Washington. The page of advertisements will

Religious Press
For Warships

Let us have warships is the sentiment of a religious publication. The "Congregationalist" published in Boston, Feb. 22, comments editorially as follows:—

"The President has recommended
the construction of four new battleships. He is foremost among the world's advocates of peace, putting righteousness first. He knows what other nations are doing and planning.
He knows what measures are necessary, for our self-protection and for our greatest influence in preserving the peace of the world. Warships cannot be suddenly created. We believe that the President's urgent recommendation for four ships was made in good faith on the interest of peace."

"SUPREME COURT ERRED"

Gompers Takes Exceptions to Labor Decision by That Body

Washington, Feb. 25.—Over the signature of Samuel Gompers, an editorial in The American Federationist for this month attacks the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States in the case of Loewe & Co., popularly known as the "hat case," which is declared to be "the most drastic and far-reaching decision which it has ever handed down," and as affecting directly
all labor and hence the whole people.

The editorial begins with the statement that "labor organizations must not be outlawed," and then proceeds at great length to review the court's decision, with a view to showing that the court erred. It is denied that there was any restraint of trade on the part of the United Hatters because of their action in preventing the sale of Loewe hats. Moreover, it is asserted that in one important point the court was in error, for "the American Federation of Labor never endorsed or declared a boycott against the Loewe company."

Says Gompers: "We trust it will not be considered lese majeste if we say that, in our opinion, the supreme court
in this and other recent decisions affecting labor, tends to revert to the medieval procedure rather than to make the application of legal principles
to the present industrial situation."
* * * The language of the hatters'
decision makes it clear that the supreme court has not informed itself on modern economics. In its opinion the rights of hats seems to be greater than the rights of men. * * * In fact this discussion goes to an unheard of length in punishing the workers for the exercise of their rights."

Irritated Church and Priests

Denver, Feb. 25.—District Attorney Sedger is arranging for a speedy trial of the man who killed Father Heinrichs
and who is now confined in jail at Colorado Springs under strong guard. It appears from statements made by the murderer that, while living in Italy, he was expelled from the church in consequence of his anarchistic teachings and that his wife then left him. Her reservation further enraged him against the church and the priests, and when he heard the church bells ringing Sunday
he decided to go out and kill one priest at least, and more if he could. The murderer says that Giuseppe Alo is his right name, and that he was born in Sicily in 1857.

Former High Official in Disgrace

Rome, Feb. 25.—The senate, sitting
as a high court, convicted Nunzio Nasi,
former minister of public instruction,
of embezzlement from the state treasury, and sentenced him to eleven months
and twenty days' imprisonment and debarred him from holding public office for four years and two months. The imprisonment the accused already has suffered is to be subtracted from the sentence, leaving only a few days for him to serve in prison.

Bank President Goes to Prison

Benton, Ill., Feb. 25.—Ransom A.
Youngblood, until recently president of the Coal Belt National bank of Benton and of the Salem bank of Salem,
Ark., pleaded guilty to embezzling $17,- 000 of the funds of the Coal Belt bank.
He was immediately sentenced and taken to the Chester penitentiary to serve an indeterminate sentence of
from one to fourteen years.

Big Railroad Job Suspended

Topeka, Feb. 25.—Orders have been issued by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad suspending work on a line under reconstruction from Mulvane, Kan., to Texas. Millions of dollars have been spent in this work to make a low-grade freight line to the Pacific coast. The suspension is ordered for retrenchment purposes.

Killed Slayer of Brother

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 25.—Grover Welch, whose brother was slain in a row at Kershaw by Perry Mobley, shot and killed Mobley on a train last night at Pleasant Hill. Both men were on their way from Kershaw to Lancaster
for a preliminary hearing of the Kershaw tragedy. Welch gave himself up.

Heavy Defense Appropriations

London, Feb. 25.—The estimates for the British defense forces for the current year, which were issued yesterday,
show an increase of $3,000,000, without apparently any hope of any considerable diminution in the future. The army estimates for 1908-09 total $154,185,120
and the navy estimates $161,597,500.

Relatives Held in Cella Case

New York, Feb. 25.—Dominico Cella, brother of Girolamo Cella, the wealthy importer, who was found dying in his office in West Broadway, and Girolamo's stepson, Cesar Bianchi, were held without bail to await an investigation into the cause of the old man's death.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The mechanical rubber factories in Boston and vicinity have shortened
their running on account of a falling off
in the demand for belts, etc., from mills.
The Stallman & Fulton company, New York, importers of drugs, with branches in Chicago and London, has made an assignment. It is estimated that the liabilities are between $150,000
and $200,000.

Quarantine regulations are being enforced against vessels arriving at Costa Rican ports from Antofagasta and Peruvian ports on account of the bubonic plague.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the New England Watch company, Watterbury, Conn., it was voted to increase the capital stock of the company by adding to the $750,000 of common stock an issue of $250,000 preferred stock.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The first president of the United States was born in Westmoreland county, Va., Feb. 22, 1732. He died in 1799 at Mount Vernon, Va., in his sixty-eighth year. He was inaugurated president April 30, 1789, in front of Federal hall on Wall street, New York city, where now stands the subtreasury building.
Washington served two terms as president and then retired to his farm at Mount Vernon. He was by training and choice a planter, though his military experience in youth and his general wisdom and patriotism led to his being called to the chief command of the Continental army during the Revolutionary war. In politics General Washington was a Federalist.

Smithville
Academy

The committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Wollaston Congregational church were very successful on Monday evening, both in presenting an amusing entertainment and in raising funds for the painting of the church. The attraction was "The Smithville Academy," in which there were many hits on Wollaston and Wollaston people.
Part one was a morning session of the school. Then came a recess, when candy and peanuts were sold by the younger members. Part two was exhibition day, when the school committee were present, and the pupils entertained with speaking, compositions and singing. Remarks were made by the members of the committee, and prizes were awarded.

be served. The energy of the society
bids fair to make the annual Easter sale very successful this year.

Miss Nellie Morrissey entertained the Willard whist club Friday evening, Feb.
21, at her home, Willard street. The honors of the evening were taken by Miss Irene Graham and Miss Lona Schaezel. Refreshments were served, after which the company had a very enjoyable time singing and dancing, and it was near midnight when the members
finally departed for their homes.

SOME STATEMENTS
REGARDING NEW THEORY

Followers of Cooper and His Novel Ideas Give Reason for Their Belief in Him.

With a theory that human health is dependent on the stomach and with a medicine which he says proves this theory, L. T. Cooper, a comparatively young man, has built up an immense following during the past year.

Cooper has visited most of the leading cities of the country, and in each city has aroused a storm of discussion
about his beliefs and his medicines.
Wherever he has gone, people have called upon him by tens of thousands,
and his preparation has sold in immense quantities.

The sale of this medicine has now spread over the entire country, and is growing enormously each day. In view of this, the following statements from two of the great number of followers which he now has, are of general interest.

Mrs. Agnes Viggenhouser, of 942 St.
Louis Avenue, Chicago, has the following to say on the subject of the Cooper
preparations: "For more than ten years I was broken down in health. I could not sleep and I was very nervous. Gradually I began to lose my memory, until I could not remember things from one day to another. I had severe pains and cramps in my body,
and I would at times see dark spots
before my eyes. I was unable to do any work whatever, as my strength was failing. I had no appetite, nor could I take any medicine.
"I had about given up hope of ever being well again when I read of Mr.

Cooper's remedies. I decided to give them a trial, and I began to feel better at once. After taking the medicine for two weeks I can say that I am a new woman. I can eat with enjoyment, the pains in my body have left me, and I am stronger than I have been for years.

"I cannot say enough for Mr.
Cooper's remedies. They are wonderful, for they have done everything claimed for them in my case."

Another statement by Mr. W. B.
Stewart, 109 W. Madison St., Chicago, is as follows: "I have had stomach trouble for years, and anyone who is afflicted this way knows what an awful distressed feeling it causes. Many a time I have felt that I would give most any price to be cured. It was by accident that I heard of this man Cooper's remedies. I immediately made up my mind to buy a treatment
of him. I used it for about two weeks, and it is impossible to tell how much good it has done me. I feel altogether different. I have more life and energy than I have had for years. This medicine certainly does stimulate and strengthen the whole system. Tired feeling and weak condition of the stomach has entirely passed away. I feel well again."

We sell Cooper's celebrated medicines which have made this wonderful record in all parts of the country.

Floral Offerings Were Profuse

The funeral of Mrs. Sadie E. Gould was held from her late residence on Revere road, Monday afternoon and was largely attended by relatives, neighbors and friends. The services were conducted by the Rev. E. N. Hardy, assisted by Frank A. Varney who rendered the following solos: "Nearer My God to thee," "Face to face," and "One sweetly solemn thought."

Mrs. Gould, whose life was cut off at the age of 42, was loved by all who had the pleasure of knowing her, and she will be greatly missed. She left a daughter, Mrs. H. R. Pottle, and a son.

The floral display was profuse and beautiful, consisting of the following:—

Pillow, from the children.
Cala lilies and pinks, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gould.

Spray of roses, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cooper.

Spray of pinks and roses, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Pushard.

Lilies, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Goudron.
Pinks, Mrs. Alice Cobb.

Red and white pinks, Mrs. Pottle and Mrs. Brewster.

Spray of Pinks, Mr. and Mrs. James Purse.

Spray of lilies, Harold's friends.

Spray of pinks, Miss Lucy Shunk, Miss Alice Feely and Miss Florence Cole.

Spray of roses and pinks, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Gilday.

Bunch of pinks, Mrs. L. O. Perry.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. John Trask.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Kirtledge.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. E. Adams.

Spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. G. Phillips.

The body was taken to Leeds Centre, Maine, for burial.

Last Night At the Scenic

The fine bill arranged by Manager W. T. Donovan at the Scenic this week attracted an immense crowd last evening, and everybody was loud in their praise of the quality of the acts produced, as well as the new motion pictures and illustrated songs, which were presented for the first half of the week, and will be again changed on Thursday night.

Billy Chase, the popular illustrated singer, who has been retained by the management of the Scenic upon request of several of the patrons for another week, was better than ever, and his rendition of two beautiful illustrated and specially selected ballads was enthusiastically and repeatedly applauded by the large gathering present.

In the specialty bill, Frankie La-Marche, the inimitable female Buster Brown, gave an exceedingly clever and most realistic portrayal of that now noted mischievous and frolicsome boy character, which was highly appreciated, and her impersonations of Chauncy Olcott and other singers of high repute were excellent. Her little trick dog "Tighe" also came in for his share of the applause, and the audience was convulsed with laughter again and again by his funny waltzing and "grand opera singing."

The singing and dancing of Mlle. Camille Falardaux, the Parisian danseuse, were exceptionally good, and her costumes are a treat to look upon.

Jack and Gilda Cannon appeared in a very humorous sketch entitled "A Tramp's Mistake," which made a pronounced hit, and Miss Cannon's pleasing voice and vivacious manner captivated the audience.

untrue when ex-Mayor Fitzgerald or any other politician says that the park system was forced on the people. It is a system for the people's good and they want it. It is necessary to have this money to complete the system and it might as well come this year as next. New York city appropriates $600,000,000 for improvements, or three times as much as the Panama canal cost. Boston has not appropriated nearly as much and the city does pay its share. He was ashamed that Mr. Hultman had said that the people of Quincy were opposed to an appropriation.

County Commissioner John F. Merrill said that the state had taken about 4,000 acres of taxable land from the people of Quincy, Avon, Randolph, Braintree and other places in the vicinity. The boulevard ought to be built, because with two dead ends, it was of no use, but it will be used by outside people, ten to one to what the people of Quincy will use it. We ought to look forward 5 years, when Boston will have 3,000,000 population and when there will be a great public demand. Boston will benefit more by it than Quincy.

Representative Weeks of Boston, of the committee, made the point that Quincy people asked that this land be taken, and he did not think they should come in and make a kick because it had been taken. He said that Quincy paid one per cent of the cost, and he did not think the city was overtaxed.

Mr. Merrill said he was willing to pay his proportion of the taxes to be levied for this purpose. Very few improvements have been made on the line, and the territory south of Boston ought to have more consideration.

There was no opposition and the hearing was closed.

HOW TO TELL IF YOU HAVE WORMS

THE REMEDY THAT QUICKLY EXPELS THEM

The common symptoms of worms in children and adults are:—Paleness of the face with occasional flushing; indigestion accompanied by an unnatural appetite at times; foul tongue and offensive breath; itching nose; vomiting; grinding of the teeth during sleep; swelling of the upper lip; hard swollen bowels; gripping or colic pains; also convulsions and many other unaccountable nervous symptoms, which, if not checked in time, lead on to something more serious.

TOOK DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR AND GOT WELL

SOMERVILLE, ME.

DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—

"For more than three months one of my children had been troubled with spells of vomiting and symptoms of fever nearly every week, together with canker-sores, about the nose and mouth. I obtained, about two weeks ago, two bottles of your Elixir, and before the first bottle was exhausted the sores were entirely healed, and no appearance of his vomiting or fever-spells has ever returned. I really believe that the lives of thousands of children suffering from worms or canker might be saved by a timely and judicious use of your Elixir." Yours truly,

J. L. HAMMETT.

This is only one of hundreds of such testimonials. This marvelous remedy has been made and sold by Dr. J. F. True & Co. for thirty-six years, and in all that time nothing but words of praise have been bestowed upon it. This is what Mr. Wing thinks of it.

AUBURN, ME.

DR. TRUE, DEAR SIR:—

"For the past seven years I have constantly kept a supply of your Elixir in my house, and it never failed to give prompt relief. It has been a great blessing to my children, and unsolicited I give you this tribute of gratitude, hoping the merits of your unrivaled family medicine may be widely known and appreciated."

Very respectfully yours,

CHAS. E. WING.

Even though worms may not be found present Dr. True's Elixir tones up the stomach and liver. Read what Dr. J. Haley, of Brunswick, thinks of it:

"It is a safe and effectual remedy. For worms it has no equal, and is an excellent remedy for canker of the mouth and throat."

Dr. True's Elixir is sold by druggists everywhere at 50c, 80c, and $1.00 per bottle. The booklet, "Children and Their Diseases," will be sent free by simply addressing Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me. We have a special treatise on tape-worms. Send for free book.

KILLED BY HUSBAND

Mrs. Roy's Belief Concerning
Death of Her Brother

MEDICAL REFEREE IN ERROR

Reported the Case as Suicide, but Carkins' Body Is Exhumed and Bullet Wounds Are Found in Back
—Murder Charge May Be Presented

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 25.—Two bullet wounds in the back of the body of George A. Carkins, which was exhumed yesterday by Rockingham county officials following the story told by Mrs. Paul L. Roy, the opera singer, that Carkins was murdered, were disclosed by an informal examination of the body last night. The formal autopsy to determine whether the man met his death by his own hand, as was first reported, or by the hand of some other person, as Mrs. Roy alleged, will be held by Medical Referee Nute, assisted by Drs. Towle and Heffenger.

Carkins' body was exhumed under the direction of Sheriff Corlis at Newington. With the frost penetrating eighteen inches into the ground, the body was in a good state of preservation and was brought to undertaking rooms in Portsmouth.

Carkins was supposed to have committed suicide by shooting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Roy, or Glacia Calla, as she is known on the stage, on the evening of Jan. 2, and as the report of the medical referee confirmed this story the body was buried without further investigation.

Within a few days, however, Mrs. Roy informed the Rockingham county officials that it was her belief that Carkins had been killed by her husband during the course of a family quarrel. An examination of Carkins' coat, which had been kept by his mother, disclosed two bullet holes in the back, and, acting upon this evidence, the county officials went to New York in an attempt to locate Roy, but learned that he had left the city, presumably for France.

The result of the autopsy will probably determine whether or not a charge of murder will be preferred against Roy and what steps will be taken for his capture and return to this country. It is understood that Mrs. Roy, who is at present in New York city filling an engagement, is ready to come to this city should her evidence be needed.

Roy Has Relatives in Paris

Paris, Feb. 25.—Relatives of Paul L. Roy, whom his wife accuses of killing her brother at Portsmouth, N. H., say that they have no news of his whereabouts.

An Alleged Blackmailer

New York, Feb. 25.—Leont Mar-toungessian, the unfrocked priest of the Armenian church, indicted on charges of attempted robbery and blackmail, was placed on trial yesterday. His trial is the outgrowth of a letter sent to Miriam G. Karaghianian, a wealthy rug dealer. The writer demanded the sum of $100,000 "for the cause of Armenia" and threatened the rug dealer with death if he did not comply with the request. The letter was traced, it is charged, to the priest.

Alleged Forger and Embezzler

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 25.—The Chatham county grand jury returned nine additional indictments against W. G. Thompson. Eight of these allege forgery and the ninth alleges embezzlement of $12,500. Thompson was secretary-treasurer of the Palmer Hardware company of this city. He was a man of prominence and the announcement of his alleged wrongdoing and disappearance was received with surprise.

American Gunboat For Bosphorus

Washington, Feb. 25.—An American gunboat will be stationed in the Bosphorus as soon as enlistments in the navy can be brought up to approximately the maximum quota. Treaty concessions between the United States and Turkey permit of the continued presence of an American man-of-war in the Bosphorus, though advantage has never been taken of this concession.

Written Marriage Engagements

Omaha, Feb. 25.—Bishop Scannell of the Catholic diocese of northern Nebraska has made a formal ruling that all marriage engagements must be made in writing and witnessed by two persons before priests will be permitted to perform a marriage ceremony. Engagements have come to be looked upon so lightly, he said, that this ruling is necessary.

Liberal Requests to Employes

Washington, Feb. 25.—In the will of Charles E. Wood, a real estate operator who died recently, provision is made for the establishment of a sanitarium at Atlantic City, at a cost of about $300,000. Provision is made also for the distribution of $100,000 in $2000 bequests to employes of the branch establishments of the Wood-Harmon company.

No Haven For Revolutionists

Washington, Feb. 25.—The support of American diplomacy is being sought by the government of Hayti to prevent the use of foreign consulates in Hayti as places of refuge for revolutionists. The record of the United States in refusing such asylum is to be given full weight in urging other powers to pursue a similar course.

served to eclipse the Majesty of those virtues, which made him, from being a modest citizen, a more resplendent luminary. Misfortune, had he lived, could hereafter have sullied his glory only with those superficial minds, who, believing that character and actions are marked by success alone, rarely deserves to enjoy it. Malice could never blast his honor, and Envy made him a singular exception to her universal rule.

For himself he had lived enough, to life and to glory. For his fellow citizens, if their prayers could have been answered, he would have been immortal. For me, his departure is at a most unfortunate moment. Trusting however, in the wise and righteous dominions of Providence over passions of men, and the result of their councils and actions, as well as over their lives, nothing remains for me but humble resignation.

His example is now complete, and it will teach wisdom and virtue to Magistrates, Citizens and men, not only in the present age, but in future generations, as long as our History shall be read. If a Trajan found a Pliny, a Marcus Aurelius can never want Biographers, Eulogists or Historians.

WASHINGTON ENTOMBED.

George Town, Dec. 20.

On Wednesday last, the mortal part of WASHINGTON the Great—the Father of his Country and the Friend of man, was conveyed to the tomb, with solemn honors, and funeral pomp.

A multitude of persons assembled, from many miles round, at Mount Vernon, the choice abode and last residence of the illustrious chief. There were the groves—the spacious avenues, the beautiful and sublime scenes, the noble mansion—but alas! the august inhabitant was now no more. That great soul was gone. His mortal part was there indeed; but how affecting! how awful the spectacle of such worth and greatness, thus, to mortal eyes, fallen!—Yes! fallen! fallen!

In the long and lofty Portico, where often the Hero walked in all his glory, now lay the shrouded corpse. The countenance still composed and serene, seemed to depress the dignity of the spirit, which lately dwelt in that lifeless form. There those who paid the last sad honors to the hero of his country, took an impressive and a farewell view.

On the ornaments, at the head of the coffin, was inscribed SERVO AD JUDICIUM—about the middle of the coffin, GLORIA DEO—and on the silver plate.

GENERAL

GEORGE WASHINGTON,
Departed this life, on the 14th December, 1799, A. 68.

Between three and four o'clock, the sound of artillery from a vessel in the river, firing minute guns, awoke afresh our solemn sorrow—the corps was moved—a band of music with mournful melody welcomed the soul into all the tenderness of weeping. The procession was formed & moved on in the following order:

Cavalry,	} With arms reversed.
Infantry,
Guard,
Musicians,
Clergy

The General's horse, with his saddle, holsters, and pistols.

Colms.	} CORPSE.	Cola.
Ramsay,		Marsteller,
Payne,		Little.

Mourners,
Masonic Brethren,
Citizens.

When the Procession had arrived at the bottom of the elevated lawn, on the banks of the Potomac, where the family vault is placed, the cavalry halted, the infantry marched towards the Mount and formed their lines—the Clergy, the Masonic Brethren, and the Citizens, descended to the Vault, and the funeral service of the Church was performed.—The firing was repeated from the vessel in the river, and the sounds echoed from the woods and hills around.

Three general discharges by the infantry—the cavalry, and 11 pieces of artillery, which lined the banks of the Potomac back of the Vault, paid the last tribute to the entombed Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States and to the departed Hero.

The sun was now setting. Alas! the son of glory was set forever. No—the name of WASHINGTON—the American President and General—will triumph over DEATH! The unclouded brightness of his Glory will illuminate the future ages!

KINGSTON, JANUARY 4, 1800.

The limits of our paper are too narrow this week, for the great variety of foreign news received by the last mails.—We shall however, lay before our readers short but comprehensive Summary.

French official accounts under the Bernese board of October 8, state that on the 4th, the Austro-Russian forces were defeated with the loss of several thousand killed, wounded and taken.

On the 5th the Austro-Russian forces were defeated at Glatz, with the loss of 1200 prisoners, besides a great number of killed.—at this place there were 1400 Russians drowned, and 600 at Mullen.

The French Army of the Rhine, about the 8th of October, defeated the Austrians with the loss of 3000 killed and wounded.—Their loss, 1000.

Two Spanish frigates, bound from the Havana, having on board upwards of three million and a half of dollars, besides Merchandise, were taken on the 16th of October, by four British Frigates, and safely carried into Plymouth.

The British Frigate Lutine, of 35 guns, was lost on the 9th of October, on the banks of the outer Fly Island Passage; she had on board near half a million, 200,000 lbs. insured, and was bound for the Texel.—She was to have proceeded to Hamburg, to clear the commercial failures on that city.—The crew perished except two.

For the Ulster County Gazette,

ON THE DEATH OF GENERAL WASHINGTON.

[BY A YOUNG LADY.]

WHAT means that solemn dirge, that strikes my ear?
What mean those mournful sounds—why shines the tear?
Why toll the bells the awful knell of fate?
Ah!—why those sighs that do my fancy sate!

Where'er I turn, the general gloom appears,
Those mourning badges fill my soul with fears;
Hark!—Yonder rueful noise!—'tis done!—'tis done!
The silent tomb invades our WASHINGTON!

Mist virtues so exalted, yield their breath?
Mist bright perfection find relief in death?
Mist mortal greatness fall?—a glorious name!
What then is riches, honour and true fame?

The august chief, the father and the friend,
The generous patriot—Let the muse commend;
Columbia's glory, and Mount Vernon's pride,
There lies enshrined with numbers at his side!

There let the sigh respondent from the braid,
Have in rich numbers!—let the glowing zest,
Of tears refulgent beam with grateful love;
And sable mourning our affliction prove.

Weep!—kindred mortals—weep!—no more you'll find,
A man so just, so pure, so firm in mind;
Rejoicing Angels, hail the heavenly sage!
Celestial Spirits greet the wonder of the Age!

AT a Court held at the Surrogate's Office in the County of Ulster, the twenty-first day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine.

PRESENT.

JOSEPH GASHIERE, Surrogate of the said County of Ulster.

WHEREAS John Crawford, acting Executor of the last Will and Testament of Alexander Crawford, late of the County of Ulster, farmer deceased, hath by his petition, presented to the said Surrogate, set forth, that the said Alexander Crawford was at the time of his death, seized of a real Estate within his State, that the petitioner hath made a just and true account of the personal Estate and Debts of the said Alexander Crawford as far as he has been able to discover the same, and that thereby it appears that the personal Estate of the said Alexander Crawford is insufficient to pay his Debts, and therefore requested the aid of the said Surrogate in the premises according to the directions of the act, entitled "An act for the relief of creditors against Heirs, Devisees, Executors, Administrators, and for proving wills respecting real Estates."—The said petitioner hath delivered to the said Surrogate the account in said petition mentioned, in pursuance of the order of the said Surrogate, that all persons interested in the Estate of the said Alexander Crawford, do appear before the said Surrogate, at the Surrogate's Office, in Kingston, in the County of Ulster, on the seventeenth day of February next, to show cause if any they have, why so much of the real Estate, whereof the said Alexander Crawford, died seized, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts.

ADVERTISED HIS DEATH

Providence Youth Wanted to Test Sweetheart's Love For Him

Providence, Feb. 25.—An arrest on a charge of an unusual nature was made last night, when LeRoy B. Staples, 18 years old, was taken into custody. He is accused of inserting in the newspapers a fraudulent notice of his own death. It is understood that the maximum penalty for the offense is a fine of $100.

Staples is said to have secured at the rooms of an undertaker two death certificates in blank, which he filled out and had inserted in two local papers. He is said to have given directions that the advertising should be charged on the undertaker's account.

When the parents of the young man discovered the notices in the newspapers yesterday they started an investigation which resulted in the arrest. The police found Staples at the fish market where he worked. In the death notices he stated that the funeral would be held from the street and number where the fish market was located.

Staples told the police that he put the notices in the papers because he wanted to find out whether his sweetheart loved him or not.

Coal Must Be Removed

Boston, Feb. 25.—As a result of the findings of the finance commission, Mayor Hibbard after a personal visit to Long Island, decided that the Maryland Coal and Coke company should be required to remove its coal from the Long Island almshouse. Payment for the cargo, which amounts to about $12,000, will also be withheld, and it is probable that the evidence in the case will be presented to the district attorney.

Women Narrowly Escaped Death

Melrose, Mass., Feb. 25.—Five women were overcome by gas and had a narrow escape from death by suffocation while working in the kitchen of the First Methodist Episcopal church. They were found there in an unconscious condition by a patrolman, who carried them to the open air. All will recover, though two were very seriously affected by the gas. A leaky gas stove was responsible for the accident.

Leather Men Deny Being Robbed

Boston, Feb. 25.—William Wilson, who was arrested in St. Louis after an alleged confession that he stole leather worth about $15,000 from a dealer in this city, is said by a teaming firm to have been employed by them as a tinner, who was discharged last November because work was slack. Neither of the firms from which Wilson claims to have stolen admit having been robbed of any leather.

Gold Medals For Massachusetts

Boston, Feb. 25.—Massachusetts has just been awarded the gold medal for the general exhibit of school work which was shown at the Jamestown exposition and the gold medal for the exhibit of photographs, statistics, charts and literature relating to state boards and institutions. The jury of award had previously awarded this state the gold medal for the colonial loan exhibit.

Depositors May Get All Due Them

North Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 25.—Receiver Bancroft of the Jewelers' National bank, which closed its doors Dec. 18, 1907, following the suicide of the cashier, Frederick E. Sargeant, has recommended to the comptroller of the currency the payment to depositors of a dividend of 60 percent next month. It is expected that the depositors will ultimately be paid in full.

Smoke Drove Out Girl Students

Newton, Mass., Feb. 25.—Fire in the basement of one of the buildings at Lasell seminary last night filled two of the buildings with smoke and caused a damage of several thousand dollars. The students had not retired for the night and left the buildings without difficulty. The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion.

Five Months For Trying to Bribe

Plymouth, Mass., Feb. 25.—Morris E. Sullivan of Middleboro was sentenced to five months' imprisonment by Judge White, having been found guilty of attempting to bribe a juror. The charge against Sullivan grew out of the case of Harry V. Fish, also of Middleboro, who was convicted last week of maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Dropped Dead in Bowling Alley

Portland, Me., Feb. 25.—While attending a bowling match in one of the local alleys, Otis E. Wood, a druggist, dropped dead from heart trouble. Wood had just sold his business and was getting ready to move to Seattle. He was 50 years old and well known in local and state athletic circles.

Not a Victim of Violence

Providence, Feb. 25.—The body of a man found in the water of Narragansett bay has been identified as that of John Murray of this city, a tailor, 55 years of age. Murray had been missing for seven weeks. It is supposed to be a case either of accident or suicide.

Lived in One House 102 Years

Warren, Me., Feb. 25.—George Montemery, a member of the family noted for its longevity, died yesterday at the age of 102 years. He was born and always lived in the same house, which was built 112 years ago.

Murder Hits Three Governments

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—A wireless message from steamer Ellis, due here today, announces that three governments are involved in a murder which occurred on the steamer while at sea. The man killed was a Jamaican, the man who killed him was an American passenger, and the ship flies the Norwegian flag.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

The third annual concert and dance of Quincy, L. O. L., will be held at Faxon hall this week.

Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield will hold a whist party at her home on Hancock street, on Wednesday afternoon.

Arthur Thomas is one of the eight stars in the Men's Club "Original Minstrelsy" at Music Hall, Feb. 28.

It has been decided to hold an all day meeting on Thursday of the Hospital Aid association in the chapel of First church.

A small enamel cross attached to a pin was picked up this morning on Codding street which owner can have by calling at this office.

The annual coffee party of the Sacred Heart church will be held at Music hall, Atlantic, Wednesday evening. It promises to be one of the most enjoyable ever held by the church.

The committee having in charge the second annual ball of Quincy lodge of Elks, which will be held next Monday evening, are hard at work perfecting arrangements for the affair, which promises to eclipse the most successful ball of last year.

Councilman Gilson was called to the western part of the state recently to illustrate a lecture with his stereopticon. The lecturer proved to be Mr. Nolen, who comes to Quincy on Wednesday evening to lecture at First Church chapel and for whose lecture Mr. Gilson was already engaged to assist. The meeting was of mutual pleasure to both gentlemen.

A reception to the parents and friends of the children of the First Church Sunday School will be tendered by the officers and teachers of the school in the chapel on Friday evening, from 7.30 to 9 o'clock. Addresses will be made by Rev. George W. Pratt of Boston and Rev. A. R. Atwood of Quincy Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Packard are receiving expressions of deepest sympathy from their many friends for their sad loss in the death of their infant daughter, which occurred at their home on Standish avenue, Wollaston, Sunday, Feb. 23. Prayers were read privately by Rev. A. Edwin Clattenbury, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, at their home this afternoon, and the burial was at the family lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

If you are interested in your out door surroundings, your yard, street, ward or city, you should attend the lecture to be given Wednesday evening in First church chapel by Mr. John Nolen, whose subject is "How to improve our Out Door Surroundings." Mr. Nolen is a fluent and entertaining speaker, well versed in his subject. The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon views in charge of Councilman Gilson. Tickets may be had of Miss Prescott or members of the Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club. Blue tickets complimentary to the men have been issued. The ladies pay for theirs, a leap year privilege.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

JELL-O complements with all Pure Food Laws 7 flavors—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry, Strawberry, Chocolate, Cherry, Peach.

AMERICA'S AID WANTED

Would Do Much Toward Untangling the Congo Problem

London, Feb. 25.—In the course of the debate in the house of lords on the Congo situation, Lord Fitzmaurice, representing the foreign office, pleaded for a little more time for action on the part of the Belgian government. He pointed out the enormous difficulties that were in the way of a speedy accomplishment of the reforms in the Congo desired by everybody.

"I regard the co-operation of the United States of the highest importance," he said, "because the United States could not under any conceivable circumstances be charged with what Great Britain unfortunately has been charged abroad, namely, purely selfish ambition.

"The United States has no ambitions in Africa. They were among the very first to recognize the existence of the International Association of the Congo, out of which the Congo Free State grew, and therefore if the United States came forward and co-operated as they were co-operating with Great Britain that was a fact of first rate importance.

"We have been in consultation with the government of the United States. Our minister and theirs have been in communication with each other in Brussels, and nothing could be more valuable to the cause of Congo reform or agreeable to us than that this co-operation should continue and be extended further."

Americans at a Bullfight

Lima, Feb. 25.—Ten thousand spectators, more than half of whom were from the American fleet, witnessed a thrilling bullfight here. The first bull in the ring tossed the chief matador and disabled him from further work. The fifth bull gored the throat of the second matador and he was carried bleeding to his quarters. It is not likely that he can survive. During the fighting with the bulls the enthusiasm was unbounded. The bands played "Hail Columbia" and "The Star Spangled Banner," during which all stood up.

Japan Short of Money

Berlin, Feb. 25.—The tightening of financial conditions in Japan is regarded by banks here as likely to result in the transfer from London to Tokyo of a large portion of Japan's balances and to disturb somewhat the European money markets. Japan's balances in London are estimated at between $90,000,000 and $75,000,000. At the Japanese embassy here the news of panicky conditions in Japan is discredited, but private advices confirm the money scarcity.

Pillory of Olden Days Revived

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 25.—D. H. Dillon was arrested here and fined for running a poker game. Shackles were placed about his feet, and he was chained to a telephone pole all day yesterday in the lockup yard. The punishment was advised by Judge McKenzie, who fined the prisoner. The chief of police says Dillon will be chained up daily until he pays his fine or agrees to work on the city streets.

To Fight Railroad Merger

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 25.—Governor Haskell has sent a communication to Attorney General West, ordering him to institute proceedings to dissolve an alleged merger between the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroads in Oklahoma. The letter recites that the people of the state should have the benefit of the competition of the parallel lines.

Second Double Tragedy in Family

Rochester, Feb. 25.—Louis Barber, aged 45, shot and killed his sister, Mrs. Jerome Lewis, aged 55, at their home in Medina and then inflicted a probably fatal wound upon himself. Barber had quarreled with his sister over a trivial matter. Last September Bert Lewis, a son of the dead woman, quarreled with his father in the same house, shot him dead and then committed suicide.

May Be a Court Martial

Washington, Feb. 25.—A board of investigation will inquire into the circumstances attending the grounding of the gunboat Hiss, which accompanied the flotilla of submarines from New York to Annapolis. If any of the officers are found culpable court martial proceedings may follow. The board also will make inquiries into the going ashore of the submarine Viper.

Torpedo Flotilla Off For Callao

Talcahuano, Chile, Feb. 25.—The officers of the American torpedo flotilla, which has been here since Feb. 15, have been treated with marked attention by the Peruvian authorities. The torpedo boats left here today for Callao, where they probably will arrive March 1.

Buncoed in Marriage Fee

Orange, N. J., Feb. 25.—At a service at the Catholic church here Rev. John P. Boylan told his congregation that he had been "buncoed" with a worthless check given him by a young man in payment of the fee for his marriage.

McGill University Honors Bryce

Montreal, Feb. 25.—James Bryce, the British ambassador to the United States, was invested with the honorary degree of LL. D. at McGill university. Bryce is the guest of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

Larceny Case In a New Light

Editors of Daily Ledger:

I have read your item in the Quincy Ledger of 24th inst.—"Larceny Charge." The writer was a grief stricken witness of this terrible verdict given my boy by the Quincy District court. All I can say is this.

Martin did have the coat on last Saturday night, expecting to meet the owner, or hear from him, and exchange it for his own, and much better coat, which he left in Electa hall on the night of Feb. 10.

Martin was a generous, whole soul boy, easily led to the use of cursed liquor, and if he took this coat he could not have been in his right mind. Kindly give this reasonable space in your valued paper and greatly oblige a broken hearted father.

John P. Bigelow.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Manager's notice number 183 has been issued, stating as follows:—"Beginning Monday, February 24, workmen's tickets will be accepted on trains leaving Quincy at 5.29, 6.16 and 6.43 P. M., Monday to Friday inclusive; and 1.13 and 1.43 P. M. on Saturdays."

John Godsell, formerly casting clerk at the works who is now employed at Cramps shipyard, Philadelphia, was visiting at the yard a few days ago.

It is reported that the Scout Cruiser Chester, while on her way from Boston to Bath, where she will remain till her trial, which takes place Wednesday, made 26 knots per hour for two hours on the run down.

The installation of electric wiring and lights in the new addition to the machine shop has been completed.

Sidney B. Lermont, of the shipwright department, who has recently been spending a vacation in New York, has returned to his duties.

The new armored cruiser South Dakota, sister ship of the California and the other armored cruisers now on the Pacific coast, will have her first government trial trip today off the coast of California.

The stem casting for U. S. Battleship North Dakota has arrived in the yard and has been unloaded in close proximity to where it will be erected.

Two concrete foundations for the new extension to the submarine engine test house are in place.

Everything was quiet at the yard on Washington's Birthday.

A new office has been built for Mr. Ewertz in the electric storage building.

Two lead lined generators have been made for the Industrial Oxygen Company.

At a meeting of naval and mechanical engineers held in Genoa recently Signor L. d'Adda, an Italian naval engineer, lectured on a proposal to protect large armor ships with reinforced concrete instead of steel plates. He said that this system had been used with excellent results for land fortifications. While following the operations of the Russo-Japanese War in the Far East and near Port Arthur he had been impressed by the resistance offered by Japanese casemates, which were thus protected, against heavy projectiles. The weight of such plates would be about the same, and the space required was not more than with metal armor, while the cost would be enormously less. The Ministry of Marine has directed that some of this concrete protection shall be exhaustively tried at the Muggiano. The results are being awaited with interest in Italian naval circles.

FILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

THANKED GOD

That There Was A Man In Washington Trying To Make Honesty Fashionable

"Public conscience" was the subject of Hon. Carroll D. Wright on Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Quincy Women's Club, and he was very entertaining. The meeting is reported in the club notes today.

Mr. Wright, in opening, said, that he proposed to tear down popular impression. Public conscience was everything in the minds of the people. If there was anything that irritated him it was the cry "In these degenerate days." He then proceeded by comparisons to tear down this statement, and to show that instead of degenerating the world was growing better. How often do we hear, said Mr. Wright, the cry that the country is going to the dogs. There is not a chapter in the history of the world that does not speak of the degeneration of the times.

One hundred years ago Harvard college was helped to be supported by a lottery. Today the only place we find a lottery is in the churches. Public conscience says there shall be no lottery in the United States. Quoting from the writings of W. L. Wright, that there were but 500 of the government employees who were not grafters, the speaker said if Mr. Wright had said that there were only 500 grafters he would have been guilty of a colossal lie. Why should such writers bring out such statements that we may reach wrong conclusions.

Public conscience is more acute today, than it was years ago. We are better able and insist that such things shall not be. He then spoke of cases of graft in foreign countries, and said that such cases could not occur in this country. A partial cause of some of the conclusions reached was because of statistics and official reports, in which we read but half the story, and half the truth is worse than a whole lie.

The popular claim is that crime is on the increase. We are arresting more criminals than we formerly did, but this was due to the more efficient enforcement of the criminal law. The speaker then by a chart showed the increase in the number of arrests from 1860 to 1879. The increase was seventy per cent. This is used as an argument that crime is on the increase.

During this twenty years there has been a lot of legislation for drunkenness of which no notice was taken in 1860. Drunkenness is a crime now. In 1879, 155 per cent of the arrests were for drunkenness. Of the other crimes the increase was but 20 per cent., while the population increased 50 per cent. Massachusetts has 150 crimes in its code while Virginia has but 100. This helps people in Virginia to come to the conclusion they do about us here in Massachusetts.

As we grow better and civilization increases, we insist on more things for the interest of the community. We are apt to look at the past through the big end of the spy glass, and at the present through the small end which magnifies. We are today putting up more perfect statistics than the crude statistics of years ago. We know more than we did fifty years ago. We did not know how bad it was then. We know today.

People who think so ill of themselves and society ought to go and live where they have no police, courts and jails. That country is Patagonia. Plant industry there and you will have rum shops, jails and police. Such things only exist where there is civilization. A town that makes fifty arrests a year is better than a town that makes no arrests. In closing, Mr. Wright urged his hearers to be true to themselves and to God, and he thanked God that there was a man in Washington who was trying to make honesty fashionable.

It cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. Never fails. Sold by C. D. Harlow & Co., Druggists.

Commedietta At Quincy Point Fair

The annual fair of the Ladies Aid society of the Washington street Congregational church opened Tuesday evening with a large attendance which augurs well for its success.

Various pretty tables were arranged about the vestry for the sale of useful articles, cake, confectionery and flowers. These were in charge of the following ladies:

Cake table.—Mrs. T. B. Thomas, Mrs. T. B. Jones and Mrs. William K. Chubbuck.

Work table.—Mrs. C. H. Sherburne, Mrs. Charles Damon, Mrs. W. A. Hayden and Mrs. W. E. Leigh.

Fancy table.—Mrs. C. W. Newcomb, Mrs. M. E. Wright, Mrs. R. H. Newcomb and Mrs. H. D. Adams.

Flower table.—Mrs. George E. Bailey. Confectionery table.—Mrs. W. O. Pierson, Miss Emma Hayden, Miss Beatrice Adams and Miss Helen Lincoln.

Children's table.—Mrs. Thomas Lincoln, Jr., Miss Mary Oliver, Miss Helen Sherburne, Miss Bessie Chisholm, Miss Mary Belsky, Miss Marion Johnson and Miss Christie Moody.

The entertainment the opening night included the presentation of the one act commedietta, entitled "Imogen's New Cook." The scene was laid in Mrs. Dump's morning room, and the characters were impersonated by Mrs. James Melville and Miss Emma Hayden. The soloist of the evening was Mrs. H. G. Studley.

New Officers.

John Adams commandery, Knights of Malta, elected the following officers Tuesday night for the ensuing year:

S. K. C.—Frank R. Melville. Generalissimo—H. A. Felts. Prelate—Oscar A. Barron.

Capt. Gen.—A. M. Allison. Recorder—G. H. Gardner. Asst. Rec.—J. L. Haggie.

Treasurer—James Brown. Senior Warden—J. D. Chapman.

Trustees—F. C. Hodge, J. D. Mackay and R. C. Sinclair.

Representative to Grand Commandery—G. H. Gardner.

Alternate—G. H. Jaques.

After the election the Malta degree was conferred upon a number of candidates. The commandery enters upon its fourth year with encouraging conditions and bright prospects.

LOCAL HITS

At Mock Trial
Where Mayor Is Plaintiff In Umbrella Case

Alexander Piper Robinson (Dr. D. B. Reardon) who it was alleged stole the umbrella of Charles James Augustus Southgate, (William T. Shea) is not guilty of that crime according to the impartial jury that heard the evidence in the case as presented at the (mock) trial held at Music hall on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus.

The court room was well filled with a self-appointed jury, and it was all that the court and sheriff could do to maintain order. Judge O'Hollahan (C. C. Hearn) wore a large hole in his desk with his gavel in trying to preserve order, and the sheriff (D. F. Crowley) was frequently obliged to interfere to prevent the counsel from coming to blows.

Court did not open until 8.15, and as the curtain rolled up it disclosed a miscellaneous assortment of humanity seated about the room. Some were smoking pipes, other cigars, and a few cigarettes. Everything seemed confusion when the judge arrived arrayed in a white stove pipe hat smoking a cheroot. Order was demanded, and as soon as the judge had taken his position on the bench the prisoner heavily ironed was brought in.

Then came the impaneling of the jury which was somewhat of a task. One man desired to be excused because he had formed an opinion, but the court informed him that he was not capable of forming an opinion, and he could not be excused. A man who answered to the name of John F. Fitzgerald was excused as he was called a dead one. Another who answered to the name of Charles M. Bryant was excused, because he had been seen at a Democratic caucus. Other men answering to the names of well known citizens were called and a jury was finally obtained.

The warrant was then read by the clerk (J. J. Callahan) and a plea of not guilty was entered by the defendant's counsel Flynn (C. J. McGilvray). The warrant which was issued by the court in Nevada charged the prisoner with the larceny of an umbrella valued at $25.

Cor. Water and Quincy Streets. Tel. No. 367-3
Feb. 24

While the warrant was being read Prosecuting Attorney Coker, (J. W. McNarney) asked to have the prisoner placed at the bar. This brought the wrath of the judge upon him who inquired who was running that court anyway.

Attorney Coker then addressed the jury, and told them what he intended to prove by his witnesses. He appealed to the personal pride of the jury, and so many compliments did he shower upon them that their chests swelled up as though they were full of dried apples. He went on to tell how the plaintiff who was seeking office had visited Quincy, and had gone into the back room of the Hancock house with one O'Heron, leaving his umbrella in the office. The only person who had access to the office was the defendant, who was a sword swaller. The aforesaid umbrella had later been found in the possession of the said defendant, which he said he had obtained from one Dan Deasy, a person who never existed.

Then came the examination of the witnesses, one of whom admitted he had received $50 for testifying against the defendant.

The cross examination of these witnesses was a severe one, and completely broke down what little semblance of truth there was in it.

The plaintiff when put on the stand said that when not engaged in politics he was an inventor. He had owned many umbrellas and had invented many things to try and preserve these rain shedders in his possession. He had owned many umbrellas some for two days, but none longer than eleven days. He told of his visit to Quincy, and his interview with Mr. O'Heron at the Hancock house, where Mr. O'Heron among other things told of the benefits of the Citizens' Association. Several notes had passed between him and the defendant, some of which he now held. He had owned in all about 1534 umbrellas.

Then the defendant's counsel addressed the jury, and his flow of words was like water running from a spring. He argued that no larceny could have taken place, as the defendant had testified that he had paid for the said umbrella in bank notes which were not legal tender. Then again the defendant had killed two Chinamen, which was much in his favor. His argument had visible effect on the jury, and it was self evident that they would have found him not guilty on the spot had they been given an opportunity.

The story of the plaintiff that he had owned upwards of 1534 umbrellas in his day was not credited.

Then came the witnesses for the defendant. They were brief in their testimony and right to the point. When one of them testified to his having killed two Chinamen the judge immediately left the bench and taking the prisoner by the hand offered him his congratulations.

Then came Prof. O How wise who in a long story full of technical phrases proceeded to prove that an umbrella was a nature product, and therefore as such one persons as another. During his testimony everybody including the judge went to sleep.

Then came the closing arguments. In opening, Counsel Flynn said that the plaintiff had admitted that he had for years been conspiring to enter City Hall, developing larceny and theft and these were the reasons for his recent action at the Assessors' office.

The plaintiff's attorney then addressed the jury at length, and it was somewhat of a question among the attendants as to whether he was trying to wipe out some old scores or whether he was qualifying as a candidate for the presidency of the Knockers club. He defined larceny and tried to break down the testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses, and called upon the jury to find the defendant guilty. Much that he said could have been omitted.

Then the judge charged the jury. He hoped they would find the defendant not guilty for three reasons, the main one of which was because he had killed two Chinamen.

As he finished his charge the dinner-bell rang and the jury promptly found the defendant not guilty. The umbrella was then sold at auction for 37 cents.

The jurors in the case and the witnesses were as follows, although they answered to different names during the trial:—

Jurors—E. H. McGinty, M. T. Sullivan, H. A. McGrath, J. M. Cantill, T. J. Shortle, M. P. Heaney, J. Heffernan, M. W. Cuniff, W. D. DeCoste, C. A. Keating, M. T. Walsh, J. E. Geary.

Rejected Jurors—E. D. Barrett, R. J. Williams, J. J. Joyce, H. F. McGee. Witnesses for Prosecution—L. W. Lyons, T. R. Donovan, J. D. Smith, J. C. Byrne.

Witnesses for Defence—Dr. J. P. Murphy, J. J. Kelly, Thomas Griffin, J. A. Duggan, J. H. Heaney.

The trial was given under direction of Daniel E. Bowen.

While the audience was arriving Cuff's orchestra gave a concert, and there was a violin and piano duo by Masters Joseph and William DeNeill.

After the trial there was dancing until 2 o'clock, the floor being in charge of Joseph E. Granahan with H. A. McGrath as assistant, and Geo. B. Powers, George W. Berry and D. J. S. McCurdy as aids.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Woodbury Says He Is Not Guilty
of Killing Wife

CLAIM OF THE PROSECUTION

Woman Met Death by Strangulation
Other Than Hanging—Star Witness
For Defense Will Advance Contrary Argument—A New Feature

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 26.—Herbert
Woodbury was given his first hearing
yesterday in the Dover municipal court
on the charge of the murder of his wife, Phoebe H. Woodbury, whose body was found on Feb. 18 hanging to a doorknob
in an upper room of the Exchange hotel, a lodging house conducted by the Woodburys. Four witnesses were heard, their testimony having to do with the finding of Mrs. Woodbury's body after its disappearance of over three months, and with facts learned at the autopsy.

Perhaps the most startling testimony given was that by Dr. William Buck and Coroner Holt, each of whom expressed the belief that the woman's death was not caused by hanging from the doorknob.

Dr. Holt testified that in his best judgment the woman had not met her death
by hanging, but by some other form of strangulation. The autopsy disclosed, he said, that the woman's windpipe was in its normal condition. Had the woman been choked to death, Holt thought, the windpipe would naturally resume its normal condition upon the release of the pressure, whereas, if death had been caused by hanging, the windpipe would have remained closed.

Sheriff Knowles, who testified as to the finding of the body and the condition of the rooms, and Clayton K. Hall, the undertaker who cared for the woman's body, were the other witnesses.
Hall testified that the woman's clothes
were not disarranged and that so far as he could see there were no marks of violence upon the body. Upon the whole, Woodbury was encouraged by the day's testimony. The hearing is unfinished.

Medical Examiner Magrath of Boston, it is believed here, will be the star witness for the defense. Magrath completed his examination of the body of the dead woman yesterday and it is known that he is of the opinion that death might easily have resulted from the rope about the woman's neck which is in support of the theory of the defense that the woman committed suicide.

A new feature of the case came to light in the theory advanced by the officers concerning a long box, not unlike a coffin, which was found in the office of the Exchange hotel. The officers claim that Woodbury first murdered his wife and for several days lay intoxicated in his room. On recovering, it is alleged that he realized his crime and that his first thought was to get rid of the box.

The officers think that he secured the box with the idea of placing the remains in it. Finding the box too short for his purpose, the claim of the officers is that he hit on the scheme of placing it in room 15 and closing up the house.

Merchants Constantly Feared Death

New York, Feb. 26.—The terror inspired among Armenian merchants of New York by threats and death sentences imposed by Armenian blackmailers was described in court during the trial of Levont Martougessian, charged with attempting to blackmail a rug importer. It was stated that six New York merchants received letters last August threatening death unless $100,000 was contributed to the "Armenian cause." Armenian merchants made a practice of calling each other up on the telephone to find out if all were still alive.

Havoc by Revolutionists

London, Feb. 26.—Rt. Rev. T. E.
Wilkinson, bishop for north and central Europe, writes to The Daily Mail from Riga, describing the devastation wrought in Russia generally by the revolutionists. He declares that its extent fully justifies the measure of repression adopted by the Russian government. "Whatever may have been the destruction of life in the French revolution," he writes, "I doubt if the destruction of homes and property was as great in France as in Russia."

No Cheerful News to Impart

London, Feb. 26.—Lord Fitzmaurice, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, was asked in the house of lords
for information regarding the Macedonian reforms and the effect of the Austrian project for the construction of a branch railroad line through Turkish territory to connect Vienna with Saloniki. In reply, Fitzmaurice said a very critical stage had been reached in both the local affairs of Macedonia and in the diplomatic entente known as the concert of Europe.

Railroad Overworked Employees

Helena, Mont., Feb. 26.—The Montana sixteen-hour law for railroad employees in the train service was declared by the state supreme court to be valid and constitutional. The Northern Pacific must now pay the $1600 fine for its violation. The law provides that employees must not be worked for more than sixteen hours without eight consecutive hours for rest.

"THE ERA OF CONSCIENCE"

Folk Says It Is Beginning and Will Purify the Nation

New York, Feb. 26.—Attacking race track gambling as a prolific breeder of crime and supporting the efforts being made to end this form of gaming in this state, Governor Folk of Missouri aroused the Civic Forum at Carnegie hall to a high pitch of enthusiasm last night. He declared that within a short time the legalized vice of race track gambling would be a thing of the past
from one end of the country to the other.

The speaker expressed the belief that the ethical awakening which the country was undergoing would prove permanent. In the era of conscience, now beginning, stock and grain gambling must go. Too many men have been seeking wealth without the corresponding inclination to labor for its achievement. He declared that corporations had been too often used as masks to conceal the crimes of individuals, and that the elimination of watered stocks
and inflated values was not an unreasoning demand of the public conscience.

Upon the effect on business of agitation against alleged corporation abuses Folk said: "The man who says that the depression in the industrial world
is caused by punishing crooks argues that there can be no such thing as honest prosperity, and that the prosperity we had was that of the burglar and the pickpocket. It would be more accurate to charge depression to crooks rather than to their prosecution. The prosperity that rests on wrongdoing is not the right kind of prosperity. If the country had to choose between great prosperity coupled with crookedness,
and less prosperity and more honesty,
it would undoubtedly take the latter."

Threats Failed to Scare

Silverton, Col., Feb. 26.—Manager
Kinney of the Gold King mine, Vice President Soule of the company which owns that property, Sheriff Palmquist and two of his deputies received letters yesterday on each of which was sketched a skull and cross-bones and containing a warning of swift and horrible death if they do not cease their activity in arresting and punishing ore thieves. Kinney immediately ordered the discharge of sixty-five foreigners employed at the gold mines. Thirty-five Gold King miners have recently been arrested on charges of stealing high grade ore.

Indictments in Black Hand Case

Baltimore, Feb. 26.—The grand jury returned indictments against the eight alleged members of the Black Hand, who are charged with conspiracy to murder Joseph Di Giorgio by dynamiting his home in Walbrook. Each man is charged with conspiring with the others and with Phillip Rei and Car-mella La Rosa. Rei was shot in Pittsburg a few weeks after the Di Giorgio plot was carried out, while La Rosa was assassinated in New York.

Government Loses Libel Suit

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—The United States circuit court of appeals has handed down a decision that steamer
Esparta was not responsible for the collision of that vessel with steamer Magnolia in 1905. President Roosevelt was a passenger on the Magnolia at the time of the accident. Suit for libel against the Esparta was brought by the government, which owned the Magnolia, and yesterday's decision affirms that of the lower court.

Stillings Won't Get Job Back

Washington, Feb. 26.—Charles A.
Stillings will not be restored to duty
as public printer. President Roosevelt has let this fact be known to friends who talked with him concerning the tangle in the government establishment. W. S. Rossiter has communicated some of his findings to the president and these are said to substantiate
the charges which resulted in the suspension of Stillings.

Traffic Held Up by Snow

St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—Railroad traffic in central Russia is almost completely paralyzed by a succession of heavy snowstorms, which still continue.
Many towns are cut off from all communication and such an important railroad as the Moscow-Kazan has not moved a train for five days.

Cannon on Education

Washington, Feb. 26.—That it is better to be educated in a university supported by people, no matter how humble, than to be taught in marble halls built by one or two persons, was the declaration of Speaker Cannon at the annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Educational association, which opened here
yesterday.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Columbia Wire Cordage company of Hyde Park, Mass., has been petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy.
It is represented that the company
made an assignment on Jan. 27 last.
The New England Paper Goods company, manufacturers of paper boxes at Boston, has made an assignment of its stock, fixtures and machinery.

The will of Hiram P. Oliver of Bangor, Me., who died a few weeks ago, includes public bequests aggregating about $115,700, with further provisional bequests of an indefinite amount,
to be paid at the termination of a trust.
Under the direction of the Boston Y.
M. C. A. there is being started an international movement for the education and patriotic enlightenment of immigrants.

Horace Cony, for many years proprietor of Cony house, Augusta, Me., with his brother, the late George A.
Cony, and one of the best known hotel
men in Maine, died suddenly of apoplexy, aged 56.

UNDER BED OF RIVER

New York and New Jersey Now Connected by Railway.

OPENED FROM WHITE HOUSE

Real Christening, However, When Crowds Filled Trains at Public
Opening at Midnight—Felicitations
Exchanged at Banquet In New York

New York, Feb. 26.—"Over to Jersey" gave way to "under to Jersey" last night, and while the despised ferry-boats wended their laborious way overhead thousands of persons were being transported by subterranean route from shore to shore in about the time that it takes the surface craft to warp into their slips.

The Hudson river tunnel, connecting
New York city and Hoboken, N. J., by a passage made far below the river bottom, was formally opened yesterday afternoon when President Roosevelt pressed a button and the governors of New York and New Jersey made speeches, but it got its real christening
last night when, on the stroke of midnight, it was opened to the public and a regular service of eight-car trains, running under five-minute headway, was installed.

The public opening was in time to catch the theatre crowds bound for home in the sister state, but there were thousands of other passengers bent on having an early ride under novel conditions. The early trains were operated without a hitch. From Nineteenth street and Sixth avenue, the present Manhattan terminal, to Hoboken was made in about ten minutes, the underwater section being covered in three minutes. Stops were made at the stations along the Manhattan side, but nearly everyone took the five cents'
worth of ride from start to terminal.

While the first nighters were repaying the Hudson Tunnel company its first return on the $60,000,000 investment, the promoters of the enterprise were dining the executives of New York and New Jersey at Sherry's and drinking toasts to the everlasting success of the interstate under the river route.

The engineers and officers of the constructing and financial companies were present, as well as the heads of the different departments and officers of the various New Jersey towns affected by the connecting link. Members of the state and national governments also were present. The toastmaster was Walter G. Oakman, president of the Hudson company, which did the actual construction work. The governors of the two states were depended upon for the principal speeches.

Governor Fort called attention to the fact that the great work was done by private capital and warmly defended
the kind of corporation that honestly carries forward to successful conclusions mammoth undertakings in the public interests. Such feats, he said, the public and the state would not accomplish.

Governor Hughes, in the course of his remarks, paid a tribute to the originator of the tunnel idea. "In this hour of triumph," he said, "I like to think of the poor man who lived and toiled without seeing the fulfillment of his idea. All honor to the originator of the enterprise, De Witt Clinton Haskins."

Governor Hughes commended the work of the tunnel promoters as an illustration of what honest endeavor could produce. He said that the idea that there was a road to wealth other than the tollsome road of industry, perseverance and honest endeavor should be discouraged.

Sad Dream Came True

New York, Feb. 26.—Dreaming he had been stricken blind at work, Thomas Pendergast, a bridge-tender at the Lackawanna ferry, awoke and finding it was only a dream, lay back again
and went to sleep. He was so impressed that he told his wife and fellow workmen of the dream. They laughed and teased him about it. Shortly before he quit work, however, while winding the hawser about the drum at the ferry, he went blind.

Anarchists Held For Trial

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Valtaireine de Cleyre, the professed anarchist, and Harry Weinberg, one of her followers,
were held in bail for trial to answer charges of inciting to riot. It is alleged that in addressing a meeting of unemployed foreigners last Thursday, Miss De Cleyre and Weinberg incited the men to parade to the city hall. This parade resulted in a riot.

Abused by Chief Officer

San Juan, P. R., Feb. 26.—The case of Alexander Dickson, the carpenter on the American collier Abarenda who killed Walter Weichert, chief officer of the vessel, in this port, came up yesterday. Witnesses deposed that Weichert had subjected Dickson to inhuman treatment and that the two men had unrepeatedly. Dickson was held for the grand jury.

Favorable Financial Omen

New York, Feb. 26.—J. P. Morgan
sailed for Europe today on the Adriatic.
He will go directly to London. The fact that Morgan regards the financial situation as sufficiently cleared to permit
him to go abroad is interpreted as a favorable indication in banking circles
generally.

STORY OF MRS. ROY

Autopsy Corroborates It In Some of Its Details

A WOUND IN CARKINS' HEAD

Caused Him to Become Unconscious, After Which Two Bullets Were Fired Into His Back—Had Quarreled With His Brother-in-Law

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 26.—The autopsy performed upon the body of George A. Carkins of Newington seemed definitely to establish the fact that the man had been murdered, and had not met his death by suicide, as was supposed generally when the man was buried over a month ago.

Medical Referee Nute, assisted by Drs. Towle and Heffenger, found two bullet wounds in the man's back, either of which, in their belief, would have been sufficient to have caused death, and from the general course taken by the bullets it is believed that those bullets were fired into the man's body while he lay face down on the floor, unconscious from the result of a wound on his forehead.

The wound in the man's forehead, which was said by the previous coroner's report to have caused the man's suicidal death, was declared by the physicians performing the autopsy to be superficial, merely grazing the frontal bone.

The report of the autopsy will not be made public until the physicians make their statement to Attorney General Eastman, but from the facts which have been learned it seems reasonably certain that the alleged story of Mrs. Paul E. Roy, the opera singer, that Carkins, who was her brother, was murdered by the woman's husband during a family quarrel at the Roy home in Newington last January, has been borne out in some of its details.

Rockingham county authorities, who learned in New York that Roy had left the country, presumably for France, yesterday found a letter from Roy at the Newington postoffice, it is said, directed to his wife. The letter arrived yesterday morning and was dated from Queenstown. The missive was immediately given into the custody of Attorney General Eastman, and neither the contents nor the date on which the letter was mailed were made public.

From what is known of the story, which it is claimed that Mrs. Roy recently told to the Rockingham county officials, it is believed that Roy and Carkins became involved in a dispute during which Mrs. Roy claims she heard a shot and then her brother, Carkins, came running out to her with blood streaming from his forehead. Stunned by this wound, he stumbled and fell at her feet. As Carkins was a heavy man the fall caused the compound fracture of his nose, which had been discovered since the body was exhumed on Monday.

At this point, according to the story said to have been told by Mrs. Roy, she fled to her mother for help. In the meantime, it is believed, while Carkins was thus lying unconscious on his face, two bullets were fired into his back by some person standing above him.

What further steps will be taken in the matter cannot be learned until after Eastman has examined the physicians' report on the autopsy. Mrs. Roy, who, it is believed, will be the principal witness if the investigation of the case is pressed further, is understood to be in New York, filling a theatrical engagement.

Roy Claims Self-Defense

Paris, Feb. 26.—A brother of Paul E. Roy, who is accused by his wife of having killed her brother, George A. Carkins, at Portsmouth, N. H., declares that Roy shot Carkins in self-defense. He says that Carkins had been drinking and interfered in quarrels between Mrs. Roy and her cousin, and that he finally drew a revolver and fired on Roy. He adds that the truth about the death of Carkins was concealed by Roy's wife, Roy himself wishing to inform the authorities. Roy remained in America for a month after the shooting, sailing for Europe Feb. 8 on the Lusitania. He came direct to Paris and, the brother states, holds himself at the disposition of justice. He has retained a lawyer to represent his interest.

Town Shaken by Explosion

Johnston, Pa., Feb. 26.—With a concussion that shook houses and business buildings within a radius of several blocks, broke windows and inflicted other damage to the property, an explosion in the iron converter building of the Cambria Steel company seriously injured four men and practically wrecked the large building. In one of the mixing pans there was a thin layer of ice, and when this came in contact with the metal the explosion resulted.

Man Heads Woman's College

Cincinnati, Feb. 26.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Western College for Women, at Oxford, O., Rev. John G. Newman was elected president of the institution. This is the first time in the history of the college that a man has been president.

Hindus to Be Turned Back

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 26.—The immigration officers have decided that the 200 Hindus which arrived yesterday on the steamer Mont Eagle shall be deported unless the Dominion government enters an objection.

KILLED RIVAL IN LOVE

Mildred Brewster, Long in Insane Asylum, Petitions For Release
Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 26.—A petition has been brought in Washington county court by Mildred Brewster, who, in a fit of jealousy, killed Anna Wheeler in this city, asking that she be released from the state hospital for the insane at Waterbury, where she was committed after the jury had found her not guilty by reason of insanity. The woman now claims that she has recovered her sanity and will substantiate it by the reports of supervisors and hospital doctors.

The only question in the case will be whether it is wise policy to release her. On the other hand, it is contended that if she is to be released it should be done before she is unable to battle with the world. She has been a self-supporting inmate since her commitment, and her needlework has found ready sale outside the asylum.

After shooting at a target on the morning of March 29, 1897, Miss Brewster asked her rival, Anna Wheeler, to walk with her, and killed her with a revolver. Miss Brewster attempted to kill herself, but was only slightly injured by the shot. The two young women had received attention from the same young man.

Preacher's Unique Experience

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 26.—Rev. Charles J. Palmer of Lanesboro, a county missionary, officiated at the funeral of Ellihu Ingraham in New Ashford, and when it came to returning home to Lanesboro he found it was either a case of walking ten miles through deep snow or ride with the driver of the hearse, who was returning to Pittsfield. It was bitter cold and the parson could not stand the discomfort of the ride on the high seat. Throwing dignity to the wind, the preacher clambered into the hearse and in that manner rode up to his door.

Minister and Stock Broker

Dedham, Mass., Feb. 26.—Rev. Frank P. Estabrook, pastor of the Westwood Unitarian church, appeared before Judge Grover on proceedings instituted by Charles Hillis, a tailor. Estabrook's trouble was the result of a purchase of a suit of clothes for $30. This sum the court ordered him to pay to the tailor before May 4. Estabrook said he was a dealer in stocks, selling on commission for Boston brokers, besides being a minister at a salary of $800 a year.

Children Taken From Parents

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 26.—Two forlorn little boys were taken from their parents in the local court here as neglected children and committed to the Home for Destitute Catholic Children in Boston. The father, Thomas O'Neil, made a dramatic scene in court, threatening the police and officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He was sent to jail. City Physician Stone later examined the man and found him insane.

Crushed by Heavy Load

Wakefield, Mass., Feb. 26.—William Bolton was seriously, and James Cameron probably fatally, hurt, by the collision of an electric car with a two-horse team on Water street. Both men were hurled to the ground beneath their team, which was overturned, piling on top of them five barrels of heavy iron castings. The car was badly damaged, but the motorman and passengers escaped serious hurts.

Blown Up by Dynamite

Union City, Conn., Feb. 26.—As a result of driving his pick accidentally into a dynamite charge and exploding it here, an unknown Italian, aged about 35, member of a construction gang at work on a trolley switch extension, was blown into the air and instantly killed. His body fell into the Naugatuck river, was swept down stream by the current and has not been found.

Unique Hiding Place For Jewels

Hartford, Feb. 26.—When Detective Butler started to choke Frank Tarchers, a Cuban, the latter coughed up rings and diamonds and didn't stop until he had emitted five uncut diamonds. He was arrested on suspicion of having palmed a single ring while negotiating over an engagement ring with W. T. Stevenson, a jeweler.

Little One Fatally Burned

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 26.—Margaret O'Brien, 5 years old, was fatally burned while playing, and Mrs. William Burke and her son, Austin, who attempted to save the child, were painfully scorched by the flames. Margaret ran too close to a small gas stove, her clothing catching fire. She died half an hour later.

Life Sentence For Murderer

Boston, Feb. 26.—A life sentence in the state prison was imposed upon Vito Prunetti, who was found guilty, at the conclusion of his trial last night, of the murder of Giuseppe Toti. Vito was jointly indicted with his brother, Natali, but the charge against the latter was not pressed.

Beantown Feels Relieved

Boston, Feb. 26.—The threatened bean famine for Boston is off. Steamer Kyleakin arrived today, having as part of her cargo just 2000 bags of beans on board, which were picked up at Marseilles, France. It looked just a little while ago as though Boston was going to have a bean famine.

Stoessel Seeks Full Pardon

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title—Incorporated 1892)
The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, EDWARD G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy can easily appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $50,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, THOMAS REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE BROWNSVILLE SHOOTUP

Senate Committee Finds That Negro Soldiers Were Guilty

Washington, Feb. 26.—That the shooting in the affray at Brownsville, Tex., on the night of Aug. 13-14, 1906, was done by some of the negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry, and that the testimony taken before the senate committee on military affairs fails to identify the guilty parties, is the opinion of eight members of the committee. Four members of the committee voted against this decision and one member did not vote.

The resolution declaring the guilt of the negroes was submitted by Senator Lodge and was adopted after five resolutions by Senator Foraker, one by Senator Dupont and one by Senator Scott, all of which were offered as substitutes, had been voted down.

The vote was reached after prolonged investigation extending over two sessions of congress and evidence had been taken covering thousands of pages. Throughout the entire controversy the anti-administration side has been directed by Senator Foraker. In the final vote in the committee a majority of the Republican members came to his support. The Ohio senator expressed himself as gratified at this, as it was apparent from the outset that all of the Democratic members were convinced that the negroes did the shooting. The fight again will be carried to the floor of the senate.

Naval Experts Refute Charges

Washington, Feb. 26.—The experts in naval construction, Rear Admiral Converse and Rear Admiral Capps, were before the senate committee on naval affairs in the investigation of charges against the navy made in a recent magazine article. At the conclusion of the extended refutations by Converse it was stated that the apologies of the committee were due the officers for having called them to answer such charges. This incident at the conclusion of the first day's proceedings is thought to indicate that the inquiry will be short.

Owen Talks on Aldrich Bill

Washington, Feb. 26.—For nearly three hours yesterday Senator Owen spoke on the Aldrich currency bill, claiming that he had, through former Senator Jones, in 1900 proposed legislation somewhat similar to the bill under consideration, but with essential differences which he declared would have prevented the recent panic had it been enacted into law. Owen was frequently interrupted with questions, which led to a spirited debate.

King Wants to Take Oath

Lisbon, Feb. 26.—The cabinet has decided to annul the decree of Franco dissolving the chamber of deputies and reforming the house of peers, and to summon the dissolved chamber in order to permit King Manuel to take the oath of office. Later the council of state will decide on the question of the future dissolution of the chamber of deputies, as the new election will be held about the middle of April.

Legislation Kills Grain Exchange

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 26.—For all practical purposes the Grain Exchange here has ceased to exist. All that remains is the large room in which walk around and do curb trading. Six months ago a seat on the exchange was sold for $2900. At the end of the week American quotations will cease to be posted, all these conditions being brought about by legislation passed by the government.

Our Naval Men Do Well

Valparaiso, Feb. 26.—Lieutenant Commander Rozas of the Chilean navy, who made the passage with the American torpedo boat flotilla from Punta Arenas to Talcahuano, has arrived here. He says that the officers of the flotilla displayed great skill in navigating the difficult channels of the inner passage. The crews, he added, showed that they had been well disciplined and well prepared.

Anxious For Fleet's Visit

Melbourne, Feb. 26.—The invitation extended by Prime Minister Deakin to the American fleet to visit the chief seaports of Australia has awakened enthusiasm throughout the country. All the principal newspapers and political leaders are warmly supporting the idea. Deakin has asked the home government to use its influence in support of the invitation.

Confesses to Wrecking Train

Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 26.—G. W. Cox, a woodchopper, has confessed that he removed the rail from the track on the top of Otterville hill that resulted in the derailing of a freight train. Cox said he had intended to wreck and rob a fast passenger train which was due at Otterville a few minutes after the freight was wrecked.

Cruisers Under Rush Orders

Mare Island, Cal., Feb. 26.—Telegraph orders have been received here from the navy department for the cruisers Tennessee and Washington to sail as soon as possible for the south. The orders were a surprise to naval officers, as it was not understood that the cruisers were under rush orders.

Twenty-Six Discouraged Middies

Washington, Feb. 26.—Secretary Metcalf has accepted the resignations of twenty-six midshipmen at the naval academy who failed in their mid-winter examination for promotion.

New Teachers At High School

At the regular meeting of the School committee this week Miss Sarah C. Ames was elected as teacher of domestic science at the High school and Isaac Goddard as teacher of Manuel training at the same school. Miss Ames is a graduate of the Boston University and Philadelphia cooking school, where she was two years. She spent a year in travelling, going as far as the coast of the Philippines. She then took a special course at the Harvard summer school. She has an experience of a teacher for seven years in high schools, and also as a resident teacher in a private school in Philadelphia. She was for two years in charge of the food supply at the Women's Industrial and Educational Union in Boston, and for three summers has had charge of a summer camp for girls of 100 members.

Mr. Goddard is a graduate of the Worcester Classical High school. He then took a one-year's post graduate course at the Worcester Academy, and a three-year's course at the Worcester Polytechnical Institute. He is at present attending the Boston Manuel Training school and will graduate in June. He had had three years' experience as a grammar school teacher. Mr. Goddard will give two or three days a week at the High for the present.

The Committee also passed the following testimonial to James M. Nowland who has resigned as master of the Adams and Cranch schools.

"In accepting the resignation of Mr. James M. Nowland, the School Committee of the City of Quincy wishes to express its appreciation of his long and faithful service.

"In September, 1889, Mr. Nowland was placed in charge of the Adams school and in January, 1901, he was also made master of the Cranch school.

"Mr. Nowland has always been interested in the welfare and advancement of his pupils, has maintained harmonious and happy relations among his teachers, and secured the good will and co-operation of the parents in his district.

"He has proved to be a man of unusual executive ability, of sterling business integrity, and of high social and moral character.

"As a citizen, he has always taken an intelligent interest in public affairs, and always stood for the highest welfare of the community.

"It is recommended that this testimonial be placed upon our records and that a copy of the same be sent to Mr. Nowland."

CIVIC BETTERMENT

We Must Make Our City Lovely To Awaken Love of Our City

Although over two hundred tickets were out for the lecture by Mr. John Nolen, landscape architect of Cambridge, given on Wednesday evening in First Church chapel under the auspices of the Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club, less than a hundred were present owing to the storm and the multiplicity of entertainments in every section of the city.

Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher of Atlantic, chairman of the committee explained the object and aims of the Civic Betterment committee and hoped for the cooperation of the citizens in making Quincy a beautiful, harmonious and desirable city in which to live. She then introduced Mr. Nolen who was cordially greeted. Mr. Nolen is an enthusiastic worker for beautiful outdoor surroundings, public and private, and believes in making the most of what is at hand to do with and also looking far ahead to the future. He said:

In connection with Civic Betterment and the improvement of our outdoor surroundings, the problem presented in old towns and cities like Quincy, is full of both danger and opportunity. Quincy has an honorable history and worthy traditions, and this history and these traditions have expressed themselves in part in the streets of the city, in their arrangement and in the fine old buildings that face the streets and open squares. These monuments of an important past carry with them obligation and opportunity—obligation to preserve, and opportunity to build, a city that shall have its own peculiar flavor and quality and not be like any ordinary mushroom city that has sprung up in the night, rank in growth and lacking the fragrance that is comparable to that of a flower.

But there are two dangers to which a town like Quincy is subjected. First, the danger of destroying what is finest and fairest in the record of earlier days, and secondly, an unprogressive preservation of the material of the old days and a failure to catch the spirit of those days. In the olden time there was a practical common sense, a public spirit and a love of order and beauty that is not so prevalent today. Therefore our obligation—if we have such a proud ancestry as Quincy—is to preserve the best that remains from former generations, and to do the new work today in as fine or even finer spirit, planning with regard to use and beauty and aiming always to add the new to the old in such a way as to produce consistent harmony and unity. Thus treated Quincy will not lose its former power to elevate and instruct but will remain a happy and helpful environment for all its citizens.

Civic Betterment rests largely upon the achievements of outdoor art, using that term very broadly, and outdoor art includes the art of man expressing itself in buildings and monuments and the appropriate treatment of their surroundings, in the direction and arrangement of streets and the multitude of constructions that make up a city. It includes also Nature, which has been happily called God's art. Sometimes the need is simply to preserve, to set aside in all its natural beauty and impressiveness, and protect against defacement, some landscape or water front. More often, however, the need is to take a God-given natural resource, a bit of woodland with noble elms and oaks, a sweet and restful meadow, or a river valley, and not only preserve but enhance its beauty through the transfiguring medium of human art, and by ingenious device, and practically make it more ready and fit for human use and enjoyment.

Thus one of the characteristics of outdoor art is this happy combination in all its works of serviceableness and charm, use and beauty. It must lack neither. It must possess both. Every building or group of buildings, each street and open space, all parks, playgrounds and pleasure grounds, must be conceived, designed, executed and maintained so as to serve their respective purposes and at the same time to possess appropriate and distinctive beauty.

Another characteristic of outdoor or civic art is its permanence. It endures. It takes form in solid material. This is another reason for its being good.

Above all, outdoor art is democratic. It is for all. It is in no sense exclusive. The public buildings of a city, its green squares, its parks and playgrounds are enjoyed by rich and poor, the latter probably more than the former. And there is no sense of charity in their enjoyment. They are paid for by all in proportion to their ability, and enjoyed by all in proportion to their need. This is not art for art's sake, but for the people's sake.

The influence of art upon the civic spirit is very direct and profound. It is the goal of reform, the tangible result of our endeavors. Often in rather meaningless fashion we carry on a municipal campaign for "good government." What do we mean by good government? Of course it should be honest. The government should be efficient. It should give us certain concrete results—well paved, well

Coffee Party Largely Attended

Fully 800 were present at Music hall, Atlantic, Wednesday evening at the fifth annual reunion and coffee party of the Sacred Heart church. This number packed the hall to its very doors, and for a time it was difficult for one to move about.

The guests of the evening, aside from Rev. John P. Cuffe, the pastor of the church, were Rev. M. P. McDonnell of Braintree and Mayor Shea. The entertainment program included songs by the Bigelow trio, solos by John McGowan, Joseph Morrisette and Miss Mary McConarty.

The matrons of the party were: Mrs. J. H. Donovan, Mrs. Arthur Murphy, Mrs. Michael McGrath, Mrs. D. J. Nyhan, Mrs. Thomas Hannon, Mrs. Charles Duggan, Mrs. Hugh Gilmarin, Mrs. Katherine Ryan, Mrs. Abraham Levangie, Mrs. Martin Burns, Mrs. Michael Kelliher, Mrs. John Herne, Mrs. Joseph McCabe, Mrs. Thomas Bradley, Mrs. J. H. Cunningham, Mrs. William Coughlin, Mrs. Daniel Golden, Mrs. E. F. Havelin, Mrs. Jeremiah Deneen, Mrs. Patrick Dolan, Mrs. Julia P. Moynihan, Mrs. Niles Creamer, Mrs. J. B. Granahan, Mrs. William Ryne and Mrs. Patrick Reardon.

At the conclusion of the entertainment there was dancing, music being furnished by Cuff's orchestra. The grand march was led by Wendell J. Sprunk and Miss Mary Sprunk, who were followed by over 100 couples.

Those in charge of the floor were: Floor Director—Wendell J. Sprunk; Assistant Floor Directors—Timothy F. Sullivan and John A. Duggan.

Aids—A. L. Sprunk, James Bevis, William Barry, Robert Sullivan, Frank Lavery, Eugene McKenna, Frank Martin, Charles Aulback, R. J. Barry, Stephen Edwards, Edward A. Clifford, John Granahan, Thomas Deane, John Carty, Edwin Poland, C. Crowley, James Martin, Jr., Kenneth Gay, Charles Gallahan, C. Leary, Joseph Granahan, Arthur Murphy, Jr., James Costello, T. B. Harrigan, John McKenna, John Dolan, A. Levangie, John McLure, William Wieher and William Coughlin, Jr.

During intermission at midnight La Croix served refreshments. The committee in charge of the supper were: E. Shea, Wm. Coughlin, Miles Creamer, Thomas Dolan, Joseph Callahan, C. Duggan and M. Burns.

Reunion of High School Graduates

The annual reunion of the graduates of the Quincy High school was held Wednesday evening at High school hall. Fully one hundred were present and a delightful evening was enjoyed.

The reunion opened with a banquet served by Westover & Foss during which there was music by Merrill's orchestra, which also furnished music for the dancing.

Henry C. Hallowell Jr was toastmaster at the exercises which followed and covered himself with glory. He presided with remarkable ease and ability for a young man without experience.

The program was as follows:

To Our Alumni, Persis A. Thompson.

To Our Guests, Estelle S. Rice.

Toast, Helen D. Rhines.

Addresses by L. L. Cleveland and F. E. Parlin.

At the conclusion of the literary program there was dancing.

The committee in charge of the reunion were:—Herbert Percival, Gertrude Jones, Marjorie Fay, Wallace Bennett, Lawrence Allen, Willard Burke, Gertrude Barber, Carl Gram, Helen Rhines, Clark Boynton and Annie Blacklock.

Grade Crossing Meeting.

Original Minstrelsy.

There have been many enjoyable entertainments in Quincy the last few weeks but one of the best is yet to come. The "Original Minstrelsy" of the Men's club of Christ church last year was par excellence for amateurs and the success has encouraged the boys to even greater endeavors. You certainly remember the little fellow who sang last year "Waiting at the church." He twinkles this year too. Dr. Arthur Gould of Cohasset is also down for a ballad, and every number will be a hit. There has been a good demand for tickets.

SOME PROGRESS

Toward an Agreement by Granite Union And Association

A joint meeting of the committees representing the Granite Manufacturers' Association and Granite Cutters' Union was held Wednesday evening in an endeavor to reach an agreement.

The committees were in session until late, and while some progress was made, a final agreement was not reached. There will be another meeting of the two committees tonight.

The business interests of Quincy are anxious for a settlement.

Social and Dance Of the Eagles

John Adams aerie of Eagles held its first social and dance Wednesday evening at Music hall. Although there were many other attractions that evening and the weather was unbecoming there was a good attendance.

During the first part of the evening there was a pleasing entertainment which was followed by dancing.

Michael J. Boyle was floor marshal and E. S. Welsh floor director. They were assisted by a large corps of aids.

M. J. Boyle was chairman of the committee on entertainment, and J. A. O'Brien was chairman of the reception committee.

Did Sandberg Do It?

Ex-Representative E. J. Sandberg dropped into the House of Representatives on Wednesday afternoon to listen to the debate on Woman's Suffrage. He had hardly taken his overcoat when Speaker Cole saw him, and he was invited to a seat beside the speaker. The reception given him almost broke up the debate, but it was resumed, and continued for an hour or more. The vote was 30 to 90, another bad defeat for Woman's Suffrage.

Encampment Visitation.

Manet encampment, I. O. O. F., visited Wompatuck encampment of Weymouth on Wednesday evening. The program of the evening consisted of the working of R. P. degree by the degree staff of Wompatuck assisted by Manet, on seven candidates. Then the patriarchs, headed by the "Manet Band," marched to the banquet hall, where a turkey supper and ices were served. They then marched back to the lodge room, where cigars were passed round and speeches and songs closed a very enjoyable evening.

WOODBURY HEARING

Articles Found In Room 15 Are Introduced as Exhibits

DEFENSE IS MAKING GAINS

Medical Experts For Prosecution Had Never Seen Autopsy Under Similar Circumstances--Forced to Admit
They Do Not Know Cause of Death

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 27.—Most of the evidence introduced yesterday at the hearing of Herbert Woodbury, proprietor of the Foxcroft Exchange hotel, who is charged with the murder of his wife, had to do with the articles found in room 15 with the body of Mrs. Woodbury and their relative positions. All these articles, including the mattresses
and a piece of joist, by which the room-door was fastened, were brought into the courtroom and introduced as exhibits. Dr. Holt, the coroner, demonstrated in court just how these articles were arranged when he forced his way into the room.

Following his advantage of Tuesday,
when Holt confessed that he could not state positively that Mrs. Woodbury had been slain, Attorney Goodwin continued to deliver telling blows to the prosecution, advancing strong arguments, backed by medical expert testimony, to show that the woman was a suicide.

Goodwin is elated at the finding of Medical Examiner Magrath of Boston,
who said he found nothing at his autopsy which was inconsistent with the idea that Mrs. Woodbury ended her own life by strangulation.

Woodbury entered the courtroom
leaning heavily on his crutch, crippled with rheumatism, but looking satisfied with the headway his counsel had made with his case in riddling the stories of the four witnesses for the prosecution
who had deposed that the woman found dead after thirteen weeks in the attic of the Foxcroft Exchange hotel
had been slain.

Both Dr. Buck and Dr. Holt admitted under cross-examination that they had never performed or seen an autopsy under similar circumstances, and while they were free to testify that it was their opinion that the woman did not die a suicide by strangulation by the rope found about her neck, they could not, under cross-examination, furnish any medical logic as a basis for their conclusion.

Attorney Goodwin forced the doctors to admit that they did not know the cause of her death. They told him they never heard of a case of death by asphyxia by a rope.

Under the cross-examination of Goodwin, Holt and Buck each was forced to admit upon the witness stand that he did not know the cause of the death of Mrs. Woodbury.

During the cross-examination of Everett S. Lovejoy of Milo, brother-in-law of Mrs. Woodbury, the witness was forced to admit under the severe crossfire of Goodwin that he told Helen Woodbury, daughter of the prisoner,
that he believed the door of room 15
was bolted inside, but denied he told her that he had turned the lock back.

Great stress is laid upon this admission by the defense. They will try to show that Mrs. Woodbury carefully prepared to commit suicide. This will be one of the strongest bits of evidence offered by them, together with the result of Dr. Magrath's autopsy, which, it is believed, will conclusively show that the woman was not murdered.

The Reuterthal Charges

Washington, Feb. 27.—Just how far the senate committee on naval affairs
will go into criticisms of battleship
construction will be determined today.
Rear Admiral Capps, chief constructor
of the navy, has concluded his statement in reply to and in refutation of the Reuterthal charges, and Rear Admiral Mason, chief of the bureau of ordnance, will today meet the criticisms
made by Reuterthal of turret construction and ammunition hoists.

Deaths and Damage by Floods

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—The death of at least three persons and much property damage was caused in eastern Pennsylvania by floods precipitated by heavy rains and melting snow. Bridges were swept away, mills and manufacturing establishments inundated and railroad tracks flooded so that traffic was interfered with. The water is receding and no further trouble is anticipated.

Gillette's Mother to Plead For Him
Denver, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Louise Gillette, accompanied by her husband and their son, have started for Albany,
where Mrs. Gillette will appeal to Governor Hughes for executive clemency
for her son, Chester Gillette, condemned to death for the murder of Grace Brown. Mrs. Gillette maintains that her son is innocent.

Foreclosure of $75,000,000 Mortgage Trenton, Feb. 27.—Judge Lanning, in the United States court, has signed an order for the foreclosure of a mortgage for $75,000,000 on the property of the Sea Board Air Line railroad. Interest on the bonds had been defaulted.

Sakhalin Boundary Fixed Odessa, Feb. 27.—The Sakhalin island boundary commission has satisfactorily concluded the boundary regulations and a treaty to this effect will soon be signed by Russia and Japan.

PLEA FOR RIVER TRAFFIC

Unregulated Railroad Competition
Has Prevented Development
Washington, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt sent to congress the report of the inland waterways commission,
and in the message accompanying the same declares that the roads, through unregulated competition, have destroyed or prevented the development of commerce on the navigable rivers in this country.

He says that the rivers of the United States are more valuable than those of any other country for commerce, and that the failure to use them for navigation as they should be is astonishing.

He says if our resources of this kind
are utilized it will not only be of immense benefit, but save the country's coal and iron resources, protect forests
and prevent a timber famine, and enrich the population through irrigation.

Americans Visit Famous Ruins

Lima, Feb. 27.—Rear Admirals
Thomas, Emory and Sperry and forty officers of the American fleet, together with eighty Peruvians, proceeded on horseback to Pachacamac, eighteen miles from Lima, to inspect the famous ruins there. They lunched beside the ancient temple of the sun, where friendly toasts were drunk. Dr. Uhle directed the excavation for relics for the visiting Americans and a number of valuable ones were found.

'Borrowed' From Rug Merchants

New York, Feb. 27.—Levent Marto-gesian, the unfrocked Armenian priest
on trial on a charge of attempted blackmail, went on the stand yesterday in his own defense. Under cross-examination he said he had borrowed from various rug merchants $2000 which he still owed them, and that in one case he had represented that $500 was for the Hunchakist party. He denied that he had ever threatened the men from whom he borrowed.

Probe Will Cover Much Ground

New York, Feb. 27.—A general investigation of the seventeen companies which supply light, heat and power in Greater New York has been begun by the public service commission. The investigation will be made into the franchises, property and operation of the companies, their methods with respect to discrimination in ratio, the matter of contracts and the emergency service charges made by the companies.

No Let-Up on Evil Doers

Washington, Feb. 27.—That there will be no let-up in President Roosevelt's policy of "warring" against evil doers was emphatically declared by the president in an address to the delegates to the department of superintendence of the National Educational society during their reception at the White House. The president gave his views on educational methods at considerable length.

Would Give Veterans a Dollar a Day

Washington, Feb. 27.—Mr. Sherwood
(O.) spoke in the house of representatives in advocacy of his bill granting to all Union veterans of the Civil war who served eighteen months a pension of $1
a day. He estimated that the total expenditure for pensions under his bill would be $17,500,000 the first year,
which would be gradually decreased as
the old soldiers passed away.

Trial of Would-Be Assassins

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—Ten of the terrorists who participated in the unsuccessful attempt made in this city
last week to kill Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, a cousin of the emperor, and M. Chitchevlovitch, minister of justice, were placed on trial today behind closed doors before a military court. The offense is punishable with death.

Kelsey Wins Over Hughes

Albany, Feb. 27.—Otto Kelsey was retained in the office of state superintendent of insurance by the senate,
over the recommendation of his removal by Governor Hughes, by a vote of 30 to 19, without one word of debate.
The friends of Hughes were utterly routed and "threw up the sponge" absolutely in the preliminary proceedings.

Speeches Against Currency Bill

Washington, Feb. 27.—There were two speeches in criticism of the pending currency bill in the senate yesterday. Senator Culberson criticized the measure and spoke in favor of amendments he deemed necessary to make it of service. Senator Nelson also denounced the measure as of no importance.

Lower Wages For Cotton Operatives

Atlanta, Feb. 27.—The executive committee of the Georgia Industrial association, representing the cotton millers of the state, decided on a reduction of 10 percent in wages, effective March 1
next. It was also agreed that a curtailment of two days a week or more
where necessary, shall be put into effect.

Murderer Does Not Fear Death

Colorado Springs, Col., Feb. 27.—Guiseppe Allo, held for the murder of Father Heinrichs, has declared that he will plead guilty to the charge of murder. "There is no chance for me," he said, "and I have no fear of death."

County Local Option In Ohio

Columbus, O., Feb. 27.—The Rose bill, providing for county local option
throughout the state, passed the house by a vote of 79 to 36. The bill has passed the senate.

STORY OF MAPLESON

Miss Calla Represented Herself
to Be Mrs. Carkins

ROY WITH HER AT THE TIME

Accused Man Says He Shot In Self Defense--Woman In the Case Tells What She Declares to Be the
"Whole Story" of the Tragedy

Paris, Feb. 27.—A special dispatch from London says that in the course of an interview Henry Mapleson, director of Italian opera in London, stated that three years ago Miss Calla and Roy, under the name of Sergius, bought a house at Etretat from him, but on going to a notary to draw up the deed of sale the woman admitted that her first husband, whose name she said was George Carkins, was still alive. Accordingly the deed was made out in the name of Grace Calla Carkins.

Mapleson added that he had heard Miss Calla sing in Paris and she had such a beautiful voice that he immediately made a contract with her, which,
however, she did not keep, having left Paris a year ago. He tried several times to locate her, but without success. According to previous statements made in the case, Carkins was supposed to have been Miss Calla's brother.

At the home of his father in Neuilly, Paul L. Roy, charged by his wife with the murder of her brother, George A.
Carkins, at Newington, N. H., gave out a statement, in which he alleges that his brother-in-law opened fire on him
first and that he killed Carkins in self-defense.

Continuing, Roy said that he had intended to leave New York by a French line steamer, but changed his mind and booked aboard the Lusitania, which left at an earlier date. He tried to telephone his wife regarding the change in his plans, but was unsuccessful. It was through spite at his precipitate departure, he asserted, that she denounced him.

He declared that he could state where all the bullets discharged from Car-
kins' pistol struck. The first, he said, after traversing his coat, lodged in the sideboard; two others struck the wall beside his head; the fourth went through the ceiling, and the fifth smashed a wall panel near the door.

Story of Mrs. Roy

New York, Feb. 27.—"The whole story," as she called it, was told last night by Glacia Calla, the opera singer,
who, in the tragic role of a deserted bride, denouncing her husband as the murderer of her brother, has excited interest on two continents.

Her successes in Paris, her marriage to Paul Roy in Boston, the quarrel at the New Hampshire summer home, followed by a duel; her flight through the darkness of night to her mother's home,
and the ten agonizing hours she watched
by the corpse while the suicide explanation was agreed upon, were portrayed by the woman with all the dramatic art
of which she is possessed.

She agreed to shield her husband, she explained, because, "Oh, when you love
a man so." Now that her husband has left her and denied the legality of their marriage, even asserting that she is several years past her admitted age, the actress said that she had had time to realize "the horror of it all" and would "never let up until I drive him to the electric chair."

Miss Calla, as she prefers to be called,
closed the interview with the statement that she had already told her story to the authorities of New Hampshire and to her attorney here, by both of whom she had been forbidden to talk about the matter.

Miss Calla, who in private life is Mrs.
Paul E. Roy, came here several days ago and has since made her home with her cousin, George E. Hodgdon, a dealer in automobile supplies. A few days before her husband sailed for France
she called at his apartment, but he was not in. She did not see him at any time here and had not lived with him, she said, since the death of her brother,
George A. Carkins, on Jan. 2.

She engaged counsel in this city, she says, and secured a warrant for the arrest of her husband, the warrant later being sent to Rome. The statement by her husband cabled from Paris yesterday, in which Roy asserts that his brother-in-law was killed in self-defense, led Miss Calla to give her version of the tragedy.

Roy appeared in New York two months ago and sought employment as a chauffeur. A month later he secured such a position.

Warrant For Roy's Arrest

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 27.—A warrant for the arrest of Paul E. Roy on the charge that he murdered his brother-in-law, George A. Carkins, at Newington on Jan. 2, was sworn out last night
by Sheriff Collis of Rockingham county. Although Roy is in France and is said to be a citizen of that country, the authorities have determined to secure his presence here for trial if possible.

Marriage Is Not Recorded

Boston, Feb. 27.—Neither at the city hall nor the registry of marriages, following an examination of the records,
as far back as 1903, can any record be found to substantiate the claim of Paul L. Roy that he was married to Lillian Carkins at the city hall in Boston on Oct. 7 of last year.

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Several new plans will be shown at the grade crossing meeting Friday evening.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co., are having a special sale this week of children's coats.

Grade crossing meeting tomorrow night. Mayor Shea wants to see the Council chamber crowded.

Its worth a trial—the new product known as "Coal-In" prepared by F. W. Bent of Copeland street.

Mrs. Everett Pope and son Laurence of Billings street have returned from Somerville, where they have been visiting relatives over the week end.

The report of the National Mt. Wollaston bank on Wednesday and the National Granite bank today show that the banks of Quincy are strong, and getting stronger.

Six tables were in play at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club on Wednesday evening. Twenty-five hands were played and some good scores were made. Souvenirs for the best scores were awarded Dr. H. C. Halliwell and W. O. Wellington. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of play.

The union rally given in Memorial church on Sunday was well attended by members of the Congregational and Methodist churches. Miss Calder of Boston gave a very interesting talk which was followed by addresses by Rev. Henry A. Coolidge and Rev. B. F. Crawford. The meeting was most interesting and instructive throughout.

Officers and teachers of First Church Sunday school give a reception in the chapel tomorrow night from half past seven until nine o'clock, to parents and friends of the school. Rev. George Pratt of Boston an enthusiastic Sunday school worker and Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood of the Point will give addresses and refreshments will be served. Parish is cordially invited to attend.

The event this week in the social calendar at Atlantic is the dance and card party tomorrow night at Atlantic Music hall, under the auspices of the Civic Committee of the Quincy Women's club. All the prominent people of that village are interested as well as many from other sections of the city. The proceeds go for Atlantic improvements, which shows commendable interest along civic betterment lines.

The Congregational Men's club will meet this evening in Memorial church and wish to extend an invitation to all male residents of Atlantic to be present and hear Mr. Rupert Claffin of Quincy give a talk on "The Principles of Banking." This promises to be most interesting as Mr. Claffin has his subject well in hand as he has been in the banking business for many years. After the talk refreshments will be served. A large attendance is expected.

JELL-O

PREPARED INSTANTLY. Simply add boiling water, cool and serve. 10c per package at all grocers. 7 flavors. Refuse all substitutes.

The decorations will be a feature at the second annual ball of Quincy lodge of Elks. They will be beautiful.

Roy Cobb had a bone of the leg cracked on Wednesday at the shipyard, by a piece of iron falling on it.

Owing to the popular demand ladies' tickets have been issued for the Elks ball of Monday evening, admitting to the floor or balcony.

Mrs. George Draper and her twin boys of East Weymouth were the guest of her sister, Mrs. Edwin B. Langley, for the past few days.

Miss Laura Tolman, master's assistant at the Quincy school, has been obliged to return to her home in Winchester for the week on account of illness.

A Boston weekly has republished the Ledger's account of the funeral of William Melonis, without giving credit. A Prince Edward Island paper has also used it, but observed the ethics of journalism by giving due credit.

A Sunday paper printed an illustrated sketch of Mrs. Lucy Wood of Boston, a native of Quincy, who is prominent in temperance work and has been since the Washingtonian Movement and the days of the Good Templars and Sons of Temperance. She was born in 1830.

Certain gentlemen who held office under Mayor Thompson, and went into the "Ex class" since Mayor Shea was inaugurated, have received postal cards containing good natured bantering from a former Quincy resident now in California who walked the political plank two years ago.

Mayor Speaks To Orangemen

Although the storm was severe Wednesday evening there was a good attendance at the third annual concert and dance of Quincy L. O. L., which was held at Faxon hall.

The entertainment program opened with a selection "Forget-me-not" by a quartette, composed of Miss Helen C. Troupe, Miss Nellie S. Souter, Ernest Collins and George Davis. This was followed by a selection by William J. Smith, and a duet by Miss Ruth Colin and Miss Bertha Carlson, who gave that beautiful song entitled, "Alice Where art thou."

Then came a comedy sketch by Messrs Hillman and Harlow, which kept the audience in a roar of laughter. Other numbers on the program included a solo, "When the Blue Birds nest again," by Adolph Restelli; readings, by Miss Isabelle Davis; selections by the Quincy Flute band; solo "Mona" by Miss Bertha Carlson; selection by William J. Smith.

The program closed with a selection by the quartette "Good night, good night beloved." Shortly before ten o'clock, Mayor Shea arrived at the hall and was escorted to the platform by Dr. Anderson. He was warmly greeted and lively applause accompanied his appearance on the stage. The audience wanted to hear from him, and His Honor deferred to their desire by making a brief speech, in which he thanked the lodge for its invitation, complimented it on the gathering, and wished all present an enjoyable time.

After a brief intermission the hall was prepared for the dance. The grand march was led by the Mayor and Miss Nellie Souter, Andrew Stewart, W. M. and Miss McLeod; George Ruxton, chairman of the Committee on arrangements with his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Ruxton. Music was furnished by McTeer's orchestra, and dancing was continued until two o'clock. LaCroix served refreshments at midnight.

George Ruxton was floor director, William D. McKay assistant, and John H. Anderson and David Wright aids. The committee or arrangements were: George Ruxton, Richard R. Rundle, Andrew Stewart, David Wright, Martin McConnell, Alexander Morrison and J. H. Anderson.

Large Quincy Estate At Probate Court

An administration was granted to Horace F. Spear on the estate of Horace B. Spear, late of Quincy, by Judge Flint at the Dedham session of the Norfolk county probate court on Wednesday. The bond was $250,000.

The wills allowed were: Herbert A. Thayer of Franklin, Mary C. Guild of Canton, and Rose Messit of Brookline.

Administrations were granted on estates of Sarah B. Kinsley of Canton, Julia A. Chipman of Walpole, Sabina Barrett of Brookline, Edwin Fuller of Wellesley, Elizabeth Bullard of Medfield, Katherine C. Lloyd of Brookline, Margaret D. Munroe of Brookline, Louise W. Moore of Quincy.

Ladies' Night of Congregational Club

Ladies night of the Wollaston Congregational Club was quite a success on Wednesday evening, although stormy, for about 75 were in attendance, and the program was a very pleasing one. Potted plants added their charm.

President W. H. Hull presided and part one comprised music. Miss Annie Perry contributed a beautiful piano solo, Mrs. James H. Slade a group of two songs by Mary Turner Salter, which met with great favor; and Miss Ida Louise Poore a group of two charming solos, "The Arrow and the Song," by Pinsuti, and "Allah" by Chadwick.

Part two of the program was "A Travel Talk on Scotland" by Rev. James Alexander pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Boston, being some reminiscences of his native country.

He said he felt at home because the night was decidedly Scotch, a little more, however, than a Scotch mist. Scotland was a delightful place to visit but not all; neither was America the only place on earth. Dr. Alexander spoke at length of Edinburgh and Glasgow, and of the country in general; its scenery, architecture, customs, and types of Scotch character. The people take life easy, he said, and are noted for their genial hospitality.

After another pleasing vocal number by Mrs. Slade, delicious ices and cake were served by the committee. A vote of thanks was extended to all those who contributed to the program.

Many Houghs Neck Improvements

A well attended meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates was held Wednesday evening.

The committee on gas reported that a conference with President Richards of the Citizens' Gas Light Co., had been held and that he promised to have the district piped at an early date.

It was voted to raise funds for the purchase of the property known as the Head house for a club house. This will be done by a series of entertainments, dances, etc. The first entertainment will be a minstrel show, April 26.

A committee was appointed to look into the matter of a public landing. A committee was also appointed to arrange for the incorporation of the association.

It was voted to send a large delegation to attend the meeting of the City Council committee on Finance to urge the passage of the order appropriating $1,000 to abate the club nuisance.

Grand Musicale By Fore River Men

The musicale given at the Point church, Wednesday evening, by the Fore River draughtsmen and friends was one of the best entertainments ever held in the city. The church was packed to its utmost seating capacity, many standing. The program included selections by the Fore River Orchestra; organ selections by J. S. Wellings; "Champagne Song" by Messrs. J. W. Hendry, L. Fjellbeck, J. Barraja-Frauerfelder and C. Bergstrom; trio by J. D. MacBride, L. Fjellbeck, and Mrs. J. D. MacBride; solo by J. Barraja-Frauerfelder; trio by L. B. Doane, A. R. Kennedy and Mrs. A. R. Kennedy; "The Lost Chord" by J. W. Hendry, L. Fjellbeck, J. Barraja-Frauerfelder and C. Bergstrom; violin solo by L. Fjellbeck; solo by J. W. Hendry; "Ragtime Strollers" by L. B. Doane, A. R. Kennedy and Mrs. A. R. Kennedy; and intermezzo by William H. Tyer and Theo Bendix.

The orchestra included: First violin, J. D. MacBride, (Leader), and L. Fjellbeck; Second Violin, A. Bonney and James Melville; Cello, C. Sayward; Cornets, W. Fromm and J. Carruthers; Bass Viol, S. C. Berry; Trombone, F. Bhursted; Flute, A. W. Vining; Piano, Mrs. J. D. MacBride.

lighted clean streets, dignified public buildings, schools, playgrounds, parks and public gardens. These constitute the objects that art holds up as the goal for the civic spirit. If we would awaken love of our city we must make our city lovely.

Civic art furnishes the means for expressing the awakened civic spirit. Until expressed it does not fully exist. It is so with the child, it is so with the artist, it is so with a community. Possession depends upon expression. If we really would possess a civic ideal, we must express what that ideal stands for.

The lecturer then presented the lantern slides, which were shown in well ordered groups to illustrate the treatment of city streets, public buildings, private places, playgrounds, open squares and parks and the city as a whole. The views were selected over a wide range, covering this country and Europe.

Mr. Nolen showed several streets in foreign countries which were particularly beautiful because of the fine rows of trees, broad streets, grass plots and sidewalks and buildings of symmetrical height. Trees were cared for in these cities even on business streets whereas in this country there was a tendency to cut down and trim the trees in business sections. He believed in widening our streets and looking ahead to a larger city, also to more open spaces, squares and play grounds.

A good civic work was providing for the children some suitable recreation ground so that they would not have to usurp vacant lots. Boys provided with good wholesome amusement were not apt to go wrong. Chicago has the largest and finest play ground in the world.

Public and individual taste must be improved. This could be accomplished by keeping close to nature; reading good books, and becoming familiar with the best paintings in coloring and landscape.

At the close of the lecture Mrs. Whitcher invited any one desirous of more information to ask Mr. Nolen questions. Mr. Whitcher spoke of the disfiguring buildings along Quincy's new Metropolitan boulevard.

Several stopped after the lecture to meet Mr. Nolen.

Journalists As Patriotic Citizens

"There never was a time when a newspaper reader got so much for his money as now," says Gen. Charles H. Taylor, writing in Appleton's Magazine for March of "The Newspaper As It Is." To illustrate the point he quotes a number of examples. In the first great international yacht race in 1851 when America won the cup the newspapers printed reports of only 250 to 500 words of the event, as compared with the pages devoted to such an event at the present time.

In 1860 when Lincoln was nominated for the presidency one telegraph operator sent all the press matter filed at the Wigwam in Chicago where the convention was held. In a national convention today one company alone has at least 100 operators on duty.

"The combined circulation of the press of the United States in 1907," says General Taylor, "could not have been less than ten billions of copies. At the recent rate of increase in circulation and advertising the present year's income from these sources should be more than $200,000,000." Thus the business of newspaper publishing ranks as one of the very important industries of the country.

"Our papers are what the people make them," says the Appleton article. "The public decides what it wishes to read; the editors and publishers, trained in their business, gather their raw material and work it into the finished product, news, to meet the demand. I believe firmly that the journalists of the country are just as loyal and patriotic citizens, just as true men, just as eager to build up their communities, to uplift and broaden and better the people just as anxious to carry sunshine rather than sorrow and grief into the families which their journals visit, as are the same number of men in any other profession or any other line of business in the United States."

Athletic Events Of the Y. M. C. A.

The athletic and basket ball events at the Y. M. C. A. are coming rapidly at present.

Saturday evening this week will be ladies night. There will be a short exhibition followed by a basket ball game—Quincy 1st vs. Cambridge. Each team has won a game this year, so this game will decide the series and will be worth seeing. Ladies will be admitted free.

Wednesday March 4, Quincy boys will go to Brockton for the second dual meet. Three good prizes for each event and a shield for the winning team should attract a good field of athletes.

March 7, at 2 p.m. the second annual open boys' meet will be held in the Quincy gym. There are three sets of events for the different ages: boys 12 to 14, boys 14 to 16, and boys 16 to 18. The events will be 15 yds. dash, potato race, high jump, broad jump, shot put, and relay races.

March 12 will bring Quincy's fourth annual meet with No. Abington. Gold and silver medals will be given for the regular indoor events.

March 14, a fast basket ball team will journey down from Lowell to show our boys how to play the game. At least they think they will.

March 18, the open handicap State meet will be held in Somerville. Gold and silver medals will be offered for the first, second and third in each event. A number of Quincy men will enter.

All Members Can Have Weekly Sail

The adjourned meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club on Tuesday evening was one of the most unanimous and enthusiastic for years.

Action which will promote interest in the club was taken when it was voted that arrangements be made for two yachts to be on duty one day each week to take out for a sail members of the club who are not yacht owners.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

President's bulletin number 552 has been issued as follows:—"Notice is hereby given that attendance on trial trips is strictly limited to authorized representatives of the owner and its company's officers, and employees actually designated for duty on the trial. Guests on trial trips are necessarily at the company's risk and expense, and will be limited to those invited in writing by the president."

Barge, "Number Six," Rockland, Me., has discharged its cargo of coal and departed.

Under strict secrecy the officials of the Watertown Arsenal have shipped three carloads of modern field guns and carriages from the arsenal to a destination believed to be the Pacific coast. For the past few months, it is said that the departments at the arsenal have been working overtime. In the small arms, ammunition and large gun departments the work is being rushed with great vigor. What significance there is to this manifestation is only a matter of conjecture. The officials at the arsenal refuse to disclose the destination of the trainload of guns. When asked if the consignment was bound for the Pacific coast of the Philippines they refused to make any reply. Further than this, a general air of haste has pervaded the place for some time, which has penetrated to the small arms and ammunition, and but recently coast defence guns have been rushed to completion. The evidence in the matter of the heavy coast guns seems to point that the destination of these formidable munitions of war is not short of the Philippines where a number of this type are being mounted.

The new extension to the machine shop is now the scene of much activity, by night as well as by day. Work on the Curtis turbines for the Imperial Japanese navy is being pushed to completion. Two 144-inch turbines for a 23 knot Japanese cruiser will be shipped the last of the month to the naval dock yard at Kure, Japan, via the Suez canal. The two 144-inch turbines for the first class Japanese battleship will be shipped probably during August. Locomotive number 2 which has recently been out of commission undergoing a thorough overhauling and extensive repairs is again making the rounds. Scout cruiser Chester has her trial scheduled for today.

On April 1 next the British navy will have under construction seven battleships, four armored cruisers, one unarmored cruiser, ten torpedo boat destroyers, twenty torpedo boats and eight submarines.

An American gunboat will be stationed in the Bosphorus as soon as enlistments in the navy can be brought up to approximately the maximum quota. Treaty concessions between the United States and Turkey permit of the continued presence of an American man-of-war in the Bosphorus, though advantage has never been taken of this concession.

Ninetieth Birthday.
Mrs. Harriet Bailey of School street celebrated her 90th birthday, Feb. 26. An informal reception was held at her home, her old friends and neighbors calling on her to tender congratulations. She received gifts of flowers confectionery, etc. She is bright, active and remarkably well preserved. She entertained her friends with stories and amusing incidents of her life and appeared to thoroughly enjoy the occasion.

There were some 40 or more present, coming from Boston, Plymouth and other places. Ice cream and cake were served, and her friends on taking their departure expressed the hope that they would attend her centennial in 1918.

FOR ALL TIME

Abolition of Grade Crossings Should Be Done Right

Editors of Quincy Daily Ledger:

A few weeks since you invited the citizens to write for your columns their ideas on grade crossings.

It is much to be regretted that there is not more interest taken by the public in this very important work.

The small number attending and the narrow policy advocated by most of the speakers at the various meetings held at City Hall seems ridiculous. When the railroad was first built it was something of an experiment. They run but few trains daily, none on Sunday, and very slowly.

The State requires railroads to abolish all crossings at grade as soon as practical. That time has now arrived, and none too soon for the loss of life at Quincy Station alone has been appalling.

The idea of alighting from the left side of a train on an inward track should no longer be tolerated. It is very puzzling to a stranger, especially on a stormy night. While he is getting his bearings at the ill lighted station he runs a great risk of being struck by an incoming train, although the engineers are extremely cautious considering the large number of trains moved.

Now, no matter how many Elevated Street, or Boynton railroads are built through our city, the fact remains that the New Haven Road will transport all the freight and most of the passengers from the cities and towns to the south of us to and from Boston, and as those places grow, there will naturally be increased business. And when the grade is finally established, it will not be for five or twenty-five years but for all time as it will never be re-located. Therefore, it behooves us to see that we who use those stations and streets should have things right.

We are not to look after the interests of the New Haven Road. They will do that all right the cheapest way they can. That's business.

We must look out for poor old Quincy. Now, there is an incomplete boulevard originally intended to go under the tracks just north of President's bridge, but there is not sufficient head room for a proper arch, therefore, it would seem that work should commence about opposite South Central avenue, Wollaston, depressing the tracks all the way through South Quincy. (I should suggest even through North Braintree.) That would allow the continuance of all existing streets and many more which will have to be built in the future. It is easier to bridge a railroad than to pierce it. Quincy is still in its infancy. It has seven times the inhabitants now than when the road was first built, and will, on account of its proximity to Boston and its position on the water front, have a population of 200,000 in 1960.

All the gravel excavated could be utilized at hand which would lessen the expense. We must not be afraid of the cost. Our share will only be 10 per cent. The whole city will be benefited and there will be but very little land damage. Brockton had to pay 15. If I was an assessor I should say that Mr. Bates' property and the rink would be improved, as you could get at them more readily with carriages. Mr. Faxon's stores on Granite street could be easily raised and would rent fully as well on an upgrade as they do now on a down, and those shacks on the opposite side of the street should be demolished anyway as they are a sight.

Hoping I have not taken too much of your valuable space, I remain, Yours, Elisha Packard, Citizen.

Leap Year Party By Philatheas

The Philatheas class of Bethany church entertained about sixty of the young people Thursday evening at a leap year party. The first part of the evening was spent in playing games in which the young ladies had the choice.

Shortly after nine o'clock the doors were opened into the main chapel and a series of shadow pictures were given by the members of the social committee. Miss Lonely and Mr. Man of the Boston Post were represented by Miss Isabella S. Mitchell and Harry Brooks; Secretary Taft was impersonated also by Mr. Brooks. A leap year proposal was made by Miss Jessie D. Gardner to Henry Hayward, and several songs were illustrated by Misses Isabelle Mitchell and Mabel E. Lovejoy and Harry S. Bates and Harry Brooks.

During the evening candy was sold by several young ladies, including Misses Margaret Gardner, Bertha Pearson, Augusta Crane, and Avah Gilson.

The committee in charge of the social were Misses Mabel E. Lovejoy, chairman; Agnes Souter, Jessie Gardner, Lora Hunt, Daisy Burnell and Isabelle Mitchell.

Third Night of Fair.

Thursday night at the Quincy Point fair was another success. At the pie supper there were 176 present, and a crowded house at the entertainment which followed. The program included: Duet—Misses Lincoln and Johnson. Reading—From Longfellow's "Lady Wentworth," by Mrs. William F. Hodgkinson.

Solo—From Longfellow's "The day is done," by Miss Gage. Farce—"Aunt Mchitable's Scientific Experiment."

POPULAR MASTER

Teachers of the Adams and Cranch Tender Banquet To Mr. Nowland

It was after six o'clock Thursday night before any of the teachers of the Adams or Cranch schools reached their homes. They are not allowed to keep pupils as late as this, but it was the master, James M. Nowland, who was the victim this time. This is his last week as the principal of both these schools, and they planned a little celebration.

The surprise began at the opening of the afternoon session at the Cranch school when Miss Crane, the master's popular assistant gathered the pupils in the long corridor. Mabelle Geddes, one of the youngest pupils, in behalf of the school, presented Mr. Nowland a rich mission oak library desk saying the children thought he needed it as he was "all right."

Miss Marie Fegan, one of the teachers then presented a beautiful electric desk lamp with shade, saying:

"On the eve of your withdrawal from active association with us, we, the assembled teachers, and Mr. Tingley of the Cranch school, to be taken our lasting esteem and unbounded admiration for you, and to perpetuate ourselves in your grateful memory, desire to present you with this desk lamp. May its effulgence light your path, as you have lighted the paths of so many. Do you not divine our purpose, Mr. Nowland? We are trying to make "Light of our Loss."

Mr. Nowland responded very keenly and brightly, showing appreciation of the gifts, and of the friendship of the school.

Cheers followed, which were led by Maurice Blackmur, and were given lustily.

Part two came at the Adams building about 4.30, when the teachers of the Adams and Cranch schools united in giving a banquet to Mr. Nowland. The entire teaching corps of both buildings were present; also the janitors, Supt. Parlin, Mrs. Nowland and representatives of the press.

When all were assembled at the table set in the lower corridor, Miss Euphrasia Hernan, whose years of service have been longer than the master, presented Mr. Nowland a beautiful open-face watch appropriately engraved, saying in part:

"One is rather chary of praise when a person is in full power lest perchance it seem to savor of flattery, but as you are severing your connection with the schools, we do want you to know how much we appreciated your help and kindness. Yours was rather a unique case. Unlike some who merely take a position as a stepping stone to higher grade and increase salary, you concentrated all your energy, ability and thought on the work at hand."

"Over eighteen consecutive years at one school is quite a record. During all that time which was rendered short by the pleasure made possible for us in our work, never have we heard one unkind criticism from teachers, whether their stay was long or short."

"You were ever ready and willing amidst engrossing cares, to listen to the teacher's plaint, and share with her all joys of her triumphs. One and all felt they had a noble, loyal, faithful helper, and that when he did criticize it was in the gentlest, kindest most hopeful way for their own good."

"The children, too, are losing not only an excellent Principal, but a true devoted friend.—One who sought their moral uplift, and the building of their characters—always trying to bring out the best that was in them for their future usefulness in the world."

"We also feel that not only the teachers and pupils, but the profession and community, are sustaining a great loss in your retirement. Your memory shall be as the after glow of noble thinking, delightful converse, of labor disarmed of its name and wreathed in garlands of flowers—I dare not say that on his life we may not look again, for all things are possible to him who created Mr. Nowland. This I know, however, we have not had his equal. You have founded yourself deep in our affections and invested us with your high principles and it would take a rare genius, and truly wonderful man indeed to supplant you."

"As a token of the lasting love and affection in which you are held by teachers pupils and Mr. Linton we ask you to accept this little gift. Keep it as a memento of loyalty and devotion of us all and as often as you have occasion to use it may it serve to keep us fresh in the golden circle of your living memory. We wish you a hearty God speed in your new field of labor."

Mr. Nowland responded saying in part:

"Fellow teachers of the Adams and Cranch schools. In closing my work with you as principal and teacher, I want to thank you for your loyalty to the schools and myself during the entire time we have worked together. It has been this loyalty and willingness on the part of everyone connected with the schools, to take hold cheerfully of whatever work was asked of them, that has made whatever good we have been able to accomplish, possible. I always knew I could depend on you to the last ditch."

"I trust you will give my successor the same hearty support you have always given me, and make his stay with you as happy a one."

"I want to thank you for the very beautiful gifts you, the janitors and pupils have just presented to me, they will help to keep fresh in my

MEN'S CLUB

Has Taken Atlantic By Storm Large Membership

The men of Atlantic are enthusiastic over the Men's Club being organized at the Congregational church, which is non-sectarian. Over 60 were present at the second meeting on Thursday evening, a record breaking attendance for men at Atlantic.

Frank Jenkins, the president, was in the chair, and the records of the preliminary meeting were read by F. M. Burditt the secretary.

Fred Coburn of Somerville, told of the success of the Men's Club of the Universalist church of that city, which in two years had attained a membership of over 200 members. The club had proved to be of benefit to the church and to the members.

A. H. Lovejoy of Boston contributed two cornet solos during the evening which struck a popular chord.

R. F. Claffin, the cashier of the National Granite bank of Quincy, was next introduced, and spoke of the principles of banking from an experience of 40 years.

It was in 1863-65 that National banks were established, and the State banks disappeared. The National banks had it much their own way until recently when trust companies had appeared on much the same lines of the old State banks. It was evident that Mr. Claffin was not enthusiastic over trust companies. He followed with an explanation of the currency problem.

R. F. CLAFFIN.

The establishment of banks sometimes proves a blessing, he said, but sometimes not. Should be established only where needed, and by business men sympathetic with business interests. He claimed that Banks exceeded

INDIANS IN DISPUTE

Dramatic Scene Marks Proceedings of the Senate

CHEROKEE TAUNTED BY KAW

Curtis Tells Owen That He Is "Under the Control of the Secretary of the Interior" and Wordy Dispute Ensues—Owen's Proposition Fails

Washington, Feb. 28.—One of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in the senate occurred when Senator Owen
of Oklahoma insisted in tragic tones,
and with a face showing much emotion,
that the five civilized tribes of Indians
were dead, and that he, as a member of the tribe of Cherokees, was not under the control of the secretary of the interior.

The event was rendered all the more interesting by the fact that Owen was sharply engaged in controversy by Senator Curtis of Kansas, himself a Kaw Indian. It was the first time that two men with Indian blood in their veins ever disputed as senators in the senate chamber.

The controversy arose during consideration of the Indian bill and was precipitated by an effort by Owen to have that bill so amended as to recognize the citizenship of the five civilized tribes of Indians by having the word
"late" inserted before this designation.

Mr. Curtis sought to interrupt Owen
before the Oklahoma senator had concluded his first sentence. "But," interposed the Kansan, "your property is under the control of the secretary of the interior, and you know it."

"I do not," retorted Owen.

Mr. Curtis insisted upon his view of the status of the Oklahoma senator.
He did not contend that the property of the senator from Oklahoma, aside from that owned by him as a member of the Cherokee tribe of Indians, was under the secretary's control, but that his tribal property was. "I think you ought not to be under control of the secretary, but you are," he said.

"I agree," quickly replied Owen,
"with the senator from Kansas that I ought not to be. I disagree with him that I am."

The dramatic tone of the Oklahoma
senator rather startled the chamber,
and persons in the galleries leaned forward to see the disputants. Owen left his place in the rear of the chamber and advanced to the central aisle, where he was within sight of everyone.

The two senators of Indian blood were now facing each other twenty feet apart, and both appeared to have lost sight of parliamentary rules and were carrying on a personal colloquy.

Mr. Owen said that the supreme court of the United States had declared that Indians holding allotted lands were citizens of the United States. Rising to his full height, his olive-colored face showing that his pride had been touched by the suggestion that he was under the control of the secretary of the interior, Owen continued:

"The Cherokee nation can demand no allegiance from me. I owe them no allegiance. The only allegiance I owe is to my government, the United States, and to the state of Oklahoma. I say the supreme court has passed upon this matter and I shall insist that it is right that the word 'late' shall be included in that amendment."

Mr. Curtis then took the floor and explained that he merely interrupted the Oklahoma senator so as to be able to make a correct statement to the senate.

"When you made that statement about the Delawares being absorbed by the Cherokee tribe, of which you are a member, you should have told how they were swallowed up by the Cherokees," he exclaimed, pointing at his antagonist.

Senator Carter came to the rescue and attempted to show that both senators were right. His remarks put the senate in a better humor, and laughter displaced the strained state of mind
that had prevailed.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma added to the relaxed tension by suggesting a way out of the difficulty. "It would be well," he said, for the senate to recognize the belligerent rights of these two Indians."

Both of the objects of this sally joined in the laughter that filled the chamber. When the discussion was brought to a conclusion by the unfinished business, Owen went over to the Republican side and, approaching Curtis in a friendly manner, took a seat
by his side. The two good-naturedly continued the discussion so heatedly began on the floor.

After further debate, Owen's proposition to designate the Indians as the late five civilized tribes was voted down, Owen's being the only vote in its support.

FINDING IN MERGER CASE

New Haven Road Indirectly Controls
Many Street Railways

Boston, Feb. 28.—The New York,
New Haven and Hartford railroad has indirectly acquired the stock and is practically in control of several street railways in this state, is the gist of a master's report handed down by Wil-field S. Slocum in the case of the commonwealth against the New York, New Haven and Hartford road.

In the report, which covers 450 pages,
the master states that although the defendant corporation did not get control of the Massachusetts trolley lines
directly, it does, however, control them indirectly and ingeniously through what is known as the New England Investment and Securities company, whose officers are either directors or officers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Nearly two years ago Attorney General Malone took the merger of these railroads up, and after an investigation contended that the acquiring of these street railways by the defendant company was against the statutes. Slocum was appointed by the supreme court to hear the case. His report will be presented to the supreme court,
which will hear the entire matter.

Coroner's Report on Eddy Case

Providence, Feb. 28.—The report of Coroner Mowry on the death of Miss Mary Eddy, who was fatally assaulted and robbed of her week's wages while returning to her home in Greenville, states that death was caused by a blow
on the head from a weapon held by some person unknown to the coroner.
Earl Jacquith is now in jail awaiting action on the case by the grand jury.

Rush in Business Expected

New Haven, Feb. 28.—Reports from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company show during the last two weeks a slight betterment
in earnings. Among officers of the company a much more hopeful feeling of better times ahead prevails. A prominent officer of the corporation predicts that when that demand sets in business will come with a rush.

Alleged Scheme to Defraud

Boston, Feb. 28.—Because Chief Justice Goff of New York and the board of park commissioners of Rochester did not receive guinea hen eggs, pheasants
and pet animals, for which they sent money to George M. D. Gardner of Medford, the latter was placed under arrest at Waltham on a charge of using the mails in pursuance of a scheme to defraud.

Misuse of Mails Alleged

Providence, Feb. 28.—An indictment charging unlawful use of the mails to defraud various persons was returned by the federal grand jury against John M. Peck. It is alleged that Peck, who was associated with Benjamin W. Comstock in a dry goods concern in this city, ordered goods through the mails when he knew he could not pay for them.

A Plea From Abroad

Boston, Feb. 28.—A letter questioning the propriety of asking Bostonians
for funds to aid "Cotton chapel," a connected with St. Botolph, the parish church of Boston, Eng., has been received by Mayor Hibbard of this city from Mayor Wood of Boston, Eng. The letter was turned over to Bishop Lawrence.

Brothers Took Own Lives

Sabatius, Me., Feb. 28.—Frank S.
Sanborn of this place committed suicide by hanging. He was 55 years old. Dependency is said to have been the cause. About three years ago his brother committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Japanese Exterminating Seals

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Speaking on the subject of pelagic sealing in the north Pacific ocean, it was suggested in the house that reference of the whole question to The Hague tribunal and a total prohibition of sealing for ten years to prevent the extermination of seals be made. Japan is not bound by the Paris award and is fishing in season and out of season in the islands and on the high seas.

A Great Bank Swindle

Paris, Feb. 28.—An individual in New York obtained a letter of credit from a large banking house there and made excellent duplicates by means of photographs, which he forwarded to accomplices in London, Paris, Rome, Vienna, Marseilles, Genoa, Hamburg
and Munich, who cashed them simultaneously, netting $100,000.

Guilty of High Treason

Leipzig, Feb. 28.—An anarchistic journalist named Oestreich has been sentenced to three years in jail and five years' loss of civil rights on the charge of high treason in consequence of an article which he published in The Free Workers, advocating the overthrow of the present form of army and imperial government.

Rheumatic Gout Afflicts Evans

Lima, Feb. 28.—Two Peruvian physicians paid a professional visit to Rear Admiral Evans on board the flagship Connecticut and found that he was suffering from rheumatic gout, but that his condition was not serious. It is believed Evans will be able to direct the movements of the battleships on their departure.

Disaster in Mexican Mine

Sabinas, Mex., Feb. 28.—There was an explosion of gas in mine No. 3 of the Cia Carbon de Sabinas mine at Rosita.
There were about 200 men working in the mine and none have come out. It is expected that many are dead or badly burned. A special train has left here with doctors.

WOODBURY IS JAILED

Hotel Keeper Held Without Bail
For the Grand Jury

UNMOVED BY THE DECISION

Unavailing Argument For Discharge of Alleged Wife Murderer—Mysterious Tragedy Attended by Many Unusual Circumstances

Foxcroft, Me., Feb. 28.—Herbert
Woodbury was held without bail for the September term of the Piscataquis county grand jury on the charge of murdering his wife, Phoebe M. H. Woodbury, whose body was found hanging to the doorknob of an upper room of the Exchange hotel in this town Feb. 18,
after a disappearance of three months.

Judge Smith of the Dover municipal court gave this decision at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing on the charge against Woodbury. Woodbury, who has not been in good health for the past few months, took the decision philosophically. The prisoner was immediately removed to the Dover jail.

The hearing on the charges against Woodbury commenced last Tuesday,
and the state rested yesterday at 12:40
o'clock. The arguments of Attorney Goodwin for the defense and of County Attorney Burgess took up over an hour apiece. Goodwin urged for the discharge of Woodbury, on the ground of insufficient evidence, while Burgess called particular attention to the evidence of physicians to the effect that,
while in his opinion death was caused by strangulation, it could not have been caused by hanging from the doorknob where the body was found. Burgess also said that jealousy was the cause of the alleged crime.

The charge against Woodbury was attended by many unusual circumstances. Mrs. Woodbury, who was his third wife, disappeared last November,
and it was understood that she had left her husband after a quarrel, which, it is said, had been of somewhat frequent occurrence. At the time the couple were running the Exchange hotel, but after Mrs. Woodbury's disappearance
the house was closed up.

As the weeks went by without any word being received from Mrs. Woodbury, some of her relatives began to fear foul play, and on Feb. 18, accompanied by officers, they made a search of the deserted Exchange hotel. In one of the upper rooms, the door of which had to be forced open, the body of Mrs.
Woodbury was found hanging to the doorknob.

So far as was brought out at the preliminary hearing, which closed late yesterday, there were no evidences of a struggle in the room and the woman's clothing had not been disarranged.
Woodbury, who after the finding of his wife's body was detained as a witness, claimed that his wife must have committed suicide, and an autopsy was held to determine, if possible, the exact cause of death.

Coroner Holt and his assisting physician said as a result of their autopsy that in their best judgment, the woman
did not meet her death by hanging, but was choked to death in some other way. They said they found the windpipe in its normal condition and said
this condition bore out their theory, as the windpipe would resume its normal condition upon the release of the pressure upon it, whereas, if death had been caused by hanging they believed that the constant pressure upon the windpipe would have kept it closed.

Woodbury was thereupon formally arrested on the charge of murder and was given his preliminary hearing,
which resulted in Judge Smith's decision to hold him for the action of the Piscataquis grand jury.

Walker Fights Extradition

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 28.—The extradition matter in which the Connecticut officials seek to obtain possession of William F. Walker, accused treasurer of the Savings Bank of New Britain, was up for argument before Judge Cardena at Ensenada. The main contention is that Connecticut has lost her rights under the treaty, not getting the papers in Ensenada inside of forty days specified in the treaty.

Congo Squabble Taxing Patience

Brussels, Feb. 28.—The differences between King Leopold and the Belgian parliament still continue over the question of the annexation of the Congo Independent State. King Leopold now demands a civil list of $600,000 from the Congo, and the various parties are showing signs of impatience. The Belgian parliament may abandon the Congo Free State altogether unless a prompt decision is reached.

Missouri Republicans For Taft

St. Louis, Feb. 28.—Resolutions favoring the candidacy of W. H. Taft for president and commending the administration of President Roosevelt were adopted by the Republican state convention. In addition Attorney General Hadley was endorsed as the Republican nominee for governor.

Religious Teaching in Schools

Rome, Feb. 28.—The cabinet was victorious in its opposition to the abolition of religious teaching in the schools.
The motion brought in in the chamber of deputies by the Socialist party, proposing the complete abolition of such teaching, was defeated by a vote of 333
to 106.

DO NOT KNOW WHAT CAUSES SICKNESS

Modern People Have Many Names for Same Diseases, According to New Belief.

Does human health depend on one organ alone? This question is becoming widely discussed since L. T. Cooper first advanced his theory that the stomach is the true seat of life and all health dependent upon it.

Mr. Cooper, who has met with remarkable success in the sale of his new medicine, believes that the stomach is responsible for most sickness, and that this organ is weak in the present generation. While discussing this theory recently, he said: "I am asked time and again to tell why my medicine has made such a record wherever I have introduced it. My answer always is, 'because it restores the stomach to a normal condition.' No one will deny that today there are more half-sick men and women than ever before. Nothing critical seems to be the matter with them. They are just half-sick most of the time. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands during the past two years, and few knew indeed what their trouble was. One said nervousness, another said kidney trouble, another liver complaint, some constipation, or heart trouble, or lung trouble. Many had treated as they called it, for most of these diseases at different times. A very common complaint is 'all run down,' or 'tired all the time,' or 'no appetite.'"

"I know positively that every bit of this chronic ill health is caused by stomach trouble, and nothing else. My New Discovery puts the stomach in sound condition in about six weeks. Mighty few people can be sick with a sound digestion. That is why my medicine is selling at such a tremendous rate. I have convinced many thousands of people that these things are so, and the number is growing by leaps and bounds."

Among more recent converts to Mr. Cooper's beliefs is Mr. Edgar L. Hinds, living at 6 Tappan Street, Everett, Mass. Mr. Hinds has this to say on the subject:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for eight years. I was not sick enough to be in bed, but just felt bad all the time. My greatest trouble was that I always felt tired, would get up in the morning feeling as tired as when I went to bed."

"I had a very irregular appetite, and was troubled with dizzy spells. If I stood for any length of time, I would have a dull pain in the lower part of my back. I was nervous and felt all the time as though something terrible was going to happen. I tried many kinds of medicine, but nothing ever helped me."

"I had about given up all hope of ever being in good health again, when I heard so much of Cooper and decided to try his medicine. I took one bottle of his New Discovery and was greatly surprised at the result. I gained 12 pounds in a few weeks. I can now eat anything I wish, and feel like a new man. I cheerfully recommend this medicine to all sufferers from stomach trouble."

"It is worth anyone's time, who is not enjoying good health, to learn of Mr. Cooper's wonderful preparations. We are selling them in large quantities."

—E. J. Murphy.

THE CARKINS MURDER

Miss Calla, Her Mother and Stepfather Repeat Their Stories

SAY KILLING WAS DELIBERATE

Affidavits Attached to Warrant Sworn Out For Arrest of Roy—Slain Man May Have Passed as Actress' Husband, but Was Her Brother

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Paul E. Roy, or Glacia Calla, as she now prefers to be known, who gave the authorities of Rockingham county information which has led to the warrant for the arrest of her husband, Paul E. Roy of Paris, on the charge of murdering her brother, George E. Carkins, is at her home in Newington and will remain in the county as long as her presence is desired by the authorities. She arrived here yesterday from New York. For several hours Mrs. Roy was under examination at the office of County Solicitor Batchelder. Her mother, Mrs. James D. Kelley, her stepfather, and Dr. Jenkins, the physician who was called to the Newington residence on the night Carkins was shot, also appeared later and were examined by the county solicitor.

It is learned that Mrs. Kelley's story and that of her husband had not changed in the least, while that of Miss Calla varied slightly in some instances. In her original story, that which brought the first information to the officials of this county that the case was one of murder, Miss Calla said that she was not sure whether she saw a revolver in her brother's hand or not.

Now it appears she is almost certain that he did not have a gun in his hand. This tends to bear out the original theory of deliberate murder by the woman's angry husband. Immediately after the taking of the affidavits they were attached to the warrant sworn out for the arrest of Roy, charging him with murder in the first degree.

It is established that Carkins was the brother of Miss Calla. While it may be that he went over to Paris with her posing as her husband for certain purposes, the people here who are closely acquainted with the family history say that both children were born of the same mother.

There is no record at the local city hall of Miss Calla's birth, but as it was there several years ago it is believed to have been lost. Miss Calla now is said to be about 38 years of age. Her mother was born on Dec. 25, 1851, and was married to Oriel Carkins sixteen years later. Miss Calla, like her mother, married when 16 years of age.

About Baroness Von Orendoff
Washington, Feb. 28.—Baroness A. B. Von Orendoff, the widow with whom Glacia Calla is said to have once rented a house in Paris, lives in Washington. When she first came here she was armed with letters of introduction to prominent people of this city, written by friends and acquaintances abroad, and for a while she was constantly in attendance at social functions. She became acquainted with some of the best known people, particularly in official and diplomatic circles, and at smart receptions and other assemblies was for a time a quite familiar figure. Latterly she has attended but few affairs of this sort.

Efforts to reach the baroness were unsuccessful. Her home is on Twentieth street, but there a maid told newspaper men that her mistress was in Alexandria, Va., and at the office of one of her family, Bohrer Von Orendoff, an attorney, it was said that he also was out of the city.

Public Sympathy With Roy
Paris, Feb. 28.—The Roy case is attracting much attention in the French press and there is much public sympathy for Roy's father, who is one of the most prominent dealers in blooded horses in Paris. Detective Goron and members of Roy's family are contesting every damaging statement telegraphed to Paris from America. They insist that the killing was a legitimate act of self-defense. The family plainly seeks to represent that Roy was the victim of Miss Calla's wiles, stress being laid upon the family's effort to break off his relations with her.

Dressmaker Sues Mrs. Roy
Exeter, N. H., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Paul E. Roy, in addition to furnishing evidence against her husband, will figure in the Rockingham county superior court as a defendant in a civil suit brought by Georges Doeillet, a Paris dressmaker, to recover $1300. The plaintiff alleges that Miss Calla owes her $1300 for dresses, the goods having been delivered, but the bill never having been paid. The suit appears on the docket as "Georges Doeillet vs. Lillian Carkins, alias Glacia Calla."

Fowler Bill Finds Favor
Washington, Feb. 28.—The Fowler currency bill was adopted by the house committee on banking and currency. In practically the form in which it was introduced, and as a result of weeks of public hearings and consideration in executive session. The bill provides for the retirement of all outstanding bond-secured currency and the issue in substitute of a currency based on the assets of the national banks, that is, a gold-secured currency. One of its chief features is a provision for a federal guaranty of national bank deposits.

WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING

Monk Made a Business of Assaulting and Killing Women

Verkhoturys, Russia, Feb. 28.—The circuit court of this town met out partial justice to a monk named Fedotoff, whose criminal and iniquitous career was revealed last fall, by sentencing him to penal servitude for fifteen years. The monk enjoyed a great reputation for sanctity, but when the revelations came it was learned that his holy ways and words were nothing but a cloak for robbery, murder and debauchery of every kind. The repeated disappearance of female pilgrims who visited the monk's chapel in a neighboring forest, where he lived as a hermit, attracted the attention of the authorities and resulted in a careful investigation. This disclosed the bodies of no less than twenty victims whom Fedotoff had assaulted and murdered and then buried in the cellar of his house.

The charge of sacrilege, in that he had stolen the sacramental vessels from churches and monasteries, also was established against the hermit.

Submarines All "Sick Abed"

Washington, Feb. 28.—Representative Lilley (Conn.) introduced a resolution calling on the secretary of the navy to inform congress of the physical condition at the present time of the various submarine torpedo boats owned by the government, together with full information of reports relating to the performance of each submarine, accidents thereto and repairs thereon. He said that he was informed that the dozen or so submarines purchased from the Holland boat company by the government are practically all sick abed—broken down, tied up at wharves, out of commission.

Rules Committee Must Move

Washington, Feb. 28.—The all-powerful committee on ways and means of the house of representatives was put to rout and by an overwhelming vote was ordered out of the capitol to the new house office building, a block away. Various members of the committee strenuously objected to the removal, but their protests availed them nothing. The committee's present rooms are desired that the speaker may have more commodious quarters.

Former Priest Goes to Prison

New York, Feb. 28.—A minimum sentence of two years and two months in state prison was imposed upon Le-vont Martoogessian, the Armenian former priest and treasurer of the local branch of the Hunchakist society, who was convicted of extortion. Several of his countrymen in this city alleged that death was threatened as the alternative to contributing to the society represented by the prisoner.

La Follette Boom Launched

Milwaukee, Feb. 28.—The Republican state central committee adopted resolutions endorsing Senator La Follette as a candidate for president after a bitter fight by the members of the committee who opposed the original La Follette resolution. The La Follette leaders finally agreed to a substitute which endorsed the present state administration as well as La Follette.

Death Sentence For Reds

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28.—A military court condemned to death seven of the terrorists, charged with complicity in the attempt last week in this city upon the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholasievitch, a second cousin of the emperor, and M. ## PATENT OFFICE SCANDAL

Records Destroyed to Get Patent on Invention Valued at $5,000,000

Washington, Feb. 28.—Three arrests brought to light a scandal in the patent office which has been under investigation since early in February and which revolves around an invention valued at more than $5,000,000. The parties arrested are Ned H. Barton, third assistant examiner of the patent office; Henry W. Everding, a patent attorney of Philadelphia, and John A. Heany, an inventor of York, Pa.

They had been indicted by the United States grand jury for conspiracy to defraud the government and for destroying public records. The indictment charges that the three men, "with an intent to steal and destroy," carried away from the patent office certain letters, specifications and amendments relating to patents, and unlawfully and wilfully destroyed them.

The investigation was made upon information that, as a result of a conspiracy, John A. Heany had been given a patent on an invention for manufacturing filaments and electrodes for electric incandescent lamps. It is alleged that, through connivance with Barton, Heany and Barton contrived more than twenty of the largest electrical concerns in the country striving to get the same patent. All of these concerns had filed applications for a patent, but from time to time Barton, it is charged, would see the specifications and employ whatever he desired for perfecting Heany's invention. To be successful in this plan it was necessary to destroy certain records and the substitutes therefor.

The Thomases Indicted

New York, Feb. 28.—Edward R. Thomas and Orlando F. Thomas, both noted financiers of extensive interests, were indicted on charges growing out of their management of the funds of the Provident Savings Life Assurance society, which they controlled. The offences charged are violations of the state insurance laws and constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $500 or a year's imprisonment or both on each count. The Thomases were arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Meantime they were admitted to bail of $5000 on each of three indictments.

Runaway Engine Kills Two Men

Brockwayville, Pa., Feb. 28.—While a yard engine was taking water here Engineer Ray tried to tighten a bolt on the throttle. The throttle bolt suddenly blew out and the engineer and fireman were hurled from the cab. The engine, with 200 pounds of steam, started down the yard at terrific speed and collided with the caboose of a freight train. Two brakemen sitting in the caboose were crushed to death. The runaway engine and several cars were demolished.

Anarchistic Activity in Madrid

Paris, Feb. 28.—A special dispatch from Madrid says there is much uneasiness at what appears to be a renewal of anarchistic activity. On several occasions recently, the dispatch says, suspicious persons have been arrested while trying to approach King Alfonso. The authorities, however, maintain strict secrecy.

Munsey Buys Baltimore News

New York, Feb. 28.—Frank A. Munsey announces that he has bought the Baltimore News, taking over all of the stock of the corporation. He will formally assume control of the newspaper tomorrow. The News is an independent paper, politically, and Munsey announces that it will continue to be so conducted.

Telegraphers Dissatisfied

St. Paul, Feb. 28.—By an overwhelming majority, telegraph operators on the Northern Pacific have rejected the proposition made by the road in regard to a new schedule of hours and wages to become effective March 4, when the "hours of service law" goes into effect. There are 900 telegraphers on the system.

Van Schaick Goes to Sing Sing

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Fred Bavin of Quincy is visiting his father's relations in Montreal and Quebec.

Mrs. Sophia King of Washington street has been ill for the past three weeks with rheumatic fever.

The lemonade table at the Point church fair was in charge of Mrs. E. H. Bushnell and Mrs. Eugene R. Stone.

Mrs. Robert G. Reed of Woodward avenue mourns the loss of her mother, Mrs. George W. Rideout, who passed away this morning.

Mrs. William C. West and baby daughter have returned from Mexico for a few weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. West of Highland avenue.

The High school boys have been playing excellent basketball this season. Soon the High school gym will be in readiness, much to the physical good of its 800 pupils.

Granite Conclave, I. O. H. of Quincy held an open meeting Thursday night at which Oliver Bryan of Baltimore, General Conductor of the order was the speaker, assisted by E. A. Sheffield, District Organizer of Brooklyn, N. Y., C. H. Ramsey of Winthrop National Bank of Boston, J. G. Gilbride and F. A. Breen, D. S. A. of Boston. A musical entertainment followed.

MILTON.

An entertainment and social was held by the East Congregational church at Ellsworth hall this week.

The Thursday Evening club held a whist party this week at the club rooms. Subscription dance at Ellsworth hall next Monday evening.

J. J. Hammers the popular druggist has moved from Otis street to the J. M. Bryant house on Grafton avenue. A house warming is in order.

There is a hot fight on between A. W. Greene and Thomas J. Bannan for the office of town auditor.

Dr. E. R. McIntosh has moved to West Virginia, where he is to take charge of a sanitarium.

East Milton people are anxiously waiting for the railroad to remove that old freight house and build a new one.

George Simpson, superintendent at Cunningham park, is in New York state buying sheep for the park. The sheep are used to keep the grass down in place of a lawn mower.

P. K. Brown is running on nomination papers for the Board of Health, and is said to have a large following.

The young people are having great times on the toboggan slide at Cunningham park.

Miss M. Alice Babcock is the guest of Mrs. C. A. Babcock at Roxbury.

Fined Fifty Dollars.

William Oswald, who it is alleged was running the crap game which the police raided at Hardwick's quarry Nov. 24, was brought into court this morning. At the time of the raid Oswald was one of those who escaped. He has been absent from Quincy since that time. He returned a few days ago and was promptly placed under arrest by Officer Goodhue. In court he was fined $50.

NO LABOR TROUBLE

Good Progress At Meeting Of Granite Committees

The indications are that there will be no labor trouble in the granite industry in Quincy this year. Although the two committees have not as yet reached an agreement, they have made good progress. Another meeting was held Thursday evening at the Granite Manufacturers' rooms and some headway was made.

When the committees adjourned it was to meet again this evening, at which time there is a possibility of reaching an agreement.

It has been given out, unofficially, that while the prospect of settlement is good that the committees may not be able to finish before the first of March.

In this event an arrangement will probably be made whereby business will be continued until such time as an agreement is reached. The bone of contention now seems to be over the question of unionizing all of the yards. That is an agreement that none but union men shall be employed. As it is now there are very few stone cutters who are not members of the union.

The Knockers' Club Receive Telegrams

The monthly dinner of the Knocker's club was held Thursday at Thompson's restaurant, and proved to be fully as enjoyable as those held on previous occasions. Covers were laid for eight the only guest being Chief of Police Maurice Pierce of Milton.

Mayor Shea occupied the seat of honor at the head of the table, with Chief Pierce on his right and Probation Officer Spear on his left. The others of the party sat wherever they pleased. Dinner was announced promptly on the hour for which it was called.

As the soup was served a messenger entered with a telegram for the Mayor. The Mayor had been expecting a telegram from Fall River, and as this was placed in his hands he thought that the dinner was all off as far as he was concerned. His chin dropped down to the top of his vest as he nervously broke the envelope seal. As he began to read a faint smile appeared at the corners of his mouth. This smile gradually broadened into a grin as the purport of the message dawned upon him. It purported to be from the Supreme court and was a decision in regard to the case that concerned the Assessors' office. It might be said that the decision was adverse to the powers that be.

This little incident over the discussion of the menu was commenced in earnest. All through the several courses, however, messages for different members of the party were arriving and their contents provoked a great deal of laughter, especially those handed to Mr. Spear and Chief Pierce.

As Mr. Spear is the present chief of the Knockers it was fitting that he should be the butt of the afternoon. He, however, took the bantering as a good knocker should.

As the dinner was concluded, the only Bowditch wandered in, and was prevailed upon to sing one verse of that touching ballad, "Robin Adair." If the author of the song had heard Galen sing the song he would have died happy.

The dinner was well cooked and well served the menu being as follows:

Soup.	Where Bill Shea puts them
Scallops, a la Finnigan	Spear's sauce.
Celery	Lettuces Tomatoes Cucumbers The Sullivan kind.
Roast Chicken, a la Maurice Pierce	Murphy's (boiled).
Spaghetti	Cranberry sauce
Collins pudding, Burrell dressing

erted a moral power second only to the church.

Savings banks he said were having a hard pull because of recent and proposed legislation. In the past they had been in conservative hands, the trustees although serving without pay being representative citizens. Demagogues should not be allowed to get control.

Mr. Cladin felt sure the club would be a mighty good thing for Atlantic. Refreshments were then served in the dining room including delicious sandwiches, olives, pickles and coffee.

Returning to the church W. F. Cummings, Rev. H. A. Coolidge, B. F. Thomas H. G. Beenan, E. E. Willey, Secretary Burditt, President Jenkins, G. F. Sawyer, Henry Von Emden and Treasurer Arthur spoke encouragingly of the new club.

mind the many good times we have had in our work together."

One of the teachers had prepared souvenir menu cards with this sentiment—"If I do vow a friendship I'll perform it to the last article."

The banquet was served by Caterer LaCroix, who provided bountifully and gave good satisfaction. The menu included: Ham, chicken salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

The teachers then insisted upon a few remarks by Supt. Parlin. He spoke highly of Mr. Nowland as a principal, and as a man, and his suggestion that Mr. Nowland be elected on the School Committee met with favor.

Some old songs were then suggested, and an adjournment was made to the lower grade room where a piano has recently been installed. The music prompted a desire to dance, and the crowning feature was the Virginia reel when Miss Sheahan was the partner of Mr. Nowland.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

Some of the men who left this city about six months ago for the Mare Island navy yard, California, have made arrangements to return East next month.

Eight dowels for shaft coupling have been made at the Fore River for the Old Colony Street Railway Company.

Archie Yule, one of the mail boys, is undergoing an operation to his foot.

The Navy department has authorized the chief contractor of the navy to develop a new type of motor boat for use in the naval service. This work will be done at the Norfolk navy yard, and will be confined to the design and development of a 20 foot boat capable of 10 knots speed.

The estimates for the British defense forces for the current year, show an increase of $3,000,000, without apparently any hope of any considerable diminution in the future. The army estimates for 1908-09 total total $154,185,120 and the navy estimates $161,507,500.

Mrs. Amelia Haines of Brooklyn, New York, is the guest for a few weeks of her son Mr. Edward J. Haines of Spear street.

Mrs. Harry Eliot Russell, who has been the guest for a month of her sister, Mrs. J. Lawrence Mott at White Plains, New York, is now the guest of her parents Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pitkin, at South Braintree.

Miss Anna B. Thompson who has been spending a short vacation with friends in Quincy has resumed her duties at Thayer academy.

Mrs. Floretta Vining who is passing the mid-winter at the Parker house, Boston, goes to New York, the first of the week to attend the wedding of Miss Bessie McLean, oldest daughter of Mrs. Donald McLean, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The wedding of Miss Grace Wright, younger daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Carroll D. Wright of Worcester and Mr. Capen, son of the late President Capen of Tufts college, is to be solemnized in March.

Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant of Presidents hill left on Tuesday for New York and Philadelphia to join Mr. Sturtevant who has been away several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Willis, Jr., are spending a few days with relatives in Middleboro.

The Mothers' meeting at Bethany chapel for March will be held on Thursday afternoon instead of the usual day, so that members may attend the meeting on Tuberculosis at the Quincy Women's clubhouse.

The many friends of Miss Beatrice Martin will be pleased to know that she is rapidly improving and thoroughly enjoying her southern home.

The annual meeting of the contributors to the Wollaston Free Kindergarten together with the members of the Child Nurture Club will be held at the residence of Frank K. Linscott, 15 Lincoln avenue, on Tuesday evening, March 3, at eight o'clock. The annual reports will be read and important arrangements for the ensuing year will be made. All those who are interested in the Wollaston Free Kindergarten are earnestly urged to be present at this meeting.

Mrs. Brook Keyes entertained a few friends at whist Wednesday afternoon, at her home on Alleyne terrace.

Mrs. William Loud of Hall place entertained the Ladies' Aid of the West Quincy M. E. church, Tuesday evening. Each member was pledged to earn a sum of money, and the next meeting is to be an experience meeting. After a pleasing entertainment a dainty chafinch was served by Miss Loud.

Mrs. F. E. Wells of Beverly has been the guest of Mrs. E. C. Butler the past week.

Mrs. Robert Park, who is to speak at the Women's club, March 17th, on Art is an artist of talent. She has lived a number of years in Germany and now has an artistic home in Wollaston.

NATIONAL BOARD

Asked to Make Satisfactory Bill for Quincy Granite Industry

It is quite certain that there will be no suspension in the granite industry in Quincy the first of March. As noted in Friday's Ledger, the two Committees held another meeting that evening.

The meeting was in session several hours, and did not agree upon several matters. Just what these were the Committees declined to make public, although it is generally understood that the principal bone of contention is the matter of unionizing the yards.

Before the Committee adjourned it was agreed to refer the matters unsettled to the National Board, composed of representatives from both associations.

Under the agreement that provides for this board, it stipulates that pending their finding there shall be no suspension of work either by strike or lockout.

Grade Crossing At Braintree

The adjoined hearing before the special commission to abolish the grade crossings at Braintree was held at the Town Hall this morning, and was largely attended.

C. C. Mellen, Esq., representing the town, asked for a continuance for two months, that the town might prepare plans.

Col. Benton representing the railroad, opposed so long a continuance as the railroad was anxious to lay its four tracks.

It was finally agreed that when an adjournment was had it be until March 27 at the South Terminal station.

George H. Wetherbee presented a plan for abolishing the crossings. His plan called for the depressing of the tracks from 7 to 8 feet between Capen's bridge and 1000 feet south of River street.

The meeting then adjourned.

CIVIC BETTERMENT

Dance at Atlantic To Raise Funds Largely Attended And Social Event

Atlantic Music hall was a scene of splendid festivity last evening when the Civic Committee of the Quincy Woman's Club gave a dance and card party that socially and financially crowned the successes of the season since leap year was ushered in two months ago.

The hall was decorated with those touches of homelike elegance that bespeak feminine artistry and the platform was banked with potted palms, behind which Kanrich's orchestra from Cambridge inspired dancing feet with Merry Widow waltzes and Harrigan two steps. In the exuberance of the music many voices joined in the swing and there were more Harrigans in the hall in tenor and bass versions than the crowded gallery dreamed of when watching the dancers.

A little after eight the three matrons, Mrs. Harry Read, Mrs. Florence Perry Pope, and Mrs. Williams Ward Whitchee were ushered to the head of the hall where a cosy corner awaited their matronship. As the guests arrived they were introduced to the receiving trio and welcomed graciously. A grand march then formed and orders were distributed as the couples passed the ushers—leap year orders with the pencil on the women's card and a tassel on the men's. Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce was head usher, assisted by Miss Martha Jenkins, Miss Maud Read, Miss Annie Harding, Miss Louise Hinkley, the Misses Ruth and Grace Parker and Miss Ruth Bean.

As the dancing began, many retired to the club room which was fitted up with Turkish hangings, couches and Oriental lights and set with card tables. Mrs. Charles Safford was matron of this room. Whist however, did not prove as attractive as the dancing, for the games lacked interest owing to the brilliant throng who swung and whirled outside.

Atlantic Music hall has seldom, if ever, welcomed such a host of pleasure seekers within its doors and the success of the evening spoke in every smiling face.

A delicious punch with real energies glistening in the glasses was served bountifully by Mrs. Theodore Parker and Mrs. John Carver, aided by Miss Elizabeth Cook. The popularity of this table was envied by those who watched from the gallery and thirsted in vain.

The long dance order was well chosen and carried through to the last waltz, each dance being encored two and three times. The riotous "Barn Dance," the graceful Duchess and the lively Portland Fancy were the only diversions from the other popular steps.

At a little after twelve, those in charge, Mrs. Williams Ward Whitchee, Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce, Mrs. Harry Read, Mrs. Florence Perry Pope, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Theodore Parker, Mrs. John Carver were overwhelmed with congratulations. Mrs. Whitchee has been a splendid leader in engendering enthusiasm for this Civic Betterment cause and she has found ready assistance in this first venture for the welfare of Atlantic. Mrs. Peirce is responsible for the excellent management of the dancing and the general introductions that were a great feature in making the evening enjoyable to those who came from out of town.

Guests were present from many suburbs of Boston, and from Quincy, Wollaston and the Downs. The proceeds will be used wholly for bettering Atlantic and the best and wisest way to do this will be chosen by those into whose charge the money has been given.

HEINRICHS MURDER

Anarchists In Six Cities Said to Be Concerned In It

MANY ARRESTS AT PITTSBURG

Seizure of Literature Directed Against the Catholic Church and Its Clergy—Plots Disclosed Through Controversy Between Rival Societies

Denver, Feb. 29.—Chief of Police Delaney says that a letter written by Giuseppe Alio to his son, which was found in the cell occupied by him while in jail at Colorado Springs, contained proof that men in six cities in the United States were connected with him in the killing of Father Heinrichs. Almost at the moment that he made this statement came news that six arrests had been made in eastern cities of men suspected of being accomplices of the murderer.

The letter addressed to Alio's son in Sicily was found concealed in the blankets of the cot on which Alio slept while in jail. Its contents, translated, indicate, it is asserted, that Father Heinrichs was the victim of a plot hatched outside of Denver and that Alio came here to commit the murder, which was to be the signal for others. Chief Delaney said:

"The interests of the police department require that the letter be not made public at this time. All I can say is that men in six cities have now become involved in this affair. I am corresponding with the police departments in these six cities. I will further say that I regard Alio as one of the smartest criminals in the world today."

That insanity will be the plea in defense of Alio was announced by Baron Tosti, Italian consul, who, with ex-Corsul Corti and Attorney Widdicombe, visited the prisoner yesterday. Tosti, who is a physician and alienist, thinks the prisoner insane.

Vicious Literature Seized

Pittsburg, Feb. 29.—Local police have arrested during the past three months a number of Italians, including four on charges of publishing and circulating profane, obscene and incendiary literature. Since the Denver tragedy they have been working diligently for clues connecting the men arrested here with the organization to which the Denver authorities believe Alio belongs. The four men named gave bond when arrested and will be tried next week. Several others are in jail and some have been fined and discharged.

The literature is alleged to include all manner of vicious attacks upon the Catholic church and its clergy, together with books and pamphlets of the most obscene type, while others are treatises and arguments in support of anarchism, Socialism in its most revolutionary form, and other attacks upon existing government.

The action of the local police followed disclosures in New York city and in Italy. According to information furnished local authorities, rival societies in Italy became involved in a bitter controversy, during which all of the literature of the one was confiscated and destroyed. Leaders of this faction then came to America and almost immediately opened a propaganda against the Italian government and especially against the Catholic church, its officers and its priests. Much literature was printed and sent out broadcast and organizations were effected in many cities.

In the meantime, representatives of the society which triumphed in Italy reached America and renewed the fight against their old foes, invoking the aid of police authorities, when possible, as was done in this city when the raids were made.

Pittsburg police believe that a local organization exists that has affiliations with societies in other cities.

Police Inclined to Be Mute

New York, Feb. 29.—The police are not prepared to admit that they have arrested J. Vanni or any other alleged accomplices of Giuseppe Alio. It is intimated that any action taken here in the case will be guarded from publicity until the purpose of the authorities has been accomplished.

The chief of police of Paterson, N. J., denies that any arrests have been made in that city, as a result of the assassination of the Denver priest.

America's Congratulations

Washington, Feb. 29.—The Shah of Persia has received the congratulations of the American government on his escape from assassination. This message was cabled to Minister Jackson at Teheran: "Convey to his excellency hearty congratulations on his fortunate escape."

Across the Ocean For Half-Hour Talk
New York, Feb. 29.—After a voyage of nearly 6000 miles, undertaken for a business interview in the south of England that lasted only half an hour, Charles M. Schwab arrived here from Liverpool and talked optimistically of the financial outlook.

No Reduction of Salaries

St. Paul, Feb. 29.—It has been definitely settled that there will be no reduction in the salaries of the telegraphers on the Northern Pacific upon the federal "hours of service law" becoming effective on March 4.

FIRE IN A HOSPITAL

Many Patients In Serious State Hurtled Out In the Cold

New Haven, Feb. 29.—The lives of seventy-five patients, some of them in a very serious state, were endangered when a fierce fire broke out on the top floor of the four-story patients' ward at Grace hospital. While the firemen, many of them nearly frozen to their hose, poured water into the building in their efforts to check the flames, the patients were removed to places of safety. The loss, it is believed, will not exceed $30,000 and may be considerably less than that.

Practically all the fire-fighting apparatus in the city was at the fire and it was several hours before the blaze was conquered.

Miss Albaugh, superintendent of Grace hospital, said that of the patients twenty-five were in a very serious condition. Six of them were typhoid fever sufferers, twelve had recently been operated upon, and there were three or four bad fracture cases. The patients were bundled up as well as possible in blankets, but it is feared the exposure in the cold air may have had a bad effect on some of them.

It is not known how the fire started.

British Complaint Against Japan

Shanghai, Feb. 29.—There is a growing distrust in British commercial circles on the Chinese coast of the entire policy of the Japanese government in the Far East. In recent months there has been a succession of complaints regarding the obstruction of foreign trade in Manchuria. This particularly affects the British steamship companies, whose officials say that obstacles are placed in the way of their steamers going to Port Dally.

Swindled Many Victims

Chicago, Feb. 29.—John Stirlen, a discharged Chicago lawyer, who, with several associates, was indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud promoters of business enterprises, was found guilty last night by a jury. Sentence will be passed on March 12, unless arguments for a new trial prevail. Stirlen and his associates are alleged to have swindled more than fifty victims out of sums aggregating nearly $75,000.

Suit Against Taft Dismissed

Washington, Feb. 29.—Secretary of War Taft won a victory in the supreme court of the District of Columbia when Justice Gould dismissed the bill of complaint of Lewis M. Haupt, who sought to restrain Taft from prosecuting the work of deepening the channel at Aransas Pass, Tex., involving $200,000. Haupt alleged that the war department was using certain equipment patented by him.

Manslaughter Charges Quashed

Charleston, Ill., Feb. 29.—Judge Tompkins has granted the motion that the indictments voted against Judge Grosscup and four other directors of the Mattoon City Railway company be quashed. The five directors were charged with criminal carelessness and manslaughter because of a collision near this place, in which eighteen people were killed and thirty injured.

Turko-Persian Boundary Row

Tiflis, Feb. 29.—The statements coming from Constantinople that the Turkish troops have evacuated the disputed Persian territory in the vicinity of Urmiah can be authoritatively denied. These troops continue to hold their positions. The negotiations between the Turkish and Persian representatives on the boundary commission have been completely broken off.

Gold Came Up With Oil

New Cumberland, W. Va., Feb. 29.—The eastern section of Hancock county is in a state of excitement over an alleged discovery of gold. An oil company is drilling an oil well on a farm at Arroya, and from a depth of 200 feet the bailer brought up gold ore. The small quantity brought up was declared to be worth $7,500, or ore at the rate of $7000 a ton.

New Trans-Pacific Steamship Service

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 29.—The Chargeurs Rouins, a French steamship company engaged in round-the-world service, is making arrangements to establish a trans-Pacific steamship service. Two steamers will run between Japanese ports and San Francisco by way of Honolulu. The new service will be begun in May.

Chasing the Revolutionists

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—A group of Social Revolutionists, affiliated with the Russian northern squadron of revolutionists, was arrested yesterday at Viborg and brought to St. Petersburg. The police say that several of the most important members of the committee in Finland have escaped abroad.

Seventy-Six Men Killed In Mine

Monterey, Mex., Feb. 29.—Details of the explosion in the La Rosita mine, near San Juan de Sabinas, indicate that it was more disastrous than at first believed, seventy-six men being killed. Most of the laborers were Japanese. Firedamp is believed to have been the cause.

Fowler Bill Suits Committee

Washington, Feb. 29.—By a vote of 11 to 5, three members being present and not voting, the house committee on banking and currency authorized its chairman, Mr. Fowler, to report to the house the Fowler currency bill, with the recommendation that it pass.

Street Car Kills a Woman

Providence, Feb. 29.—Mrs. Mary C. Markham of this city, aged 47, was struck and instantly killed by a car while crossing the street car tracks in Smithfield, on the outskirts of the city.

Being fanciful as well as fashionable, Miss Hovey was a faddist, this to the deep sorrow of Dick Fennister, who barely had time to develop an interest in one pursuit before Florence Hovey was off at a new tangent.

Dick had just learned to handle the diablo when he was called upon to abandon the illusive spinning reel in order to spend his afternoons amid dim lights and odors of incense while a burly Buddhist proclaimed the tenets of fasting and mortification of the flesh to the end that the soul might be enabled to quit its earthly tenement and soar through realms of space.

And then came Batterly. His advent enabled Dick to resume an intimate connection between soul and body and also permitted him to take Florence to luncheon occasionally until Batterly's artistic notions engulfed Miss Hovey even more completely than the Hindoo religion had done.

Batterly knew the value of what actors call "dressing the part," and there was small danger that any one would ever mistake him for other than what he was. The black velvet coat, the straight brimmed high hat and the peg top trousers above sharply pointed French shoes were all delightfully suggestive of the Latin quarter. Florence discarded shirt waists and went in for soft, clinging gowns designed by Batterly. The phraseology of the studio supplanted the words of affection which Dick Fennister had received despite the reigu of other fads.

Things began to look serious, indeed, for Fennister, and none knew it better than himself. Batterly by his very selfishness was the sort of man to attract women, and Dick Fennister feared that if he sought to exercise his rights as a fiance this would serve only to mark the termination of their engagement and precipitate Florence's serious interest in the artist.

Things went from bad to worse, and there came the day when Dick called to take Florence for a walk only to find that she had gone with Batterly. Later it developed that she had gone to his studio to pose for her portrait and that Mrs. Hovey had accompanied them as chaperon, but this did not lighten the situation much.

Thereafter Batterly called daily to escort his sliiter to the studio, and with mournful interest Dick watched the trio pass the club window.

Then there came a day when the light of resolve flashed into his eyes, and with positive cheerfulness he turned from the spectacle. Harry Fulton, passing him in the hall, was scandalized to surprise him performing a dance indicative of solemn joy.

"Your own idea?" he asked when Dick saw him and had subsided.

"A poor thing," admitted Dick, "but my own. It is the outward indication of the joy that rises within me."

"It's all right then," was the sarcastic retort. "It seemed rather the outward indication of an inward colic."

He passed on, and Dick headed for the coat room. Ten minutes later he quitted the club.

Mrs. Hovey rather enjoyed the afternoon promenades down the avenue. Batterly's eccentricities, aided by real cleverness with the brush, had made him something of a social lion, and she was proud to have him in leash. She enjoyed the attention which the artist attracted, but this afternoon there was a new expression on the face of those whom they met.

In spite of the occasional "Very clever" and "How original!" which fell from the lips of passersby there was a flash of levity in the eyes of nearly all. Both Mrs. Hovey and Florence anxiously, if secretly, felt various portions of their dress to see if some disarrangement of their toilets had aroused attention.

But several furtive touches assured them that all was well, and so they gave more attention to Batterly, who revealed in this afternoon parade down the fashionable thoroughfare with the aristocratic matron and her remarkably handsome daughter at his side. He had scorned the suggestion of a carriage, declaring that the walk cleared his brain and enabled him to do his best work.

"This picture shall be my masterpiece," he declared, "if only I am able to do justice to the subject. See! Every one stares at the beauty I am struggling to reproduce upon canvas. It shall make me famous."

"You are already that," reminded Mrs. Hovey. "You will make Florence famous instead."

"No; she is already that," replied the artist. "It needs none to tell that she is the observed of all observers. To-day I notice it as never before."

"Do you?" asked Mrs. Hovey uneasily. "It does seem to me that we are attracting unusual attention."

"It is the gown," said Batterly complacently. "It is a triumph. It is a joy to see one's ideals so fittingly realized." He glanced with frank pride at the somewhat conspicuous costume he had designed for Florence and which she was wearing upon the street for the first time. He was inordinately vain, and even the indirect flattery of curious glances was as incense to his soul.

They had almost reached the side street on which Batterly had his studio in an abandoned stable whose rough and dilapidated exterior served only to heighten the effect of the luxurious furnishings within. Suddenly

Mrs. Hovey gasped and clutched the artist's arm.

Were it not for the clutch and the feel of bone and muscle beneath she could have sworn that Batterly was advancing toward them with his pompous deliberate stride. Batterly, too, saw the vision and stared.

"It would seem a double," he said. "Tell me, do you see one who looks like me?"

"Two—three," said Mrs. Hovey in gasps, while her eyes filled with fear. "It cannot be a delusion, since we both see it," said Batterly in relieved tones. "What can it be?"

"There's another!" almost screamed Mrs. Hovey as a third figure came into view. "What can it mean?"

The question was quickly answered, for the first of the false artists was now abreast of them, and, glancing over her shoulder, Mrs. Hovey faced a new surprise. On the black velvet coat was neatly lettered: "Belding, the Artist. Best Photos $3 Per Dozen."

"It is an advertisement," she gasped "and—and—"

"The people think Mr. Batterly is one of them," said Florence indignantly. "Oh, there's Dick! He'll take us home. We need not trouble Mr. Batterly."

Fennister, perceiving that he was recognized, hurried forward. Florence regarded with approval his correct afternoon dress and turned from the artist in disgust as a sixth double filed slowly past.

"Please take us home, Dick," she said faintly. "It seems that we have been assisting in advertising some cheap photographer."

"Jolly good makeup," said Dick as he stepped between the two women, thereby displacing the artist. "Mr. Batterly saved them the trouble of thinking up an idea for a costume. Let's drop in here and have an ice," he added as they reached a fashionable restaurant.

"Perhaps your mother would like—" "Tea," declared the crimson faced woman. "I was never so mortified in my life, Dick. I wish you'd hurry up and marry Florence if only to cure her of her silly habit of fads."

"With all my heart to the first part," cried Dick as his glance sought the girl's.

"I'm cured of the second part," added Florence demurely. "What a wonder it was no one used the mahatma for an advertisement for a—"

"A minstrel show," said Dick, with a laugh. "He was black enough."

And then Fennister offered up a prayer that it might never be discovered who had planned the advertisement.

Hypercriticism of Cooks.

In a Sixth avenue employment agency ten cooks out of a job waited one afternoon recently for something to turn up. Presently a well dressed woman who was short of servants applied at the desk for the desired help. The manager referred her to the tea cooks. The woman interviewed each of them in turn, with unsatisfactory results.

"Not one of them," she explained to the manager of the agency, "likes to eat the things that we like."

"But what difference does that make?" asked the manager. "They are no doubt good cooks for all that."

"Possibly, but they wouldn't suit me," said the woman decidedly. "My family have very pronounced tastes in regard to cookery, and my experience has taught me that only a cook who likes the same dishes can prepare them satisfactorily. It stands to reason that any cook who likes certain dishes will have better luck with them than one who doesn't like them, consequently I'll do the work myself until I find a girl whose taste agrees with ours."

Would Excuse Her.

"The butler in a Scotch family occupies a privileged and unique position," said a Scot to some friends who were discussing the servant problem. "He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech that to Americans would be an impertinence, but to those that know him this is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare."

"A young lady from New York was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigns. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement. One day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, a fact that caused the butler a little while before the meal was served to waylay the American girl in the hall."

"I'm fearin' there 'll no be enough soup," he explained, "so when it's offered ye maun decline it, lass."

"Why," was the laughing response of the girl, "it wouldn't be polite of me to decline soup."

"Not precisely," said the butler, with a benignant smile, "but they'll make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye ken nae better."

Wars That Were Caused by Women.
I do not think that any of you are ignorant, my friends, that the greatest wars have taken place on account of women—the Trojan war on account of Helen, the plague which took place in it was on account of Chryseis and the war called the sacred war on account of Theano. This war lasted ten years. The Crissaean war, which also lasted ten years, was excited on this account—because the Crissaean carried off Megisto, the daughter of Pelagon, and the daughters of the Argives as they were returning from the temple.

And whole families have been ruined owing to women. For instance, that of Philip, the father of Alexander, was ruined on account of his marriage with Cleopatra, and Hercules was ruined by his marriage with Iole.—Athenaeus, A. D. 300.

Sanity and Patience Urged In Dealing With the Case

TALK BY PRESIDENT TUTTLE

Should Be No Attempt to Prejudice Railroad Matter In Advance of Report of Commission Appointed to Make Full Investigation

Derry, N. H., Feb. 29.—In an address last night at the annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Board of Trade, President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad discussed the industrial situation and spoke also of the supposed merger of the Boston and Maine with the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad system. Concerning the latter he said:

"I now desire to turn to a subject about which I think there is a widespread and deep interest, not only in your state, but throughout New England. I refer to the so-called, but misnamed, 'merger' of the two great New England railroad systems—the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine."

"It is common knowledge that during the early part of last year the former company acquired approximately 110,000 shares of the common stock—about one-third of its outstanding capital—of the Boston and Maine. It is also known that in June last the Massachusetts legislature passed an act that, among other things, prevented the New Haven company from acquiring any more of the Boston and Maine stock and from voting any of that already held, or in any manner exercising any control, either directly or indirectly, over the affairs or management of the Boston and Maine."

"All of the requirements of this act have been strictly and completely complied with by all parties interested. In the meantime, under authority of another act, passed at the same legislative session, the governor of Massachusetts appointed a commission of five persons for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon the business and commercial needs of the commonwealth at large, and to that commission was delegated the added duty of investigating the so-called 'merger' of these two railroad systems. The commission has for several months given unremitting attention to this subject and a report of its findings and conclusions is expected within the next few weeks."

"It is perhaps not unexpected that upon a matter of such far-reaching importance there would be wide divergence of opinion, and that the opponents to any further union of our railroad systems should actively and aggressively engage in the propagation of their views and attempt to build up a body of supporters thereof, in advance of the presentation of the case for competent discussion upon its merits."

"Whether the commission having this matter in hand has reached any conclusion, only its members know. We may, however, take confident assurance that when its report is made to the present Massachusetts legislature, the fullest knowledge of its contents will be placed at the disposal of everyone interested and that ample opportunity will then be given for opponents, as well as proponents, to present their views before the legislative committee, and for later discussion of the subject in both legislative branches."

"In view of these clearly understood conditions, and of the further fact that no one can now tell in what form the subject will be presented for legislative action, it does not seem to savor of either wisdom or fairness that attempts should be made by those who favor or disprove to prejudice or prejudice the case until it can be so fully presented as to permit of its free and fair-minded discussion upon its merits. In other words, it seems to me that this is another instance where methods of sanity and patience should prevail, and hysteria and denunciation be avoided, at least until we may know more definitely what phases of the question we are to be called upon to discuss."

Czar's Plan Gets a Setback
St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—The project for the rebuilding of the Russian fleet has received a setback as a result of the attitude taken by the ministry of finance. The naval project had reached the point where the estimates, amounting to $1,000,000,000 for ten years' construction, had been submitted by the admiralty to the financial committee of the duma.Renewed Confidence Needed
Memphis, Feb. 29.—At the banquet here last night W. J. Bryan said that prospects for the coming congressional year were bright, from a Democratic standpoint, and were growing brighter every day. The most important step to be taken for the restoration of better business and industrial conditions, he said, was renewal of confidence in the banks of the country.Lynching and a Warning
Houston, Tex., Feb. 29.—The body of Charles Scott, a negro, aged 18 years, was found hanging to a tree at Conroe. The negro's feet had a placard attached to them bearing the words: "Warning to negroes found prowling in white folks' houses." Scott had been arrested and placed under bond on a charge of attempted assault upon a woman.

NO CHARGES OF BRIBERY

Lilley Sees Efforts to Influence Congressional Legislation

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 29.—In an interview here, Congressman Lilley, who returned unexpectedly from Washington last night, said in regard to the matter of the Electric Boat company and his fight against it in congress:

"I haven't made any charges of bribery against the boat company or any member of congress, but for two years I have looked upon the methods of this company to influence legislation in congress and to suppress competition in submarine boats, so that it could take millions in excessive profits out of the United States treasury, until I couldn't stand it any longer. When it came to such a pass that the wishes of the president and the naval experts were overridden in the appropriation for naval increase and improvement, it seemed to me that the public should find out why, and I demanded an inquiry; and if that inquiry is held, as I think it will be, I am pretty sure the country will agree with me that it is time the methods of the Electric Boat company are taken out of Washington."

He said that, so far as he was concerned, there would be no let-up in the fight. He concluded by saying that if an honest investigation is held it will show that it is "high time for somebody to protest against the methods of the Electric Boat company lobby." A good deal depended, he said, upon the composition of the committee of inquiry, but he was confident it would be one which would honestly seek to get at the truth.

Five Children at One Birth

Steuenville, O., Feb. 29.—Five perfectly formed children were born here to Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell. Three of the infants died within an hour after birth. One boy and girl will live, it is said. Three were boys. Mrs. Campbell weighs less than 100 pounds. The combined weight of the infants was twenty-three pounds. Campbell has four brothers. To the family of two of these twins have been born and each of the other brothers is father of triplets. Campbell's first wife died after becoming the mother of triplets.

San Francisco, Feb. 29.—Wu Ting Fang, for the second time appointed Chinese minister to this country, arrived on steamer Siberia with a large retinue of secretaries, consuls and attaches, numbering seventy persons. He brought with him new consuls for Mexico, Havana, New York and San Francisco, besides three nephews, three secretaries and seven other attaches for the Chinese legation at Washington, and twenty-four students, who will enter various schools and colleges in this country.

Parkhurst on Liquor Question

New York, Feb. 29.—Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst has authorized a formal interview in which he advocates the passage of laws only as stringent as appeal to the average sentiment of the community. He would legalize the sale of liquor on certain hours of the Sabbath, he says, if the community demanded such a practice. This on the theory that only laws backed by popular will could be enforced and that unenforced laws led to a degeneracy of morals.

Eliot Praises Public School Boy

Boston, Feb. 29.—The annual banquet of the New England Association of the Alumni of Phillips Exeter academy was held here last night. The principal speaker was President Eliot of Harvard university. He compared the graduates of public, endowed and private schools in college, and declared the public school boy showed up far superior in scholarship to the others.

Killed Three Children and Self

Baltimore, O., Feb. 29.—Mrs. J. C. Spire, wife of a farmer, killed three of her children, fatally wounded a fourth and then committed suicide. One of the children was drowned in a well and the others were shot and their throats cut. Mrs. Spire took carbolic acid, shot herself and cut her throat. The children's ages ranged from 1 to 6 years.

Fire Destroys Home For Boys

Westminster, Vt., Feb. 29.—The Kurn Hattin home for boys, a three-story wooden structure with an ell, was burned late yesterday. The fire started in the basement from some cause unknown. There were about forty boys in the school at the time, but all made their way out without difficulty. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

Cruiser to Make Investigation

Tokio, Feb. 29.—The Japanese armored cruiser Izumi has sailed from Shanghai for Hong Kong, where, it is understood, she will investigate the seizure by the Chinese customs cruisers of the Japanese steamer Tatsu Maru. This movement of the Izumi is probably intended as a demonstration against the action of the Chinese officials.

Factors of Safety

The human body is a wonderful machine, provided with muscular, nervous and mental energy far in excess of normal needs. In health, the organs and tissues can do double their usual amount of work without strain or friction, because they have stored energy to meet the extra demand.

When you feel "all tuckered out," these factors of safety are nearly exhausted and you need to resort to

The Best That Was Offered.

A prominent attorney of Kansas City succeeded in getting his client out of a bad situation by means of an alibi, which the attorney presented in so novel a way that it was little short of masterful.

At the end of the trial the attorney was overwhelmed by congratulations from his colleagues of the legal fraternity. To these felicitations there were added those of the learned judge himself, who observed:

"A fine alibi, that, and mighty well put."

"Well," modestly responded the lawyer, "I myself think it was rather neat. Of those that were offered me it was by far the best."

EDITORIAL.

When is a man eligible for the presidency of the United States? It is surprising to find out how little the average person knows about the qualifications for this office. How many could answer the questions in today's issue under the head "An Election Primer?" Very few, we should judge, and still it is something that every one should be fully posted on. The campaign is already warming up, and for the next few weeks the election primer will be a regular feature of the Saturday Ledger. Next week it will be devoted to "The Voter."

IMPORTANT HEALTH MEETING.

A meeting of importance to the good health of this locality is to be held on Wednesday afternoon, March 4th, at half past two at the Quincy Women's clubhouse, under the auspices of the Norfolk County Health Committee.

Dr. Elliot Washburn, medical inspector for the county, will preside and Dr. Arthur Cabot, chairman of the Anti-tuberculosis association of the state, will speak on "Individual Responsibility." Quincy doctors are much interested in the meeting as there is considerable tuberculosis in this city. Dr. Gordon and Dr. Hunting will lead in the discussion which will follow the address.

All the women's clubs in the county will send delegates to the meeting and residents of this city, men and women, are urged to attend as the subject is a vital one and it is time the general public awoke to an understanding of the disease and its treatment.

The Quincy Women's club through its Civic Betterment committee is the hostess club and at the close of the meeting will serve tea and dispense
the hospitality of the club.

The Wollaston M. E. Church

A large and interesting meeting was held last evening in the vestry of the Wollaston M. E. church to discuss ways and means for the next conference year commencing April 1.
Short addresses were given on timely subjects as follows:

"Christian stewardship, Rev. W. J.
Heath.
My financial obligation to the church, A. B. Cassidy.
Cheerfulness in supporting a church, F. A. Sutermeister.
Does giving impoverish, J. A. Sedgwick.
"Statistics," A. N. Murray.
"Ladies' aid for the year, Mrs. W.
C. Sanders.
The pledges for next year's expenses were taken with very gratifying results, after which the ladies of the church served refreshments.

Proposals Wanted.

Sealed proposals, stating price per page,
are hereby invited for furnishing, printing
and delivering to the City of Quincy 800
copies of the City Report of 1907, in paper covers, and 100 copies bound in cloth.
First quality 30 pound paper to be used,
examples to be furnished by the City Clerk.
The books are to be delivered within eight weeks after the contract is awarded.
Proposals should be marked on the outside of the envelope "Proposals for City Reports"
and will be received in the Mayor's office
until twelve o'clock M., March 6, 1908.
All bidders will be required to conform to the provision of Chap. 317, Acts of 1906.
The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.
WILLIAM T. SHEA, Mayor.
Quincy, Feb. 23, 1908.

NEW PLAN

Proposed For Abolition of Saville Street Grade Crossing

There was a good attendance of citizens last evening at the grade crossing meeting at City Hall. Plans for abolishing the crossings at Water street and Saville street were discussed at length. Several new plans were shown, including several views from Newton.

County Commissioner John F. Merrill presided and Assessor Warren W.
Adams was secretary.

At the opening Chairman Merrill stated that any plans outside that which proposed to maintain Saville street could not properly come before the meeting unless so voted.

John T. Cavanagh claimed at the last meeting the Water street question was under discussion at adjournment, and moved that this matter be first considered, which was voted.

The plan agreed upon by the committee was then thrown on the screen. This provides for the widening of Water street between Franklin street and the depot to sixty feet.
The street starting at Franklin street
would rise at a 3 1-2 per cent grade to the tracks. The tracks would be spanned by a bridge and the street would again come to grade near the turnout beyond Pleasant street.

The tracks at the crossing would be lowered four feet. There would be a fill of ten feet at Pleasant street,
making that street nearly level.
Starting from Water street there was a loop street to Liberty street. It also proposed a new street from Federal avenue to Water street in place of the present Presidents' avenue, which would extend Federal avenue almost straight.

The Board of Trade plan was then shown. The only practical difference between this and the first plan was that it provided for a street running parallel with Water street to the depot, starting from a point near Vogel's sheds. The loop street was also a little different.

Fred L. Jones opposed this plan,
as it took away some business firms.
Andrew Milne said the side street proposed would be a good thing, but the Granite Manufacturers Association opposed on account of expense.

T. L. Williams said the tool shop could be moved, as could also buildings of John L. Miller. They would adjust themselves to the land. He did not think the damage would be as great as stated.

Gilbert M. Miller said stone teams itch cured in 30 minutes by Wool-ford's Sanitary Lotion. Never fails.

can come through Quincy street. Let us have no more S street. Do not be hasty and jump at something because it costs a little more.

J. W. Pratt—Let us have straight streets if it does cost $20,000. We are doing this for the city and not for Jones or Milne.

Andrew Milne—At the Granite Manufacturers meeting it was the desire to put no one out of business.

John Q. A. Field hoped meeting would not be misled by the Manufacturers Association. There were but twelve at the meeting, and the vote was 7 to 5 for the first plan
shown.

John T. Cavanagh inquired if the railroad was to be preserved in as good conditions as now.

Commissioner Bainbridge replied that we were not expected to fix the railroad grade line.

In reply to a question by Mr.
Bates the Commissioner said that the percent of the railroad grade was not changed by depressing the tracks at Water street.

Fred L. Jones said the only difference between the two plans is that one wipes out some business, and the short street.

John McDonnell—We are not here
in the interest of the railroad but of the city. Quincy is a large asset to the railroad, and we can not ask too much. The railroad is able to defend itself.

Profiles of the two plans were then
shown.

John T. Cavanagh asked what chances there were for other crossings.

Elisha Packard said you can never get a street under the railroad after it is built, but could go over as much as you liked. He inquired if there was any plan to lower the whole road through Quincy. The whole has got to be looked to. The railroad know we can not agree and they will get what they want. He favored depressing the tracks.

Henry McGrath arose to a question of privilege. He had made a statement at the last meeting that all but one person had signed petition to retain Water street as it now is. He had been flatly contradicted. He now wanted to present that petition to show it was as he had stated.

Gilbert M. Miller—If we can not be unanimous we will get nothing.

The so-called Field plan was then shown and explained by Mr. Bainbridge. This plan proposed crossing beneath the tracks near Crane's grain elevator. The street under the bridge would be a 4 per cent grade,
then a 3 per cent grade to Water street. A new street connecting with Water street near Pleasant street.
The grades were easy.

G. M. Miller—Mr. Field kicked at a
3 per cent grade, and here he has a 4 per cent grade. This plan helps
the railroad.

John McDonnell moved the whole matter be referred until it can be done well. Then have plans made for depressing the tracks through the whole city.

This motion was not seconded.

Elisha Packard moved that someone be instructed to make a plan depressing the tracks from South
Central avenue to the Baintree line.

E. W. Branch hoped motion would not prevail.

C. C. Hearn questioned if motion was in order.

The chairman ruled that it was in order.

E. J. Parker moved the question be laid on the table, and it was so
voted.

John Q. A. Field thought any plan presented should be considered. He believed the best plan of Water street was the so-called Field plan.
It does not injure anyone. The expense also should be considered.

The Cavanagh plan was then shown and explained. This plan raised tracks at Water street 13 feet.
It did away with the School street bridge, but had a new street running from Fort street and connecting with School street near its junction with Franklin street. Water street would be lowered 3 1-2 feet. Mr. Cavanagh said it was fair to consider all parties.

Henry McGrath did not think the tracks elevated would look any worse than a humpy bridge at Water street.
He also showed a profile.

At this point it was voted to take up Saville street.

The new plan of Commissioner Bainbridge was then shown. This proposed to lower tracks 13 feet at Saville street. This would give a 4 per cent grade to Hancock street.
Starting 300 feet north of Dimmock
street we commence to depress.
This will give a better grade for Dim-mock street. There would be a wall on each side of the tracks. At Granite street the grade would be lowered about six feet. Granite street would be carried over the tracks.

In reply to question by Mr. Bates,
the Commissioner said that this plan

cause. Used the world over to Cure
a Cold in One Day. E. W. GROVE'S signature on box. 25c.

eliminated land damages. The approaches to the depot would not be changed. A profile of this plan was also shown. The present conditions were maintained. It did not interfere with Water street.

John T. Cavanagh attacked this plan. It was a down grade from Baintree. The curve at Granite street was the most dangerous on the whole system, and Quincy the most important depot. To lower the tracks by this plan would be more dangerous than now.

The Angier-Tupper plan was then shown. This was practically the same as the last plan, and needed no explanation. It made a cut of 5 1-2 feet at Dimmock street, 13 feet at Saville street, and 13 1-2 feet at Granite street.

Mr. Angier said, if the curve is dangerous the railroad can changed
it.

The Cavanagh plan was then shown. This proposed to start near Dimmock street and flatten the curve,
passing through at the Quincy station on what is now Irving place. It proposed a new street from School street along the old road bed to Granite street, and could be extended through to the station. The tracks would be depressed at Saville street 3 or 4 feet. There would be a 6 per cent grade to Hancock street.

Mr. Angier questioned if these changes would come under the separation of grades.

Five views of the grade separation
at Newton were then shown.

Fred B. Rice believed the Cavanagh scheme to be the best and thought it could be worked out. He moved to adjourn until next Friday, and that the Commissioner be requested to perfect this plan.

This motion was carried.

Before adjournment a vote of thanks was passed to Commissioner Bainbridge for the work he had done.

Just Jotted Down By Ledger Men

George W. Jones has the new spring style of hats.

Marden and Marsh have played clean and clever basket ball for the Quincy High this season.

Miss Beatrice Tisdale of Hancock street entertained friends at cards at her home no Tuesday evening.

Reunion of the Washington M.
French Hose Co. Association tonight at the home of President Fred F.
French.

The Urbane club of Neponset held
a dance at Hibernian hall at South Quincy last night. It was attended largely by out of town people.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church meets on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. F. B. Royal of Adams street, when Miss Lucy C. Sturgis will address the meeting.

Mr. R. F. Claffin, cashier of the National Granite bank is to address
the Mens club of Christ church on Monday evening in the Parish house
on "Banking."

The Young People's Religious
union of First church will be addressed Sunday evening at seven o'clock by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth.
There will be a violin solo by Miss Ruth Packard. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Athletic association of Woodward gave an exhibition and reception last evening at the school for parents and friends. There were two games of basket ball, one between the Alumni and the other between two teams of the school.

At Bethany church on Sunday evening Dr. Hardy will give an address on "The Church and Religious Life of Old New England." It will be illustrated by fifty stereopticon photographs, and will contain many interesting facts regarding early colonial life in New England.

The meeting of the City Council
Monday night will be an important
one. The Finance Committee will probably report the annual appropriation order. It is also possible that the Commissioner of Public Works will report the result of his conference with the School Committee on the Coddington school plans.

Thursday, March 5, has been set for the great turkey supper to be given by the men in Memorial church under the chairmanship of Edgar E. Willey of Walker street. This annual event always draws forth a large attendance
but this year an added attraction is anticipated. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Briggs of Cambridge, whose singing
at the Literary club a year or so ago
so delighted their hearers, have kindly consented to be present next Tuesday and give Atlantic a musical treat. Mr. Willey pleads that this is his first attempt in the culinary department of a supper, but as things look, the menu will be one to crown
the list of such festivities.

FORE RIVER
RAILROADOver 29,000 Tons
Of Freight Received At Shipyard By Rail Last Year

(By George H. Corliss.)

As very few people have any idea of the relative importance which the Fore River Railroad bears to the chief industry of Quincy, the following may serve to throw some light upon the subject.

The railroad was laid out and built under the supervision of M. M. Cannon, C. E., soon after the Fore River Ship and Engine Company decided to move its plant from Weymouth to Quincy. Mr. Cannon is an engineer of marked ability and is at present in charge of the development and construction of a thoroughly equipped steamship terminal on a large scale,
which the Fore River Shipbuilding Company is building at Brunswick,
Ga., for the use of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad Company. A great deal of money has been expended in the building and equipping of the Fore River Railroad which today is one of the best pieces of private railroad of its kind in the country.

The operation and transportation of the road is well placed in the hands of Louis H. Gieser, who has full responsibility and direct charge
of the loading of cars, the identification of material, its prompt delivery
to points of destination, and the immediate unloading of all material from shops and other sources. The transportation of material in the shipbuilding business is of so much importance, that the handling of material to and from cars is given preference in every case where possible. When cars are ready for the receipt of material, cranes are utilized at once to load it and the same in unloading, except in the case of the gantry crane, or in other specific cases, which must be dealt with individually.

In the machine shop to and from which vast quantities of rough and finished material are transported,
there are three modern Niles electric travelling cranes for the speedy loading and unloading of cars, which handle the heavy loads with safety
and ease.

The Fore River Railroad operates
a number of miles of trackage, of which a considerable portion is inside the shipyard, part of which is double-tracked. An adequate signaling system is in use arranged on a systematic plan.

The management is doing everything in its power to maintain the efficiency of the railroad. Removals of ties have been sufficient to keep tracks in proper condition. Rails are inspected periodically and renewed
as required to keep the road up to a high standard of efficiency. The fact that no accident has ever happened,
is good evidence that the road is kept up to a high standard. The highway crossings have all been recently rebuilt at a great expense, being paved with vitrified brick, laid in a solid concrete foundation to prevent sinking. The road is well ballasted with gravel and rock where necessary.
The company added a while ago new freight cars, ample in number to meet the requirements of its increasing business.

On June 1, 1903, the N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R. Co., issued a bulletin from its general freight department to all its agents and connections, to the effect that thereafter all shipments for the Fore River Company could be handled, direct all rail, without transfer, via East Braintree, Mass.

During the year just passed, that carried over this railroad consisted of 1,620 cars, containing 59,060,000 lbs., or 29,530 tons of material, while the outward freight exclusive of returned empty cars, consisted of 341 cars, containing 7,200,000 lbs., or 3,600 tons of material. The inward freight was composed of cars of steel and iron plates, angles, channels and other shapes of all kinds, and sizes,
coal, coke, zinc, copper, brass, acid,
nails, castings, lumber, and miscellaneous supplies too numerous to mention, while the outward freight was composed of forgings, castings,
and other manufactured articles made to the order of outside concerns, steel scraps, chips and turnings, punch-
ings, shearings, furnace discards, etc.

Outside of the above incoming and

BRAINTREE.

Alexander Young once identified with the Braintree B. B. C. and better known to Braintree as "Cy" Young, is at Hot Springs, Arkansas, from which place he has written to I. W.
Wendell Gammons of this town.

The regular meeting of the Krow
Eldene society was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. A.
Cook, Mt. Vernon avenue, Braintree.
There was a large attendance of members and the evening was a thoroughly enjoyable one. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Dawson, Franklin street, South Braintree.

Rev. E. A. Robinson of Hingham preached at Union church on Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor.
The text was the eleventh verse of the fifteenth chapter of St. John.
"That my joy might remain in you and that your joy might be full." The joy of salvation, the joy of prayer,
the joy of service, and the joy of the home-gathering, were the branches of the subject considered with thoroughness and spirit. The music was in accord with the thought of the discourse. Mr. Eugene Murphy sang a tenor solo.

The Unity Circle of Kings' Daughters met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Wellington of Quincy avenue, after the regular work a social hour was enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses. The previous meeting at Mrs. J. B. Rowen's of Quincy avenue was a successful and pleasant event.

The Rev. R. H. Cochrane is expected home from Fitzwilliams, N.
H., this evening.

The many friends of Amasa S.
Thayer of Washington street will be pleased to know that he is able to get out of doors and is improving in health daily.

The N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. has reduced the working time of the car
shop near the station to four days
a week. This schedule will be maintained until business improves.

The many friends of Ben Leverage of Pleasant street will be pleased to hear that he has resumed work once more after being confined to his home with a bad attack of the grip.

Ernest Southworth of River street
had a bad fall Friday afternoon receiving a bad cut on his head, requiring the attention of a physician.

The many friends of Mrs. Frank H.
Dearing will be pleased to know she is on the road to recovery after her recent severe illness.

Mrs. J. B. Allen of Commercial street was the guest of her granddaughter, Mrs. Eben Prescott, at the Cochato club on Washington's birthday. There were seven of her great grandchildren present.

Harry South of Shaw street had the misfortune to lose a horse on Wednesday morning. The horse had suffered from an attack of colic and succumbed to the sickness.

Many of our residents attended the memorial exercises at the Stone Temple, Quincy, on Sunday, when the one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the setting apart of the north precinct of Braintree into a town called Quincy was observed under the auspices of the Quincy Historical Society.

Nathaniel F. Hunt of Quincy avenue attended the gathering at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, on Saturday.
The meeting of the Sons of the Revolution was a large and profitable one.
The address was on "Immigration."
Many of the S. of R. had previously attended Governor Guild's reception
at the State House.

Miss Mabel Brown Burnside of East Braintree and Mr. Herbert Marshall of Brockton were married at the Baptist parsonage, Weymouth, Saturday evening, Feb. 22nd by Rev. E. B.
Cressey.

Mrs. Shaw, mother of Mrs. E. G.
McGill, passed through a serious operation at the St. Elizabeth hospital, Boston, on Thursday and at present is resting quite comfortably.

Mr. O. A. Hubbard of Steadman avenue, returned Thursday, from a business trip, through the Western part of the state. He reported five inches of snow falling while he was there.

Mrs. C. T. Crane of Quincy avenue attended the meeting of the D. A. R.
at Danvers, Mass., on Friday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Massury welcomed the guests. A fine display of antique costumes and old fashioned jewelry was shown.

Monatiquet lodge, No. 83, Knights of Pythias, conferred the rank of Esquire on four Pages at its regular convention on Monday evening, Feb. 24. The same rank will be conferred on four Pages at the convention Monday evening, March 2. At the convention Monday evening, the lodge received a visit from D. G. C. Thomas Fallon, as well as a large number of other visitors, who are always welcome. After the work a light collation was served.

ORIGINAL
MINSTRELSYCotton Plantation
The Scene of Interesting Show
By Men's Club

It was an exceedingly good representation of a Southern cotton plantation that was presented to view when the curtain rolled up at the fourth annual minstrel show of the Men's Club of Christ church, at Quincy Music hall.

In background was the Mississippi river, and on its banks the home of the planter and the cottages of the colored people employed. In the centre of the group was the overseer, Henry W.
French, who was the only white man on the stage. In his blond wig, dress and large hat he was a typical Southerner.
About him were gathered his laborers
in a natural way, some seated on bales of cotton, others standing and some lounging. They wore colored shirts and overalls and in dress and appearance were almost genuine darkies.

The director of the show was Henry C. Nelson, who is to be complimented on the success; also the interlocutor, Henry W. French, who appeared as the overseer of the plantation.

Individual tastes prevailed in the get up of the end men, while Henry Nelson appeared as a big boy in a summer suit of white his brother Lyman was in a thick heavy plaid suit with room to spare inside for another man.

The bones were: Lyman B. Nelson,
Walter E. Burke, Bert Emery and Alex. Rose; and the tambors: Henry C.
Nelson, Arthur Thomas, Carleton
Beal, Fred G. Malcolm.

In the chorus were: Wm. Carter,
T. W. Cole, W. A. Deacon, John Findlay, Ray Findlay, G. D. Follett, Geo.
Guston, H. E. Grieshaber, Geo. Hanson, M. T. Holbrook, H. G. Johnson, John Orr, W. E. Pinel, George Reynolds, Albert Smith, Leslie Smith,
E. L. Stevens, William Tarbox, M.
A. Turner and W. C. Warmington.

Prof. Frank Wrigley was the pianist for the evening, and entered into the spirit of the occasion.

It was a large audience that greeted the minstrels when the curtain rolled up, and they were soon convinced that the show had some live end men, and good singers.

The program was as follows:

1. Opening Chorus Arranged by Director
Entire Company
2. End Song "Dat's Music to Me"
Fred G. Malcolm
3. Ballad "Gypsy John"
George Davey
4. End Song "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark"
Bert Emery
5. Banjo Selections
Mr. Erastus Osgood
6. End Song "Who-Me"
Alex. Rose
7. Song "Yarns the Captain told the Mate"
Master Joe Beal
8. End Song "Bro. Noah gave out Checks for Rain"
Arthur Thomas
9. End Song "Don't be what you Ain't"
Walter E. Burke
10. End Song "Let it Alone"
Henry C. Nelson
11. Dutch Dance (From the Red Mill)
Miss Esther McGill and Master Joe Beal 12. End Song "All I get is Much Obligated to You"
Carleton Beal
13. Ballad "Selected"
Dr. Arthur Gould
14. End Song "Knurr"
Lyman B. Nelson
15. Grand Finale Arranged by Director
Entire Company.

Every number was good—more than good. The greatest hits were made by Miss Esther McGill and Master Joe Beal who appeared in a Dutch dance from the Red Mill; the latter also singing "Yarns the Captain told the Mate." Both numbers took the house by storm and they were recalled time and again. But all the numbers were encored. Prof.
Osgood blacked up for the occasion
and his original monologue as well as his banjo selections were enjoyed.
The ballads of Mr. Davey and Dr.
Gould were very pleasing.

Local hits were numerous, and the end men had much to say about Mayor Shea, and City Hall officials.
Several of the artists received floral offerings, but it was a cabbage and lemons that went to Henry Nelson
after his end song.

Before the program opened the Men's Club Orchestra rendered a patriotic medley which was much enjoyed. The orchestra also played after the curtain dropped.

Social

The second annual ball of the Quincy lodge of Elks will be the crowning event of an unusual brilliant social season. The ball will be held at Music hall, Monday evening
and it will be the last social event before Lent. Pains or expense have not been spared to make the affair
a social success. Enticing music,
a dance program so arranged that all tastes are looked after are but features of the evening. The Elks have long held an enviable reputation as leaders in the entertaining line and anything they undertake is sure to be a success. The affair will be in charge of a large and efficient committee who have been diligently at work on the arrangements for some weeks. From the advance sale of tickets its success is more than assured.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and friends enjoyed a snow shoe party in the mountains over the week end.

Music and a travel talk by Mr. Arthur C. Wallis will be one of the social attractions for the coming week. It will be under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Religious union on Wednesday evening in First Church Chapel.

Mrs. George Gilman and daughter Mrs. John Gilman French of Rochester,
New York, are guests of Mrs. Cushing
Lane of Presidents hill.

Mrs. Walter H. Sole of Woodward avenue entertained friends at her home
on Saturday evening at cards.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Rogers of Mattapan announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Flora B. F. Rogers to Ernest Nash of Mattapan.

Mrs. S. B. Gammons of Braintree entertained the A. B. C. very acceptably Friday afternoon. The first prize was won by Mrs. F. G. Pennock and Mrs. George E. Stone, second. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. C.
Hathaway.

The Little Items
Of Great Interest

There are 1472 registered voters entitled to vote at the annual town meeting at Milton on Monday.

Last Saturday night dance until after Lent in Quincy Music Hall tonight.
The first 25 ladies received handsome hat pins.

Lenten services will commence at Christ church on Ash Wednesday
with holy communion at 10.30 A. M., and evening prayer at eight o'clock.

The young ladies of the Dorcas society of the Universalist church are busy making arrangements for the supper
and entertainment which is to be given Tuesday evening.

At First Church chapel on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Religious union, Mr.
Arthur C. Wallis will give a talk on "Two years in Paraguay among the natives." There will be vocal and instrumental music and a social time.

Next Week at The Scenic.

The crowds which nightly attend the performance at the Scenic is the very best evidence that the management is presenting a show that is meeting with the approval of the public, and well it may, as every feature is clean and refined, and perfect order is always maintained, making it a perfectly safe place
for ladies and children to attend.

For next week the illustrated ballads
are to be sung by Harry Browman, baritone, and in addition to the newest subjects in motion pictures by the animatograph, the following high-class
specialties are offered: Barr and Evans,
"The Rube and the Servant Girl" in a furious funny comedy sketch; Billie Fryor, singer, dancer, and refined musical act; and Adolph Adams, "the man with a hundred faces," absolute master of the art of mimicry.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michel Sallie was arraigned for larceny of paper at the Fore River. Placed on file on payment of costs amounting to $8.10.

Arthur Du Bois was fined $5 for disturbing
a public meeting at Hallowell.
Edward W. Wolfe was fined $50 for violation of liquor law at Weymouth.

WEYMOUTH.

Henry N. Willoby of Baker avenue was the guest over the holiday of relatives in New Hampshire.

Miss Ella Foster of Riverbank Court,
Cambridge, is the guest of Mrs. H. B.
Bachelder this week at her home on Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Baker of the Ledges, Commercial street, are in New York. Mr. Baker will leave soon for the west on a business trip.

Married at her home on Front street,
Weymouth, Miss Susie Pease, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pease, to Mr.
Davy, on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock by the Rev. E. L. Bradford of East Weymouth. On account of a heavy storm Rev. R. H. Cochrane, who is away was unable to be present and Dr. Bradford officiated.

Miss Helen F. Loud sang at the anniversary of the Knights of Pythias on Wednesday evening of last week. Her group of songs was followed later by a soprano solo "Cupid" and in response to applause she gave an encore. Miss Martha A. Loud accompanied her on the piano.

The funeral of Mary Greity, who died at Worcester, was held on Thursday morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Miss Olive Wymet observed the sixth anniversary of her birthday by entertaining a number of her little friends who enjoyed themselves playing games and also the nice refreshment that were furnished. The little hostess received a number of very nice and pretty gifts
among them two gold rings a gold bracelet, a silver set from her aunts.
They all left with their pretty souvenirs
wishing her very many happy birthdays.

John J. Loud, president of the Weymouth Historical society, with nine others represented that organization at the Quincy celebration in the Stone Temple and were provided with reserved seats on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. R. H. Cochrane left on Monday
with Rev. C. F. H. Crathern of South Braintree for a snow-shoeing expedition among the New Hampshire hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivers M. Low of Commercial street welcomed a little daughter into their home this week.

Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title—Incorporated 1892.)
The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys' Training School, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST
G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy can easily appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor
may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need,
will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St.
Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. GRASS, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

Fore River Railroad

outgoing freight there was also transported over the railroad twelve special passenger coaches containing the launching parties of the U. S. Scout Cruisers Birmingham and Salem, and the Steamship Everett, among whom were many distinguished persons.

Freight cars and locomotives have been added to the rolling stock from time to time until today there are fourteen standard size flat cars, three large coal cars, and three locomotives.

Within two months, to keep pace with its increasing business, the company has added a new powerful Baldwin locomotive engine having two pair of coupled wheels and an eight wheeled tender, of the following principal dimensions:—

Gauge, 4 ft. 8 in.
Fuel, soft coal.
Cylinders, diam., 15 in., stroke 24 in.

Drivers diam., 50 in.
Working pressure, 180 lbs.
Boiler, diam., 52 in.
Type, straight top.
Fire box, 53 11-16 inches long.
Fire box, 34 3-8 inches wide.
Tubes, 160, diam., 2 in., length 11 ft. 2 in.

Heating surface, fire box, 83 sq. ft.
Heating surface, tubes, 926 sq. ft.
Heating surface, total, 1009 sq. ft.
Grate area 12.8 sq. ft., ratio to heating surface 1 to 78.

Wheel base, driving 7 ft. 0 in.
Wheel base, total engine, 7ft. 0 in.
Weight on drives, 70,000 lbs.
Weight total engine, 70,000 lbs.
Weight tender 50,000 lbs.
Tractive power, 16,200 lbs.
Ratio of adhesion, 4.25
Tank capacity, 2,500 gallons.

The locomotive is provided with the following equipment:—Two headlights, Westinghouse American outside equalized air brake on driving and tender wheels with 9 1/2 inch pump, two M. C. B. automatic couplers front and back, and an air sander.

The new Baldwin locomotive is much more powerful than the two older ones together.

In 1822,* says the writer, the first charter was obtained for a railroad in the United States. It was for a line from Philadelphia to a point on the Susquehanna River, but was never built. On the announcement of the project someone asked one of the Baltimore newspapers, "What is a railroad anyhow?"

The editor was forced to reply that he did not know, but that "perhaps some other correspondent can tell." Seven years later in the little wooden track along the Lackawaxen Creek the first locomotive had its trial. The experiment was far from successful, and for a number of years afterward the trains on most of the railroads continued to be drawn by horses.

The first locomotive on the Baltimore & Ohio had sails attached! So did the cars. These sails were hoisted when the wind was in the right direction so as to help the locomotive.

The rivalry between the railroads using locomotives and those using horses was very bitter. In August, 1830, an actual trial of speed was held between a horse and one of the pioneer locomotives, which did not result in favor of the locomotive. The race was on the Baltimore & Ohio, the locomotive being one built by Peter Cooper, who also acted as engineer.

The horse, a gallant gray, was in the habit of pulling a car on a track parallel to that used by the locomotive. At first the gray had the better of the race, but when he was a quarter of a mile ahead Mr. Cooper succeeded in getting up enough steam to pass the horse amid terrific applause.

At that moment a band slipped from a pulley and "though Mr. Cooper lacerated his hands trying to replace it, the engine stopped, the horse gasped it and came in the winner."

As there were no brakes on the early trains, they used to stop and to start with jolts which threw the passengers across the car. The coupling was with chains having two or three feet of slack which the engine in starting took up with a series of fierce jerks. The shock on stopping was even worse and "never failed to send the passengers flying."

There were no whistles in the old days. Signals were given by pushing up the valve on the dome by hand and letting the steam escape with a loud hissing noise. On the New Castle and Frenchtown Railroad when the signal was heard the slaves around the station would rush to the arriving train, seize hold of it and pull back with all their might while the agent stuck a piece of wood through a wheel.

There were so many collisions and explosions that some Southern railroads introduced what they called a barrier car between the locomotive and the passenger coaches of the train. This barrier car consisted of a platform on wheels upon which were piled six bales of cotton, and it was claimed it would safeguard the passengers in two ways—it would protect them from the blowing up of the locomotive and would form a soft cushion upon which the passengers could land in the event of a collision. There is no record of how this experiment worked out.

Horatio Allen states that when the South Carolina Railroad was completed, with its one hundred miles of track, operation over such an extensive line was then unprecedented. In making arrangements for this unusual undertaking one of the first things that occurred to him was that the locomotives would have to run at night as well as day and in the absence of a headlight he built on an open platform car, stationed in front of the locomotive, a fire of pine knots, surrounded with sand, which furnished the requisite illumination of the route traversed.

On most of the other lines no substitutes for headlights were used. The trains travelled slowly through the dark. Night trips, however, were avoided as much as possible. The first headlight on a locomotive was used by the Boston & Worcester in 1840.

The original American locomotives were nearly all wood burners, and during a protracted period, before the invention of spark arresters, the flying sparks cause a great amount of damage and annoyance. Interwoven with this difficulty was a necessity for using smokestacks many times larger than those now in use—too high indeed to pass under overhead bridges or the roofs of covered wooden bridges.

To overcome this difficulty the smokestacks of many of the locomotives were jointed or hinged so that they could be lowered when trains were proceeding over or under bridges. This naturally greatly increased the danger of setting fire to the wooden bridges, and it was customary for a watchman to follow every train over or under the bridges, carrying a bucket of water for the purpose of extinguishing fires. Notwithstanding this precaution the burning of bridges was a common occurrence.

On most of the early railroads the cars were at first entirely uncovered, being in fact merely platform cars with a row of seats along each side. The passengers were entirely unprotected from the sun, rain, smoke or cinders. A passenger who took a trip over the Mohawk Valley Railroad when this company had opened its line between Albany and Schenectady thus describes his experience.

"They used dry pitch pine for fuel, and there being no smoke or spark catcher to the chimney or smokestack the volume of black smoke, strongly impregnated with sparks, coal and cinders, came pouring back the whole length of the train. Each of the passengers who had an umbrella raised it as a protection against the smoke and fire.

"They were found to be but a momentary protection, for I think in the first mile the last one went overboard, all having had their covers burnt off by the flames, when a general melee took place among the passengers, each whipping his neighbor to put out the fire. They presented a very motley appearance on arrival at the first station."

Telegraphic service, available for railway service was not established until about 1850. In the absence of the telegraph and the lack of any established system of signalling the early railroads adopted novel methods for conveying information.

The New Castle & Frenchtown Railroad had a primitive telegraph in operation as early as 1837. A description of it says that "the poles were of cedar, quite like those now

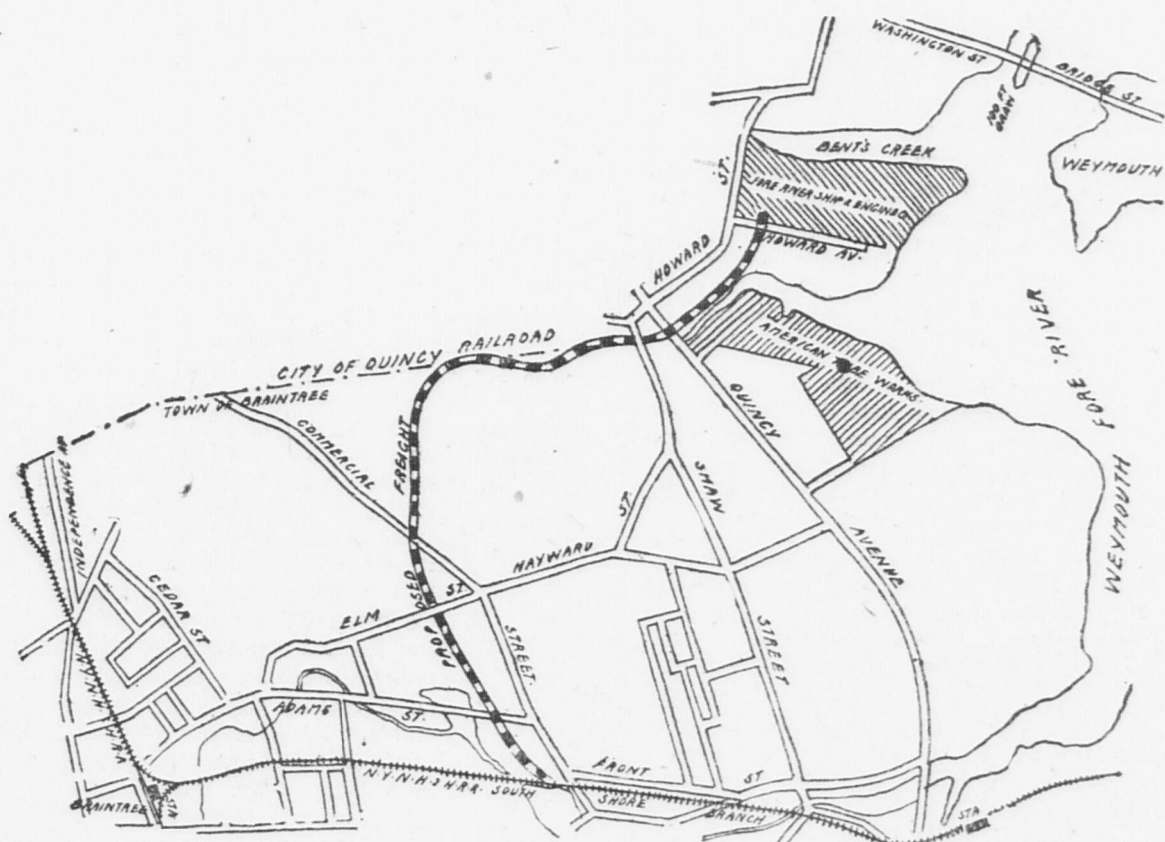

These signals were methodically exchanged until an understanding was had all along the road.

The facilities furnished by the railroads were at first much more fully appreciated by travellers than by the shippers of freight. The speed of trains, amounting at times to as much as twenty-five or thirty miles an hour, was a source of unabated wonder to the passengers, who had hitherto travelled on the slowly moving canal boats and stage coaches.

in use, and had cleats fastened on them, forming a sort of Jacob's ladder."

The operator would go to the top of the pole forming his station and with his spy-glass sight the next station in the direction of the approaching train. railroads were at first unable to compete with the canals. Of a prominent Massachusetts railroad it is said that a motion was made at an annual meeting to let the privilege of carrying freight on its lines to some responsible person for $1,500 a year.

There are many accounts of the pitiful state of impecuniosity to which some of the railroads were reduced. Cash being exhausted, and receivers' certificates having not been invented, when operations proved unprofitable there was no basis for credit.

Men were sometimes put on the

RECIPE FOR OLD AGE

Physician's Health Rules For Living Over a Century.

TOOK CARE OF HIS STOMACH

In This, the Late Dr. W. M. Starr of Washington Declared, Lay Secret of Longevity Which All Might Attain. Never Went Into Water Above His Head.

Dr. William M. Starr, oldest citizen of the District of Columbia, who recently died at Washington from cystitis, lived to be 101 years old and told how he did it.

Dr. Starr had a varied career. He was born on what was afterward the battlefield of Bull Run, in Virginia. He traveled extensively in the west, where he built and sold log cabins. Then he became a miner in California in 1849, a planter in Louisiana, a soldier in the Confederate army and ended his days as a medical botanist in Washington.

Dr. Starr never had the services of a physician until his last illness, when he was attended by Dr. J. H. Waring of Washington.

"Longevity is assured every one if he will treat his stomach decently," said Dr. Starr in explaining his long life. "That is the treatment I have accorded mine since I was fourteen years old. Here are a few of my simple rules, to which I attribute the years that have passed over my head without leaving the marks I see upon many younger men around me:

"I never ate as much as I could eat in my entire life.
"I never drank intoxicants of any kind.
"I have never used tobacco in any form.

"I have never taken more than half a glass of ice water at once.
"I never drank ice water after meals, thus paralyzing the digestive organs.
"I have never gone in water above my head. A man's head has no more business under the water than a fish has out of it.

"I only learned what foods were injurious and those which assisted nature in its work. I always avoided the former.
"I have never remained in a draft when overheated.

"I eat only two meals a day—at 8 a. m. and 4 p. m."

A short time before his death Dr. Starr said:

"For more than thirty years I have followed a regular programme. I retire early, rise a little before 8 and eat a light breakfast. For the morning meal I generally order two scrambled eggs, bread and butter, mashed potatoes and stale bread and milk. The menu for the afternoon meal, taken at 4 o'clock, is practically the same, with the addition of lean meats, tomatoes, prunes or apple sauce. I eat but two meals a day. I drink no water with my food. Under no circumstances would I take a glass of ice water. Ice water poured into the stomach at meal-time simply stops digestion until the water becomes the temperature of the blood.

"A large part of the human family dig their own graves with their teeth. They eat what they should not, they eat when they should not, and they eat more than they should and then expect some doctor with poisonous medicines to keep them in health. Everything you eat, drink or chew is either a benefit or an injury to you. Remember that. What not to eat is just as important as what to eat.

"Investigation has taught me that if you would live long you must put on the blacklist all pies and pastry, oatmeal, fat meats of every kind, coffee, warm bread and in some respects milk. Too much milk is not good for any one."

Lancets to Treat Snake Bites.

In view of the large number of deaths caused annually in Burma by snake bite it has been decided to distribute as widely as possible through the province the lancets designed by Sir Lauder Brunton for the treatment of snake bite with permanganate of potash, the efficacy of which, if the treatment is at once applied, is now established.

ASSASSINS FOILED

Threw Bombs at Auto In Expectation of Killing Shah

THREE ESCORTS ARE KILLED

Ruler Himself Was In Carriage Some Distance In the Rear—Takes Refuge
In House Until Troops Arrive, When Wild Shooting Begins

Teheran, Feb. 29.—Mohammed Ali
Merza, Shah of Persia, narrowly escaped death at the hands of an assassin yesterday afternoon. A bomb was thrown from the roof of a house at the shah's automobile, in which it was supposed he was a passenger, the explosion killing three of the vehicle's escorts and wounding the chauffeur and a score of bystanders.

The shah had taken the precaution to send his automobile ahead of the vehicle
which he occupied, and to this force sight probably owes his escape from death.

Two bombs were thrown, but the first exploded in the air and did no dan-age. The second, however, struck the ground a few feet from the automobile and tore the vehicle to pieces. The assassin believed the shah was in the motor car, which was a closed one but which, it developed, carried no passengers.

When the explosion occurred the shah's carriage was some distance in the rear of the automobile, and the ruler immediately left his carriage and took refuge in a nearby house, where he remained until a detachment of troops could be brought up. As soon as the soldiers arrived on the scene the shah
left the house where he had taken refuge and, surrounded by a strong bodyguard, returned to the palace. No arrests have been made, although the buildings in the vicinity of the explosion were carefully searched for the assassin.

The cavalry escorting the shah immediately after the explosion began firing wildly in all directions. Twelve persons are known to have been injured by bullets from their weapons. The street in the vicinity of the explosion was filled with debris and smeared with the blood of men and horses. Further trouble is anticipated.

The present Shah of Persia, Mohammed Ali Mirza, followed his father to the throne on Jan. 9, 1907. He was the first monarch of Persia to begin his rule under a constitution. A national council was convoked by him, but it never has fulfilled the hopes and aspirations of the people or brought them the reforms they demanded. The administration of the country has been in a state of chaos for several years, and the popular discontent has been extreme.

The latter part of December disturbances were rife in Teheran and other Persian cities, the lack of co-operation between the shah and the parliament
leading to the issuance by parliament of a manifesto. This sets forth that the shah was violating his covenant with the people and it asked that the rights of the people might not be trodden under foot.

The ill-feeling of the local factions in Teheran developed on Dec. 20 into hostile demonstrations. There was shooting on the streets of the capital, and the opposing factions gathered in large numbers in the vicinity of the parliament buildings and erected barricades.
The Constitutionalists loudly demanded
the abdication of the shah. The shah finally accepted the demands made by the constitutional leaders, and this episode came to an end.

A report was sent out from Teheran
on Feb. 14 that the shah had been assassinated, but it was subsequently denied. Mohammed Ali Mirza was born June 22, 1872.

BOMB FAILED TO EXPLODE

Plot to Assassinate President of the Argentine Republic

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 29.—J. F. Alcoria, president of the republic, last evening was the object of an abortive attempt at assassination, when a crude bomb was hurled at him as he alighted
from his carriage in front of his residence. The missile did not explode.

President Alcoria kicked the infernal machine away from him, while his aide-de-camp, Captain Anabia, seized the criminal and prevented his escape. The police immediately procured a pail of water into which they placed the bomb,
which emitted a sulphurous odor.

President Alcoria had turned to ex-postulate with his would-be assassin,
but owing to the possibility of the bomb
still exploding, he was forced by his aide-de-camp upon the porch of his residence. The police afterward arrested three men prowling in the neighborhood as suspicious characters. The bomb was made from a common paint can and is believed to contain about ten kilos of explosives.

Trade Progress Is Sporadic
New York, Feb. 29.—R. G. Dun &
Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that business holds the ground recently covered from the point of greatest depression, but reports of further progress are sporadic. Geographically, the best news is received from the west and south, and more idle machinery has resumed at the steel mills than in any other leading industry.

HAD DUPLICATE KEYS

Policeman Charged With Burglarizing Stores on His Route

Portland, Me., Feb. 29.—Patrolman
George H. Brown, who was arrested Thursday on the charge of burglary at City Hall market, to which he had a duplicate key, and who was arraigned yesterday in the municipal court on that charge and released on $1000 bail, was again arrested last night on another charge of burglary.

Brown when first arrested had fourteen keys in his possession which appeared to the police officers to be keys to stores on the city hall beat, which he had been patrolling. Yesterday the police, taking these keys, found that there were keys in the bunch which fitted stores other than that of the City Hall market.

Unusual Features In Debate

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 29.—A co-ed on the Ithaca debating team and a Chinaman on the Columbia university team were the features of a debate last night
between the two universities which resulted in a victory for Columbia. Cornell took the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, that aside from all questions as to the constitutionality involved, congress should require all corporations engaged in interstate business to take out a federal license."

Miners and Operators Cannot Agree

Indianapolis, Feb. 29.—The joint committee of coal miners and operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana
and Illinois adjourned last evening sine die, without reaching an agreement on the proposal to call a joint convention
to re-establish the interstate agreement and fix a new wage scale to go into effect on April 1. The final disagreement is the climax to months of argument and strategic sparring for position.

Oriental Bank Receivers

New York, Feb. 29.—The Carnegie Trust company and Henry Schneider
have been appointed temporary receivers of the Oriental bank, which closed its doors on Jan. 31, on the petition of Attorney General Jackson, who declares that he finds that the Oriental bank is insolvent and that its charter
should be annulled and its property should be distributed under the judgment of the court.

Alleged Tampering With Jury

Harrisburg, Feb. 29.—B. C. Humphreys was arrested last night, charged with attempted embracery of Albert A.
Poist, one of the jurors trying the capitol conspiracy suit. The arrest was made at the instigation of a detective agency which has been detailed in this city since the beginning of the present trial, five weeks ago. For several days Humphreys has been trailed by detectives.

Roy Not Evading Justice

Paris, Feb. 29.—Paul Roy, who is charged by his wife, Glacia Calla, with the murder of her brother in New Hampshire, called with his counsel, M.
Aubin, at the public prosecutor's office
yesterday and placed himself at the disposition of the judicial authorities.
The prosecutor, however, informed Roy that no charge had been made against him, whereupon he left.

Kentucky Elects Bradley Senator

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 29.—Amid scenes of wildest excitement, ex-Governor Bradley, Republican, was elected United States senator to succeed James B. McCreary. Bradley's term of six years will begin on March 4, 1909. He received sixty-four votes, four of which were cast by Democrats opposed to ex-Governor Beckham, leading Democratic candidate for senator.

Maniac Gets Life Sentence

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 29.—Henry H.
Hatchett, a maniac, who escaped from an asylum and killed William B. Hagenbach at Chestnut, was found guilty by a jury and sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. The jury, which was composed of farmers, refused to consider the defense of insanity.

Decision on Food Preservatives

Washington, Feb. 29.—The use in small quantities of benzoate of soda
and sulphur dioxide as food preservatives will be permitted, pending the formal action of the referee board of con-

an order issued by the department of agriculture.

Water For Arid District

Tacna, Chile, Feb. 29.—Excellent results have been obtained from the sinking of the first artesian well in the dry district of northern Chile. Water was obtained at a depth of 500 feet and the flow is 800 gallons a minute. The work was carried out by an American engineer.

One Vote Killed Big Appropriation

Washington, Feb. 29.—By the narrow margin of one vote the house of representatives rejected an amendment to the army bill appropriating $1,000, 000 for joint maneuvers of the militia
organizations and the regular troops.
The vote was 59 to 60.

Edison's Condition Improved

New York, Feb. 29.—Signs of improvement are noted in the condition of Thomas A. Edison, who underwent an operation Thursday for mastoiditis.
The inventor's pulse and temperature
are normal and no alarm is felt.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election
Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE PRESIDENCY.

At what age is a man eligible for the presidency of the United States?
At thirty-five years.

Must he be a native of the United States?

No. But he must be what the constitution describes as "a natural born citizen," which means that he must be born either in the United States or of parents who are citizens of the United States temporarily sojourning abroad.

Will you cite an instance of a natural born citizen who was born outside the United States?

Certainly. Mayor McClellan of New York, who was born in Sax-ony while his parents were visiting there, is a natural born citizen of the United States and therefore eligible to the presidency. He is a natural born American citizen because his parents were American citizens at the time of his birth.

Is the president elected by popular vote?

He is not. He is elected by a body of men called the electoral college, each member of which is called a presidential elector.

By whom are the presidential electors elected?

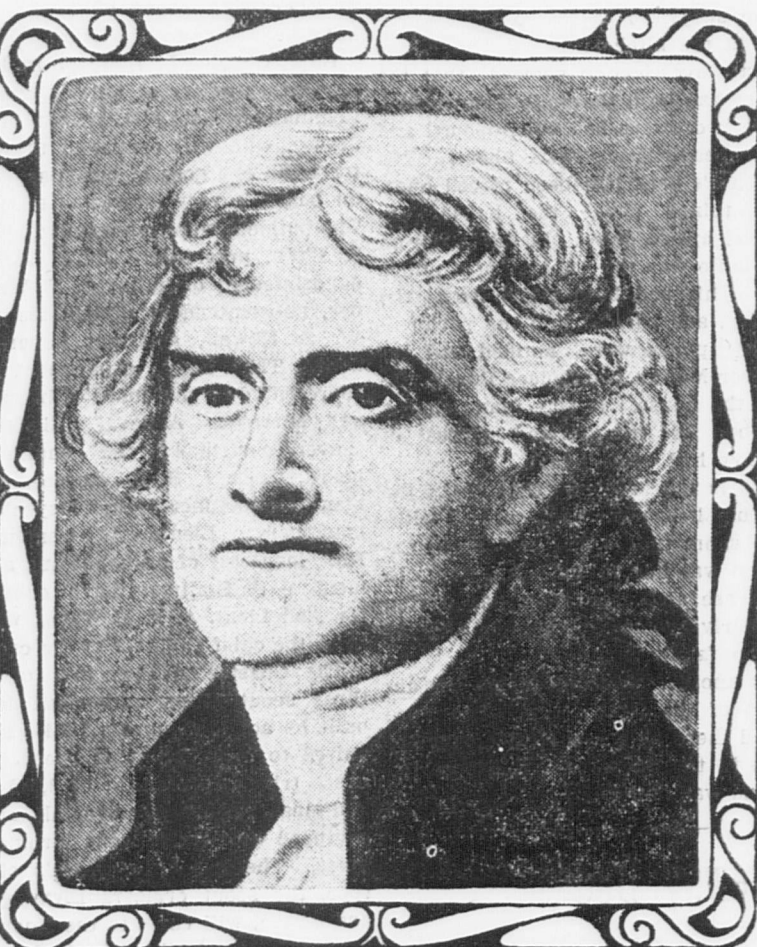

By the people. In each state the electors are chosen by the voters on a general state ticket.

How long is the term for which the president is elected?

Four years.

Is he eligible for a third term?

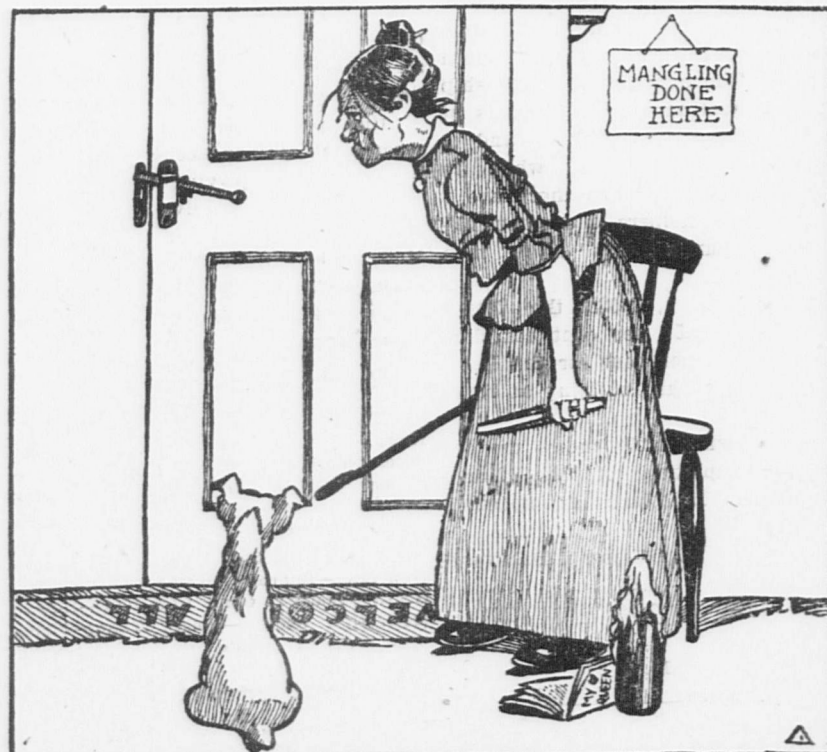

He is. There is no constitutional prohibition, though there is a "third term tradition" which by popular demand limits a president to two terms, and thus far this demand never has been overcome.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

The third president of the United States was born at Shadwell, Va., in 1743, and died at Monticello, Va., on the Fourth of July, 1826, John Adams, whom he succeeded as president in 1801, dying on the same day. Jefferson was elected as a Republican, that party being the forerunner of the present Democratic party. He served two terms. Jefferson was the author of the Declaration of Independence. He also drafted the Virginia statute for religious freedom and founded the University of Virginia. He is regarded as the founder of the Democratic party.

Something Coming In.

Life is a bolted chamber where we dwell
Till Fate unlocks the doors to heaven or—well,
Don't mention that! So long as we can raise
The wherewithal we needn't fear the knell.

So let's be up and doing, and we'll win
The prize Success, which vulgar folk call "tin."
So long as we're awake and ADVERTISE
For trade, there's always something coming in.

Real Estate

Deserving the attention of careful buyers.

Estate of B. F. NAY,

Howard Avenue, containing 89,450 feet of land large frontage on the Weymouth Fore River. Splendidly appointed House and Stable, caretaker's house all independent. Property could be divided to good advantage; the demand for houses in this neighborhood exceeding the supply. One-half the purchase price can be paid on mortgage at 5 per cent.

RIGHT ON HANCOCK STREET,

10 Room House and Stable with 17,374 feet of land which could be improved and has a prospective value which far exceeds the present price. Near to station and electric cars. Mortgage arranged to suit.

11 ROOM HOUSE,

Independence Avenue, with good lot of land. House has all improvements. A part can be let to small family. Near station and electric, and will be sold low. A good business proposition.

J. W. PRATT,

74 Independence Avenue. Telephone. Quincy, Feb. 19

The Observations In the Daily Walk

Plans are being made for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Point church.

Miss C. S. Hubbard advertises all-over hamburg, edges, insertions and val lace in the new spring and summer patterns.

The Fragment Society of First church will hold a box lunch meeting next Wednesday, March 4th from 10 to 3 o'clock.

Hiram W. Phillips of Quincy Point injured his hand quite seriously on Thursday while engaged in some submarine work at Cambridge.

A Boston paper reports the sale of the fast racing knockabout Aspinquid II of A. E. Whittemore to Ralph C. Crocker of the Wollaston Yacht club.

The Labor sermon of Rev. A. R. Atwood last Sunday was published in part in Boston and New York papers, and has been endorsed and criticised.

Miss Mallie Phillips is ill at her home at the Point, with an attack of inflammatory rheumatism. A good nurse has been installed and it is hoped Miss Phillips will not have a protracted sickness.

A tennis club was organized Friday evening at the home of Edwin D. Lee, 29 Thompson street. The following officers were elected: Charles M. French, president; William R. French, secretary, and Edwin D. Lee, treasurer.

All Souls' church, Braintree, is to have a series of vesper services during March and April at half past four on Sunday afternoons. Mrs. John F. Hunt of Quincy, organist of the church, has arranged good musical programs.

The Willard whist club were entertained last evening at the home of Miss Irene Graham 5 Willard street. The prizes were awarded to Miss Maria Barron and Miss Elizabeth Maglott. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

Miss Marguerite Hatch, a former student at the Quincy Mansion school, who is the guest of friends in New York, is so seriously ill that her parents, Col. and Mrs. Oscar Cutler Hatch of Brookline, left the first of the week for New York.

Thomas B. Pollard of the Washington school is now the senior master of the Quincy public schools, having been elected in February, 1887, over 21 years ago. None of the other masters have served twelve years, but Quincy has one teacher who has nearly completed 53 years in one building.

James F. Burke, the real estate agent has sold Page property on Foster street, consisting of two-tenement house and lot of land to David Barry and one lot of land to Arthur Murphy to be improved. Also the Gifford, Pinel Co., property on Granite street to Albert Pierson.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

try the following delightful dessert:
1-2 cup English Walnut meats.
1-2 doz. figs, cut up fine.
1 doz. package JELL-O, any flavor.
Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water. When cool and just commencing to thicken stir in the figs and nuts. Serve with Whipped Cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.

TWO BREAKS

Both in the Early Evening In Different Parts of City

There were two gangs of burglars about Quincy last night, and two houses were entered. The gangs were undoubtedly working independent of each other.

One of the breaks was at the house of G. F. Thornton at 11 Farnum street, Quincy Point, and the other, at the house of A. L. Melcher on Bigelow street, which seems to be popular with these intruders.

The break at the Farnum house was discovered about 10 o'clock on the return of the family. Chief Burrell was notified and immediately visited the house. He found that entrance had been made through a pantry window that had been left open. An ash barrel had been placed under the window to enable the party or parties to climb in.

The house was ransacked from top to bottom and a large amount of goods taken. These included $35 in money and a quantity of jewelry and silver. The value of goods is estimated at $150.

At the residence of A. L. Melcher a small quantity of jewelry was taken. Entrance was had by forcing one of the windows. The family were away during the early part of the evening returning home about 9 o'clock. They were surprised to find a light burning in the kitchen.

An investigation showed that the house had been thoroughly ransacked. Bureau drawers had been opened and their contents strewn about. Mr. Melcher's desk had been forced open, and things about the house were turned upside down. In the parlor on the table was the remains of a mince pie. This had been taken from the pantry, and carried into the parlor.

The police were notified and Inspector McKay and Officer Doran visited the house. It was found that a number of trinkets and pieces of jewelry had been taken.

This is the second time that the Melcher house has been entered within a short time. The first time entrance was had in the same way. In this case also the break was during the early evening during the absence of the family.

On another occasion during the absence of the family, the police were called there by a report that burglars were in the house. On this occasion no one was found.

Newsy Budget From Shipyard

The progress which is being made in building the U. S. S. North Dakota will put the company in a favorable position when the Navy department awards the contracts for the two more ships of the same class. It is the aim of the management to deliver this ship to the government inside the specified contract time, and from present indications it looks as if this could be accomplished.

In the ship tool shop where the greater part of the work for this ship is being done at present, a night force has been started and is busily engaged in getting out finished material to be worked into this mammoth warship. The night force in the ship tool shop just mentioned consists of 17 furnacemen, 3 flangers and 3 laborers on the furnaces, while in other parts of the shop there are 2 planers and 2 helpers, 2 countersinkers, and 3 punch gangs of 4 men each.

On February 1, 1908, the North Dakota was 17.50 per cent complete as against 9.20 per cent for the Delaware, a sister ship building at Newport News, Va.

The following table shows the degree of completion of the North Dakota and Delaware at specified periods:

	N. Dakota.	Delaware.
Nov. 1, 1907.	4.23	2.33
Dec. 1, 1907.	7.84	5.08
Jan. 1, 1908.	12.70	7.05
Feb. 1, 1908.	17.50	9.20

The Scout Cruiser Chester Makes Good

The Chester, the sister ship of the Birmingham and Salem built at Quincy had her trial yesterday and a dispatch to Herald from Rockland will be of interest:

The scout cruiser, Chester, built by the Bath Iron Works, made a run over the measured mile of the Rockland trial course today at the rate of 26.21 knots an hour, and another mile at the rate of 26.14 knots. Tidal corrections make the fastest mile 26.07 knots. The contract requirement is 24 knots. The builders are confident that the mean of her five top runs will be above 25 knots, more than a knot greater than the required speed.

The Chester went onto the course at 8 A. M. and went over the mile 17 times. She made five runs at top speed and three runs each at 22 1-2 and 15 1-2 knots. She made her fastest run on the ninth mile when it was learned that she had made it at the rate of 26.21 knots there was great enthusiasm manifested by all on board.

John S. Hyde, the president of the Bath Iron Works, was on board during the trial and came ashore at its completion. He was very happy and said that the Chester had come fully up to all expectations. He said the turbines worked completely satisfactory and that there was so little vibration that it was almost impossible to tell when the propellers were in motion.

At the completion of the standardization trial the Chester anchored in the outer harbor where she went through an anchor test, which proved satisfactory in every way. At 5 o'clock tonight the Chester started on a 24-hour run to sea during which there will be a test of coal economy at a cruising speed of 12 knots an hour.

Capt. Charles L. Blair of Bath was navigating officer at today's trial, and Commander Henry B. Wilson of New Jersey, who will command the Chester when she goes in commission, was on board, a very interested spectator. The builders were represented by John S. Hyde, president; John McInnis, superintendent of hulls; C. F. Wetherbee, superintendent of engineers and W. S. Newell, assistant superintendent. The navy department was represented by the board of inspection and survey: Admiral Richardson Clover, chairman; the engineering board, Capt. I. S. K. Reeves, chairman; Commander Hall, inspector of machinery; Lieutenant Commander Hoff, inspector of ordnance and equipment; J. A. Spillman, naval constructor; and Lieut. A. F. H. Yates, who is to be the chief engineer of the cruiser.

The Chester is the first of the three scout ships authorized to be built by act of Congress 1904 and required to make 24 knots speed. She has a trial displacement of 3,750 tons and measures 423 feet over all, and is equipped with six Parsons turbine engines. The two other vessels of this type, the scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem, will come to the Rockland course for trial, the Birmingham on March 11 and the Salem the following month. The Birmingham is equipped with reciprocating engines for motive power and the Salem has the Curtis turbines. There is considerable interest manifested as to how these two will compare with the fast pace set by the Chester.

Quincy High Downs Brookline

At the Brookline High gym yesterday Quincy High defeated Brookline team by an overwhelming score 32-12. The first half was slow, the score at the end of that period being 10-7. In the second half Quincy accustomed herself to the wretched playing space and ran away from the home five. Duncan and Marden played well for Quincy while McGrath excelled for Brookline. This is Quincy's twelfth victory of the season, they having lost but once on their home floor.

The summary:

QUINCY	BROOKLINE
Howe	Hawkins
Bates (Goalie)	Bouve
Duncan	Gallert
Marsh	McGrath
Marden (Walker)	Fogge
Score—Quincy, 32; Brookline, 12.	Goals
from floor—Duncan 7, Howe 6, Goalie 1, MacGrath 3, Bouve 1. Goals from fouls—Howe 4, McGrath 4. Reference—Nolan. Timer—Pierce.
Time 15 and 20 minute periods. Attendance 100.

Hard colds, hard coughs, severe bronchitis, weak throats, weak lungs. We wish you would ask your doctor if he knows of anything better for these troubles than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. We believe it is the best medicine you could possibly take. But ask your doctor, and doctor frequently. He knows best.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Keith's Theatre.

It is seldom that a star or an act makes such a great hit in vaudeville that it is deemed wise to arrange for a return date during the same season, but of course there are exceptions to all rules. Such exception is Nance O'Neil, who is to play a return engagement at Keith's next week. However, arrangements have been made for her to give the sleep-walking scene from "Macbeth," one of her greatest characterizations. Willard Simms, assisted by Edith Conrad, will present that screamingly funny farce, "Flinders' Furnished Flat," with Simms as the amateur paper-hanger. New pictures by the Kinetograph, and a half dozen more vaudeville acts will complete a notable program.

Boston Theatre.

The delayed production of "The Village Postmaster" which is now announced for next Monday evening has made it possible to elaborate some of the features of the business of this play which will give an added interest to the production. The village band has continued its rehearsals with a marked degree of success and the added proficiency gained by the members of the village choir. The more active members of the company are looking forward with a great deal of eagerness to the incidents which promise to make the scene of the donation party as interesting to those on the stage side of the footlights as to the audience.

Orpheum Theatre.

The Orpheum management has provided a strong dramatic feature for the week of March 2d, in Robert Hillard, the legitimate star who has been meeting with remarkable success in vaudeville in a one act play entitled "As a Man Sows." Of all the legitimate actors who have attempted vaudeville, Mr. Hillard is without question, the most successful. His one act productions are put on with all the care and attention to detail that you expect in the most elaborate three or four act play. The big spectacular number on the program will be Joseph Hart's Electric Crickets, which is nothing more or less than a tabloid musical production, presented by a large company of attractive young women—all good dancers and making many changes of costumes.
